Central Bank of Myanmar explains its report to Hluttaw

AT the 18th-day meeting of the Second Pyidaungsu Hluttaw's 13th regular session held yesterday Central Bank of Myanmar explained its reports to the Hluttaw and Hluttaw representatives discussed basic principle and concept, project works, budget of Fiscal Year 2019-2020 National Planning Bill and Union Budget Bill.

Central Bank of Myanmar report

First Central Bank of Myanmar (CBM) Deputy Governor U Soe Thein explained to the Hluttaw CBM financial policy implementation report and financial stability report for fiscal year 2016-2017 and 2017-2018.

CBM Deputy Governor said economic growth rate of Myanmar was 5.9 per cent and 6.8 per cent in FY 2016-2017 and FY 2017-2018 respectively. The reason for the increase in economic growth rate was due to the increase in agriculture sector production and export, increase in industry sector garment export and improvement in bank services.

Annual inflation rate and average inflation rate calculated on prices of 2012 as a base year was 7 per cent and 6.8 per cent for FY 2016-2017 and 5.4 per cent and 4 per cent for FY 2017-2018.

Annual inflation rate decreased significantly due to the exceptionally stable foreign exchange rate, decrease in CBM's funding government's budget deficit and stability of consumer product prices. Although the inflation rate decreased significantly it still remains high in comparison to neighboring ASEAN countries.

Money supply growth rate was targeted at 13 per cent for FY 2016-2017 and by end March of FY 2016-2017 it remains within the target at 9 per cent. It was targeted at 16 per cent for FY 2017-2018 and by end March of FY 2017-2018 this also remains within target at 6 per cent.

To have an appropriate level of currency in the economic system, deposit auction of banks' current account surplus was started from 17 September 2012. A total of 23 auctions were conducted in FY 2016-2017 and an average of K 343 billion was reduced from the economic system in each auction. A total of 24 auctions were conducted in FY 2017-2018 and an average of K 307 billion was reduced from the economic system in each auction.

To smoothen and ease the flow of foreign currency in the market, CBM had conducted foreign currency auctions to avoid wide swings in foreign exchange rate. For the development of interbank trade of foreign currency Yangon foreign exchange market was established on 5 August 2013. During FY 2016-2017 the exchange rate of US dollar was at the lowest of K 1,159 and the highest of K 1,434. Daily exchange rate change was within one per cent. In FY 2017-2018 the exchange rate of US dollar was at the lowest of K 1,328 and highest of K 1,367. Daily exchange rate change was within 0.5 per cent.

Stability of the financial system was one of the main aims of CBM and regulations were set to control and manage financial institutions. As of end of FY 2016-2017 financial institutions made a total loan of K 39.69 billion. As of end of FY 2017-2018 financial institutions made a total loan of K 68.06 billion. Due to this there was financial stability during FY 2016-2017 and FY 2017-2018.

Financial policy implementation report and financial stability report for the six month period of April to September 2018 was submitted to President Office and approval was obtained. Arrangements were made to submit those reports to Union Government Office and once approval is obtained from Union Government Office, the reports will be submitted to Pyidaungsu Hluttaw said the CBM Deputy Governor.

After the explanation Pyidaungsu Hluttaw Speaker U T Khun Myat announced for Hluttaw representatives who want to discuss the reports to register their names.

FY 2019-2020 National Planning Bill and Union Budget Bill

Next 18 Hluttaw representatives discussed the basic principle and concept, project works, budget of Fiscal Year 2019-2020 National Planning Bill and Union Budget Bill.

The 18 Hluttaw representatives were U Khin Cho of Hlaingbwe constituency, U Khin Maung Thi of Loilem constituency, U Whey Tin of Chin State constituency 11, Tatmadaw Amyotha Hluttaw representative Lt-Col Myo Tun Aung, U Lwin Ko Latt of Thanlyin constituency, Dr Khin Soe Soe Kyi of Pyay constituency, U Than Soe (a) Than Soe (Economic) of Yangon Region constituency 4, U Soe Aung Naing of Kyonpyaw constituency, U Zaw Min Thein of Laymyethna constituency, U Aye Naing of Dagon Myothit (South) constituency, Tatmadaw Pyithu Hluttaw representative Maj Htin Lin Oo, U Myint Tun of Taze constituency, U Lal Min Htan of Chin State constituency 10, U Hla Tun Kyaw of Maungtaung constituency, Daw Khin San Hlaing of Pale constituency, U San Myint of Ayeyawady Region constituency 3, Dr Pyae Phyo of Ayeyawady Region constituency 7, and U Thet Naung of Lahe constituency.

Yangon Govt to grant loans to 100 SMEs

By Nyein Nyein

THE Yangon Region government has chosen 100 small- and medium-sized enterprises from over 40,000 SMEs in Yangon Region for grant of loans, said U Myint Thauang, the Regional Minister for Planning and Finance, at a press conference held on Wednesday at the Yangon Region Investment Committee's office.

"There are over 40,000 SMEs across Yangon Region. We have shortlisted 100 SMEs which have the greatest potential to develop their businesses. Of these 100, over 40 SMEs have already received loans, while around 60 have been issued recommendation letters. Currently, we are negotiating with the concerned banks to issue them loans. The Loan Appraisal Committee has approved loans of over 60 SMEs out of the 100. We are making arrangements to provide loans to 100 more SMEs in the second phase," said the Minister.

"We are planning to provide loans to 100 more SMEs in the second phase for bringing about the development of the SME sector in Yangon Region," said U Phyto Min Thein, the Chief Minister of Yangon Region.

"We are making arrangements to issue recommendation letters to 100 more SMEs. We are also raising awareness among SMEs regarding the use of cash in a systematic way because SMEs are family-owned businesses and their bank accounts are not large enough to secure such loans," said U Phyto Min Thein.

"There are two types of loans granted to SMEs — loans with collateral and loans without collateral. Without collateral, SMEs can receive only between K20 million and K50 million in loans, and with collateral, they can get loans amounting to between K200 million and K300 million, depending upon the value of the collateral," said U Myint Thauang, the Minister for Planning and Finance.

"Some of the small businesses cannot put up collateral such as plots of land or flats to obtain loans from the bank. So, such small businesses receive loans of lesser denominations," the Minister remarked.

"Banks grant loans to SMEs in accordance with their policy. As part of its efforts to develop SMEs, the Yangon Region government is trying to secure overseas loans such as two-step loans, said the Minister.

SME businesses such as small and medium-sized industries, arts and crafts, lacquerware, tourism, fisheries, and cottage industries will be given priority in the grant of loans.

Govt mulls shifting border fruit depots inside Myanmar

By Aye Yamone

TO prevent Myanmar goods from being sold at low prices, the government is considering shifting fruit commodities depots along the China-Myanmar border inside Myanmar, said Dr Thet Lwin Oo, the director of the Trade Promotion Department under the Ministry of Commerce.

He made the remarks at a coordination meeting to promote exports of Myanmar fruits, held on Tuesday at the Myanmar International Trade Center in Yangon.

"We will not draw the route by ourselves. We will form a committee to discuss the route in detail. But, we will have to decide on a policy so that they can formulate the strategy. For example, Chinshweh and Muse are on the same route, and they are separated from Hsenwi. To prevent Myanmar goods from being sold at low prices, the commodities need to be moved inside Myanmar to make them legal. It will be safe for us. We will discourage the purchase of goods in the border areas. They can be bought at Hsenwi or Chinshweh instead. If goods arrive in the border areas, we don't have a choice. Therefore, we are thinking of moving the commodities depots inside Myanmar," he added.

"Additionally, we plan to convene goods expos in Lashio in the future, instead of Muse, which is located on the China-Myanmar border. Moreover, the bilateral border goods expo which is planned in November will be held in Lashio, instead of Muse," he said.

"Previously, border goods expos were mostly held in border areas. It was not convenient for us when the expos were held in border areas. Our merchants slept and ate on the China side. They just came to the expo in the early morning. If we convene the expos in Lashio, the Chinese merchants will have to sleep and eat in Lashio. In this case, the people on our side can earn some income," he added.

Currently, Myanmar's trade with China through the Muse border trade zone has virtually come to a halt because of clashes in northern Shan State.

In addition, Myanmar merchants and local farmers are facing difficulties because the export of some products such as rice, corn, and sugar is considered to be illegal by China.

Malaysia, Myanmar sign MoU for purchase of goods

By Aye Yamone

WITH Malaysian entrepreneurs expressing willingness to invest in Myanmar, entrepreneurs from Malaysia and Myanmar signed a memorandum of understanding (MoU) on 30 August for the purchase of goods, said Mr Gilbert Lee, the chairman of the Malaysia-Myanmar Business Chamber (MMBC).

The MoU was signed under the supervision of the Malaysian Embassy and the Malaysia-Myanmar Business Chamber, with the support of the Ministry of Investment and Foreign Economic Relations (MIFER) and the Malaysia External Trade Development Corporation (MATRADE), at the Malaysia-Myanmar Connect (MMC) 2019, held on 30 August at the Wyndham Grand Yangon hotel.

"Malaysia has made investments in the service sector, based on the quality. Malaysia plans to extend its investment. Malaysian entrepreneurs are also interested in investing in Myanmar's economic sectors, especially in the technology, construction, production, and services sectors. They are also interested in businesses related to agriculture," said Mr Gilbert Lee.

"Although there are good investment opportunities in Myanmar, Malaysian investors are not aware of them. So, Malaysia-Myanmar Connect 2019 was launched to invite Malaysian entrepreneurs to Myanmar," he said.

"In fact, Malaysian products, which are produced on a quality-based system, are already available in the Myanmar market. Besides quality products, they deliver quality services to consumers," he added.

"MoUs have been signed between Myanmar and Malaysian entrepreneurs over two or three days. If we have more time to observe the Myanmar economic sector, we believe that more MOUs can be signed to cooperate in more businesses," said Mr Gilbert Lee.

The MoUs have been inked between the Myanmar Young Entrepreneurs Association (MYEA) and Global Entrepreneurs Network Malaysia (GEN), KK Myanmar Business Group and Helan Gagah Group Sdn Bhd, KK Myanmar Business Group and Sireh Mas.

Regional govts, businesses can help reduce impact of mining

WITH wide-ranging amendments, the new Mining Law has made the industry attractive in terms of permits and investment in small- and medium-scale projects.

The new law allows small-scale mining businesses to seek permits from regional governments, and it would help reduce illegal mining and create jobs for locals.

To eliminate illegal mining, regional governments can generate revenue from permitted blocks. Before the new law, such permits could be granted only by the ministry. Now, that has been decentralized, and rules and regulations in accordance with the circumstances in the regions have been instituted.

To grant permits, regional mining block assessment teams have been formed with officials drawn from the Administrative department, the Forest Department, the Environmental Conservation Department, and other departments of the regional government.

Granting of permits for mining has been allowed in accordance with the 2018 by-laws of the Mining Law. Some further steps include seeking recommendations from regional governments concerned to know whether the blocks are in forest areas or not, and seeking of approval for the Environmental Management Plan (EMP) from the Environmental Conservation Department.

Bilateral agreements can be signed after receiving remarks from the Union Attorney-General's Office, the Union Auditor-General's Office, Ministry of Planning and Finance, Ministry of Commerce, and with the approval of the Union Government.

The Ministry of Natural Resources and Environmental Conservation is moving as quickly as possible on granting permits for mining blocks.

The regional permits will apply to exploitation, trading, and measurement of mines. Meanwhile, artisanal miners can individually apply for permits per household. Those who have already got permission cannot seek further permits.

But, businesses, on their part, are required to implement environmental management plans to avoid possible hazards and prevent disasters from befalling locals.

At each stage, the EMP must include detailed plans for environmental conservation such as waste management, animal and plant protection, dust reduction, noise reduction, and replanting; and, for avoiding disasters, such as landslides and flooding.

In addition to adhering to practical and internationally-recognized standards, the EMP must also cover management issues such as rehabilitation and suspension of mining activities.

Local authorities are urged to improve the enforcement of laws and permit obligations, and to take steps towards formalizing subsistence mining and reducing harmful practices.

Meanwhile, mining companies are urged to follow international standards of responsible business conduct.

Mitigating Effects of Climate Change

By Lokethar

WHILE the international debate on Climate Change is on-going, it seems that Climate Change is already creeping up on planet Earth. The changing weather patterns of extreme temperature rises and droughts in some parts of the world with extremes of storms and rainfall in other parts are creating havoc in some countries and communities around the world.

Myanmar has been particularly hard hit recently by the emerging weather patterns. Parts of Myanmar have suffered heavy rainfalls while other parts have suffered rising temperatures and droughts. Myanmar's main rivers flow North to South and the multitude of rivulets big and small, flow into the main rivers criss-crossing the whole country. There has been much water flowing into these rivers due to heavy rainfall in most areas. These water resources are a boon for agriculture at normal times but poses grave danger to human settlements and even to agriculture when climate and the weather plays havoc with them. With the heavy rains, rivers are swollen and the water level sometimes exceeds the danger point. Many dams on the major rivers are at the point of overflowing with the excess water flowing through the spillways in large volumes, sometimes threatening to flood and even wash away the human settlements downstream.

One thing that climate change reminds us is that we should think deeply before we decide to utilize our water resources to harness it in a big way for the generation of electric power. Dams, the bigger they are, the more prone to failures they would be in times of really heavy rain falls and floods. Unpredictable natural disasters like earth quakes compounding the floods may trigger Dam failures.

Then there are the landslides caused on the slopes of hill sides by top soil, earth and debris flowing down because the downward gravitational pull exceeds the forces retaining such material on the slope. Hence the steeper the slope the more likely it is to be prone to landslides. Landslides may occur due to many causes including during heavy rain, large amounts of rain water seeping into the ground thus increasing water absorption of the top soil. Particularly in the absence of enough large trees, the roots of which usually go deep down and helps to anchor the topsoil to the harder substrate, the seeping water can cause the top soil to gain weight and "slide down" taking away with it everything in its path, including human settlements. Perhaps designing drainage systems on vulnerable parts of the hill slopes concerned, to cause the excess water to be preserved in "holding tanks" or carried down harmlessly, would be a likely solution.

The other type of "landslide" happens on the mountains where the water seeping into the rocks cause the "not so well anchored" rocks to break loose and slide down resulting in landslides to often block the mountain roads, disrupting traffic, and the flow of goods and services to the towns and villages connected by the roads. In such cases the steeper slopes along the roadways could perhaps, be better reinforced to prevent landslides. Of course the road engineers would be aware of such measures.

The banks of the rivers that are eroded by the swift flow of water causes houses and structures near the water's edge to be swept away along with the inhabitants if they are not warned of such danger in advance. The process is natural and is in fact normally responsible for the building up of the delta regions at the entrance to the sea of all big rivers. Climate change and the flooding of rivers only hasten the process. One way to avoid destruction and displacement due to river bank erosion is to build habitats and structure some distance from the banks. Trying to re-enforce embankments in vulnerable points all along the river, except for preserving Pagodas and Cultural Heritage Structures, would be a very costly process. In fact the natural widening of the big rivers is largely due to the river bank erosion process.

Climate Change "Pundits" foresee a gradual rise in the sea level due to the melting of ice masses in the "icy regions of the world." May be some decades down the line, if such a scenario becomes a reality, some coastal cities of Myanmar including Yangon, will be at risk of being "on water". Perhaps the City planners should take such a dire prediction into account in planning the expansion of Yangon City.

Unless the effects of Climate Change can be mitigated, there is no telling what the future holds for mankind. Humans can harness nature when it is tame and mild but can never control nature when it chooses to go wild.

Health Ministers of WHO South-East Asia Region to discuss key challenges next week

WHO

NEW Delhi, 30 August 2019: Health Ministers of member countries of WHO South-East Asia Region are meeting here next week to discuss ways of addressing health impact of climate change, the high burden of tuberculosis and strengthening capacities for emergency risk management.

Elimination of measles, a childhood killer disease; cervical cancer and other non-communicable diseases; and strengthening health services and workforce for universal health coverage are other key issues that will be taken up at the Seventy-Second Regional Committee Session of WHO South-East Asia from 2

September to 6 September 2019.

India's Minister for Health and Family Welfare Dr Harsh Vardhan, Nepal's Deputy Prime Minister and Health Minister, Mr Upendra Yadav, and Regional Director, WHO South-East Asia, Dr Poonam Khetrpal Singh, will be addressing the inaugural session of the Regional Committee, the governing body of WHO in the Region. Health ministers and senior officials from all 11 Member countries and senior WHO officials will be attending the week-long deliberations.

This is the first Regional Committee Session after unanimous re-election of Dr Khetrpal Singh as Regional Director for a second five-year term.

Dr Khetrpal Singh, whose first term was marked by unprecedented public health achievements and progress in the Region, would be further firming up regional goals and targets along with Member countries for the next five years.

The Regional Director's vision for the next five years is to sustain progress, accelerate efforts and innovate to achieve the targets of priority health programmes.

The Region has eight flagship priority programmes – measles elimination and rubella control; preventing non-communicable diseases; reducing maternal, under-five and neonatal mortality; universal health coverage with a focus on human resources for health and essential medicines;

In the Region's pursuit of universal health coverage, access to safe, good-quality medicine is being enhanced through the South-East Asia Regulatory Network, which was launched in November 2016.

combating antimicrobial resistance; scaling up capacities for emergency risk management; eliminating neglected tropical diseases and accelerating efforts to end TB.

The regional priorities are aligned to the UN Sustainable Development Goals and WHO's global triple billion - one billion more people benefitting from universal health coverage (UHC); one billion more people better protected from health emergencies; and one billion more people enjoying better health and well-being.

Home to over one-fourth of the global population, WHO South-East Asia Region has made remarkable progress in several priority programmes in the last five years. In 2014 the Region was certified polio-free. In 2015, Maldives and was certified malaria-free. Sri Lanka soon achieved the same. In 2016 the Region became the second WHO region to eliminate maternal and neonatal tetanus. In the same year Thailand became the first country in Asia – and the first globally with a large HIV epidemic – to eliminate mother-to-child transmission of HIV and syphilis. Maldives achieved the same in 2019.

Bhutan, Maldives, DPR Korea, Timor-Leste and Sri Lanka have eliminated measles. Bangladesh, Bhutan, Maldives, Nepal, Sri Lanka and Timor-Leste have controlled rubella. Maldives, Sri Lanka and Thailand have eliminated lymphatic filariasis. India is yaws-free; Nepal has eliminated trachoma. Bangladesh, Bhutan, Nepal and Thailand have controlled Hepatitis B.

Between 1990 and 2015 maternal mortality ratio declined by 69%, under-five mortality by 70%. DPR Korea, Indonesia, Maldives, Sri Lanka and Thailand have already achieved global Sustainable Development Goal (SDG) targets for neonatal and under-5 mortality. Maldives, Sri Lanka and Thailand have done the same for maternal mortality.

All countries in the Region have multi-sectoral plans to address non-communicable diseases and are addressing antimicrobial resistance with 'One Health' approach.

In the Region's pursuit of universal health coverage, access to safe, good-quality medicine is being enhanced through the South-East Asia Regulatory Network, which was launched in November 2016. Investments in strengthening capacities for emergency risk management have resulted in better management of major health emergencies such as Nepal earthquake, the recurring events of cyclone, floods etc.

YCDC to refer to Yangon map while granting building permits

By Aye Yamone

PERMITS for construction businesses in Yangon region will be issued depending on the information contained in the Yangon map, said U Than, the joint secretary of the Yangon City Development Committee (YCDC).

He made the remarks at a ceremony held on 28 August for handing over the Continuous Operation Reference Station (CORS) and to discuss the project.

The ceremony was jointly organized by the YCDC and the Japan International Cooperation Agency at the Park Royal Hotel in Yangon.

"When we decide on issuing permits to construction businesses, we will need to take into account how many stories the buildings will have and the locations where the buildings will be constructed, etc. We will use the data and the information contained in the map when we consider granting construction permits. Moreover, data and information on buildings in the neighborhood can be also be obtained from the map," said U Than.

The Yangon mapping project set up two types of planning areas, with maps having been drawn using two scales. The scale of one map is 1:5000 covering 1,500 square kilometers in 33 townships in the YCDC area, whereas the scale of the second map is 1:10000 representing 1,100 square kilometers in Twantay, Kawhmu, and Kungyangon townships in the southern Yangon district.

The Yangon mapping project was implemented from Deember, 2017 to August, 2019, with the assistance of the JICA.

"We don't know the cost of the project because we implemented this project with the assistance of the JICA, which provided monetary and technical assistance. Currently, we are implementing a pilot project in Latha Township. Then, we will continue to implement it in other townships. We plan to provide training courses related to CORS, and we will continue to implement the project till 2020. The data and information will be made available on the website at the end of 2020," said U Than.

"Moreover, we have built five CORS stations to add information on the location of the buildings as well as on religious edifices, hospitals, schools, and parks in Yangon region," he said.

The CORS have been set up in Ngweya Taung, the municipal committee office in Hlegu Township, the playground in Htantabin, the Myanmar Maritime University in Thanhlyin, and the municipal committee office in Twantay Township.

"The mapping project has been completed. Next, we will hand over the project to the YCDC. These projects need to be continuously implemented in cooperation with the related departments. The YCDC will add the information on city areas, and other departments will add their information," said U Phyo Min Thein, the Chief Minister of Yangon Region.

Data and information from the five CORS will be updated by the Survey Department by connecting with the control center.

The consolidation of Kim Jong Un's power comes as nuclear talks between Pyongyang and Washington remain gridlocked. PHOTO:AFP

N Korea solidifies Kim Jong Un's 'monolithic' power

SEOUL—North Korea has elevated leader Kim Jong Un to a status approaching his grandfather, the country's founder Kim Il Sung, analysts said Friday after Pyongyang revised its constitution to reinforce his authority.

Kim was under 30 when he inherited power in late 2011 on the death of his father Kim Jong Il, but has since firmly established his authority, ruling the country with an iron fist, overseeing four of its six nuclear tests and executing his uncle for treason.

Kim is officially chairman of the ruling Workers' Party and chairman of the State Affairs Commission (SAC), the top government body, although his late grandfather remains the country's Eternal President despite dying in 1994.

The Supreme People's Assembly, the North's rubber-stamp parliament, approved a series of constitutional changes on Thursday to ensure what the legislature's head Choe Ryong Hae called Kim's "monolithic guidance".

The new clause declares the SAC chairman the "supreme leader of the Party, state, and armed forces of the DPRK in accordance with the unanimous will and desire of all the Korean people, both in name and reality", Choe was quoted as saying by the official Korean Central News Agency.

DPRK are the initials for North Korea's official name. As the SAC chairman, Kim was authorised to issue decrees and appoint or recall diplomatic envoys.

His status "has been further consolidated to firmly ensure the monolithic guidance of the Supreme Leader over all the state affairs", Choe added.

The KCNA dispatch used the adjective "monolithic" five times to describe Kim's leadership, although he was not present for the session. Cheong Seongchang, an analyst at the Sejong Institute in Seoul, said the amendments "further guaranteed Kim's one-man rule in overall national affairs".

"Under the new constitution, Kim's mission and authority as chairman of the State Affairs Commission have approached closer to that of Kim Il Sung when he was president," he told AFP. His newly stated diplomatic authority "reflects his will to lead diplomatic affairs and widen his role in it, which could increase the burden on North Korean diplomats overseas to show achievements", he added.—AFP ■

E Timor marks 20th anniversary of independence referendum

DILI — East Timor on Friday celebrated the 20th anniversary of its vote in favor of splitting from Indonesia to become an independent nation.

Ceremonies to mark the historic UN-backed referendum have been held throughout the half-island culminating in a formal event Friday in the capital Dili attended by foreign dignitaries.

Ian Martin, the head of the UN Mission in East Timor which oversaw the referendum, said he hoped that East Timor will draw upon the "spirit of 1999" as it meets its current and future challenges. Hundreds of people were believed to have been killed during a wave of terror by East Timorese militants, backed by the Indonesian military, following the result of the popular vote on 30 August, 1999, as the overwhelming majority decided to separate from Indonesia.

"Violence is unacceptable, but now it seems that everything was a necessary process for independence," said Jose Gomez, 42, a shopkeeper in Dili who lived through the post-vote chaos.

Indonesia annexed East Timor by force in 1974 after it had been under Portuguese colonial rule for about 400 years.

East Timor formally gained independence in 2002 after two-and-a-half years under UN administration following the referendum.

More than a year after the impoverished country's last general election, a protracted political stalemate continues over the appointment of nine members to Prime Minister Taur Matan Ruak's Cabinet.

With eye on China, Japan urges 'affordable' Africa investment

YOKOHAMA — Japanese and African leaders Friday stressed the importance of “affordable” investment in the continent, in an apparent swipe at China whose Belt and Road policy has been accused of saddling poor countries with debt.

A joint statement wrapping up a three-day Africa development summit said: “We believe that quality infrastructure, that guarantees affordability with respect to life-cycle costs, is fundamental for sustainable economic transformation.”

The meeting of leaders and representatives from more than 50 African nations and international bodies has taken place in the shadow of China, which has invested massively in Africa under its controversial Belt and Road initiative.

On Thursday, Japanese Prime Minister Shinzo Abe made a thinly veiled dig at Beijing’s policy, which has come under fire for loading African countries with debt.

“If partner countries are deeply in debt, it interferes with everyone’s efforts to enter the market,” Abe told the assembled leaders.

This provoked a sharp response from foreign ministry spokesman Geng Shuang in Beijing, who described this as “purely unreasonable speculation”.

“It should be pointed out that African leaders have said many times that there was never a lack of international conferences and promises of aid to Africa, but the key lies in action and implementation,” noted Geng late Thursday.

At the conference, Japan has focused on the “quality” of its investments rather than the volume of China, which announced a massive US$60 billion (RM253.3 billion) in African development funding last year. —AFP ■

Peso rallies as Argentina readies IMF debt restructure

BUENOS AIRES — Argentina’s central bank intervened Thursday to shore up the country’s beleaguered currency after the government asked the International Monetary Fund to restructure a $57 billion bail-out loan agreed last year.

The peso was worth 62.33 to the dollar in early trading — 3.5 per cent lower than at Wednesday’s close — before the Central Bank of Argentina acted, shelling out around $200 million to bolster the currency. The peso ended the day 0.61 per cent down at 60.54 to the dollar.

Center-right President Mauricio Macri had called on investors for calm ahead of the opening of the markets Thursday.

“It’s in our hands to contribute to tranquility without generating fears or bewilderment,” the president said during a speech to shipyard workers.

Finance Minister Hernan Lacunza announced on Wednesday that the government had asked the IMF to restructure its repayments on the $56 billion in a bid to calm market turbulence.

Lacunza, less than two weeks in the job after replacing Nicolas Dujovne, also announced initiatives to postpone the payment of bonds to institutional investors, relieving the pressure on international reserves so they can be used to stabilize the currency.—AFP ■

Cathay warns staff face sack if they join Hong Kong strike

HONG KONG — Cathay Pacific has warned staff they risk being sacked if they join a planned Hong Kong strike, as the airline intensifies its crackdown on employee support for the rolling pro-democracy protests.

Hong Kong’s flagship carrier, which has 27,000 staff in the city, has been accused of bowing to political pressure from China, whose aviation regulator has banned airline staff who have supported the demonstrations from working on flights through its airspace.

In an internal memo to staff, a Cathay director, Tom Owen, said participating in a strike planned for Monday and Tuesday could constitute a breach of contract.—AFP ■

Four graves

at foot of Shwedagon Pagoda

By Maung Tha (Archaeology)

IT was assumed that Shwedagon Pagoda which has been a symbol of Yangon City was built more than 2,600 years ago. In fact, Shwedagon is an ancient building in Buddhism as well as a magnificent religious gold monument.

At a time when the pagoda was built on Theingoktara Hill, the environs of the pagoda were surrounded by forests. As urban area in Yangon City has been developing in successive eras, archways and stairways were built in four wings of the pagoda.

Among them, Martyrs' Mausoleum is the most significant located between the western and northern archways of the pagoda. Likewise, everybody can see the graves of First Queen Suphaya Latt of King Thibaw and Peace Leader Thakin Kodaw Hmaing, former Secretary General of the United Nations U Thant, and Daw Khin Kyi, wife of national leader General Aung San.

Suphaya Latt (1859-1925 AD)

Suphaya Latt, First Queen of King Thibaw, was born of King Mindon and Queen Hsinphyumashin of middle royal palace on 12 April 1859. Queen Hsinphyumashin with title of Thiri Pawara Tilawka Mingala Maha Yatana Devi was daughter of King Sagaing and First Queen Nanmadaw Mei Nu. In Myanmar history, Phwa Saw was the most prominent in Bagan era and Nanmadaw Mei Nu and Suphaya Latt in Konbaung era.

King Thibaw was on the throne for seven years. In 1885, British colonialists dethroned and sent him to India. So, First Queen Suphaya Latt went along with him to India. At that time, King Thibaw was 27 years old and First Queen Suphaya Latt, 26 years old.

The two lived in India for 30 years. King Thibaw passed away in Yadanagiri of India in 1916. As British government did not allow conveying of the king's remains to Myanmar, the remains of the king was cremated in India. British government allowed Suphaya Latt to return to Myanmar in 1919 and to live in Yangon but did not allow her to go to Mandalay.

vember 1925. The corpse was buried at the aforesaid grave. The ceremony was attended by 90 members of the Sangha and British Commissioner Sir Harcourt Butler. At the ceremony, the corpse was honoured by eight white umbrellas and 30-gun salute.

The graveyard of Suphaya Latt was surrounded by brick script posts of six royal relatives who had passed away.

He wrote 80 books of dramas and compiled articles in Thuriya daily with pen-name Mister Maung Hmaing.

He resigned from the post of editor from Thuriya daily in 1920 and lectured Myanmar literature and history at Bahan national college. He refused to write the set of Ratu poems with K1,000 honoraria offered by U May Aung as a gesture of honouring Crown Prince Wale of British in 1921. At that time, one tical of gold was worth ten kyats only. Hence, it should take pride of Thakin Kodaw Hmaing for his act without changing a large sum of money with a poem to honour the foreigner.

Myanmar lose to China 4-1 in friendly football match

THE Myanmar national football team suffered a 4-1 loss to China's national football team in a friendly match, which took place yesterday at a stadium in Langfang, China.

As the match was held to help prepare the teams for upcoming international tournaments, both teams used unlimited player substitutions to test their abilities.

Led by head coach Miodrag Radulovic, team Myanmar lined up with star players, including keeper Kyaw Zin Htet, defenders David Htan and Nanda Kyaw, midfielders Maung Maung Lwin and Si Thu Aung, and striker Aung Thu in the first half.

Guided by former Italian star footballer Marcello Lippi, team China gave strong competition to team Myanmar, scoring four consecutive goals in the first half.

Myanmar displayed a lack of coordinated play in the beginning. China mainly relied on fast and high ball deliveries, but Myanmar got better understanding and began using counterattacks 30 minutes into the game.

The first half ended with a score of 4-0.

The second half was dominated by team Myanmar, with all substituted players: Kyaw Ko

Ko, Win Naing Soe, Thein Than Win, Kyaw Zin Lwin, Than Paing, Sua Lamang, Kyi Lin, Zaw Lin, Pyae Phyo Zaw, Kaung Si Thu, and youth keeper Kyaw Zin Phyo.

In the early minutes of the second half, Myanmar got their first goal off a header by Zaw Min Tun over a cross ball from teammate Thein Than Win.

After the goal, Myanmar kept up the attack, but China's defense was stable enough to clear every chance of Myanmar.

The match finished with a score of 4-1 in favour of China.

The match benefited both teams, helping them gain experience ahead of upcoming tourneys. Myanmar will next take on Mongolia on 5 September in the World Cup qualifiers, while China will meet the Maldives team in an international match.—Lynn Thit (Tgi) ■

Barcelona handed tough Champions League draw as Liverpool face Napoli again

MONACO — Barcelona will have to come through a section containing both Borussia Dortmund and Inter Milan after the three former winners all came out together in Thursday's UEFA Champions League group stage draw in Monaco, while holders Liverpool will face Napoli again.

Barcelona, Dortmund and Inter, with nine European Cups between them, were drawn together in Group F along with the Czech champions Slavia Prague.

Beaten by Liverpool in the semi-finals last season, Lionel Messi and Barcelona remain favourites to advance as they seek a first Champions League crown since 2015.

1997 and lost in the final in 2013. Now coached by Antonio Conte, Inter beat Barcelona in the semi-finals en route to winning the most recent of their three titles in 2010.

“That really is a very tough group, which makes it an even bigger challenge for us,” said the Dortmund coach, Lucien Favre. His team host Barca in the opening round of matches on Tuesday, September 17.

Liverpool advanced from their group at the expense of Napoli last season on the way to lifting their sixth European Cup in Madrid, and Carlo Ancelotti's side now have a chance to gain revenge. Beaten in Naples a year ago, Liverpool will head back to the San Paolo in their first match on September 17.

Final match for General Aung San Shield to be held on 24 Sep

AFTER moving the venue for the final match for the General Aung San Shield 2019 to Thuwunna Stadium from Aung San Stadium, the subcommittee for the tourney yesterday announced 24 September as the date of the final match.

Defending champions Yangon United will face Shan United in the finals for the competition, which is being supervised by the Myanmar Football Federation and the Myanmar National League. The final will start at 6 p.m. on 24 September at the Thuwunna Stadium.

An awards presentation ceremony will be held after the match, according to officials.

As the winning team will get a chance to enter the 2020 Asian Football Confederation (AFC) Cup, the match is an important one for both Shan United and Yangon United.

In 2015, Ayeyawady United won the General Aung San Shield, and Magwe F.C. won the 2016 version of the tourney. Meanwhile, Shan United were declared the winners in 2017, and Yangon United won the championship title in 2018.—Lynn Thit (Tgi) ■

Newcastle suffer Ritchie injury blow

LONDON — Scotland international Matt Ritchie is expected to be out for up to two months due to an ankle injury in a major blow to struggling Premier League side Newcastle.

The 29-year-old midfielder suffered ligament damage and cuts, which required stitches, following a tackle by Leicester's Hamza Choudhury in the League

Cup clash on Wednesday.

Ritchie's injury could not come at a worse time for Newcastle who are struggling in the league with just three points—a surprise win over Tottenham Hotspur last weekend—from the first three matches.

“It's not great news,” said Newcastle manager Steve Bruce, speaking at his press conference ahead of Saturday's game with bottom side Watford.

“We think he's going to be maybe two months, eight weeks.

“There is ankle ligament damage too, bone bruising, cuts. The kid, as I said to you the other night, was a mess.

“Thankfully it's not six months, but it's bad enough when it's the best part of eight weeks.”

Bruce wants Choudhury to learn from the experience although the latter dismissed the Newcastle manager's assessment of it being a horror challenge. Choudhury said he never intentionally hurts anybody and the 21-year-old midfielder added Bruce would do well to recall he was a no-nonsense defender in his playing days.—AFP ■
