Focus on boosting export of corn

Corn is in demand locally and globally. It is widely used in producing cordial, sugar, coffee and corn oil. So, there is a growing demand for the cereal throughout the world.

In Myanmar, corn is grown on a commercial scale in Sagaing Division as well as in Taungdwingyi, Aungmye, Pyaw and Koebin in Magway Division. Moreover, the crop is cultivated extensively in Pakokku, Minbu and Thayet districts, and Shan State (North) and Shan State (South).

Corn is grown mostly in the rainy season. It is grown in May and June and often comes into buds in November and December. Cold season corn is cultivated in October and November and is harvested in February and March.

Myanmar exports more than 200,000 tons of corn yearly through normal trade and border trade. For this year, over 70,000 tons of corn had been exported up to June.

Now, the government is taking measures including supply of sufficient irrigation water for improving the agriculture sector. As a result, many crops inclusive of paddy, corn and edible oil crops are being grown extensively through mixed-cropping and multiple cropping patterns.

Myanmar's export of corn has increased since 2003-2004 fiscal year. So, it is required to make efforts for the crop to have a foothold not only in the markets of neighbouring countries but also in that of Asia. Therefore, farmers, on their part, have to cultivate corn on a wider scale and use better harvesting methods to help boost export of corn.

Firefighter killed in standoff near St Louis

MAPLEWOOD, 22 July—A suburban St Louis firefighter is dead and two other emergency workers are wounded after a gunman opened fire during a standoff at his home in Maplewood.

The incident began with a report of a pickup truck fire in the St Louis suburb. When firefighters arrived, someone began firing shots. Police responded, and at least one officer was also reportedly struck.

KSDK-TV reported that a neighbor said at around 10:30 am, the fire suddenly intensified and loud popping sounds could be heard.

Naplewood city officials identified the slain firefighter as 22-year-old Ryan Hummert. Officials said he was shot to death as he got off the fire truck.

Hummert was the son of former Maplewood Mayor Andy Hummert. He began his career in August 2007 after graduating from paramedic training. He graduated from the St Louis County Fire Academy in March.

A Maplewood police officer was also taken to the hospital and was being treated for a gunshot wound to the right shoulder. Clark says his injury is not considered life-threatening.

The third injured emergency worker was taken to another hospital. There was no word on his condition.

Obama touts 'convergence' on his foreign policy goals

WASHINGTON, 22 July—Democratic presidential candidate Barack Obama on Monday almost boasted of the "convergence" of the US administration and his Republican White House rival John McCain around his foreign policy goals for the United States.

Obama said that after being fiercely criticized for proposing a 16-month timeline for US troop withdrawal from Iraq, both Baghdad and the White House have now "suggested that we needed some kind of time horizon. "You know there was a whole verbiage around it, but there is a sense that we need to start to point to an end game here."

In much the same way, the Illinois senator said, his suggestion months ago that two additional brigades were needed in Afghanistan was opposed by McCain, "and now there is convergence around the notion that we need at least two and maybe three brigades."

LONDON, 22 July—The world is failing to guard against the inevitable spread of a devastating flu pandemic which could kill 50 million people and wreak massive disruption around the globe, the Government has warned.

In evidence to a House of Lords committee, ministers said that early warning systems for spotting emerging diseases were "poorly coordinated" and lacked "vision" and "clarity". They said that more needed to be done to improve detection and surveillance for potential pandemics and called for urgent improvement in rapid response strategies.

The Government's evidence appeared in a highly critical report from the Lords Intergovernmental Organizations Committee, which attacked the World Health Organization (WHO) as "dysfunctional" and criticized the international response to the threat of an outbreak of disease which could sweep across the globe.

Sri Lanka rebels declare ceasefire for S Asia summit

COLOMBO, 22 July—Sri Lanka’s Tamil Tiger rebels declared Tuesday a unilateral ceasefire with the military during a 10-day meeting of South Asian leaders starting here this week.

The Liberation Tigers of Tamil Eelam (LTTE) said the ceasefire was an attempt to help ensure the success of the eight-member South Asian Association for Regional Cooperation conference in the capital.

“Our movement will observe a unilateral ceasefire .. during the period of the SAARC conference from 26th July to 4th August and give our cooperation for the success of the conference,” the Tamil Tigers said in a statement.

Colombo is hosting the 15th SAARC summit which groups Afghanistan, Bangladesh, Bhutan, India, Maldives, Nepal, Pakistan as well as Sri Lanka.

However the rebels said they would be forced to take “defensive action” if the Sri Lankan government failed to respect the gesture and the military carried out any offensives.

“If the military disrespects our goodwill gesture of our people and our nation, (or) carry out any offensives, our movement will be forced to take defensive actions,” said Balasingham Nadesan, head of the group’s political wing.

WELEETKA (Oklahoma), 22 July—The Oklahoma State Bureau of Investigation hopes a 911 call will lead to help in solving the mysterious killings of two girls last month in eastern Oklahoma.

OSBI spokeswoman Jessica Brown played an emotional 911 tape Monday in hopes of generating more leads in the case.

The tape was of a 911 call made by the grandmother of one of the girls. The grandmother could be heard screaming that the girls were dead and telling a dispatcher the bodies were on County Line Road outside of Weleetka.

The bullet-riddled bodies of 11-year-old Skyla Whitaker and 13-year-old Taylor Placker were discovered June 8 on a gravel road less than a half-mile from the house where they were staying.

Authorities say they have no suspect or motive in the killings, which occurred near the small working-class community of 1,000 people, 70 miles south of Tulsa.

Suicide bomb wounds three Afghan civilians in Kabul

KABUL, 22 July—A Taliban suicide bomber wounded three civilians when he blew himself up as he was challenged by police in the Afghan capital, Kabul, on Tuesday, the Interior Ministry said.

Taliban militants have launched some 100 suicide attacks so far this year, mostly targeting Afghan and international

The bomber struck early in the morning in the Gozargah area of the capital, next to the walls of the historic tomb of Babur, the 16th century founder of India’s Mughal dynasty.

Only a leg of the bomber remained, lying on the ground.

“It was an attack next to be Babur gardens,” said Interior Ministry spokesman Zemarai Bashari.

“The suicide bomber wanted to get into the (centre of the) city, but there was a strong security checkpoint of the police so he was not able to infiltrate.

Pennsylvania woman charged with pregnant woman’s murder after cutting baby from womb

ALLEGHENY (Pennsylvania), 22 July—A woman in Pennsylvania has been charged with murder after she was alleged to have drugged a pregnant woman, cut her baby from her womb and tried to pass the child off as her own.

Andrea Curry-Demus, 38, is alleged to have used a “very sharp instrument” to rip out the baby while the mother may still have been alive.

The body of 18-year-old Kia Johnson was found on Friday in Curry-Demus’s bedroom.

Curry-Demus has a history of offences relating to baby snatching. In 1990 she was sentenced to up to 10 years in jail after she was accused of stabbing a woman in an attempt to steal her child.

A day later she grabbed a three-week-old baby from hospital.

The infant girl was later recovered unharmed.

Dollar slips on rising oil prices

NEW YORK, 22 July—The dollar weakened Monday under pressure from a rebound in oil prices, despite better-than-expected earnings from Bank of America that eased some concerns about the US financial sector.

The euro rose to 1.5921 dollars around 2100 GMT from 1.5846 late Friday.

The dollar fell to 106.41 yen from 106.95.

Oil futures prices, which plunged more than 16 dollars a barrel in New York last week, surged higher as a tropical storm barreled through the Gulf of Mexico, threatening oil installations.

New York's main contract, light sweet crude for August delivery, advanced 2.16 dollars to close at 131.04 dollars.

Oil prices also found support from heightened geopolitical tensions over Iran's nuclear program, suspected by the United States and other major powers of concealing a drive for atomic weapons.

After international weekend talks failed to make progress, the United States and Britain warned Monday that Iran faces further sanctions if it does not suspend its nuclear program. Tehran insists its program is strictly for energy production.

"The failure to make progress on the Geneva nuclear talks with Iran over the weekend provoked fears of fresh sanctions against the Islamic regime and helped push oil higher, stocks lower and rallied the EURUSD in the process," said Boris Schlossberg, an analyst at Forex Capital Markets.

The company confirmed in a statement its financial targets of 15 percent growth in both sales and operating income for fiscal year 2009.

Gross margin in 2009 was expected to be above the company's long-term target range of 32-34 percent.—Internet

Batman film nears $200 million after first weekend

LOS ANGELES, 22 July—It turns out Batman is more of a superhero than first thought.

The latest installment in the Caped Crusader franchise, "The Dark Knight," enhanced its status as the biggest movie opening of all time at the North American box office, according to final data issued on Monday by its distributor, Warner Bros Pictures.

The film grossed $158.355 million during its first three days of release across the United States and Canada—a $3 million improvement over Sunday's estimate from the Time Warner Inc-owned studio.

It's not unusual for final weekend data to veer slightly from the initial estimate. In the case of "The Dark Knight," some rival studios had suggested Warner Bros. was a little optimistic, though no one really doubted that it would beat the opening-weekend record of $151.1 million set by "Spider-Man 3" in May 2007.

IWT endeavouring for better transport

Article by Maung Tin Hlaing (Hotels & Tourism)

Pa Pa Win Floating Hospital.

Managing Director of Inland Water Transport of the Ministry of Transport U Soe Tint and officials went to Mawlamyinegyun while the General Manager and officials went to Labutta which is 171 miles far away from Yangon to engage in rehabilitation of storm-hit regions of Ayeyawady Division. I got an opportunity to travel with them.

The duties of the General Manager and officials are to inspect the installing of new jetties and pontoons along the route from Yangon to Labutta and Waipulla Vessel that was washed ashore in Labutta, putting the vessels that were washed ashore back to water, restoring of old Labutta jetty (Takha-13) and loading of green groceries, marine products and paddy of Kanbet and Beetoot villages, jetties of other towns along the Yangon-Labutta route and loading and unloading at those jetties, the floating hospital and Ba Yint Naung Vessel and attend to the needs.

It was found that well-wishers, companies, those from the states and divisions and departmental personnel are engaged in rehabilitation of the storm-hit regions day in, day out.

Among those engaged in rehabilitation of the storm-hit regions of Ayeyawady Division were the staff of IWT of the Ministry of Transport. They helped rebuild vessels and pontoons and transported relief aid and construction materials to the affected areas by boat and Z-craft.

The IWT is transporting passengers and cargo with the use of 505 motorized boats and boats in its bid to ensure smooth and speedy commodity flow. The department has transported 25 million passengers in average and about 4 million tons of cargo in average yearly. The aim of the IWT is to enable the people to travel from one place to another at reasonable prices and to play a pivotal role in the State's transportation with least expenses. It charges three kyats and 80 pyas for a passenger per mile and six kyats for one ton of cargo per mile in its transportation of passengers and goods. In ferry route, it charges ten kyats for a passenger.

Soon after the severe storm that occurred on 2 and 3 May, the Managing Director of IWT and officials concerned made relentless efforts day in, day out to minimize the loss and damage of property.

I visited Maykha Vessel which arrived at Kakayan village in Labutta Township on 21 June. As the General Manager of the IWT and officials concerned helped lay jetties and pontoons along the Yangon-Labutta route to enable the vessels to run at full capacity in rehabilitation of storm-hit regions, vessels can dock safely, loading and unloading can be carried out swiftly, loss and wastage of cargo can be prevented and pontoons can be used for storage of cargo at a time when there is shortage of buildings. Since 4 June, the IWT has resumed its services.

There was no passenger dead or any cargo loss on 24 passenger lines of the IWT that were plying during the severe storm. This can be attributed to the systematic arrangement of the IWT under its security programme. The storm left 36 vessels sunk, four pontoons sunk and 32 vessels washed ashore totaling 72 out of 338 boats and motorized boats based in Yangon. However, the sunken vessels and those being washed ashore were put back into water in a matter of hours after the storm.

On 6 May, altogether 28 vessels made 35 runs in transporting 2562.5 tons of relief aid to Labutta, Mawlamyinegyun, Bogale, Pyapon, Dedaye, Pathein and Hinthada. Those responsible have been able to salvage all the vessels, crafts and pontoons.

Way Thandaya Vessel and Ba Yint Naung vessel served as floating hospitals on the Yangon-Labutta route, Tai Aye and Ponna Byan vessels as floating hospitals in Yangon and Bogale, Ta Tai Hmwe and Pa Donna vessels as floating vessels on the Yangon-Pyapon route and Pa Pa Win vessel as floating hospital in Mawlamyinegyun. Vessels of the IWT transported 10,252 baskets of paddy seeds from Rakhine State to the storm-hit regions of Ayeyawady Division.

The IWT is actively participating in rehabilitation of the storm-stricken regions by doing its bit, while striving for bringing about better transport and ensuring speedy and smooth commodity flow.

Nepal picks first President

KATHMANDU, 22 July—Nepal's lawmakers picked the country's first president on Monday, rejecting a candidate backed by former Maoist rebels in a move that could plunge the Himalayan nation's nascent republic into more political turmoil.

Ram Baran Yadav, an ethnic Madheshi from the centrist Nepali Congress party, won 308 out of the 590 votes cast by the constituent assembly, defeating Ram Raja Prasad Singh who had the support of the Maoists, officials said.

Soon after his victory, the new president met the 83-year-old Prime Minister Girija Prasad Koirala, his political mentor.

"This is a victory of democracy and of all Nepali people," Yadav, a doctor told reporters after the meeting.

It was the first major vote in a special assembly since lawmakers decided to abolish the 239-year-old monarchy and declare a republic, part of a peace process that ended a decade-long civil war with Maoist insurgents.

In some ways, the new president may also help stabilise Nepal. An ethnic Madheshi from the country's lowlands, Yadav's election may help unite a country torn for decades between its highland Himalayan cultures and the peoples of the plains.

There are now doubts that the Maoists, who are the biggest party in the assembly, will form a government with their chief, Prachanda, as prime minister.

"It is a result of an unholy alliance," Matrika Yadav, a senior Maoist leader, told reporters. "We'll not form the government ... we'll play the role of a strong opposition and help prepare the constitution."

The assembly, elected in April, is meant to both govern the country and draw up a new constitution.

DPRK develops new methods to quickly diagnose bird flu

PYONGYANG, 22 July— Researchers of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea (DPRK) have recently developed a new genetic analysis method for quick diagnosis of bird flu, local media reported on Monday.

Four years ago, researchers at the Veterinary Institute of the DPRK Academy of Agricultural Sciences have partially discovered the bio-characteristics of the bird flu viruses, which were prevalent at that time and set up a gene bank, the official news agency KCNA said.

Over the years, the researchers have successfully developed a new genetic analyzing approach which can quickly diagnose various types and subtypes of bird flu virus with no need of standard serum or standard antigen.

Meanwhile, the researchers have also developed new diagnostic reagents with high sensitivity — over 95 per cent, whose accuracy is also much bigger than its predecessors. The DPRK has already established production processes for the new diagnostic reagents.

China, Russia complete border survey, determination

BEIJING, 22 July— China and Russia signed an additional protocol on the eastern part of borders they share, which marked the completion of all the 4,300-kilometres-long border survey and determination.

The protocol, with a map affiliated, was signed here Monday by Chinese Foreign Minister Yang Jiechi and visiting Russian Minister of Foreign Affairs Sergei Lavrov.

Yang said at a Press briefing after his talks with Lavrov that the two sides exchanged wide-ranging and in-depth views on how to further promote the Sino-Russian strategic partnership of cooperation and enhance bilateral cooperation on the international and regional issues.

He said the two sides had reached wide-ranging consensus and the talks were "positive and fruitful".

About 1,000 made homeless by explosion in Canada

OTTAWA, 22 July— About 1,000 residents of a highrise building are homeless after an underground explosion rocked their property located in Canada's biggest city Toronto, reports reaching here said Monday.

The building has been determined as unsafe after a hydro vault blew up Sunday night, completely destroying an electrical room, several walls and a number of parked cars.

Nine firefighters and a resident suffered minor injuries, varying from burns to smoke inhalation.

Authorities has banned residents from entering the building because of the lack of gas and water as well as some structural damage. An investigation is expected to take at last four weeks.

US accused of making India ally to attack Iran

NEW DELHI, 22 July— CPI(M) leader Sitaram Yechury Monday accused the United States of trying to make India a strategic ally to attack Iran once New Delhi signs the India-US nuclear deal.

"The country's security is under threat as the US is planning to launch an attack on Iran, and India will be forced to join ranks with the US as a strategic ally," said Yechury during a protest on nuclear deal.

Noting that Iran recently acquired nuclear capability and thus drew US ire, Yechury said that India "will end up servicing US planes and warships during an all out attack on Iran."

Yechury said the Left parties had warned the Prime Minister Manmohan Singh several times not to side with the Bush Administration.

"Prime ministers in several countries like France, UK, Australia and Japan had to lose their jobs for siding with the Bush Administration. Here too, we will not stop till the United Progressive Alliance government is defeated," Yechury said.

Vietnam licenses third oil refinery

HANOI, 22 July— Vietnam has licensed a project on developing a petrochemical complex with investment of nearly 3.8 billion US dollars in southern Ba Ria Vung Tau Province, Vietnamese newspaper Investment reported Monday. The complex, including the Long Son oil refinery, is scheduled to become operational in the second quarter of 2013. Its key investor is state-owned Vietnam National Oil and Gas Group (PetroVietnam).

An official from the Vietnamese Ministry of Planning and Investment said recently that the Long Son oil refinery is expected to have annual processing capacity of 10 million tons of crude oil.

Dung Quat, Vietnam's first refinery with an annual processing capacity of 6.5 million tons of crude oil under construction with investment of 2.5 billion dollars in central Quang Ngai Province, is scheduled to operate in February 2009. Its sole investor is PetroVietnam.

Construction of the second oil refinery named Nghi Son in northern Thanh Hoa Province with initial investment of 6.2 billion dollars started in May.

Iran's Ahmadinejad says N-talks a step forward

TEHERAN, 22 July—Iran's President described talks with world powers on its disputed nuclear programme as a step forward on Sunday, official media said, even though the meeting in Geneva failed to produce any breakthrough in the standoff.

At Saturday's discussions in the Swiss city, the six powers gave the Islamic Republic two weeks to answer calls to rein in its nuclear activities or face tougher sanctions after talks ended in stalemate despite unprecedented US participation.

Prospects of ending the row looked dim as Iran's top nuclear negotiator Saeed Jalili said Iran would not discuss a demand to freeze sensitive atomic work the West fears is aimed at making bombs at the next meeting. Iran says its aims are peaceful.

But Iranian President Mahmoud Ahmadinejad gave an upbeat assessment. "Any negotiation that takes place is a step forward," he told reporters, according to IRNA. "Yesterday's negotiation is regarded as one of these forward-moving negotiations," Ahmadinejad said.— MNA/Reuters

FAO warns of rising number of global hunger

HAVANA, 22 July—The number of hungry people in the world has risen by 50 million and will continue to increase this year, a UN official warned Monday.

Senegalese Jacques Diouf, general director of the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO), made the remarks in a speech at the University of Havana, Cuba.

Diouf, who was invited by the local government, said the soaring food prices have worsened global hunger and pushed more people below the poverty line.

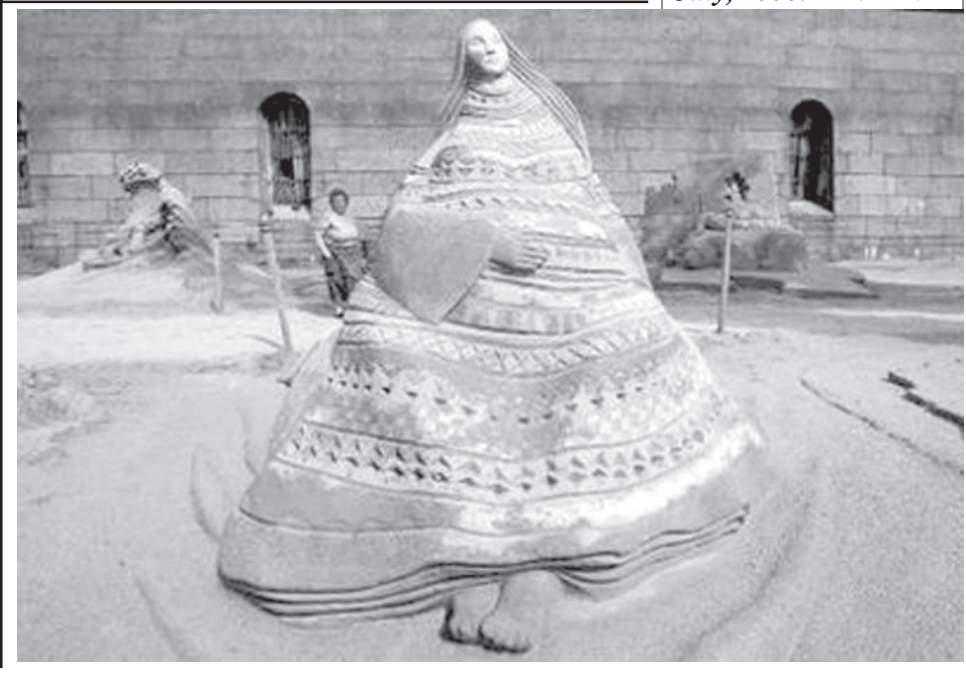

But if all governments made the hunger problem a priority and used the necessary financial resources, the current crisis could be solved, Diouf said.—MNA/Xinhua

Chavez may hug Spain king, won't shut up

CARACAS, 21 July — Venezuela's President Hugo Chavez said on Sunday he would like to give the king of Spain a hug when he visits Europe next week, but the outspoken leader, referring to a diplomatic spat last year, said he will not shut up. King Juan Carlos sparked a furor in November by shouting "Why don't you shut up?" at Chavez when he tried to interrupt a speech by Spanish Prime Minister Jose Luis Rodriguez Zapatero at the Ibero-American summit in Chile. Ties have improved since then and the Spanish Government said last week that Chavez will meet the king on a visit to Spain next week.

"I'd like to give the king a hug, but you know, Juan Carlos, that I am not going to shut up," a smiling Chavez said on his weekly television show before setting off to Russia for the first leg of his tour. MNA/Reuters

Grow your mobile in a pot? Maybe someday, say Nokia researchers HELSINKI, 22 July— With a mobile phone you can make calls on the go, shoot photos and pinpoint your position on a map. And who knows, maybe one day you'll be able to grow your phone in a pot, if the futuristic ideas of technology researchers come true.

The world's leading mobile phone maker Nokia has worked for years with top experts to determine the needs and wants of tomorrow's customers in order to stay ahead of aggressive new competitors Google and Apple as well as the more traditional device makers Samsung, LG and Motorola.

In 2007, the Finnish company spent some 5.6 billion euros (8.9 billion dollars), or about 11 percent of its 51-billion-euro net sales, on research and development.

About 27 percent of its employees, or more than 30,000 people, work on research and development, 700 of whom are part of Nokia's long-term research unit.

The Nokia Research Centre is a global organisation with activities in Britain, the United States, China, Switzerland and Finland, among others.

"Right now we are looking for things that could be relevant for Nokia in 2015.

It might be that the patent for a product is relevant in 2015 but that the actual product is further away," Leo Kaerkaeinen, a chief visionary at the Nokia Research Centre, told AFP.

He would not disclose the industry secrets Nokia was working on but said the starting point for researchers was that anything was possible.

'One woman, one egg' IVF plan reduces chances of live births

LONDON, 22 July— Thousands of couples undergoing IVF treatment will find that their chances of having a baby are vastly reduced under a controversial new technique being promoted by the fertility watchdog, the Human Fertilisation and Embryology Authority (HFEA).

The authority is trying to cut the number of IVF twins and triplets by reducing the number of eggs implanted in mothers-to-be from two to one.

This process is known as Single Embryo Transfer (SET). But findings from the first research into the use of SET reveal that it slashes the chances of a successful live birth to just 17 per cent.

If the preliminary findings are correct, the average 30-year-old woman undergoing IVF will see her chances of having a baby reduce from 30 per cent to 21 per cent according to the study. And a 40-year-old woman would see her chances fall from 14 per cent to 9. The results are based on a two-year study of 110,000 patient records for the Department of Health, which will publish the study next year.—Internet

Most children with milk allergy tolerate warm milk

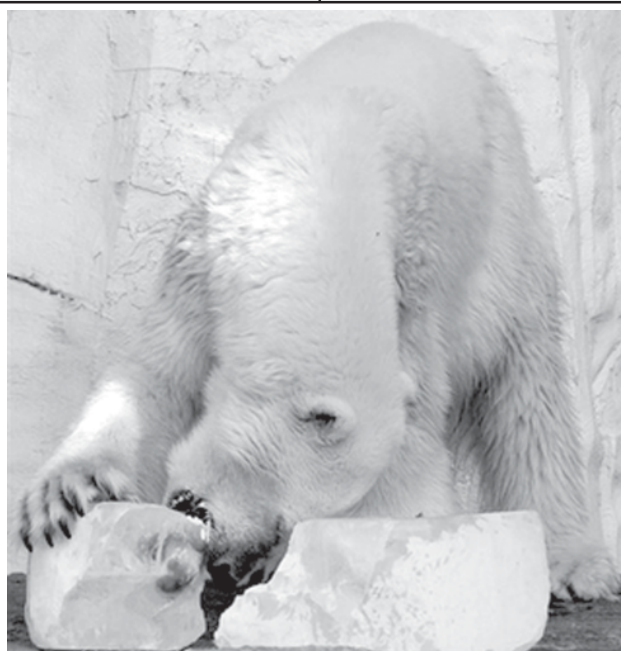

NEW YORK, 22 July— Seventy-five percent of children with cow's milk allergy will be able to tolerate it if it is heated extensively, according to a report in the Journal of Allergy and Clinical Immunology.

Children with persistent milk allergy produce antibodies that react against specific milk proteins that their immune system recognizes as foreign, according to Dr. Anna Nowak-Wegrzyn, from Mount Sinai School of Medicine in New York, and her colleagues. Children who have outgrown their milk allergies still have milk-specific antibodies, but the specific milk proteins that trigger this reaction can almost entirely be destroyed through exposure to high temperatures.

Texas, Mexico prepare for Tropical Storm Dolly

MCALLEN, 22 July — Residents along the Texas-Mexico border kept a watchful eye on Tropical Storm Dolly on Monday, stocking up on plywood, generators and flashlights as forecasters predicted the storm would strengthen into a hurricane later this week and make landfall.

Hurricane warnings were issued late Monday for parts of the Texas and Mexico coasts, meaning hurricane conditions were expected in those areas by the end of Tuesday. The storm was expected to bring high winds and dump 10 to 20 inches of rain in coastal areas near the US-Mexican border. Emergency officials feared major flooding problems and urged coastal residents to prepare.

Shell Oil said it was evacuating workers from oil rigs in the western Gulf Of Mexico, and the federal government was trying to decide whether they could begin construction on a new border fence, which was to be combined with levee improvements along the Rio Grande in Hidalgo County.

The National Hurricane Center in Miami issued a hurricane warning from Brownsville north to Port O'Connor. Meanwhile, a tropical storm warning was issued from Port O'Connor to the San Luis Pass, a strait south of Galveston.

'Beer geek' couple Marks malf the journey in their year in beer

CARMEL VALLEY, 22 July — A couple of self-described "beer geeks" have passed the six-month point in their year of searching out great beer around the world.

Chris Nelson and his wife Merideth Canham-Nelson of Carmel Valley, Calif., started their year in beer in January with a visit to Anchorage, Alaska's Great Alaska Beer & Barley Wine Festival.

Since then, they've attended a beer festival in Germany, downed Guinness in Ireland, and visited breweries and beer events in cities ranging from Boston to Seattle.

The next six months will take them to England,

Denver, San Diego, Belgium, and back to Germany for (what else?) Oktoberfest.

Rafael Nadal replaces Roger Federer as number one: Becker

TORONTO, 22 July— The ATP computer says otherwise but Boris Becker believes Rafael Nadal has already replaced Roger Federer as the world number one.

Despite losing to Nadal in both the French Open and Wimbledon finals, Federer has yet to be evicted from top spot, arriving at the Toronto Masters for the start of his hardcourt campaign having held the ATP's number one ranking for 234 weeks.

But Becker, who was in Toronto on Monday to play an exhibition match ahead of his induction into the tournament's Hall of Fame, declared that he and the rest of the tennis world were in agreement on who was the true number one.

"If you watched the French Open and Wimbledon, there was a lot of talk about Federer going into the history books as the first man to win six Wimbledons in a row or Nadal being the first since Bjorn Borg to win the French Open and Wimbledon in the same year.

"The winner is known now and you have to give credit," said Becker, winner of six grand slam tournaments, including three at Wimbledon.

"In the world rankings there is still a number one called Federer but if you ask anyone in the world of tennis, who is considered the number one player in the world it is the winner of the French Open and Wimbledon.—Internet

Chelsea's Terry still haunted by penalty miss

GUANGZHOU, 22 July — Chelsea captain John Terry admitted he was still haunted by his horror penalty miss in the Champions League final as he gears up for the new season here.

Terry, who will lead Chelsea against Guangzhou Pharmaceutical on Wednesday, said mental replays of the botched spot-kick were his first thoughts every morning.

"Every morning I wake up and it's the first thing on my mind. I still think of it," he said.

"I'm still very disappointed by it, but last season I said I'm a big man and have a big character and it's down for me to deal with it."

Terry slipped and sliced his kick against the post in the Moscow shoot-out, throwing away the chance to seal the title and handing a lifeline to eventual winners Manchester United.

Terry said scoring for England soon afterwards helped ease the pain, but he remained desperate to atone for his mistake under new coach Luiz Felipe Scolari.

Jankovic hoping to crown ranking milestone with slam win

LOS ANGELES, 22 July — Jelena Jankovic's childhood ambition of topping the world rankings could be realized with victory at this week's Los Angeles Classic but the injury-prone Serbian would love to embellish the feat with a grand slam win.

"Since I was a young girl it's been my dream and every player's dream to become number one and by achieving that, you take the monkey off your back," Jankovic told Reuters ahead of the tournament at which she is the top seed.

"When you get older, at least one day you can say you were number one and no one can take that away from you. You are in history and it's a great achievement.

"But I would also like to win a grand slam, to take that step forward and go to the next level."

Jankovic has come close to topping the rankings before, falling in the semi-finals of this year's French Open to compatriot Ana Ivanovic with the number one spot of the line.

Up a break in a deciding third set, the match seemed there for the taking but Ivanovic played with more ambition while Jankovic seemed to feel the pressure of the moment.—Internet

100 meters showdown remains greatest draw

LONDON, 22 July — Usain Bolt, Asafa Powell and Tyson Gay, all sub-9.8 second performers, seek sprinting's ultimate validation in a 100 meters showdown that will be the highlight of the athletics program at the Beijing Olympics.

Despite being badly tainted by the doping revelations that felled the men's winner from four years ago and the 2000 women's champion Marion Jones, the sport's blue ribbon race remains the most magnetic event of the Games.

At the other end of the scale the men's 10,000 meters could feature a 27-minute chess match between Olympic champion Kenenisa Bekele and Haile Gebrselassie, the Ethiopian compatriot he usurped as the world's leading distance runner.

Chinese attention will focus on the 110 meters hurdles where Liu Xiang, the first man from his country to win an Olympic track gold medal, will try to repel Cuban Dayron Robles who took his world record in June.

Padraig Harrington wins 2nd straight British Open

SOUTHPORT (England), 22 July— Padraig Harrington enjoys few moments more than the walk down 18th fairway of a century-old links course, especially with a four-shot lead in the British Open and the engraver putting the final touches on the oldest trophy in golf.

Padraig Harrington of Ireland kisses the trophy after winning the British Open Golf championship, at the Royal Birkdale golf course, Southport, England, on 20 July, 2008.—INTERNET

He stopped Sunday to share the moment with Greg Norman, who knows this path all too well.

Celebration for one, sympathy for the other.

"I did say to him coming down 18 that I was sorry it wasn't his story that was going to be told," Harrington said. "I did feel that, but I wanted to win myself. In this game, you have to take your chances when you get them."

Harrington seized his opportunity by smashing a pair of fairway metals into the par 5s that carried him to a 32 on the back nine of blustery Royal Birkdale and made him Europe's first player in more than a century to win the British Open two years in a row.—Internet

Ferguson gives Ronaldo some fatherly advice over Real move

DURBAN, 22 July— Manchester United manager Sir Alex Ferguson has claimed that Cristiano Ronaldo would be doing the 'worst thing' for his career if he succeeding in engineering a move from Old Trafford to Real Madrid.

The 23-year-old Portuguese forward once again refused to rule out a move to the Spanish champions over the weekend, despite Ferguson's insistence last Friday that he would not be leaving Old Trafford. But Ferguson, in Durban ahead of United's friendly clash with Orlando Pirates on Tuesday, insisted again that Ronaldo will be staying at United.

And he also warned the player that Madrid is the last place he should be attempting to move to. Ferguson said: "If you were asked for advice by your son, you would give him the best advice and the worst thing Ronaldo could do at the age of 23 is to go to Real Madrid.—Internet

18-year-old Michelle Wie to play on PGA Tour again

SPRINGFIELD (Ill), 22 July — Fresh off a disqualification on the LPGA Tour, Michelle Wie has decided to tee it up against the men, again. Wie will play next week in the Legends Reno-Tahoe Open, the first time she'll play on the PGA Tour this year, tournament organizers said.

In this photo provided by the State Farm Classic golf tournament, Michelle Wie speaks to reporters just after learning she had been disqualified from the LPGA State Farm Golf Classic on 19 July, 2008, in Springfield, Ill.—INTERNET

It will be her eighth time playing on the PGA Tour, and she has yet to make a cut. The only time Wie has made money playing against the men was on the Korean Tour, in 2006, at the SK Telcom Open.

"It's not every day that a woman is given the opportunity to play on the greatest tour in the world," Wie said in a statement.

"This is a tremendous opportunity for me to learn from these great players and take those lessons into the future to becoming the best player I can be on any tour. This is another step in the process of making me a better player."

Explorer aims to educate youth on the environment

LONDON, 22 July — After traveling around the Arctic Circle alone, walking across South America, venturing through African war zones and hiking deep into the Amazon, Borneo and Sumatra jungles, Mike Horn is ready to embark on his most ambitious project yet.

The 42-year-old South African adventurer is set to go on a four-year environmental outreach expedition around the globe, aiming to cover 62,000 miles, cross all the continents and oceans, and reach the North and South Poles.

He will walk, kayak, cycle, paraglide, ski and sail across rivers, lakes, mountains, desert, jungle, tundra and ice fields. Working with educational specialists along the way, Horn hopes to inspire young people to clean up the planet and make people aware of the Earth's gloriously uninhabited areas.

Kenya says WFP to buy local maize

NAIROBI, 22 July — The Kenyan government said the UN World Food Program (WFP) will purchase 10 million bags (90kg/bag) of maize in the country annually.

Agriculture minister William Ruto said the move to buy the commodity locally will motivate farmers to invest in maize production as it would assure them of a market for their crop.

"We will now have a ready market for 10 million bags. This means farmers should now up production of the cereal," he was quoted in the local daily Nation newspaper on Monday as saying. The minister said that the country produces an average of 35 million bags of maize yearly noting that it was not enough for the increased market.

The minister asked farmers to take advantage of the increased demand for maize locally and globally by increasing production. The National Cereals and Produce Board (NCPB) buys the maize from farmers for the country's strategic food reserves. "Therefore, if NCPB would sell the 10 million bags to WFP, it means the government would be buying an extra 10 million from farmers to fill the void," said Ruto.

Remote storm-hit villages enjoy health care

YANGON, 22 July—The Ministry of Health is taking measures to expedite health care services of storm survivors in Ayeyawady Division.

As part of the drive, a medical team comprising Dr Khin Nan Lon, Dr Aye Naing and Dr Aung Thu and health staff gave health care services for the storm survivors of storm-affected villages in Pyapon Township where transport is poor on 6 July.

The medical team checked up storm survivor patients, took preventive measures against dengue haemorrhagic fever and gave educative talks on healthy living to the local people.—MNA
