Maintain infrastructural buildings for their durability

The inauguration of Warazwut Bridge No (2) on Myitkyina-Namti-Tanai Road Section in Phakant Township, Kachin State, took place at the pavilion near the road the other day, which was graced by the presence of Prime Minister General Thein Sein.

Such a fine transport facility is, indeed, the result of the hard work the government and the people are exerting in concert to ensure better transport, one of the five rural development work programmes the government is undertaking.

In the past, railway and airway were the major transport means for Kachin State because the roads in the region were not in good condition. In consequence, local people faced poor transport and lack of security along Myitkyina-Namti-Tanai Road for many years.

In contrast, now peace and stability have been restored in the whole Kachin State, and mutual understanding, trust and cooperation have been established among national brethren. So, regional development tasks are gathering momentum now.

Putting Our Three Main National Causes in the fore, the government keeps in touch with and improves the economic, health, education and transport sectors with the aim of ensuring equitable development of all parts of the Union.

Up to 1988, the nation had only two river-crossing bridges: Sagaing Bridge over the Ayeyawady River and Sittoung Bridge over the Sittoung River. In its time, the Tatmadaw government has constructed eight bridges over the Ayeyawady River; two, over the Chindwin River; five, over the Thanlwin River; and one, over the Sittoung River.

Warazwut Bridge No (2) is the latest one among the 225 above-180-foot-long bridges the government has constructed throughout the nation so far.

Therefore, local people are to help maintain the infrastructural buildings for development for their durability as well as work together with a sense of Union Spirit in the drive for transforming the nation into a discipline-flourishing democratic one in line with the State's seven-step Road Map.

People's Desire

- * Oppose those relying on external elements, acting as stooges, holding negative views
- * Oppose those trying to jeopardize stability of the State and progress of the nation
- * Oppose foreign nations interfering in internal affairs of the State
- * Crush all internal and external destructive elements as the common enemy

Karzai says civilian deaths in US operation unacceptable

WASHINGTON, 9 May—Visiting Afghan President Hamid Karzai said here on Friday that the killing of Afghan civilians by US-led military operation against the Taliban forces is “not acceptable.”

“We believe strongly that airstrikes are not an effective way of fighting terrorism, that airstrikes rather cause civilian casualties and do not do good for the US, do not do good for Afghanistan,” Karzai told CNN.

“Airstrikes (against civilians) are not acceptable,” Karzai said.

It was reported that during a military operation, with NATO’s air support, against Taliban militants on Monday, some 140 people including Taliban and civilians were killed in the international troops’ airstrikes in the western Afghan province of Farah.—Internet

Hamas official denies ceasefire with Israel to be reached soon

GAZA, 9 May—A high ranking official in the Palestinian Islamic Hamas movement on Friday denied that a truce agreement will be reached soon between Israel and Palestinian militant groups in Gaza.

Ayman Taha, a Hamas official, clarified that his movement has not yet reached any agreement regarding the truce.

Taha told Xinhua that the Egyptian mediators are making efforts to bring about a ceasefire between the two sides, but any agreement has to be under certain conditions.

Israel must comply with all the agreements and commit to any ceasefire agreement, he said.

Taha also accused Israel of thwarting the Egyptian efforts on reaching a period of calm by continuing the siege and aggression against Gaza.

Afghan troops kill four Taliban militants, capture three others

KABUL, 9 May—Afghan security forces killed four Taliban militants as they came under attack and returned fire in the northern Kunduz Province, provincial police chief Mohammad Razaq Yaqubi said Friday.

“The militants raided

police checkpoints in Chardara district Thursday night and police encountered killing four rebels and injured three others while three more were arrested,” Yaqubi told Xinhua.

However, Taliban purported spokesman Zabihullah Mujahid in talks with media from undisclosed hideout claimed that a police van was destroyed and all people onboard were killed.

The relatively peaceful Kunduz has seen increasing Taliban activities over the past couple of months.

Local official says drone crashes in S Afghanistan

KABUL, 9 May — A pilotless reconnaissance plane crashed in Ghazni Province of southern Afghanistan Friday night, provincial police chief said on Saturday.

“The drone crashed in Qara Bagh district Friday evening with no loss of live,” Khial Baz Shirza told Xinhua. He put technical problems on the incident.

However, Taliban purported spokesman Zabihullah Mujahid claimed the responsibility added that his men shot down a helicopter of foreign troops and all soldiers aboard were killed.

Taliban militants, whose regime was toppled in US -led Coalition invasion in late 2001, have vowed to intensify their attacks against Afghan and international troops stationed in Afghanistan.

There are around 70,000 international troops stationed in Afghanistan while US President Barack Obama has ordered over 20,000 strong combat forces and advisors in the coming months to join 36,000 US troops already fighting Taliban militants in the war-torn country.

Japan nuke plant restarts two years after quake

TOKYO, 9 May—The world's largest nuclear power plant resumed part of its operations on Saturday, two years after it was shut down following a strong earthquake off the Japanese coast, the operator said.

One of seven reactors at the Kashiwazaki-Kariwa plant, located 300 kilometres (185 miles) northwest of Tokyo, started test operations, said operator Tokyo Electric Power Co (TEPCO).

The company earlier said it would shift to full power generation at the reactor after up to 50 days of test runs.

Lebanon arrests five suspected of spying for Israel

BEIRUT, 9 May—Authorities arrested five people in southern Lebanon on Friday for allegedly spying for Israel as part of the two countries' long-running espionage battle, security officials said.

At least seven others accused of spying have been arrested in recent weeks in what appears to be part of a stepped-up campaign against those suspected of gathering information on Hezbollah militants for Israel. ## Medvedev warns Russia will defend interests

Moscow, 9 May—President Dmitry Medvedev warned against "military adventurism" on Saturday, saying Russia would firmly defend its interests — just as it did during World War Two when the Soviet Union defeated fascism.

Medvedev, opening the biggest and most spectacular Victory Day parade in modern Russia's history, clearly aimed his warning at post-Soviet neighbour Georgia which Russia defeated in a five-day war last August.

"Our victory over fascism is a great example and a great lesson to all nations, the lesson which is still topical today, when again and again there appear the ones indulging in military adventurism," Medvedev said.

Russia says it had to defend its peacekeepers and civilian citizens in Georgia's rebel South Ossetia when Tbilisi tried to retake the region by force. Russia's ties with NATO plunged to a post-Cold War low after the conflict.—Internet

South Africa's Zuma to be sworn in as president

PRETORIA, 9 May—Jacob Zuma is sworn in as president of South Africa on Saturday after a remarkable political comeback, taking over a faltering economy plagued by crime, poverty and AIDS.

Zuma, 67, taking the oath of office was unthinkable during turbulent years when graft and rape charges nearly ruined him, crises that might have buried many politicians.

At the top of Zuma's agenda will be navigating Africa's biggest economy through what could already be its first recession in 17 years.

The charismatic politician won a wide mandate to rule with a ruling African National Congress (ANC) landslide victory in the 22 April election.

South Africans respect the ANC for its long anti-apartheid struggle but they are growing impatient with a number of problems which Zuma has promised to tackle. One of his big challenges will be juggling the interests of markets and labor and communist allies who want more government spending on millions still living in abject poverty 15 years after the end of apartheid.—Internet

Obama says jobless number sobering but sees progress

WASHINGTON, 9 May—US President Barack Obama said Friday that latest job loss data was "sobering," but he noted that there have been "some-what encouraging" improvements in the economy.

"While it's somewhat encouraging that this number is lower than it's been in each of the past six months, it is still a sobering toll," said Obama after the government reported that the jobless rate climbed to 8.9 percent in April, the highest since late 1983.

"It underscores the point that we're still in the midst of a recession that was years in the making and will be months or even years in the unmaking, and we should expect further job losses in the months to come," said Obama at the White House.—Internet

Obama wants Fed to be finance supercop

WASHINGTON, 9 May—The Federal Reserve could become the supercop for "too big to fail" companies capable of causing another financial meltdown under a proposal being seriously considered by the White House.

The Obama administration told industry officials on Friday that it was leaning toward making such a recommendation, according to officials who attended a private one-hour meeting between President Barack Obama's economic advisers and representatives from about a dozen banks, hedge funds and other financial groups.

Treasury Secretary Timothy Geithner and other officials made it clear they were not inclined to divide the job among various regulators as has been suggested by industry and some federal regulators. Geithner told the group that one organization needs to be held responsible for monitoring systemwide risk.—Internet

Samsung launches LED manufacturing base in N China

TIANJIN, 9 May— Samsung LED, a light-emitting diodes (LED) company of the global electronics giant Samsung, has set up its first overseas manufacturing base in north China's port city Tianjin.

The base, Tianjin Samsung LED Co, Ltd, was established with a starting capital of 30 million US dollars, according to the Tianjin Economic-Technological Development Area (Teda) Administrative Commission.

Commission spokesman Zhang Liang said Saturday initial investment to the Tianjin manufacturing base would reach 90 million US dollars.

He said the company had just finished registry with the local government in Teda, but it was not clear when the base would be constructed and begin production.

The base would be dedicated to the making of LEDs, a new generation of lighting source that excels traditional light sources, as it is less energy-consuming and long-lived, and improves image contrast and display.

LEDs are used in a wide range of products such as LCDs, mobile telecommunications devices and lighting equipment.

Samsung has so far invested in 11 manufacturing companies in Teda, with an overall investment of 1.6 billion US dollars. Tianjin takes about one third of the group's investment portfolio in China.

Study finds job losses lead to health problems

LOS ANGELES, 9 May— In addition to causing financial hardships, job losses can also lead to health problems such as high blood pressure, diabetes, heart disease, heart attack and stroke, a new study has found.

In the study, researchers at the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation analyzed US data on a wide range of occupations: managerial and professional positions; sales, clerical and craft jobs; machine operator jobs; and service positions.

Among white or blue collar workers who lost a job through workplace closure, the likelihood of reporting fair or poor health increased by 54 percent, according to the study published in the 8 May issue of Demography.

The odds of developing a new health condition rose by 83 percent among those who had no preexisting health problems, the study said.

Even when these workers found new jobs, they still had an increased risk of new stress-related health problems, according to the study.

EU to enhance cooperation on energy with Central Asia, Middle East

PRAGUE, 9 May— The European Union and four countries from Central Asia and the Middle East signed a declaration here Friday to cooperate more closely in seeking alternative energy supplies and transportation routes in order to reduce the EU's dependency on Russia.

After meeting with EU officials, Azerbaijan, Egypt, Georgia and Turkey signed a joint declaration on the "Southern Corridor" that involves countries from Central Asia, Southern Caucasus, Mashreq and the Middle East.

The parties are trying to establish direct connections between both sides of the Caspian Sea as a key element of energy cooperation and support linking the Southern Corridor with the EU through strategic infrastructure projects necessary for carrying natural gas by pipelines or ships, the declaration said.

Representatives from Kazakhstan, Turkmenistan and Uzbekistan present at the meeting did not sign the document.

European Commission President Jose Manuel Barroso called the initiative a key priority project for the EU to enhance its energy security by diversifying its energy resources and routes.

Fidel Castro defends Cuba's state-controlled Press

HAVANA, 9 May — Fidel Castro defended Cuba's government-controlled Press on Friday, arguing that news coverage is manipulated by those wealthy enough to finance newsgathering even in countries guaranteeing Press freedom.

In a column posted on a state Web site, the 82-year-old ex-president wrote that "today, only through gigantic investments can you provide centers that produce the news for the whole planet."

"And only those who manage them decide what gets reported and how it gets reported," he said.

In Cuba, all television, radio, newspapers, magazines and publishing houses are state-owned, and severe limits on private ownership and enterprise ban competing with official propaganda.

The Internet is also strictly controlled, and while a small number of Cuban bloggers with illegal Web access express their opinions openly, most do not enjoy as wide followings on the island as legions of official bloggers who repeat the government's line. Some military and government officials are allowed Internet access and Castro has become an official blogger of sorts recently, almost every day posting online a column that is subsequently read on state radio and television and published in official newspapers.—Internet

Chavez slams Obama for Afghan attack

CARACAS, 9 May — Venezuelan President Hugo Chavez on Friday slammed US President Barack Obama for air strikes in Afghanistan that killed scores of civilians, criticism that came weeks after the leaders shook hands in a sign of warming ties.

Afghan officials said 147 civilians died as a result of attacks by US warships on Taleban militants this week. Chavez, a socialist, has welcomed Obama's efforts to improve ties after a decade-long war of words between Caracas and Washington, but he accuses the new US leader of maintaining an "imperialist" foreign policy.

"President Obama, let's see if it's true, take apart the forces of imperialism and end the abuse of innocent peoples of the world," Chavez said during a televised speech. Chavez and Obama met at a summit of Western Hemisphere leaders in Trinidad last month, shaking hands in a highly publicized encounter. The move drew praise for Obama from Latin American leaders but harsh condemnation from US conservatives. Venezuela and the United States have had a tense relationship for years, even though Venezuela accounts for more than 10 percent of US oil imports.

Louisiana has US's highest gun-related death rate

HOUSTON, 9 May — The state of Louisiana has the highest rate of gun-related deaths in the United States, while the island state of Hawaii has the lowest rate, according to the results of a study released on Friday.

In Louisiana, 45.6 percent of households are gun-owners, leading to a gun-related death rate of 19.58 per 100,000, the highest in the nation.

But in Hawaii, only 9.7 percent of households own at least a gun, keeping the gun-related death rate there at 2.58 per 100,000 residents, the lowest among the 50 states.

The study, conducted by the Violence Policy Center, was based on just-released 2006 national data from the US Centres for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC).

Following Louisiana, other four states with the highest per-capita gun death rates were Alabama, Alaska, Mississippi and Nevada.

Each of these states had a per-capita gun death rate far exceeding the national per-capita gun death rate of 10.32 per 100,000 for 2006.—Internet

Car thieves beware: Leopard in boot!

Barakin is offering a reward of 70,000 euros (90,940 dollars) for the return of his exotic pet, an Asian Leopard Cat, worth more to him than the Mercedes SUV.

"I am worried about the leopard. I don't need the Mercedes. If someone returns the animal, I won't press charges," he said.

Barakin, who heads a private television station in Saint Petersburg, said the rare breed of Asian Leopard Cat was a gift from a Moscow businessman he had dealings with. He could

Russia developing anti-satellite weapons

The Russian military are developing anti-satellite weapons, according to deputy defence minister, Vladimir Popovkin.

The general said it was necessary, as other nations, namely the US and China, were doing the same.

"We can't sit and watch others do it. I can only say similar works are done in Russia too," he told the Interfax news agency.

He added Russia needed the capability to shoot down satellites in case "somebody put weapons into space."

Previously Russia had been calling for weapons in space to be banned, as well as weapons that could be used against spacecraft and satellites.

In addition,

State lacked security due to the fact that national races became to engage in armed conflicts against each other following suspicions among them stemming from the divide-and-rule policy of the colonialists.

After assuming State duties, the Tatmadaw government managed to regain national reconsolidation, so peace, Kachin State means that of the nation, and the state will develop only if rural areas develop. So, rural development tasks are to be carried out effectively.

Sharing the border with the People's Republic of China in the northeast and with the Republic of India in the northwest, Kachin State occupies a strategic location in the areas of security, bilateral relations and trade.

Kachin State is rich in natural resources, so it needs development of human resources capable of effectively harnessing the natural resources for regional and national development.

The government is improving the education sector for human resource development. # Nawaday Bridge (Pyay) conducive to all-round development of local people

Then, we turned at the feeder road near the signboard and continued to drive to Mingyi Mountain where Nawaday Bridge is located through the uphill detour road. On arrival at the top of the mountain, we made ourselves refreshed, breathing the fresh air that passed through the river. We noticed the communication tower, TV retransmitting tower and grids that carry cables across the river.

The living standard of the people of a region can be measured according to the education, health and transport sectors of the region. With this concept, the government is now constructing roads and bridges throughout the Ayeyawady River from 1988 onwards. Previously, a person wishing to go to Rakhine State from Pyay had to cross the Ayeyawady River by Z-craft first to reach

Assistant Engineer-1 U Soe Yee.

Ayeyawady Division in lower Myanmar and to Magway and Sagaing divisions and Chin State in upper Myanmar thanks to the bridge. Moreover, marine products of Rakhine and the products of the factories of Ayeyawady Division can be transported to any other region in the nation, and construction materials for ongoing Kyangin-Pakokku Railroad Project can be transported easily.

In an interview, Assistant Engineer-1 (Civil) U Soe Yee of Public Works (Pyay) said that Nawaday Bridge (Pyay) Project was launched in 1994 and completed in 1997; that the 4183 feet long bridge had a 28 feet wide motorway and two five feet wide walkways on it; that the lower structure of the bridge was reinforced concrete type and the upper structure, steel girders; it could withstand 60 tons of loads; that in the past people had to face many difficulties to go by Z-craft to Hsinde on the west bank from Nwa-mayan on the east bank of the Ayeyawady River; that due to the bridge, marine products of Rakhine State such as crabs and prawns can be transported easily; that on average the bridge coped with over 400 vehicles a day; and that the bridge was indispensable for improving the education, health and social standard of local people.

In response to my question, the driver of a motorcycle en route on the bridge from Okshitpin said, "I am Ko Ko Aung from Hsinzu in Migyaungye Ward, Pyay Township. Now, I come from the Shwebontha Pagoda on the other bank of Pyay. In the past, we had to take a motorboat if we wanted to go there. Now it takes me only about two or three minutes to get across the river because I take my motorcycle to pass through the bridge. We can use the bridge at any time, so it is very convenient for us to get across the river."

The driver of the motorcycle bound from Pyay said, "I am Ko Hla Tun Win. I am from Nyaungbintha Village in Padaung Township. It has been a long time since the bridge was constructed, and I use this bridge every day. So, I don't remember much of the conditions in the past. What I remember till now is that in my youth, we had to take a motorboat if we wanted to cross the river. Now, I fetch my kid from the pre-primary school in Pyay. I have a motorcycle, so I use this bridge at any time."

At that time, a thought struck my head that if there was no bridge there, any person on the other side would not have an idea to send his kids to a school on Pyay side. And only with the bridge would they be able to send their kids to a school of their choice. So, such children would have a promising future.

Surely, the bridge will continue to contribute towards all-round development of local people in the long term.

Mexican expert warns of infection risks of used masks

MEXICO CITY, 9 May—The National Autonomous University of Mexico (UNAM) suggested on Friday to treat the masks used in preventing spread of the A/H1N1 flu virus as polluted remains, due to the risk that they could become infecting sources if left at open air.

Benjamin Ruiz Loyola, expert of dangerous remains from the UNAM, said in a communiqué that because people can not know exactly which masks are infected, the protection measure should be to treat all the masks used as polluted remains.

Ruiz said that the masks used should be put inside plastic bags before being disposed of properly. "Although the A/H1N1 flu virus can be destroyed in the open air with sunlight, it is necessary to be cautious when throwing them (the masks) away," he said.

Ruiz stressed the importance of using the masks and warned that the masks should be periodically changed. He also suggested that people adopt extreme hygienic measures in their daily life, from washing hands to keeping the house and the working place clean.

"With the adoption of such measures and by keeping all the places with few people, we can prevent infections," Ruiz said.—Internet

Euro high leaves United keen to finish league mission

LONDON, 9 May—The prospect of a Champions League final meeting with Barcelona has left Manchester United's stars impatient to wrap up a third straight Premier League title as early as possible.

Having demolished Arsenal in midweek to book their ticket to Rome for the European showpiece, the Red Devils entertain crosstown rivals Manchester City on Sunday confident of taking another big step towards retaining the domestic trophy.

By then, Liverpool could have returned to the top of the table with Rafael Benitez's men in action at West Ham on Saturday evening. But even if Liverpool take maximum points from that match and their subsequent two fixtures, United know they will be champions again with seven points from the four matches they have still to play.—Internet

Djokovic cruises through to semis in Serbia Open

BELGRADE, 9 May—Serbia's Novak Djokovic beat compatriot Viktor Troicki 6-3, 6-2 on Friday to cruise through to the semifinals of the Serbia Open in Belgrade. Top-seeded Djokovic defeated fifth seed Troicki in just over an hour and will face fourth-seeded Italian Andreas Seppi in the semifinals.

"The obstacle for me was tough because I had to face my fellow countrymen. I am taking it step by step and I am not thinking about the finals. Seppi is a tough competitor, but I think that the advantage is on my side." said Djokovic.

Brazilian swimmer Felipe Franca breaks world record in 50m breaststroke

RIO DE JANEIRO, 9 May—For the first time at the Maria Lenk Trophy swim meet, a Brazilian swimmer broke a world record. Felipe Franca broke the record in his performance on Friday in the 50 meters breaststroke. Using a new swimsuit, the athlete set the new mark at 26.89 seconds. Franca broke the record set by South African swimmer, Cameron Van Der Burgh, who clocked in at 27.06. Franca has had his eyes set on breaking the record since last year.

"Since last year, I have been thinking about the world record. This may have led me to lose my focus. I think that was the reason behind my poor performance in the Olympics," declared Franca, who placed 22nd in the 100 meters breaststroke in Beijing last year. The 50 meters breaststroke is not disputed in the Olympics.—Internet

Barca forward Henry likely to miss Champions League final due to injury

MADRID, 9 May—Spanish club Barcelona announced on Friday that their striker Thierry Henry will be sidelined for two weeks due to strained right knee ligament, making him doubtful for the Champions League final.

Henry, 31, hurt his knee badly in Barca's historic 6-2 win away to Real Madrid last Saturday, and missed Wednesday's last-gasp 1-1 draw away to Chelsea, which qualified Barca for the Champions League final.

The French striker, who scored two goals against Real and was in good form, will miss the Copa del Rey final and might not play in the Champions League final in Rome against holders Manchester United.—Internet

Safina, Kuznetsova reach final of Italian Open

ROME, 9 May—Russia's world number one Dinara Safina clawed back to beat Venus Williams 6-7(3), 6-3, 6-4 and set up an all-Russian final against Svetlana Kuznetsova at the Italian Open on Friday.

Kuznetsova, eighth ranked in the world, had a far easier semi-final as she stormed past Victoria Azarenka 6-2, 6-4. The Russians' clash on Saturday will be a repeat of last weekend's Porsche Grand Prix final at Stuttgart, where Kuznetsova upset Safina in straight sets to capture her first WTA title in almost two years.

Safina had 32 winners to 38 for Williams. But she also committed fewer unforced errors, and stayed mentally strong to pull off her third successive comeback from a set down this week. The American, by reaching the semifinals in Rome, is still assured of jumping from No. 5 to 3 for her highest ranking in six years.

Teenager kills brother in Guatemala gang shootout

GUATEMALA CITY, 9 May—A teenage member of a violent street gang in Guatemala killed his younger brother for belonging to a rival group, police said on Friday, as the two criminal groups battle for dominance across Central America.

Hector Mazariegos, 18, who belongs to the Mara 18 gang, shot dead his 13-year-old brother Cesar, a member of the rival Mara Salvatrucha, outside the house they shared in a dangerous run-down district of Guatemala City. The younger brother wounded his sibling.

"They had been arguing for a few days when it built up to a fire-fight in the street," police spokesman Marco Trejo told Reuters. Hector Mazariegos was captured a few blocks from the scene. He was treated for bullet wounds in hospital while under police guard. Trejo said both brothers had tattoos showing their allegiance to the rival gangs.

Nawaday Bridge (Pyay) conducive to all-round development of local people

Article: Win Naing (Kyemon); Photos: Khin Maung Win (Kyemon)

It was at over 1.30 pm when we members of the media group of the Kyemon Daily left Nat-hmawtin river water pumping project in Shwedaung Township. It was very hot at that time, but I could not wait to reach our destination: Nawaday Bridge spanning the Ayeyawady River linking Pyay in the western part of Bago Division and Padaung Township on the west bank.

The trip evoked my memories that vehicles had to get across the river by Z-craft from Nwa-mayan jetty to the west bank of the river. At that time, the region had not seen Nawaday Bridge, downstream of Nat-hmawtin river pumping project. However, now it has changed a lot in the region.

Just as we passed Nwa-mayan, we saw the Ayeyawady River on the left and mountain ranges and grooves of young teak trees on the right. Some time after that, we were greeted by the signboard saying "Welcome to Pyay".

West Ham United 0-3 Liverpool

Fernando Torres of Liverpool and Matthew Upson of West Ham United battle for the ball.

LONDON, 9 May—Steven Gerrard struck twice as Liverpool kept their title challenge alive against West

Ham United.

It took the Reds just 76 seconds to go ahead, as fit-again Fernando Torres slid a perfect pass through to Gerrard and he rounded Robert Green before stroking the ball into an empty net.

The crucial second goal came seven minutes before the break, and it was a needless one for the Hammers to concede. Luis Boa Morte hauled down Torres as he raced into the box and conceded a penalty. Gerrard's spot-kick was saved by Green but he followed up to tap home the rebound. Liverpool were in total control after the break, and added a third six minutes from time when Ryan Babel scored from close range.—Internet

Level of cellular stress determines longevity of retinal cells

SCIENCE DAILY, 9 May—Stress can be adaptive. It can make you sharper, help you focus and it can even improve your performance. But too much of it can tax cells to the point where they can no longer cope and slowly self-destruct.

Scientists at Rockefeller University now show that when the protein-making factory of the cell is exposed to moderate stress, neurons in the fruit fly retina and other cells not only resist death but also shore up their defenses against damaging free radicals and ultraviolet radiation.

The finding sheds light on the molecular mechanism by which cells compute their fate, and may point to therapeutic targets that protect against or delay the onset of neurodegeneration.

In their work, Hermann Steller, head of the Strang Laboratory of Apoptosis and Cancer Biology, and César Mendes, a former graduate student in the lab, genetically turned on three known cell death signals in fruit fly retinal cells, each of which directs the cell to undergo a process of controlled suicide.

Compared to normal fruit fly retinas (top), those that lack one copy of NinaA (middle) or both (bottom) increase the expression of proteins (blue).
