For accelerated development of industrial zones based on government's assistance

While striving for the emergence of a peaceful, modern and developed nation, the government is placing emphasis on development of agriculture as the base and all-round development of other sectors of the economy as well.

In doing so, significant progress has been made in the industrial sector in accord with the objectives. There are about 100,000 private factories and workshops in the industrial sector and the number is greater than that of the State-owned and the cooperative-owned ones. Even in the private industries, the medium and small-scale factories are in the majority.

The government is taking necessary measures for qualitative development of those small-scale and medium-scale factories and workshops.

In accord with the guidance of Head of State Senior General Than Shwe, which calls for accelerated development of industrial sector of the State beginning this year, the Industrial Development Committee and the Committees at different levels in collaboration with the relevant ministries and entrepreneurs have been making constant field trips right down to grassroots level for industrial development. The Industrial Development Meeting No 5/2004 was held at the training hall of the Ministry of Industry-1 on Kaba Aye Pagoda Road on 19 November 2004 with an address by Chairman of Industrial Development Committee Prime Minister Lt-Gen Soe Win.

In his address, the IDC Chairman said that encouragement will have to be given to the improvement of the private industrial sector to an extent that they can produce marketable products on a greater scale. In this process, State-owned industries are to take the lead.

Clusters of private industries have emerged across the nation and there are over 8,300 factories and workshops in the industrial zones. The industrial growth can be realized through extended research and development works. With research works for production of marketable products, pragmatic approaches are to be taken to encourage private industries.

Encouragement is being given to the establishment of modern foundries in industrial zones for production of farming implements, buses and trucks. It is important to supply raw materials to them so that they can manufacture marketable products. It is also needed to consider a pool of technocrats and capital investment. Therefore, private industrialists are to make integrated and well-coordinated efforts for accelerated development of industrial zones based on the assistance provided by the government.

At least 31 Iraqi policemen kidnapped

KARBALA, 21 Nov—Police in Karbala have said that at least 31 policemen have been kidnapped in western Iraq while returning from training in Jordan.

A Karbala police spokesman, who spoke under condition of anonymity on Wednesday, said that up to 65 police officers were ambushed on Sunday in the town of Rutba near the Jordanian border.

"There was an attack on a hotel occupied by policemen coming back from training in Jordan," he said.

The spokesman cited a Karbala policeman who returned from Rutba as saying that an armed group had kidnapped some of the policemen, many of whom were from Diyala Province, north of Baghdad.

The police officer told him that 20 armed men stormed the hotel rooms where the police were staying, covering the captives' heads with black bags and tying their hands before dragging them away.

The armed men took mobile phones, cameras and documents from the unarmed policemen, the Karbala officer said.

The officer himself said he was beaten but not kidnapped by the armed men.

Iraqi police have been criticized for aiding the US-backed government. A Jordanian official at the Jordan International Police Training Centre, the US-run desert camp training Iraqi police cadets, said the latest batch of 1440 Iraqi policemen concluded training in November.

The former foreign minister added Fini's work on the European Union's recently signed Constitutional Treaty had been marked "not only by policy proposals but also concrete ideas" to improve it.

At least 1,217 US troops killed since beginning of Iraq war

WASHINGTON, 19 Nov—As of Friday, 19 Nov, 2004, at least 1,217 members of the US military have died since the beginning of the Iraq war in March 2003, according to an Associated Press count. At least 946 died as a result of hostile action, the Defence Department said. The figures include three military civilians.

The British military has reported 73 deaths; Italy, 19; Poland, 13; Spain, 11; Ukraine, nine; Bulgaria, seven; Slovakia, three; Estonia, Thailand and the Netherlands, two each; and Denmark, El Salvador, Hungary and Latvia have reported one death each.

Six NATO allies refuse to send instructors to Iraq

BAGHDAD, 19 Nov—At least six NATO allies are refusing to send military instructors to help the United States train Iraqi officers, another impediment in the Bush administration's drive for support for its effort to pacify Iraq.

The six nations — Germany, France, Belgium, Spain, Luxembourg and Greece — had refused to contribute troops to the US-led coalition that overthrew President Saddam Hussein and to the post-war campaign against guerillas.

The Bush administration was hoping to forge a consensus on post-war peacemaking. The project to train Iraqi officers will not involve combat duties and is part of a broader security programme.

A State Department official close to the dispute said today that all 26 NATO allies voted on Wednesday at alliance headquarters in Brussels for the training programme and agreed to help fund it.

At least six held out from playing any active role and refused to send officers to NATO staging areas in Norfolk, Virginia, and Mons, Belgium.

An official said that all NATO allies had approved the plan by consensus and were committed to paying a share of the costs. State Department's deputy spokesman Adam Ereli said of the allies who opted out of direct help: "It's a decision of the individual countries that does not undermine the importance or value of the overall mission."—Internet

US military 'still failing to protect journalists in Iraq'

BAGHDAD, 19 Nov—Independent journalists operating in Iraq face arrest and even torture at the hands of the US military and the authorities are failing to act on promises to do more to protect them, news organisations have warned.

Eason Jordan, chief news executive at CNN, said there had been only a "limited amount of progress", despite repeated meetings between news organisations and the US authorities.

"Actions speak louder than words. The reality is that at least 10 journalists have been killed by the US military, and according to reports I believe to be true journalists have been arrested and tortured by US forces," Mr Jordan told an audience of news executives at the News Xchange conference in Portugal.

Mr Jordan highlighted the case of al-Arabiya journalist Abdel Kader al-Saadi, who was arrested in Fallujah last week by US forces and remains in their custody even though no reason has yet been given for his detention.

"These actions and the fact that no one has been reprimanded would indicate that no one is taking responsibility. We hear good words but not the actions to back them up," he added.

David Schlesinger, global managing editor for Reuters, said there was no indication the US government's own recommendations on journalists' safety had been understood or carried out by American military commanders in Iraq, or that there had been any progress.

Three Reuters cameramen—Taras Protsyuk, Dhia Najem and Mazen Dana—have been killed while working in Iraq.

Last Australian aid agency in Iraq pulls out

SYDNEY, 19 Nov — The last remaining Australian aid agency in Iraq, World Vision, is pulling out of the country after the murders of its own head of operations and CARE Australia aid worker Margaret Hassan.

World's Vision's Iraqi head of operations Mohammed Hushiar was shot dead by unknown gunmen in Mosul on 29 September and Irish-born Iraqi citizen Margaret Hassan, 59, is believed to have been murdered earlier this week.

World Vision Australia said the agency had been operating in Iraq for the past 18 months and had assisted nearly 600,000 people by improving schools, hospitals, health clinics, and youth sporting centres.

"It's work that now has to be handed back to the local ministry of health and the local government bodies there," World Vision Australia head Tim

Costello said.

"Any dollars that we still have will go back to institutional donors, so it's sad that it's unfinished work."

But he added: "Your first priority is always your own staff and it has just become intolerable and too dangerous."

The group said its decision to leave was made before the apparent murder of Hassan.

World Vision Australia's director of emergency relief Geoff Shepherd said the agency's programmes were due for completion in mid-2005, and most projects were already nearing their end.

10th ASEAN Summit to bolster int'l regional cooperation

HANOI, 19 Nov — The upcoming 10th ASEAN Summit and relevant meetings will adopt documents that are to contribute to the establishment of the ASEAN community by 2020, and boost the block's ties with its partners, said a Vietnamese Foreign Ministry spokesman here on Thursday.

At the summit slated for 29 November to 30 November in Laos, leaders of the 10 members of the Association of South-East Asian Nations (ASEAN) are expected to approve and sign the Vientiane Action Programme, a frame agreement on ASEAN's 11 priority industries, and action plans on realizing ASEAN security and socio-culture communities, spokesman Le Dung said at a Press briefing.

The six-year Vientiane Action Programme is expected to make contribution to the establishment of the ASEAN community by 2020 on the three pillars, namely security community, economic community and socio-culture community, and narrow development gaps among members, especially the least developed countries, Dung said. According to him, ASEAN will also sign joint statements with China, Japan, South Korea, Australia and New Zealand during the meetings. — MNA/Xinhua

Jordan's car sales to lose millions due to Iraq's import ban

AMMAN, 19 Nov—An recent Iraqi decision to ban the import of cars manufactured before 2000 would cause huge loss to Jordan's export market, local dealers complained Friday in a statement.

Hassan Beituni, President of Jordan's Free Zones Investors Association, said in the statement that there were about 100,000 cars in local market to be sold to Iraq.

If these cars were stocked in Jordan, the local dealers would be forced to sell them as replacement parts at prices lower than the original value by at least 80 percent, he added.

Beituni called on the Jordanian government to persuade the Iraqi authorities to provide a period of six months, during which the Jordanian businessmen could handle the huge number of cars imported to Jordan for exporting to Iraq.

Jordan's in-transit car deals since the US-led war on Iraq were estimated at 5,000 cars a month with a total value of 25 million US dollars, according to the statement. — Internet

Turkish Red Crescent to send humanitarian aid to Fallujah

Omer Tashi, director general of the organization, said that 20-25 trucks of emergency food, medicine and health materials would be distributed to around 300,000 people in Fallujah.

US troops clash with heavily armed guerillas in Ramadi

RAMADI, 19 Nov— US troops clashed with heavily armed guerillas in the western Iraqi city of Ramadi on Thursday, local residents said.

At the US Marine headquarters in nearby Fallujah, which is responsible for Ramadi, a spokesman said he had no details of new fighting there, a day after clashes in the city left at least nine Iraqis dead and 15 wounded.

Residents said it appeared that US armoured units had entered parts of eastern and central Ramadi on Thursday to confront guerillas who opened fire on them with mortars, rocket-propelled grenades and machineguns. The previous day, large groups of guerillas had taken to the streets of the city.

US aircraft bombed an industrial area in the east of Ramadi on Wednesday. US-led forces launched a full-scale ground offensive in Fallujah 10 days ago against foreign Islamists and Saddam Hussein loyalists they say are entrenched there.

Ramadi, capital of the mainly Sunni Muslim desert province of Anbar, is another place where resentment against the US presence in Iraq runs high.

Unlike Fallujah, which US troops had not entered for six months before last week, they come under frequent attack from guerillas inside Ramadi and clashes are common. — MNA/Reuters

Car bomb hits US convoy on airport road in Baghdad

BAGHDAD, 19 Nov — A car bomb exploded Wednesday into a US convoy, targeting a four-wheel drive vehicle on the main road leading to Baghdad airport, witnesses said. "Loud explosion occurred at about 9.00 am (0600 GMT) on the airport road, damaging one four-wheel drive vehicle," a witness told Xinhua at the scene. The witness also said he saw two wounded men pulled out from the damaged four-wheel drive vehicle, usually used by personnel of foreign security companies in Iraq.

US military troops cordoned off the area and helicopters flew overhead. The US military had no immediate comment on the attack. The highway leading to Baghdad's international airport is considered one of the country's most dangerous roads. US military convoys are commonly targeted by roadside bombs and car bombs. — MNA/Xinhua

Jordan trains Iraqi electrical engineers

AMMAN, 19 Nov — Jordan's National Electric Power Company will start training some 40 Iraqi electrical engineers, the Jordan Times newspaper reported Wednesday.

The trainees, who are scheduled to come in three groups, will spend several weeks on the training courses in Jordan.

"The courses are aimed at training Iraqi engineers on the latest electric control and operation methods as well as helping them rebuild their power infrastructure and networks that were destroyed after the war," said the report. The company, in collaboration with various international institutions, has already trained more than 80 Iraqi officials in the energy sector since the start of the US-led war on Iraq in March last year. It expects to train a total of some 200 Iraqi officials by the end of 2004 and early 2005. — MNA/Xinhua

Roadside bomb kills four Iraqis in Baiji

BAIJI, 19 Nov— Four Iraqis were killed on Thursday when a roadside bomb destroyed a civilian car in the northern oil refining town of Baiji, police said. Lieutenant Colonel Kifah Mohammed told Reuters two women, a man and a child were killed. He had no further details.

The city, in the restive Sunni Muslim region north of Baghdad, has seen a sharp increase in violence over the past week. Fifteen Iraqis died there on Wednesday when a suicide bomber rammed his car into a US patrol and troops opened fire.

Clashes between US-led troops and guerillas later erupted in several parts of Baiji prompting troops to seal off the oil refinery in the north of the city to protect it from attack. In Kirkuk, an ethnically mixed oil producing city 60 miles northeast of Baiji, a roadside bomb that appeared to target a US military convoy killed two Iraqi civilians.

Police in Kirkuk said the blast damaged several vehicles.

Violence has flared in the north in the 10 days since US-led forces attacked Fallujah, another Sunni Arab bastion west of the capital, where Islamist and other anti-American guerillas had established control.

US troops say they now control Fallujah after killing hundreds of guerillas, although fighting has continued in isolated parts of the city. — MNA/Reuters

Polish-led multinational division in Iraq faces disintegration

WARSAW, 19 Nov — A Polish-led multinational division in charge of security in south-central Iraq faces disintegration if more countries pull their troops out, Polish officials said on Wednesday.

Hungary's Parliament on Monday refused to extend the mission of its 300 troops into the new year and Ukraine is also thinking of bringing home its 1,600 soldiers from the 8,000-strong division.

"A pullout of Hungarian and Ukrainian troops would be a significant reduction," Poland's Deputy Foreign Minister Boguslaw Zaleski told Reuters.

"A disintegration (of the brigade) is possible if more countries were to pull out because we would not be able to control the zone with just Polish troops," he added.

The pullouts complicate Poland's own plans to substantially reduce its almost 2,500-strong force, which forms the backbone of the multinational division, after Iraqi elections in January.

The Polish-led division initially included Spanish troops, but their withdrawal soon after the anti-war Socialist government took power last May meant they could not take over command of the force as was originally planned.

Tanzania to produce long lasting insecticidal mosquito nets

ARUSHA, 19 Nov — Global leaders gathering in the northern Tanzanian city of Arusha have agreed that conditions were right for a massive scale-up in the battle against malaria, which claims more than a million lives each year and hampers development, especially in Africa.

Speaking here at the launching of A to Z Textiles, the first factory in Africa to produce long-lasting insecticidal mosquito nets on Wednesday, Tanzanian President Benjamin Mkapa told the participants including US Secretary of Health and Human Services Tommy Thompson, Roll Back Malaria Partnership Executive Secretary Awa Marie Coll-Seck, and Global Fund to Fight AIDS, Tuberculosis and Malaria Executive Director Richard Feachem that "Long-lasting insecticidal nets are Africa's best hope for preventing malaria, and we are very proud that Tanzania is the home of Africa's first manufacturer of these nets."

"We hope that this shining example of technology transfer and strengthening of local industry will serve as a model for similar efforts, making the nets more affordable and available to the millions of Africans who need them," he said.

The technology for long-lasting insecticidal nets, which embed insecticide within the net's very fibres and therefore retain their efficacy for up to five years without retreatment, was transferred to Tanzania last year in a groundbreaking collaboration between private and public sector players including the Acumen Fund, Sumitomo Chemical, the World Health Organization, The UN Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO).

India seeks foreign designers for jewellery industry

NEW DELHI, 18 Nov—Indian jewellery industry is roping in foreign designers to change designs and enhance the quality of its products to compete in the growing world market, the Press Trust of India (PTI) reported Tuesday.

Under a project sponsored by the Ministry of Commerce, the Indian designers are being introduced to the preferences of the world market and for this designers from Germany have been engaged.

"The German team has helped Indian designers understand what is in demand outside thereby increasing the country's overall gems and jewellery exports by about 300 per cent," PTI quoted S

P. Bansal, Convener of the Indo-German programme, as saying.

The Germans are providing high level systematic education in jewellery design and manufacturing.

According to Dr Thomas Beil, the principal of the course, Indian designers attempted to copy foreign designs from leaflets, but lacked the knowledge about the proportion of composition. Indians prefer 22 carats gold, and Europeans prefer nine carat. About 93 per cent of the diamond sold on the world market is cut and polished in India, he said.

"We need to embed diamonds in the jewellery so that the country gets benefits," Beil added.

India's gems and jewellery industry is one of the foremost foreign exchange earners for the country.

UAE airline profits reach record high in 6 months

ABU DHABI, 18 Nov—The Emirates Airway of the United Arab Emirates (UAE) earned a net profit of 236 million US dollars in six months ending on September 30, the official WAM news agency reported on Wednesday.

Profits of the Dubai-based airline in the first half of the 2003-2004 fiscal year have soared by up 41 per cent compared with 167 million dollars in the same period of the previous fiscal year, said the report.

Financial figures of the airline showed that they are the Emirates' best performance for any six-month period, Shaikh Ahmad Bin Saeed Al Maktoum, President of Dubai Civil Aviation and Chairman of Emirates Group, was quoted as saying.

According to the report, the Emirates' operating revenues garnered 2.24 billion dollars, representing a strong 42 per cent growth over the 1.58 billion dollars earned in the same period last year.

The load factor improved by 3.5 per cent to 73.3 per cent, and passenger volume rose 25.5 per cent to 6.1 million, compared to 4.8 million in the same period last year, while the airline's SkyCargo's revenue posted a growth of 42 per cent, up by 27 per cent to 401,500 tons compared with 315,553 tons.

The strong passenger and cargo demand coupled with better yields helped offset higher costs due to escalating jet fuel prices. "These excellent results owe a great deal to a superb performance in the first quarter, while in the second quarter we started being severely impacted by the dramatic increase in jet fuel prices," said Al Maktoum.

The Emirates Airway is seen as one of the fastest growing airlines in the world and it has 77 destinations in 54 countries. The airline was awarded 260 international awards for excellence since its launch in 1985. — MNA/Xinhua

Ayeyawady Division, the conqueror of Ngawun River

U Zaw

Head of State Senior General Than Shwe recently made a one-day inspection tour of Ayeyawady Division. The Head of State has visited there many times for regional development.

The region has gained greater momentum of remarkable progress year by year. Being blessed with favourable geographical features, it has more sown acreage and more fertile soil than any other parts of the nation. Having greatest number of natural lakes in the nation numbering more than 1,700, and being adjacent to the sea, it can breed sea and freshwater fish and prawn on a commercial scale.

The region stands as the granary of the nation. Fish, prawn, crab and eel are abundant in the Division that raises chicken, duck and pigs most in the nation. It enjoys strong economy, distributing its food surplus to other States and Divisions.

That is why the Head of State is encouraging the Division to make efforts to exceed the targeted volume of production in the agriculture and livestock sectors, on which it mainly depends. During the previous trip, the Senior General gave guidance, saying that if Ayeyawady Division could boost per acre yield of paddy significantly, the nation's annual paddy output might reach around 1,200 million baskets. Measures were to be taken for promotion of the livestock sector along with the agricultural sector, he noted.

The Head of State during the tour also gave guidance, saying that in addition to running conventional agriculture and livestock services, innovative steps were to be taken for doing other lucrative businesses through possible ways and means. Profitable perennial crops such as rubber, and different seasonal crops were to be cultivated on an extended scale, he said.

In fact, he is encouraging local people to exert greater efforts but without being content with the position of the nation's granary, for long-term improvement of their region's economy by manufacturing different goods. And his exhortation reflects that with enormous prospects of natural resources, which can raise its economy, the region should work harder than ever for industrial development such as agro-based industry, forest product-based industry and marine product-based industry.

The region has enjoyed better transport with more roads and bridges necessary for smooth commodity flow. In the trip to Ngwe Hsaung Beach in Patheingyi in early June 2003, The Head of State initiated a plan to construct Patheingyi Bridge work got under way on 30 July the same year. Now, the project is nearing completion, and before long local people will be able to travel to such regions on the west bank of Ngawun River as Ngwe Hsaung Beach, Chaungtha Beach and Thabaung on a shorter time.

In the past, the region had to mainly rely on waterways for transport while only over 460 miles of roads was in existence.

Convinced of difficulties in transport in the region, the Head of State gave guidance on extension of roads and construction of river and creek crossing bridges one after another. As a result of harmonious cooperation of the Government and local residents, Ayeyawady Division has enjoyed a network of township-to-township roads and bridges. Owing to the construction of 40 large river crossing bridges such as

Ayeyawady Division has enjoyed a network of township-to-township roads and bridges. Owing to the construction of 40 large river crossing bridges such as Ngawun River spanning Patheingyi Bridge, Bo Myat Tun Bridge, Maubin Bridge, Dedaye Bridge, Myaungmya Bridge, Pinlelay Bridge, Gonnyindan Bridge, Shwelaung Bridge and Wakema Bridge, which had been a dream in the past, Ayeyawady Division has now enjoyed smooth transport.

Ngawun River spanning Patheingyi Bridge, Bo Myat Tun Bridge, Maubin Bridge, Dedaye Bridge, Myaungmya Bridge, Pinlelay Bridge, Gonnyindan Bridge, Shwelaung Bridge and Wakema Bridge, which had been a dream in the past, Ayeyawady Division has now enjoyed smooth transport.

Alongside Yangon-Patheingyi Highway, there have emerged many roads stretching close to 1,300 miles namely Maubin-Kyaiklat-Pyapon Road, Pyapon-Bogale Road, Dedaye-Kyaiklat Road, Maubin-Hsamalauk Road, Pantanaw-Wakema-Kyonmangay Road, Myaungmya-Einme-Kyaunggon Road, Patheingyi Ngwehsaung Road, Patheingyi-Chaungtha Road and Ngathaingchaung-Gwa Road. Upon completion of Pyapon Bridge Project, Myinkaseik Bridge Project and Myokwin Bridge Project, all the townships in Ayeyawady Division will be accessible by car in a short time. The Head of State during his trip said that in the time of the Tatmadaw Government, a lot of roads and bridges had been built and so Ayeyawady Division, which was difficult of access in the past, had enjoyed regional progress and better transport. He is very satisfied with the emergence of fine bridges and takes a great pride in the capabilities of national experts. He also gave guidance on cooperation of officials at regional levels and central level for durability of bridges and prevention of bank erosion of rivers and creeks.

The Head of State with farsightedness not only gives guidance but also makes inspection tours of construction sites and encourages the staff. It is indeed the key to success of the projects. He himself chooses sites for construction of bridges or dams. He not only inspects the construction sites in person but has the projects inspected by other State leaders. Such goodwill and correct leadership serves as a huge encouragement to the staff and consequently, there have emerged bridges one after another in no time. One will be able to cross Ngawun River through the 2140-foot-long Patheingyi Bridge.

Besides this facility, a great deal of bridges have been constructed across Ayeyawady River, Einme River, Myaungmya River, Pinlelay River, Toe River, Shwelaung River, Wakema River, Dahka River and creeks.

So far, a total of 188 large bridges have been built spanning rivers including Ayeyawady River, Chindwin River, Thanlwin River and Sittoung River all over the nation. Across the Ngawun River now are Ngathaingchaung Bridge and Patheingyi Bridge and across Ayeyawady River in Ayeyawady Division, Maubin Bridge, Bo Myat Tun Bridge and Dedaye Bridge. With smooth transport, Ayeyawady Division is gaining greater momentum of development.

Senior General Than Shwe gave guidance on greater progress of Ayeyawady Division, saying that at a time when the Government was rendering all necessary assistance, Ayeyawady Division on its part was to effectively exploit natural resources for greater development. The Division had already had human resources enough and what the Division had to do was just to make efforts through innovative measures, he noted.

Therefore, Ayeyawady Division should continue to work hard to maintain its status as the nation's reliable region by expanding the horizon of the agriculture and livestock sectors through favourable geographical conditions, manufacturing new items and expanding prosperous and suitable industries.

Angola to increase diamond production

LUANDA, 19 Nov—Angola will increase its annual diamond production from current 6 million to 10 million carats as from 2005, Angolan news agency Angop reported Wednesday. Arnaldo Calado, the chairman of the Administration Board of the state-run diamond company ENDIAMA, was quoted as saying in Antwerp that the rise in diamond production is one of the recommendations of the Higher International Council of Diamonds. In Antwerp, the second largest city of Belgium, Calado attended an international conference on diamonds on Monday and Tuesday. The diamond-producing countries including South Africa, Namibia, the Democratic Republic of the Congo (DRC) and Botswana have already pledged to increase their production.

Calado said Angola's state firm would set up a commercial office in Antwerp where sees some 80 per cent of the world's uncut diamonds pass through its workshops and dealing rooms annually, and more than 50 per cent of the global supply of cut diamonds.

Rising home prices in California forcing youths to move

LOS ANGELES, 19 Nov — One quarter of US residents in the most populous state of California believe that rising cost of housing in their region is forcing them to consider moving to another town or out of the state, according to a survey released Thursday.

Nearly all Californians, 94 per cent, perceive that home values have been increasing in their region, with 84 per cent saying the home prices have increased a lot in recent years, according to the survey released by the Public Policy Institute of California (PPIC) in collaboration with the Hewlett, Irvine, and Packard Foundations.

About 49 per cent of Californians say that increasing average home values in their part of the state are a bad thing for them and their families, while 41 per cent call it a good thing.

About 77 per cent of respondents say they are at least somewhat concerned that the cost of housing will prevent the younger generation in their family from buying a home in their region.

Moreover, one in three, or 31 per cent, cite a more immediate effect of housing costs: it places a financial strain on their households.

A majority of Californians, or 55 per cent, view the availability of affordable housing as a big problem in their region today, placing it just below traffic congestion, 59 per cent, and far above the lack of well-paying jobs, population growth, and air pollution as a regional concern.

About six in 10 California adults say they own their own home, but the homeownership symbolize the great divide between the races. About 71 per cent of Whites and 59 per cent of Asians own their homes, while 55 per cent of Latinos and 51 per cent of Blacks are renters.

A large majority, or 68 per cent, of US-born residents are homeowners, while 55 per cent of immigrants are more likely to rent. And the likelihood of owning a home increases sharply with age, income, and education.

Rising home prices and rents force California residents, particularly younger ones, to rethink the value of the mountain views and ocean shores they say they treasure. Of the respondents under 35, for example, nearly half say they might relocate to somewhere cheaper.

NZ study finds premature babies prone to diabetes

WELLINGTON, 19 Nov — Babies born very prematurely may be predisposed to developing type 2 diabetes as adults, a study in New Zealand has found.

The study of 50 healthy Auckland children aged 4 to 10, published Thursday in the New England Journal of Medicine, one of the world's leading medical journals, found that sensitivity to the hormone insulin was 40 per cent lower in those born very prematurely, according to New Zealand Herald Thursday.

In New Zealand, more than 600 babies a year are born very prematurely — at least eight weeks early. Around 4 per cent of the population are diagnosed with diabetes, and the rate is expected to rise steeply following increasing obesity.

Bodily resistance to insulin, a hormone involved in absorbing blood sugar, is linked to the development of type 2 diabetes, high blood pressure, heart disease and stroke.

The study, by Auckland University's Liggins Institute, compared very-premature children with others born around full-term and of normal weight. The premature babies were either low or normal weight for their age following conception.

Earlier research has linked low birth weight in full-term babies to the development of insulin resistance — up to 35 per cent of type 2 diabetes cases may be attributable to low birth weight — but the institute says the latest study is the first to connect the condition to prematurity.—MNA/Xinhua

First global vehicle safety standard established

GENEVA, 19 Nov — More than 20 countries have agreed on a new standard that will lead to safer vehicles worldwide, and this regulation establishes the first global vehicle safety standard, officials said here Thursday.

At a session of the World Forum for the Harmonization of Vehicle Regulations, the countries voted to establish the new door retention standard, designed to improve door locks and door retention systems to help prevent injury and death due to passenger ejection.

The new door retention standard is the result of three years of intensive research, development and negotiations supported by the United Nations Economic Commission for Europe (UNECE).

"Today in Geneva we have witnessed a new milestone toward the improvement of road traffic safety throughout the world," Jose Capel Ferrer, director of the UNECE Transport Division, told a Press conference.

"We are optimistic that this will be the first in a long series of such global regulations, which will also improve the environmental performance of vehicles at the global level," he said.

Many additional standards are still under study, which will regulate head restraints, motorcycle brakes, the installation of lighting devices, vehicle window glazing and pedestrian safety.

WHO approves first int'l standard for common genetic test

GENEVA, 18 Nov—The World Health Organization (WHO) approved on Wednesday the first international standard for a widely used human genetic test.

The test identifies a genetic predisposition to thrombosis — a potentially life-threatening blood condition — and could therefore enable people to take preventive measures, according to the Geneva-based agency.

“Establishment of the first international standard for a genetic test is an important milestone,” David Wood, a senior official of WHO, told reporters.

“Genetic testing procedures are playing a vital and growing part in clinical medicine. This new standard will help to ensure that the tests are giving accurate results worldwide,” he said. The standard was agreed at the 55th session of one of WHO’s longest-standing committees, the WHO Expert Committee on Biological Standardization (WHO ECBS) which is meeting here from Monday to Thursday.

Doctors prescribing more antidepressants for children, adolescents

LONDON, 18 Nov — Doctors are prescribing more antidepressants for children and adolescents although there is little evidence about their safety or efficacy in youngsters, researchers said on Thursday.

Prescription rates for young patients under 18 years old rose in nine countries in Europe, North America and South America between 2000-2002.

Britain had the highest rate of increase with 68 per cent while Germany, with 13 per cent, had the lowest.

“The number of prescriptions in different countries for children with mental illness is increasing,” said Dr. Ian Wong of the Centre for Paediatric Pharmacy Research at the University of London.

Wong and his team compared prescribing trends in Britain, France, Germany, Spain, Canada, the United States, Argentina, Brazil and Mexico by using information from an international database that contains a representative sample of medical practitioners in each country.

The findings are reported in the Archives of Disease in Childhood. Although Britain had the highest rate of increase, it had a lower baseline than many other countries in the study.

“In England, the number of prescriptions per child for that kind of illness is actually 10 times lower than in America. When you have a very low baseline the increase is much quicker,” Wong explained.

He believes the results of the study show a growing awareness of depression and mental illness in young people. But he added that if the trend continues it could be worrying because there are so few clinical trials of drugs in children.

Drugs giant GlaxoSmithKline Plc was accused in a lawsuit by New York Attorney General Eliot Spitzer earlier this year of fraudulently suppressing information about its antidepressant Paxil, which is sold as Seroxat in Europe, that showed the drug was broadly ineffective in youngsters and could increase the risks of suicidal behaviour.

Africa needs billions of dollars to prevent, control malaria

HARARE, 18 Nov—The World Health Organization (WHO) says Africa requires between 1.5 billion and 2.5 billion US dollars annually to prevent and control malaria, which claims over one million lives each year, more than 90 per cent of them in sub-Saharan Africa.

“To sustain impact, funding must not be sparse and sporadic, but adequate with long-term focus to meet not only the immediate targets but also to meet the Millennium Development Goals and beyond,” WHO experts said in an article published in the September 2004 issue of Communicable Disease Bulletin, a publication of the WHO Regional Office for Africa.

The WHO experts said households in Africa, where as much as 50 per cent of the population live on less than one dollar a day, bear most of the cost for preventing and treating malaria.

They said these private expenditures were estimated to be greater than donor support, and more than twice the government expenditure for the same purpose.

They found that direct costs of managing a case of severe malaria ranged from 14.50 to 58.30 US dollars per annum.

The experts called on the international community to support implementation capacity to match increased funding.— MNA/Xinhua

Australia’s kangaroos, koalas to be shot with birth control darts

CANBERRA, 18 Nov—Australia’s iconic kangaroos and koalas could be shot with birth control darts under a programme to control booming populations struggling to survive in the country’s worst drought in a century.

Sydney’s Macquarie University won a five-year 1.4 million Australian dollars (1.1 million US dollars) grant on Wednesday to examine a contraceptive and ways to insert it under the skin of wild kangaroos and koalas to provide up to two years’ protection against pregnancy.

Australia’s wild kangaroo population, conservatively estimated at more than 57 million, has wreaked havoc in country Australia, destroying grazing lands and competing for food with sheep and cattle.— MNA/Reuters

Over 15,000 species face extinction

BANGKOK, 18 Nov — More than 15,000 species, from sharks to frogs to fire trees, are facing extinction and the total is rising faster than ever before, conservationists and scientists said on Wednesday. Despite efforts to slow or reverse the slide into oblivion of many species, one in three amphibians and almost half of all freshwater turtles are threatened, the IUCN World Conservation Union said at the unveiling of its 2004 species “Red List”.

One in eight types of bird and a quarter of all mammals are also known to be in jeopardy, the conservation group said at the beginning of its eight-day World Conservation Congress in the Thai capital. In reality, the situation is probably far worse.

Disney working on project to make “Toy Story 3”

LOS ANGELES, 18 Nov — The Walt Disney Studios is proceeding with a project to make “Toy Story 3,” a move that could degenerate its already rocky relationship with Pixar Animation Studios, the Hollywood Reporter reported Tuesday. Disney is in the process of setting up a digital animation facility in Los Angeles that will be used for the production of “Toy Story 3,” the report said.

Under the old deal between Disney and Pixar, Disney has the right to do sequels to “Toy Story.” Disney has held off from doing so in the past, in part in deference to Pixar CEO Steve Jobs and executive Vice-President John Lasseter, both of whom refused to lose control of the characters.

But with Pixar announcing earlier this year that it would end its distribution relationship with Disney following the 2005 release of the Lasseter-directed “Cars”, Disney CEO Michael Eisner and studio head Dick Cook have signalled their determination to make the second sequel to “Toy Story” franchise.—MNA/Xinhua

Sampdoria secure 2-0 win over Torino

ROME, 20 Nov— A strong second-half performance by Sampdoria secured a 2-0 win over Serie B Torino in an Italian Cup last 16, first leg match on Friday.

Sampdoria had the best chance of a quiet first half, when striker Francesco Flachi fired over the bar from close range.

The game opened up after the restart and Torino, the only non-Serie A side left in the competition, nearly took the lead when a poor clearance by Sampdoria defender Sergio Volpi allowed Tommaso Vailatti a shot on goal which went just wide.

In the 77th minute, however, Sampdoria playmaker Cristiano Doni timed his run into the area perfectly to head Flachi's chip into the net. Striker Vitali Kutuzau sealed the result a minute from the end with a simple tap-in after home keeper Alberto Fontana palmed away a long-range effort by midfielder Danilo Soddimo.

Romanian coach resigns

BUCHAREST, 20 Nov— Anghel Iordanescu resigned as Romania coach on Friday after coming under intense criticism for his side's draw against Armenia in a World Cup qualifier on Wednesday.

Romania, depleted by injuries and suspensions, lost top spot in Group One after a 1-1 draw in Yerevan which handed Armenia their first point in five matches.

"I resign as Romania coach after the result in Yerevan," Iordanescu told reporters.

The Romanian media had repeatedly criticized Iordanescu for taking up politics and running for the ruling leftist Social Democrat Party in this month's general polls.

Arsenal suffers new setback

LONDON COLNEY (England), 20 Nov— Arsenal suffered a new setback when midfielder Gilberto was potentially ruled out for the rest of the season on Friday due to a back injury.

Manager Arsene Wenger, who has only two of his five central midfielders fit for Saturday's Premier League game at home to West Bromwich Albion, had expected the Brazilian back next month.

But he told reporters at the club's training ground: "It's not good news on Gilberto. We had a check on his back and it looked like the bone has not grown and the distance of the fracture is still exactly the same."

"We have decided to rest him six more weeks and have sent him back to Brazil on holiday. He has to rest completely...and when he comes back it is not sure he will be capable of playing."

"We don't think it is (career-threatening), but it is season-threatening. If in the next six weeks, the bone has not completely grown together, we have to give him three months more."

Wenger, who ruled out surgery for the Brazilian, said: "In central midfield, we are very short."

Gilberto has not played since a 2-2 league draw with Bolton Wanderers on September 18, while fellow Brazilian Edu is out for another three weeks after breaking a toe in last week's League Cup win over Everton.

Arsenal's promising 20-year-old Frenchman Mathieu Flamini is out until next week with a knee problem, leaving only skipper Patrick Vieira and 17-year-old Spaniard Francesc Fabregas fit for duty in central midfield.—MNA/Reuters

100 Years of Planet Football marked

GENEVA, 20 Nov— Pele, the legendary Brazilian footballer, IOC President Jacques Rogge and FIFA President Joseph Blatter were in Lausanne on Wednesday to open the new temporary exhibition at the Olympic Museum entitled 100 Years of Planet Football FIFA 1904-2004.

This is a commemorative exhibition covering the history of football from the founding of the International Federation of Football Associations (FIFA) to its current activities. The exhibition has been mounted by the Olympic Museum in collaboration with FIFA.

After the symbolic photograph taken beside the FIFA World Cup, the personalities began with a visit to the exhibition, which was followed by an official ceremony with various speeches.

For President Blatter, this exhibition is also an expression of the long-standing harmonious relations between FIFA and the Olympic Movement. "The IOC has its place in the FIFA centenary celebrations as, since its creation, the FIFA World Cup has been very closely linked to the Olympic Movement and in particular the Olympic football tournaments," he said.

In addition, the exhibition looks at

Pires to be fined for displaying wrong logo

PARIS, 20 Nov— France midfielder Robert Pires will be fined for wearing the logo of a different sports company to the team's official sponsor Adidas, the French football federation said on Thursday.

"We have sent the case to the disciplinary committee," said federation chairman Claude Simonet said. "We will have a meeting with Adidas officials to estimate the amount of the fine Robert Pires will have to pay."

Pires was summoned by the FFF on Monday to explain why he appeared in a sweater with a Puma logo during a television show on October 10 when he was with the national team rather than his club Arsenal.

"I told them I was sorry and I apologized," said Pires after a 75-minute hearing in Paris. "I can understand they (Adidas) were upset and I won't do it again."

"He (Pires) has admitted he had made a mistake," said Simonet adding that he wanted this case to be closed as soon as possible.

Argentine defender Taricco joins West Ham United

LONDON, 20 Nov— Argentine defender Mauricio Taricco has joined West Ham United from Tottenham Hotspur, a source close to the player said on Friday.

Taricco, who has not played for Spurs this season, trained with West Ham for the first time on Friday morning after signing a deal with the Second Division London club.

No details of the deal were immediately available.

The 31-year-old Taricco is one of the longest-serving foreign players in English football, having joined Ipswich Town from Argentine First Division side Argentinos Juniors in 1994.

Taricco moved on to Spurs in October 1998 when he became the first signing of then manager George Graham for 1.75 million pounds (3.25 million US dollars).

China, Chile launch free trade talks

SANTIAGO, 20 Nov— China and Chile launched free trade talks on Thursday during Chinese President Hu Jintao's visit to Chile at the end of a three-country South America tour where he sought to firm up raw material supplies for his country's booming economy.

Chile, a country of 15 million people, would be China's first free trade partner outside of Asia if talks prosper.

"Chile and China are in conditions to announce that we are initiating free trade negotiations," Chilean President Ricardo Lagos said in a ceremony with Hu in Santiago's presidential palace, La Moneda.

Hu and Lagos met on Thursday ahead of a weekend summit of 21 Pacific Rim leaders including US President George W Bush and Russian President Vladimir Putin.

Earlier this week, Hu visited big soy producers Brazil and Argentina where he signed accords over agricultural exports and investment.

The two countries recently completed an eight-month feasibility study on free trade.

Chile, a copper, salmon and wood pulp exporter, has reduced poverty and expanded its economy partly through an ambious web of free trade contacts with the European Union, the United States, Mexico and South Korea.

Chilean business leaders applauded the possibility of a new free trade link with China, which is currently Chile's third biggest trading partner. Officials believe China would jump to first place within five years of signing a trade pact.

"Bilateral talks with China definitely open up a new horizon for Chile's agro-industrial sector," Andres Santa Cruz, president of an agricultural business group, told Reuters earlier.

Chile and China, the world's biggest copper producer and consumer, also tightened mining ties on Thursday when Chile's state-owned copper miner Codelco and state-controlled Chinese trading house MinMetals signed a letter of understanding for investment in Chilean mining in return for a guaranteed copper supply.

China, 15 others join NASA workshop on space exploration

WASHINGTON, 20 Nov— China and 15 other countries joined NASA officials this week to consider how they might cooperate with US plans for human exploration of the moon and Mars.

The three-day Washington workshop was the first in a series of meetings sponsored by the US space agency, NASA's Michael O'Brien said on Thursday, the last day of the gathering.

"It was somewhat precedent-setting for this particular meeting to have the Chinese there in attendance," O'Brien said in a telephone news conference.

China has its own space programme and is not among the countries participating in the International Space Station.

However, O'Brien said the US State Department approved inviting the Chinese delegation since President George W. Bush had urged international participation in the exploration effort.

Under Bush's plan, a robotic space probe could go to the moon as early as 2008, but no Americans are expected to travel there before 2020.

No specific agreements were made, but representatives from the 16 countries plus the European Commission and the European Space Agency all gave themselves "homework assignments" for the next meeting, expected next year.

Besides China, other countries represented at the workshop were Argentina, Australia, Canada, France, Germany, Hungary, India, Israel, Italy, Japan, Russia, South Korea, Spain, Ukraine and Britain.

NASA has been struggling with money problems as it aims to return to human space flight in 2005, two years after the 2003 shuttle Columbia disaster prompted the grounding of the three-ship shuttle fleet.

The space station has been operating with a skeleton crew of two, down from three, since shortly after Columbia disintegrated over Texas on 1 February, 2003, killing all seven astronauts.

Launch of rocket "Ariane 5" postponed

PARIS, 20 Nov— The launch of rocket Ariane 5-ECA, scheduled for late November, has been postponed to next January, said a senior official of the Ariancespace company.

"We are very close to the launching requirement and the rocket engine has been put on the tower. But we will not blast it off if we are not so sure (that the launch will be successful)," he said.

After its maiden flight failed in December 2002, the heavyweight European space rocket has been planned for a second launch in early 2003, which was cancelled later due to technical reasons, he added. However, the official is still optimistic about the future of Ariane 5, saying this kind of rocket has been launched successfully five times since 2002. — MNA/Xinhua
