Singapore, Thailand, Brunei to sign open-skies deal Monday

SINGAPORE, 25 Dec Transport ministers from Singapore, Thailand and Brunei will sign on Monday an open-skies pact for airline passenger traffic between the three countries, a newspaper reported Friday.

Bangkok, formalizes rights that airlines from the three already have - allowing them to operate an unlimited number of passenger services on any route between all three countries — the report said.

But officials hope the agreement will spur other Southeast Asian states toward similar deals, the Straits Times newspaper said. "It establishes a useful framework for ASEAN to liberalize its passenger services eventually," a spokesman for Singapore's Transport Ministry was quoted as saving.

The 10-country Association of South-East Asian Nations has said it wants a regionwide open-skies deal for access to capital cities in place by 2008.

Chinese foreign trade surges 750 times in 55 years

Beijing,25 Dec—Chinese foreign trade has increased 750 times since the People's Republic of China was founded 55 years ago, serving as a major engine for the growth of world trade, a Chinese trade official said here Friday.

Bo Xilai, Minister of | countries and regions. Commerce, told an annual national working conference on commerce that China was expected to be the third largest trade country in the world this

Chinese foreign trade in the first 11 months of 2004 exceeded 1 trillion US dollars, including 167 billion US dollars' worth trade with North America, 190 billion US dollars with Europe and over 600 billion US dollars with Asian

According to the World Trade Organization, the United States spent 20 years to increase its foreign trade volume from 100 billion US dollars to 1 trillion US dollars and Germany, 26 years. But China did it in 16 years. China's soaring economy spurred trade, which benefits its neighbours as well. Bo said.

In the January-November period, Chinese imports from Asia surged by 37 per cent to hit 334.6 billion US dollars more than 20 per cent of Asia's total imports volume.

Meanwhile Chinese exports were optimizing their structure, the minister said.

China's exports of machinery and electronic products and hi-tech products both recorded growths of over 40 per cent and accounted for 54 per cent and 27.7 per cent of China's total exports, Bo said. — MNA/Xinhua

Venezuelan President blasts US imperialism

Beijing, 25 Dec-Venezuelan President Hugo Chavez on Friday blasted US imperialism, called capitalism, the road to hell and said Mao Zedong and Venezuela's 19th Century independence hero Simon Bolivar would have been mates had they met.

Addressing students and teachers at Peking University. one of China's top schools, the charismatic Chavez won warm applause and chuckles when he declared himself to have been a Maoist from the time he was a child.

"I think if Mao Zedong and Bolivar had known each other they would have been good friends because their thinking was similar," said Chavez, who quoted the late Chairman Mao several times. "Their inspiration came from the same place. It came from humanitarianism...I think if Bolivar had come to China he would have become a socialist," Chavez said speaking in Spanish through a Chinese translator.

Chavez is visiting China hoping to boost China's investment in his country's oil and gas sector. Venezuela, an OPEC member, is the world's fifth-largest oil exporter. The US Government is a favourite target and in Beijing he blamed his troubles in 2002-2003 on the United States.

"The thunder and lightening was created by Washington, this I must say," he said to cheers from a group of student supporters in the audience from Latin America. "This is US imperialism. It wants to become the master of the American continent, but Venezuela's people are the real masters of Venezuela."

During the second war, British troops marching to lower Myanmar to capture the whole area came under attacks launched by Kayin, Gekho and Gebar nationals at the east Yoma mountain ranges.

With the spirit of not allowing to lose even an inch of their land, they unitedly fought the intruders.

Thus, there emerged anti-colonialist patriots like Natshinywe Bo, Bo Thapon, Bo Tha Oo, Bo Moe Oo, Bo Kyaw Zan Hla, and Bo Myat Htun in Yangon, Danubyu, Bago, Pathein, Mawlamyine, and Mottama.

Bo Gaunggyi, a patriotic fighter and former village-head of Tapun district in Thayawady, was contemporary with Bo Myat Htun. Hand in hand with his brother Bo Gaunggalay and Kayin nationals, he raided the Britishstationed towns and villages. The entire national races shouldered their historical duties unreservedly by trying to drive the British intruders out of the country throughout the course of the second Anglo-Myanmar war.

National races such as Kachin, Kayah, Kayin, Chin, Bamar, Mon, Rakhine and Shan are the compatriots living on the soil of Myanmar since yore.

Around mid-1823, a British force invaded Myanmar-owned Shinmaphyu Island. Soon after that, British forces conducted an invasion into the island for the second time and occupied it.

The Lower Myanmar fell into the hands of the British at the end of the second war. For the British colonialists bent on finding fault with Myanmar, the rise of the Bombay-Burma Timber Company issue in April 1885 became a soft option to attack and occupy

With that excuse, the British waged war on Myanmar for the third time. The British's ulterior motive for the third Anglo-Myanmar war was but to annex the Upper Myanmar.

With an inexhaustible supply, forest covers more than half of the area of the country. In other words, Myanmar is an economic hub. Major seaports can be built in the country for navigational purpose. Myanmar being a land of favourable conditions, the colonialists became covetous and attempted to occupy her. Sacrificing their lives, blood and sweat, the entire national races fought three wars with the British colonialists for many years not to lose the independence and sovereignty of the country they cherished.

Despite it, Mandalay Royal Palace fell into the hands of the British colonialists on account of the difference in the balance of power on 28 November 1885.

An analytical approach to the point of Myanmar's falling into servitude will reveal the incapability to defend the country and the insufficiency to maintain the aboveground and underground resources. Though imbued with strong nationalistic spirit and patriotic spirit, the national brethren encountered the encroachment of the colonialists as there lacked consolidation among themselves.

The administrative machinery broke up in disarray in Yadanabon Period, the last dynasty in Myanmar. Taking advantage of lack of unity in the court and among the national races, the colonialists seized the court with ease.

Therefore, a study of the history of Myanmar indicates that there were times in which the country was under the threat of encroachment by the colonialists as a consequence of deteriorating national unity, almost leading to the loss of independence. With independence robbed, the national brethren fought the colonialists, picking up whatever arms they could lay their hands

National races under the command of Htut Lu raided the British bases in Shan and Kayah States

Mobilizing the compatriots of Chin hilly region, Kyuan Bik, a national patriot, fought the British colonialists. In the fights against the colonialists, Prince Shwe Gyo Phyu joined the leaders of Bamar national race like Bo Tha Dun and Bo Tok San, Chin leader Kyuan Bik. Thus, Chin and Bamar nationals launched attacks on the colonialists in Inn-Tin, Taungdwin and Kalay- towns at the foot of Chin hill.

Kachin, Shan and Bamar nationals led by the Wuntho Sawbwa engaged in a fight with the British troops stationed at Hmankintaung Camp. Unbearable with the strong and fierce offensive, the British troops had to withdraw in disarray.

before to extricate themselves from servitude The British colonialists occupied Myanmar with the aim of keeping the whole country at the helm and bringing a total end to the existence of dynasty and race.

The sight of the plight of women crying in streets of villages and the bullish assault on peasants and workers ignited the anti-colonialist sentiment.

The fangs of the colonialists are as fearful as those of the ogres. For their vested interest, the colonialists used various means of discrimination to destroy the unity in their colonies. Moreover, they set the national races against each other, looted the property of the people, and then took the country. The atrocities committed by the colonialists are unerasable from the pages of Myanma history. The memory of the valour and bravery of Myanmar national patriots who risked their lives in the independence struggle still lives on.

With undaunted spirit, they braved the British, whose strength was grater than them, regarding their lives as a leaf or a flower. The fall of Myanmar national patriots in the fights with the British that had superiority in weaponry was like flowers falling to the ground as a result of strong wind. It is due to unyielding spirit and nationalist fervour that they fought to death. The vicious act of the British colonialists was the division of the hill region and the plains. They never let it enter their head the development and prosperity of the hill regions.

They left that regions unattended. They never took the initiative for economic growth, higher education, and social advancement of the residents. That was the 'divide-and-rule' policy exercised in Myanmar by the colonialists.

Thus, there was imbalance in the economic and social phenomena, whereupon the national brethren doubted each other. The colonialists manipulated and enslaved Myanmar in their own interests. Drawing lessons from the ill fates of Myanmar in the international community, the entire national races are to be aware of the danger posed by the neo-colonialists.

How can the threat of the neo-colonialists be deterred? How can independence be safeguarded? The strength of the nation lies within.

It is necessary for the national brethren to realize the tricks of colonialists to ensure the non-disintegration of the Union and the perpetuation of sovereignty. In fact, unity is strength. All in all, independence can be safeguarded with unity.

Furthermore, they with their artistic talent could instil the nationalist sentiment and independence spirit in the people of Myanmar although they were under pressure applied by the colonialists and the fascists throughout the period of independence struggle. The pains they took deserved to be documented.

There is historical evidence that not only did they oppose to the colonialists and the fascists but they themselves also took part in the independence struggle.

It is common sense that the people of the movie world have done their bit in the tasks for safeguarding independence as well as in today's ongoing nation-building tasks.

It is delightful to learn that the history of Myanma movie has been in its prime, and the film artistes have held in high esteem the national duties throughout successive eras. It is my belief that they will continue their efforts and participate in the implementation of the seven-point Road Map that will bring about a disciplineflourishing democratic nation, while carrying out their national duties and preserving the fine tradition of the history of Myanma movie.

However, there still remain some tasks the film artistes have to better the movie world, to improve the movie standard, and to enable Myanmar movies to be on a par with those of the world nations.

Therefore, the onus is on them to preserve the fine traditions of the Myanma movie world.

UN official insists critical report on reforms in Arab world

United Nations, 25 Dec — A senior UN official insisted on Thursday that a critical report on reforms in the Arab world would be issued next year and denied the Bush Administration had censored it.

Mark Malloch Brown the head of the UN Development Programme which is financing the survey, was responding to reports that under pressure from Washington this year's study would not carry the UN logo as in the past.

"Let me be absolutely clear. The report will be published in the first part of next year," Malloch Brown told Reuters in a telephone interview. "It will be a tough, hard-hitting report.'

"No US official has asked us to suppress the report nor has any US official suggested that their contribution would be eliminated or cut because of this year's report" he said

Malloch Brown said delays in issuing the study were due to revisions of the draft in his office to make sure "it meets UN standards of impartiality and objectivity".

"I have been looking at drafts and telling them where there need to be changes," he said. "But the report will be very consistent with earlier reports and call a spade a spade."

The study, known as Arab Human Development Report, is the work of independent Arab specialists, mostly development experts, social scientists, liberals and reformers, UNDP has financed and sponsored their work. MNA/Reuters

Russia successfully test-fires "Topol-M" ballistic missile

Moscow, 25 Dec- Russia successfully test-fired a mobile version of the intercontinental Topol-M ballistic missile on Friday in the last of four testfirings before its deployment next year, Interfax news agency reported.

Known as Russia's most sophisticated nuclear missile, it can be fitted with a single or multiple warheads and hit targets more than 6,200 mile away.

Putin defends nationalization of YUKOS' main assets

Moscow, 25 Dec — Russian President Vladimir Putin said Thursday that the state had used an "absolutely legal market mechanism" to acquire the main assets of oil giant YUKOS.

Speaking at an annual Press conference in the Kremlin, Putin said state petroleum company Rosneft bought Baikalfinansgroup, which won the secretive auction Sunday for YUKOS' core production unit Yuganskneftegaz, to protect the interests of the state.

"Today the state, using an absolutely legal market mechanism, is protecting its interests. I consider this perfectly normal," Putin said.

In an auction clouded in secrecy on Sunday, a previously unknown Baikalfinansgroup bought about 77 per cent of the shares of YUKOS' Siberian crown jewel after offering 9 35 billion dollars

YUKOS is Russia's largest oil producer and Yuganskneftegaz has reserves of 11.63 billion barrels of oil, 17 per cent of the country's total.

Rosneft, a 100-per-cent state-owned company, announced just before midnight it had acquired 100 per cent of the shares of Baikalfinansgroup.

Rosneft is merging with state-run gas monopoly Gazprom, the world's largest gas producer, to create a national oil and gas corporation. The new entity would account for a fifth of Russian oil output and nearly all its gas production, making it the biggest global energy group.

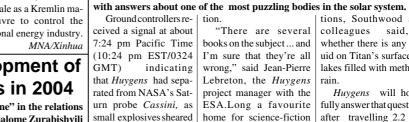

Putin said he believes Russian energy companies are developing dynamically. "They are developing at a high speed and there are basically good dynamics there," he said.

Russia's oil and gas production grew 5.2 per cent and 3 per cent respectively in 2004, and energy exports increased during the same period, Putin said.

Rosneft was Russia's seventh biggest group in the oil sector before buying Yuganskneftegaz. It produced 19.4 million tons of oil in 2003.

The Sunday auction raised concerns in Western countries, which see the sale as a Kremlin manoeuvre to control the national energy industry.

Miami Heat past Los Angeles Lakers in X'mas Day showdown

Los Angeles, 26 Dec— Eddie Jones and Dwyane Wade each scored four points in overtime to lift the Miami Heat past the Los Angeles Lakers, 104-102, in the much-anticipated Christmas Day showdown at Staples Centre.

The game marked the return of Shaquille O'Neal to Los Angeles, where he played against Kobe Bryant for the first time. O'Neal spent eight seasons with the Lakers and captured three NBA championships alongside Bryant.

However, despite that success, the two players were unable to establish a long-lasting relationship and O'Neal was eventually traded to the Heat in exchange for Lamar Odom, Brian Grant, Caron Butler and a first-round draft pick. Butler missed the game due to a onegame suspension for punching New Orleans guard Dan Dickau on Wednesday.

O'Neal fouled out with 2:15 left in the fourth quarter, finishing with 24 points and 11 rebounds. Wade collected 29 points and 10 assists for the Heat, who tied a franchise record with their 11th straight win.

"My team came out and played well," O'Neal said. "That's all we wanted to Odom contributed 24 points and 11 boards, while Chris Mihm chipped in 11 points and 14 rebounds for Los Angeles.

The Heat opened the extra session with a 6-2 spurt, highlighted by four points from Eddie Jones, to grab a 100-96 lead.

Beckham considers possible to reach Barcelona

MADRID, 26 Dec— In spite of a 13-point lead Barcelona has over Real Madrid, the local league is not yet lost to midfielder David Beckham, who assured Saturday that after Christmas things will change.

In remarks to the local television channel of Real Madrid, the player assured the team has the best players of the world, and that doing what it takes "it still is possible to reach Barcelona."

"We can approach them, but in order to do so we need to play the way we know," the English international said.

Real Madrid has not had a regularity this season in spite of having some of the best players of Europe. The team coached by Mariano Garcia is one of the few European clubs with possibilities in winning the local tournament, the UEFA Champions League and Cup, and to Beckham, Real could win the three. Nonetheless he remembered that last year the possibilities were the same, but in the last two months of the competitions it all crumbled down.

Nick Saban becoming sixth head coach of Miami Dolphins

ORLANDO (Florida), 26 Dec— LSU head coach Nick Saban announced on Saturday night that he will become the new head coach of the Miami Dolphins beginning in the 2005 season.

Just after landing in central Florida with the Tigers, who will play Iowa in the Capital One Bowl here on New Year's Day, Saban said he is ready to take the next step and begin coaching in the NFL.

"I've always been driven by challenges," Saban said of becoming the sixth head coach in Dolphins' history. "This is a great opportunity and a tremendous challenge. I know there is a lot to be learned."

Terms of the agreement, which has not been officially signed, were not released but it is believed to be a fiveyear deal.

Saban led LSU to a share of the 2003 national championship and this season guided the Tigers to a record of 9-2. He leaves the school after the first season of a seven-year contract.

"Our time at LSU has been the most rewarding and self-gratifying time of my life professionally," he added about his five-year stint as the head man at LSU

The Dolphins, meanwhile, are on the way to their worst season in franchise history. Miami is just 3-11, already matching a team record for losses set during the club's 3-11 expansion campaign of 1966.

Dave Wannstedt resigned as Dolphins head coach on November 9 after a 1-8 start. Jim Bates has been serving as the interim head coach.

Saban has had flirtations with NFL teams in the past, including a meeting last season with the Chicago Bears. He took over an LSU programme that was 3-8 in 1999 and guided the Tigers to an 8-4 mark with a Peach Bowl victory in 2000 in his first season in Baton Rouge. He followed that with a victory in the Sugar Bowl the next year.
