Speed up development tasks for storm-ravaged regions

Loss and destruction is great whenever a nation or a person encounters natural disaster and rehabilitation tasks are to be carried out speedily.

A severe cyclonic storm hit some areas in the country during early May and there was a great deal of destruction and lots of lives were lost. Rescue operations were carried out in no time and reconstruction of towns and villages is being undertaken.

Rehabilitation tasks in the storm-ravaged areas are very huge and extensive. As it is not an ordinary task, the government is making efforts for regional development on priority basis.

The respective companies have rebuilt the damaged schools and monasteries in Hainggyikyun including a basic education high school (branch) in Kyaukkalat Village in Ngapudaw Township, one of the storm-hit regions. The government has formulated education and health care promotion programmes for the whole region and is implementing them while carrying out the rehabilitation tasks for the local people in the storm-hit regions.

In implementing the reconstruction task of Kyaukkalat Village the village basic education high school (branch) was to be upgraded to a high school with the aim of making long-term socio-economic progress of the local people and turning out human resources in the region. Moreover, the people in the region can enjoy better health care services as Pyapon People's Hospital was upgraded to 200-bed one and hospitals in Bogale, Mawlamyinekyun and Labutta Townships were upgraded to 100-bed ones.

The government is undertaking the rehabilitation tasks of the storm-hit areas in accord with the requirements of the region. It is necessary for the entire people of such regions to undertake the tasks for improvement of economic, education and health conditions.

In memory of late Daw Khin Hla Hla, U Thaug Sein and family of Yankin Township presented recently K 100,000 and medical equipment to Joint-Secretary U Maung Maung Gyi of Hninzigon Home for the Aged.—H

Obama rejects McCain terrorism criticism

WASHINGTON, 18 June—Democrat Barack Obama rejected any lectures from his White House rival John McCain on fighting terrorism Tuesday, in a scornful riposte to a day-long onslaught from the Republican's camp.

"Let's think about this: these are the same guys who helped to engineer the distraction of the war in Iraq at a time when we could have pinned down the people who actually committed 9/11," Obama told reporters on his plane.

"In part because of their failed strategies, we've got (Al-Qaeda chief Osama) bin Laden still sending out audiotapes. So I don't think they have much standing to suggest that they've learned a lot of lessons from 9/11," he said.

McCain supporters had lashed out at a call by Obama for suspected extremists to be prosecuted, in light of a Supreme Court ruling last week allowing Guantanamo Bay detainees to challenge their detention in the courts.

McCain foreign policy aide Randy Scheunemann said militants had to be fought on the battlefield and not in the courts, and accused Obama of "a perfect manifestation of a 10 September mindset," from a day prior to the 2001 attacks.

"If Obama did receive that 3:00 am phone call, I guess his response would be to call lawyers at the Justice Department," Scheunemann added, referencing a campaign ad on national security by Obama's primary opponent Hillary Clinton.—Internet

Iran says uranium enrichment is a "red line"

TEHRAN, 18 June—Iran said on Tuesday uranium enrichment was its "red line" and would continue, despite an enhanced offer of incentives from big powers to stop activity the West fears could yield nuclear bombs.

The EU's top diplomat, Javier Solana, presented Tehran on Saturday with an adjusted package of economic benefits designed to persuade it to curb its nuclear work, and said Iran should stop enrichment during negotiations to implement the offer.

"We have repeatedly said that enrichment is our red line and we should enjoy this technology. The work will be continued," deputy foreign minister Alireza Sheikhattar told reporters, according to the state news agency IRNA.

The incentive package agreed by the United States, Russia, China, Britain, France and Germany last month and delivered by Solana is a revised version of one rejected by Iran in 2006.

Western powers have warned Iran it will face more sanctions if it spurns the offer. Iran has shown no sign it will change its position, and suggested it was in no hurry to respond to the incentives proposal, saying it is being reviewed.

"We will give our answer as soon as possible. But we do not know exactly when it will be," the Iranian official said.

GULFPORT, 18 June—The rising Mississippi River broke through a levee Tuesday, forcing authorities to rescue about a half-dozen people by helicopter, boat and four-wheeler as floodwaters moved south into Illinois and Missouri.

additional homes and businesses, officials said the damage could have been worse if the federal government had not taken steps to clear flood-prone land after historic floods in 1993.

TOKYO, 18 June—Search teams Wednesday recovered another body from the wreckage of a hotel destroyed by a landslide following an earthquake in northern Japan, bringing the quake's death toll to 11, media reports said.

Cambodian minister urges ban on old-cars import

PHNOM PENH, 18 June—Cambodian Commerce Minister Cham Prasidh has called for banning on import of the cars and trucks made before 2000, afraid that Cambodia could become a trash bin for used vehicles, English-Khmer language newspaper the Cambodian Daily said on Tuesday.

"I am going to propose a ban of cars and trucks (made before 2000) to Prime Minister Hun Sen," he said at a inauguration ceremony of the national distribution branch of the Hino Motors Ltd of Japan here on Monday.

"Now it is time to encourage our people to use brand-new motors and cars because they have the latest technology," he added. The country has long relied on used vehicles that are often sub-standard and the proposed ban would help optimize the country's vehicle market, he said.

"We can not forbid the import of used cars and trucks (entirely), but we need set a threshold (such as setting their production year at 2000)," he added.

Also on the occasion, Senator Sy King Triv, whose KT Pacific Group jointly established the branch with Hino Motors Ltd, said that Hino will soon fit in with the truck market of Cambodia and upgrade the current situation that second-hand trucks are dominant, hence generating problems like high cost of fuel, low efficiency and frequent maintenance.—MNA/Xinhua

Brazil to build four new nuclear power plants

RIO DE JANEIRO, 18 June—The president of Brazil's state-owned Electronuclear enterprise said on Monday that four more nuclear power plants will be built in Brazil.

At a seminar on nuclear power held in Rio de Janeiro, Othon Pinheiro da Silva said two of the new plants will be constructed in the north-east of the country, one in the southeast while the fourth's location has yet to be decided.

The details of the projects would be discussed next year, he added.

The four new plants are designed to have a minimum combined generating capacity of 6,000 megawatts, accounting for about 70 per cent of the nation's nuclear power, and is thus fundamental to guaranteeing the supply of electricity in Brazil in the next two decades, Silva said.

Currently, the joint generating capacity of Brazil's two operating power plants, Angra I and Angra II, is 2,000 megawatts. Angra III, which will be constructed in the next half of this year, is expected to have a capacity of 1,350 megawatts.

While India has held on to its pre-eminent position, its IT companies are losing their global cost advantage with the emergence of countries like Vietnam and the Philippines, which offer similar services at cheaper rates and are threatening India's status as the world's back office.—MNA/Xinhua

US inspector says Army probe of "Reuters" death tainted

WASHINGTON, 18 June — US soldiers who killed a Reuters journalist in Iraq acted within military rules, but the Army's probe of the incident was tainted by its failure to preserve evidence, a Pentagon investigation said on Monday.

But the inspector general criticized the Army investigator for losing a critical piece of evidence

That Army investigator's actions rightfully led Reuters to believe the investigation was not thorough or independent, the inspector general's report said.

Iran Govt to ask for $7b for fuel imports

TEHERAN, 18 June — Iran's Government plans to ask Parliament for 7 billion US dollars Iran withdraws to pay for increasingly expensive fuel imports, a newspaper said on Monday, despite gasoline rationing launched by the world's fourth-largest oil producer last year.

A senior Oil Ministry official, Hojjatollah Ghanimifard, warned the amount needed during the Iranian year that ends in March 2009 could rise even further if international gasoline and other fuel prices continued to rise.

He told the daily Tehran-e Emrouz newspaper in an interview that consumption was estimated at 80 million litres in Iran, above a figure of roughly 75 million litres given by officials when rationing was introduced for motorists in June 2007.

Officials had previously said both consumption and imports fell sharply after Iran launched rationing to curb soaring consumption which had risen well beyond its ability to refine crude, forcing the government to rely on expensive imports.

Saudis to pump oil at fastest rate in decades

DUBAI, 18 June — The world's top oil exporter Saudi Arabia will boost output next month to the fastest rate in decades to help keep pace with demand and tame what it sees as unacceptably high fuel prices.

Riyadh plans to lift output to 9.7 million barrels per day (bpd) in July, United Nations chief Ban Ki-moon said on Sunday after meeting Saudi Oil Minister Ali al-Naimi.

That would be a rise of 550,000 bpd or over 6 per cent since May and would take Saudi crude output to its highest monthly rate since August 1981, according to US Energy Information Administration data.

"9.7, that is what he (Naimi) said," on July output, the Abu Dhabi-based The National newspaper quoted the UN Secretary-General as saying on its website.

The Saudi output plan comes to light a week before the kingdom hosts an unprecedented meeting of producers and consumers to tackle market instability.

A relentless rise in oil prices to well above 130 US dollars a barrel has sparked fuel protests from Asia to Europe and roiled financial markets as policymakers fear higher inflation will slow the global economy.

Saudi King Abdullah told Ban that Riyadh would do its utmost to bring the price down. Saudi Arabia has already increased supply by 300,000 bpd this month from May to meet demand from buyers primarily in the United States.

UN says Israel restricts its Palestinian staff

JERUSALEM, 18 June — Israel has tightened rules for Palestinian staff of the United Nations who travel in and out of the occupied West Bank, increasing tensions with the world body, internal UN emails and aid workers said on Sunday.

The Israeli Army informed UN officials in Jerusalem that Palestinians using the main checkpoint for the West Bank city of Ramallah were required to cross on foot through a terminal for inspection rather than drive through in their UN vehicles, a UN email said.

The message, sent to employees last week and obtained by Reuters on Sunday, directed Palestinian staff members to use another crossing.

UN Palestinian staff have also been asked at three checkpoints to sign a form used by police in conducting searches and making arrests.

Another internal UN email told staff not to sign the form. Israeli officials had no immediate comment.

An aid worker said the tightened restrictions had "ratcheted up tensions between Israel and the NGO (non-governmental organization) community".

US Secretary of State Condoleezza Rice, who is visiting Israel and the West Bank this week, criticized Israel for not doing enough to ease restrictions on Palestinians in the West Bank. Several thousand Palestinians work for UN agencies in the West Bank. Thousands more work in the Hamas-controlled Gaza Strip.

Beware of rats that are trying to make holes in the walls of the granary

Maung De Doh

A rat is an animal of destruction. Rats in a forest destroy paddy fields, while rats in towns and villages destroy granaries and barns, steal dried fish from the kitchen, and destroy the clothes in the cupboard. A rat is good at disturbing people. In the process of stealing an egg, a rat grips firmly with its teeth the tail of its fellow rat that is firmly putting its arms around the egg and drags the fellow rat. A rat has a sharp nose and can enter the room through a very small hole of the floor and the walls of a house. If the floor or the wall of the house has no hole, it bites the floor or the wall to make a hole in it. It also digs a hole in the earth to get inside the house.

Underground and aboveground saboteurs at home and from abroad who are desperate to destroy Myanmar are like rats. Their characters are so identical to that of rats, I think they were the reincarnations of rats.

They are such persons who know no regard whatsoever if their fellow members will come to power. Instead of mourning for hundreds of thousands of victims who lost their lives during the storm 'Nargis' that rocked the nation, they are happy with the situations of the nation with the thought that the country has got into crises, and they will soon be able to overthrow the government. Frankly speaking, they are like thieves and robbers who want to rob a sick person in bed.

They are also like rats because they are finding ways and means to exploit the consequences of the storm 'Nargis' in their bid to attack the government.

Taking advantage of Myanmar people's interest in omen and astrology, they, in the aftermath of the storm told international news journals that the storm was omens that gods did not want the referendum that would be held a week later, and the storm meant that the heaven would not give mandate to the military government.

They are good at spreading rumours designed to create public panic. A rumour spread with the intention of provoking a public panic in the aftermath of the storm said that the nation would face a storm that would be more destructive than Nargis, and a strong earthquake would happen soon. The rumours still have adverse effect on the people. A rumour said that on 16 May, tidal waves that were as high as a four-storey building would reach Yangon because the lion statues in front of the Shwedagon Pagoda were thirsty. However, some believed. The prices of life jackets went up in Yangon then.

It is just a small matter if taken for granted.

The State-owned media had spotlights on the efforts the government, the people, the Tatmadaw and departments concerned had been making in collaboration.

According to the political strategies, only when there was a public panic, they could incite mass riots and they could panic the people into buying rice and edible oil. Then, commodity prices would go up sharply and the people would be dissatisfied with the government and there would be political movements. They were like rats that make holes in the floor or the wall when they did not find any holes in them.

Moreover, they tried to spread rumours about relief and rehabilitation tasks in the storm-hit areas.

As the first phase, they drove a wedge between the government and international community. In the plot, they claimed that the government did not accept the international assistance at the expense of the lives of the victims. They also said with a straight face that if necessary, international community would have to use force to enter the nation considering humanitarian assistance. They said so because a naval fleet was being anchored at the entrance to the nation.

When the government refuted the allegation and said that the nation was accepting international assistance, they claimed as though relief officials were misappropriating the supplies.

In their attempt to sow misunderstanding between the government and the people, they claimed that the relief supplies did not reach the storm-hit areas; that the supplies hardly flowed to the storm-affected areas; that the government was forcing the victims to return to their home places that had not been regenerated, and did not render assistance to the victims for their living. They also said that the victims had no cattle or paddy seeds to grow crops. And the farmers would die of hunger due to the fact that the farmlands were flooded by sea tidal waves. The State-owned media had spotlights on the efforts the government, the people, the Tatmadaw and departments concerned had been making in collaboration. So, their accusations did not yield any fruit.

In desperation, they drove a wedge between the servicemen and the people, and among the people. There was an accusation that in sharing the relief supplies in Hainggyikyun, families of the servicemen took more share than the people. In fact, servicemen had their rations. They did not need to rely much on the relief supplies because departments concerned had made arrangements for reconstruction of the ravaged buildings. It had come to the knowledge of local people of Hainggyikyun that a medical team made up of military doctors, and servicemen were participating in the relief and rehabilitation works.

An accusation said that relief camps were set up in the villages, the majority of whose populations were Buddhist Barmars, whereas the government did not pay enough attention to the the villages of Christian Kayin nationals. They also tried to sow discord and suspicions among the national brethren of the Ayeyawady delta by mentioning old incidents such as the Kayin-Bamar conflicts that took place in World War II, and the delta region armed revolt in the internal insurgency period.

In reality, they should not rekindle such incidents or exploit the victims for political gains. The people witnessed on TV that relief and rehabilitation works were being carried out for welfare of the victims, irrespective of race and religion. Similarly, measures were being taken to reconstruct monasteries, Churches and mosques. In safeguarding the people, the government took measures considering itself to be the parents and the people to be its children without discrimination against or in favour of particular persons. Maybe, internal and international donor organizations and private donors will come to lose their generosity gradually. However, the government stand and attitude will remain unchanged and will continue to take care of the people. It will never ignore the interests of any particular citizen under any reasons.

The people should not consider that the baseless accusations will subside one day. We should consider that the accusations are particularly designed to break up Myanmar where there are plenty of crops, as though rats are making holes in the walls. Rats by nature destroy whatever they see as soon as they have got inside the room.

Today, the world has come under various threats such as food shortage, oil shortage, economic decline, battles and terrorism. Onus is put on every citizen to work hard to ensure peace and security of the motherland. Therefore, I would like to urge the people to equip themselves with nationalistic spirit and Union Spirit in order that the rat-like saboteurs will not be able to get into the nation.

Fall of Nepal monarchy leaves royal cows in limbo

KATHMANDU, 18 June — After the king, it is now the turn of his cows to face removal from Nepal's royal palace, two days after it was turned into a museum, a government official said on Tuesday.

Gyanendra, the last king of Nepal, left the main palace last week after a special assembly voted in May to abolish the 239-year-old monarchy and turn the Himalayan nation into a republic.

But Gyanendra's 60 cows still graze in the sprawling grounds of the Narayanhiti Palace in the heart of Kathmandu. He used the cows for fresh milk but authorities say the animals, considered holy by Hindus, must also leave.

"We can't keep them there and no decision has yet been taken about what to do with them," said Govinda Prasad Kusum, a senior bureaucrat in charge of preparing an inventory of palace contents. Nepal, a mostly Hindu nation, forbids slaughtering cows.

US troops kill four suspects in northern Iraq

MOSUL (Iraq), 18 June — The US troops on Tuesday raided a house in Mosul city, the capital of Nineveh Province, killing four suspected militants from one family and detaining four others, US military and Iraqi police said.

The US troops raided a safehouse of a bombing network member in Mosul and killed the four suspects after they refused to evacuate the building, a US military statement said.

A provincial police source said the incident took place at dawn when the US troops stormed a house in the Mahattah neighbourhood in south-western Mosul.

"It is unclear why the US troops raided the house and killed four males, who were the father of the family and three of his sons, along with detaining four of the family members," the source told Xinhua on condition of anonymity.

Ahmadinejad says market full of oil, price trend "fake"

ISFAHAN (Iran), 18 June — The oil market is plentifully supplied and the rally to record high prices is "fake and imposed", Iran's President said on Tuesday, blaming a weak US dollar which he suggested was being pushed lower on purpose.

"At a time when the growth of consumption is lower than the growth of production and the market is full of oil, prices are rising and this trend is completely fake and imposed," he said.

"It is very clear that visible and invisible hands are controlling prices in a fake way with political and economic aims," he said when opening a meeting of the OPEC Fund for International Development in the central city of Isfahan.

With high fuel prices sparking protests worldwide, Ahmadinejad hit out at energy taxes in consumer nations. He said there was an "unfair" difference in income between energy exporting and importing countries.

Iran, the world's fourth-largest oil exporter, has repeatedly said the market is well-supplied with crude and blames rising prices on speculation, a weak dollar and geopolitical factors.

Oil steadied on Tuesday after touching a record near 140 US dollars the previous day, with traders caught between a weaker dollar and expectations that top exporter Saudi Arabia will ramp up output to its highest rate in decades.

“South Pacific” wins big at Tony Awards

NEW YORK, 18 June—“Rodgers and Hammerstein’s South Pacific” dominated Broadway’s top honours, the Tony Awards, with seven prizes on Sunday, followed by the Pulitzer Prize-winning play “August: Osage County” with five wins.

“South Pacific,” nominated for 11 Tonys, picked up awards for best musical revival, best musical director (Bartlett Sher), best leading actor in a musical (Paulo Szot), scenery, costume, lighting and sound.

Sher said audiences seemed to find contemporary resonance in the show’s themes of racial tension at a time of war—issues of heightened interest in the US presidential election campaign with black candidate Senator Barack Obama winning the Democratic nomination.

“The reception was completely overwhelming,” Sher told reporters, adding the show happened “to hit this weird crease in the culture around the election”.

“August: Osage County,” the Tracy Letts play that won the Pulitzer Prize for drama this year, won Tonys for best play, best featured actress (Rondi Reed), best leading actress (Deanna Dunagan), scenic design and direction (Anna D Shapiro).—MNA/Reuters

Nuclear designs found with smugglers spur US fears

WASHINGTON, 18 June—A nuclear watchdog’s report that sophisticated warhead designs were found on the computers of Swiss smugglers has spurred fears in the Bush Administration and elsewhere that atomic secrets may be quickly spreading.

The report on Monday raised particular speculation over the significance of a US intelligence finding last year that Iran had suspended a nuclear-weapons design programme in 2003—which slowed a Bush Administration drive to confront Iran.

If the Islamic Republic had access to detailed warhead designs on a nuclear black market, that could free it from having to develop its own blueprints for a weapons programme.

“That’s a question to be studied,” a senior US official said. But he said he had little information beyond the public accounts of the report, issued by the Institute for Science and International Security.—MNA/Reuters

Indonesia to set up anti-graft courts in all provinces

JAKARTA, 18 June—The Indonesian Government is drafting a regulation to support the establishment of the anti-corruption court in all 33 provinces and the recruitment of specialized judges, local Press said Monday.

The initial plan was to set up anti-graft tribunal in all 470 regencies but the government had too little time for the huge projects and decided to concentrate on the provincial level, reported major national newspaper Kompas.

It takes more than 2,000 specialized judges to set up 470 anti-graft courts, a very daunting task given that the government has only six months to complete the regulation, said the Indonesian-language daily, citing Vice-President Jusuf Kalla.

“With six months of the remaining time, the government is confident that the anti-graft court will be materialized,” Kalla said over the weekend.

“Not in all 470 regencies, but in stage starting from 33 provinces,” he said.

The judges for the particular court must have skill and knowledge to deal with bank frauds and money laundering, he said.

Astronomers find batch of “super-Earths”

WASHINGTON, 18 June — European researchers said on Monday they discovered a batch of three “super-Earths” orbiting a nearby star, and two other solar systems with small planets as well.

They said their findings, presented at a conference in France, suggest that Earth-like planets may be very common.

“Does every single star harbour planets and, if yes, how many?” asked Michel

Mayor of Switzerland’s Geneva Observatory. “We may not yet know the answer but we are making huge progress towards it,” Mayor said in a statement.

The trio of planets orbit a star slightly less massive than our Sun, 42 light-years away towards the southern Doradus and Pictor constellations.

A light-year is the distance light can travel in one year at a speed of 186,000 miles (300,000 kilometres) a second, or about 6 trillion miles (9.5 trillion kilometres).

The planets are bigger than Earth — one is 4.2 times the mass, one is 6.7 times and the third is 9.4 times.

They orbit their star at extremely rapid speeds — one whizzing around in just four days, compared with Earth’s 365 days, one taking 10 days and the slowest taking 20 days.

DHAKA, 18 June — Bangladesh has cut half the number of under-five child deaths in the past 18 years, said UNICEF here Monday.

In 1990, under-five child mortality was 150 per thousand, and the figure came down to 68 per thousand in 2008, a UNICEF official said.

“Today Bangladesh is on track to reach MDG-4 on child mortality reduction,” UNICEF representative to Bangladesh David Bassiouni said when launching its report titled “The State of the World’s Children-2008: Child Survival”. He said among other developing countries, Bangladesh has made remarkable progress as only six countries in Asia have achieved such a rapid reduction.

Bassiouni said this was even more understanding considering that South Asia, as a home to world’s one-fifth population, has the second highest number of child deaths in the world. He said, simple and cheap oral saline therapy and better sanitation practices have contributed to reducing the child deaths in the country.

Over 2,000 trapped by flood in Russia’s Ural regions

MOSCOW, 18 June — More than 2,000 people were stranded in villages of Russia’s Ural regions due to heavy rainfall and rising flood waters, ITAR-TASS reported on Monday.

Water levels in the rivers of Tura and Nitsa, crossing the Sverdlovsk

Region, had risen by eight to 12 centimetres for the past few days and traffic with the besieged villages were disrupted, the local emergencies department said. Local authorities established communication with those settlements by ferryboats, and all the flood-trapped people were provided with food and medicine, local officials said.

UN finds 89 bodies in disputed Sudan oil area

KHARTOUM, 18 June — The United Nations has so far found 89 bodies in the disputed oil-rich Abyei Region of Sudan from fighting that erupted last month, a senior UN official said on Monday.

A joint north-south force is due to be deployed there this week after the clashes, which raised fears of a return to all-out civil war. Both north and south covet the central region, home to one of Sudan’s two main oil fields.

The UN official, who declined to be named, said 89 bodies had been found in Abyei. “Dead military are 68,” the official said.

A joint north-south force had been due to deploy on Monday but that has now been put back to Tuesday because of administrative delays in flying them in on UN planes, said the force’s commander, Valentino Tokmac. The force was still waiting for tents, vehicles and uniforms from the northern and southern armies, he said.

“The problem of vehicles will not stop us,” he said. All 639 soldiers are due to be on the ground by 18 June and they will get 10 days of training before they fully take control of Abyei.

Guangdong faces danger of serious flooding

GUANGZHOU, 18 June — South China’s Guangdong Province was facing the threat of serious flooding as two swollen rivers converged in the Pearl River Delta on Monday, resulting in a flood equivalent to a worst in 50 years.

The runoff in Xijiang River was 46,800 cubic metres per second and in Beijiang River 15,200 cubic metres per second before they met each other in Foshan City, according to the Guangdong provincial headquarters of flood control and drought relief, which said this was far higher than normal.

The danger of serious flooding is made worse by the pull from the moon, which is rising to its most powerful point in the month on Wednesday, posing a threat for river embankments across the delta, experts said.

More rains were forecast in the upstream areas of Xijiang and Beijiang Rivers in next two days.

The Guangdong provincial flood control headquarters on Monday ordered local governments to reinforce river embankments in nine cities, including Guangzhou and to prepare to evacuate people in danger.

Mutu's miss will give Romania nightmares

BERNE, 18 June — Adrian Mutu's penalty miss against Italy will haunt Romania for a long time, said defender Cosmin Contra after his team's elimination from Euro 2008 on Tuesday.

"This penalty is the reason we are going home. We had an opportunity to beat the World Cup winners in the 81st minute and didn't take it," Contra told Reuters after Romania lost 2-0 to Netherlands in their final Group C game.

"We will think about this penalty a lot. We will think about it when we go home, we will think about it in our sleep," he added, referring to their 1-1 draw with world champions Italy last Friday. — MNA/Reuters

Italy victorious after Group C showdown

BASEL, 18 June — Italy came out on top in a tense three-way tussle for a place in Sunday's Euro 2008 quarter-final against Spain as the world champions beat 10-man France 2-0 and Romania lost by the same margin to Group C winners Netherlands.

Andrea Pirlo put Italy in front from the penalty spot in the 25th minute of Tuesday's eagerly-anticipated repeat of the 2006 World Cup final after Eric Abidal clattered into Luca Toni and was dismissed by Slovakian referee Lubos Michel.

Abidal's sending off was a second hammer blow for the French after inspirational playmaker Franck Ribery was carried off on a stretcher at Zurich's Letzigrund stadium with a knee injury.

After France's elimination from the tournament was sealed, defender Lilian Thuram, 36, and midfielder Claude Makelele, 35, announced their international retirements.

With Netherlands already leading 1-0 in Berne, Daniele De Rossi made sure of Italy's victory on 62 minutes when his free kick was deflected into the net off the foot of Thierry Henry, standing in as captain for the injured Patrick Vieira.

Makelele quits international stage

ZURICH, 18 June — Midfielder Claude Makelele announced his international retirement after France were eliminated from Euro 2008 following their 2-0 defeat by Italy on Tuesday.

"This tournament was my last for France," the 35-year-old Chelsea player told reporters after winning his 71st cap in the Group C game.

Widely regarded as one of the world's best holding midfielders, Makelele never won a major trophy for France. His best achievement was being part of the team defeated by Italy at the 2006 World Cup final in Germany.

Forlan scores hat-trick in Uruguay rout of Peru

MONTEVIDEO, 18 June — Diego Forlan scored a hat-trick to help Uruguay rout a shambolic Peru 6-0 in their World Cup qualifier on Tuesday.

Forlan's striking partner Carlos Bueno scored two goals and substitute Sebastian Abreu added another in the final minute. Peru striker Paolo Guerrero was sent off after 39 minutes for furiously protesting the penalty which led to the second goal.

Uruguay, who had drawn their last two home games in the South American group, moved on to eight points from six games while Peru, beaten 5-1 in Ecuador in November, remained on three after another heavy defeat. Peru also lost 4-0 to Mexico in a friendly 10 days ago and the latest setback is widely expected to cost coach Jose del Solar his job.

Virtually out of contention for a World Cup place, they face the prospect of another 12 games in the group including visits to Brazil and Argentina.—MNA/Reuters

Croatia wary of comeback kings Turkey

BAD TATZMANNSDORF (Austria), 18 June — Coach Slaven Bilic warned Croatia on Tuesday to be wary of another stunning late comeback by Turkey in their Euro 2008 quarter-final.

Turkey booked their place in Friday's match in Vienna after coming from behind to beat Switzerland 2-1 with a stoppage-time winner and defeating Czech Republic 3-2 after trailing 2-1 with 87 minutes on the clock in their final Group A game.

"Their comebacks in those two games were quite remarkable and showed they are a force to be reckoned with," Bilic told a news conference.

"Turkey are quick and aggressive and have several very skilful players, so I am really not surprised that they progressed to the quarter-finals.

"We will take nothing for granted although we would certainly like to score first because they are by no means invincible. Like all teams in the tournament, they have weaknesses too." — MNA/Reuters

Austrian heads held high despite failure to win

VIENNA, 18 June — Euro 2008 co-hosts Austria exited the tournament having failed to win a match or score a goal from open play although their plucky spirit pleased the home fans whose expectations had always been realistic.

Germany captain Michael Ballack struck a thunderbolt from a free kick to send his team through to the last eight in Vienna on Monday during an emotive game in which Austria created some tense moments for their rivals but were ultimately outplayed.

"We were beaten by a sensational free kick from Michael Ballack. You've got to hand it to him. It was a sensational shot," said Austria coach Josef Hickersberger.

"But the Austrian team has shown it is much better than its reputation and can hold its own at a high level, even if we weren't good enough to win." — MNA/Reuters

Australian officials defend decision to skip ceremony

SYDNEY, 18 June — Australian Olympic officials have defended their decision to ban dozens of athletes from marching at the opening ceremony in Beijing because of concerns about pollution in the Chinese capital.

Although it is not unusual for Australian athletes competing in the first few days to skip the ceremony to save their energy, Athletics Australia has ordered the entire team to stay away from Beijing for as long as possible because of concerns about air quality.

Gambia says Algeria players made "terrorist" threats

BANJUL, 18 June — Gambia has accused Algerian soccer players calling themselves "terrorists" of threatening Gambian players at a World Cup match that they would blow up their hotel with a bomb on the return leg in Algiers.

Algeria's Football Federation dismissed the accusations as "baseless".

Gambia beat the North African side 1-0 on Saturday in the group qualifiers for the 2010 World Cup finals to be played in South Africa. The matches also serve as qualifiers for the African Nations Cup finals.

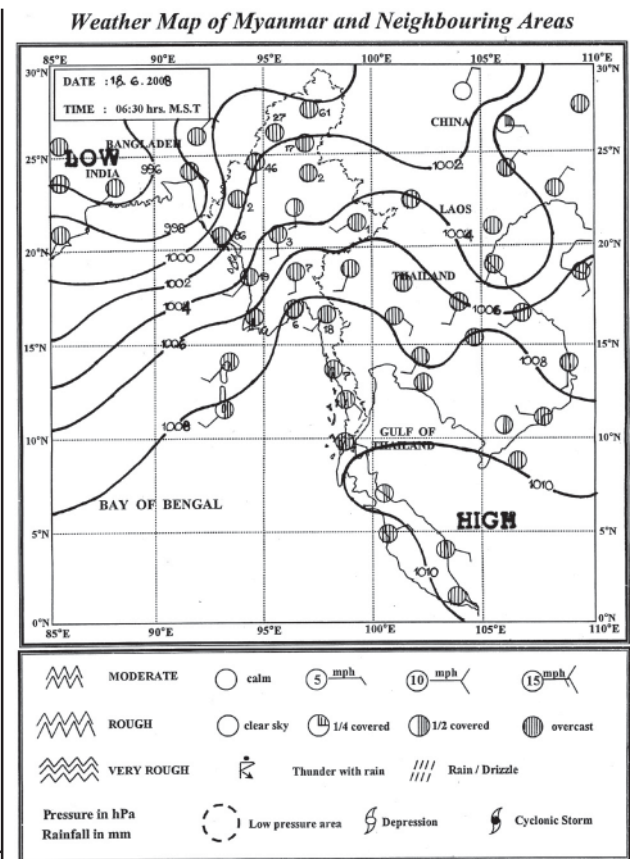

"We regret to inform you that during The Gambia/Algeria match played on June 14, 2008 at the Independence Stadium, several threats were made to our players by certain Algerian players who claimed to be 'terrorists'," Gambia Football Association (GFA) secretary general Jammeh EK Bojang said in a letter to soccer's world body FIFA.
