Remaining schools in Ayeyawady Div to reopen at end of June

NAY PYI TAW, 19 June — Storm 'Nargis' had destroyed and damaged a number of basic education schools in Ayeyawady Division. Though most of the schools have been reopened in the school year, several others remain to be opened.

It is because some rural people have migrated to other suitable villages as theirs were destroyed in the storm and that a few schools were self-reliant ones of the villages which were difficult of access due to numerous creeks and streams in delta region.

It is targeted to reopen the remaining schools by the end of June by upgrading them according to condition and places of villages to be rebuilt.—MNA

For emergence of growing number of reliable youths

The government has given special attention to promotion of the national education on the basis of the fact that education has become the major factor for development of other sectors together with changes in the science and technology in the global community.

Only with high educational qualifications, high reasoning power and vast knowledge, will it be possible for a people to serve effectively the interests of the motherland. With this end in view, the government is systematically implementing the national education promotion plans it has laid down for ensuring a prosperous future of the nation.

In its effort to promote the national education, the government is building educational infrastructures, introducing modern teaching methods and creating good educational atmosphere. At the same time, the government, in pursuance of the drive for building a modern developed nation, is nurturing the youth for production of human resources in the technological fields to enable the nation to catch up with the science and technologies.

The youth therefore have to constantly learn for development of the good educational atmosphere in the science and technologies at the international level and emergence of a constant learning society.

Teachers on their part are to train and nurture the students to see that the latter become outstanding in their studies, equip themselves with nationalistic spirit and patriotic spirit and respect and admire the Myanmar social values.

If teachers in the technological fields carry out their educational duties with national outlook in sharpening the abilities of the youth, a brighter future of the Union can be shaped with the strength of reliable younger generations.

The nation will see a growing number of all-around developed youths if teachers not only teach but also drill and discipline the students, who will take over the State duties in future.

Iran says ready to negotiate on nuclear incentives

KAMPALA, 19 June—Iran said on Thursday it was ready to negotiate over a new package of economic incentives put forward by major powers seeking to persuade Tehran to curb its nuclear work.

Iranian Foreign Minister Manouchehr Mottaki told a news conference in the Ugandan capital Kampala that the six — the United States, Russia, China, Britain, France and Germany — should also take a serious look at Tehran's own proposals.

"We have informed them of our readiness to negotiate. The package given by the P5+1 countries is currently under consideration and at the appropriate time Teheran will give its reactions," Mottaki said.

"We also have what we call the Iranian package which we have sent to the P5+1 countries and we hope they consider it as we consider theirs," added Mottaki, who was in Uganda for a meeting of the Organisation of the Islamic Conference.

The EU's top diplomat, Javier Solana, presented

Tehran on Saturday with a new package of economic benefits designed to persuade it to curb its nuclear work and said Iran should stop uranium enrichment during negotiations to implement the offer.

The package is a revised version of one rejected by Iran in 2006. Western powers, which suspect Iran of using its civilian nuclear program as cover to build an atomic bomb, have told Iran it will face more sanctions if it spurns the offer.

Doctors cure skin cancer patient

Treatment uses cloned immune cells

SEATTLE, 19 June—Doctors have successfully rid a patient of advanced skin cancer by treating him with clones of his own immune cells.

In just two months, scans showed that the 52-year-old man's tumours, which had spread to his lungs, were gone.

The astonishing outcome is the first solid evidence that the experimental Tcell treatment works.

But the US scientists are quick to point out that the breakthrough involved just one patient.

Further trials will be needed to prove that the results were no fluke, they stressed. Advanced malignant melanoma, the most dangerous form of skin cancer, is notoriously difficult to treat once it starts to spread.

The US team, led by Dr Cassian Yee, from the Fred Hutchinson Cancer Research Centre in Seattle, pioneered a new therapy based on infection-fighting "helper" CD4 T-cells from the patient's own immune system.

The findings were published yesterday in the New England Journal of Medicine.—Internet

Shell shuts down Nigerian oil field after attack

LAGOS, (Nigeria), 19 June—Royal Dutch Shell says it has shut down production at a Nigerian oil field that produces about 200,000 barrels per day after a militant attack.

A Nigerian militant leader says his group launched a rare attack against one of the company's offshore oil installations, more than 65 miles from land.

The fighters said they weren't able to enter a computer control room that they had hoped to destroy to cripple production. The militant leader spoke on condition of anonymity to avoid punishment by authorities. The account could not be immediately verified.

A spokesman for Royal Dutch Shell PLC confirmed an attack, but gave no details. The spokesman, Olav Ljosne, said production had been stopped from the field.

US helicopter engines stolen en route to Pakistan port

KABUL, 19 June—Four US helicopter engines worth more than $13 million have been stolen while they were being trucked from Afghanistan to a port in Pakistan to be shipped home, the US military said.

Most supplies for the US military in landlocked Afghanistan, including fuel, are transported through Pakistan, and militants in both Pakistan and Afghanistan have been stepping up attacks on shipments.

A US military spokesman said the engines were being transported by a Pakistani trucking company when they went missing some time in the month before 10 April.

It was not known if the shipment went missing on the Afghan side of the border or in Pakistan, Sergeant Mark Swart said on Thursday. "We don't have the information on exactly where it disappeared. We just know that it did not get to the port," he said.—Internet

Norway arrests woman for carrying cocaine in wig

OSLO, 19 June — A British woman's bulging wig did not fool Customs agents in Norway who realized she wasn't just having a bad hair day. The wig was concealing 2.2 pounds of cocaine glued to her head and Customs agents detained her on suspicion of cocaine smuggling, authorities said Wednesday.

The 32-year-old suspect, whose name was withheld, arrived late Sunday at Vaernes airport near the city of Trondheim on a flight from Copenhagen, Denmark, the Customs service said.

"The agent thought she had a great deal of hair and suspected that she was wearing a wig," the agency said. "The wig was examined and the agents found a bag of cocaine." Norway's largest newspaper, Verdens Gang, said the cocaine was glued so firmly to the woman's real hair that police brought her to the local hospital to have it removed.—Internet

Floods force 70,000 from China quake zone

SANSHUI, (China), 19 June—China has evacuated more than 70,000 people near the epicentre of last month's devastating earthquake to avoid further casualties from landslides and other disasters during the country's deadly annual flood season.

Rain and floods, concentrated in China's heavily industrialised south, have killed at least 176 people and left 52 missing, as authorities struggle to shelter millions made homeless by the 7.9 magnitude quake that struck southwest Sichuan Province on 12 May.

Authorities in Aba prefecture had moved 72,000 people living in "highly dangerous terrain" in Wenchuan county, the epicentre of the quake, to safer areas ahead of downpours on Wednesday night, Xinhua news agency reported on Thursday.

"The three-day mass relocation concluded at 8 pm, just two hours before heavy rain hit the county," Xinhua quoted local disaster prevention authorities as saying. Since the earthquake struck, killing more than 69,000 people, Wenchuan county alone had experienced nearly 5,000 "secondary geological disasters", including hundreds of major landslides and mudslides.—Internet

S Korea, US end beef meeting without results

SEOUL, 19 June — South Korea ended another round of ministerial talks with the United States Tuesday without a breakthrough on resuming imports of US beef, but the two sides agreed to meet again, officials said. After a two-hour meeting with US Trade Representative (USTR) Susan Schwab at her office in Washington, South Korean Trade Minister Kim Jong-hoon said, “We will meet again tomorrow,” without elaborating on the meeting, the third of its kind since Friday.

Kim told reporters just before the talks that “I will try to address the people’s concerns (over beef safety),” adding the US side has made “several proposals” and that “We’ve been engaged in working-level talks to make the proposals effective ones.”

He would not predict how long the talks with Schwab would last.

Informed sources said

the trade ministers were trying to resolve differences over ways to endorse voluntary efforts by the US beef industry to label beef packages with the age of slaughtered cattle to prevent shipments of beef from cattle over 30 months old, which are said to be more susceptible to mad cow disease.

At issue is how to effectively enforce the voluntary export ban by US beef processors.

ISLAMABAD, 19 June — Pakistan’s disgraced top nuclear scientist denied on Tuesday that he was the source of sophisticated warhead designs found on the computers of Swiss smugglers.

spurred fears in the United States and elsewhere that atomic secrets may be quickly spreading.

Iran urges oil exporting states not to use US dollar

Lee Myung-bak warns of false information on Internet

SEOUL, 19 June—South Korean President Lee Myung-bak said Tuesday that the spread of “false and incorrect” information through the Internet and spam email is threatening the people’s rational thinking and mutual trust.

Lee has been mired in political turmoil, with his public approval ratings plunging below 20 per cent, as thousands of opponents of his government’s decision in mid-April to lift a ban on US beef imports have held daily candlelight protest rallies for nearly 40 days, demanding a renegotiation of the beef deal.

Air Canada to cut jobs

OTTAWA, 19 June—Air Canada, Canada’s biggest carrier, announced Tuesday it will cut 2,000 jobs and reduce capacity to overcome the difficulties caused by high fuel prices.

Most of the job cuts are expected to take effect 1 November and will be spread across the country. Overall capacity will be cut by 7 per cent in the last three months of this year and the first quarter of 2009.

Air Canada said fuel is its single biggest expense, accounting for more than 30 per cent of its operating expenses. With fuel prices more than having doubled last year, the company expects its total fuel charge to be one billion Canadian dollars (one billion US dollars) higher this year than last year.

“Air Canada, like most global airlines, needs to adapt its business and reduce flying that has become unprofitable in the current fuel environment. If fuel prices remain at current levels, we can anticipate further capacity reductions,” said Montie Brewer, Air Canada’s president and CEO Brewer said in a release.

Let's nurture the sapling of democracy

Kyaw Min Lu (Shwepyitha)

The seven-step Road Map or Democracy Road Map has completed its four steps making much headway. In other words, it is marching towards the fifth step with momentum. In the fourth step, the entire people were able to successfully hold the National Convention, the wide and subtle work programme. In the national referendum also, the constitution was approved by the entire people. We should recognize that they are indeed historical records as well as national victories for the State and the people.

All the national people want democracy. Since 1988 when the single party system broke down, the people have wanted democracy and market economy. That was why the existing government abolished the single party system and is heading for the multi-party democracy. It also abolished socialist economic system and started practising market economy. To practise democracy, a constitution is needed. Without a constitution, democracy cannot be shaped. We can say that public approval of the new constitution has opened the way to shaping democracy speedily. This is the true wish of the people and we should understand that.

There may be a question on my explanations mentioned above. I would like to make a review of the acts of a party that is in total opposition of our seven-step Road Map. It has been known to all that NLD issued special announcement No. 14 on 18 June 2008. At the same time, groups of so-called veteran politicians, dancing to the tune of their master, issued their declarations. As they are NLD followers, their announcements are not different from the NLD's.

It was NLD that constantly opposed the existing government and issued countless announcements. It has never been positive about everything the government does. It always tried to exaggerate even a small weak point the government happened to make. That party is always treating the ruling government as an enemy taking advantage of the latter's kind patience and understanding.

Saying about NLD it seems it is endless. But I will say it in brief. NLD criticized the National Convention saying it was a sham. And it created as if the basic principles and detailed basic principles laid down by the NC were only rubbish to be disposed of. Similarly, when the time came to hold the national referendum for the approval of the constitution, NLD accused that the referendum would not be fair and free and the people should cast 'no' vote as the constitution was unilaterally drawn by the military government.

However, today's people know the fact. They are able to distinguish between right and wrong. They will accept what is right but refuse what is wrong. Why did the people accept the Tatmadaw government? Well, let me recount.

Since its assumption of State duties, the Tatmadaw government tried to ensure peace and stability of the State, built all-round development infrastructures across the nation including border areas, constructed roads, bridges, dams, reservoirs, schools, hospitals and markets to improve the socio-economy of the people. Various sectors such as political, economic, social, education and health affairs have improved more than ever. Moreover, with a view to ensuring the perpetuation of the Union, the government built national reconsolidation. These are the great victories of the Tatmadaw government and objective conditions.

Needless to say that everyone should know how hard the government tried to build national reconsolidation and ensure peace and stability and prosperity of the State and how much risk it had to take. Despite the opposition of internal axe-handles and pressure and economic sanctions of some foreign nations, the State hand in hand with the people and the Tatmadaw overcome all difficulties with might and main. We all people have understood that the fruitful results of today came not because of normal goodwill, unity and effort.

Therefore, realizing the genuine goodwill of the Tatmadaw government, the people throughout the nation including rural and urban regions approved the constitution in the national referendum. When nearly cent-per-cent of the people gave a green light to the constitution, NLD shockingly issued announcement No. 13 recently. As before, it said that the referendum was not fair, that there were force and power abuse, that authorities broke rules of the referendum and the people were forced to cast 'yes' vote, that the true wish of the people could not be expressed and that thus, NLD opposed the constitution. It made groundless accusations. It seems that NLD tried to guard against the lightning with a toddy palm. It is also likely that the announcements of the groups of so-called veteran politicians were the copies of the NLD's announcement demanding tripartite talks. Although the announcement opposed the existing government, the NLD's attempt amounts to insulting the people as they were to make a final decision.

Without authentic support of the people, it was impossible to gain that percentage and results even if crooked and deceitful acts were made and authority misused. The people voted for the constitution not because of fear, ignorance or deception. Today's people are knowledgeable enough, so such ways and means would not work. In reality, the people are capable of distinguishing between right and wrong and between good and bad. So, they cast 'yes' vote, standing by the fair side. I would like to make a positive suggestion on behalf of the people that NLD accept the true facts and prevailing situations and stop issuing announcements that can tarnish the image of the people. I would also like to call on the party to respect the desire of the people.

Again, it has issued its announcement No. 14. The introduction of the announcement is about the storm Nargis. As usual, the announcement features repeated demands, saying that the constitution (2008) is absolutely unacceptable to NLD; and that so, it is required to hold talks for reconciliation with political parties, ethnics, and democracy forces. It also calls for holding a hluttaw session as soon as possible according to the 1990 election results. It is very disappointing. Moreover, it derogatorily says that the people are now poverty-stricken with a low living standard; and that inflation rate is very high and the prices of consumer goods are going up sharply.

It is easy to make accusations such as the people are impoverished with a low living standard, and inflation rate is getting high. I would like to ask what NLD has done to deal with those situations and if it has cooperated with the government in national development tasks in the interests of the nation and the people. What we people have realized is that NLD is just a destructive force that constantly destabilizes the nation. It was very foolish of the NLD leader to lay down the policy of economic sanctions against the mother country. NLD is a sort of organization that has tried to get the nation and the people into troubles. It is common knowledge that the nation has been able to overcome the sanctions and showed resilience with self-reliant efforts in the natural disasters.

After the approval of the State constitution, both those who support and those who oppose the government will be vested with the rights to set up political parties, to organize the people, to canvass for votes, and to stand for election in accord with the law. These rights represent a giant step for the drive for introducing democracy in accordance with the people's desire. Soon, the people will enjoy the rights to form political parties, to canvass for votes, to take organizing measures and to stand for election in accordance with the relevant laws. The parties will stand for election in the multi-party democracy general elections due to be held in 2010. After being elected by the votes cast by the people, a candidate will become a representative to a hluttaw (parliament). Then, representatives will be vested with the rights to hold discussions about the State's political, economic and social affairs at the hluttaw. So, these rights are now within the reach of the people.

If one ignores those opportunities and sticks to wrong ways, one will miss those unique opportunities. If one clings on to the demands for implementation of the 1990 election results, tripartite talks, and establishment of a parallel government, one's efforts will never bring fruitful results to any of the people. They may pose a great threat to the entire people by misfortune. Here, I want to warn those who always give lip services only and talk big that there are several sayings such as "Talking a lot, some words may disclose innate nature of the speaker", "A bad singer sings like squawking" and "One suffers because of one's own boastfulness".

I would like to hold some discussions about the 1990 election results. In the run-up to the 1990 election, political parties were mushrooming. The number of political parties stood at 235, and that implied that the people were not mature enough in the party politics without any political experiences. How could the people know at that time that if the number of political parties was that high in a small area and a low population of the nation, democracy to be introduced by the parties would bring many consequences and few fruitful results?

At that time, 93 of the parties stood for election. Of the 93 parties, NLD won the majority of the seats in the multi-party democracy general election. However, the number of the seats it had won was not as many as that to represent the people. At that time, the nation's population was 42 million, over 20 million of which were eligible to enjoy the rights to vote. NLD won the votes of over seven million voters, accounting for only one-third of the voters. The National Unity Party (NUP) won nearly three million votes, accounting for one-fifth of the voters. Frankly speaking, any parties including NLD did not win the public support or the support of above 50 per cent of the voters. NLD won seven in every 20 voters. So, it was clear that it did not represent half the number of the total voters. In other words, any parties did not win the mandate of the people. However, it was very brazen of NLD to claim itself to have won the mandate of the people.

NLD and NUP won the support of nearly half the total number of the voters, but there was a great gap of seats between the two parties. There was not a great gap of public support between the two parties, however NLD won many more seats due to the election system.

Then, NLD became arrogant and considered wrongly. It is nearly two decades NLD has cried out anti-government slogans such as "defy all orders as a duty", mottos designed to incite riots such as "the brave never die", given ultimatum of "which way the government will choose—dialogue or utter devastation", dissuaded foreign tourists from visiting Myanmar, demanded international community for economic sanctions against Myanmar at the expense of the nation and the people, and exercised the policy of confrontation, utter devastation, and sanctions against the nation in all sectors. It has become crystal clear whether the policy NLD practices is right or wrong. What have NLD and its followers become now? What have they done in the interests of the nation and the people? Now, NLD has realized what the people's attitude towards it is, because even bystanders have understood well about that.

China’s digital cable TV subscribers top 26 mln by 2007

BEIJING, 19 June — China’s digital cable television population doubled in 2007, as savvy domestic consumers embraced more forms of “new media,” according to a report by the country’s media watchdog.

Domestic digital cable TV subscribers reached 26.86 million in 2007, double that of the previous year, according to the State Administration of Radio, Film and Television (SARFT) report. It attributed the growth to the government’s plan to digitalize the country’s TV industry.

To date, 53 Chinese cities had established digital cable TV systems.

Thailand to open more rice mortgage centres

BANGKOK, 19 June — Thailand’s Public Warehouse Organization (PWO) and the Bank for Agriculture and Agricultural Cooperatives (BAAC) will establish more rice mortgage centres countrywide to facilitate farmers, the state-run Thai News Agency reported on Monday.

Senior officials of the PWO on Monday met Yanyong Puangraj, director-general of Internal Trade Department, to assess the government-sponsored rice-pledging programme, which began nationwide Sunday aiming to shore up falling paddy prices and containing protests by farmers.

However, only six centres were established in a total of five provinces and only 60 farmers mortgaged rice amounting 1,000 tons in the program on Sunday. Therefore, the government plans to open more centres to meet the expectation of buying several million tons of paddy rice from farmers, the report said.

Rudd faces Upper House budget battle

CANBERRA, 19 June — Australia’s Prime Minister Kevin Rudd faces the biggest test of his six-month Labour government with a battle this week to get key budget measures past a hostile Upper House controlled by rival conservatives.

Rudd, a bookish former diplomat who in September ended nearly 12 years of conservative rule, has promised a 21.7-billion-Australian-dollar (20.4-billion-US-dollar) surplus to recast Labour as responsible economic managers in the minds of still-wary voters.

But his opponents, who control the Upper House Senate for another fortnight before election changes shift power to a potpourri of green and family-values senators, are set on delaying key measures by sending them to a review committee.

“The Liberal Party is a clear threat to interest rates. In the Senate, we have a real fight against the Liberals to ensure that our budget is carried,” Rudd’s troubleshooter, Deputy Prime Minister Julia Gillard, told Labour lawmakers on Tuesday.

The conservatives are promising to block budget laws which increase sales taxes on luxury cars, expected to bring in 555 million Australian dollars over four years, and a new tax on previously exempt gas condensate which has angered big resource companies.

Eq Guinea seeks 32 yrs jail for UK mercenary

MALABO, 19 June — Equatorial Guinea’s state prosecutor asked a court on Tuesday to sentence British mercenary Simon Mann to nearly 32 years in prison for his role in a failed 2004 coup.

On the first day of Mann’s trial in Malabo, the case presented by the West African state’s public prosecutor Jose Olo Obono also named Mark Thatcher, son of former British prime minister Margaret Thatcher, as one of the organizers of the abortive plot to topple President Teodoro Obiang Nguema Mbasogo.

Mann, an Eton-educated former special forces officer, was arrested in Zimbabwe in 2004 with 70 mercenaries en route to Equatorial Guinea. He was extradited from Zimbabwe to Malabo earlier this year.

He said in a TV interview broadcast in Britain in March that he plotted to oust Obiang. He is charged with crimes against the head of state, crimes against the government and crimes against the peace and independence of the Equatorial Guinean state.

Shanghai reports first child death of HFMD

SHANGHAI, 19 June — Shanghai Health Bureau on Tuesday confirmed the city's first child death of hand-foot-mouth disease (HFMD).

The two-year-old boy was sent to the Shanghai Public Health Clinic Centre for treatment on the evening of 14 May, where he was diagnosed as having HFMD.

Emergency treatment failed and he died a few hours later, according to the bureau.

The child, a native in north China's Henan Province, lived with his family in Songjiang

District of Shanghai, said a bureau statement.

Medical experts were still studying the case.

Shanghai reported 10,340 HFMD cases in the first five months. The city is not on the Health Ministry's list of the regions worst hit by the epidemic.

The ministry reported earlier last week that there were more than 176,000 HFMD cases reported nationwide last month. Daily reported cases declined from 11,501 at the peak on 14 May to 3,922 on 5 June.

Australia approves local-made bird flu vaccine

CANBERRA, 19 June— Australia said on Tuesday it had approved the first locally made vaccine to protect humans from future bird flu, giving the nod to Panvax manufactured by CSL.

“The vaccine, Panvax, protects humans against the H5N1 influenza virus, which has been responsible for outbreaks of bird flu in Asia, the Middle East, Europe and Africa,” Health Minister Nicola Roxon said in a statement.

Experts fear the H5N1 virus, which has led to the slaughter of many poultry populations worldwide, could mutate into a form easily spread among people and spark a pandemic. The virus has killed 241 people in a dozen countries since 2003.

Roxon said Panvax would provide Australians with safe, effective coverage against being infected by a human strain of avian influenza, and was developed with government backing.

Three randomised, double-blind clinical studies were conducted to assess the safety of the vaccine in adults aged 18-64, and older adults aged 65 years and over, she said.

World better equipped to fight flu pandemic

UNITED NATIONS, 19 June — World readiness for an influenza pandemic has improved after an “extraordinary global response” to the bird flu threat of recent years, the top UN official dealing with the disease said on Tuesday.

But David Nabarro, the world body's influenza coordinator, said the risk of a pandemic remained, should the bird flu virus mutate into a form that is easily transmitted between humans.

The highly pathogenic H5N1 avian influenza strain has caused the death or destruction of an estimated 300 million birds since it resurfaced in Asia in 2003. While H5N1 rarely infects people, it has killed 241 out of 383 infected in 15 countries.

Worldwide concern about the disease mounted in 2005 as cases were found in Europe, the Middle East and Africa.

Nabarro told a UN news conference that “there has been an extraordinary global response to ... the spread of the virus ... that has meant that now the continuous transmission of this virus is only occurring in four, perhaps five countries”.

Red wine's resveratrol may help battle obesity

WASHINGTON, 19 June — Resveratrol, a compound present in grapes and red wine, reduces the number of fat cells and may one day be used to treat or prevent obesity, according to a new study published Monday at the annual meeting of US Endocrine Society.

Past research has found that resveratrol protected laboratory mice that were fed a high-calorie diet from the health problems of obesity, by mimicking the effects of calorie restriction. Researchers at the University of Ulm in Germany wanted to know if resveratrol could mimic the effects of calorie restriction in human fat cells by changing their size or function.

The German team used a strain of human fat cell precursors, called preadipocytes. In the body, these cells develop into mature fat cells, according to the study's lead author Pamela Fischer-Posovszky.

In the cell-based study, they found that resveratrol inhibited the pre-fat cells from increasing and prevented them from converting into mature fat cells. Also, resveratrol hindered fat storage.

LONDON, 19 June — Former Wimbledon champion Lindsay Davenport withdrew from the Eastbourne International on Tuesday with a knee injury.

The 31-year-old American, who won Wimbledon in 1999 and Eastbourne in 2001, also withdrew from the French Open because of personal reasons.

Davenport was set to face Virginie Razzano in the first round in Eastbourne but the Frenchwoman instead faced Kaia Kanepi of Estonia, winning 6-3, 6-4.

Turkey keeper Volkan banned for two matches

BASEL, 19 June — Turkey goalkeeper Volkan Demirel has been banned for two matches and will miss their Euro 2008 quarter-final against Croatia and a possible semifinal, tournament organizers UEFA said on Wednesday.

Volkan was red carded by Swedish referee Peter Fröjdfeldt in stoppage time in Turkey's dramatic 3-2 Group A victory over Czech Republic on Sunday after he pushed striker Jan Koller to the ground in an off-the-ball incident.

UEFA said the Turkish soccer federation had also been fined 44,000 Swiss francs (42,150 US dollars) due to the "improper conduct of supporters, players and officials" during and after the Czech Republic match. Later on Wednesday UEFA said in a statement: "The Turkish soccer federation has lodged an appeal against the ban imposed on Volkan Demirel and the fine imposed on the federation. No date has been set yet for the appeal."

Turkey coach Fatih Terim said earlier this week that 2002 World Cup keeper Rustu Recber would take Volkan's place against Croatia in Vienna on Friday.

Turkish transgressions included Volkan sitting on the bench after his dismissal when he should have left the technical area, about 25 unaccredited people present in the Turkey dressing room after the match and some fans trying to reach the pitch. —MNA/Reuters

Red hot Russia prove too strong for Sweden

INNSBRUCK, 19 June — Russia produced their best performance of Euro 2008 when it was most needed on Wednesday, beating Sweden 2-0 to snatch second place in Group D to earn a quarterfinal meeting with Netherlands.

Guus Hiddink's side had to win to progress while a draw would have been enough for the Scandinavians to advance.

But there was only one team in it as brilliantly-worked goals by Roman Pavlyuchenko and Andrei Arshavin sent Russia into the knockout phase of a major tournament for the first time since, as the Soviet Union, they lost to the Dutch in the Euro 1988 final.

"We're very proud of what the team have achieved in this tournament," Hiddink told reporters. "But that's not enough."

"The next goal are the Dutch (in Basel on Saturday). Our problem is we only have two days to recuperate."

"I don't have 20 A-players. Holland used their B-team last night (against Romania). Their A-team have had five or six days to recover." —MNA/Reuters

Spain show winning mentality with comeback victory

SALZBURG, 19 June — With a perfect record of three wins out of three in their group matches, Spain believe they have demonstrated the winning mentality that will help them overcome world champions Italy in the quarterfinals.

"Italy are going to be very difficult opponents but at this stage every team is difficult," Spain coach Luis Aragones said after his team's 2-1 win over Greece in their final group game.

"This side have learnt a lot. We were a young side at the World Cup and now we know what these competitions are like. I think we can carry on."

"This part is over and now we are on to the really impressive bit. We hope that the sort of mentality we have shown up until now will help us through," he added.

Spain joined Croatia and Netherlands as the only teams with 100 per cent records at Euro 2008 after their reserves came from a goal down to beat 2004 champions Greece in Salzburg. The Greeks scored their first goal of the tournament when striker Angelos Charisteas, who got the winner in the final against hosts Portugal four years ago, put them in front with a header at the end of the first half. —MNA/Reuters

Bolivia end Paraguay's unbeaten run in qualifiers

LAPAZ, 19 June — Bolivia ended Paraguay's unbeaten run in the 2010 World Cup qualifiers on Wednesday, beating the South American group leaders 4-2.

Striker Joaquin Botero scored twice to help Bolivia to their first win in the group and move them off bottom spot.

Ronaldo Garcia and Marcelo Martins also scored on a nightmare afternoon for Paraguay goalkeeper Aldo Bobadilla, standing in for the injured Justo Villar.

Roque Santa Cruz and Nelson Haedo Valdez replied for Paraguay, who beat Brazil 2-0 three days earlier but struggled with the high altitude at 3,600 metres above sea level and a shocking pitch.

Bolivia have four points from six games in the 10-team group, one more than table-propping Peru, while Paraguay have 13.

Ribery out for at least seven weeks

VEVEY (Switzerland), 19 June — France playmaker Franck Ribery will be out for seven to eight weeks after spraining his left ankle and hurting his knee in the 2-0 defeat by Italy at Euro 2008.

"He has a nasty ankle sprain," France coach Raymond Domenech told a news conference on Wednesday. "He's walking on crutches, he can't put his foot down." —MNA/Reuters
