No early exit from Afghanistan

Brussels, 31 March— International forces should not expect to withdraw from Afghanistan in the near future, NATO Secretary-General Jaap de Hoop Scheffer said Monday, adding that a new US strategy for the country was realistic.

Eight years after the US-led invasion to drive out the former Taleban rulers, the United States, NATO and other allies have failed to quell a growing insurgency in the poor Muslim country.

"In my opinion, it is | the course." necessary to stay in Afghanistan for the foreseeable future," de Hoop Scheffer told reporters in Brussels, saying he had so far seen "positive reactions" to a new strategy unveiled by President Barack Obama last week.

Obama set no timetable for his revamped war plan but shifted the focus toward training Afghanistan's own security forces, and said the United States would not "blindly stay

De Hoop Scheffer welcomed the decision to concentrate on defeating al Qaeda militants rather than pursuing the Bush administration's more ambitious aim of building democracy.

"I think the Obama plan is realistic about what can be achieved ... That means we will not be able to change Afghanistan into Switzerland in a few years' time," he said.

Suicide bomber kills seven, wounds 17 in Mosul

BAGHDAD, 31 March—Iraqi police say a suicide truck bomber killed at least seven people and wounded 17 in the northern city of Mosul.

A police officer in Mosul says the attacker was targeting a police station in the city's centre. Police Maj Jassim al-Jubouri says those killed include four policemen and three civilians.

Tuesday's bombing is the latest in a string of attacks in Iraq this month that has raised fears insurgents are trying to regroup as the US prepares to withdraw all its forces by the end of 2011.

Nobody has claimed responsibility for the attack. But vehicle bombings are the signature attacks of suspected Sunni militant who remain active in Mosul.

Suicide bomber in police uniform kills nine Afghans

Dund, 31 March—A suicide bomber wearing a police uniform blew himself up inside a police headquarters in southern Afghanistan on Monday, killing nine people and wounding eight, an official said.

Five officers and four civilians died in the attack in Dund district, about 10 miles (15 kilometres) south of Kandahar city, the Interior Ministry said in a statement.

The attack comes as the United States prepares to send 21,000 additional troops to Afghanistan to bolster the 38,000 American forces already in the country. President Barack Obama last week announced a new strategy for the Afghanistan-Pakistan region with a goal to "disrupt, dismantle and defeat" al-Qaeda.

In total, there are a record 70,000 international forces in Afghanistan.

The international Red Cross warned Monday that more Afghans Pakistanis will be at risk in coming months as a result of worsening political instability and fighting. It urged the United States and others to consider the plight of civilians as they step up their military presence in the volatile region.

British forces to begin Iraq withdrawal

BASRA, 31 March—British forces were to launch their official withdrawal from Iraq, a months-long process ending a role that kicked off with the USled invasion six years ago.

Senior American, British and Iraqi officers were expected to mark the occasion in recognition of the 179 British soldiers, airmen and sailors who have died in Iraq since the March 2003 invasion. The British-led coalition base in Basra will lower its flag and transfer to US control, in a key transitional step towards all foreign troops leaving the country and a full return to Iraqi sovereignty. "It is the beginning of the drawdown of coalition forces of which Britain has been an integral part," a senior British officer told AFP.

Argentina, China sign tentative currency swap deal

BUENOS AIRES, 31 March—Argentina and China have tentatively agreed to swap $10 billion worth of their currencies to enable South America's secondlargest economy to avoid using dollars in trade between the nations, banking officials said on Monday.

It is the first such swap between China and a Latin American country, and allows Argentine businesses to buy Chinese imports directly in yuans. The move aims to help Argentina by cutting trading costs, giving it access to hard currency and strengthening its financial position as it is battered by the global financial crisis, analysts say.

China — which has been pushing to end the dollar's international dominance as a currency — has stuck similar deals to bypass the US currency with South Korea, Malaysia, Belarus and Indonesia, the Xinhua News Agency reported.

Australian dairy farmers less confident due to crisis

CANBERRA, 31 March—Confidence in the dairy industry was shaken over the past 12 months due to the global financial crisis, a survey showed on Tuesday.

"It is a very tough time for many of our dairy farmers," Dairy Australia managing director Mike Ginnivan said in a statement. The medium and longterm outlook for the industry has improved despite the current conditions, with commodity prices stabilizing in recent weeks, adding to early indications of a recovery in demand.

"It is expected that as developing markets begin to recover next year and beyond, and dairy becomes more incorporated into developing countries' diets, consumption should rise," Ginnivan said.

More rural short-term teachers wanted to boost employment, rural education

Beijing, 31 March—The Ministry of Education (MOE) has lifted its recruitment target for short-term rural teachers by 300 percent in just two weeks, in a move to both raise standards and siphon off some of the vast army of graduate jobless.

The latest target is 150,000 more than the ministry announced two weeks ago, when it said 50,000 shortterm teachers, to be paid by a special central budget fund, were wanted in the rural areas in 2009.

The newly added teaching posts would be paid by local authorities, the ministry said Monday in a report posted on its website. It said the job opportunities would be mainly open to fresh college graduates.

The move was aimed at improving the quality of rural teachers, and to resolve the paradox that colleges graduates were facing gloomy employment prospects, whereas primary and middle schools in rural areas were desperately in need of qualified talents, the ministry said.—Xinhua

Brazilian President expects housing package to generate jobs

Rio de Janeiro, 31 March—Brazilian President Luiz Inacio Lula da Silva said on Monday that he wishes the construction sector to be the propeller of the job generation in the country amid the international financial crisis.

Brazil's unemployment rate hit 8.5 percent in February, which meant the unemployed population reached 1.9 million, the Brazilian Institute of Geography and Statistics (IBGE) announced last Thursday. In his weekly radio show "Breakfast with the President," Lula said that the recently-launched housing package will reduce 14 percent of the housing deficit in the country and will help minimize the crisis effects.

The president announced a 34 billion reais (14.5 billion US dollars) housing sector package last week, which aims at building 1 million units of houses for the country's poor people in the coming two years. Besides improving the living conditions for the poor, the housing programme is designed to boost public spending, which will generate as many as 1.5 million job opportunities and increase the purchasing power of the poor as a measure to tackle the financial crisis, said Lula at the programme's launching ceremony last Wednesday.—Xinhua

Woman meets an "alien"

A woman from Norwich claimed to have met a man dressed in a flying suitstyle outfit from another planet while she was walking her dog, according to the newly released Ministry of Defence

She claimed to have been "completely terrified" during the 10minute encounter. According to the woman, she had been approached by a man with a "Scandinavian-type accent" dressed in a flying suit-style outfit while out walking on a sports field near Norwich, eastern England, in 1989.

She said she had then seen a large glowing object rising vertically from behind some nearby trees while she was running home.

The woman called up RAF Wattisham in Suffolk the following day and informed them about the man, who she said told her that aliens were behind crop circles. A cover note on the file notes describes it as "one of our more unusual UFO reports."

The sighting is included in military UFO documents made available online on Sunday by the National Arch ADVERTISEMENT ives. The incident is just one of around 1,200 sightings recorded by investigators between 1987 and 1993.

Myanmar witnessed unprecedented natural disaster "Nargis cyclone" in May 2008. Moreover, it had to experience the financial crisis to a certain extent which caused a great impact on global nations since October 2008. Both the volume of export and prices have been on the decline as demand for the goods has become lower. Meantime, there has been a change in the currency exchanges in the nation, thereby resulting in destabilizations. Despite such difficulties and hardships, trade of the nation is making remarkable progress, he added.

Progress made in trade can be attributable to the concerted efforts of farmers and industrialists who are engaged in farming and productions sectors, he said.

Amidst the global financial crisis, the government has taken steps for traders to be able to do their business in a swift and smooth manner by issuing export and import licenses as early as possible and by relaxing procedures.

Relaxation was introduced in the border trade for traders to largely engage in border trade in addition to mercantile trade. And encouragement is being given partial export in order not to harm goods to be exported, for the demand for goods has been on the decrease.

Memorandums were drawn systematically in the process of bringing about right commodity and right prices after setting up of the purchasing depots in the nation, he disclosed.

Efforts are also being made for the private sectors to widely engage there is regular operation in cultivation, production and trading in the respective regions will the products be exported smoothly. He pointed out that there should be coordination and cooperation among producers, local merchants and major exporters. He said normally crops produced by farmers in their own ways are purchased from the market and they are exported. Arrangements are under way to provide the farmers with working capital to produce crops of high quality in cooperation with leading companies, member companies and local merchants. High quality crops and value-added products can be exported to the international market in the near future, he said. He urged the entrepreneurs to take part in the efforts to launchthe good programme that benefits all the people.

Organic crops grown naturally get high price in the international market. Therefore efforts are to be made for more and more export of Myanma organic crops. Most of the cultivable lands in Myanmar are normally organic and there is a better condition for production of organic crops. He spoke of the need to set targets for export of those crops in accord with the standard set accepted in the international market.

He urged the officials

He urged the officials to make efforts for export of beans and pulses, rice, long staple cotton, rubber and physic nut as main export items. The government is building a basic foundation on surplus of food and boosting production of foodstuffand agricultural produce plays an important role in export sector of the State.

The Prime Minister spoke at length on:

- extended cultivation and production of good quality rice, beans and pulses and other crops,
- establishment of seed companies that will distribute marketable high quality crop seeds,
- building of new rice mills and measures undertaken for improved milling process,
- export of value-added beans and pulses and other crops and
- distribution of cultivation methods and post-harvesting technology.

He said the government has been building economic infrastructures and giving encouragement to ensure participation of national entrepreneurs. Industrial zones have been established in important regions of the country. The government allows private industrialists to run the State-owned factories and workshops for development of the industrial sector, he continued.

He said Myanmar actively participates in international organizations such as ASEAN, BIMSTEC, GMS and ACMECS and promotes regional and international economic cooperation. Myanmar will join ASEAN Free Trade Area in 2015. Therefore it is necessary to manufacture high quality items in the industrial sector in accord with the standard set.

He urged the officials concerned to make endeavours for seeking new markets, boosting new export items and producing marketable products.

It is to avoid importing substandard goods and improper goods in the time of the global financial crisis, which can hurt public interest, he said, calling for boosting import of quality goods produced with advanced technologies apart from boosting production of importsubstitute products for industrial development of the nation.

in export of rice which is an important item of agricultural produce. In the process, seeking of rice market and offering of foreign companies is being carried out through Myanmar embassies abroad while permission is being granted for export of rice to neighbouring though the border, he noted.

Therefore, traders should not be content with doing business with foreign companies and are to strive to be able to export Myanmar goods, deliver goods right down to end users and to actively take part in the task for boosting the export by sending the market seeking groups abroad.

The UMFCCI has to mobilize greater participation of its members in the economic activities the government is implementing in cooperation with its partners from the international community, and to get the members to keep in touch with international trade rules law, and regulations, code of conduct, and information about business and trade, he said.

The federation has been a strong one, as it has been able to mobilize 29 product-wise category-wise associations, 16 state/ division associations, and nine border merchants associations, totalling 54 brother associations and 18,333 members, he said, calling for sharpening the ability, business management skills and innovative calibers of the members in order that they will be able to catch up with international economic changes.

In particular, in the time of the global financial crisis, the federation needs to lay down long-term plans to be able to surmount with nationalistic fervour new challenges, and sanctions intentionally put against the nation, and to safeguard the interest of the nation and the people and national entrepreneurs, he said.

He said that the government implementing the democratic transition process step by step, as aspired by the people. The elections, the most important step for the future nation, will be held soon. He expressed his belief that the Road Map laid down for emergence of the Union of Myanmar will soon be brought to fruition with harmonious participation of national entrepreneurs.

In conclusion, the Prime Minister urged the federation and members preserve their integrity, to participate in the activities with a sense of nationalistic spirit for the economic growth of the nation, and strengthen the federation into reliable a organization consolidated unity of the members with a natural aptitude for doing business.

Prime Minister General Thein Sein posed for a documentary photo together with the commander, the ministers, the deputy ministers, the president, CEC members, executives and advisers of the federation.

He cordially greeted the attendees.

permission. So far, tens of thousands of tons of rice have been exported through the border trade. Export of corn has been doubled if compared with over 100,000 tons last year. The Myanmar-China border trade is making a good headway due to the management of the government. This financial year, the trade turnover has touched over 1000 million US dollars. As a result, there has been a large number of job opportunities; regional development tasks are gathering momentum; and local people are in a position to enjoy higher living standard. The taxes and duties on goods to the nation are on the increase. Border areas are now enjoying the taste of progress in the health, education, social and economic sectors in proportion to development of the border trade.

Fish oil capsules "no remedy" for heart attack

Beijing, 31 March— Fish oil pills don't reduce the risk of heart attack! They dont't make any difference to heart patients, says a German study.

The study, released Monday at an American College of Cardiology conference, tested a 1gramme daily dose of a prescription version of highly purified omega-3 fatty acid — the "good fat" contained in certain oily fish that is thought to help the heart.

Researchers led by Dr. Jochen Senges of the University of Heidelberg gave fish oil or dummy capsules to more than 3,800 people who had suffered a heart attack in the previous two weeks. About 90 percent were already receiving all the medicines recommended to prevent a second attack. including aspirin, anticlotting and cholesterol drugs.

After a year, it made no difference whether these patients took fish oil or dummy capsules. In both groups, fewer than 2 percent had suffered sudden cardiac death, 4 percent had another heart attack, and fewer than 2 percent had suffered a stroke.

New snowstorm hammers northern Plains states

BISMARCK, 31 March—The second major snowstorm to hit the northern Plains in a week dropped more than a foot of snow on Monday, closing hundreds of miles of highway and shutting government offices and schools. At least five deaths were blamed on the storm.

High wind expected from the storm was the biggest worry for flood-weary Fargo on the eastern edge of North Dakota.

The National Weather Service posted blizzard warnings across sections of the Dakotas, Wyoming and Montana. It said more than 16 inches of snow had fallen by early Monday night in the Bismarck area, only about 2 inches away from tying the record 101.06 inches set during the winter of 1996-1997.

4,000 isolated in Australia by flood waters

CANBERRA, 31 March—Australian emergency services said on Tuesday almost 4,000 people are expected to be isolated by rising floodwaters following heavy rain on the New South Wales's (NSW's) mid-north coast.

"A band of torrential rain has hit the area now and is expected to clear later tonight, before returning again tomorrow," Emergency Services Minister Steve Whan told parliament.

Up to 100 State Emergency Service (SES) volunteers were assisting, Whan was quoted by Australian Associated Press as said.

Whan said the Bellinger Valley communities of Kalang and Darkwood, both with populations of about 500, have already been cut off.

Bellingen and North Bellingen, which boast a combined population of just under 3,000, are expected to become isolated on Tuesday with rain continuing to fall. The same area was hit by floodwaters only six weeks ago.

Man killed in Puerto Rico tourist zone

San Juan, 31 March— A 21-year-old man died after being beaten, tied up in public and choked with a belt in a tourist district of Puerto Rico, police said on Monday.

Three men were arrested but authorities were seeking "many more" who apparently either witnessed or took part in the attack, detective Angel Internet | Rivera Casillas said. The other suspects fled before police arrived.

Rivera said several aggressors beat and tied Omar Rodriguez Almodovar in front of witnesses outside a bar, then dragged him into the restroom of the 101 Lounge and choked him with a belt. The motive behind the attack on the Puerto Rican man was unknown, Rivera said.

The killing took place about 2:30 am Saturday in Isla Verde, a beach-side strip in the San Juan suburb of Carolina that has some of Puerto Rico's top hotels.

Police were called but authorities blamed security guards and bystanders for not doing more to halt the slaying or provide more information to investigators.

Terrific' Barcelona impress Ferguson

March—Manchester United manager Sir Alex Ferguson has highlighted Barcelona as the biggest threat to his side's chances of retaining their Champions League title.

Both sides have managed to avoid one another in the quarter-finals, with United up against Porto and Barcelona facing Bayern Munich, and cannot now meet until the May 27 final in Rome.

Also through to the last eight are United's English rivals Arsenal, Chelsea and Liverpool.

But although Liverpool thrashed United 4-1 in the Premier League this month and saw off Real Madrid in the last 16 of the Champions League, Ferguson said Barcelona were the team to beat.

Serena moves on, Dementieva out of Miami WTA tennis

Washington, 31 March—World number one Serena Williams fought to full sets to down China's Zheng Jie 7-5, 5-7 and 6-3 for a quarter-finals spot at the Miami WTA hard court tennis tournament on Monday.

However, Russian fourth seed Elena Dementieva made a surprise exit at the hands of Danish teenager Caroline Wozniacki 7-5, 6-4.

Both players again struggled to hold serve in the second set and it was level at 5-5 when Zheng produced another break and held serve to even up the match at one set all. Serena finally found form in the decider to finish off in style with three aces to win the final game to love and claim her place in the last eight.

The 18-year-old Wozniacki came back from a break down in each set to reach her sixth quarter-final of the season.—Internet

Martinsville, 31 March—Kevin Harvick passed Kyle Busch with just over nine laps to go and held on through an abbreviated final restart to win the raindelayed and caution-filled trucks race Monday before a very sparse crowd at Martinsville Speedway.

Kaka stayed behind in Brazil while the rest of the national team went to face Ecuador last Sunday.

Oil spill spotted in Finnish Baltic

HELSINKI, 31 March—A slick of light fuel oil dozens of miles (kilometres) long has been found in the Baltic archipelago in southwestern Finland, officials said on Monday.

Reijo Salminen, division head of the Finnish Rescue Services, said ship traffic was the likely source given the slick's location in shipping lanes stretching from the harbour of Naantali to the Aland Islands.

"The oil is in the ice, but it has not hit shore yet," Salminen said, adding that the lightness of the oil grade should help once a clean-up begins. He also said sunshine should help to make it evaporate. spokesman for the coast guard said the service would make a surveillance flight later in the morning to assess the situation.—MNA/Reuters
