Pyidaungsu Hluttaw

Pyidaungsu Hluttaw explains about merging two ministries

THE Second Pyidaungsu Hluttaw's 14th regular session held its fifth-day meeting at the Pyidaungsu Hluttaw meeting hall yesterday where the Hluttaw was explained about merging two ministries.

Ministry of Planning, Finance and Industry

At the meeting Deputy Minister for Planning and Finance U Sett Aung who was assigned by the President on the matter of reforming Ministry of Industry and Ministry of Planning and Finance as Ministry of Planning, Finance and Industry explained to the Hluttaw that the organization setup of present Ministry of Industry was mainly to manage and operate state-owned factories and plants. The organization setup was a mixture of administrative machinery required for both the Command Economy and Market Economy. The State's economic system was heading toward Market Economy from Command Economy and it was important for the ministry to be transiting toward establishing industry sector policies and becoming a regulatory body.

Merging Ministry of Industry and Ministry of Planning and Finance as the Ministry of Planning, Finance and Industry would speed up the transition works. Internationally, economically related functions were combined as ministry of trade and industry, ministry of commerce and industry etc. As Strategic Economic Planning was drawn up for Myanmar due to its situation it would be most appropriate to merge the Ministry of Planning and Finance with the Ministry of Industry.

Furthermore, at the moment the Union Minister for Planning and Finance was also the Union Minister for Industry and merging the two ministries would combine the transition works to a single ministry speeding up the works said the Deputy Minister. Pyidaungsu Hluttaw Speaker U T Khun Myat then announced for Hluttaw representatives who want to discuss the matter to register their names.

The committee found that the three bills were not to amend the entire 2008 Constitution but to amend certain enactments only.

Firstly, the Vice President and other higher officials cut ceremonial ribbons to officially open the KEEA building and forum in front of Ma Jwe Hall. He then gave a speech inside the hall.

In his speech, the Vice President said the decision to establish ethnic entrepreneurs association was made at the Ethnic Sustainable Development Forum in Nay Pyi Taw, held from 18 to 19 January, 2018. He said the Ministry of Ethnic Affairs and Myanmar Ethnic Entrepreneurs Association (MEEA) are planning to organize another similar forum sometime in 2020.

The Vice President said that state/regional forums like this one need to be held before the major forum next year so that potential regional businesses that guarantee sustainable development can be discovered and nurtured into thriving commercial activities.

The Vice President said national reconciliation and peace are essential to ensure the perpetuity of a democratic federal union; one that is aspired by the people and is part of the three aims set by the incumbent civilian government. He said ethnic armed organizations need to cooperate wholeheartedly in the peace process so that the nation can stand with integrity and maturity on the global platform.

The Vice President said development and peace go hand-inhand and cannot be separated, and this equally applies finding sustainable solutions to promote the livelihoods of ethnic people. He said ethnic races need to build trust, cooperation and unite among themselves in order to strengthen national reconciliation.

The Vice President said that the national economic policy aims to be people-centred and inclusive for all citizens and will achieve this by supporting national reconciliation through an economic framework that focuses on preserving national resources, and distributing them equitably among the states and regions. He said it was necessary to grow a culture of active participation and cooperation in decision-making, discussions, forums, administration, implementation and monitoring in all sectors.

The Vice President said while there are still numerous requirements for national economic development, the most fundamental ones are having proper methods of transportation, sufficient energy generation, and a capable human resource pool.

He said private businesses and entrepreneurs can participate in public-private-partnerships to alleviate the workload on the nation while simultaneously generating profits for ethnic businesses and jobs for local residents, thus driving up regional development. He urged for every ethnic entrepreneur association should fully participate in this matter in their respective state or region.

The Vice President highlighted the State's emphasis on micro, small and medium enterprises in all states and regions. He mentioned the MSME regional product expos and competitions that have been held ten times and organized by the MSME Development Working Committee.

The Vice President urged Kachin entrepreneurs to focus on promoting MSMEs in the state as while it is abundantly-gifted in natural resources, they are limited and will run out over time, and thus supporting the development of high-quality finished products and the service sector is important.

The Vice President then mentioned the Ministry of Hotels and Tourism's emphasis on developing community-based tourism across the states and regions. He said Kachin State has many attractive travel destinations including the only snow-capped mountain in Southeast Asia – Mt Khakaborazi. He urged the ethnic entrepreneurs to cooperate in this matter as well.

The Vice President concluded his speech by mentioning his hopes for the forum to create results that would benefit the local economy and people and thus indirectly supporting the entire nation and its development. He said development starts at the individual-level and gradually proliferates to the family, community, township, state/regional, and finally national level. He said this is why enthusiasm, perseneed for national economic development in order to raise the socioeconomic status of each and every citizen. He said stability and peace are required to further develop the region and advised on utilizing the natural resources of Kachin State to boost the travel industry.

Next, the Vice President visited the proposed construction site for a bridge across the Irrawaddy River and received an explanation on its progress by the Director-General of the Bridge Department, U Shwe Lay.

From there, the Vice President visited the Myitkyina vocational training center in Waingmaw Township Development Garden (Maingna), IDP camp, and met with Daw Khin Malar, the founder of Myanmar Kindness Foundation. He then observed trainees receiving practical and theoretical training and later conversed with them.

Next, the in-charge of the camp explained the situation of the camp and the Vice President handed over souvenirs. He and the union and deputy ministers also handed over school uniforms, food and toys for the children who have fled from conflict areas.

After that, the Vice President visited the Nant Myit Ka Bridge temporary meeting hall and was given a status report by Director-General U Shwe Lay on the progress and completion of bridges in the state.

Myanmar rejects politically motivated resolution which grossly mischaracterised and Rakhine State issue

ON 14 November 2019, the Third Committee (Social, Humanitarian and Cultural Committee) of the 74th UN General Assembly took action on five country-specific resolutions against Myanmar, DPRK, Iran, Crimea (Ukraine) and Syria.

Myanmar delegation called for the vote regarding the resolution on Myanmar and voted against the politically motivated resolution co-sponsored by OIC and EU.

The Permanent Representative made a general statement before the action was taken and responded to the outcome after the voting.

In his general statement, the Permanent Representative pointed out that the draft resolution grossly mischaracterized the complex issue of Rakhine. He stated that the situation in Rakhine State is neither an issue of religious persecution nor an issue of driving a community out of the country. It is a complicated political and economic issue involving cross-border migration, poverty, lack of the rule of law and security. He further pointed out that the resolution is just another statement that attempts to demonize Myanmar and neglects the monumental task that the Government of Myanmar is carrying out to address the issue.

After the voting, the Permanent Representative responded that the results of the voting reflected the divisive nature of country-specific resolutions. Myanmar learned a lesson, again, how some member states use the power of bloc voting to exert pressures on other member countries for their political agenda. The adoption of the discriminatory draft resolution demonstrates the failure to uphold the principle of sovereign equality of nations, undermining impartiality and fairness, and application of double standards and exceptionalism and selectivity in addressing the humanitarian and human rights issues. Moreover, he strongly rejects the dubious, ill-intentioned, selective and politically motivated resolution.-MNA

OPINION 8

16 NOVEMBER 2019 THE GLOBAL NEW LIGHT OF MYANMAR

Abide by Code of Conduct to prevent conflict in polls

HE Union Election Commission is implementing the National Strategic Plan (2019-2022) to ensure the 2020 General Elections are a success, and it is coordinating with the Ministry of Information and the Myanmar Press Council to provide media easy access to information, and prevent hate speech and fake news, which can hinder the electoral process. The nationwide electoral list has been compiled.

As the 2020 General Elections are drawing near, all stakeholders, including the media, need to avoid taking sides, reporting false news, and spreading hate speech as they can have undesired effects on elections.

The media should follow media ethics and the election guide designed by the Myanmar Press Council. And, political parties are also obliged to conduct election campaigns in accordance with the set rules and regulations and follow the Code of Conduct written by all political parties and Hluttaw representatives.

To make the elections a success, to build trust among those participating in the electoral process, and to make the elections free and fair, abiding by the Code of Conduct is sine qua non for political parties and candidates.

To make the elections a success, to build trust among those participating in the electoral process, and to make the elections free and fair, abiding by the Code of Conduct is sine qua non for political parties and candidates

We have seen how after the political parties agreed on the CoC during the 2015 general elections, electoral conflicts and disputes were reduced and problems were resolved successfully through negotiations.

However, experiences in the previous elections have prompted an amendment to the CoC to meet with the current situation.

All stakeholders are responsible to make the CoC better and draw ethics and policies which can be followed.

The UEC is committed to holding the 2020 general elections in accordance with five standards: freedom of choice, fairness, transparency, accessibility, and compatibility of public desire. The election results, the performance of the commission, and news of public interest will be posted and broadcast on state-run newspapers, TV, and the UEC website occasionally.

Holding a free and fair election is a matter of dignity for the country and the people.

A recent joint statement by 20 political parties carrying false and groundless accusations about the UEC can damage trust among the stakeholders, including political parties and voters, and tarnish the dignity of the UEC.

At the time of their establishment, political parties have agreed to abide by sub-paragraphs (c) and (d) under Chapter 2 of the Political Parties Registration Law, which urges them to respect and obey the Constitution of the Union of Myanmar and to abstain from writing which can affect the dignity and morals of others.

We would like to remind parties that breaching Section 6 of the Political Parties Registration Law would warrant their dissolution.

The translator taking only 'a little poetic license' has used two different words 'magnificent' and 'majestic' to denote the depiction, the praise and almost the awe the poet felt in either witnessing or visualizing perhaps a solitary grass-cutter doing his job.

'The Grass cutter' (using the historic present tense) is, in a sense, beautifying the Earth and his task is depicted by the poet with appreciation and admiration. The dignity indeed the majesty of the grass cutter 'at work' under the rising Sun and between the green Earth and the blue Sky can be visualized. And the vision indeed the humanistic theme of the poem is inspiring.

I might add that Saya Zawgyi's poem is not only or merely in praise of the grass cutter 'stretching somewhat'. Incidentally, though it would be a bit farfetched, the grass cutter could also be a woman

Saya Zawgyi's poem is not only based on humanistic themes but is also praise of Nature and perhaps about eighty years after its composition- environmental protection themes can be extrapolated or projected. In one of the above paragraphs, the phrase 'green Earth' is used. During the time Saya Zawgyi composed the poem around eighty years ago some areas of the Earth including what was then Burma were certainly more 'green' than now. The Poet fears that the Zaw Gyi May Lose His Mind in Zaw Gyi and Shein-Hsa-Yar Poem

Fast forward from the mid-1930s to the next almost fifty years to October 1984. At an elderly literati homage ceremony, Saya Zawgyi distributed a poem to the persons who gathered to pay homage to him

The writer came across the poem below and its attendant explanations of the significance of the poem in Saya MaungTha Noe's essay ဇော်ဂျီရဲ့ အနတ္တ ကဗျာ ('Zaw Gyi's Poem of Non-Self') in the collection of Essays published in tribute to Saya Zawgyi, ဆရာဇော်ဂျီ အမှတ်တရ စာစုများ

In the poem reproduced below the term Zaw Gyi (written in italics and in two words to distinguish the terms from the pseudonym of the poet) is a reference not to the poet Zawgyi (without italics) (U Thein Han) but to either the puppet Zaw Gyi or the metaphysical and the (Buddhist) irreligious (not religious but irreligious, see below) aspects of the concept of Zaw Gyi.

on the puppet stage the Zaw Gyi with his magic wand jumping and flying about watching his antics the watcher feels anxious with overflowing, rambunctious, shein-hsar-yar

[the Zaw Gyi] has the power to make his body disappear

what is feared is that the shein-hsar-yar would also make the Zaw Gyi's mind as well to disappear (Composed by the poet Zawgyi in October 1984)

The words in italics Zaw Gyi තේත් and shein-hsar-yar calls for a brief elaboration. The dictionary meaning of the Zaw Gyi is 'alchemist of the forest'. The late Dr. Htin Aung (1908-1978) among others, Rector and Vice Chancellor of the University of Rangoon (1946-1959) explains that 'the sorcerer Zaw Gui in Burmese is a survivor from pre-Buddhist Burma. The Zaw Gyi practices alchemy to attain immortal life, along with lesser attainments such as the power of flight The dance of the Zaw Gyi is one of the most popular portions of the puppeteers "pre play warm up".

In the context of the poem by Saya Zawgyi it might be added that the Zaw Gyi can also make his body 'disappear'.

In fact in the မြန်မာအဘိဓာန် (Myanmar Dictionary, 1991) the phrase shein-hsar-yar ရှိန်း ဆာယာ is defined as 'the ability to hide and disappear one's body'. The first part of the word ('shein') ត្តិនិះ is of Sanskrit သက္က်ရိုက် origin and and also the latter part කාගා has Pali language elements. The late Professor F.K. Lehman (U Chit Hlaing), a linguist, anthropologist and Myanmar expert at the University of Illinois Urbana Champaign in the United States wrote me (in response to my query) around 2003 by electronic mail that 'Shein' ရှိန်း is derived from the Sanskrit word 'Shri' သူရီ or ရရီ or තී which in effect means 'magical power'. Professor Lehman further stated that the second part of the term 'hsar-yar' means 'shadowy'. Hence a rough (though not entirely inaccurate) exposition of the word could be 'shadowy' ('dark') forces of power' which in effect enabled the $\cos Zaw$ to 'disappear' his body from the view and vision of the onlookers. From the first line of the poem, to the onlooker-poet, the antics and performances of the Zaw Gyi jumping and flying in the air is advisedly 'impressive'. But soon in the next few lines the poet writes about the 'overflowing rambunctious shein-hsar-yar' through which the Zaw Gyi has the power to make himself disappear. Of this, the poet has already indicated his 'anxiousness' at the Zaw Gyi's actions. (Based on the folklores indeed the metaphysical postulates the Zaw Gyi is undoubtedly male, hence the unambiguous use of the word 'he' and 'his' above.)

It is well and good, impressive and stunning that the Zaw Gyi can make himself disappear into thin air through the non-Buddhist and un-Buddhist shein hsar yar but what if the Zaw Gyi's mind also disappears?

In a large sense, therefore Zaw Gyi and Hsein-Hsar-Yar poem can be described as a Buddhist religious poem. Although imbued with the (dark forces) of power the Zaw Gyi (not the poet) is blind to, unaware, indeed ignorant of the Buddhist concept of non-self or Anatta නෘදුනු

The poet (Zawgyi, U Thein Han) may have written this short in a sense enigmatic but in another sense piercing, penetrating poem with a few themes or messages in mind. It is a penetrating poem in that it 'pierces' through the clutch or grip in addition to the 'veil' of ignorance of the Zaw Gyi. In fact the message for the Zaw Gyi is also the message for the 'worldlings' (in Pali terms Puthuzin) φαραδ but especially for those whose pursuit of –from a Buddhist perspective- illusions of earthly (as well as unearthly) (dark) power which makes them metaphorically fly in the air, and made their bodies disappear. But to repeat, what if their minds also disappear?

The great American poet Robert Frost had said 'poetry starts with delight and ends with wisdom'. Saya Zawgyi's poem which was probably composed when he was about 77 years old ends, one respectfully submits, is about the need for wisdom: the insight to break through the fetters of ignorance which caused the (puppet) Zaw Gyi to 'disappear' his body and may be later to lose his mind.

In his tribute essay. Maung Thar Noe wrote that immediately after he read the poem he looked around him to discern to whom was the poem intended for. Maung Thar Noe opined that perhaps Saya Zawgyi composed the poem for himself too as a reminder 'note' to himself. Maung Thar Noe stated that he was never affected or moved by any other poem of Saya Zawgyi as he was by this particular poem

When I met Maung Thar Noe around 2005 he commented that Zaw Gyi and Hsein-sar-yar in addition to its Buddhist religious connotations can also be considered as a political poem. For, in 1984 when the poet composed his poem were the days -indeed the long years- of the ancien (to use a French rather than an English word) the BSPP (Burma Socialist Programme Party) regime. That regime has repeatedly boasted of how great it was mainly though not exclusively through its propaganda sheets. Maung Thar Noe infers obliquely in his essay and openly to me when we met that the then regime's actions and pronouncements were not dissimilar to Zaw Gyi's antics and his 'dance' of self-display, self-praise or indeed self-flaunting. I would add that the then -indeed subsequent- regimes' actions seem to reflect the pronouncements made by the King Ozymanidas in the English poet Percy Bysshe Shelley's poem Ozymandias 'Look on my Works, ye Mighty, and despair!'

If the 'flying in the airs' antics of the ancien BSPP regime was intense the subsequent regimes till 2011 (metaphorically) 'dancing', indeed trumpeting and thundering its 'great achievements' (Look on my works!) was arguably worse and reached the apogee or perhaps more accurately the nadir.

From a political and religious stand point indeed from a humanistic perspective too Saya Zawgyi's poem is a reminder of the pitfalls and the snares all of us and especially the high, the mighty and the displayers of and dancing to the dictates of shein-hsar-yar can fall into Sayagyi Zawgyi's two poems written in the late 1930s and in the mid-1980s - around fifty years apartare affecting, inspiring, grand literary achievements imbued with humanistic and philosophical significance. I humbly gave my tribute to Saya Zawgyi by offering my appreciation of Saya's two philosophical poems composed nearly 50 years apart.

Press conference held in Presidential Palace

MINISTRY of State Counsellor's Office Director General U Zaw Htay held a press conference in Presidential Palace, Nay Pyi Taw yesterday afternoon and briefed on the political, economic, social and peace situation in the country.

At the press conference Director General U Zaw Htay spoke about President Office Order No. 45/2019 dated 14 November on Anti-Money Laundering Law, President sending a message to Pyidaungsu Hluttaw on merging two ministries and the matter being explained at the Hluttaw by an official from the relevant ministry.

Afterwards, news media personnel raised questions including resolving the difficulties encountered in obtaining news at courts, possibility of concluding civil cases speedily, possibility of resolving difficulties faced and reducing the time required to renew passports at Myanmar Embassy in Thailand, matters relating to anti-money laundering order, current situation of Myanmar's diplomatic relationship, status of efforts made toward apprehending major drug dealers, matter of reward provided to informers on drug, cases made by ICJ (International Criminal Justice) and ICC (International Criminal Court), status of tax collection from mobile phone bill payment, whether there was a plan for the government to meet with the northern alliance, current situation in Rakhine State, whether the country has a policy to reduce internally displaced person (IDP) camps, the number of IDP camps, matter of personnel from IDP camps on the border of Myanmar-Thai border returning back, measures taken to free Hluttaw representative U Hwei Tin and plan to take action against companies that owes gold to the country.

Responding to the questions, Director General U Zaw Htay said spoke persons were appointed in courts from whom the media can obtain news. The matter of delays in trying civil cases was discussed when the President met with Union Chief Justice and Union Supreme Court Judges. Instructions were issued to increase the organization setup and employ more court personnel in courts while the Union Chief Justice Office will be informed about facilitating news media to obtain court news.

On the Rakhine State affairs, the Director General said the government was not blindly rejecting international accusations. Independent Commission of Enquiry (ICOE) that was free and independent was formed with reputable and trustworthy international personnel and ICOE is still conducting inquiries. On the other hand, Tatmadaw has also formed an Inquiry Board and is conducting investigations.

ICOE's Final Report had yet to be published. ICOE is a free and independent organization. It was formed by the government. The main point was the fact that international accusations were made. ICOE was handling this matter. Based on the findings of ICOE, appropriate actions will be taken according to the law.

Once detailed findings were made, as mentioned in the past, there'll be no leniency toward human rights violations. inquiries were made toward this with full political will and if there any violations, appropriate action will be taken. The government can be accused of a lack of accountability if no action was taken when the report was out. As the process was still underway, international pressures are more of a nuisance and disturbance.

The outcome results of these pressures are adversely affecting the country's image which causes effects on Myanmar and its citizens, investment, travel, trade cooperation etc. Myanmar government was truly conducting the investigations and inquiries, had the capability to do it and took full responsibility for it. This was been explained to the international audience. At the moment, there was no cooperation from Bangladesh. Bangladesh's lack of cooperation as well as criticizing Myanmar's cooperative works seems to be prolonging the issue. Myanmar was doing the necessary things as well as conducting investigations and will continue to do so.

Of those who left to Cox's Bazar, a total of 415, 239 males and 176 females had returned on their own volition. They didn't return under the arrangement of Bangladesh but were repatriated to reception and transit centres by the UEHRD program. There were many who want to return from Cox's Bazar. Especially there were 444 Hindus who had proposed to return. To smooth the repatriation process proposal was made to start the repatriation with these 444 Hindus. Myanmar and Bangladesh had made two attempts for repatriation.

Based on past experience, repatriation matter can be resolved through bilateral cooperation. Groups were formed to implement the agreements. But there was no cooperation in repatriation. Instead, there were behind the back demands to take action against Myanmar or sanction Myanmar. Such acts shouldn't be taken as Myanmar and Bangladesh had lived together peacefully side by side. Even though there were bilateral ministerial-level meetings, there were many behind the back statements incorrectly made to the media. Myanmar now hold a trilateral meeting to include China as witness. Discussions were made at UN General Assembly with UN Secretary General and representative of China as a witnesses where pledges and promises were made on the process and time table of repatriation. Our side did the necessary preparation but there were widespread killings and illicit drug activities in Cox's Bazar IDP camps. Demonstrations were held whenever repatriation was planned. Those who want to return dare not propose to do so and a total of 415 had returned without announcing about it.

NATIONAL

The point was for Bangladesh to be a good neighbor. If Bangladesh does not cooperate in the repatriation work, the humanitarian crisis will grow. If that occurs, it would be the sole responsibility of Bangladesh. Our side was ready and prepared for the repatriation process. Bangladesh especially needs to abide by and cooperate according to the bilateral agreement. Without this cooperation, the problem will become more complicated. This needs to be understood, said U Zaw Htay.

The government was arranging to meet with the four ethnic armed oragnizations from the northern alliance. The four EAOs need to have a true desire for peace and to walk down the path to peace. Arrangements were made to agree on a preliminary ceasefire. This was discussed at the Kengtung meeting. If the preliminary ceasefire agreement was achieved, the next steps will be taken.

RCSS Chairman and the government side are coordinating. Soon a group led by RCSS Chairman will meet with a government representative group led by Dr Tin Myo Win in Thailand. Lt-Gen YarPyae and Lt-Gen Min Naung from Tatmadaw will also participate in that meeting. The two are NRPC members. RCSS is to discuss with the government representative group. Tatmadaw also plans to hold a separate meeting. Furthermore, there will be a meeting to start the peace process. The government has an IDP strategy. Ministry of Social Welfare, Relief and Resettlement and experts will soon conduct a National Strategy. Afterwards, State/Region-wise Action Plans will be drawn up. At the moment, KHCC led by KBC Chairman and Deputy Minister U Soe Aung has formed a Working Team. A Pilot Project will be conducted. An IDP Camp in Government Control Area will be chosen to conduct the pilot project. The expectation is to resettle the displaced persons to their places of origin, where they can resume their former livelihoods, said Director-General U Zaw Htay. He also provided detailed explanations on other questions raised. - MNA (Translated by Zaw Min)

Ways of searching beauties of

By Uncle Pyinnya

Second time visit

Salay

During my second time visit to Salay in Chauk Township of Magway Region together with my family, I aimed to observe Salay sculptural Yokesone monastery and facts about great poet Salay U Ponnya. Hence, I did not have adequate time to observe remaining subjects in Salay. Even though I spent all the time on observing Yokesone monastery, I was not satisfied with missing chances to visit monuments of U Ponnya.

Locations of cultural properties in Bagan era

Actually, Salay is an ancient town filled with cultural properties. Some archaeologists assumed Salay was a place of flourishing Pyu culture. My presentation was not on a point of archaeologist view but of an ordinary traveller.

Salay House

An ancient building called Salay House in the ward of old Salay is used in tourism industry. A local youth medical doctor bought the house built in 1906 from original owners and created it as a place of services for accommodation and food for local and foreign travellers and as a souvenir shop.

A couple of medical doctors explained me how to build the house for resilience of climatic impacts and for security measures. At a time when the administrative machinery deteriorated, wealthy persons in Salay were often robbed. Moreover, the couple explained locations of the sites where travellers should make observations.

Shinpin Sarkyohla Pagoda

The pagoda is located four miles south of Salay. It was built by King of Bagan Narapatisithu in 1191 AD. It is a medium-scale pagoda called "Sakyohla Pagoda". Its ceiling of the eastern stairway was decorated with mural paintings and masonry works. The medium-scale temples were called "Phayahla" the visitors. In the history, King Alaungsithu bu'ilt five Phayahla pagodas under the guidance of Pantthaku Mahathera. Such story was mentioned in the royal glass Maha Yazawindawgyi. These pagodas can be seen as Chauk Phayahla in NyaungU, Myepontha Phayahla near Bagan-Shwehsandaw, Kazunboe Phayahla near Minnan13th Century.

The image is 18 feet high, 14.5 feet in width between the two knees and 11 feet thick at the structure of knee structure. In about 1250 Myanmar era when Ayeyawaday River raised the water level, abbot U Budd led local people and members of the Sangha to salvage such image. I saw a door the persons bringing honour to Salay as well as shaking Salay with his astrological forecasts.

I was eager to search a place concerning U Ponnya to be able to see the place where he compiled the classic literature and where he kept his literary works and how happens now. I myself saw such place. I was delighted at systematic maintenance of the place. Myanmar figure 26 is labelled on the exterior of the building. The temple designed building was fenced with a concrete wall. Its entrance was installed a double iron door. The left wall of the door was labelled "U Ponnya Pitakat Chamber, repaired on 12-9-61, No 26". The inner section was about 15 feet by 15 feet area with 20 feet high roof. While visiting, I was satisfied that the size and design of the Pitakat in Bagan era and named with "Hla" based on decoration of masonry works.

Sarkyohla Buddha image was magnificently seen as a sitting structure in Gandakuti Chamber. A stone plaque with inscriptions on dorsiventral sides and another one with one side alone were posted near the window in north of the chamber. Teak posts from the prayer halls on the platform of the pagoda were gilt. There are about 60 public rest houses made of wood outside the walls of the pagoda. A local said that being a famous pagoda, Buddha Pujaniya festivals are held before and after Buddhist lent period annually when the public rest houses could not give adequate accommodation to thu-East Phwasaw Village, Thagyartaung Phayahla in Tuyin Hill-Taungsun, and Sarkyo Phayahla, four miles south of Salay. I deeply mean the land of Salay is not free from relationships of Bagan.

Shinpin Labha lacquered image

Shinpin Labha Buddha image in Salay is the largest work of lacquered images in the entire Myanmar. Its structure was the work of Bagan era in installed behind the throne to enter the interior of the image. Visitors should pay homage to the image whenever they arrive in Salay.

U Ponnya Pitakat Chamber Everybody knows that great poet Salay U Ponnya created topics related to Pitakat treatises, astrology, history, medicines and poems in various compositions so as to improve the Myanmar classic literature. U Ponnya was one of Chamber do not tarnish prestige of poet U Ponnya.

100-post Sasana Yaungchi Monastery

Thanks to Salay sculptural Yokesone monastery opened as an archaeological museum, Salay is famous throughout the world. The monastery built in the reign of King Thibaw in 1224 stalled with works of large lotus flowers at the tier-roofed structures and decoration of floral crafts around the buildings.

Visitors can observe ancient teak cupboards, paintings and post-box depicting works of Buddhological stories. Abbot of the monastery U Pandita patiently showed me ancient palm-leaf inscriptions, folded papers and bamboo ribbed roll of cloth for palm-leaf manuscripts from the teak post-box. Shinpin Tapetoe Buddha Image Abbot U Pandita urged me to pay homage to Shinpin Tapetoe Buddha Image on the opposite site of the monastery. Local people said it was the place where body weight of Princess Manisanda in the history of Bagan era increased to one penny.

In retrospect, four hero warriors of King Anawrahta achieved victory over Yun troops on the land of Oktha-Bago. The King of Oktha offered up the sacred relic of the royal relatives and princess Manisanda in same weight of a lion statue.

The princess was under escort of four heroes in rotation from Oktha to Bagan. On arrival at a place, body weight of the princess was heavier than that of the lion statue. The Buddha image was built at such place. Before paying homage to the Buddha image, I saw a signboard bearing 13th Century AD. The structure of the pagoda is a small replica of Ananda Temple in Bagan.

Pagoda No. 36

Before departure from Salay, I took photos on Yokesone Monastery. During the previous visit, I could not catch smart photos of the monastery due to the sunray.

Moreover, I had one more wish to meet with writer Maung Maung Latt (Archaeology) who is selling souvenirs in the precinct of the monastery. Since my first trip, he had urged me to visit Pagoda No. 36. He pledged to take me to the pagoda if I had to visit there. But I missed the chance of visiting there due to shortage of time.

This time, I asked him for ways to the pagoda and went there. The pagoda is located in north of Yokesone Monastery and southeast of Salay Fertilizer Plant. It needs to walk some 100 yards to the east of Chauk-Salay road. It is a small temple facing the west. A sitting Buddha image damaged with detached pieces of concrete is in the temple.

I saw good conditions of a mural painting on the wall above the Buddha image. Some experts assumed that the picture in the painting did not depict the Buddhology. In assessing the painting, they assumed that it was a culture earlier than the Bagan era. I think that those adoring the ancient culture wish to systematically preserve such places for works of ancient fine arts. The aforesaid topics mean the suitable sites for observation of travellers on my trip to Salay. Actually, I admitted these topics could not comprehensively depict the image of Salay but I firmly believe they would be helps for visitors.
