Collaborative work crucial for promoting education standard

The government is working diligently to improve the economic, education, health and social infrastructures and to complete a road network project for reconstruction of the storm-hit areas. Well-wishers are contributing voluntary service and donating cash and kind with great generosity to expedite the process. Now, the storm victims have their basic needs fulfilled to a certain degree.

The roads and bridges covered by the road network project ongoing in Ayeyawady Division are designed to improve regional transport, to serve as cyclone shelters in times of natural disasters, and to fulfil social requirements. Now, completion of work by the forthcoming rainy season is on target in laying groundwork to raise the roads, and constructing bridges and hillocks in some road sections.

In the meantime, the government is building more and more schools to generate opportunities for youngsters to pursue education. As a result, the youth of rural areas have easy access to education. The two-storey affiliated Basic Education High School in Chaungwa Village and the Basic Education Middle School in Konthaya Village, Labutta Township, were inaugurated and handed over on 22 February.

Now, there is a plan of action to open a technical high school to enable local youths to pursue vocational education on carpentry, masonry, lathe skills, mechanics and electronics along with basic, middle and high school education in their township.

Parents of students, teachers and students are therefore to make combined endeavours in harmony so as to add to the plans the government is implementing for educational infrastructure and atmosphere for development of human resources.

The educated population with good moral conduct and behavior will be on the greater increase if the people keep on donating aid, teachers demonstrate enthusiasm and diligence in the classes, and students learn hard in their studies.

Double suicide bombing kills Afghan police officer

KANDAHAR, 24 Feb—Two suicide bombers blew themselves up within minutes of each other Monday at an anti-drug police station in southwest Afghanistan, killing one officer and wounding two more, an official said.

The first suicide attacker, wearing civilian clothes, approached the station in the southern city of Zarang at about 11 am, said Gov Ghulam Dastagir Azad. When police shouted for the man to stop, he blew himself up, causing no casualties, the governor said.

Minutes later, a second attacker wearing a police uniform approached the building and blew himself up, Azad said. That blast killed one officer and wounded two.

Azad said the double suicide attack mirrored tactics used by eight militants in an assault against three government buildings in Kabul earlier this month that killed 20 people.

Taliban militants, whose hard-line Islamist regime was ousted from power by the 2001 US-led invasion, have greatly increased attacks the last three years and now control wide swaths of territory. President Barack Obama this month announced the deployment of 17,000 additional US forces to bolster the 38,000 American troops already in the country.

N Korea says it is preparing satellite launch

SEOUL, 24 Feb—North Korea said on Tuesday it is preparing to shoot a satellite into orbit, its clearest reference yet to an impending launch that neighbors and the US suspect will be a provocative test of a long-range missile.

The statement from the North's space technology agency comes amid growing international concern that the communist nation is gearing up to fire a version of its most advanced missile — one capable of reaching the US — within a week, in violation of a UN Security Council resolution.

North Korea asserted last week that it bears the right to "space development"—words the regime has used in the past to disguise a missile test. In 1998, North Korea test-fired a Taepodong-1 ballistic missile over Japan and then claimed to have put a satellite into orbit.

"Full-fledged preparations are under way to launch the pilot communications satellite Kwangmyongsong No 2" at a launch site in Hwadae in the northeast, the North's agency said in a statement carried by Pyongyang's official Korean Central News Agency. The report did not say when the launch would take place.

Three US soldiers, interpreter killed in Iraq

BAGHDAD, 24 Feb—Three US soldiers and an interpreter were killed Monday during fighting north of Baghdad, the military announced.

The combat took place in Diyala province, an area northeast of Baghdad that remains volatile despite an overall drop in violence nationwide.

The statement did not provide more details.

The attack came two weeks after a suicide car bomber struck a US patrol in the northern city of Mosul, killing four American soldiers and an Iraqi interpreter in the deadliest single attack against US forces in nine months.

Vodafone will cut 500 jobs in Britain

LONDON, 24 Feb — British mobile phone giant Vodafone said Tuesday the group would axe 500 jobs in its home market as part of a cost-cutting programme that was unveiled last year.

“Vodafone UK has today announced reductions to its operating costs in order for it to compete more effectively in the UK market,” the company said in a brief statement.

“The majority of savings will be achieved by taking operating costs out of the business, however, there will also be a reduction of approximately 500 jobs across the business. Staff affected by the decision have been informed today.”

The group, which employs about 10,000 people in Britain, had launched a major cost-cutting programme in November to reduce costs by 1.0 billion pounds by March 2011.

Earlier this month, Vodafone defied the global economic storm by reporting better-than-expected third quarter sales, up 14 percent due to the strong euro and strength in key markets.

Israeli leader fires lead negotiator on Gaza truce

JERUSALEM, 24 Feb— Prime Minister Ehud Olmert dismissed Israel’s top negotiator in Gaza truce talks for publicly criticizing his demand that Palestinian militants hand over a captured Israeli soldier before any deal is clinched, officials said on Monday.

The move threatens to roil the talks just weeks before Olmert is succeeded by the hawkish Benjamin Netanyahu, who wants Gaza’s Hamas rulers toppled and likely would take a tougher line in the Egyptian-brokered truce negotiations.

A truce deal has implications beyond cementing the informal 18 Jan ceasefire that ended Israel’s war on Hamas. Without it, there is little chance of advancing already troubled talks to reconcile feuding Palestinian factions.

Olmert abruptly announced last week that Israel would not reopen Gaza’s long-blockaded borders—the main Israeli concession sought by Hamas—unless Hamas-affiliated militants first freed Sgt Gilad Schalit, who was seized in a June 2006 cross-border raid.—Internet

Guantanamo detainee freed after four years in prison

LONDON, 24 Feb—The first Guantanamo detainee released since President Barack Obama took office returned to Britain on Monday, saying his seven years of captivity and torture at an alleged CIA covert site in Morocco went beyond his “darkest nightmares.”

Looking frail from a hunger strike, Mohamed, who once was accused by US. authorities of being part of a conspiracy to detonate a bomb on American soil, stepped off a charter plane and was whisked away by police, border control agents and immigration officials.

Battered British auto industry sends out SOS

LONDON, 24 Feb— Car production in Britain fell dramatically in January as shrinking demand dealt a heavy blow to manufacturers amid the global economic crunch. The British government is now facing calls to bail out the industry, boost output and further green production.

In the face of the worst economic crisis in decades, demand for made-in-Britain is at its weakest in 17 years, and a sharp decline in output is expected over the next three months, the Confederation of British Industry (CBI) said recently.

Only 12 percent of companies expected output to increase over the next three months, while 56 percent said it would fall, according to CBI’s latest monthly industrial trends survey.

“The weak pound has made UK exports more competitive, but this advantage has been outweighed by falling global demand,” said John Cridland, CBI deputy director-general.

Car production in particular has suffered a sharp decline, plunging 58.7 percent in January to 61,404 units, with commercial vehicle output posting a substantial fall of 59.9 percent to 8,351, according to the latest figures released by the Society of Motor Manufacturers and Traders Limited (SMMT).

China, Vietnam settle land border issue

BEIJING, 24 Feb—China and Vietnam Monday marked the final demarcation of their land border at the Youyiguan border gate in Pingxiang City in south China's Guangxi Zhuang Auto-nomous Region.

The 1,300-kilometre border starts at the junction of China, Vietnam and Laos and continues along the Beilun River to the coast. Yunnan Province and Guangxi Zhuang Autonomous Region are on Chinese side, and Cao

One injured after bus shooting in Canada's Toronto

OTTAWA, 24 Feb— An 18-year-old man was injured after a shooting on a public transit bus Monday in Canada's biggest city Toronto, reports reaching here said.

At least three shots were fired Monday inside a bus carrying more than a dozen passengers.

The 18-year-old was apparently headed to the back of the bus when he encountered three people with whom he had a prior dispute.

After an exchange of words, shots were fired and the victim ran from the bus into a nearby alley, where his pursuers fired another shot. He was also reportedly pistol-whipped.

The victim is said to be in serious but stable condition. Police are still searching for the suspects.

cubic-foot-second of water flow in the environs of Nancho Creek. The creek has 317 square miles of watershed areas, and a total of 767,110 acre-foot of water flows into the creek.

The water will be stored with the 443 feet long and 167 feet high CVC (Overflow Type) concrete embankment. Moreover, the surplus water will be released from the 349 feet wide overflow type spillway.

be supplied to the 269 feet long and 79 feet wide water control lake from the concrete type intake structure installed with 49 feet wide and 73 feet high sluice gate through the intake channel that measures 7330 feet by 15.5 feet.

Two turbines will be run with the use of water from the water control lake through the 13 feet diameter and 876 feet long prestressed steel pipeline.

Nancho Hydropower

To conserve the environmental beauties, the dam of Nancho Hydropower Plant will be of the CVC (Overflow Type) concrete embankment, but not the Rock-filled Dam with Earthcore or RCC Dam (Roller Compacted Concrete Dam). Salu Creek is located between the intake structure and the water control lake. As part of environmental conservation, two intake tunnels passed over the creek, and the bridge will be constructed with two concrete posts in the creek.

At present, the temporary embankment and diversion conduit are under construction. Soon, the water of Nancho Creek will be diverted for the project.

The hydropower project will be completed in the year of 2010. Upon completion, the power plant can supply 152 million kilo-

In accord with the guidance of Head of State Senior General Than Shwe to generate electricity through hydropower in the country, the Special Projects Implementation Committee of the State Peace and Development Council approved the implementation of the Nancho Hydropower Project at its meeting 1/2006 on 22-9-2006.

FM says Iran has no talks with any US officials

TEHRAN, 24 Feb—Iran's Foreign Minister Manouchehr Mottaki said here on Monday that Iran had not talked with any US officials, the official IRNA news agency reported.

"No official or non-official talks were held between (Iran's senior presidential adviser) Mojtaba Samareh Hashemi and any US official," Mottaki was quoted as saying. Mottaki rejected some reports that there had been "talks between Samareh Hashemi and former US defence secretary William Perry."

Iranian officials have reiterated several times that they were waiting for the "real" and "essential" changes in the US policies toward Iran. In an earlier interview with Dubai-based Al-Arabiya television, new US President Barack Obama said "if countries like Iran are willing to unclench their fist, they will find an extended hand from us".

The United States severed its ties with Iran in 1980. Since then, Washington has been trying to beef up its sanctions against Teheran for being involved in anti-US activities and for allegedly developing nuclear weapons secretly. Iran denied the charges and insisted that its nuclear programme is for peaceful purposes only.

Ethiopian Airlines cuts int'l flights as crisis bites

ADDIS ABABA, 24 Feb—Ethiopian Airlines said on Monday it was cutting flights to the United States and China as the global financial crisis hit passenger numbers.

Girma Wake, chief executive officer of the airline — one of Africa's leading carriers — said they had seen a fall in the number of incoming passengers coming from the two countries.

"Ethiopian Airlines began to feel passenger and cargo contraction in November 2008, but December 2008 was when the changes became noticeable," he said in a statement.

Girma said the six weekly flights to the United States would be cut to four, while the number of weekly flights to China had been cut to 12 from 14. The airline hopes to boost operating revenue by more than 6 per cent to one billion US dollars this year.

Tourism represents just 2.5 per cent of Ethiopia's gross national product. But the government has set an ambitious goal of attracting a million foreign visitors a year by 2010, quadrupling current figures.

Australian govt rejects new climate change policy

CANBERRA, 24 Feb—The Australian Government has dismissed the opposition leader Malcolm Turnbull's climate change stance on Monday.

"Malcolm Turnbull's new focus on greenhouse gas reduction policy is simply a diversion from internal problems in the opposition," Climate Change Minister Penny Wong said on Monday. The Australian Government has rejected the new stance providing the reason that Turnbull's policy is a mirage.

Senator Wong told the ABC radio that one of Turnbull's reduction ideas would require planting an area half the size of Tasmania every year for a decade to implement, which is impossible to achieve.

CHICAGO, 24 Feb—A study in nearly half a million older men and women bolsters evidence that diets rich in calcium may help protect against some cancers. The benefits were mostly associated with foods high in calcium, rather than calcium tablets.

Previous studies have produced conflicting results. The new research involved food questionnaires from participants and a follow-up check of records for cancer cases during the subsequent seven years. This research method is less rigorous than some previous but smaller studies.

Swiss to vote on tighter gun controls

GENEVA, 24 Feb—Switzerland's part-time soldiers traditionally store their guns in the attic, in a cupboard or under the bed. They see it as their honor and duty to keep their weapons close at hand. But campaigners said Monday they have collected around 120,000 signatures to force a nationwide referendum on whether to confine army weapons to military compounds. They say the proliferation of firearms has led to suicides and homicides throughout the nation, and they want tighter firearms controls.

"Almost every day a person commits suicide with a firearm in Switzerland," said Josef Lang, a lawmaker for the Green Party who is campaigning for the proposal alongside the Social Democrats, rights groups and others.

Service in Switzerland's militia army is compulsory for men, and conscripts have to take their guns home between call-ups.

Priceless treasures now fair game for divers

BEIJING, 24 Feb—New legislation in Greece gives scuba divers access to sunken wrecks containing archeological treasures from a bygone age. Lefteris Papadimas and Daniel Flynn go deep into the problems. A rusted mechanism recovered by sponge divers from a sunken wreck near the Greek island of Antikythera in 1902 changed the study of the ancient world forever.

The Antikythera

Mechanism, a system of bronze gears from the 2nd century BC, was used to calculate the date of the Olympic Games based on the summer solstice. Its mechanical complexity was unequalled for 1,000 years, until the cathedral clocks of the Middle Ages.

Archeologists believe hundreds more wrecks beneath the eastern Mediterranean may contain treasures, but a new law opening Greece's coastline to scuba diving has experts worried that priceless artifacts could disappear into the hands of treasure hunters. "The future of archeology in this part of the world is in the sea," says marine archeologist Harry Tzalas. "This law is very dangerous, it opens the way to the looting of antiquities from the seabed which we don't even know exist."—Internet

Ridership of New York subway drops due to rising unemployment rate

NEW YORK, 24 Feb—The ridership of New York subway has declined as a result of rising unemployment rate, New York urban transportation officials said Monday.

The city's Metropolitan Transportation Authority (MTA) officials said that average weekday subway ridership dropped by 2 percent last month, compared with January 2008. The weekday average was about 4.9 million trips last month.

Urban transportation officials noted that it was the first such decline in five years that was not attributed to bad weather or an unusual number of weekday holidays.

Falling ridership and fare collections could add to the financial burdens of the transit body, officials said.

With the worsening of the economic situation in the United States, an increasing number of New Yorkers, even including doctors and teachers, have or will join the huge ranks of the unemployed.

On 30 Jan, New York Mayor Michael Bloomberg proposed a new budget for the fiscal year starting on 1 July that includes heavy cuts in city jobs. The plan calls for a reduction of almost 23,000 jobs through layoffs and attrition. About 15,000 employees would be laid off, including 14,000 Education Department employees. Media reports quoted Bloomberg as saying recently that the city was projected to lose nearly 300,000 jobs through 2010.—Internet

Taking B vitamins can prevent vision loss

CHICAGO, 24 Feb— Taking B vitamins can prevent a common type of vision loss in older women, according to the first rigorous study of its kind. It's a slight redemption for vitamin supplements, which have suffered recent blows from research finding them powerless at preventing disease.

Age-related macular degeneration is the leading cause of blindness in people 65 and older, with nearly 2 million Americans in the advanced stage of the condition. It causes a layer of the eye to deteriorate, blurring the center of the field of vision and making it difficult to recognize faces, read and drive. There's no cure, but treatment, including laser therapy in some cases, can slow it down.

Preventing it has been more elusive.

NASA study shows 2008 was Earth's ninth warmest year since 1880

WASHINGTON, 24 Feb—Climatologists at the NASA Goddard Institute for Space Studies (GISS) in New York City have found that 2008 was the coolest year since 2000, but also was the ninth warmest year since continuous instrumental records were started in 1880. The ten warmest years on record have all occurred between 1997 and 2008, according to the study available here on Monday. The GISS analysis found that the global average surface air temperature was 0.44C (0.79F) above the global mean for 1951 to 1980, the baseline period for the study. Most of the world was either near normal or warmer in 2008 than the norm. Eurasia, the Arctic, and the Antarctic Peninsula were exceptionally warm, while much of the Pacific Ocean was cooler than the long-term average.

The relatively low temperature in the tropical Pacific was due to a strong La Nina that existed in the first half of the year, the research team noted. La Nina and El Nino are opposite phases of a natural oscillation of equatorial Pacific Ocean temperatures over several years. La Nina is the cool phase. The warmer El Nino phase typically follows within a year or two of La Nina.

The temperature in the United States in 2008 was not much different than the 1951-1980 mean, which makes it cooler than all the previous years this decade.—Internet

Vitamin D deficiency may increase risk of colds, flu

WASHINGTON, 24 Feb—Vitamin D may be an important way to arm the immune system against disorders like the common cold, according to a report published on Monday in the Archives of Internal Medicine.

In the biggest and most nationally representative study of the association between vitamin D and respiratory infections, conducted by investigators from the University of Colorado

Denver (UC Denver) School of Medicine, Massachusetts General Hospital (MGH) and Children's Hospital Boston, people with the lowest blood vitamin D levels reported having significantly more recent colds or cases of the flu. The risks were even higher for those with chronic respiratory disorders, such as asthma and emphysema.

"The findings of our study support an important role for vitamin D in prevention of common respiratory infections, such as colds and the flu," Adit Ginde, UC Denver Division of Emergency Medicine and lead author of the study, said. "Individuals with common lung diseases, such as asthma or emphysema, may be particularly susceptible to respiratory infections from vitamin D deficiency."

Green, two tailed comet, comes closest to earth Tuesday

BEIJING, 24 Feb — Comet Lulin, a two-tailed green-colored comet, will make its closest approach to Earth on Tuesday.

It'll still be 61 million kilometres away—about 160 times the distance between the Earth and the moon. But for most locations in the Northern Hemisphere, it should be visible to the naked eye in dark locations over the next few days, according to NASA.

The comet is expected to appear about a third of the way up the southern sky, a few degrees from Saturn in the constellation Leo. Lulin appears green in photographs taken through a telescope because the gases gushing from its surface include two that appear that color—cyanogen and diatomic carbon. The comet looks like it has two tails because of its orientation relative to the Earth, which creates the optical illusion of a second tail called an "anti-tail."

Scientists are using

Comet Lulin

NASA's Swift Satellite to track and study the comet as it approaches. So far, the satellite's data show that Lulin is shedding enough water to fill an Olympic-size swimming pool every 15 minutes, as the sun boils its surface material away.—Internet

More birds killed in bird flu affected area in Nepal

KATHMANDU, 24 Feb—The Rapid Response Teams deployed by the Ministry of Agriculture and Cooperative to take the bird flu outbreak in control have killed 1,035 chickens, 10 ducks, 53 pigeons and destroyed 205 eggs in Ruibari and surrounding areas of Sharanamati village in Jhapa district in eastern Nepal by Monday.

According to Tuesday's nepalnews.com, culling and killing of birds started on Sunday after declaring the area surrounding Ruimari a "bird-flu affected area". The operation is expected to complete soon as there are no large poultry farms in the area. It is expected that there are about 9,000 chickens in the village.

The Ministry of Agriculture and Cooperatives has deployed 50 technicians to the bird flu affected area to control the deadly H5N1 virus from spreading.—Internet

Male infertility associated with testicular cancer

WASHINGTON, 24 Feb—Men who are infertile appear to have an increased risk of developing testicular cancer, according to a report published Monday in the Archives of Internal Medicine.

Testicular germ cell cancer, the most common cancer among youngmen in industrialized countries, has become even more prevalent during the last 30 to 50 years, according to background information in the article. There is evidence that semen quality and male fertility have also declined during this time in industrialized nations; however, it is unclear whether these two trends are related.

Thomas Walsh, of the University of Washington School of Medicine, Seattle, and colleagues analyzed data from 22,562 male partners of couples seeking fertility treatment between 1967 and 1998 (4,549 of whom had male factor infertility, based on a clinical presentation with abnormal semen analysis criteria). Their records were linked to the state cancer registry, which includes information about cancer cases confirmed between 1988 and 2004.

Woodgate dents Hull's survival hopes

HULL, 24 Feb—A late goal from England defender Jonathan Woodgate gave Spurs what could be a crucial three points in the fight against relegation as they beat fellow Premiership strugglers Hull 2-1 here on Monday.

Woodgate's header - in what was his 50th appearance for the London club - four minutes from time gave Spurs only their second win in their last 10 Premier League matches and first away win since beating West Ham on December 8 last year.

For Hull relegation appears to be a real possibility as they have registered just one victory in their last 17 Premier League Games and are now just six points above the drop and one above Spurs.

Spurs manager Harry Redknapp said he believed that his side had deserved the victory but bemoaned the fact that ahead of him and the club this week lies a UEFA Cup second leg clash with Shakhtar Donetsk, who beat them 2-0 in last week's first leg, on Thursday and then their defence of the League Cup against Manchester United on Sunday.—INTERNET

Monday as surprise results continued at the African Nations Championship.

Zambia stunned hosts Ivory Coast 3-0 in the opening match on Sunday and another shock seemed on the cards in Bouake as Group B no-hopers Zimbabwe scored twice against top seeds Ghana.

But midfielder Ibrahim Ayew, whose father was voted African Footballer of the Year and helped French club Marseille win the European Cup, salvaged a point with goals either side of half-time in the central Ivorian city.

So a match expected to be among the most one-sided with Zimbabwe missing six unavailable stars turned into a thriller as the first edition of a tournament restricted to home-based footballers provides endless drama.—INTERNET

Maradona to face up to high altitude in World Cup qualifier

BUENOS AIRES, 24 Feb—Argentina coach Diego Maradona said his team would be daunted by the high altitude when they face Bolivia at 3,600 meters above sea level in their World Cup qualifier in April.

"We're working on the altitude matter," said Maradona during a news conference on Monday in Buenos Aires.

"You have to face up to the altitude and not be afraid of it. If you fear it, then the doubts start."

Argentina host Venezuela in a World Cup qualifier on 28 March, Maradona's first competitive match in charge, and visit Bolivia four days later.

Argentina have played and won two friendlies, away to Scotland and France, since Maradona's appointment in October.—INTERNET

Murray limps on in Dubai Open tennis

DUBAI, 24 Feb—Andy Murray, who injured an ankle while winning the Rotterdam tournament the week before last, appeared to have injured it again while reaching the second round of the Dubai Open in an oddly ironic finish.

It was an ankle injury which brought the match to end just two points from a conventional finish - though it was not Murray who quit with the problem, but his opponent Sergiy Stakhovsky.

The Ukrainian had treatment on his left ankle at 5-4 in the first set, was late back on to court after more treatment before the penultimate game, and although he appeared still to be moving satisfactorily to the backhand side, walked to the net and shook hands at love-30 in the last game.—INTERNET

The Socceroos are sailing along unbeaten in their Asian group, two points clear of Japan and with a six-point buffer over third-placed Qatar and Bahrain with the top two teams of the group qualifying automatically for South Africa 2010.

Verbeek, 52, is clearly performing the task that Football Federation Australia employed him for in the wake of the country's 2007 Asian Cup debacle, where the team was knocked out in the quarter-finals. Then came Woods' statement that "I'm now ready to play again," and 105 more requests poured in. Three television satellite trucks were expected. Now the number is 11.

Sumatran tigers kill six people in Indonesia

JAKARTA, 24 Feb—Endangered Sumatran tigers have killed six people in Indonesia's Jambi Province since early February, including three illegal loggers in the most recent attacks, a conservation official said on Monday.

Authorities had trapped a female tiger believed to be behind three killings earlier this month in the area in eastern Sumatra, but the capture had not stopped the latest killings, said Didy Wurjanto, head of the Jambi nature conservation agency.

On Sunday, a tiger attacked and killed a man carrying logs near an illegal logging camp, Wurjanto said. Two other loggers in the same area were mauled and killed on Saturday.

Preliminary findings suggested the attacks were taking place because people were disturbing the habitat of the tigers, Wurjanto said.

"It is not common for tigers to attack humans, especially in Jambi," Wurjanto said, noting that forest rangers had been deployed to try and find the tiger or tigers.

Nancho Hydropower Project implementation commences in Nay Pyi Taw Pyinmana

Article & Photos: Photographer Maung Maung

Recently, the international experts have estimated that as the fuel production is declining gradually, all the global countries might face the problem arising from shortage of fuel in coming 50 years.

To overcome the shortage of fuel, the solar energy, various fuel gases and vegetable oils are being used by conducting research works.

In Myanmar, the supply of electricity depended on the power plants with the use of diesel, FO and natural gas together with small-scale hydropower stations except the Biluchaung Hydropower Plant.

Glaciers in China, Tibet fading fast

BEIJING, 24 Feb — Glaciers that serve as water sources to one of the most ecologically diverse alpine communities on earth are melting at an alarming rate, according to a recent report.

A three-year study, to be used by the China Geological Survey Institute, shows that glaciers in the Yangtze source area, central to the Qinghai-Tibet plateau in south-western China, have receded 196 square kilometres over the past 40 years.

Glaciers at the headwaters of the Yangtze, China's longest river, now cover 1,051 square kilometres compared to 1,247 square kilometres in 1971, a loss of nearly a billion cubic metres of water, while the tongue of the Yuzhu glacier, the highest in the Kunlun Mountains fell by 1,500 metres over the same period.

Village bird study highlights loss of wildlife knowledge

LONDON, 24 Feb—Our ability to conserve and protect wildlife is at risk because we are unable to accurately gauge how our environment is changing over time, says new research in Conservation Letters.

The study shows that people may not realise species are declining all around them, or that their local environment may have changed dramatically since their parents' and grandparents' days, and even in their own lifetime.
