Keep nation's literacy rate higher

"Literacy for All" is a fundamental requirement for improving the economic and social standards of a nation. With this concept, global countries have come to put special emphasis on literacy campaigns.

Myanmar works hard constantly to raise the literacy rate of its people, while playing an active role in international literacy movements.

Having got good education foundations since years of yore, the Myanmar society is now implementing tasks for raising its education standard through formal education, non-formal education and informal education. As part of the plan, the government has opened many new schools throughout the nation, adding the number of the nation's schools to more than 40,000. Now, all school-age children have got access to primary education, and the youth have an easy access to middle and high school education.

Simultaneously, literacy campaigns are being launched on a wider scale across the Union including rural and border areas. As a result, over 800,000 illiterates in states and divisions have been literate in 2008. With the fruits of literacy rate getting high, the government is expediting constant learning plans for sustainable progress in the literacy movements.

The nation's literacy rate is on the increase year by year thanks to the assistance of regional organizations and active participation of well-wishers in the literacy campaigns. In 2008, Myanmar becomes one of the top-listed countries by means of literacy rate in the Asia and Pacific region with 94.83 per cent.

Nation-building tasks have showed more successful than in the past due to a growing literate population. Myanmar's literacy rate can be kept higher if the people continue to contribute towards post-literacy programmes, opening of learning and reading sessions, and establishment of community learning centres.

Six killed in Iraq attacks

BAGHDAD, 9 Sept— At least six people were killed in Iraq on Monday, including a woman caught in crossfire in an attack on a government minister's convoy in Baghdad, security officials said.

A Defence ministry official said the guards of Displaced People and Migrants Minister Abdel Samad Rahman Sultan were shot at near a former Air Force base in the capital, prompting them to return fire.

The minister was not in the convoy, an Interior Ministry official said.

"One woman has been killed and six other people wounded," the Interior Ministry official said, adding that the convoy was later stopped at a checkpoint.

3 coalition troops killed in Afghan blast

KABUL, 9 Sept.—A roadside bomb killed three US coalition soldiers Tuesday, while a NATO air strike missed its target and hit a house, killing two Afghan civilians and wounding 10, officials said.

The coalition said a roadside bomb in eastern Afghanistan killed the three soldiers and an Afghan contractor.

It did not release any other details of the attack, including the soldiers' nationalities, but the overwhelming majority of coalition soldiers in the east are American.—Internet

Six Afghan civilians killed in explosion

KANDAHAR (Afghanistan), 9 Sept—A roadside blast in southern Afghanistan killed six civilians Monday, and a Canadian soldier died in another explosion in the same region, officials said.

The six civilians, including a woman and a child, died when their private vehicle hit a roadside bomb in Naw Bahar district of Zabul province, said district chief Zarif Khan. Two other civilians were wounded in the explosion. Khan blamed Taliban militants for planting the device. Also in the south, a Canadian soldier was killed when another roadside blast hit a patrol on Sunday, the Canadian military said.

NATO bomb kills 2 Afghan civilians

KABUL, 9 Sept— A NATO bomb missed its target by more than 1 1/2 miles and hit a house Tuesday, killing two Afghan civilians and wounding 10 at a time of rising tension between the Afghan government and international troops over the use of airstrikes.

NATO said its weapon malfunctioned Tuesday in the eastern Khost province. The bomb's target was a spot used by insurgents to fire rockets.

The use of airstrikes in civilian areas have been blamed for a series of civilian deaths.

Afghan and UN officials say some 90 civilians were killed in a US special forces operation in the village of Azizabad on Aug. 22.

The bodies of at least 10 children and many more adults covered in blankets and white shrouds appeared on video on Monday.

More than 4,000 people have died in insurgency-related violence this year.

died from cholera. Cases have also been confirmed in two other parts of the country.

Babil appears to be the worst-affected area but cholera has also been confirmed in Maysan province and at Abu Ghraib to the west of Baghdad.

Last year there were more than 4,000 confirmed cholera cases in Iraq - the vast majority in the Kurdish-controlled northern region.

Unpopular Bush keeping Iraq troop levels largely intact

WASHINGTON, 9 Sept—President Bush announced Tuesday that he will keep the US force strength in Iraq largely intact until the next president takes over, drawing rebukes from Democrats who want the war ended and a bigger boost of troops in troubled Afghanistan.

The president said he will pull home about 8,000 combat and support troops by February a drawdown not as strong or swift as long anticipated. No more Army combat brigades will withdraw in 2008, the final year of a Bush presidency that has come to be dominated by the war.

But he leaves office in January, so his successor will be making the wartime decisions. There are about 146,000 US troops in Iraq.

Announcement of Bush, an unpopular president managing an unpopular war, made at the National Defense University, is perhaps his last major move on troop strategy in Iraq.—Internet

Study: Houston police used Tasers more on blacks

HOUSTON, 9 Sept— Houston police officers have used Tasers more on black suspects than any other group of individuals, according to a city study released Monday.

Of 1,417 Taser deployments by officers between December 2004 and June 2007, nearly 67 percent were used on black suspects, according to an audit conducted for the city by a team of criminology, statistics and mathematics experts. About 25 percent of Houston's population is black.

The audit was requested by Houston Mayor Bill White in 2006, after several high-profile incidents.

That year, Houston Texans offensive lineman Fred Weary was shocked during a traffic stop, and an officer called to quiet a noisy music club shocked musicians and concertgoers.

The latter incident was videotaped and widely viewed on YouTube.

Minister Robert Muhammad, with the southwest regional headquarters for The Nation of Islam, said the study shows that police are more apt to use the weapons on black suspects than suspects of other races.

"Can we say it's racism? Yes, and some people would argue no," said Muhammad.

"The greater argument is abuse of authority. We give them authority to protect us.

But instead of using that authority to protect us, they abuse us with it."

MICHIGAN, 9 Sept— Barack Obama ripped into John McCain and Sarah Palin as never before, accusing his Republican White House foes of

"shameless" dishonesty with their claim to be "mavericks" ready to shake up Washington.

McCain and Palin were "lying about their records," the Obama campaign said Monday after the Republican running mates advertised themselves in a television spot as the "original mavericks" who would stand up for hard-pressed voters.

Some of the White House race's most savage exchanges yet came as polls showed the contenders deadlocked or McCain pulling into a post-convention lead after he electrified the Republican base — and appeared to confound the Obama campaign — by adding Alaska Governor Palin to his ticket.—Internet

China to top Asian consumer markets in 2009

XIAMEN, 9 Sept — By 2009 China will become the largest consumer market in Asia said Chinese Minister of Commerce Chen Deming.

Speaking at the 12th Xiamen International Trade and Investment Fair on Monday in the east Fujian Province, Chen predicted entertainment, housing and tourism will expand their shares in the domestic market. "As one of the world's fastest growing consumer markets, China is a world leader in mobile phone sales, domestic tourism, and broadband network penetration," said Chen. He also noted China is the second largest seller and buyer of gold and automobiles in the world. The country ranks third in consumption of luxury items and health care supplies. The average per capita GDP reached 2,456 US dollars last year, said Chen. He added that consumption had bigger shares than investment for the first time in the nation's economic growth.

For the past five years, China's annual consumption growth rate had been 13.1 percent. If the growth rate continues at just 10 percent, China's consumer market scale will exceed 30 trillion yuan (4.38 trillion US dollars) by 2020. —Xinhua

China's software industry jumps 30% in 1H

XIAMEN, 9 Sept — The revenue of China's software industry exceeded 345 billion yuan (50.8 billion US dollars) in the first half of 2008, a 30 percent increase over the same period last year, an official said here on Monday.

China's share in the global market had increased from 1.3 percent in 2000 to 8.7 percent last year, ranking fourth in the world, said Zhao Xiaofan, an official in charge of the software industry with the Ministry of Industry and Information Technology.

"The environment is favourable for the development of the software industry," Zhao said at the ongoing 12th Xiamen International Trade and Investment Fair in the southeast Fujian Province.

China's software industry growth rate had exceeded 30 percent in each of the last seven years.

Zhao said Chinese software enterprises were still weak against the global competition and more efforts needed to be made to promote innovation and personnel training to achieve a sustainable development of the industry.

Deal aims to end violence in northern Lebanon

BEIRUT (Lebanon), 9 Sept — Rival groups signed an agreement on Monday to end sectarian violence that has killed and wounded scores in the past three months in the northern city of Tripoli.

Tripoli, about 50 miles north of Beirut, has been the scene of clashes between Sunnis and Alawites — an offshoot Shiite sect.

“Tripoli should be a city without weapons because weapons in the hands of individuals do not protect anyone,” said

Prime Minister Fuad Saniora who went to Tripoli to witness the signing ceremony on Monday night. “He who will undermine the city’s security is an enemy to the city no matter to what group he belongs. No one will protect him.”

The reconciliation comes after Arab officials warned that the situation in Lebanon could spin out of control in Lebanon. Last week, Syrian President Bashar Assad said Lebanon is still “fragile” as long as extremists groups remain active in northern Lebanon.

He was referring to the conservative Salafi branch of Islam, which has a presence in northern Lebanon. The leader of the militant group Hezbollah, Sheik Hassan Nasrallah, said Sunday he supports the reconciliation in the north.

GM recalls nearly 300,000 HHR wagons for latch glitch

DETROIT, 9 Sept— General Motors Corp will recall almost 300,000 Chevrolet HHR wagons because of a problem with a storage bin latch, according to a notice filed by federal safety regulators on Monday.

The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration said on its Web site the recall would cover 296,422 HHR’s built for the 2006 through 2008 model years.

During testing, a storage bin in the top centre of the instrument panel failed to remain closed as required by federal safety standards.

GM said owners of the HHR wagons covered by the recall would be sent a latch reinforcement and instructions on how to install it. Owners also have the option of having their local Chevrolet dealer install the part, GM said.

GM said it would begin the recall in November. The automaker said owners with questions could contact Chevrolet at 1-800-630-2438 or via the Internet at www.gm.com/recall.—Internet

Peru arrests 20 over ties to Mexican drug cartel

LIMA, 9 Sept— Peruvian police have arrested 20 people suspected of working for Mexico’s Sinaloa drug cartel and seized 2.5 tonnes of cocaine hidden in boat bumpers, Peru’s Interior Ministry said on Monday.

The seizure, valued at $125 million, included the arrest of four Mexicans, three Colombians and 13 Peruvians. The bust was the strongest sign yet the powerful Sinaloa cartel is making inroads in Peru, the world’s No 2 grower of coca behind Colombia.

The cocaine was found over the weekend in a working-class neighbourhood of Lima, tucked inside some 200 bumpers that are put around boats for protection while docked. Over the last few years, traffickers leaving Peru have largely abandoned clandestine air travel for sea transport, which is harder to track.—Internet

Military: Sri Lankan jets shoot down rebel plane

COLOMBO (Sri Lanka), 9 Sept—Sri Lankan fighter jets shot down a plane used by the Tamil Tigers’ rudimentary air wing for the first time Tuesday, giving the military a huge morale boost amid a major offensive against the rebels, the military said.

Though the rebel aircraft have rarely caused major damage, their repeated attacks — and the military’s inability to stop them — have been a source of deep frustration and embarrassment for government forces.

The fighting began early Tuesday when the rebels launched an artillery barrage at a military base in the northern town of Vavuniya for more than one hour, military spokesman Brig Udaya Nanayakkara said.

The attack caused damages and injuries, but the extent of the destruction was not immediately known.

Amid the attack, two rebel aircraft flew over the base and dropped bombs on the base’s airfield, he said.

It was a common tactic. The rebels often send their planes as back up during attacks on military targets. But this time, the Air Force sent MiG interceptors into the skies to chase the planes away, shooting one plane down over the rebel stronghold of Mullaitivu, Nanayakkara said.

Hurricane Ike smashes Cuba, killing at least four

HAVANA, 9 Sept—Hurricane Ike roared down Cuba’s spine on Monday and toward the island’s densely populated capital of fragile historic buildings after ravaging homes, forcing 1.2 million people to evacuate and killing at least four. US residents from Florida to Texas braced for Ike’s next wallop.

Ike, which raked the Bahamas and worsened floods in Haiti that have killed at least 312 people, made landfall on eastern Cuba as a terrifying Category 3 hurricane, then weakened Monday as it ran along the length of the Caribbean’s largest island.

It was a Category 1 storm Monday afternoon, but forecasters expected it to strengthen again before hitting Louisiana or Texas this weekend.

Cuba extends cyclone alert to western provinces

HAVANA, 8 Sept — Cuban authorities on Monday extended the cyclone alert to the western provinces of Pinar del Rio and Juventud Island (Isle of Youth) which were devastated by Hurricane Gustav just a week ago.

The authorities called upon people in Pinar del Rio and the Isle of Youth to stop reconstruction work in the face of the approaching Hurricane Ike, which has killed over 61 people in Haiti.

Hurricane Ike assaulted Cuba on Monday with torrential rains and high gusts, demolishing houses, blowing down telegraph poles and wireless signal towers.

The affected eastern areas of the Caribbean country were partially without power and experienced disruptions to the phone service.

After crossing the island, Ike turned on to an offshore track parallel to Cuba's south coast, putting it on a path to plow past the Isle of Youth and cross the country a second time in western Pinar del Rio province.

Though Ike had weakened to category 1 on the five-level Saffir Simpson scale as it travelled overland through Cuba, weather forecasters said it could pick up strength as it moved back over the warm waters of the Gulf of Mexico.

Transportation, communication and industries are in good circumstances in most of the developed and developing countries and thus per capita income will increase and people travel more places in their leisure hours. The findings show that the population of world travelers was 846 millions with earning US$ 742 billions in 2006 and US$ 856 billions in 2007. A total of 653549 travellers entered our country including border gates in 2005-2006 and 654602 in 2006-2007.

He said tourism industry depends on political situations and natural disaster. Therefore, the government is placing emphasis on peace and stability of the State and prevalence of law and order and is creating pleasant environment in the country.

He said easy transport, sufficient hotel rooms, hospitality, exchange of money and beautiful views of nature much contribute towards the development of tourism. With the aim of developing tourism, Ministry of Hotels and Tourism was constituted in 1992 and Myanmar Tourism Law was enacted in 1993.

He said it is necessary for the ministry to make arrangements for increase of local and foreign investment, to create opportunities for wider participation of tour operators and to make Myanmar famous as a tourist destination and to cooperate with ASEAN, BIMSTEC and ACMECS, neighbouring countries and those countries who have positive attitudes towards Myanmar. These tasks are to be undertaken in the framework of law, he said.

He said tourism industry is wide and delicate for it is the business of providing services for tourists and the task of cooperation with other departments. Income earned from tourism goes to people from different walks of life, he said.

Earnings from tourism are in the hands of private entrepreneurs. With the development of tourism, there will be job opportunities among the local people. When the tourism is in decline, the income becomes less. So, the government, the respective ministries and tour operators are to make efforts for development of tourism in Myanmar, he added.

The government on its part will put emphasis on development of tourism. It is necessary for the private tour operators to serve not only their interest but also the State's.

Hoteliers Association, Myanmar Travels Association, Chefs Association and Myanmar Market Promotion Committee have now been formed. Continued efforts are to be made for promotion of tourism in Myanmar as there are over 600 hotels and 700 tour operators, he said.

Apple unveils new iPods but shares slip

SAN FRANCISCO, 9 Sept—Apple Inc. CEO Steve Jobs took the wraps off a revamped line of iPods on Tuesday and trumpeted a truce with NBC Universal that means the TV network will begin selling programs again on iTunes. The product announcements were largely expected, and investors were less than energized by the news, sending Apple's shares down $4.96, or 3.1 percent, to $152.96 in afternoon trading.

The iPod upgrades Jobs revealed Tuesday in a theatre in San Francisco include two slick new Nano models, oval-shaped devices that Jobs said are the thinnest iPods Apple has ever made.

A $149 version comes with 8 gigabytes of memory; a 16-gigabyte version is $199.

The new models represent the incredible appetite for iPods — Jobs said Apple has sold 160 million iPods since their introduction. But Apple has to work hard to differentiate them from the iPhone, Apple's cell phone/iPod/Internet device that threatens to cannibalize some of the demand for iPods.

Jobs also showed off three new versions of the iPod Touch, the closest cousin to the iPhone.

An 8-gigabyte version of the new model will sell for $229; a 16-gigabyte version will be $299 and a 32 GB model will be $399.

China mudslide death toll rises, hundreds may be missing

BEIJING, 9 Sept—The death toll from a mud and rock slide in northern China has climbed to 34, state media said on Tuesday, but hundreds may be missing after the slip which triggered the collapse of a warehouse filled with mine waste.

Monday's landslide, caused by torrential rain, injured 35 people. More than 1,100 police, fire fighters and villagers were hunting for survivors in the rubble, the official Xinhua news agency said.

State radio added in a report on its website that "several hundred" were missing, though it did not provide any additional information. Xinhua said the number of people missing had yet to be determined.

Russia prepares to launch Iran's nuclear plant

MOSCOW, 9 Sept—The Russian state-run company building Iran's first nuclear plant said Monday that preparations for the reactor's launch had entered their final stage.

Atomstroexport chief Leonid Reznikov said that by year's end the company will take steps that will make the launch of the Bushehr plant "irreversible."

Company spokeswoman Irina Yesipova said the launch date will be determined after talks between Russian and Iranian nuclear officials this month.

Iranian officials have said that Bushehr would be launched this fall.

The International Atomic Energy Agency declined comment.

Nonproliferation expert David Albright, whose Washington-based Institute for Science and International Security tracks countries under nuclear suspicion, suggested that the steps referred to by Russia probably involved the loading of fuel into the reactor.

Six civilians killed in Philippine military attacks against rebels

MANILA, 9 Sept—Six villagers, including three children, were killed in the southern Philippines on Monday when a bomb dropped by a military aircraft hit a pump boat loaded with evacuees, officials said.

"This is a very sad day for the town of Datu Piang," said Musib Uy Tan, spokesman for the Datu Piang town, located in the southern province of Maguindanao. All the evacuees from the town were on their way to an evacuation site when the tragedy took place on Monday morning, the Philippine News Agency reported.

Julieto Ando, an official of the Philippine Army, confirmed that there were civilians killed in Monday's bombing as government troops attacked some rogue members of the separatist Moro Islamic Liberation Front (MILF), according to the report.

"But we must be tactful in investigating reports of civilians being killed in encounters and in really digging into who could be responsible. We're investigating on that now," said the official.

Three Britons found guilty in liquid bomb plot

LONDON, 9 Sept—Three Britons were found guilty on Monday of conspiracy to kill using homemade liquid bombs, but a jury failed to agree that they intended to blow up transatlantic airliners in an al-Qaeda-style attack.

The verdicts came after a high-profile, five-month trial in which prosecutors had argued that eight co-conspirators planned to smuggle explosives onto half a dozen aircraft at London's Heathrow Airport and blow them up midway to North America.

After more than 50 hours of deliberation, the 12-person jury was unconvinced by the prosecution's description of a complex airline bomb plot, finding only three of the defendants — Abdulla Ahmed Ali, Assad Sarwar and Tanvir Hussain — guilty of a lesser charge of conspiracy to commit murder.

The jury failed to reach a verdict on four other defendants and the eighth was found not guilty on all charges. Sentencing is due to take place later. The trial had been closely watched in Britain, where police and secret services described the plot as potentially one of the deadliest ever hatched on British soil.

McCain, Obama tied in US opinion polls

WASHINGTON, 9 Sept— Republican John McCain and Democrat Barack Obama are dead even in two public opinion polls released on Monday as they head into the final eight weeks of the race for the White House.

The polls were taken Friday through Sunday after last week's Republican convention, which ended on Thursday. A CNN/Time poll showed the race deadlocked at 48 per cent, and a Hotline/Diageo poll put the two candidates even at 44 per cent.

The CNN/Time poll was largely unchanged from the previous week, when Obama led McCain by 49 per cent to 48 per cent. The Hotline poll showed a significant convention bounce for McCain, who trailed Obama by 9 percentage points in a poll taken the week before.

Another poll released on Sunday, by USA Today/Gallup, gave McCain a 4-point edge among registered voters and a 10-point lead among likely voters. That was a big boost for McCain, who trailed Obama by 3 points among likely voters in the week before the Democratic convention.

Brazil, Argentina to eliminate US dollar

RIO DE JANEIRO, 9 Sept— Brazil and Argentina agreed Monday that their bilateral trade will be settled by Brazilian reais and Argentine pesos, eliminating the US dollar as an intermedium.

Brazil's President Luiz Inacio Lula da Silva and his Argentine counterpart Cristina Kirchner signed the agreement in Brazil's capital city Brasilia.

According to Brazil's Minister of Finance Guido Mantega, the new system will reduce the costs of intermediation, making trade easier for smaller companies of the two countries.

Mantega said the agreement represents the first step toward a common currency for Mercosur (Common Market of the South), which gathers Brazil, Argentina, Paraguay and Uruguay.

He added that the trade volume between Brazil and Argentina has reached 25 billion US dollars annually, and Argentina has become Brazil's third largest trading partner, after the United States and China.

Statistics show that some 19 per cent of Argentina's exportation heads to Brazil, and 32 per cent of Brazil's exportation goes to Argentina.

Greece charges Japan diplomat with killing daughter

ATHENS, 9 Sept— Greek prosecutors have charged a former Japanese ambassador to the Vatican and his wife with the murder of their 36-year-old daughter, police officials said on Monday.

The 77-year-old former diplomat, Masami Tanida, and his Greek wife, 65, were arrested on Saturday after police discovered the body of their daughter in the bathroom at their home on the island of Evia, said the officials.

The couple deny the murder charge and say their daughter committed suicide, their lawyer Thanassis Tartis told Reuters.

A coroner's report found the woman had been strangled to death and her wrist slit to make it appear that she took her own life, said the police officials, who asked not to be identified.

The couple have admitted to rowing with their daughter about the upbringing of their grandchild, police said.

Authorities were alerted after the diplomat's wife appeared at a local hospital on Saturday requesting a death certificate for their daughter, who was only reported missing on Thursday.

Police later searched their home and found the body, the police officials said.

TEHERAN, 9 Sept—Iran will hold its 2009 presidential election on 12 June, when conservative Mahmoud Ahmadinejad is widely expected to stand for a second four-year term despite mounting criticism over his economic policies.

Iranian media said on Sunday the Guardian Council, a constitutional watchdog, and the Interior Ministry had agreed on the date. The election was due in mid-2009 but the exact timing had not previously been announced.

"The 10th presidential election will be held on the 22nd of Khordad of next year," election headquarters head Alireza Afshar told the Fars news agency, referring to the number of such elections in Iran since its 1979 Islamic Revolution.

Ozawa reelected chief of Japan's main opposition DPJ

TOKYO, 9 Sept—Ichiro Ozawa, current president of Japan's major opposition Democratic Party of Japan (DPJ), was reelected Monday for a third term.

Ozawa's reelection came in the wake of Prime Minister Yasuo Fukuda's surprise resignation announcement on 1 September, which has raised the possibility that the ruling bloc of the Liberal Democratic Party and the New Komeito party, may seek a snap election under a more popular leader.

Ozawa, 66, became the chief of the DPJ in April 2006 when Seiji Maehara stepped down over a faked e-mail message scandal. He was elected as president of the DPJ in September 2006 after serving out Maehara's term.

The DPJ, formed through the merger of four political parties in 1996, is now standing an increased chance of taking power as it assumed dominance in the House of Councillors last year.

Three China mine accidents kill 42, trap 18

BEIJING, 9 Sept—Three Chinese coal mine accidents in just four days killed at least 42 people, trapped 18, and left three missing, media reported on Monday.

China's mining industry remains the world's deadliest amid huge demand from a booming economy, despite a government drive to close thousands of small and unsafe mines. Accidents are reported on an almost daily basis.

Flood waters trapped 24 in a coal pit in central Henan province on Sunday, the official Xinhua news agency said. By Monday, only six had been rescued.

The death toll from a gas blast at a coal mine in southwest Sichuan on Friday had risen to 15, with three missing, according to a local report carried by the China News Service (chinanews.com.cn).

The accident happened just a day after an explosion at a colliery in northeastern Liaoning killed 27.

State media reported on Sunday that coal mine deaths dropped by almost a quarter in the first eight months of 2008, but did not mention the number of people killed.

Iran says satellite launched with China, Thailand

TEHERAN, 9 Sept—A joint research satellite of China, Iran and Thailand was launched on a Chinese rocket on Sunday aimed at boosting cooperation on natural disasters such as earthquakes, an Iranian minister said on Sunday.

The announcement came just a few weeks after Iran said on 17 August it had put a dummy satellite into orbit on a domestically made rocket for the first time. US officials said the attempted launch was a failure.

Telecommunications

Minister Mohammad Soleimani said the three countries had worked together on the satellite which he said was equipped with cameras.

"This morning it was launched successfully and it was placed into orbit," he told state television, without giving details. "Iran and China and regional countries are countries which have a lot of natural disasters," he said. "God willing, we can have good activities in the direction of aerospace research."

China is among six world powers seeking to convince Iran to halt nuclear work the West fears is aimed at making bombs, but it has been reluctant to consider steps that might hurt its energy ties with the world's fourth-largest oil exporter. Iran caused international concern in February by testing a domestically made rocket as part of its satellite programme, the Explorer 1. It said it needed two more similar tests before putting a domestically made satellite into orbit.

European science satellite launch is delayed

PARIS, 9 Sept —The launch of a satellite to monitor Earth's gravitational field, scheduled for Wednesday from a base in northern Russia, has been postponed to 5 October because of technical problems, the European Space Agency (ESA) announced on Monday.

Launch preparations at the Plesetsk cosmodrome 800 kilometres (500 miles) north of Moscow were stopped on Sunday "due to an anomaly in one of the units of the guidance and navigation subsystem of the launcher's upper stage," ESA said. Fixing the problem will mean separating the rocket's components to replace the unit, it said in a press release.

The launch has been rescheduled to 5 October at 1421 GMT, ESA said, adding, "The satellite and its mission will not be affected by this launch delay."

The one-tonne satellite is called the Gravity field and state-steady Ocean Circulation Explorer, or GOCE. It is part of ESA's "Earth Explorer" programme, initiated in 1999, to deepen understanding about some of the fundamentals of the planet — its atmosphere, oceans, biosphere and interior.

GOCE's launcher is a Rockot, a derivative of a Russian intercontinental ballistic missile operated by a joint venture between EADS Astrium and the Khrunichev Space Centre.—Internet

Hubble shuttle flight faces higher space junk risk

CAPE CANAVERAL, 9 Sept — Next month's shuttle flight to the Hubble Space Telescope faces an increased risk of a destructive hit by space junk because it will be in a higher, more littered orbit than usual, NASA said on Monday. Managers at NASA's highest levels will need to sign off on the mission because of the increased risk.

New number-crunching puts the odds of a catastrophic strike by orbital debris including bits of space junk at about 1-in-185 during Atlantis' upcoming mission to Hubble. That compares to 1-in-300 odds for a shuttle flight to the international space station, shuttle programme director John Shannon said on Monday.

Hubble is at a considerably higher and dirtier, so to speak, orbit than the space station — 350 miles versus just over 200 miles. That extra altitude will expose Atlantis to more pieces of space junk, any of which could slam into the shuttle.

Space debris, though, has not caused significant damage to Hubble since its launch in 1990, said Preston Burch, NASA's Hubble programme manager.—Internet

Study: Exercise blunts effects of obesity gene

BEIJING, 9 Sept — Regular physical activity can reduce the risk of obesity in people who have a genetic predisposition to being overweight, according to a study in Monday's issue of the Archives of Internal Medicine.

Variations of a particular gene, known as the fat mass and obesity associated (FTO) gene, are widely acknowledged to be linked with a high body mass index, but only for those on the lower end of a scale of physical activity.

On average, it takes an extra 900 kilocalories expended every day to overcome the effects of the gene, according to the study. In this study, researchers analyzed DNA samples from 704 healthy Amish adults of average age 43.6, and conducted a series of physiological tests on the participants, including recording their physical activity over a seven-day period.

Among the participants, fifty-four percent of the men were overweight and 10 percent obese. About 64 percent of the women were overweight and 31 percent obese.

The group was divided into people with high activity levels and low activity levels. The highly active group burned about 900 more calories per day than the lower activity group.

Among nonsmokers, lung cancer is deadlier for men

WASHINGTON, 9 Sept — Men who have never smoked are more likely to die from lung cancer than women nonsmokers, researchers reported on Monday.

They found that male nonsmokers were about 25 percent more likely to die from lung cancer than women nonsmokers even though they developed the disease at similar rates.

Men who had never smoked had a 1.1 percent risk of dying from lung cancer, compared to 0.8 percent for the women, the study found. This compares to about 22 percent among men who smoke and 12 percent of women who smoke.

The study in North America, Europe and Asia was the largest ever done on nonsmokers and lung cancer.

Sweden to take measures to prevent bluetongue disease

STOCKHOLM, 9 Sept — The Swedish National Board of Agriculture decided on Monday to inject bacterins for a half million livestock after the first bluetongue case.

A total of 81 municipalities are to be affected by restrictions. A total of 30 teams of veterinarians and defence force volunteers will test other livestock and inject bacterins for a half million livestock in the restrictive zone for signs of the disease and the areas nearby, the Board said in a statement.

All transport of cattle, goats, sheep, and deer from the restrictive zone has been banned.

Some of 20,000 livestock in the protective zone has been discovered bluetongue disease, it added. The first two cases of bluetongue disease was discovered in a farm in Halland in south-western Sweden on Saturday.—Internet

Low vitamin B12 level may cause brain shrinkage in old

BEIJING, 9 Sept — Low vitamin B12 level in old people may cause brain atrophy or shrinkage, according to a UK study in Tuesday's Neurology.

This study involved 107 volunteers aged 61 to 87 who were cognitively normal at the beginning of the study, and who underwent annual clinical exams, MRI scans, cognitive tests and had blood samples taken.

Individuals with lower vitamin B12 levels had a greater decrease in brain volume. Those with the lowest levels had a sixfold greater rate of brain volume loss compared with those who had the highest levels of the vitamin.

The researchers write that they were unable to investigate whether lower vitamin B12 could cause cognitive impairment by its effect on brain size.

Schiavone, Peng lead charge into Bali second round

NUSA DUA (Indonesia), 9 Sept — Italian fifth seed Francesca Schiavone and China's ninth seed Peng Shuai led the charge Monday into the second round of the Bali Open.

Schiavone, who made a major impact the last time she played here in 2005 when she reached the final before falling to Lindsay Davenport, enjoyed an easy return to the tropical island, crushing local hope Sandy Gumulya, 6-2, 6-0.

Peng outclassed Japan's Ayumi Morita 6-2, 6-1 while Chinese compatriot Meng Yuan, who often gets overshadowed by her more illustrious teammate, rallied from a set down to topple Kazakh wild card Yaroslava Shvedova, 5-7, 6-2, 7-5.

Her reward is a second round encounter with Swiss veteran and second seed Patty Schnyder.

In another first round match, Poland's Marta Domachowska ended the short-lived hopes of Indonesia's Lavinia Tananta, 6-2, 6-3.—Internet

BARCELONA, 9 Sept — Joe Cole has warned his England team-mates not to underestimate Croatia for the second tournament in a row as they prepare for a World Cup qualifier in Zagreb on Wednesday.

"I'm not going anywhere," Bilic told The Sun newspaper. "Any club from England is a great opportunity. Not for money, honestly, for me it's about ambition. It's about working in England, a country you know I adore.

Australia powers off China for third win of men's wheelchair basketball

BEIJING, 9 Sept — Australia dominated from start to finish to cruise past China 79-44 for their third win of the Beijing Paralympic wheelchair basketball preliminaries on Tuesday at the National Indoor Stadium.

Although China trailed by only 10 points at the half, Australia pulled away with an aggressive defence that resulted in a game total of 12 steals and 23 Chinese turnovers.

Australia's strong offence registered 54 points in the paint and 21 assists. Centre Brad Ness was the game's highest scorer with 31 points.

"We're growing. The competition isn't won on the first day, it's won on the eighth day. We are just hoping to keep building. China threw everything at us today and made a couple of runs, but it's just about getting our processes right and going forward," said Ness.

Talking on the effects of playing professionally in Europe, Ness said:

"You look at Shaun Norris in our team, who spent two years in Europe, and he's just become a monster out on the court. It's just from playing year-in and year-out."—Internet

Federer wins fifth US Open in a row for 13th Slam crown

NEW YORK, 9 Sept — Roger Federer won his 13th Grand Slam crown and fifth consecutive US Open title on Monday, defeating British sixth seed Andy Murray 6-2, 7-5, 6-2 to move one Slam title shy of the all-time record. Federer's 56th career crown moved him into sole possession of second place on the all-time Slam title list, one more than Roy Emerson and one below the career record 14 won by Pete Sampras.

"One thing is for sure. I'm not going to stop at 13," Federer said. "That would be terrible." After losing this year's Wimbledon and French Open finals and his number one ranking to Spain's Rafael Nadal, Federer's aura of invincibility had dimmed but his US Open title served notice he still remains a force in tennis.—Internet

Rice laments scarcity of Black US diplomats

WASHINGTON, 9 Sept— US Secretary of State Condoleezza Rice on Monday lamented the scarcity of Black diplomats in the US foreign service, saying she can go through a day of meetings and seldom see anyone like herself.

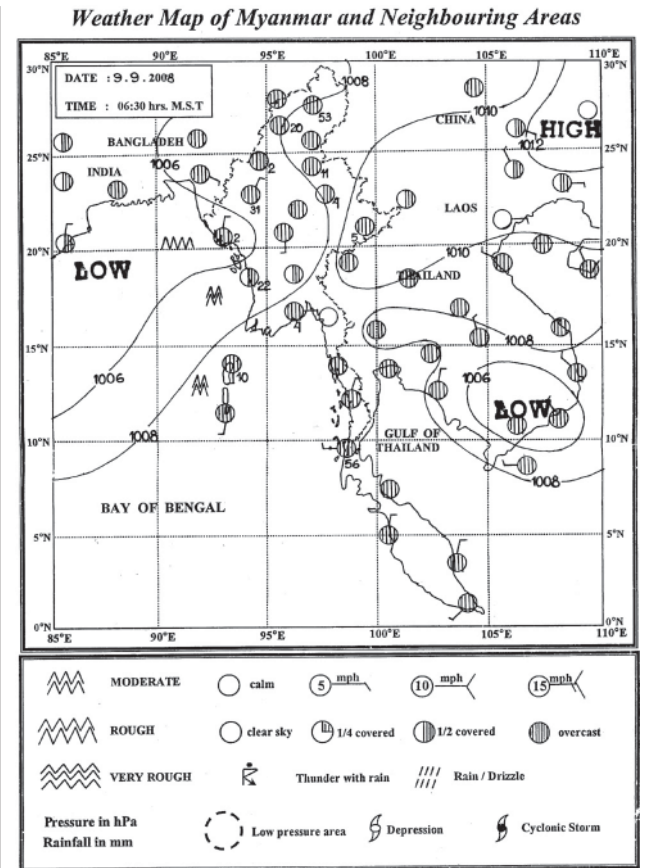

Rice and her immediate predecessor, Colin Powell, are the first Blacks to have served as the United States' top diplomat.

"When I go around the world, I want very much to see Black Americans involved in the development and the promotion of our foreign policy," Rice told a conference of scholars from US historically black colleges and universities.

"I want to see a foreign service that looks as if Black Americans are a part of this great country," she added. "I have lamented that I can go into a meeting at the Department of State and, as a matter of fact, I can go into a whole day of meetings at the Department of State and actually rarely see somebody who looks like me," she said. "And that's just not acceptable".
