Grow more monsoon paddy for food sufficiency

As the Union of Myanmar is an agricultural country, working for the development of all the economic sectors with the development of agriculture as the base is a practical approach. Therefore, virgin and vacant land is being reclaimed to increase the acreage of arable land and priority is being given to per-acre yields of various crops.

To boost the production of the agriculture sector, irrigation facilities are being constructed wherever possible to supply sufficient water to farmland. With the emergence of dams, sluice gates and river water pumping stations, cultivation of monsoon and summer paddy, beans and pulses and other crops can now be extended.

As Bago Division is a region where farming industry flourishes, it is one of the regions that can contribute to national economy. Efforts are being made to put more than 3 million acres of farmland under monsoon paddy and extend the cultivation of other crops suitable to the region. In addition to paddy, priority should also be given to the cultivation of rubber, pepper and physic nut from which bio diesel can be extracted.

Regiments and units, departments and farmers in Shwegyin Township, Bago Division, are growing these major crops on a manageable scale as well as on a commercial scale. Myanmar General and Maintenance Industries under the Ministry of Industry-1 is taking care of rubber trees on 2,000 out of 6,000 acres of rubber it has grown and will grow more in this rainy season.

With reclamation of more arable land, supply of more water to farmland, use of quality strains and new farming methods, more monsoon and summer paddy can be grown. In this way, yields of various crops will increase, thus contributing to food sufficiency.

Cuba tells EU end "complicity" on CIA flights

GENEVA, 21 June — Cuba on Tuesday called on the European Union (EU) to end a "silent complicity" under which it said the bloc had allowed secret CIA flights to transport terror suspects to detention centres in Europe for interrogation.

Foreign Minister Felipe Perez Roque, in a speech to the United Nations Human Rights Council, also accused the United States of running a "concentration camp" at its Guantanamo naval base on Cuba, where some 460 people are being held.

The new Geneva forum, which replaces the widely-discredited UN Human Rights Commission, opened its first session on Monday amid calls by UN Secretary-General Kofi Annan and others to avoid the finger-pointing and political point-scoring of old.

Cuba awaited a "rectification to the silent complicity" with which it said the EU had allowed hundreds of secret flights by the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) carrying "kidnapped people and the establishment of clandestine prisons right on European soil, where prisoners are tortured and harassed", Perez said.

"So far, the European Union has hypocritically hindered the investigation and the clarification of these events," he added.

A Council of Europe investigator, Swiss Dick Marty, said earlier this month that more than 20 mostly European nations had colluded in a "global spider's web" of secret CIA jails and flight transfers of terrorist suspects stretching from Asia to Guantanamo Bay.

The United States — which has maintained a stance of neither denying nor confirming the allegations—chose not to stand last month for election to the new UN rights watchdog, but has said it may do so next year. Perez also accused the EU of having lobbied unsuccessfully at Washington's behest against Havana winning a seat on the new 47-member body.

"The absence of the United States is the defeat of lies; it is the moral punishment for the haughtiness of an empire," Perez said.

20 June another good day for Singaporeans to get married

SINGAPORE, 21 June — A total of 171 couples in Singapore chose to get married Tuesday because the date is written as "20-06-2006", Channel NewsAsia report said at night.

The number is more than three times the daily average of 50 couples.

The double date, which happens to be in the World Cup season, is special and interesting to some Singaporeans and a couple even flew back from the United States to tie the knot on the day, the report said. On 6 June this year, an 11-year record number of 310 couples went through their marriage registration in Singapore because the date is written as "060606".

Many Chinese believe that the number "6" stands for good luck and doing things smoothly.

Giant panda numbers surprise scientists

BEIJING, 20 June— Scientists say giant pandas may not be in as much danger of extinction as feared, with a new British-Chinese study finding there could be twice as many living in the wild as previously thought.

"This finding indicates that the species may have a significantly better chance of long-term viability than recently anticipated, and that this beautiful animal may have a brighter future," the scientists said in a statement.

Until now scientists thought there were about 1,590 giant pandas living in reserves in the mountains of China. Pandas, one of the world's most endangered and elusive animals, are dependent on bamboo found in that area.

But scientists from Cardiff University and the Chinese Academy of Sciences now think there could be as many as 3,000 there after a survey using a new method to profile DNA from panda faeces revealed there was more than double the number of estimated pandas in one reserve. "This was surprising and exciting. In our opinion, the same parameters can be applied across the whole mountain range," Mike Bruford, professor of biodiversity at Cardiff University's School of Biosciences, said.

Romanian soldier killed in Afghan blast

KABUL, 21 June— A roadside bomb hit a convoy of Romanian troops in Afghanistan's southern province of Kandahar on Tuesday, killing a Romanian soldier and wounding four others, a spokesman for the US-led coalition said.

Major Quentin Innes said the blast struck a car in the convoy on the road from Kandahar City to the airport, a coalition base.

"A Romanian patrol convoy was hit...resulting in the death of one Romanian soldier and wounding four others," he said.

In another incident, US forces on Tuesday shot dead three Afghan police who were on their way to disperse a group of residents who had blocked a main road in Wata Pur of eastern Kunar Province to protest the shooting of two women by US soldiers, provincial police chief said.

One of the two later died in a US military hospital, Abdul Jalal Jalal told reporters. The women were wounded two days ago after US soldiers fired at homes in Wata Pur when a vehicle of the convoy they were in was hit by a roadside bomb.

Vietnam consistently adheres to friendly ties with China

HANOI, 21 June— Vietnam treasures the development of relations and clings to the unchangeable friendship with China, hoping to ceaselessly promote exchange and cooperation between the two parties, states, peoples as well as among organizations and localities, a local official said here Tuesday.

Pham The Duyet, Chairman of the Vietnam Fatherland Front, made the statement when meeting with Hu Qianwen, Chinese Ambassador to Vietnam.

Duyet said he hoped the two sides will unceasingly reinforce and deepen the mutual understanding and traditional friendship between the two peoples, and strengthen the publicity and education about the Vietnam-China traditional friendship among the peoples, especially youths, to inherit the friendship looked after by leaders of the two countries, facilitating the bilateral ties to enter a new period.

Duyet expressed thanks to the Chinese Government and people for having actively searched for Vietnamese fishermen missing in the Typhoon Chanchu, saying that it shows the fraternal friendly relations between the two countries and their close ties in misfortune. Vietnam will never forget China's help, he stated.

Number of global millionaires grows

DUBAI, 20 June— United Arab Emirates — The increasing ease of becoming a millionaire became clear on Tuesday, with the announcement that the ranks of world millionaires had swelled to 8.7 million last year — half a million more than the population of New York City.

Millionaires also invested more aggressively, pouring cash into emerging markets and pulling it out of fixed income holdings, as their wealth reached $33.3 trillion, more than double US economic output, a study by Merrill Lynch and consultancy Capgemini found. The red-hot Middle East saw nearly 10 percent growth in millionaires — the world's fastest rate — with record oil revenues and soaring stock markets pushing 300,000 people over the million-dollar mark.

"This is becoming a very attractive place to invest," said Mones R Bazy, Merrill Lynch's head of Middle East private banking, based in the Gulf boomtown of Dubai. One factor in the Middle East's growth in millionaires was the stock markets that spiked by more than 100 percent in Saudi Arabia and the United Arab Emirates last year.

Worldwide, the number of millionaires has nearly doubled since Merrill Lynch found 4.5 million of them in 1996. Last year's 6.5 percent growth in millionaires slowed slightly over last year's 6.6 percent, with the US and Europe slowing most alongside their cooling economies.

But the ranks of the ultra-rich — those worth more than $30 million — climbed by more than 10 percent to 85,400.—Internet

Poorest countries see some growth but poverty rates persist

UNITED NATIONS, 21 June — An increase in development aid since 2002 has raised health and education standards and hastened gender equality among the world's poorest nations, but overall poverty conditions are not improving, a new United Nations report said on Monday.

The 2006 annual progress report of UN Secretary-General Kofi Annan on the implementation of the Programme of Action for the Least Developed Countries (LDCs) said that domestic reforms and a revival of commodity prices have underpinned strong economic growth in many of those States. A number of them also benefited from a steep rise in oil prices.

But despite signs of progress, extreme poverty has deepened, and overall social indicators remain cause for concern, the report warned.

Chronic poverty continues to be aggravated by diseases such as HIV/AIDS and by environmental degradation, said the report, which Annan submitted to the Economic and Social Council.—MNA/Xinhua

Fish oil supplements ease ADHD symptoms

AUSTALIA, 21 June— Research by Adelaide scientists suggests that fish oil could be as effective at treating hyperactive children as conventional medicines.

A University of South Australia study gave more than 130 children with attention deficit hyperactivity disorder a combination of fish oil and evening primrose oil for up to seven months.

At the end of the trial almost half the children showed a reduction in their symptoms.

The head scientist, Natalie Sinn, says the results suggest that an inadequate diet could cause ADHD.

"[It] could be deficient diet, could be an inherited metabolic problem that is making them deficient in the omega-3 fatty acids and hence creating a greater requirement for supplementation," she said.—Internet

Brazilian company starts biodiesel project

RIO DE JANEIRO, 21 June — Brazilian biodiesel producer BSBios on Tuesday started constructing the country's first biodiesel plant, which is expected to produce fuel from vegetable oils and reduce diesel fuel imports.

To be located in Passo Fundo, in the Rio Grande do Sul State, the plant will be able to produce 100 million litres of biodiesel annually when it starts production in 2007, said Minister of Rural Development Guilherme Cassel.

Using soy, canola and sunflower seeds to produce biodiesel, the plant will process around 90 tons of grains per year. It is expected to create over 1,100 jobs and around 4,100 families who produce grains in 100 towns near Passo Fundo will be benefited, said Cassel.

BSBios invested 40.9 million reais (17.7 million US dollars) in the project. The company's commercial director Erasmo Carlos Battistella said the plant is near major fuel distributors, who are future possible clients.

The project also received the Social Fuel Stamp from Brazil's Ministry of Rural Development, enabling it to buy cheaper raw materials from local producers.

Hydrogen-powered buses debut in China

BEIJING, 21 June—Three hydrogen-powered buses appeared in streets of Beijing on Tuesday, bringing emission-free public transport to China for the first time.

“This marks the first public operation of fuel-cell buses in Beijing, it is the first ever in China, and one of the first in a developing country,” said Renaud Meyer, Deputy Resident Representative of the United Nations Development Programme in China. “The hydrogen refuelling station will be fully operational this summer.” The buses will run 18.2 kilometres from the North Gate of the Summer Palace to the university district at Wudaokou.

Thirty-three fuel-cell buses have been released onto the streets in eight European countries including Britain, Germany and Spain. “It is our hope that through this project, we can build the foundation towards full-scale commercialization of hydrogen fuel-cell buses to promote sustainable transport, the use of renewable energy, and cleaner air,” Meyer said.

In Beijing and Shanghai, public buses are among one of the major contributors to air pollution. Later this year, three more fuel-cell buses will be launched in Shanghai and a hydrogen refuelling station will be built. Beijing will expand the hydrogen refuelling station, and use data from the operation of the three buses to support efforts to commercialize fuel-cell technology.

Diabetes rate doubles in 30 years

UNITED NATIONS, 21 June—The occurrence of new cases of type-II diabetes has doubled over the past three decades, a report in the American Heart Association's journal Circulation says.

“Most, but not all, of the increase in diabetes occurred in people who were obese - those with a body mass index of 30 or more.” lead author Dr Caroline S Fox said.

The findings are based on a study of 3104 subjects, with an average age of 47 years, who were free from diabetes when they enrolled in the 1970s, 1980s or 1990s.

After an initial examination, the subjects were followed to document the occurrence of diabetes over eight-year periods. In the 1970s, the incidence of diabetes was the lowest, at 2 per cent among women and 2.7 per cent among men.

By the 1990s, the corresponding rates had climbed to their highest points: 3.7 per cent and 5.8 per cent.

Compared with the 1970s, the risk of developing diabetes in the 1980s and 1990s increased by 40 per cent and 105 per cent, respectively.

As noted, obese individuals accounted for the bulk of the increase in the incidence of diabetes, the report says.

However, the researchers found that weight did not account for all of the increase in the odds of developing diabetes. They suggest that “changes in dietary and physical activity patterns that are independent of changes in body weight may also contribute to the present findings”.

For example, the team says another study shows “consumption of sugar-sweetened beverages is an independent risk factor for diabetes, even after adjustment for weight gain”. —Internet

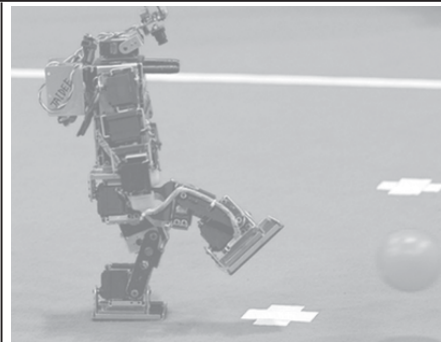

GAID vows to narrow digital divides in the world

KUALA LUMPUR, 21 June—The newly-born Global Alliance for Information and Communication Technologies and Development (GAID) Tuesday vowed to narrow the digital divides between the rich and the poor around the world. “The Alliance will strive to overcome the social and digital divides by promoting policies and partnerships” GAID said in a statement issued at the end of its inaugural meeting at Putrajaya, the administrative centre of the Malaysian Government.

Translation of the commitments made at the World Summit of the Information Society into action would really make a tangible and sustained difference in the lives of billions of people who currently do not share the benefits of the information revolution, GAID said.

“The irony of the present situation is that those who are currently with the least access to technology are precisely the ones who would benefit the most if wonders of modern information and communication technologies become indeed accessible and relevant to all of humanity,” it said. The Alliance vowed to put the problems and needs of the majority of humanity onto the “radar screens” of thinkers, business executives and government decision makers by supporting and initiating ICT for Development (ICT4D) activities. —MNA/Xinhua

Mobile TV service attracts more industry players in S'pore

SINGAPORE, 21 June — Channel NewsAsia, Singapore's sole news television (TV) channel, has begun providing third-generation (3G) mobile service subscribers in the city state with mobile TV news reports. Singapore Telecommunications' (SingTel) subscribers can watch “video clips compacted into one-minute news” on their 3G mobile phones, according to a report by the channel on Tuesday.

This service is available in English and Mandarin twice a day from Monday to Friday at present and is expected to be extended to weekends later this year.

Meanwhile, world's leading mobile phone maker Nokia regards Singapore as the next potential market to expand its multimedia business including mobile TV, a separate news report said Tuesday.

Given the nearly 100 per cent mobile phone penetration rate here, Singaporeans' readiness to accept hi-tech products, as well as the support by the government and local firms, the Finnish company expects great potential in mobile broadcasting in the city state.

It is estimated that some 300 million mobile phone users worldwide can access TV programmes on their phones by the end of this year, according to the report.

SingTel, one of the major telecommunications operators in Singapore, rolled out its 3G TV mobile service in November last year, while StarHub, one of SingTel's rivals, launched its i-mode mobile Internet service a week later, which enabled users to access certain TV news web sites. — MNA/Xinhua

Nepali villagers rush to collect “Himalayan Gold”

KATHMANDU, 21 June — Villagers in far western region of Nepal bear a deserted look as most of their residents are out collecting the prized herb yarsagumba, The Himalayan Times reported on Tuesday.

The yarsagumba, an aphrodisiac, which grows around this season is a main source of income for residents of the region, according to the English newspaper. An estimated 30,000 people have gathered in the forests of the Himalayan Darchula District, some 800 kilometres west of Kathmandu, to collect yarsagumba, the report said.

Work in the government offices has almost stopped in the region after most of the people of all age groups left their homes to collect the half-mushroomhalf-caterpillar yarsagumba, also known as the “Himalayan Gold” for its high commercial value and a treatment for impotency.

Some two dozen schools have been closed for 45 days after students, too, are out on the yarsagumba collecting spree, the report said. Collection of yarsagumba starts in the last week of May and continues up to the second week of July every year. It is stated that some eight to 10 quintals of yarsagumba is collected in Darchula every year. — MNA/Xinhua

Lao Govt determined to deal with poverty issues

HANOI, 21 June — The Lao Government is planning strategies to reduce poverty in the next five years, Laos’ news agency KPL reported Monday.

Laos will focus on creating more permanent jobs for local people, especially those in rural and mountainous areas, while upgrading infrastructure and promoting agricultural production in the areas, according to a recent statement released by Prime Minister Bouasone Bouphavanh.

The government will encourage local people to abandon the outdated slash-and-burn cultivation, and focus more on using advanced techniques in agricultural production, animal raising and marketing. After surveying real living conditions of poor people in northern and southern regions, it will move some of them to less disadvantaged areas.

The government will offer 49,500 US dollars to each of 47 poorest districts nationwide to support agricultural production. It will also provide money to renovate revolutionary bases, mainly in remote areas with poor residents.

The government will keep on using a poverty reduction fund supported by the World Bank to developing infrastructure, including bridges and roads, in more remote areas. Half of the fund totalling 25 million dollars has been disbursed so far.

UNESCO awards literacy prize to Cuban agency

HAVANA, 21 June — The United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO) has awarded Cuba’s Latin American and Caribbean Educational Agency the 2006 Rey Sejong Literacy Prize for its Yo Si Puedo (Yes I can) literacy programme, Cuba’s official newspaper Granma said on Tuesday.

The UNESCO committee which includes judges from the United States, Ecuador, South Korea, China, Senegale and Syria, described the Cuban programme as innovative, flexible and applicable.

The programme has been tested in both rural and urban areas, and Cuban teachers have managed to design a model that contains measures which allow teachers to see the impact of developing literacy in the family and the community as well as the individual.

Hecto Hernandez Pardo, Cuba’s representative to UNESCO, said that the award was for a programme that was specifically designed to help teach literacy overseas.

It has already received awards from Pakistan’s National Human Development Commission, Turkey’s Mother and Child Education Foundation, Morocco’s Education Ministry, and the Permanent Education and Literacy Agency of the Indian state of Rajasthan, Pardo added.

The prize will be presented on September 8 as part of the United Nations’ International Literacy Day.

The plots of saboteurs inside and outside the nation and the truth that should be realized —3

Soe Mya Kyaw and Saw Mya Aung

Government Computer College in Hpa-an opened on 10.6.2006.

It is common knowledge that alien powers regard the nations like Myanmar that do not accept alien domination as their enemy nations or the target of their political warfare. The people are therefore to be well vigilant against the ongoing political warfare operation of the alien powers through which they are persuading Myanmar's friendly nations and the nations that support Myanmar to marginalize the country, and to bring forward Myanmar affairs to the UN Security Council to take action against it.

In the book "Political Warfare" by American mediaman John Scott, tactics of the political warfare are stated such as to weaken the strength of the enemy, if possible to apply diplomatic means, to impose economic sanction, to issue correct news stories mixed with false ones, and to incite mass demonstrations and commit terrorist acts.

The intention of the economic sanction imposed against Myanmar by the Western powers is to subdue the country and then to knock it down. Their attitude is indeed to crush Myanmar, and that is totally against the national solidarity, democracy movement and interests of the people.

Certainly, foreigners, expatriates, and anti-government politicians and insurgents at home have no sympathy for Myanmar and its people because major requirements and prospects of the nation and the people are not their concerns. Hence, the government and the people are to make harmonious efforts in exerting the strength of the nation to create a brighter future of the nation.

The people should be able to distinguish between true friends and fair weather friends and between constructive efforts and destructive acts, crush the enemies, ward off destructive acts but accept constructive efforts, and take necessary steps effectively. Only then, will we be able to hand down fine traditions to new generation youths.

The progress rate of a human society rests on the intellectual improvement of each citizen. If each citizen can enhance their individual personality, they will achieve the social life to which they are aspiring.

In the world history, the parliamentary democracy system also known as political democracy is economic democracy system that depends on the market-oriented economic system. With the proper evolution of the market-oriented economic system, there will be an increase in the number of productive forces in the nation such as national entrepreneurs, intellectuals, middle social class, and modern factories and workers. In reality, democracy is the political system that comes into existence with the leading role played by entrepreneurs and intellectuals and intelligentsia, and support of workers, farmers and the people. That is the fruit of the proper evolution of the market-oriented economic system.

Nevertheless, today, the Western powers and their lackeys and internal and external anti-government groups still regard as military junta the Tatmadaw Government that is taking all possible steps practically for the proper evolution of the market-oriented economic system. Furthermore, they are misleading the people into their misconception that democracy can be introduced to the nation only after the downfall of the ruling government after mass protests resulting from economic crisis caused by economic sanction imposed against the nation and the NLD's coming to power. However, in the pragmatic world, all of their acts are found to be just a clever deception to help the NLD come to power at the expense of the nation and the people.

Democracy exists very close to mobocracy and anarchism. So, they are plotting clandestine schemes to enable the subversives at home and abroad to change over from one system to another easily. Not only the world but also Myanmar has witnessed a number of incidents in which decisions are made under the mob rule shouting democracy and such mob rules are closely followed by anarchism.

In introducing democracy to a nation, it is required to abide by the rules and regulations but to refrain from mobocracy and anarchism. Looking forward to the progress of the future nation with peace mass demonstrations featured in the pamphlets being distributed in line with the well-organized plots masterminded by certain alien powers. In the general review stated in the pamphlet, mass demonstration is labeled as revolution. So, it is obvious that they are advocating defiance of authority and violence. It says that democracy movement will be brought to fruition if people play an active role in the revolution. It also says their ultimate goal is to bestow power upon the NLD through Pyithu Hluttaw (legislative body) after putting an end to the administrative machinery of the government by translating the 1990 election results into reality without fail.

Among their tactics is their excuse is logical that the entire Myanmar is impoverished, it is out of the question that basic foods and personal goods are abundant in the nation.

The report requests people to stay away from committing crimes such as gang-bullying, revenge, violence and looting, and also urges them not to worry about those crimes. It says that if the people can present a secret list of violators, severe actions will be taken against the criminals according to the law as the persons disturbing and destroying the revolution, after the revolution. What it really means is that there can be victims as well as crimes including looting, arson, beheadings, murders etc, and that the people should exercise tolerance during and stability, the government is therefore building a peaceful, modern and developed democratic nation with flourishing discipline that is not associated with mobocracy and anarchism.

In other words, in accord with the desire of the people, the government is pursuing the national goal through ways and means.

However, it is disheartening to learn the tactics designed to incite a programme intended to break up the Tatmadaw that is safeguarding and defending the mother country from dangers.

It says armed conflicts will come to an end if there is collapse of the Tatmadaw. It calls for taking over of wards and villages and steps for dissolution of the administrative machinery. It also says that people should not worry about the hunger in the period of the revolution because unlike in 1988, basic foods such as rice, edible oil and salt and personal goods are abundant everywhere even in countryside.

It says that the root cause of their democracy revolution is that the government has made the country poverty-stricken in various sectors. Supposing the revolution. As the victims can file law suits against the criminals only after the revolution, it's like telling them to prosecute the violators from their grave.

The report also says that unlike the 1988 unrest, the democracy revolution will end within days as everything is ready for the formation of a new government and its goal is to materialize the 1990 election result. But who will descend from the heaven to save Myanmar from bloodbath and inferno resulting from the brainwork of the national traitors and reckless persons? In the conclusion part, the instigative letter urges experienced politicians, all the political parties, all the Pyithu

Hluttaw members and NLD youths to make preparations and coordination to be able to take part in the phase two and phase three of the revolution. When I read the two phases, I came to know that the phase two was concerned with the task of temporarily governing the country, and the phase three, immediate formation of a government led by Daw Suu Kyi after the speedily convening the Hluttaw.

In brief, the so-called general review for the people being distributed by internal and external saboteurs under the management of foreign powers urges the people to sacrifice their lives and blood for the NLD to grab power according to the 1990 election results, face famine, and crown the NLD as the king on the throne made through public sacrifices even though the country is reduced to ashes.

It is common knowledge that peace, modernization and development and discipline-flourishing democratic state are indivisible as they always come together. The duty of all citizens who want democracy is to participate in strengthening national peace and progress, the foundation of democracy.

It is an internationally accepted principle that democratic rights and the responsibilities are closely intertwined. All the democracy activists have the duty to observe the law and the rules and regulations of the state and communal and social codes of conduct and principles. The act of enjoying socio-economic rights within the framework of the law while striving to ensure peace and stability, the rule of law, and development of the nation is the right as well as the duty of the people.

The gentle and smooth transition to a public-desired peaceful and modern democratic state requires public cooperation based on intellect and knowledge.

The people will be able to overcome with caution all kinds of disturbances, various forms of deceptions, and the many attempts to divide the nation and walk properly on the correct road to the national cause.

Since 1988, the government has been striving to achieve marked progress in the entire nation despite internal and external disturbances and hardships. Progress is being made, but democracy transition has yet to be completed. The government has already proclaimed the laying down and implementation of the seven-step Road Map for smooth and gentle transition to democracy.

Democracy cannot be established with words or mantras overnight. Failure to introduce democracy systematically will be followed by national fragmentation resulting from the rule of gangland crimes and anarchy. That is why democracy is described as a discipline-flourishing democracy. What we need to do during the transitional period is to build and protect the sound foundations for flourishing and everlasting democracy.

Of the sound foundations, the foremost need is the prevalence of peace and stability and the rule of law in the whole nation including border areas. All have witnessed that nothing can be done without community peace and stability in this regard.

Thanks to the national reconsolidation after ensuring peace and stability in the entire nation, 17 major armed groups and small groups returned to the legal fold and some other groups unconditionally exchanged arms for peace. Except a few places in the border where SSA-S and KNU are holding up under the guise of refugees, peace and stability is prevailing in the whole nation. Peace and stability is followed by emergence of development infrastructures everywhere.

The government has been striving in all sectors to strengthen the economy and extend economic foundations. The national economy was in the doldrums beginning 1986, the nation's GDP is a record low reaching K 4,714 million in 1988-89 when the Tatmadaw government started to assume the State duties.

As the Tatmadaw Government adopted the market economy as part of its national economic policy promoting the private sector, there has been yearly improvement in GDP. The GDP increased from K 4,714 million in 1988-89 to K 219,552 million in 2005-2006 fiscal year, according to provisional figures of the year. This constitutes the growth of 47 times. The population of Myanmar in 1988-89 stood at more than 41 million and today it is more than 54 million or nearly 55 million.

In 1988, Myanmar produced a total of 654 million baskets of paddy. Now the country is able to produce nearly 1,200 million baskets or almost double the amount of 1988. The present population of over 54 million people will require 810 million baskets. Productive capacity in the agriculture, livestock, forestry and other economic sectors also rose, resulting in the increased export amounting to over US $ 2,770 million in 2005. The goods imported were valued at US $ 1,600 million only. So, there was trade surplus of nearly US $ 1,200 million.

Meanwhile, Gross National Product (GNP) was also on gradual increase; the growth was 12 per cent in 2004 and 12.2 per cent in 2005. Inflation rate remained at 9 per cent and efforts are being made to bring down this to 5 per cent. Trade surplus, the growth in GDP and the fall in the inflation rate indicate economic development of the nation.

As the government in every way has encouraged and enabled the private sector to play an active role in the national economic development drive, the sector's involvement at present is 90 per cent. Out of the export value of US $ 2.4 billion in 2003-2004, the private sector exported

US $ 1.3 billion or 55.5 per cent.

The private sector has established 32,534 small-scale industries, 26,149 medium-scale industries and 3,194 major industries. Efforts are being made to increase the role of the private sector by 25 per cent during the five-year period starting from this year, 2006, to 2010.

Up to 31-1-2006, domestic investments accounted for K 122,730.68 million and foreign investments amounted to US $ 7,785.86 million. There are 27 nations and regions that have invested in Myanmar. They are: Australia, Austria, Bangladesh, Brunei, Canada, China, Cyprus, Denmark, France, Germany, Hongkong, India, Indonesia, Israel, Japan, Macao, Malaysia, Panama, the Philippines, Republic of Korea, Singapore, Sri Lanka, Switzerland, Thailand, the Netherlands, England and the United States. Domestic and foreign economic enterprises that were registered up to 2005-2006 were 17,162.

While laying economic foundations and infrastructures conducive to national progress, the government has concentrated on intellectual development and enhanced thinking power of the people.

The adult literacy rate rose to 94.1 per cent in 2005-2006 academic year. The number of Internet users also increased in the country and the growth rate was the highest in South-East Asia during the period of five years. These indicate the momentum of progress in the human resources development.

It may be observed that the parliamentary democracy practised between 1948 and 1962 did not last long due to lack of peace and the favourable economic and education conditions that are in existence today.

Such favourable conditions have been realized through the concerted efforts day in, day out for 17 years in one mind by the government, the people, government employees, the entrepreneurs and peace groups.

There has been a guidance given by the Head of State, that, if taken for granted, independence can be lost all of a sudden to alien subjugation and that the struggle to gain it, however, may cost dearly and take time. All need to be cautious of the conspiracies of the internal and external destructive elements to undermine the favourable conditions in a short time.

Hence, one and all will have to carry on strengthening and safeguarding the favourable conditions conducive to the emergence of discipline-flourishing democracy and ensuring the success of the seven-step Road Map, which promises smooth transition to democracy, through the collective strength of the government, the people and the Tatmadaw and guard against the dangers of destructive elements.

Translation: MS, TMT, AK

LBVD issues reminder to restructure and restock bird flu-affected poultry farms

YANGON, 22 June — The Livestock Breeding and Veterinary Department today issued an announcement with regard to reconstructing and restocking of poultry farming in the areas where bird flu broke out.

In 13 townships of Sagaing and Mandalay Divisions, H5N1 bird flu disease broke out from the second week of March to the end of first week in April 2006. Therefore, 0.342 million of chickens, 0.32 million of quail, 0.18 million eggs and 1.3 tons of feedstuff were destroyed at 545 poultry farms. Now, the disease had been under control since 8 April.

Two experts from FAO and veterinarians of LBVD tested sample of disease of chickens and ducks from the destroyed farms.

However, they did not find any virus of the disease. Though they took measures of regular diagnosis in Taikkyi, Hlegu, Hmawby, Insein and Mingala Taungnyunt, Thanlyin, Kayan and Thongwa Townships, any virus of bird flu was not found. At present, some experts are performing the test of samples of chickens and ducks in Bago, Thanatpin, Toungoo, DaikU and Pyay Townships. In addition, they have been taking measures of regular diagnosis at laboratories by collecting plasma of the poultry and wild birds from townships in Shan State (South) since 19 June.

Spraying pesticides in poultry farms has been conducted in 13 townships of Sagaing and Mandalay Divisions according to schedules since the occurrences of the bird flu.

Due to breaking out of bird flu, transport of chickens and eggs was controlled during March and April. Local authorities, the Ministry of Livestock and Fisheries, the Ministry of Health, Development Committees and Myanmar Fisheries Federation coordinated to open flow of commodities among States and Divisions beginning 1 May.

LBVD speeded up its capacity and capability of prevention against bird flu, in cooperation with FAO, OIE, WHO, UNICEF, JICA, AUSAID, ACIAR, USAID, and DLD of Thailand.

The Ministry of Livestock and Fisheries will perform restocking and restructuring tasks such as surveillance of bird flu at poultry farms for three months, breeding of 50-100 chickens as sentinel bird at the farms, and construction of the saved bio-security poultry farm, allotment of the land for building chicken breeding zone outside Sagaing and Mandalay Divisions, distribution of quality chicken pedigrees, supply of feedstuff, establishment of new network among the breeders, and talks on prevention against bird flu.

Staff of LBVD, Health Department and UNICEF will make field trips to townships of Shwebo District where bird flu broke out and townships of Patheingyi District where the bird flu did not break out and will disseminate knowledge on bird flu control functions to the local people.

The LBVD has issued a reminder to breeders that they need to systematically trade poultry farming products.

Cervical cancer surgery allows for pregnancy

NEW YORK, 21 June —An operation called radical vaginal trachelectomy is an effective treatment for early cervical cancer that allows women to become pregnant later on, according to a report in the medical journal BJOG.

Cervical cancer is a common cancer among women, strongly related to infection with certain types of human papilloma virus or HPV. Earlier this month, the US Food and Drug Administration approved the first vaccine to target four of the HPV types commonly linked to cervical cancer.

Unlike hysterectomy, radical vaginal trachelectomy involves removal of only the cervix, not the entire uterus. As such, the operation is only recommended for early cancer that has not yet spread outside the cervix. In theory, women treated with the operation could still become pregnant, yet few studies have actually looked at the pregnancy outcomes of these women. The new findings indicate that while there are few complications, women who undergo the procedure have higher than normal rates of premature labour and miscarriage.

The findings are based on a study of 123 consecutive women with early cervical cancer who underwent radical vaginal trachelectomy. The procedures were performed between August 1994 and 2005 and the average follow-up period was 45 months.

The operation effectively prevented the return of cancer in all but five women, senior author Dr Thomas E J Ind, from St George's Hospital in London, and colleagues report.

A total of 55 pregnancies were achieved among the 63 women who attempted to become pregnant, but only 28 live births occurred. The 5-year cumulative pregnancy rate for women attempting to conceive was 52.8 per cent. All but two of the live births occurred via cesarean section and thirteen of the infants were born prematurely. The results indicate that radical vaginal trachelectomy is a pregnancy-enabling option for women with early cervical cancer, but prospective patients should be aware of the high rates of miscarriage and premature labour, the authors conclude.

Cambodia destroys 5,000 weapons in Kandal Province

PHNOM PENH, 21 June — The 50th Flame of Peace ceremony was held on Tuesday in Cambodia's Takmao, Kandal Province, to destroy more than 5,000 surplus weapons. As the EU ASAC programme, the programme of the European Union to assist Cambodia in small arms management, will close on June 30, 2006, it is the final Flame of Peace. More than 3,000 people attended the ceremony presided over by Prime Minister Hun Sen. EUASAC has been operating in Cambodia since April 2000 in cooperation with the National Commission for the Reform and Management of Weapons and Explosives in Cambodia.

"All the goals set by the Councils of Ministers of the European Union when the project began in 2000 have now been reached," explained David de Beer, the EU ASAC Project manager, who further praised the Royal Cambodian Government for its co-operation throughout the years in making the project a success.— MNA/Xinhua

Argentina, Dutch in Frankfurt stalemate

FRANKFURT, 22 June — Argentina and Netherlands cancelled each other out in a 0-0 draw in World Cup Group C on Wednesday.

Twice former champions Argentina finished top on goal difference and will meet Mexico in Leipzig in the second round on Saturday. The Dutch, who also collected seven points, face Portugal in Nuremberg the day after.

A tight, tactical battle only sprung to life on isolated occasions, mainly when Argentina threatened to score,

Angola tie Iran 1-1

LEIPZIG, 22 June — World Cup debutants Angola were held a 1-1 tie with Iran in their last Group D match here on Wednesday. Thus, both teams were eliminated while Portugal and Mexico cruised into the last 16 from the group.

Despite the elimination, Angola, one of the weakest teams viewed by experts at the 2006 World Cup, stunned the world by earning a goalless tie with soccer giants Mexico after losing to powerhouse Portugal 1-0. They won respect from the fans around the world.

Iran also showed their great skills on the World Cup pitch, playing attacking football with Mexico and Portugal and even dominating the matches for quite some time. Despite the two losses, no one could look down upon such an Asian team.

In today's Angola-Iran clash, the two goals all came in the second half.

Angola had their goal in the 60th minute. A right-wing cross from Figueiredo found substitute Flavio alone at the far post, and Flavio placed his header beyond the reach of keeper Ebrahim Mirzapour.

This was the first goal scored by Angola in the 2006 World Cup in Germany. Flavio said in excitement at the mixed zone, "I am very very happy to score that goal."

"It is very difficult to score at World Cup and I made it," he added.

The substitute forward said that he was not a regular substitute before.

"That's nothing. I proved my value today and I want to extend my heartfelt gratitude towards my family who always support me," he said.

The Iranians got the equalizer in the 75th when defender Sohrab Bakhtiarzadeh headed home a corner.

Angola coach Luis Oliveira Goncalves said after the match that his players had made him proud despite bowing out of the World Cup.

And Goncalves said: "We were not intelligent enough to defend our 1-0 lead but I'm still proud of my players."

Angola would have hopes of advancement, though their fate was not entirely in their hands.

With a win, they would match Mexico on four points although they trailed Mexico by three on goal difference before today's duel. That means Angola would have to beat Iran and Mexico would have to lose to Portugal by a wide margin.

Mexico lose last round robin match 2-1 to Portugal

GELSENKIRCHEN, 22 June — Mexico paid the price for doing silly things on pitch, losing their third and last round robin match 2-1 to World Cup Group D leaders Portugal in an out-of-style way here on Wednesday.

Luis Perez was sent off at 61 with a second yellow for diving, while a first-half handball by Rafa Marquez led to a penalty score which helped grant Portugal the

2-1 victory earlier in the clash.

It seemed as though La Volpe's side had been given their second penalty in four minutes after Perez was brought down in the Portuguese's box on the 61st minute, but the referee refused to give a penalty and booked the midfielder for diving instead.

Just four minutes earlier, the Mexicans missed their best chance of leveling the scores in the half as Perez forced Miguel into a needless handball right in the sight of the referee at 57. Omar Bravo came to the spot but his powerful strike flied high into the stands without ever looking likely to trouble Ricardo.

It is not the only time that Mexico had been turning down with silly commitments, with an in-box handball from skipper

Rafael Marquez handing the Portuguese a penalty in the first half.

Luis Figo's free-kick from 20 metres on the 22nd minute hit the wall before the ball went out for another corner, Marquez handballed it to concede a penalty, and Sabrosa Simao stepped up to confidently convert from the spot at 24.

Earlier in the half, Maniche had opened the scoring with a super strike for Portugal in just 6 minutes. The former Chelsea midfielder fed Simao on the left and followed up to collect the winger's square pass to fire into the top corner from 16 metres.

Mexico managed to pull back one goal five minutes later as Jose Fonseca, just being recalled to the starting lineup for Wednesday's match, scored at 29 a fine glancing header from a corner to punish some slack Portugal defending.

Ivory Coast fight back to beat Serbs 3-2

MUNICH, 22 June — Ivory Coast fought back from two goals down to beat Serbia & Montenegro 3-2 and secure their first World Cup win in an entertaining and fiercely fought battle on Wednesday to avoid ending bottom of Group C.

Substitute Bonaventure Kalou struck the winner from the penalty spot after Serbia defender Milan Dudic handled the ball in the area for the second time, having given away a blatant first-half penalty that let Ivory Coast back into the match.

The theoretically meaningless game was played in continual rain, torrential at first, but there was nothing damp about the action on the pitch which was an exciting spectacle.

The crunching tackles and repeated

Serbia & Montenegro's Milan Dudic, right, and Ivory Coast's Aruna Dindane in a tackle for the ball during the Ivory Coast v Serbia & Montenegro Group C soccer match at the World Cup stadium, Munich, Germany, on 21 June, 2006. The match ended 3-2 for Ivory Coast. The other teams in Group C are Argentina and Netherlands.—INTERNET yellow cards, seven in the first half alone, showed neither side wanted to end fourth in a group generally regarded as the toughest at this World Cup.

The result left Serbia & Montenegro, playing in their last match as one team after Montenegro's vote for independence, without a point. Both sides had already lost to Argentina and Netherlands and had no chance to qualify for the last 16.

The West Africans followed their now familiar pattern of letting in two early goals, before halving the advantage -- they lost 2-1 to Argentina and Netherlands -- showing they continue to suffer defensive lapses despite their efforts to solve them.

The Serbs, seeking self-respect after a 6-0 drubbing by Argentina in their last game, again had a man sent off as substitute stand-in left back Albert Nadj was shown a second yellow just before the break. Striker Mateja Kezman had received a red card against Argentina.

Serbia took the lead in the 10th minute when striker Nikola Zigic controlled a long ball from Dejan Stankovic, rounded the keeper and slotted home.

They doubled their advantage in the 19th minute when Sasa Ilic pounced on a fumbled clearance by Ivory Coast stand-in captain Cyrille Domoraud from a Predag Djordjevic cross. Only a minute earlier, the Ivorians missed a golden chance when Arune Dindane shot against the keeper from close range before Kanga Akale missed an easy rebound. Coach Henri Michel, in his last match in charge, had his head in his hands.

However, their pressure eventually paid off when Dindane tucked away a twice-taken penalty in the 36th minute following a needless handball by Dudic.

Indian tail monkey man in search of healing powers

KOLKATA, 22 June — Thousands of people are flocking to an impoverished Indian village in eastern West Bengal state to worship a man they believe possesses divine powers because he climbs up trees in seconds, gobbles up bananas and has a "tail".

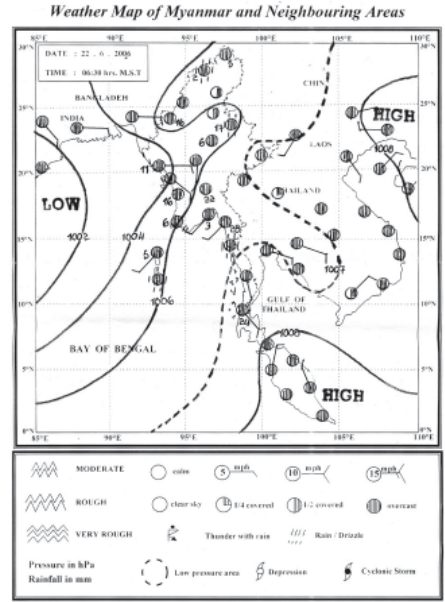

Devotees say 27-year-old villager Chandre Oraon is an incarnation of the Hindu monkey god Hanuman — worshipped by millions as a symbol of physical strength, perseverance and devotion. "He climbs up trees, behaves like a monkey and is a strict vegetarian, but he is no god and his condition is just a congenital defect," says Bhushan Chakraborty, the local medical officer.

Tucked away in a hamlet in Banarhat, over 650 kilometres (400 miles) north of Kolkata, the state capital, devotees wait for hours to see or touch Oraon's 13-inch (35-centimetre) tail, believing that it has healing powers.

Doctors said the "tail" — made up of some flesh but mostly of dark hair — was simply a rare physical attribute. "It is a congenital anomaly, but very rarely do we find such cases," B Ramana, a Kolkata-based surgeon, told Reuters.
