ASEAN-India Car Rally boosts Myanmar's image

The Union of Myanmar has been fostering friendly ties with neighbouring nations, ASEAN nations and those in the region.

To further cement friendly ties with other nations and ensure development in trade, tourism and transport, it is taking part in the international sports meets.

With the aim of further strengthening friendly ties between ASEAN nations and India, the first ASEAN-India Car Rally organized by the Confederation of Indian Industry was opened in Guwahati, India on 22 November 2004.

Prime Minister of India Manmohan Singh formally opened the car rally. Also present on the occasion were member of the State Peace and Development Council Lt-Gen Ye Myint, Commander Maj-Gen Tha Aye, Minister for Sports Brig-Gen Thura Aye Myint and party.

Altogether 60 cars from ten nations—India and ASEAN nations (exclusive of the Philippines)—with 240 drivers are participating in it.

Member of the State Peace and Development Council Lt-Gen Ye Myint and party on 23 November 2004 greeted drivers of Myanmar, who were to start the car rally at Guwahati, India.

The distance of the car rally is 7,869 kilometres—690 km in India, 439 km in Myanmar, 2,230 km in Thailand, 642 km in Laos, 1,312 km in Vietnam, 642 km in Cambodia, 853 km in Malaysia and 50 km in Singapore.

All the participants will arrive at the finishing point in Battam, Indonesia, on 11 December 2004.

The rally will take 19 days including pilgrimage in Cambodia. The caravan of the cars arrived in Tamu of Myanmar on 24 November, in Mandalay on 25 November, in Loilem on 26 November, in Kengtung on 27 November, where they spent the night. On 28 November, the caravan was scheduled to enter Thailand through Kengtung-Tachilek.

As the caravan passed through Myanmar, the car rally was to contribute much to further cementing friendly ties between Myanmar and neighbouring nations and development of tourism and transport sectors of Myanmar.

Thanks to the car rally that passed through Myanmar and with the participation of drivers from Myanmar, it is believed that the riches and development of Myanmar will be better known to the world.

ASEAN, South Korean officials finalize cooperation document

VIENTIANE (Laos), 27 Nov — Senior officials from the Association of South-East Asian Nations (ASEAN) and South Korea here on Friday finalized the Joint Declaration on Comprehensive Cooperation Partnership between ASEAN and South Korea to be adopted by their leaders.

The declaration covers political and security cooperation, closer economic relations, including the establishment of an ASEAN-South Korea Free Trade Area, cooperation to narrow the development gap within ASEAN, and education and science and technology cooperation, said spokesman of the 10th ASEAN summit Yong Changthalangsy.

This is a follow-up to the decision of the ASEAN-South Korea Summit in 2003 during which the leaders agreed to launch an Experts Group Joint Study of ASEAN-South Korea economic cooperation, including the possibility of establishing a free trade agreement, Yong, who is also director of the Press Department of the Lao Foreign Ministry, told a news conference.

Japan eyes closer cooperation with ASEAN in destroying WMD

VIENTIANE (Laos), 27 Nov — Japan said here Friday that the two issues in which it wanted to advance cooperation with the Association of South-East Asian Nations (ASEAN) are counter-terrorism and non-proliferation of weapons of mass destruction (WMD) and the reduction of tension in the Korean Peninsula.

Japan made the remarks at the ASEAN+Japan Senior Officials Meeting held here Friday.

The meeting finalized the ASEAN-Japan Joint Declaration for Cooperation in Counter-Terrorism, which will be adopted at the ASEAN+Japan Summit on November 30.

The declaration will include such activities as information exchange, intelligence sharing and capacity building, law enforcement cooperation and mutual assistance in criminal matters including extradition.

The meeting recalled that the ASEAN+Japan Economic Ministers Meeting agreed in September 2004 that negotiations for the Comprehensive Economic Partnership would commence in April 2005 to be completed within two years.

Chinese textile industry opposes US limits on fabric imports

BELING, 27 Nov — The Chinese textile industry issued a statement on Thursday, opposing a US Government agency's acceptance of an industry appeal to limit imports of Chinese fabric products.

The Chinese Chamber of Commerce for Import and Export of Textile Products said in the statement that the US Government has "trampled the principle of free trade" as well as the spirit of the Agreement on Textile and Clothing.

"The Chamber of Commerce, on behalf of the whole Chinese textile industry, expresses strong protest and firm opposition," it said.

The US Committee for the Implementation of Textile Agreements announced on November 17 that it has accepted an appeal from domestic industry on import limitations of 301 kinds of Chinese cotton yarn.

According to the statement, US industrial organizations have also appealed to extend existing import quotas on 222 kinds of Chinese fabric products for another year.

"The 301 products are still restricted by the US import quota and hold too little market share to disrupt the US market," the statement said. "The existing restriction on another 222 products has hurt the Chinese textile industry, the interests of US cotton growers, consumers, importers, fabric machinery makers and US investors in China as well."

The Chamber of Commerce urged the US Government to stop activities that harm China-US ties and to abide by WTO rules. It said the restriction will not cause a boom in the US textile industry nor offer more jobs to US people.

Malaysia offers to host East Asia Summit in 2005

VIENTIANE (Laos), 27 Nov—Malaysia has offered to host an East Asia Summit (EAS) in 2005 if there is a consensus among the relevant countries, spokesman of the 10th ASEAN Summit Yong Chanthalangsy said at a Press briefing here Friday.

The spokesman said the ASEAN + 3 Senior Officials Meeting held here Friday discussed the issue on the EAS proposed by the East Asian Vision Group and recognized the potential value of the EAS at an appropriate time.

Yong also said the issue remains a subject of further consideration by the ASEAN + 3 Foreign Ministers Meeting.

He said the Senior Officials Meeting discussed the need to undertake stock-taking exercise, including on the concept, modality and future direction for the EAS.

Japan has offered to host a meeting of ASEAN + 3 foreign ministers in Kyoto in May 2005 for this purpose, he added.

On the establishment of East Asia Community, the Senior Officials Meeting reiterated the view that it is a long-term objective that would be achieved through a building bloc and step by step approach. The meeting reiterated support for ASEAN's leading role in this process.

On the East Asian Free Trade Area (EAFTA), the meeting continued to deliberate on this matter. The ASEAN + 3 Economic Ministers Meeting in Jakarta on September 4, 2004 endorsed China's proposal to set up an expert group comprising scholars from research and academic organizations to study the feasibility of establishing an EAFTA starting in 2005.

Friday's senior officials meeting was held to prepare for the ASEAN + 3, ASEAN + China, ASEAN + Japan and ASEAN + South Korea summits, which will be held here on November 29-30.

CPC initiates education campaign

BEIJING, 27 Nov—The Communist Party of China (CPC) has decided to launch a mass internal educational campaign from January next year to prevent its members from wavering in their convictions.

The decision, aiming to keep the nature of the Party members intact, was made at the meeting of the Political Bureau of the CPC Central Committee on this October 21, the CPC's top power organ.

"It is the first time that the Party linked the internal education with its ruling principle and governance capability," said Ye Duchu, Professor of the Party School of the CPC.

The campaign was initiated after an internal survey involving 300,000 Party members in 2000, which showed some of them had begun to waver in their conviction on the Party's principles and disciplines, according to the Organization Department of the CPC Central Committee.

The Party's leaders have realized that under the new conditions, maintaining the advanced nature of the Party affects the Party's governance capability, prosperity of the causes of the Party and the people and the country's lasting peace and stability.

The survey recently held in Southwestern China's Sichuan Province showed that about one-third of Party cadres were most focused on the will and interests of their superiors, not their service to the people. About 32 per cent of Party's cadres at or above county levels chose "realizing individual's value" and "build well-off families" as their life purposes, not service to the people. Experts here said the wavering convictions of the Party members, a major source of corruption in some regions, had seriously eroded the consolidation of the Party's governing status.—MNA/Xinhua

'Iraq's security forces are target of increasing campaigns by guerillas

BAGHDAD, 27 Nov—The warning left in the garage of Omar Hameed, Iraqi National Guardsman, showed two bloody swords and a message: "If you don't quit your job in three days, you will be killed."

The next day, Hameed, still recovering from a leg injury after gunmen attacked his patrol, gave his reply in signs he hung in the market of his hometown of Mahmoudiya and on the street leading to his home: "I wash my hands of the Iraqi National Guard." He said the decision to give up his job, which paid a relatively hefty $190 a month, was easy because he knew the alternative. "They have killed many people," Hameed said. "They can reach you anywhere. They can easily break into homes to kidnap or kill you."

As the 30 January election approaches, guerillas aiming to wreck Iraq's democratic transformation have been targeting members of the country's fledgling security forces with increasing brutality and precision.

Car bombings, mortar attacks and drive-by shootings have been followed by kidnappings, ambushes, executions and beheadings, with corpses dumped in orchards and on roadsides, sometimes laid out in rows.

The operations show enough sophistication and planning to raise the question of whether guerillas get inside help. Such attacks also continue to undermine efforts to build strong security forces key to the exit strategy of foreign troops and have cast doubt on the Iraqi forces' ability to protect themselves, let alone the country.—Internet

Li said that the agreement marks a new stage of cooperation between the Mainland and Hong Kong in the insurance industry.

The agreement covers broad areas of insurance regulation that will effectively promote mutual understanding of regulatory practices, exchange regulatory experience and timely sharing of regulatory information.

ASEAN leaders to sign peace action plan

MANILA, 27 Nov — Philippine President Gloria Macapagal-Arroyo and other leaders of the Association of South-East Asian Nations (ASEAN) are set to sign and adapt next week an action plan to increase peace and security cooperation efforts in the region.

Signing of the ASEAN Security Community (ASC) Plan of Action will be held during the organization's 10th summit in Vientiane, Lao People's Democratic Republic, the Philippines News Agency Friday quoted the Philippine Department of Foreign Affairs as saying.

The signing of the proposed ASC Plan of Action will complement the ASC Framework which ASEAN member-countries established to ensure stability of security conditions in South-east Asia, the report said.

Under the ASC Framework, ASEAN leaders acknowledged there are broad political, economic, social and cultural aspects associated with comprehensive security.

They also vowed to abide by the United Nations Charter and other international laws while upholding ASEAN's principles of consensus-based decision-making, national and regional resilience, respect for national sovereignty, renunciation of threat or use of force and peaceful settlement of differences and disputes.

The framework likewise assures leaders of ASEAN member-countries of their right "to lead their national existence free from outside interference in their internal affairs".

Moreover, the ASC Framework declared that the organization's existing political instruments shall continue to play crucial roles in terms of confidence-building, preventive diplomacy and conflict resolution.

Among such political instruments are the Zone of Peace, Freedom and Neutrality Declaration signed in Kuala Lumpur on November 27, 1971 and the Treaty of Amity Cooperation in Southeast Asia that leaders signed during the first ASEAN Summit in Bali in February 1976.

Individual frameworks for ASC, the ASEAN Economic Community and the ASEAN Socio-Cultural Community were adapted by Southeast Asian leaders on October 7, 2003 to help realize the ASEAN Vision 2020, the organization's vision statement on transforming the region into a single community by the end of the next decade.

Greater anti-HIV/AIDS efforts urged for women

HANOI, 27 Nov—Women and girls should be the focal point of the global war against HIV/AIDS, foreign and local officials said here on Friday.

"One of the objects most affected by HIV/AIDS is women and children," Ha Thi Khiat, chairwoman of the Vietnam Women's Union, said at a Press conference to introduce this year's global advocacy campaign with the theme "Women, Girls, HIV/AIDS". She called for an urgent action to minimize the increasing number of people, especially women, living with HIV via a focus on women and girls — preventing new infections, promoting gender equality and mitigating the impact of AIDS.

"Women are more physically vulnerable to the infections than men," Nancy Fee, country coordinator for the Joint United Nations Programme on HIV/AIDS (UNAIDS) in Vietnam, said at the Press conference held by the Vietnam Women's Union, the Vietnamese Ministry of Health, the United Nations Children's Fund (UNICEF) and the UNAIDS.

There is a link between domestic violence and HIV infections, since women are victims of forced sex, and too frightened to get services and information about HIV/AIDS, she said, adding that discrimination against AIDS patients is harmful to women.

Now, nearly half of 37.2 million adults worldwide living with HIV are women, according to the latest UNAIDS report. The percentage of Vietnamese pregnant women having HIV rose to 0.39 per cent in 2003 from 0.02 per cent in 1994, said the ministry.

By mid-October 2004, Vietnam had detected over 86,000 HIV carriers, of whom 62 per cent are in the age bracket of 20-29. Over 13,600 cases have developed into AIDS, including 7,834 fatalities.

12 die as guerillas intensify Iraq raids

BAGHDAD, 27 Nov—Violence continued unabated in Iraq as guerillas stepped up attacks, blasting US patrols in Baghdad and killing a US soldier north of the capital.

A car bomb exploded on the dangerous road to the Baghdad airport, targeting an armoured vehicle generally used to transport VIPs, an AFP photographer reported.

There were no reports of any casualties and no details immediately available on who might have been inside the truck.

A US soldier was killed early yesterday when a roadside bomb hit his vehicle in the Sunni town of Dhuliyah, north of Baghdad.

Three bodyguards of Iraq's deputy governor of Diyala province were killed when clashes broke out between national guardsmen and guerillas at a checkpoint, the provincial police chief said.

UN criticizes Britain for unsatisfactory conditions in prisons

GENEVA, 27 Nov — A United Nations anti-torture body criticized Britain on Friday for the "unsatisfactory" conditions in its prisons, including a "substantial number of deaths in custody", and urged it to act at once to improve them.

The UN Committee Against Torture, reviewing British compliance with an international treaty outlawing inhuman and degrading treatment, also expressed concern at parts of an anti-terrorism law which allows "potentially indefinite detention" of foreigners without trial.

It called on the British Government to study "as a matter of urgency" alternatives to the sweeping powers to imprison any foreigner suspected of involvement in international terrorism given by the 2001 Anti-terrorism, Crime and Security Act.

The committee of 10 experts said there were reports of "unsatisfactory conditions" in British prisons, including "substantial numbers of deaths in custody, inter-prisoner violence, overcrowding ..."

It was the fourth time the Geneva-based committee had focused on Britain as part of its regular scrutiny of the 138 states to have ratified the 1984 treaty.

Fighters in Fallujah resume attacks against US forces

BAGHDAD, 27 Nov—Fighters in Iraq's battle-torn Fallujah City said Friday they have resumed attacks against US forces and their Iraqi allies since Wednesday after they had reorganized their groups in the city.

The fighters made the remarks in a statement signed by Mujahedin Council on Islamic web site.

The statement said "the Mujahedin (holy fighters) launched Wednesday many well organized attacks, aimed at destroying the myth of the coalition forces, and the traitors and collaborators who work for Allawi and Naqib," referring to Iraqi Prime Minister Iyad Allawi and Interior Minister Falah Naqib.

The former Iraqi Army forces are "participating in fighting and supporting efforts in the battles of Fallujah's northern districts, Jolan, Mualemeen, Shurta, Jughaiifi and the Askeri District," said the statement.

It added that "the Mujahedin will teach a memorable lesson to the collaborators who sold Iraq and prove to Arab regimes in Sherm al-Sheikh, who gave Allawi's government a false legitimacy, that only the language of guns and martyrs makes a difference".—MNA/Xinhua

WTO approves trade sanctions on US over illegal law

GENEVA, 27 Nov— The World Trade Organization (WTO) gave final approval on Friday to the European Union, Japan and others to hit the United States with an initial 150 million US dollars in trade sanctions in a row over an illegal anti-dumping law.

"They've got the go-ahead," said Kenyan Ambassador Amina Mohamed, chairwoman of the WTO's Dispute Settlement Body.

The case, one of a number pitting Brussels against Washington, involves the so-called Byrd Amendment, which the WTO has repeatedly said breaks trade rules by handing out duties raised in anti-dumping cases to US firms.

The opening round of punitive duties — which will be reviewed each year — is relatively modest, when compared, for example, with the 4.0 billion US dollars the EU was awarded in a case over corporate tax breaks. But the figure could soar in coming years.

The Administration of US President George W. Bush has called on Congress to drop the law. But it enjoys wide support among legislators, who see it as a way of punishing foreign companies accused of dumping, or exporting goods at below the cost of production.

The Lion's share of the right to retaliate goes to the European Union and Japan, because their companies are the most affected. Brussels has warned it could slap additional duties on US goods early in 2005 if Washington does not repeal the law. "We are delighted that the authorization confirmed our case... We hope that the US will bring the legislation as soon as possible into conformity (with international rules)," EU trade spokeswoman Claude Veron-Reville said in Brussels.

The green light for sanctions was automatic because the case has exhausted all the WTO steps for settling disputes, including appeals and arbitration. Only a unanimous decision by all 148 WTO member states, including those seeking the sanctions, could have blocked it.

Both the EU and Japan, given the right to additional levies of 50 million US dollars and 80 million US dollars, respectively, by arbitrators, have presented the WTO with a list of products they plan to hit — ranging from sweetcorn to metals and textiles.

Canada, which along with Brazil, South Korea, India, Mexico and Chile is also involved in the complaint, has said that it is studying whether to impose sanctions and on what. The US amendment has been applied to billions of dollars of imports of Canadian softwood, the subject of a separate dispute between the two North American neighbours.

Malaysia to keep stability of currency

KUALA LUMPUR, 27 Nov— A Malaysian minister has reiterated that the government has already mentioned the country has to have stability in its currency.

The re-pegging of the local currency ringgit should have got to do with Malaysia's competitiveness, International Trade and Industry Minister Rafidah Aziz told reporters after addressing the Panasonic Scholarship Programme 2005 Award Ceremony here Thursday.

"The government would have to look at how the number in the system of pegging affect us vis-a-vis the changes in other currencies. It has got to do with our competitiveness. It is not as simple as removing the peg," she said.

Malaysian currency has been pegged at 3.8 ringgit to one US dollar since September 1998 when the country was hit by the Asian financial crisis.

She was asked about comments by some economists to review ringgit peg as it has outdated its usefulness and they are calling for re-pegging by June next year. "Malaysia cannot be subjected to observation and recommendation by others pertaining to the re-peg of the ringgit," she said.

Construction on Yangtze's water diversion project approved

WUHAN, 27 Nov — Construction on a key section on the central route of the water diversion project from the Yangtze River and its tributaries to northern China has been approved by the State Council recently.

Construction will begin soon on the section, which will raise the height of the Danjiangkou Dam from the present 162 metres to 176.6 metres. This will be the most important part of the central route of the south-north water diversion project, said officials with the Yangtze River Water Resources Committee.

The Danjiangkou Reservoir, located 800 metres below the meeting point of the Hanjiang River and its tributary Danjiang River in northwestern Hubei, central China, was the largest man-made lake in Asia when it was built in 1966. It is to be the principal source of water on the central route of the south-to-north water diversion project.

Officials said when the height of dam is raised, the dam's storage capacity will be 29.05 billion cubic metres, 11.6 billion cubic metres more than the early stage capacity. The project should divert 9.5 billion cubic metres of water to the North China on an annual basis and 13 to 14 billion cubic metres by the year 2030.

Completion of the dam project will ease the pressure on the middle and lower reaches of the Hanjiang and Yangtze rivers in the flood season and provide high-quality water to the arid areas in northern China, said experts.

Sources from the Yangtze River Water Resources Committee said that the total cost for the dam project will be more than 2 billion yuan (about 246 million US dollars).

More than 2,000 local people who lived in villages in the construction site and dam area will soon be moved to other regions, said the committee.

Currently, the government of Danjiangkou is working on the issues of migration and protection of ancient cultural relics excavated in the dam area.

The massive south-to-north water diversion project, which began construction in December 2002, will divert water from the Yangtze, China's longest river, to the country's drought-affected north via eastern, central and western routes.

The central route project, with a total length of 1,427 kilometres, is designed to divert water from the Danjiangkou Reservoir on the upper reaches of the Hanjiang River right up to Beijing and Tianjin municipalities, and Hebei, Henan and Hubei Provinces.

Russia accuses West of intervening in Ukraine election crisis

MOSCOW, 27 Nov — Russian Foreign Minister Sergei Lavrov on Friday accused Western countries of intervening in Ukraine's election crisis in an attempt to encourage the former Soviet state to move towards the West.

"Some European capitals have refused to recognize the election and have put forward the thesis that Ukraine should be with the West," Lavrov said at a Press conference, the ITAR-TASS news agency reported. Russia is not indifferent to what happens in Ukraine," said Lavrov, adding that the Russian Government is alarmed by the attempts of some countries to steer the situation in Ukraine from a legal path.

"Geographically Ukraine is near the West but also near Russia," he said. "We hope that the world will respect the choice of the Ukrainian people, respect its right to decide on its own its internal affairs."

Discussion of Pensioners

Hein Myint

Almost all of my friends and I are in our sixties. We had experienced the colonial era in our childhood. And we had also seen the multi-party democracy system throughout our student life from the primary to the university. I had worked as a service personnel from the time of the Myanma Socialist Programme Party to that of the current Tatmadaw government. We took retirement when we turned sixty.

Having lived different eras, all the friends my age have had a sense of scruple to weigh pros and cons. As we took full-age retirement as military and civilian service personnel, we still have to earn our living in retirement. This being the case, we can only is unthinkable how much it would be for years."

"It should come as no surprise that the price does not drop since valuable items like houses, land and cars are in the hands of those with great wealth. We couldn't imagine to buy such expensive things let alone to afford it."

"Because of that incident, 186 service personnel from three military and civil departments were charged. That was a terrible blow to the State."

"Those who were held accountable for that incident are to blame for their weak control and supervision, else only less severe action would have been taken."

"They paid no heed to the repeated guidance of the Senior General as

My friends asked me whether such incidents took place in China as they knew I had discharged my duty there. I replied:

"No doubt they did. Even in my tour of duty in China, I heard a lot of smuggling and corruption cases, for instance, the collapse of diversion weirs when the Yangtze River swelled was due to sub-standard quality in construction; the collapse of a bridge claiming numerous lives was due to sub-standard quality in construction; and the ruined conditions of a highway while it was still under construction. Punitive action was taken against those who were held responsible, and the newspapers reported them."

"Such things are unavoidable in countries which are in a process of transition to the market-oriented economic system. Special care should be taken for it."

"It is the right thing to do to abolish the National Intelligence Bureau. People everywhere had to live in fear of them."

"They became selfish as they then were people in authority. The act of corruption grew worse in the absence of control and supervision. Not everyone was involved in it. The good and the bad by nature coexist."

"A large number of illegally-imported cars can be seen in almost every town. It is heartening to hear the news that unlicensed cars which cause corruption are now being confiscated."

"Making arrests on those committing the act of corruption and trafficking is in the interests of the country. In consequence of it, there are some who have remedied their misconduct. If they continue their act, they will no doubt will face action."

"By the way, I have heard so many times that some foreign media say that present Myanmar State leadership are hardliners. You are a war veteran pensioner and so may I know your opinion in this regard?"

"Of course, they say so because they don't understand anything about the administrative principles of Myanmar Tatmadaw. And they are intentionally manufacturing fabrications to mislead the people."

"Oh! Is that so? Would you please elaborate?"

"Myanmar Tatmadaw has a tradition that it practises the policy of a single command. So, all the Tatmadaw members have to discharge their duties under the supervision of their superiors and guidance of the Commander-in-Chief of Defence Services. Since the Tatmadaw had assumed the State responsibilities, it first formed the State Law and Order Restoration Council and then the State Peace and Development Council at present, and it has been adopting and implementing State policies under the guidance of the Chairman also the Commander-in-Chief of Defence Services, and in coordination with the Vice-Chairman, who is the Deputy Commander-in-Chief of Defence Services and SPDC members taking effective responsibilities."

"The Tatmadaw leaders have to take responsibilities individually in carrying out tasks, based on collective leadership."

"The Government and the ministries have to carry out their tasks in consonance with the policy laid down by the SPDC."

"Therefore, I'd say implementation of the State's seven-point Road Map, carrying out nation-building tasks in cooperation with national armed groups after building up peace through talks with them, and the adopting of foreign policy are the works of by the State Peace and Development Council under the leadership of the Head of State, but not of an individual."

"Overall, the State's political, economic, social and nation-building tasks are being implemented in conform-regional affairs after her membership of the ASEAN and maintains friendly relations with her neighbours. That is another example reflecting her flexible attitude."

"Personally, I'd say the SPDC is a government, so sometimes it must take a hardline stand and sometimes it has to be soft, as the case may be. I don't think it is proper for the government to tolerate the ity with the policy laid down by the SPDC. So, one should not assume that some of the State leaders are flexible and some hardliners."

"I'm sure, it must be, in fact, certain schemers' plot to mislead Myanmar people into thinking some State leaders as flexible-minded and pro-democracy persons and some, as hardliners. It is very clear if present State leaders were not pro-democracy persons but hardliners, there would be no chance for the seven-point Road Map to come into existence. It is known to all that Myanmar is now on the path towards discipline-flourishing democracy just because State leaders are really in favour of democracy."

"As you know, the previous governments were not able at all to persuade any armed groups to return to the legal fold, but 17 armed groups had entered the legal fold during the time of the present government. And they are even cooperating with the government in nation-building tasks. That reflects the genuine goodwill of the SPDC led by the Commander-in-Chief of Defence Services. According to the norms of foreign media, this should be described soft or flexible, isn't it?"

"Moreover, Myanmar is cooperating with regional countries in insults. But it has to make political or military responses if being assaulted".

"And I don't think it is wise to call State leaders as hardliners just because of not reaching an agreement with those who always hamper nation-building efforts but have never done anything in the interests of the nation".

"The government has been able to build up peace with armed groups through peace talks. So, if all the political parties give priority to national interests but not to their own, no doubt, fruitful results will be achieved. But what they should do is just to show their goodwill".

When our chat was at its peak, there was a phone call for me and I had to return home, saying goodbye to my friends.

On my way home, I was absorbed in my thought that our country, Myanmar, will be able to turn itself into a peaceful, modern and developed nation if certain political parties give up their attempts to serve their own interests, and if there is no destructive act nor corruption and bribery in the nation, and they are united in serving the interests of the nation and the people with goodwill.

Bangladesh makes law to stop waterways grabbing

DHAKA, 28 Nov — The Bangladeshi Government will make a law banning the practice of filling water bodies and riverbanks and construction of structures on them in this most densely populated South Asian country, according to the official news agency BSS Saturday. The grabbing of both banks of the river Buriganga, which flows just south of Dhaka and once the lifeline of the country's capital, and filling of lakes in the posh Gulshan and Dhanmondi areas in Dhaka prompted the government to make the law with provision of five-year prison term and fine for violators. A draft bill will be presented to the Cabinet meeting for approval to make it a law through the national Parliament, the agency said.

However, the environment activists criticized the draft bill saying it failed to come up with measures to recover the land that has already been grabbed.

The pressure on land in the capital of around 10 million people has increased and this is the reason of grabbing lands in the capital.

Both the banks of river Buriganga have been grabbed by people and different organizations defying the government rules and environment activists.

The environment activists have formed an organization named "Save Buriganga" and the organization is campaigning against the grabbing asking the government to evict those illegal occupants.

CPC urged to lift advanced culture construction ability

BEIJING, 28 Nov — Li Changchun, a senior official of the Communist Party of China (CPC), said improving the Party's ability to construct advanced socialist culture is of great importance for its governance in China.

"The ability is well in alliance with the Party's general governance targets," said Li. "And it should be viewed as a major means in enhancing the Party's governance capability."

Li, who is a member of the Standing Committee of the Political Bureau of the CPC Central Committee, said the fostering such an ability will be of guiding and nationwide significance if China simply wants to win the international national power competition between countries.

Li made the remarks during an investigation and investigation tour on the Party's capability in improving the construction of advanced socialist culture in Anhui, Guangdong and Fujian provinces.

"To achieve that goal, the Party must made more efforts in the study and construction of the Marxism theory and fully implement the arduous task of arming the whole Party and educating the people with Deng Xiaoping and Jiang Zemin's Party building thoughts."

ASEAN, China sign MoU on transport cooperation

VIENTIANE, 28 Nov— The 10-member ASEAN signed the memorandum of understanding (MoU) on Transport Cooperation with China here on Saturday.

China's Minister of Communications Zhang Chunxian and ASEAN (the Association of South-East Asian Nations) signed the MoU. Zhang said in an interview with Xinhua after the signing ceremony that with the signing, ASEAN and China will have a legally based medium-to-long-term cooperation partnership.

He said that the MoU covers ASEAN-China transport cooperation on infrastructure, transport facilitating, marine transport and marine affairs, capacity building and information sharing.

The minister said he believed that the MoU is a breakthrough for ASEAN-China transport cooperation as it not only lays down a legal base for launching future cooperative projects, but has a strong guiding role and high operability.

He said, "The fundamental objective of the cooperation is to accelerate infrastructure linkages and enhance cross-border movement of goods and people, which in turn reinforces the establishment of an ASEAN-China free trade area as well as the synergy in seeking common prosperity for nearly 1.8 billion population with 1.2-trillion-US-dollar annual trade volume in the ASEAN countries and China."

He said, "We feel so much assured that the ASEAN-China transport cooperation is becoming more consolidated with every step forward and has constituted an essential part in building a partnership of mutual trust and practical cooperation between ASEAN and China."

The minister said it is the strong aspirations of the people of ASEAN and China in seeking cooperation for a win-win result.

He said China has over 100 land and river ports at different levels bordering with the ASEAN countries. The potential for further promoting transport cooperation is great.

Zhang said that the ASEAN-China cooperation has been fruitful in the past months.

He said the construction of Lao section of Kunming-Bangkok Highway started in April this year, with 30 million US dollars of investment from China.

He added that the Intergovernmental Agreement on Asian Highway Network covering 32 countries was concluded in Shanghai in April this year, to which some of the ASEAN countries have become parties.

The minister added that China's linkage with this road network accumulates a mileage of 26,000 kilometres, accounting for 20 per cent of the total length of the network.

He added that China is also stepping up the construction of highways to connect with this network.

The minister said China has provided one-million-US-dollar financial assistance for the pre-feasibility study of the missing link of the Trans-Asian Railway inside Cambodia.

He believed that with the stable long-term cooperation framework and practical cooperative operations, ASEAN and China would surely have a great prospect for the future.

ASEAN groups Brunei, Cambodia, Indonesia, Laos, Malaysia, Myanmar, the Philippines, Singapore, Thailand and Vietnam.

ASEAN-ROK free trade area to be established within 10 years

VIENTIANE, 28 Nov— Foreign ministers of the Association of South-East Asian Nations (ASEAN) and the Republic of Korea (ROK) here Saturday welcomed a document under which an ASEAN-ROK Free Trade Area will be established within 10 years, spokesman of the 10th ASEAN Summit Yong Changthalangs told a Press briefing.

The document, the Joint Declaration on Comprehensive Cooperation Partnership, will be adopted by the ASEAN+ROK Summit on 30 November.

Yong, who is also director of the Press Department of the Lao Foreign Ministry, said that during the ASEAN+ROK Ministerial Meeting, ASEAN welcomed the ROK's decision to accede to the Treaty of Amity and Cooperation in Southeast Asia on Saturday.

The ROK called on ASEAN to continue its support for the six-party talks for the denuclearization of the Korean Peninsula. ASEAN urged the ROK to use the ASEAN regional Forum as another forum to discuss the threat of the proliferation of weapons of mass destruction.

ASEAN expressed appreciation for the ROK's support to economic integration and in narrowing the development gap in ASEAN.

The ministerial meeting noted that the ROK's cumulative investments in ASEAN amounted to 11 billion US dollars as of the end of 2003, which accounted for 15.2 per cent of the ROK's total FDI outflow, making ASEAN the third largest investment destination for the ROK's firms after the United States and China.

The spokesman said that to commemorate the 15th anniversary of ASEAN-ROK relations, the ROK will be launching two special projects, namely, visit of ROK celebrities to ASEAN cities to promote greater cultural understanding and issuance of commemorative stamps which will be presented to the ASEAN-ROK Summit on November 30.

India test-fires "Akash" missile

NEW DELHI, 27 Nov— India successfully test-fired Friday the Akash surface-to-air missile from a range in Orissa State in east India, the Indo-Asian News Service quoted a local defence source as said.

The home-grown multi-target missile was fired from the integrated test range at Chandipur at 12:30 pm, the source said.

Akash, which has a 25-kilometre range, uses a ramjet propulsion system and is powered by an air-breathing engine.

The missile is deployed in tandem with the indigenously developed radar Rajendra, which can simultaneously track 64 aircraft within a range of 40 kilometres to 60 kilometres.

Akash is one of the five missiles under various stages of development by the Defence Research and Development Organization.

Philippines likely to keep 2004 budget deficit below ceiling

MANILA, 27 Nov—The Philippines is likely to keep well within the 2004 budget and consolidated public sector deficit targets due to improved revenue flows and increased electricity tariffs, officials said Friday.

The budget deficit for the first 10 months this year fell 9.9 per cent year-on-year to 147.7 billion pesos (2.62 billion US dollars), while the deficit in October alone reached 5.8 billion pesos (103 million US dollars), according to the government statistics.

"As far as the national government is concerned, we expect a lowering of our deficit for 2004 because of certain improvements in our revenue collection," Finance Secretary Juanita Amatong told a news conference.

The full-year ceiling of about 197.8 billion pesos (3.51 billion US dollars), or 4.2 per cent of the expected gross domestic product (GDP), should be met with room to spare, Trade and Industry Secretary Cesar Purisima said in the same briefing.

"The most likely outcome will be much lower. It's going to be 196 billion pesos (3.48 billion US dollars)," he added.

The full-year figure of the consolidated public sector deficit, which includes financing gaps of state-owned corporations including loss-making National Power Corp, should be much less than the original target of 6.7 per cent of GDP, the two Cabinet members said.

"Our outlook for this year is a 5.6 per cent consolidated public sector deficit," Amatong said.

This would be equivalent to about 257 billion pesos (4.56 billion US dollars), instead of the planned 316 billion pesos (5.61 billion US dollars), Purisima said. Amatong said that 2005 should be a "much better year" with the expected passage in Congress of some of the eight tax measures proposed by President Gloria Maca-pagal-Arroyo.

German police seize firearms; arrest two

BERLIN, 27 Nov—German authorities have seized firearms and arrested two suspected far-right extremists who they say led a society that reenacted battles dressed as Adolf Hitler's SS bodyguards.

Police raided two homes in western Germany and other addresses in the north and east of the country on Thursday, police and prosecutors in the western state of North Rhine-Westphalia said on Friday.

Two suspects aged 20 and 31 were detained after police found two pistols, two machineguns, a home-made automatic weapon and ammunition at their homes.

Neither of the men had licences for the firearms and both were brought before an examining magistrate on Friday.

Chirac to offer French telecom chief finance portfolio

PARIS, 27 Nov —France Telecom chief Thierry Breton emerged as the frontrunner to replace Nicolas Sarkozy as France's finance minister after a report on Thursday that President Jacques Chirac had offered him the job.

Sarkozy is due to step down on Monday to take over as head of the ruling Union for a Popular Movement Party (UMP), a post that will give him a platform to launch an expected presidential bid in an election due in 2007.

Conservative daily Le Figaro reported Chirac had telephoned Breton to offer him the finance portfolio and that Breton had promised to reply by Saturday. If he turned the offer down, Health Minister Philippe Douste-Blazy would get the job, it said.

"We are not aware of anything about this," a France Telecom spokesman said when asked about the report. A spokeswoman at Chirac's office declined to comment on the report in Le Figaro and Sarkozy's spokesman said he had no information on who would take over at the Finance Ministry.

Whoever replaces Sarkozy will face a big task — to trim the public deficit to below 3 per cent of gross domestic product in 2005 to meet European Union targets, help the government reduce unemployment from close to 10 per cent and carry out a pledge by Chirac for more cuts in corporate and income tax.

The name of Breton, 49, has been mentioned increasingly in recent weeks in the absence of an obvious successor. He has been trying to keep telecommunications giant France Telecom afloat after turning around television manufacturer Thomson.

Neither Breton or Douste-Blazy has the experience or political weight of Sarkozy. Whoever succeeds him will largely be an instrument of policies set by Chirac, ensuring none would be in a position to make major policy changes as minister.

"I make decisions, he carries them out," Chirac said of Sarkozy in July, spelling out the relationship he expects to have with his finance minister.

Another newspaper report earlier this week suggested Breton was not interested in the job. Breton himself has remained silent.

US regulators do not ensure airlines comply with rules

WASHINGTON, 27 Nov— US regulators are doing an incomplete job of ensuring that passenger and cargo airlines comply with rules for monitoring hazardous materials, a government audit showed on Friday.

The audit was led by Alexis Stefani, the Transportation Department's assistant inspector-general.

It found that enforcement actions take, on average, more than a year to complete, and many are not pursued because the FAA does not move fast enough to meet deadlines. Also, regulators often agree to accept far less in fines than the amounts they propose.

The investigation found that enforcement by the Federal Aviation Administration remains flawed, even though the agency boosted oversight of dangerous cargo after the 1996 crash of Valujet Flight 592.

The crash, in Florida's Everglades, killed 110 people and was blamed on improperly packaged oxygen generators that caught fire.

While the FAA has improved monitoring of dangerous cargo in recent years, the investigation concluded that current enforcement was "cumbersome, lengthy, and sometimes ineffective." New approaches are needed, the audit recommended.

But the FAA disagreed with the audit's conclusions.

"We don't agree our programme is flawed," said Diane Spitaliere, an FAA spokeswoman. "Hazardous materials is an issue the FAA takes seriously and we have taken many steps to strengthen the programme."

The FAA investigated more than 11,000 enforcement cases between 1999 and 2003 and handed out more than 35 million US dollars in fines, the inspector general's audit reported.

The critique also found the government does not keep thorough records on authorized shipments of hazardous materials.

Pakistani President embarks on Latin America visit

ISLAMABAD, 27 Nov — Pakistani President Pervez Musharraf embarked Friday on eight-day visit to three Latin American countries — Brazil, Argentina and Mexico, becoming the first Pakistani leader to visit the region.

"My discussion in Latin American states would focus on increasing economic and trade ties," Musharraf told reporters at the Chaklala military air base in Islamabad on his departure.

"Our political relations are good with all of them but it needs to be consolidated through economic, commerce and trade relations," he said.

A trade delegation is also accompanying the President on the visit to explore ways and means of enhancing economic relations with these countries, primarily in the private sector.

Musharraf will also visit the United States, Britain and France.

Buckingham Palace terms "Time's" Prince report "irresponsible"

LONDON, 27 Nov — Buckingham Palace on Friday termed "irresponsible" newspaper reports that a kidnap threat forced Britain's Prince Harry to cut short a trip to a polo pony farm in Argentina.

A spokesman for Harry, son of heir-to-the-throne Prince Charles and the late princess Diana, played down front page reports in most British newspapers that armed police foiled a plot to kidnap the young prince.

"I have seen the headlines. It is just hugely irresponsible," the royal spokesman said, declining to categorically deny the stories.

"We never comment on security matters," he added.

Harry, third in line to the throne, arrived back in Britain early on Friday and made no comment to waiting reporters.

The Times trailed the story on its front page with the banner headline: "Kidnap threat forces Prince Harry home".

Citing the Argentine newspaper Pagina 12, the Times said a murder suspect in the local underworld tipped off the Argentine Government about a plot to kidnap the Prince.

The Times report said 15 armed officers were sent to patrol the ranch, in Lobos in the Pampa region, 60 miles southwest of the capital Buenos Aires.

It said police fired shots into the air on Wednesday night after detectives suspected kidnappers were near the ranch.

Local police told Reuters on Thursday that shots were heard near the horse ranch, but said this was nothing unusual.

The mayor of Lobos, Gustavo Sobrero, attributed the shots to hare hunters in comments to radio station Mitre on Thursday.

The British Embassy in Buenos Aires would not comment.

The 20-year-old Prince arrived at the ranch less than a month after scuffling with a photographer outside a central London nightclub.

Harry earned the reputation as a royal "wild child" after revelations that he smoked marijuana and drank when under age.

Russia's Duma passes stricter law on beer

Moscow, 27 Nov — Russia's Lower House of Parliament unanimously passed a stricter law on beer sales and consumption on Friday that widened a proposed list of places where the amber liquid may not be consumed.

The bill now has to be approved by the Upper House, which rejected it earlier this month, and signed into law by the President.

The amended bill is even stiffer than the original, banning beer sales on public transport and in cultural and sports buildings in addition to a list of places including hospitals and schools and the land around them.

In the last five years, beer consumption has doubled in Russia, especially among the younger generation, making it the fastest growing beer market in the world after China.

Both the brewers and the government, which strongly opposes the bill, agree any street ban would be hard to enforce because there are about 600,000 outlets selling beer.

The bill would introduce a ban on beer drinking on the street and in stadiums, parks, public transport and other public sites except restaurants and places selling draught beer.

Some 30 per cent of beer sold in the country is intended for immediate consumption. SUN Interbrew, controlled by Belgium's InBev, says 67 per cent of its Russian sales are made at small street kiosks.

SUN Interbrew sells only 6 per cent of its beer in restaurants in Russia, compared with nearly 30 per cent in Europe, because eating out is prohibitively expensive for most Russians.

The amended bill would come into force 30 days after its publication in the official gazette, instead of on April 1, 2005.

Deputies plan to speed up work on amendments to current legislation that would provide for a 100 rouble (3.50 US dollars) fine for drinking and selling beer in public.

In August, the Duma passed a law to strictly limit beer advertising.

The bill was also opposed by the government, and the Federation Council is preparing an amendment that would allow breweries to advertise at sports events.

UNSG's son paid monthly payments from Swiss firm

UNITED NATIONS, 27 Nov — The son of UN Secretary-General Kofi Annan got monthly payments more than four years longer than was previously known from a Swiss firm that won a lucrative contract under the scandal-ridden UN oil-for-food programme, the United Nations said on Friday.

Kojo Annan, the UN leader's son, was paid 2,500 US dollars monthly — a total of 125,000 US dollars — by Geneva-based Cotecna from the beginning of 2000 through last February, as part of an agreement not to compete with Cotecna in West Africa after he left the firm, UN chief spokesman Fred Eckhard said.

There have been no specific charges of wrongdoing on the part of the Secretary-General in the world body's December 1998 award to Cotecna of a multimillion-dollar contract to monitor Iraqi imports under the oil-for-food programme.

But the disclosure of the extra years of payments renewed questions about conflicts of interest and left Annan and his staff looking inept in their handling of the matter.

The programme, which let Iraq export oil and use the proceeds to buy food and other goods despite a UN ban on oil sales, was shut down after last year's US-led invasion of Iraq.

Auto industry sees growth in Nepal

KATHMANDU, 27 Nov — The automobile industry in Nepal has seen a phenomenal growth in the last decade, with registered vehicles up from 131,839 in 1993-1994 to 432,264 in 2003-2004.

Data provided on Friday by the Nepali Department of Transport Management said the popularity of cars has sky-rocketed in the last couple of years, attesting to the expansion of a section of the society that can absorb the rising costs of vehicles and taxes on automobiles.

The average number of vehicles registered during the last five years stands around 4,500 a year.

Only 2,029 vehicles were registered in the fiscal 2002-2003, but a whopping rise of over 143.5 per cent took place in 2003-2004 with 7,079 vehicles registered, according to the data.

The growth in Business-segment has led to a fierce competition, especially after the entry of car makers like Hyundai and Kia.

Although there is no official figure, Suzuki-Maruti is the acknowledged market leader in this segment with about 40 per cent of the market share.

Industry experts say Hyundai comes the second with about 35 per cent.

The introduction of Santro from Hyundai in 1998 by Avco International Pvt Ltd, distributor of Hyundai motors in Nepal, brought a big change in the B-segment.

"After-sales relations with customers through services and customer-relations management has pushed us to this height.

We sold more than 2,500 cars in six years," said Sunil Shrestha, director at Avco International.

"More than 90 per cent Hyundai cars are purchased under various financial schemes."

Good finance schemes and exciting offers in after sales services as well as changing lifestyle have led to his boom in B-segment, he said.

Serious abuse of int'l aid uncovered

BRUSSELS, 27 Nov — The European Union's anti-fraud watchdog, OLAF, has uncovered serious abuse of international aid with major donors being overcharged for projects and money being siphoned off into secret private bank accounts.

The 25-nation bloc is one of the world's largest aid donors and in its annual report, published on Friday, OLAF said the EU's humanitarian and development aid to third countries was a victim of "complex and well-organized" financial fraud.

"Such fraud takes an advantage of the lack of coordination in the monitoring and auditing activities between the various international donors," the OLAF report said.

"The combination of multiple sources of financing and other factors has increased the complexity of accounting and reporting requirements and so made it easier to divert funds for personal or criminal benefit," it added.

In one case investigated by OLAF, an Italian non-profit organization that was not identified received 11 million euros (14.34 million US dollars) from the European Union and almost 17 million from Italy to finance 28 projects in the third world.

The probe showed the organization had sent fake or duplicate invoices and only part of the money had gone to projects.

Udinese beat Livorno 2-1

MILAN, 28 Nov—Udinese took a firm grip on third place in Serie A by picking up their fourth successive away win with a 2-1 victory at Livorno on Saturday.

Udinese are five points clear of fourth-placed Messina ahead of Sunday's games and within three points of AC Milan, who are second. Leaders Juventus face Inter Milan at the San Siro on Sunday.

Luciano Spalletti's side opened the scoring in the 13th minute with a beautifully worked move finished off in style by Vincenzo Iaquinta, who fired home a powerful shot on the turn.

Livorno almost equalized when their big striker Cristiano Lucarelli had a firm header well saved by Morgan De Sanctis but nine minutes after the break the visitors doubled their lead.

Totti, Montella end Roma's run of defeats

MILAN, 28 Nov—AS Roma ended a run of four defeats with a 4-0 win at Siena in Serie A on Saturday with two goals each from Vincenzo Montella and Francesco Totti.

Udinese took a firm grip on third place by picking up their fourth successive away win with a 2-1 victory at Livorno to move five points clear of fourth-placed Messina ahead of Sunday's games and within three points of AC Milan, who are second.

Leaders Juventus face Inter Milan at the San Siro on Sunday.

Roma's game at Siena was held up for over 20 minutes in the first half when smoke bombs thrown by fans reduced visibility so much that the referee was forced to take the players off.

Roma's goals came in the second half and all four were created by troubled striker Antonio Cassano, who recently looked to be on his way out of the club.

The rebellious Cassano showed his other side, as a gifted creative talent, when he crossed from the left for Montella to head home at the back post in the 59th minute.

Nine minutes later Cassano produced a sublime piece of skill when a corner looked to be going out of play but he managed to flick the ball with the outside of his heel into the path of Montella who converted from close range.

Montella, now Serie A's top scorer with 11 goals, missed a great chance to complete a hat-trick when he shot wide after breaking clear but Roma were unstoppable and soon made it 3-0.

After a swift break, Cassano slipped the ball into the path of Totti who converted a straightforward chance. Then in injury time the pair combined again with Totti coolly lifting the ball over the advancing Siena keeper Marco Fortin.

Wiltord's return to lead Olympique Lyon 2-1 over AJ Auxerre

PARIS, 28 Nov—Sylvain Wiltord scored one goal and made another as he returned to lead Olympique Lyon to a 2-1 victory over AJ Auxerre in a Ligue 1 game on Saturday.

Wiltord, who was back in the starting lineup after a month out with an ankle injury, scored after five minutes before setting up Juninho Pernambucano for the second in the 29th.

Lyon, the only unbeaten side in Ligue 1, now have a six-point lead over second-placed Lille, who host lowly Racing Strasbourg on Sunday.

Wiltord, who has been in excellent form since he joined from English champions Arsenal in the close season, scored from close range early on from a cross by Sidney Govou.

It was the French international's first Ligue 1 goal since he scored for Girondins Bordeaux in May 2000, although he has found the net in the Champions League this season.

"I was looking forward to it," said Wiltord, who had moved to Arsenal in the 2000-2001 season.

"It's my first (Ligue 1) goal with Lyon and it was an early goal. It helped us take it easy enough. I did not have any problems adapting here. I was well looked after. We have a great team and I hope we'll go all the way (in the title race)," he said.

Wiltord, who was a second-half substitute in Tuesday's 2-1 Champions League defeat at Manchester United, was also instrumental in Lyon's second goal scored by Juninho.

The forward crossed from the right wing for the Brazilian international to volley home his fourth goal of the season.

Benoit Cheyrou scored a consolation goal in the 66th minute as Auxerre dominated most of the second half. It was the first goal conceded by Lyon since August.

"We keep on winning in style. It was a good game overall and when our legs let us down, we had enough heart left to hold the result," said coach Paul Le Guen.—MNA/Reuters

Barca hold on leadership of Primera Liga

MADRID, 28 Nov—Barcelona held off a spirited comeback by newcomers Getafe to claim a nervous 2-1 win and cement their hold on the leadership of the Primera Liga on Saturday.

The Catalans went 2-0 up at the break thanks to a fiercely struck free kick from Mexican international Rafael Marquez and a superb strike from Portugal midfielder Deco.

But they had to endure a nervous half hour after Gica Craioveanu pulled a goal back for Getafe early in the second half before the pressure was eased when the Romanian was sent off seven minutes from time for a foul on Deco.

The win puts Frank Rijkaard's side 10 points clear at the top of the table, although second-placed Real Madrid can narrow the gap to seven on Sunday if they beat visiting Levante.

Athletic Bilbao eased concerns about their poor start to the season when they cruised to a classy 3-0 win over Racing Santander, a result that pushed them up to 12th place, four points clear of the relegation zone.

A delightful chip from Santi Ezquerro and a neat header from fellow midfielder Carlos Gurpegui made it 2-0 at the break, while centre-forward Ismael Urzaiz wrapped up the win in the second half with his eighth goal of the season with a trademark header. Barcelona were quick to gain control of possession against Getafe but their well-drilled opponents gave them little time on the ball as they hounded them down in midfield and crowded them out at the back.

The visitors took the lead from a set piece in the 20th minute, Marquez scoring with a scorching 25-metre free kick after Ronaldinho had diverted attention with a decoy run across the face of the area.

Getafe were still dusting themselves down when Barca hit them again with a superbly worked goal after a lightning counter-attack.—MNA/Reuters

Bayern Munich strengthen grip at top of Bundesliga

FRANKFURT, 28 Nov—Bayern Munich strengthened their grip at the top of the Bundesliga with a 4-2 victory at home to FSV Mainz on Saturday as faltering Wolfsburg went down 3-2 at home to Hertha Berlin.

Bayern's sixth win in their last seven league games gave them 32 points from 15 games and took them five clear of second-placed Schalke 04, who are not in action until Sunday, and Wolfsburg, who drop to third.

Claudio Pizarro converted a Ze Roberto cross to put Felix Magath's side ahead after 14 minutes, Mehmet Scholl doubled the lead 10 minutes before the break and Roy Makaay was ruled onside to beat the keeper in first-half injury-time.

Bayern eased up after the break and Christof Babatz and Claudius Weber scored for the visitors late on, either side of a Michael Ballack header.

Wolfsburg recovered from 2-0 down against Hertha Berlin to level with goals from Pablo Thiam and Thomas Brdaric but Brazilian forward Marcelinho completed a hat-trick in the 75th minute to consign the home side to defeat.

Japan, ASEAN to outline anti-terrorism cooperation among police

TOKYO, 28 Nov — Top leaders of Japan and the Association of South-East Asian Nations (ASEAN) are set to adopt a statement next week in Laos outlining anti-terrorism cooperation among their police forces, according to Japanese Foreign Ministry.

Japan and the 10 member states of ASEAN will finalize a joint declaration for international anti-terrorism cooperation at their annual summit meeting scheduled next Tuesday in the Laotian capital of Vientiane.

In a draft declaration obtained Saturday by Xinhua, the countries agree to launch an annual working-level conference among their police officials to review the results of their counterterrorism measures and to examine ways to eradicate the sources of funding for terrorists.

The document also points out that the countries reject attempts to link terrorism with specific religions, ethnic groups or nationalities, likely in consideration of the diverse ethnicities, religions and cultures represented in ASEAN countries.

The leaders are expected to agree to reinforce police cooperation and to call for the early conclusion of treaties aimed at preventing terrorism and for efforts to stop terrorists from taking advantage of charity organizations.

They will also promote cooperation with the Southeast Asian anti-terrorism centre operated by the Malaysian Government and seek to improve the abilities of staff at anti-terrorism organizations through training and other means, according to the draft.

China to establish 18-container distribution centres

NANNING, 28 Nov — China will establish 18-container distribution centres to form a cargo transport network composed of 16,000 kilometres of railways by 2020, an official said here Saturday.

Wang Zhaocheng, Vice-Minister of Railways, said the project would help the country meet the surging demand of freight transport in the railway sector.

According to Wang, the 18 containers distribution centres will be built in major coastal and inland cities, which will be linked by railroads capable of handling double-decker container trains.

Construction on the first centre, based in Kunming, capital of Yunnan Province in southwest China, began in July this year.

It is expected to go into operation in two years at a cost of 500 million yuan (60 million US dollars).

Typhoon "Muifa" kills 11 in central Vietnam

HANOI, 28 Nov — Flash floods triggered by Typhoon Muifa have killed at least 11 people in central Vietnam, officials said on Saturday.

Rains started this week in the central region, wreaking havoc, but no damage has been reported to the harvest in the Central Highlands coffee belt.

"A red alert has been issued as floodwater is rising in all rivers in the area," said a disaster management official from the coastal province of Quang Ngai. He said at least four people from the province had been swept away in flash floods.

Officials from neighbouring provinces including Quang Nam, Thua Thien Hue and Quang Tri said seven people had been killed.

State weather forecasters said floodwater levels in the Thach Han River in Quang Tri Province, around 372 miles south of the capital Hanoi, had peaked at a year-high of 18.54 feet early on Saturday morning.

Weather forecasters reported only mild, occasional rains in the Central Highlands coffee belt.

"The sprinkle has not affected the coffee harvest yet. There might be some delay to the beans-drying process," said a coffee trader in Daklak, Vietnam's key coffee growing province.

The central region incorporating the Central Highlands coffee belt is not a key area for rice.

Vietnam is the world's second biggest exporter of the grain after Thailand, and the largest producer of robusta coffee.

Low-lying areas in Thua Thien Hue Province were inundated.
