Towards speedy completion of projects that would fulfil immediate needs of the State and people

In its drive for national economic development and the emergence of a peaceful and developed nation, the government has given top priority to the construction of all the necessary infrastructures. As a result, new roads and bridges, dams and embankments and hydroelectric power stations and river-water pumping stations have appeared all over the nation.

Due to the cooperation between the government and service personnel, almost all the fundamental requirements have been fulfilled during the period of 15 years and the people are enjoying the benefits. Now, in accordance with the guidance of the Head of State, efforts are being made for transforming conventional farming to mechanized farming and development of the transport sector in border regions and the electric power sector.

Of all the sectors to be implemented in the year 2004-2005, the government has given first priority to the electric power sector and is trying to fulfil electricity needs of the nation by investing in enormous hydroelectric power projects.

In his meeting with responsible personnel of the Shwegyin hydel power project in Shwegyin Township, Bago Division, Secretary-1 of the State Peace and Development Council Lt-Gen Soe Win said that now was the time when electric power was in greatly needed and the more electricity needs can be fulfilled, the faster the development of the nation will be.

It is very important to complete the hydelpower projects ahead of schedule so that the State and the people can enjoy the benefits as early as possible. As our country has entered the electronic era, the use of computers and televisions is on the rise.

The government has been endeavouring to satisfy the rising demand of electricity due to the changes and developments in people's lifestyle. Before 1988, hydro-powered, gas-fired and steam-powered turbines produced 580 megawatts of electricity. After 1988, 28 hydelpower plants and gas-powered power stations generate 560 megawatts of electricity.

With economic development and higher living standard, the demand for electricity has been increasing by 15 per cent every year.

On completion of the Shwegyin hydel power project in Shwegyin Township, the Yenwe multi-purpose dam project in Kyaukdaga Township, the Kunchaung hydel power project and the Pyu multi-purpose dam project in Pyu Township and the Khabaung multi-purpose dam project in Ottwin Township, the capacity of power supply will be increased by 230 megawatts.

We would like to urge all those responsible and service personnel to put their energies into hydelpower projects to complete them ahead of schedule.

Vice-Chairman of the State Peace and Development Council Deputy Commander-in-Chief of Defence Services Commander-in-Chief (Army) Vice-Senior General Maung Aye cordially greets the visiting Bangladeshi goodwill delegation led by Major-General AIM Mustafa Reza Noor, ndc at Zeyathiri Beikman, Konmyinthar. Iraq violence kills nine US troops: Suicide attacks hit gulf oil facilities

BAGHDAD, 26 April—Suicide attackers detonated explosive-laden boats near oil facilities in the Persian Gulf on Saturday, killing two US sailors in a new tactic against Iraq's vital oil industry.

Elsewhere, violence across Iraq on Saturday killed seven American soldiers and at least 33 Iraqis.

In the worst of the attacks on US troops, five soldiers were killed and six wounded in a rocket attack on the sprawling military base in Taji, about 10 miles beyond the northwestern outskirts of Baghdad and a 30-minute drive from Fallujah.

It has been used as a base for some of the US military operations in Fallujah.

In Kut, a predominantly Shiite city 100 miles southeast of Baghdad, the police chief said two more US troops had been killed when a rocket-propelled grenade was fired at a convoy 25 miles south of the city.

In addition, an Army reservist originally from Vallejo who was missing in Iraq since his convoy was attacked on 9 April was confirmed dead Saturday.

The remains of Sgt Elmer Krause of Greensboro, NC, were found Friday, according to a statement from the Department of Defence.

He was assigned to the Army Reserve's 724th Transportation Company, of Bartonville, Ill.

Death toll of US troops in Iraq rises to 719

BAGHDAD, 26 April — The explosion of a roadside bomb in Baghdad has killed a US soldier and sparked a gunbattle.

Military authorities say troops evacuated the dead soldier, then returned to the bomb site. But when they came back, several children were looting their vehicle.

As the American soldiers approached, gunmen on neighboring rooftops opened fire and a battle ensued.

Witnesses report Iraqi casualties in the fight. It's not known whether any children were among them.

With the soldier's death today, 110 US troops have been killed since the beginning of April — the deadliest period yet for Americans in Iraq. At least 719 servicemembers have died in Iraq since the March 2003 invasion.—Internet

US Marine dies of combat wounds in Iraq

BAGHDAD, 26 April— A US Marine has died from wounds suffered in hostile action west of Baghdad 10 days ago, the US military said on Saturday.

The military said the Marine assigned to the 1st Marine Expeditionary Force died on Thursday of wounds received on 14 April while fighting anti-US forces in the Al Anbar Province. Al Anbar includes the restive towns of Fallujah and Ramadi.

UN uses atomic technology to fight malaria mosquito

SEIBERSDORF (Austria), 26 April— The United Nations is harnessing nuclear technology to try to eradicate the mosquitoes whose bite transmits malaria, a deadly disease devastating the African continent.

Sunday is Africa Malaria Day, when governments will focus attention on a disease which kills millions of Africans a year, most of them children, and costs the continent at least 12 billion US dollars in lost gross domestic product. Bart Knols, a Dutch entomologist at the UN International Atomic Energy Agency (IAEA), estimates there are "three to five hundred million cases of malaria every year on a world-wide scale, 90 per cent of which occur in sub-Saharan Africa".

"Sub-Saharan Africa also suffers the major burden... of mortality," he told Reuters during a tour of the IAEA's entomology laboratories.

One African child dies of malaria every 20 seconds. People in poor, remote villages are usually unable to get treatment and so Knols' research aims to nip the problem in the bud by destroying the mosquito that transmits the malaria parasite.

The IAEA is best known for its inspections of countries like Iran and Iraq who are suspected of building atomic weapons. But the agency has already used its expertise to wipe out the dreaded tsetse fly, which can transmit fatal sleeping sickness, from the island of Zanzibar.—MNA/Reuters

Tanzania faces stiff shortage of doctors

DAR-ES-SALAAM, 26 April — A Tanzanian official has said that the country is faced with a stiff shortage of doctors, local newspaper The Guardian said Friday.

This was revealed by Deputy Minister for Science, Technology and Higher Education Zabein Mhita at a Parliament session held in the central city of Dodoma Thursday.

"The ratio of medical experts against the number of people in Tanzania is not good compared to other countries in the south of the Sahara," she said.

Tanzania has a ratio of 1:23,000, which means that one doctor serves about 23,000 people, but the World Health Organization recommends a ratio of 1:10,000, she added.

The Deputy Minister

cited examples from Tanzania's neighbours, Kenya and Uganda, which she said have 1:7,000 and 1:9,000. She said that the government had been making efforts to increase the number of doctors in the country through a national policy targeted to develop higher education.

The government will facilitate establishing private medical colleges in the future to narrow the present gap, she added.

Access to malaria treatment in Africa threatened by drug shortages

NAIROBI, 26 April— A leading international medical humanitarian organization warned here Friday that access to effective malaria treatment in Africa is threatened by potential drug shortages.

"Artemisinin-based combination therapy (ACT) is really a cause for hope in Africa — more and more countries with extremely high rates of resistance to old malaria treatments are starting to use it with excellent results," Medicines Sans Frontiers (MSF) or Doctors Without Borders said in a Press release from the organization's Nairobi office.

"But donors and producers need to take action to avert a major supply crisis of ACT. Since the key ingredient of the combinations is extracted from plants, only firm orders now will enable enough plants to be ready for the huge expected increases in demand next year," said the release.

The MSF's warning comes as the world to commemorate Africa Malaria Day which falls on 25 April.

The World Health Organization estimates that 132 million treatments of malaria patients will be needed in 2005 in the world, of which 92 million are for Africa.

Britains to be issued with ID cards in anti-terror plan

LONDON, 26 April — Thousands of Britons will be issued with identity cards next week for the first time since the 1950s, in a trial that is central to the government's strategy against terror attacks.

The pilot scheme will record thousands of fingerprints, face and eye scans, as part of a 12-week trial starting from Monday, said a Home Office spokesman.

"There will be a large scale hi-tech biometric trial as part of preparing Britain for a national identity card scheme," he told Reuters. "Numbers will definitely be in the thousands."

The BBC earlier reported that the trial might involve up to 10,000 volunteers.

The government sees ID cards as key to protecting against the threat posed by groups like Osama bin Laden's al-Qaeda. The proposal also comes amid mounting pressure for a clampdown on illegal immigration.

Iraq blast kills US soldier, wounds three others

BAGHDAD, 26 April—A roadside bomb has killed a US soldier and wounded three others in the Iraqi capital.

A US military spokesman said the bombing triggered a shootout with gunmen and that Iraqi children were caught in the crossfire. There were no immediate reports of civilian casualties.

Earlier Sunday, US military officials extended a ceasefire in the Iraqi city of Fallujah, where they say Iraqi police and US Marines will begin joint patrols Tuesday.

The extension comes one day after President Bush conferred with top national security and military advisors on the three-week stand-off between US Marines and insurgents holed up in the city.

Elsewhere, two rocket attacks in Mosul killed four Iraqis and wounded at least 10 others early today.

In a separate development, a third US sailor has died from wounds sustained Saturday in a seaborne raid on a Persian Gulf oil facility.

Canadian opposition leader says he would not send troops to Iraq

TORONTO, 26 April—Canadian opposition leader Stephen Harper said Sunday that he would not send troops to Iraq if he is elected prime minister.

"I think that's not feasible, given our limited military capacity and the extent to which our people are already over-committed across the world," the Conservative leader said on CTV's "Question Period" show.

Last April, Harper said on the Fox News Channel that a "silent majority" of Canadians endorsed the war, but acknowledged Sunday that public sentiment had turned against the war over the past year.

"... public opinion's clearly different now, but I would continue to emphasize that it's in all of our interests that the coalition be successful in Iraq and not fail," he said.

Canada, which has troops serving in Afghanistan, Bosnia, and Haiti, opposed the US-led invasion of Iraq and said again last month it would not send troops to the country.

The United States, facing an eroding military coalition in Iraq, is working on a new UN resolution that President Bush said could "help other nations to decide to participate."

Canadian Prime Minister Paul Martin, battling low polling numbers amid a government spending scandal, is expected to call an election in the next few months.

Gulf countries urged to tap huge gas resources

ABU DHABI, 26 April — Gulf states control nearly 40 per cent of the world's proven gas resources but their production does not exceed 10 per cent of the global gas output, the Gulf News reported Saturday, quoting a senior official of the United Arab Emirates (UAE).

"A rapid growth in global consumption of natural gas as a cleaner source of energy should prompt the UAE and other regional countries to exploit their gas wealth," said Obeid bin Saif Al Nasiri, UAE's Minister of Oil and Mineral Resources.

In a monthly magazine, which was published here Friday by UAE's Ministry of Oil and Industry, Nasiri said world gas demand is projected to grow by around 2.4 per cent in the next 30 years while oil consumption is forecast to rise by 1.6 per cent and coal by 1.4 per cent.

The share of gas currently stood at around 24 per cent of the total world energy demand while oil accounts for 40 per cent and coal for 26 per cent. By 2010, natural gas will be in the second place as it is projected to surpass coal because it is a cleaner source of energy, he pointed out.

The Middle East is set to play a key role in gas supplies in the future, the region controls around 72 trillion cubic metres of natural gas, accounting for nearly 40 per cent of the world's total proven gas reserves but current production does not exceed 245 billion cubic metres a year, or around 10 per cent of the global gas output. This means that production falls short of the size of reserves.

Nasiri referred to massive projects being carried out in the region to tap gas resources, mainly in Qatar, but noted huge investments are needed to exploit available reserves.

The coming projects should cover gas liquefaction and petrochemicals as part of the region's programmes to diversify their economies, larger gas quantities are also needed to feed power plants and aluminium smelters, he said.

"But we should note that the utilization process in the region's gas sector is still very low, this has created an imbalance between production levels and the size of the region's recoverable gas reserves. This requires further investments in this sector not only to meet domestic needs but to face global demand and diversify exports."

Nasiri's figures for gas reserves covered that in the Gulf Cooperation Council (GCC) countries, as well as that in Iraq and Iran, which also control at least 60 per cent of the world's oil.

Yemeni President calls for "immediate" US pullout from Iraq

SANAA, 26 April—Yemeni President Ali Abdullah Saleh called for the "immediate" pullout of US-led coalition troops from Iraq and warned Washington it was earning the Muslims' hatred by backing Israel in the Arab-Israeli conflict.

"A year has passed without the realization of the slogans raised by the occupation forces, (who promised) security, stability, justice, freedom and democracy" when they invaded Iraq in March 2003, Saleh told the opening session of a conference of Arab and African parliamentary bodies.

"It has been proven to the world that there are no weapons of mass destruction," he said, referring to the main reason invoked by the United States and Britain to invade Iraq and overthrow the regime of Saddam Hussein.

"We want an immediate withdrawal of occupation forces. We do not want to see blood being shed" in Iraq, Saleh said of the escalating violence in the country.

The three-day conference is attended by representatives of 27 countries and organizations affiliated to the association of upper houses and shura (consultative) councils in Arab and African states.—Internet

Up to one-fourth of US reconstruction money for Iraq is going for security

WASHINGTON, 26 April—Money that should be used for rebuilding Iraq instead is going to protect workers and insure their projects.

American officials monitoring their work say US financed contractors are spending as much as a quarter of their money on security because of the surging violence in Iraq. Officials say the siphoning of resources is slowing work on projects like building roads and refurbishing electric plants. More than 18 billion dollars has been appropriated to restore Iraq's economy and government by repairing and building facilities and training Iraqis. But the inspector general for the Coalition Provisional Authority says contractors were spending ten to 15 per cent of their money for security costs earlier this year, and that figure could go as high as 25 percent due to the recent anti-American violence. —Internet

Four children killed by gunfire after Baghdad attack

BAGHDAD, 26 April—Four schoolchildren were killed by gunfire in Baghdad on Sunday, shortly after a roadside bomb ripped through a US military vehicle, witnesses said.

Some witnesses said the children, all aged around 12, were shot dead by US troops who had opened fire randomly after the blast on Canal Street in eastern Baghdad. At least five other people were wounded.

The children had left their nearby school to look at the burning Humvee, the witnesses said. Children and some passersby were "celebrating" the attack near the vehicle when the deadly shots were fired.

The US military had no immediate word on the incident. "I saw a child lying on the street with a bullet hole in his neck and another in his side," said a driver who witnessed the incident. "He had his schoolbag on his back. Some 15 minutes later his relatives came and took his body away."

A nearby hospital confirmed receiving the bodies of four children with gunshot wounds.

The targeted Humvee was part of a military convoy driving through the street.

El Salvador undecided on Iraq troop presence past June

SAN SALVADOR (El Salvador), 26 April—El Salvador has yet to decide whether to keep its small troop contingent in Iraq after June as sought by the United States, President Francisco Flores said in comments published on Sunday.

"El Salvador is going to carry out the duty of maintaining troops in Iraq until June 30 and any continuation will be a subject of analysis," Salvadorean dailies quoted Flores as saying.

El Salvador has a force of 380 troops in Iraq which have been under Spanish command but Spain is pulling its forces out, possibly at the end of May.

Secretary of State Colin Powell said on Friday he hoped several nations such as Norway, the Netherlands and El Salvador who have a total of almost 2,000 troops in Iraq, would stay after an interim Iraqi Government takes power June 30.

Flores' term in office finishes on June 1 and his successor Tony Saca, a fellow member of the rightist Arena Party, has not said how long he wants the troops to stay for.

The initial Salvadorean plan was to post forces in Iraq until the beginning of August but many countries in the US-led coalition, like Norway, are looking to withdraw at the end of June.—MNA/Reuters

China to issue early warnings on geological disasters

BEIJING, 26 April—The Chinese Government plans to set up an early warning system and an emergency headquarters for dealing with geological disasters, said Lu Xinshe, Vice-Minister of the Ministry of Land Resources Sunday.

Lu, who spoke at a working conference on the issue of e-government of the ministry, the early warning system will become one of the three safety networks to be built by the ministry in the coming four years. The other two are designed for protecting land and mineral resources, respectively.

The geological early warning system will be able to monitor the disasters and collect data and information in the field, which is expected to increase the country's capabilities in controlling geological disasters and reducing losses brought about by the disasters.

In 2003, a total of 13,832 geological disasters were reported in the country, leaving 743 deaths, 125 missing, and 564 injured, as well as a direct financial loss of 4.87 billion yuan (about 588 million US dollars).

China plays active role in Asia-Pacific financial cooperation

SHANGHAI, 26 April—China is joining hands with its neighbouring countries to develop the bond market in Asia, an official with China's central bank said here Sunday.

China has actively initiated and participated in the regional financial cooperation, said He Jianxiong, deputy director general of the International Department of the People's Bank of China, at the ongoing Asia-Pacific Business Forum, a side event of the 60th session of the United Nations Economic and Social Commission for Asia and the Pacific (ESCAP).

As a major method to develop the Asian bond market, the Asian Bond Fund (ABF) was launched in Chiang Mai, Thailand, in June, 2003 by the Association of South-East Asian Nations (ASEAN), and China, Japan and South-Korea (10+3).

The second phase of the ABF has been approved to pave the way for investments in local currency-denominated Asian bonds after the successful launch of the first-phase one-billion-US dollar ABF. Financial experts have said the establishment of the Asian bond market indicates that the regional financial cooperation has entered into the phase of preventing monetary crisis from the headstream.—MNA/Xinhua

Survey shows Dubai among top digital cities in the world

ABU DHABI, 26 April—Dubai has outranked several digitally advanced cities in the world in terms of privacy and security on its official portal, the official WAM news agency quoted a new global survey as reporting Sunday.

The survey of 100 major cities, conducted by Rutgers University of the United States, ranked Dubai in the 9th position, along with Auckland, scoring 7.86 out of 20 points, against the average score of 2.85.

The survey ranked Dubai 11th worldwide in the service delivery category, ahead of Dublin, Helsinki and Tokyo, according to Dubai-based Madar Research Group, which released the findings.

According to the findings, only 17 cities showed that they identified the organizations collecting data on their web sites and only 14 cities identified the kind of data being collected.

Dubai was one of the 12 cities whose privacy policy identified both. In service delivery, Dubai was ranked 11th worldwide, with a score of 8.25 against the world average of 4.77.

The report also cited Dubai as one of only 10 cities that have web sites allowing citizens to pay fees online. Service delivery is one area in which Dubai eGovernment has been making rapid strides.

National Convention were undertaken. The delegates to the National Convention have been invited and the date of the National Convention to be reconvened is approaching fast.

In order to successfully undertake the tasks for the National Convention and for the delegates to attend the National Convention with peace of mind, the National Convention Hall and the National Convention Compound were constructed after formation of various committees comprising the ministers, the deputy ministers and heads of departments, he said. He said various committees—decoration committee, greening committee, lamp-post decoration committee, construction material stockpiling committee, renovation committee, sports committee, welfare committee, communication committee and entertainment committee—implemented the works systematically.

He said the delegates include various national races and age groups.

For health care services, a hospital equip with modern disease diagnostic and treatment centres, medical equipment and specialists and physicians was constructed and opened in the compound where the National Convention is going to be held for ensuring full health care services as there are those who are in good health, those who need medical attention and those who need regular medical check-up, he noted.

In addition, arrangements have been made by the respective sub-committees for enabling the delegates who are going to attend the National Convention to enjoy wholesome foods at fair prices and good health, he stressed.

The government has spent a huge sum of funds on building the meeting halls for the delegates, hostels, sports grounds and gymnasiums, welfare and entertainment facilities together with the splendid National Convention Hall.

He said that as arrangements have already been made for convening the National Convention, he met with members of the National Convention Convening Commission and officials of the construction committees to fulfill the requirements. Therefore, the National Convention Convening Commission is to present its requirements if any, he disclosed.

Next, Chairman of National Convention Convening Commission Secretary-2 of the State Peace and Development Council Lt-Gen Thein Sein reported on arrangements made by the NCCC for successful holding of the National Convention, followed by a general round of discussions.

After that, ministers, the Yangon Mayor and deputy ministers from the construction committees reported on renovation of the meeting halls including the Pyidaungsu Hall, arrangements for power supply, greening tasks, decoration of lamp-posts, extension of buildings, sports and welfare facilities for the delegates, work being carried out for communication and entertainment.

Those present gave supplementary reports.

The meeting ended with the concluding remarks by the Prime Minister.

After the meeting, the Prime Minister inspected decoration of the Pyidaungsu

Hall, recreation hall for the delegates, hostels, mess halls, welfare shops, photo studio, beauty parlour, optical shop, communication centre, gymnasium, discussion rooms and hospital and left the Nyaungnapinkwin in the evening.

Significant aid increase needed to meet India's MDGs

WASHINGTON, 26 April—Though India's recent growth rate has been universally admired, without more international assistance and for longer periods, the country will be unable to reach most Millennium Development Goals, India's Finance Secretary D C Gupta said Sunday. "The South Asia region, and particularly the countries in our constituency (the Indian Executive Director also represents Sri Lanka, Bangladesh and Bhutan) are on track to meet the goal of income poverty," Gupta told the Development Committee of the World Bank and International Monetary Fund.

"But in various social indicators, like universal primary education, infant and maternal mortality, and gender gap, will require a step-up in efforts.

"It is, therefore, necessary at this juncture for the international community to take stock of the situation in terms of achievements and shortfalls, and of the performance of the three parties to the Monterrey Compact — developing countries, developed countries and the international financial institutions," Gupta said.

The Global Monitoring Report, he said, "rightly highlights the wholly inadequate levels of global flows of Official Development Assistance (ODA) as a critical constraint that impedes performance in achieving the Millennium Development Goals." Most conservative estimates, he pointed out, are that as much as an incremental 30 billion US dollars in ODA can be effectively utilized by developing countries annually even today, "and far more, say 50 billion US dollars, as capacity develops."

He pointed out that the current level of ODA as a percentage of Gross National Income of the developed countries is at a much lower level than what was prevailing in the early 1990s, the reference point for the MDGs.

Moreover, said Gupta, at a closer look, global statistics of ODA flows reveals that, lately, even the meager increases in ODA flows have been accounted for almost wholly by special-purpose allocations. — MNA/PTI

Hukaung Valley Tiger Reserve, a tiger habitat

Aung Din (Forestry)

According to the scientific research, there are eight species of tiger in the world, the largest cat species native to Asia. But, now there remain only five species of tiger — South China tiger, Siberian tiger (a) Amur tiger, Sumatran tiger, Indo-China tiger and Bengal tiger. The species of Bali tiger, Caspian tiger and Javan tiger are no longer in existence.

According to the announcement issued by the World Wildlife Fund (WWF) on 16 March 2004, the Bali tiger species was extinct in the 1940s; Caspian tiger species, in the 1970s; and Javan tiger species, in the 1980s.

The number of South China species is estimated to be between 20 and 30; Siberian species (a) Amur species, 368 and 406; Sumatran species, 400 and 500; Indo-chinese species, 1,220 and 1,785; and Bengal species, 3,176 and 4,556, totalling between 5,184 and 7,277 in the world. The number of tigers is decreasing.

Among the five tiger species, Indo-China and Bengal species are found in Myanmar. Tigers inhabit naturally in 14 nations — Bangladesh, Bhutan, China, India, Nepal, Laos, Cambodia, Korea, Russia, Thailand, Malaysia, Vietnam, Indonesia and Myanmar. According to the previous surveys, except India, Myanmar is a place where tigers inhabit most in Asia. Conservationists had predicted that there were some 3,000 tigers around 1980 and 600 to 1,000 around 1996 in Asia. Based on the surveys, the Forest Department issued an estimated number of tigers at 178 to 495 at Tigers' Year Conference held in 1998. According to the forest rangers, those who took forest animal census, hunters and researchers, tigers are found every part of Myanmar except the nation's northernmost very high region.

In the past, a large number of tigers could be seen in the forests and jungles. But, the number has decreased to a certain degree, and now tigers have gone hiding only in the places which is safe and far away from people. Some of the reasons are that the areas to serve as habitat for tigers is dwindling and animals for their food become rare owing to increasing utilization of land for growing population of people. Another cause is that the rate of killing tigers exceeds that of tiger births. And another one is that there is still ineffectiveness in enforcing ban on hunting tigers. And yet another fact is that the hunting of tigers on a commercial scale to satisfy the growing demand for tiger products to be used as ingredients for some Asian nations' traditional medicines.

The Forest Department under the Ministry of Forestry, in cooperation with the Wildlife Conservation Society (WCS), took a tiger census from December 1998 until April 2002, as part of the initial plan to protect tiger species which are on the brink of extinction. Under the plan, experts and service personnel of the Forest Department carried out a survey of tiger population in 18 regions — Alaungdaw Kathapha National Gardens, Htamanthi wildlife sanctuary, Thaungdwut forest reserve, Maha Myaing forest reserve, Nankhamu forest reserve, Mt. Saramayti Nanthaleik forest reserve, Lwgyi-Paunglaung watershed region, Panlaung and Pyadalin wildlife sanctuary, Bago Yoma mountain range, Rakhine Yoma mountain range elephant sanctuary, Hukaung valley region, Sumprabum region, Paletwa and Kalatdan region, Khaunglanphu region, Momeik Mabein region, Myinmo Letkhat hilly region, Taninthayi Thayetchaungphyia region and Phonkanrazi wildlife sanctuary.

In taking a tiger census, the groups carried out survey of the tigers and conditions on the tigers' prey with the use of infra-red-triggered camera traps, made inquiries to local people about tigers, studied traces of tigers and marks, and put the conditions of the forests on record. The survey has revealed over 50 tigers are left in Hukaung valley region and Htamanthi wildlife sanctuary and over 50 in Taninthayi Thayetchaungphyia region. And it also found out that in Myanmar there are still many tiger habitats where tigers can inhabit in Southeast region. In some of the survey regions, there were no snapped pictures of the tigers while making the surveys, but the officials still get information about local tigers. The Forest Department will have to continue to carry out tiger survey works. According to the reports of the service personnel of the department, there are some tigers in Shan Yoma mountain range and southern part of Kachin State where tiger survey cannot be carried out yet. Based on the facts about the tiger surveys, pictures snapped by the camera traps and other measures, the number of tigers in Myanmar is expected to be around 150 only. If there is no effective protection in time, tigers will be extinct in Myanmar soon.

Therefore, based on the facts gained from the 3-year-and-six-month survey, the Forest Department is implementing the National Tiger Action Plan. In an effort to implement a short-term plan, the department is taking systematic and thorough measures — designating two tiger habitats, namely, Hukaung valley region and Taninthayi region as tiger sanctuaries, taking measures to give effective protection for the existing tigers and their prey animals reducing the selling and buying or killing of such tiger prey as barking deer (muntjac), Hsat (sambur) and wild ox, finding out poaching tigers and smuggling tiger products, conducting courses for its service personnel in connection with providing protection for tigers, banning trade of tiger organs and tiger products, enacting additional laws similar to international laws and enforcing existing rules and regulations on protection of tigers, organizing courses and giving educative tasks for ensuring participation of the people for protection of tigers, and conserving forests of tiger habitats.

In implementing a long-term plan, the department is giving more educative talks on protection of tigers to the entire people, speeding up organizing measures for ensuring more participation of local people in the plan, tightening controls and forest rules and regulations in order not to decrease the area of tiger habitats but further protecting tigers, designating tiger habitats as forest reserves, and cooperating with international community especially neighbouring countries.

Considering all the survey results, the Forest Department is making arrangements for establishing Myanmar's first tiger reserve at Hukaung valley region where a large number of tigers inhabit.

China's civil servants urged to study admin licensing law

HANGZHOU, 26 April — More than 220,000 civil servants, including 1,000 officials at provincial and city levels, in east China's Zhejiang Province attended an examination Saturday on the Law of Administrative Licensing.

Implementation of the Law on Administrative Licensing will have great impact on the work of government, and systematic study on the law by civil servants in the province will lay a solid foundation for building a government ruled by law, said Chen Jiayuan, vice-governor of Zhejiang who took part in the examination.

In accordance with the requirements of the State Council, China's top governing body, all civil servants across the country must be trained at special training courses on the law before the end of June this year.

Thus far, all provinces, autonomous regions, municipalities and central government departments have worked out concrete plans for the study of the law. Southwest China's Yunnan Province has trained 15,000 civil servants and east China's Anhui Province has held lectures on the law, attracting over 1,000 civil servants.

Carbon dioxide kills 4 miners in Guangdong Province

GUANGZHOU, 26 April — Power cut stopped the running of the ventilation system of a coal mine in south China's Guangdong Province Saturday, leaving four miners choked to death due to the mass of carbon dioxide.

According to the source with the municipal administration of coal mine safety supervision of Shaoguan City, the power supply system of Dongnan colliery, located in Renhua county, was hit by thunderstorm at 5:45 am Saturday, leading to a power cut in the coal mine.

This immediately broke down the ventilation system of the colliery, where seven miners were working at that time, and the continuously massed carbon dioxide poisoned four to death, said the source.

Leading officials of the local government rushed to the colliery and organized working teams, investigating cause of the accident and dealing with the arising problems. Though the breaking down of ventilation system by thunderstorm was the direct cause of the tragedy, the four miners were killed also because their lack of work safety awareness, said the source.

Meanwhile, there were problems with the safety guarantee measures of the colliery. There was neither supervision system over the coal mine nor standby power supply, the source said.

Further investigation was under way.

Sherlock Holmes ace in shoelace death mystery

LONDON, 26 April — Mystery surrounds the death of a leading Sherlock Holmes expert who was found in his bed garrotted with a shoelace and surrounded by cuddly toys.

Westminster Coroner's Court heard that Richard Lancelotti Green, 50, who had devoted his life to studying Sir Arthur Conan Doyle's fictional detective, had suffered a "very unusual death".

A wooden spoon had been used to tighten the shoelace around his neck.

The inquest on Friday heard that Green, ex-chairman of the Sherlock Holmes Society of London, had become paranoid in the days before his death, telling friends that his home was bugged, newspapers reported.

Coroner Paul Knapman said there was insufficient evidence to rule whether Green's death on 27 March was murder, suicide or a mistake.

With his pipe, deerstalker hat and razor-sharp intuition, Holmes became a household favourite following his debut in Conan Doyle's 1887 novel A Study in Scarlet.

Over the next 40 years, he appeared in 60 novels and short stories, solving dozens of baffling crimes.

The inquest heard talk of "The Curse of Conan Doyle". Since his death in 1930, several people with links to his work have died suddenly.

Kenya to foster stronger ties with China

NAIROBI, 26 April — Kenyan Vice-President Moody Awori said here Saturday that his country will foster stronger ties with China.

"We are all aware of the looming poverty levels in Africa and its reduction remains the primary focus of each country. Measures to reduce this must be in support of such undertaking as the Chinese Government is doing," he said while addressing the 3rd Conference of China's Tiens Africa and Middle East Distributors.

Kenya needs to focus on investing in people by providing basic nutrition, education, health, and protection against increased vulnerability, he said. "Your (China's) support in this direction is therefore critical and the government fully supports your initiatives in supplementing healthcare services (in Kenya)."

Awori said that "as the country (Kenya) strives to undertake the big task of implementing the economic recovery strategy for wealth and employment creation, we need to bear in mind that no single nation can progress without the support of other nations. We must partner and diffuse our technological innovations to others".

China to ensure permanent water supply to Tarim River

URUMQI, 26 April — Chinese water conservancy experts are working to divert water through new channels to the lower reaches of the Tarim River to ensure the section has water permanently.

The new plan is to divert water from Lake Bosten, through Qiwenkuoer River and Laota River, two old river courses of Tarim River, to the current river course in the lower reaches. With the materialization of the plan, the lower reaches of the Tarim River could have a stable supply of 350 million cubic metres of water annually as of 2007.

China has diverted water from Lake Bosten directly to the river in dry seasons since April 2000 as a temporary measure. But because of high sand content and excessive branches of the Tarim River, a large quantity of water was squandered during the diversion procedure.

"Lake Bosten is likely to undergo years of normal or dry weather in the years ahead, thus new channels for water injection needs to be considered," said Hu Wenkang, spokesman for the autonomous regional ecological geography institution.

The 1,321-kilometre-long Tarim River is the longest inland river in China's western Xinjiang Uygur Autonomous Region. Running west to east along the northern edge of the Taklimakan Desert, China's largest desert, the river valley is home to 120,000 local residents and covers some 86,670 hectares of farmland.

Because of the deteriorating ecological environment, local population increase, excessive reclamation and overuse of water, the 320-kilometre section of the lower reaches of the Tarim River dried up in 1972.

To improve the eco-environment in the river valley, the Chinese Government in 2001 earmarked 10.7 billion yuan (about 1.3 billion US dollars) to launch a Tarim River comprehensive management project, in which advanced irrigation technologies are introduced to farmers living at the river's upper and middle reaches in a bid to reduce water consumption on agriculture.

Oman in talks with Shell, Total to renew oil concession

ABU DHABI, 26 April — Oman's Ministry of Oil and Gas is negotiating with Petroleum Development Oman (PDO) partners Shell, Total and Partex to renew their concession agreement, the English daily Khaleej Times reported Saturday.

An agreement has been reached in principle to sign a new deal to renew the 75-year concession to conduct operations in Oman and which expires in 2012, pending the completion of the current discussions on details, according to the Middle East Economic Survey (MEES) reports in its Monday edition.

The government holds a 60-per-cent stake in the firm, of which Shell holds 34 per cent, Total 2 per cent and Oman's Partex Corporation 2 per cent.

"The fact that there is an agreement in principle on renewing the concession puts an end to speculation that the Oman Government might be seeking another major international oil company as a partner in place of Shell because of the decline in PDOs production in recent years," the industry newsletter says, quoting authoritative sources.

"The two sides are also keen to renew the concession ahead of the 2012 expiry date," it adds. The concession was signed in 1937.

PDO has allocated two billion US dollars for new technology over the next five years in an effort to boost oil production by 50,000 barrels per day (BPD).

PDO, which produces almost 90 per cent of Oman's total crude output, has reported its output fell to 703,000 bpd in 2003 from 771,000 bpd in 2002 and blamed ageing oilfields. Further 5 per cent drop is expected in 2004.

Oman, a non-OPEC crude producer with current output of around 710,000 barrels per day (BPD), has been battling to halt a drop in daily output.

Oman also has proven gas reserves of around 0.6226 trillion cubic metres, with potential reserves more than doubling that figure.

China calls for more financial aid to poor countries

WASHINGTON, 26 April — Chinese Vice-Minister of Finance Li Yong said on Sunday that developing countries' efforts in deepening the reforms in key areas could not be sustained unless there is adequate financial support.

In a written statement to the 69th Development Committee Meeting of the World Bank and the International Monetary Fund (IMF), he noted that the global economy has been recovering at a rapid pace since last autumn's IMF meeting and the developing countries have been further deepening their structural adjustments. These developments have created a favourable condition for global agenda of poverty reduction.

However, he said that the structural reforms by developing countries should be supported by adequate aid from developed nations. This is key to achieving Millennium Development Goals (MDGs) set by the United Nations at the beginning of the new century.

Therefore, sufficient aid should be provided for the countries which have committed to implement necessary reforms and are capable to use aid effectively, Li said.

He also said that China appreciated the progress of heavily indebted poor countries (HIPC) in conducting necessary structural reforms and welcomed the efforts by the international community to reduce the debt burden of HIPC countries.

Meanwhile, he stressed that there is still a long way to go before the debt burden of the least developed countries could be completely relieved.

The Chinese vice-minister said that development in the poor countries required increased investment in infrastructure and continued external financial support.

WTO head positive on Doha round trade talks

WASHINGTON, 26 April — The head of the World Trade Organization, Supachai Panitchpakdi, said on Saturday he saw positive signs on the restarting of the Doha Round of world trade talks.

"I do see good signs but some of the commitments that have been made have yet to be translated into substance," Supachai told reporters on the sidelines of the IMF/World Bank spring meeting.

Asked about a meeting of trade representatives from around the world in London next week that would try to give a booster shot to talks on revitalizing the Doha Round, he said: "The signs are positive. People are getting together." Agricultural trade is the main potential stumbling block in the stalled talks, he said.

Thailand imposes stringent measures for clean markets

BANGKOK, 26 April — The Ministry of Public Health of Thailand requires fresh markets all over the country to maintain food safety during the hot summer months to prevent infectious diseases like cholera.

Speaking after inspecting the Chokchai 4 Market on Saturday, Public Health Minister Sudarat Keyuraphan said the market would be certified in three to four months after it improves market cleanliness and hygiene in some areas to meet the requirement of the ministry, the Thai News Agency reported Saturday.

Suradat said the ministry enforces stringent measures to reduce any risk of food contamination and protect people from illnesses coming with the hot summer.

She added that the regulations ban the use of hazardous chemical substances like Borax, Formalin, Sodium Hypochlorite, Beta-Agonist, and pesticides.

Offenders will face 20,000-baht (513-US-dollar) fine and two months in prison.

The ministry also requires fresh markets cleaning once a week during summer and once a month at other seasons. — MNA/Xinhua

Indonesian landslide kills 44, more still trapped

PADANG, 26 April — At least 44 people were killed and five others were trapped after a landslide enveloped a bus and nearly swept it off a cliff in Indonesia's Sumatra Island, a police officer said on Saturday.

The landslide occurred in Pasaman regency West Sumatra, about 625 miles from Jakarta, as the bus was heading to Medan, the capital of North Sumatra.

"The number of casualties is 44 people. Another 13 survived and are being treated in hospitals and five were trapped," said M Zaini, Pasaman police chief said.

He did not expect those trapped to survive.

The landslide was triggered by heavy monsoon rains in an area that had been cleared of forest cover, a major problem in Sumatra where deforestation has been blamed for many deadly landslips.

The police chief said the landslide crashed down on the bus on a tight and twisty section of road with a cliff on one side. He said the bus was nearly swept over the side, making rescue efforts dangerous. About 330 feet of road had been covered by the debris and heavy machinery had arrived to help the rescue effort, he added. — MNA/Reuters

Bangkok suffers as drought grips country

BANGKOK, 26 April — Thailand's capital city is fast falling prey to the devastating drought that is sweeping across the country, with residents of its suburbs already complaining of severe water shortages.

Siriwattana Chuenwiset, assistant director of Minburi District on the outskirts of Bangkok, was quoted by the Thai News Agency as saying Sunday that the district has seen a barrage of complaints relating to water shortages this year.

Vehicles are now plying the streets of the district offering free water, with residents queuing outside their houses with receptacles to store it in.

Siriwattana said that the district's farmers are also suffering from the drought conditions, with water levels in local canals at record lows.

Striker Scotland earns Dundee Utd 3-3 draw with Rangers

GLASGOW, 26 April—Trinidad and Tobago striker Jason Scotland scored twice in the second half to earn Dundee United a 3-3 draw in a pulsating Scottish Premier League match with Rangers at Tannadice on Saturday.

Rangers have already lost the title to champions Celtic, who they trail by 15 points with four games to play, and could not even avenge their 2-0 defeat at United on February 29.

Rangers forward Steven Thompson had struck on six minutes and then added a 14th minute penalty after the visitors' former striker Billy Dodds had put United ahead in the first minute.

Substitute Hamed Namouchi grabbed a third for Rangers on the stroke of halftime before forward Scotland launched United's comeback from close range just ahead of the hour mark.

Rangers seemed to have held out for a 3-2 win but Scotland fired home in injury time to earn his side a merited point.

Bottom side Partick Thistle lost 1-0 at home to Dundee and are relegated, while their rivals for the drop Kilmarnock beat Hibernian 2-0 to make absolutely sure of staying up. —MNA/Reuters

Lyon crush Rennes to move clear of beaten Monaco

PARIS, 26 April—Olympique Lyon moved four points clear at the top of Ligue 1 on Saturday as they crushed 10-man Stade Rennes 3-0 while Monaco slumped to a 1-0 defeat to Nantes.

Lyon now have 69 points from 33 matches with five games left while Champions League semifinalists Monaco could be overtaken in second place by Paris St. Germain who play on Sunday.

Lyon struggled until the dismissal of defender Gregory Bouillon on 42 minutes gave them the upper hand after the break.

Brazil's Juninho Pernambucano, Ghana's Michael Essien and French international Peguy Luyindula all scored for Lyon.

A swift counter-attack by Marama Vahirua sank Monaco, who looked tired and uninspired after their emphatic 3-1 victory against Chelsea in the Champions League on Tuesday.

"We were far from our best physically but it's not an excuse," said coach Didier Deschamps.

"It's always tricky to play after a Champions League match, especially as Nantes were well organized," he added.

Monaco have struggled at home in recent weeks and Deschamps made it clear they were in a tricky situation.

"We have let points go at home and our direct opponents took advantage of it," he said.

The principality team have been first or second since the start of the season but could slump to third if Paris St. Germain beat Olympique Marseille in their home game on Sunday.

"We have shown against Real Madrid or Chelsea that we could fight to the bitter end. That's what we're going to do in Ligue 1 too," said defender Sebastien Squillaci.

Lyon seemed somewhat restrained in the first half but were more enthusiastic once Rennes found themselves a man down.

Juninho's penalty in the 57th minute was just reward after Rennes' Cyril Jeunechamp handled the ball inside the box.

Essien's goal six minutes later was a relief for the defending champions, who also won the title in 2002, as they had hit the woodwork three times just before his strike. Luyindula sealed victory in the 71st with his 15th goal of the season, although he is a long way behind AJ Auxerre's Djibril Cisse in the goalscoring charts.

Cisse scored the winner with a close range header as Auxerre beat Sochaux 2-1 to move on to 22 league goals this season.

In the relegation clash between the bottom two in Ligue 1 Montpellier lost 3-0 at home to basement club Le Mans, who are now a point behind them and five points from the safety zone.

Deportivo stay fourth after 1-1 draw at Malaga

MADRID, 26 April—Champions League semifinalists Deportivo Coruna remained fourth in the Primera Liga after they were held to a 1-1 draw at Malaga on Saturday.

Depor looked in control after midfielder Victor put them ahead with a well-struck shot midway through the first half but they eased up too quickly and Malaga equalized before the break when substitute Manuel Canabal stabbed in from close range.

The result left Deportivo a point behind Barcelona, who play arch-rivals Real Madrid at the Bernabeu on Sunday. Valencia are level with Real on 70 points, but lead the table with a better head-to-head record. Barca follow on 63 and Depor have 62.

Relegation-threatened Espanyol got out of the drop zone with a priceless 3-1 win at home to Atletico Madrid thanks to a late double from substitute striker Claudiu Raducanu.

Man United's title hopes ended by Murphy strike

LONDON, 26 April — Manchester United's last hopes of retaining the Premier League title ended when Danny Murphy converted a penalty to give Liverpool a 1-0 victory at Old Trafford on Saturday.

With Arsenal hoping to clinch the title on Sunday when they play Tottenham Hotspur, Saturday's focus was the battle for European football and Premier League survival.

Fourth-placed Liverpool edged closer to a place in the Champions League qualifiers, while Leicester City's hopes of staying up suffered a body blow when Paul Dickov had a late penalty saved by England keeper David James in their 1-1 draw with Manchester City.

United remained third on 71 points with three games left as they chase Chelsea (72) and Arsenal (81).

Their faint hopes of a ninth title in 12 seasons ended midway through the second half when a rash challenge by defender Gary Neville brought down Liverpool skipper Steven Gerrard and Murphy converted the spot kick. It was the third time in four seasons the midfielder has scored the winning goal at Old Trafford.

Arsenal can secure their 13th championship on Sunday if they beat Spurs and Chelsea fail to win at Newcastle United in an earlier kick-off.

United have now handed the initiative to Chelsea in the race for second place and a guaranteed place in next season's Champions League group stage. The hosts badly missed Dutch striker Ruud van Nistelrooy, who has been struggling with injury, and were unlucky when a Ryan Giggs effort hit the woodwork.

For Alex Ferguson's side, who face First Division Millwall in next month's FA Cup final, it was the eighth league defeat of a frustrating season.

Victory kept Liverpool on course to finish fourth with 53 points although Newcastle, three points behind, have a game in hand in addition to Sunday's clash with Chelsea at St. James' Park.

Ten-man Aston Villa also stayed in the hunt for a qualifying slot in the money-spinning Champions League by rallying to win 2-1 at Middlesbrough. Peter Crouch scored a late winner after a 57th-minute red card for Villa's Peruvian midfielder Nolberto Solano.

Porto crowned Portuguese champions for 19th time

LISBON, 26 April—Porto were crowned Portuguese champion for the 19th time without kicking a ball on Saturday after second-placed Sporting's 1-0 defeat at Uniao Leiria ended their title challenge with two games left.

Champions League semifinalists Porto have an unsailable six-point lead since they have a better head-to-head record over Sporting and Benfica who can only now equal them on points.

Porto fans chanting "champions, champions" gathered at the hotel where the players were resting ahead of Sunday's match to rejoice after a second successive title. Porto host Alverca at the Estadio do Dragao where the celebrations will continue.

Middle of the table Uniao Leiria ended Sporting's title hopes when they scored the winning goal after 49 minutes through midfielder Joaquim Alhandra after a goalmouth scramble.

Third-placed Benfica beat relegated bottom club Estrela Amadora 3-1 as striker Nuno Gomes opened the scoring with a penalty after 13 minutes.

Croatian striker Tomislav Sokota was left unmarked inside the box and fired Benfica into a 2-0 halftime lead.

David Dias scored a consolation goal for Estrela after 86 minutes before defender Miguel Monteyro completed the rout for Benfica four minutes later. —MNA/Reuters

Struggling Espanyol gain priceless 3-1 win over Atletico

MADRID, 26 April—Relegation-threatened Espanyol claimed a priceless 3-1 win at home to Atletico Madrid to move out of the Primera Liga relegation zone on Saturday.

The victory left the Catalans a point above Real Mallorca, although the islanders could reclaim their position if they beat fellow strugglers Valladolid on Sunday.

Brazilian midfielder Fredson broke the deadlock in what had been an even match by outjumping the Atletico defence to power in a header from Ivan de la Pena's perfectly struck corner in the 64th minute.
