Positive scenes of Tachilek, a border town

Article: Sai Thein (Kengtung) Photos: Htay Aung (Kyemon)

On a trip to Tachilek, a border township, I happened to visit urban and rural areas, where agricultural and livestock farming has developed considerably. Tachilek Township in Tachilek District, standing at an altitude of 1285 feet, has favourable conditions to run agricultural farming on a vast scale. In the east of Tachilek is the Lao People's Democratic Republic, and in the south, Thailand.

Occasionally, officials on their inspection tours of Tachilek call for growing vegetables and fruits, paddy and crops extensively; rendering assistance to agricultural farms, and breeding chicken, duck, pig, cow, goat and fish.

Constant supervision and fulfillment of requirements by officials at all levels have led to agricultural development far better than expected in the township, home to various national races.

This season, the township collected 3,444,945 baskets of monsoon paddy from 44,507 acres, accounting for per acre paddy yield of 77.40 baskets. So, the paddy supply exceeds the demand of Tachilek, Tarley and Kenglat townships, whose populations total nearly 100,000. In addition, the township enjoyed a bumper harvest from over 2600 acres of summer paddy.

Under the arrangements of Shan State (East) Peace and Development Council for extensive growing of edible oil and chick pea in 2008-2009, the township distributed seeds of 15 baskets of niger, 20 baskets of sunflower, seven baskets of chick pea and five baskets of lima bean to local farmers. Growing various crops and edible oil crops in all seasons, Tachilek is green all-year round.

Try to increase per acre yield of monsoon paddy

The early monsoon is picking up in this cultivation season. So monsoon paddy is being grown in the farmlands of Myanmar. Ceremonies to complete cultivation of monsoon paddy have taken place in conjunction with paddy transplanting competitions in Yangon and Bago Divisions.

Yangon Division held the ceremony to complete cultivation of monsoon paddy on 29 July as it has nearly met the target of growing 1.2 million acres of monsoon paddy yearly. It will continue to try to increase the per acre yield.

Likewise, Bago Division is trying to cultivate more than 3 million acres of monsoon paddy. It also held the ceremony to conclude the cultivation of monsoon paddy and paddy transplanting contest on 29 July.

Being the biggest paddy growers, these regions have the increased yield of paddy capable of cultivating monsoon paddy yearly in time. They will have to grow more monsoon paddy to exceed the target.

As a paddy strain plays an important part in increasing the per acre yield, it is necessary to choose and grow high-yield quality strains. Moreover, emphasis is to be placed on using correct agricultural methods, a mixture of chemical and natural fertilizers and more advanced farm equipment.

With the good early monsoon, regional bodies have rendered necessary assistance for timely completion of monsoon paddy cultivation and for basic agricultural needs. All the farmers, therefore, are to try to increase the per acre yield of monsoon paddy.

China's military celebrate 82nd anniversary

BEIJING, 1 Aug—China marked the 82nd anniversary of the People's Liberation Army on Saturday with a call to the force once led by revolutionary Mao Zedong to play a lead role in maintaining social stability.

"We are the People's Army under the absolute leadership of the Communist Party," an editorial in the People's Liberation Army Daily said.

"Our military is a pillar of strength for the people's democratic dictatorship and an important force safeguarding social stability." The editorial addressed to the PLA and the People's Armed Police said safeguarding national unity and fighting criminal violence and ethnic and religious separatism would remain a top priority.

"We must solidify our ideology that stability is the priority and that safeguarding overall social stability will forever be the main task," the editorial said.

"We must closely watch the changes in the international situation ... make preparations to timely handle all kinds of sudden incidents, firmly oppose all violent criminal activities, (and) oppose anything that aims to split the nation."

The PLA, established in 1927, ushered in communist rule when Mao declared the birth of the People's Republic of China 60 years ago in October.

Afghan war spreads to residential areas

GENEVA, 1 Aug—The Afghan battlefield is spreading into residential areas where more people are being killed by air strikes, car bombs and suicide attacks, according to a UN report published on Friday.

The UN Assistance Mission to Afghanistan said that 1,013 civilians were killed on the sidelines of the armed conflict from January to the end of June, compared to 818 in the first half of 2008 and 684 in the same period in 2007.

Commenting on the report, UN High Commissioner for Human Rights Navi Pillay said it was critical that steps be taken to shield Afghan communities from fighting. "All parties involved in this conflict should take all measures to protect civilians, and to ensure the independent investigation of all civilian casualties, as well as justice and remedies for the victims," the South African said.

Taliban fighters and their allies were named responsible for 59 percent of bystander deaths, caused mainly by roadside blasts. The Afghan government and international forces were also faulted for errant air strikes that claimed hundreds of lives.—Internet

Euro regulators order Airbus sensors replaced

BRUSSELS, 1 Aug—European air safety regulators told world airlines on Friday they will have to replace hundreds of air speed sensors of the type that may have contributed to the Air France Airbus A330 crash in the Atlantic Ocean in June.

The announcement came after Airbus recommended that airlines flying its planes exchange some of the speed sensors manufactured by Thales Corp for another model.

Investigators have focused on the possibility that the external monitors on the A330, known as pitot tubes, iced over and gave false speed readings to the Air France plane's computers as it ran into a turbulent thunderstorm. Each modern jet airliner carries at least three of the L-shaped metal pitot tubes that jut from the forward fuselage.—Internet

Each partner country will order some Eurofighters, with a total order of 620 aircraft, purchased in three stages until 2017. The project, however, has been delayed because of production delays and budget overruns, with each plane reported to cost about 100 million euros (141 million dollars).

TOKYO, 31 July — Japan's second largest banking group, Mizuho Financial Group Inc, on Friday announced sharp losses for the first fiscal quarter of 2009, while the country's largest banking group, Mitsubishi UFJ Financial Group Inc, announced in the day stark profits for the same period, sending mixed messages of economic recovery.

Indonesia's largest carmaker's net profit downs 12.5% in H1

JAKARTA, 1 Aug — Indonesia's largest car maker firm PT Astra International saw a 12.5 percent drop in its first-half net profit this year, the Jakarta Post reported on Saturday.

Astra's net profit slumped to 4.2 trillion rupiah (some 420 million US dollars) in the first six months this year, from 4.8 trillion rupiah (about 483.8 million US dollars) in the same period a year earlier, on the back of lower car sales and commodity prices, the firm said in a statement.

Mitsubishi UFJ Financial Group Inc's net profits for April - June 2009 climbed 48 percent from those of 2008. This net profit amounts to 75.94 billion yen for the fiscal quarter of 2009, which compares favorably with figures released last year of 51.20 billion for the corresponding months.

Profits for this year are already at 136.33 billion yen, a figure above those of last year by 40.7 percent despite revenues falling by 7.1 percent to 1.34 trillion yen.

At odds with figures released by Mitsubishi UFJ Financial Group Inc are the quarterly losses posted on Friday of 4.49 billion yen by Mizuho Financial Group Inc — the bank's losses were attributed to derivatives trading and credit default swaps.

This comes as a bit of a surprise as last year the company turned a profit of 133 billion yen for the first fiscal quarter. —Internet

Dollar falls as US economic contraction slows

NEW YORK, 1 Aug — The dollar fell against major currencies on Friday after a report showed that US economy contracted less than expected in the second quarter.

The pace of decline in real GDP decelerated substantially in the second quarter to 1.0 percent from 5.5 percent in the first quarter, according to the US Commerce Department. Most analysts have expected a decline of 1.5 percent.

But the report also showed some negative signs that the US economic recession was deeper than previously estimated. The economic growth rate of 2008 was revised down from 1.1 percent to 0.4 percent.

With the exception of federal government spending, all the major components of real GDP were revised downward for 2008. In particular, personal consumption expenditures were revised down to show a drop of 0.2 percent in 2008 instead of an increase of 0.2 percent.

TVA raises coal ash tab to $1.2b, reports 3Q loss

KNOXVILLE, 1 Aug — The Tennessee Valley Authority raised its estimates for cleaning up a massive coal ash spill to $1.2 billion on Friday, and partly blamed its third-quarter loss of $167 million on that cleanup.

Officials also suggested a rate increase could be looming.

The nation's largest public utility said in a filing to the Securities and Exchange Commission that the tab could reach $933 million to $1.2 billion to restore the Kingston, Tenn, community after 5.4 million cubic yards of toxic ash breached a holding pond at a coal-fired power plant on 22 Dec.

No one was injured, but the spill of millions of tons of ash and sludge swept into a river, damaged two-dozen homes, covered 300 acres, raised health concerns throughout the community and brought congressional attention to the lack of regulation of similar sites around the country.

TVA's latest cleanup estimate is at least $200 million higher than previous calculations and still doesn't include potential fines, penalties, or the outcome of seven federal lawsuits filed by residents.

Audi gains more US market share amid economic downturn

NEW YORK, 1 Aug — German luxury automaker Audi AG said on Friday that it has gained a more-than-expected market share in the United States in the first half of 2009 amid the economic downturn.

Audi of America, the American unit of the German carmaker, reported that it has an 8.3-percent market share in the United States through the first six months of this year, compared with 6.5 percent in the same period of 2008. It had earlier predicted its US market share to be 7.7 percent in the first half.

The popular Audi Q5 crossover vehicle and the new Audi Q7 TDI clean diesel model with strong

"We exceeded our target and each month of 2009 has demonstrated the strength of the Audi brand in the face of difficult economic headwinds," Johan de Nysschen, president of Audi of America, told reporters in New York.

Suicides at top US university campus reveal extremely severe competition

LOS ANGELES, 1 Aug — The suicides of three Asian students at California Institute of Technology (Caltech) in Southern California in the past three months have revealed the extremely severe competition at the top ranking US universities and tremendous pressure the students have faced.

Long Phan, a graduate student from Caltech, was found dead in his apartment last week.

Early this month, Caltech senior Jackson Wang, a mechanical engineering major from Hong Kong, was found dead in his dorm.

Last month, Brian Go, a computer science and math major student from Maryland, was found dead in his student dorm.

Wang and Go committed suicide by asphyxiation by helium inhalation. Although Phan's death is still under investigation, it is most probably another suicide case.

The high suicide rate among students has put the university on alert. The university board of trustees held a meeting on Tuesday to discuss the issue and Caltech President Jean-Lou Chameau recommended the formation of a mental health task force in response to the two, and perhaps three, suicides on the campus in the past months.—Internet

In addition, the township grows kitchen crops such as onion, garlic, coffee, tea and pepper along with rubber. So far, Tachilek has set up rubber farms of 7542 acres, Tarley, 286 acres and Kenglat, 1141 acres, numbering 8969 acres.

We also visited a 242-acre integrated farm of U Kya Te in Panmin Village-tract, Kengtung District, where he runs five acres of paddy, 85 acres of orange, 150 acres of rubber, two acres of fish ponds, and one acre of corn, and breeds about 10,000 fish, about 70 cows, 10 milch cows, 60 cows of local species, and 100

Aim of people to build modern nation be realized only through balanced development of various sectors in all parts of the Union

Special Refresher Course No. 68 for Basic Education Teachers concludes

YANGON, 1 Aug—The conclusion ceremony of Special Refresher Course No. 68 for Basic Education Teachers was held at Nawarat Hall of Central Institute of Civil Service (Phaunggyi) in Hlegu Township, Yangon Division this morning.

On behalf of Chairman of Myanmar Education Committee Secretary-1 of the State Peace and tors, heads of departments and trainees.

In his speech, Minister Dr Chan Nyein said that the trainees have been able to know well the importance of the national role they are playing in building a future nation for they have learned about the history from the past to the present and internal and external prevailing conditions.

As good education and technology. At such a time, global nations are trying to maintain their sovereignty and protect their own interests based on their historical experiences and internal prevailing situations.

The Union of Myanmar, home to various national races, is blessed with rich natural resources and high human resources plus rich cultural heritage. Myanmar has existed since continuing to maintain such a good legacy, the new generation youths are to build a peaceful, modern and developed nation as a national duty.

Since its duty assumption of the State, the State Peace and Development Council has been striving for the nation to catch up with other nations by adopting 12 State objectives and upholding Our Three Main National Causes—non-disintegration of the Union, non-disintegration of national solidarity and perpetuation of sovereignty. While the State is trying for the entire people to improve their socio-economy, it is also building education, health and transport infrastructures across the nation with the strength of intellectuals and intelligentsia.

In accord with the motto 'Let's build a modern, developed nation through education', the State is building education foundations the length and breadth of the nation to ensure equal opportunities for rural and urban areas. The aim of the people to build a modern nation can be realized only when there is balanced development of various sectors in all parts of the Union. At a time when the State is striving in all aspects for national education promotion, the teachers on their part are to train national youths of new generations to become well-educated. In this way, the State is working for the development of the states and divisions.

In building peaceful, modern and developed democratic nation and contributing efforts towards perpetual existence of future democratic state, human resources who are learning constantly play a vital role as a major force. It is important to know the point that nurturing and turning out educated human resources in accord with the 30-year long term plan for promotion of national education standard is shaping the future of the nation.

The teachers responsible for national education promotion and other education staff are to always strive to perform their duties both in form and essence.

In striving for national education promotion, conventional teaching methods including teacher-centered approach can delay the national education promotion. Then, he stressed the need to implement the work of basic education sector.

It is necessary to train today's youth not only to be well-educated but also to be equipped with confidence and national conviction and the spirit of serving the interest of the Myanmar society. So the teachers, while learning political, economic and social developments of the State, are to train their students to have nationalistic spirit.

The minister added that the teachers are to follow and implement the guidelines of Head of State Senior General Than Shwe such as improvement of the teaching skills, upgrading of school curriculums and syllabuses to meet the international standards, effective use of teaching aids, respecting of rules and regulations and disciplines and flourishing of patriotism and Union Spirit.

Thanks to the collaborative efforts of the government, the people and the Tatmadaw in accord with the seven-step Road Map, the aim of the people to build a future nation will be realized in not-too-distant future. Later, the minister said all the teachers are to try not only to safeguard the Union of Myanmar, the legacy of national ancestors, but also to ensure the nation to stand tall among the international community. They are to train new generation youths to become qualified human resources with high confidence and conviction. They are to perform national duties of education sector for building a future nation based on Union Spirit.

Later, Minister Dr Chan Nyein presented prizes to outstanding trainees and hostels and certificates to leaders of the trainees.

staff, the teachers themselves need to have confidence and conviction based on correct national outlooks. At the same time, they also need to train their students to become national forces capable of building a future nation with high nationalistic spirit. Looking at present situation, the world is facing such great challenges as natural disasters, global economic crisis and its impact on other nations, power struggles in politics and military and rapidly advancing science and technology. At such a time, global nations are trying to maintain their sovereignty and protect their own interests based on their historical experiences and internal prevailing situations.

The minister continued to say that in the colonialist period, the national brethren struggled for national independence by taking their respective roles and rebuilt Myanmar as a sovereign nation. As the people from different periods have been able to maintain independence and sovereignty as the life-blood of the nation, Myanmar is now standing in the international community as an independent, sovereign nation. Kyaikmaraw in Mon State on right path of development

(from page 16) with an area of 516,048 square miles, its population is about 200,000; that although its residents are various national races, the majority are Mon nationals; that the township is extensively engaged in paddy cultivation, rubber and gardening.

The township has already put 65,000 acres under monsoon paddy against the target of 100,000 acres this year. The township is enjoying self-sufficiency in rice as it grows quality strain paddy that suits the region. Now, arrangements are being made applying a wide range of agricultural methods for the township to boost the per acre yield. It is fair to say that the township enjoys favourable weather as it has an annual rainfall of about 200 inches.

For regional development, the township is now engaged in extensive growing of rubber and edible oil crops.

The education sector of the township is in full swing as all basic education schools are complete with teaching and learning aids. This can be attributable to the contributions of the government and the people. In the health sector, it attaches great importance to public health care services with the extended opening of one rural health care unit and its seven branches and one traditional medicine clinic in addition to the 25-bed township hospital and the 16-bed hospital in Chaunghnakwa Village.

In the past, the majority of local people of 100 villages of 31 village-tracts had to rely on waterways as Ahtaran River flows from south-east to north-west of Kyaikmaraw passing through those regions.

At present, local people can travel from one place to another making the best use of Mawlamyine-Hpa-an Road on which Ahtayan Bridge was constructed. With combined efforts of the government and local people, roads were upgraded. The six-mile Karon-Tarana-Kopaly Road was upgraded into tarred one while the 36-mile Tarana-Chaunghnakwa Road was upgraded into gravel one. Better transport in the region will surely contribute towards the development of border areas. With those facilities, a local can travel to villages east and north of Mawlamyine with peace of mind.

Meanwhile, the communication sector of the township is in its prime since the CDMA phone lines were facilitated right down to villages. Now, arrangements are being made to install 500 auto-telephones in the township.

With prevalence of peace and stability, regional development tasks could be carried out all

China launches dispute with EU over screw imports

GENEVA, 1 Aug—China has launched a formal trade dispute with the European Union over EU anti-dumping measures against imports of Chinese screws and bolts, China's mission to the World Trade Organization said on Friday. The dispute is the first launched by China at the global trade watchdog against the European Union, which Beijing said was one of the most frequent users of anti-dumping measures against China.

China said in a statement it was seeking consultations with the EU under the WTO's trade disputes procedure.

Policy-makers and economists are closely tracking the use of anti-dumping measures—duties imposed on imports that are sold for less than they cost at home—to see if they are being abused for protectionist purposes in the economic crisis. China believes that Brussels failed to comply with WTO rules when it investigated the imports of fasteners and imposed the measures, the statement said. "The determinations made are neither impartial nor transparent, which infringes the legitimate commercial interests of over 1,700 Chinese fastener producers," it said.

China said the EU had carried out over 140 anti-dumping investigations of Chinese imports in the last 30 years.

"The Chinese side opposes consistently any abuse of anti-dumping actions and rising of trade protectionism," said the world's second biggest exporter and third biggest importer.—MNA/Reuters

Ship with six crew sinks off Sweden after storm

STOCKHOLM, 1 Aug—A Norwegian cargo vessel with a crew of six is believed to have sunk in Swedish waters after a severe North Sea storm, Swedish rescue authorities said on Friday.

Birger Knutsson, rescue operation leader at Sweden's Maritime Rescue Coordination Centre, said searchers found life vests, lifeboats and debris but no ship and none of the crew, believed to be Russian.

"We received an emergency signal via satellite, we sent a unit to the location which found debris, life vests and lifeboats," Knutsson told Reuters.

The Norwegian-registered Langeland, carrying stone to the Norwegian city of Moss, sent the signal for help close to the Koster islands on the Swedish North Sea coast near Norway.

The storm also caused a Chinese-owned dry-bulk vessel to run aground in Norway, where it is leaking fuel.

Euro zone jobless at 10-year high, prices drop

BRUSSELS, 1 Aug—Euro zone unemployment rose to a 10-year high of 9.4 percent in June, though the level was less than expected, while July inflation moved much further into negative territory than forecast, data showed on Friday.

The jobless rate in the 16-country euro zone edged up from May's downwardly revised 9.3 percent as 158,000 people lost their jobs, European Union statistics office Eurostat said.

With the preliminary reading of May unemployment at 9.5 percent, economists had expected June's figure to be 9.7 percent. Still, the number was the highest since June 1999.

Eurostat said separately that consumer prices in the euro zone dropped 0.6 percent year-on-year in July, the second month of negative inflation since the creation of the currency area in 1999. In June, inflation was -0.1 percent.

Analysts had expected July inflation to be -0.4 percent as energy and food were more expensive a year ago and the economic crisis has eroded firms' pricing power.

Eurostat gave no monthly figure or a more detailed breakdown, which will be published in mid-August.

The lower-than-expected unemployment coupled with a significant fall in prices could mean more purchasing power for consumers—welcome news for efforts to fight the worst economic crisis since World War II.

Israel asks for US help to build nuclear power plant

JERUSALEM, 1 Aug—Israel wants to build a nuclear power plant without signing the Non-Proliferation Treaty (NPT), which needs assistance from the United States, local news service Ynet reported Friday.

Israel has recently sent the requirement to the US Government for getting its approval, but receiving no response so far, the report said.

A US diplomat said at a UN meeting in May that the Obama Administration expects Israel to join the NPT.

Israel has never formally admitted it has nuclear weapons, although there is a widespread international belief that the country does have such a military capability.

Israel is interested in adopting the "Indian model", which could allow it to build an internationally monitored civilian reactor while avoiding monitoring of Israel's other nuclear capabilities, the report said.

Israel wants to build the nuclear power plant in southern Negev Desert in order to deal with the predicted growing domestic demand for electricity in the coming decade, according to the report.

NV Energy 2Q earns drop 49 percent

CARSON CITY, 1 Aug—NV Energy Inc, the parent firm of Nevada's two main electric utilities, said on Friday earnings for the second quarter fell 49 percent because of higher costs and interest expenses related to power plant investments.

Net income for the three months ended 30 June totalled $18.4 million, or 8 cents per share, compared with $36.1 million, or 15 cents per share, in the same period last year.

The financial statement still exceeded the expectations of Wall Street, where analysts surveyed by Thomson Reuters projected earnings of 4 cents per share for the quarter.

Company officials blamed much of the decline on expenses related to two new generating facilities in southern Nevada. Michael Yackira, NV Energy president and chief executive officer, said in a conference call with analysts that those expenses amount to about 10 cents per share.

"I am pleased with NV Energy's financial results for the second quarter considering ... our earnings were negatively affected by increased operating expenses and other costs related to the acquisition and completion of generating facilities that were not included in rates for the first half of the year," Yackira said. "This has changed as of 1 July."—Internet

A pampered posh pig: nannies,

BEIJING, 1 Aug—Li Yuan never thought a pig could bring so much happiness—a laid-back sort that enjoys music, provides company on neighbourhood strolls and makes friends easily.

Two years ago, Li bought the piglet from a market in Beijing. The male pig, a Bama miniature, had a short and round body.

Such piglets typically weigh 15 or 20 kg, or 33 to 44 pounds.

It was the pig's certain charm that sealed the sale.

"I found him looking like a lovely baby at my first glance," said Li, patting the pig's now-huge belly. "Oh, my boy, you are destined to meet me."

Told that raising a pig when she was in her 50s could bring good fortune, Li cherished the pig so much she named him Laifu (or "fortune comes").

"Indeed, he brings me good business and a peaceful soul," said Li, who is a merchant.

As a jade collector, Li knows that pigs symbolize fortune, and hence why so many Han Dynasty (206 BC - AD 220) royal families were buried with jade pigs in their coffins. "Laifu comes not by accident," Li said, explaining that a fold of skin on his head resembling yuan bao, or ancient money, appeared four months after his arrival, to the delight of Li, who saw it as a good sign.

On Tuesday, Fatah is supposed to open its first convention in 20 years, hoping to clean up its corruption-tainted image and transform itself into a vibrant alternative to the Islamic militants of Hamas.

The international community, including US diplomats, is watching anxiously, since Fatah is the only mainstream Palestinian champion of compromise with Israel.

Yet there are signs that the movement, paralyzed by infighting and generational power struggles, is incapable of reform. And because of a bitter standoff with Hamas, it's not even certain the three-day convention in the West Bank city of Bethlehem will open on schedule.

Britain to outlaw most private organ transplants

LONDON, 1 Aug—The British government said on Friday that it plans to ban private organ transplants from dead donors to allay fears that prospective recipients can buy their way to the front of the line. A government-commissioned report recommended that organs donated within the state-run National Health Service should stay within the public health system, which provides universal care to everyone who lives in Britain. Though transplants are free, there are often long waiting lists. Very few Britons have private transplants, so in practice the new rules will stop overseas patients from coming to Britain and paying privately for a transplant.

The report by Elisabeth Buggins, former head of the Organ Donation Taskforce, was commissioned after a media storm over cases in which foreigners were given transplants from dead Britons.

Several newspapers reported last year that about 50 foreign patients had received livers from British donors at two London hospitals.

The transplants were legal because the NHS has a duty to treat anyone who is physically in Britain. But since the patients were not covered by Britain's health system, they paid a fee to the hospitals and doctors involved.—Internet

Even being born at high altitudes decreased the risk of a heart attack or stroke, researchers from the university's Institute of Social and Preventive Medicine said this week in Circulation, the journal of the American Heart Association.

The study examined death from cardiovascular disease in relation to the altitude of the place of residence in 1990 and at birth for 1.6 million people living in Switzerland.

The risk of dying of a heart attack decreased by 22 percent for every 1,093 yards of increase in altitude, the study's lead author, David Fah, said.

The risk of stroke decreased by 12 percent for every 1,093 yards of increase in altitude, SwissInfo reported on Friday.

The researchers had yet to determine why altitude was beneficial for hearts or pinpoint how long someone would need to stay at a higher altitude before feeling the benefits.—Internet

Chelsea's Terry has point to prove after City flirt

LONDON, 1 Aug—John Terry is not the kind of man to become suffused

by self-doubt, but even Chelsea's cast-iron captain might feel the odd anxious twinge when he leads his team out at Stamford Bridge for this season's curtain-raiser against Hull.

Ordinarily, nobody is guaranteed a more vociferous reception in west London than Terry, the man with blue blood coursing through the veins. But after a close-season when he has engaged in a very public and pointed dalliance with Manchester City, he might wonder if his standing has slipped among the fans who once idolised him.

Terry has maintained that he never countenanced a move to Eastlands and that the delay in issuing a public statement flatly rejecting City's interest was simply down to logistics. Terry's interest in City - and their rumoured 250,000-pounds-a-week salary offer - was an open secret for weeks and his refusal to be press-ganged into a quick denial was significant for two reasons

The world No. 21, highest-ranked player at the hardcourt event, had been scheduled to face Argentina's Leonardo Mayer in the last eight and his withdrawal sent the 22-year-old Mayer to his first ATP semifinals.

De Rossi rules out Arsenal switch

INTERNET

ROME, 1 Aug—AS Roma midfielder Daniele De Rossi on Saturday ruled out a possible move to English Premier League side Arsenal.

The Londoners were rumoured to be interested in signing the 26-year-old but De Rossi claims he has had no contact from the Gunners and has no intention of leaving his home town club.

“Arsenal? I haven’t heard anything. Roma said I’m untransferable and I want to stay here,” he said.

“If they wanted to sell me everything would change but they’ve always shown faith in me.”

De Rossi is looking forward to an improved showing from his team in the Serie A title race this season after they finished a disappointing sixth in 2008-09. That followed three successive seasons as runners-up but Roma looked to have lost ground on the top three in the last campaign.

“We have to do very well because a gap has opened up between us and the top three,” he said.

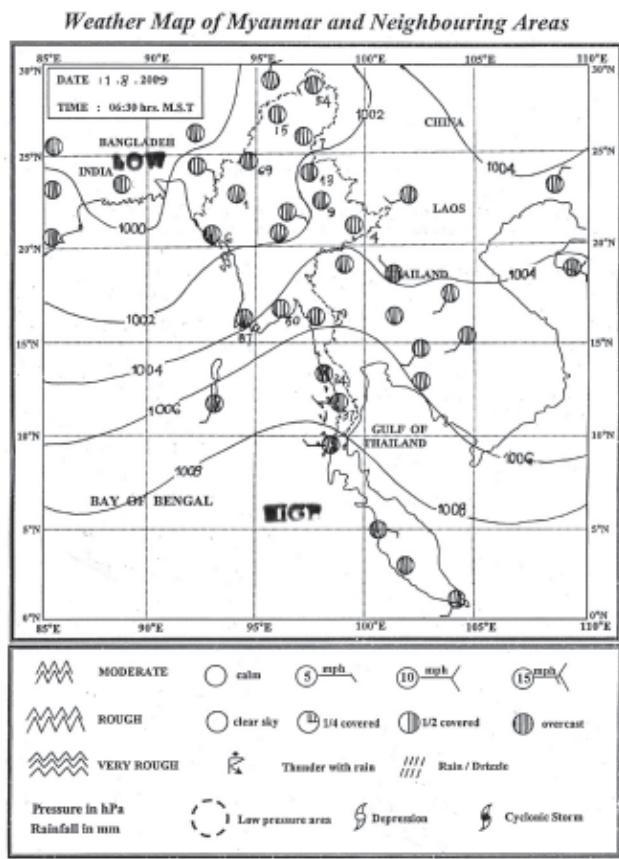

“Right now we’re fighting with Fiorentina, Genoa and Lazio. We have to rediscover a certain mentality and work culture that we lost last year, me more than anyone else.”—Internet
