Grow and export marketable beans and pulses more and more

Myanmar has favourable aquatic, terrestrial and climatic conditions. In addition, there are more than 200 dams and river water-pumping stations all over the nation. The government, on its part, fulfils all the agricultural requirements. Therefore, monsoon paddy, summer paddy, cotton, wheat, corn, sesame, sunflower and various kinds of beans and pulses grow very well.

In producing marketable crops, including paddy, priority will have to be given to crop quality and per-acre yield and efforts must be made to increase the export of agricultural produce, especially beans and pulses in good demand.

Myanmar beans and pulses already have their share in the market. Therefore, it is necessary not only to produce more but also to make sure that they fetch a good price. To be able to export quality beans and pulses more and more, it is required to extend their acreages and use fertilizer and pesticide systematically.

Since the beginning of this year in the regional market, prices of beans and pulses have become higher and trade brisk. Due to the climatic conditions of importers, the demand for beans and pulses has become greater. Black gram, green gram and pigeon peas fetch good price.

When the demand becomes greater, the quantity of stock becomes less. Therefore, it is necessary to grow and produce more beans and pulses. Myanmar beans and pulses have already enjoyed popularity not only in the domestic market but also in the overseas market. As beans and pulses can be exported freely, business has become better.

As Myanmar beans and pulses, including black gram and green gram and pigeon peas, are already marketable in the international market, we would like to call on farmers and entrepreneurs to work harder to be able to grow and export quality beans and pulses more and more.

UNASUR leaders concerned over US-Colombia military agreement

QUITO, 11 Aug—South American leaders on Monday voiced their concerns over an intended Colombia-US agreement to increase US military presence in Colombia.

The leaders of the Union of South American Nations (Unasur) held the third summit here to discuss regional security, climate change and other issues of common concern.

Ecuadorian President Rafael Correa, the newly elected rotating president of the bloc, said the agreement “is an issue that concerns all of us, because it can destabilize the region.”

Venezuelan President Hugo Chavez criticized the possible agreement, saying it “could generate a war in South America.”

Bolivian President Evo Morales requested Unasur to strongly condemn the possible deployment of US soldiers in Colombian bases.

Argentine President Cristina Fernandez said she was concerned with what she called “an untold and unacceptable state of belligerence” in the region triggered by the agreement.—Xinhua

Taleban attack kills three Afghan soldiers, wounds six others in S Afghanistan

KABUL, 11 Aug—Three soldiers with Afghan National Army (ANA) were killed and six others got wounded as Taleban militants attacked police patrol in southern Afghan province of Ghazni on Monday, Defence Ministry said in a statement issued here on Tuesday.

“Three soldiers of ANA with (Corps 203 Tender) were martyred as their routine patrol came under direct fire of rebels in Ajristan district on 10 Aug,” the statement added.

It said that six wounded soldiers, evacuated to hospital, are in stable conditions.

Taleban militants have vowed to speed up their activities as the date for the second Afghan presidential and provincial council elections are drawing closer.

People flee to bush in African conflict

UNITED NATIONS, 11 Aug—More than 25,000 terrified people have fled their homes in the Central African Republic, the world’s second poorest nation, and are living in the bush to try to avoid government forces, armed groups and bandits, a UN official said on Monday.

Deputy humanitarian chief Catherine Bragg, who spent five days in the country in late July, said the humanitarian community estimates that more than 1 million people have been affected directly or indirectly by conflict in the country, most concentrated in the north.

“The population is very traumatized through the past 4 or 5 years of fighting,” she said. “They live in fear. That’s why they’re not returning to their villages.”

Strong earthquakes shake Tokyo area, Indian Ocean

TOKYO, 11 Aug—Two powerful earthquakes struck Asia early on Tuesday, killing one and injuring dozens in coastal Japan and sending panicked residents into the streets as tsunami warnings were issued for countries skirting the Indian Ocean that were devastated by a deadly 2004 quake and tsunami.

The US Geological Survey said the first quake, registering magnitude 7.7, hit the Indian Ocean about 160 miles (257 kilometres) north of Port Blair in India’s Andaman Islands. A tsunami watch was called for India, Myanmar, Indonesia, Thailand and Bangladesh, but was later lifted.

T Ramakrishnan, a police official in Port Blair, said there were no injuries or damage caused by the quake.

“But people ran out of their homes in fear as they remembered the 2004 tsunami,” he said, referring to waves triggered by a magnitude-9.0 earthquake that killed 230,000 people in a dozen countries around the Indian Ocean.

The quake was centered at a depth of 20.6 miles (33 kilometres), the US Geological Survey said. An aftershock measuring 4.8 shook the same area 15 minutes later at a depth of 21.7 miles (35 kilometres), it said.—Internet

Asia advised to develop small and medium businesses

KUALA LUMPUR, 11 Aug—Asia countries were advised to develop their small and medium businesses in order to cut down their reliance on exports.

Laura D'Andrea Tyson, Economic Adviser to the United States President Barack Obama and former President Bill Clinton, said here on Monday that this was crucial to boost domestic spending.

She made this remark on the sideline of the World Capital Markets Symposium themed "The Global Financial Crisis: The Way Ahead" here.

Tyson said Asia countries could explore fields with high multiplier effect to generate growth and employment for the benefits of the people.

She also said emerging markets with high surpluses in Asia could assist those with low surplus in terms of development.

When asked if Asia had become the global growth engine, Tyson said Asia could move off the model that depends heavily on the US.

Asked if the US needed another stimulus package, Tyson said it was too early to comment as the US had very limited ability to forecast the future outlook of its economy.—Xinhua

Japanese economy shows recovery signs

TOKYO, 11 Aug—The Japanese government, noting upturns in exports, production and consumption, maintained its assessment the economy is showing recovery signs.

Vehicle sales down 4.9% in Brazil

RIO DE JANEIRO, 11 Aug—Despite tax cuts granted by the government, vehicle sales in Brazil slipped in July, the National Motor Vehicle Distribution Federation (Fenabreve) said on Monday.

According to the Fenabreve, vehicle sales in Brazil totaled 285,416 units in July, down 4.9 percent from June and down 0.9 percent year-on-year. Sales of flexible-fuel cars and light vehicles totaled 243,406 units, down 6.4 percent from June.

In the first seven months of this year, the Brazilian auto industry produced 1,752,817 vehicles, down 12.9 percent from the same period last year. In July alone, a total of 281,626 units of vehicles were produced, down 0.9 percent from June and down 11.5 percent year-on-year.—Xinhua

Sugar prices soar with rain a factor

NEW YORK, 11 Aug—Unfavourable weather in India and Brazil has sent the price of sugar futures soaring in New York and London, analysts say.

White sugar-futures reached a record $538.50 a ton on London's International Financial Futures and Options Exchange, International Business Times reported.

On New York's IntercontinentalExchange, sugar reached 22.2 cents a pound, The Los Angeles Times said.

The problem is rain: Too much in Brazil and not enough in India, the newspaper said.

As a result, sugar prices have risen 88 percent since 1 Jan. Since Friday, prices jumped 6.7 percent. In the past two weeks, sugar prices have soared more than 20 percent.—Internet

Philippine exports fall 24.7% in June on weak demand

MANILA, 11 Aug—Philippine exports contracted by 24.7 percent to 3.4 billion US dollars in June as demand for electronics remains weak, the National Statistics Office reported on Tuesday.

Export receipts for the first half of the year contracted 32.8 percent to 17.2 billion US dollars as the global recession slackens global demand for electronics and other main Philippine export items.

In June alone, revenues from export of electronic products, the country's top export earner, fell 26 percent on year to 1.948 billion US dollars.

Earnings from other major export products such as cathodes, wiring sets, coconut oil, apparel and clothing accessories also contracted in June.

Receipts generated from major export markets including Japan, the US, China and South Korea fell sharply in June.

The sharpest rate of decline was noted in China, with export revenues falling by 44.2 percent on year to 491.4 million US dollars.

PNG charter plane with 15 people on board missing

CANBERRA, 11 Aug—A charter plane with 15 people heading to the Kokoda Track in Papua New Guinea was missing on Tuesday after failing to return to its destination in Port Moresby, the capital of Papua New Guinea.

Australian Foreign Minister Stephen Smith said Airlines PNG had informed the relevant authorities that the plane had failed to arrive and was considered as missing and a search for the missing plane was underway.

"We are, of course, concerned for all of the passengers and the crew," he told the parliament.

"Given the destination, our fear and concern, of course, is that Australians may have been on board."

The twin engine plane left Port Moresby on Tuesday morning at 9:30 a.m. local time but had failed to return as planned in the afternoon.

The 15 people on board included eight Australians, five local porters and two crew, the Australian Associated Press reported from Port Moresby.

The plane was transporting the Kokoda Track trekkers as part of an Adventure Kokoda tour group.

Mexican army captures nation's biggest drug trafficker

MEXICO CITY, 11 Aug—Mexico's army had arrested the nation's biggest drug trafficker and charged him with murder, officials said on Monday.

The Defence Ministry told Mexican media the suspect, Juan Daniel Carranco Salazar, also known as El Colosio, was the head of drug smuggling gang the Gulf Cartel and their armed group Los Zetas. He was arrested in in the southeastern state of Quintana Roo.

Carranco is charged with murdering the mayor of Rio Bravo, a small town in Mexico's northern state of Tamaulipas and attacking the offices of broadcaster Televisa and the US consulate both in Monterrey, capital of Mexico's northern state of Nuevo Leon.

The Los Zetas was formed in the late 1990s by the Special Airborne Forces Group, an elite Mexican army unit which betrayed the government and joined the traffickers. ### Vietnam to buy 400,000 tons of rice to stabilize domestic price

HANOI, 11 Aug—The Vietnam Food Association's members said they planned to buy 400,000 tons of rice in August to stabilize domestic rice price, local newspaper the Young People reported on Tuesday.

The move is to deal with declining rice price in the country, said Nguyen Tho Tri, Vice Chairman of the association.

The association's members will buy rice with the price of 3,800 Vietnamese dong (21 US cents) a kilogram. This price allows local producers to have profits of at least 30 percent, said Tri.

The move is included in the association's plan to buy two million tons of rice this year to serve export, according to local newspaper the Labour.

According to the association, local companies had contracts to export 5.39 million tons of rice during the first seven months of this year. Of the total, the country has shipped 4.1 million tons.

Carbon monoxide kills dad, toddler

ASTON, 11 Aug—A Pennsylvania woman returned home on Monday to find her husband and 3-year-old daughter in the garage, dead from what police said may have been carbon monoxide.

Police said the deaths appeared to be a tragic accident, WCAU-TV, Philadelphia, reported. The man, 38, apparently got out of the car, fell and hit his head, knocking himself out with the engine running.

The girl was strapped into a car seat, unable to free herself as the deadly gas filled the garage.

The family recently moved to Aston in the Philadelphia suburbs. Police had not released the name of the father, daughter or mother late Monday. Police sources told WCAU the man suffered from a medical condition, possibly diabetes, that could have been responsible for his falling and passing out.—Internet

Investment in Cambodian tourism reaches $354 m in half year

PHNOM PENH, 11 Aug — The investment in Cambodia's tourism reached to about 354 million US dollars in the first six months of this year and is a leading field that got the most investment, the local media said on Tuesday. "Council for Development of Cambodia (CDC) approved about 1.22 billion US dollars investment projects totally from private companies and 354 million US dollars of the total is on tourism investment project," the khmer language newspaper Rasmey Kampuchea quoted the document from CDC as saying.

Agricultural field stands second row after tourism with 323 million US dollars and next field is industry with 303 million US dollars.

In total, Cambodia received 53 investment projects for the first half year and tourism field attracted seven projects, while agri-industry has 12

Ancient ruins proving historic succession uncovered in Lebanon

A British Museum delegation have excavated a large number of valuable ruins in an archaeological site in Sidon, south Lebanon, which date back to the Canaanite period of Sidon, one of the world's oldest continuously inhabited cities, local Daily Star reported on its website. "We uncovered the biggest number of ruins this year and this helped complete the cycle of historic periods discovered in the site," Dr Claude Doumit Serhal, head of the British delegation, was quoted by the paper as saying.

The delegation, consisting of 90 Lebanese and foreign professionals, uncovered this week 13 burial sites, temples and personal items, which "reveals the religious rituals and lifestyle during the Canaanite period (3,500 BC - 1,150 BC)," according to Serhal. "The site, unlike any other in Lebanon, showed the clear succession of historic periods in Sidon," he said.

The ruins included a 48-metre-long temple dating back to 1,800 BC and 1,500 BC, filled with bronze pieces, knives and rings as well as pottery and stone statues used by ancient people to repel evil spirits.

Microchipped dog finds way home — after nine years

A flea-bitten dog rescued from a squalid backyard is to be reunited with her owners 1,000 miles away — nine years after she disappeared. The dog, Muffy, was found sleeping on a tattered piece of cardboard in a backyard in Melbourne with a bad skin condition and matted coat by the RSPCA after an anonymous call.

RSPCA Victoria spokesman Tim Pilgrim said Muffy was found to have been microchipped which did not fit at all with the circumstances so they decided to try to track down the dog's owners whom they found in Brisbane. "It's amazing that the original owners had microchipped her as it wasn't that common nine years ago and it is amazing that she had come 2,000 km from home," Pilgrim told Reuters.

Kyaukse: symbol of development and prosperity

Article: Myint Maung Soe, Photos: Myo Min Thein (Mayangon)

The government is striving for the development of the entire nation adopting political, economic and social objectives. Towns and villages have become developed significantly thanks to strenuous efforts of the government.

Kyaukse town in Kyaukse District of Mandalay Division has become one among towns gaining development momentum. Kyaukse is situated on Yangon-Mandalay motorway. It is 420 miles from Yangon and 32 miles from Mandalay. Singaing Township is situated to the north of Kyaukse and Myittha Township lies to the south of the town. The arrangements of Mandalay Division Peace and Development Council.

On our way to Kyaukse from Mandalay, we saw a fine motorway flanked by rows of Hta-naung plants and green farmlands. After a few minutes, we saw a signboard reading "Welcome to Kyaukse" together with elephant statues, a symbol of Kyaukse.

We saw Kyaukse University between Kyaukse and Singaing Townships. This university is turning out human resources for Kyaukse District.

Entering the downtown of Kyaukse, we noticed scenes of remark-two townships are situated in Kyaukse District. The news team of Myanmar Alin Daily toured Kyaukse during a trip to write bylines about regional developments under the arable progress. All roads in the downtown are tarred ones. We also saw gardens and landscapes created in an attractive way in some areas. It is amazing to see modern buildings, stores and restaurants along Yangon-Mandalay motorway. We saw a bridge built crossing Zawgyi River and new Town Hall and Clock Tower in the town center and pagodas at the top of the mountain. Zawgyi River flows through Kyaukse. Six tributaries of Zawgyi River, three tributary canals of Kindar Dam, six of Titatkon Dam and Punlaung River flows through Kyaukse Township.

Region.

The opening of the university will surely contribute to producing more engineers and technicians. Now, degree holders of the university are working in the environs of Kyaukse.

Beware of political shake men

Maung Deh Doe

Mg Deh Doe: Bagyi Phyo, you are reading the journal with a frown. What made you that angry?

Bagyi Phyo: It is shake men. Our country is facing a lot of problems because of shake men.

Maung Deh Doe: Shake men? What a coined word! I have learned “trick man” and “authoritative man”, but I have never heard of “shake man”. Explain it to me, please.

Bagyi Phyo: Maung Doe, you seem clever, but I’d say you aren’t. A shake man is a man who shakes something for his living. Supposing, you cannot reach plums at the top of a branch, what will you do, then? You shake the plum tree and you can get the plums that fall off to the ground. I name a particular kind of people shake men who shake the nation to arouse public panic for their living, and who earn their living at the expense of the public interest.

Maung Deh Doe: Who do you mean, Grandpa? Who are shaking the nation for their living and how?

Bagyi Phyo: I mean greedy men. As the saying that goes “Wildcats are happy while the forest fire is raging”, while other people are under a variety of worries and anxieties, they take advantage of others’ emotional feelings for their economic gains. When the victims are in need of help after a natural disaster or an epidemic, some donate aid and relief supplies, but some exploit the situations. Myanmar people are by nature generous with humanitarian spirit. That’s why many foreigners recognize that Myanmar people are helpful and hospitable. But how disappointing it is, some are too greedy. I know well and accept man is a greedy animal, but the greed should be at a reasonable degree. I think no one should exploit particular situations while many others are in trouble.

Maung Deh Doe: Well, I’d say, Grandpa, like the business world, the political world is full of very greedy men who you mean shake men. Political shake men are even far greedier than avaricious businessmen. Avaricious businessmen can take the situations in times of natural disaster. They shake the nation on purpose for political gains.

Bagyi Phyo: This time, you should explain it to me. How do they shake the nation for political gains?

Maung Deh Doe: It is like that, Grandpa. In our country, football has been transformed from amateur to professional, but it is much later than professional politics. Politicians have been professionals for long.

Bagyi Phyo: What you have said makes me more confused. I know well football has been a

In the Daw Aung San Suu Kyi’s case that attracts local and international interest, the chairman of the State Peace and Development Council issued a directive to commute the court pronouncing sentence to half and suspended the other half of the sentence to show his consideration in the framework of his authority. And in the suspended period, she is permitted to live with her two companions in her house. In addition, if she abides in accordance with the annexed stipulations in good conduct during the suspended period and not exceeding such period, all suspended sentences shall be pardoned.

profession. National businessmen have founded professional football clubs, but who sponsors professional politics?

Maung Deh Doe: Well, Grandpa, I’d say they are foreign political entrepreneurs. They know well how to disguise themselves, how to trick others into their appearances, and how to hide themselves from others. But they have master plans, they are powerful, and they are financially strong. They have influence over international organizations and world media. They can distort what is going on in the world. They use those advantages in their tactics in their interest. They never hesitate to do everything that they think beneficial to them. They interfere in the internal affairs of other countries, they invade other countries, and they impose economic sanctions against other countries. If necessary for their benefits, they even disregard the United Nations Charter the whole international community relies on.

Bagyi Phyo: For what are they doing so?

Maung Deh Doe: They want to oust the governments of the nations that do not get along with them. They want to install the governments formed with the persons under their influence. So, they meddle in the world affairs and they shake the world. They aid and abet those who can shake their targeted countries. They use such persons as stooges to shake and destabilize their targeted countries for their political gains. They are political shake men. Openly speaking, the expatriates who live on foreign funds; remnant armed insurgents who attack the mother country with the arms foreign countries provide for them, and kill civilians; terrorists who underwent explosives training abroad, and commit terrorist attacks with the explosives and funds foreign countries provide for them to kill civilians in our country; well-paid people from foreign media who disorder internal political affairs; and anti-government groups who destabilize the country and generate mass protests with foreign awards they get through expatriates and foreign embassies, they are all under the control of their foreign masters.

Bagyi Phyo: It is very stupid of them to trouble their mother country for a small amount of dollars. In our country, stability and peace have just returned to normal, and they are exploiting all possible situations to stage protests. That is like shaking a plum tree in young fruit. I wonder if they think young fruits are edible. The only effect is that the plum tree is hurt.

Maung Deh Doe: So, the people who are like the owners of the plum tree want to protect the country against the dangers posed by political shake men.

Bagyi Phyo: In the Daw Aung San Suu Kyi’s case that attracts local and international interest, the chairman of the State Peace and Development Council issued a directive to commute the court pronouncing sentence to half and suspended the other half of the sentence to show his consideration in the framework of his authority. And in the suspended period, she is permitted to live with her two companions in her house. In addition, if she abides in accordance with the annexed stipulations in good conduct during the suspended period and not exceeding such period, all suspended sentences shall be pardoned.

Maung Deh Doe: Then, the political shake men find it difficult to exploit the situations of the case of Daw Aung San Suu Kyi.

Bagyi Phyo: Certainly, she is the daughter of General Aung San who sacrificed his life for the independence of our country. So, viewing that peace, tranquility and stability will prevail, there should be no malice held against each other, and there must be no obstruction in the path to democracy, he showed his great consideration for her. As a matter of fact, that has created good opportunities for the future of our country.

Maung Deh Doe: If the people of us accept the situations and continue the democratic process, there will be many more good opportunities.

Bagyi Phyo: That’s right. I would say it is time anti-government groups stopped doing such acts to shake our country or rock the boat for political gains, and prioritized the public interest.

Primate archaeology sheds light on human origins

SCIENCE DAILY, 10 Aug—A University of Calgary archaeologist who is one of the few researchers in the world studying the material culture of human beings' closest living relatives – the great apes – is joining his colleagues in creating a new discipline devoted to the history of tool use in all primate species in order to better understand human evolution.

Julio Mercader, holder of the Canada Research Chair in Tropical Archaeology in the U of C's Department of Archaeology, is a coauthor of a new paper titled “Primate archaeology” published recently in the journal Nature. Mercader is one of 18 co-authors from universities including Cambridge, Rutgers, Kyoto University and schools in Spain, Italy and France. They argue that recent discoveries of tool use by a wide variety of wild primates and archaeological evidence of chimpanzees using stone tools for thousands of years is forcing experts to re-think the traditional dividing lines between humans and other primate species as well as the belief that tool use is the exclusive domain of the genus Homo.

Russia to upgrade air-space defence: Air Force Commander

Moscow, 11 Aug—Russia will improve its air and space defence systems to counter possible threats from other nations, the country's air force commander said Tuesday.

Other countries, particularly the United States, will acquire new weapons such as hypersonic vehicles by 2030, and therefore will be able to deliver coordinated high-precision strikes from air and space against any target on Russian territory, Col. Gen. Alexander Zelin told a news conference.

Russia needs to upgrade its weapons and systems in order to counter such a potential, Zelin said.

In line with the new concept, air-space defense brigades will be created within the Russian Air Force and will be equipped with advanced S-400 and S-500 air defense systems, he said.

"The S-500 system is being developed under an original design ... and will be capable of destroying hypersonic and ballistic targets," Zelin said.

The commander said plans to develop hypersonic aircraft have not yet progressed beyond the theoretical stage. Russia's fifth-generation fighter plane was expected to perform its first test flight this autumn, he said.—Internet

US airline offers refunds to passengers stuck on tarmac overnight

HOUSTON, 11 Aug—US Continental Airlines on Monday apologized to 47 passengers who were trapped on the tarmac for six hours when a Houston-to-Minneapolis flight was diverted because of bad weather, and offered refunds and vouchers to the passengers.

In a statement issued on Monday, the Houston-based Continental apologized to passengers stuck in a plane at the Rochester airport, Minnesota, and called the situation "completely unacceptable." The company also offered passengers a refund and voucher for later travel.

The plane took off from Houston, Texas about 9:30 Friday night and was scheduled to land at Twin Cities, Minnesota just after midnight. But flight was diverted to Rochester airport because of stormy weather and didn't get in to Twin Cities until 11 am Saturday, local media said.

The flight landed in Rochester about midnight and passengers weren't allowed to leave the plane until 6 am Saturday, according to local media reports.

The airline could not allow passengers to disembark because the airport's security screeners had gone home for the night, said Kristy Nicholas, spokeswoman for Express Jet Airlines, the flight's operator.

However, officials at the airport said that it was Continental's decision to keep passengers on the plane, and this "wasn't an airport issue."

Passengers complained about their "nightmare" in the grounded plane, where they did not get any food throughout the night and the only bathroom was overflowed and smelly. —Internet

Top eight beautiful waterfalls in China

BEIJING, 11 Aug—Jingbohu Waterfall is located at the conjunction of Jingbohu Lake and Mudanjiang River in Heilongjiang Province of northeast China. When the volcano broke out thousands of years ago, the magma solidified and blocked up the water in the upper reaches of Mudanjiang River and then formed the Jingbohu Lake, which has an area of more than 90 kilometres. In summer, the water concentrates at the outlet of Jingbohu Lake and flows down like thousands of white horses galloping and howling.

The waterfall can be three hundred meters wide and has a drop of more than twenty meters in the water high period.

Student cheating can be cured, expert says

TORONTO, 11 Aug—Research has shown how to motivate kids so they are much less likely to cheat, but the findings are often not put into practice, US researchers said. "We know when kids cheat, why kids cheat and how kids cheat," Eric Anderman, an expert on student cheating at Ohio State University, said in a statement.

Anderman told the American Psychological Association meeting in Toronto that cheating among students is widespread and has been growing — studies show up to 80 percent of high-achieving high school students and 75 percent of college students admit to cheating.

'Psychological wealth' may trump money

TORONTO, 11 Aug—Psychological wealth may do more than financial wealth to get people through tough times, two US psychologists suggest.

Ed Diener of the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign and Robert Biswas-Diener of the Centre for Applied Positive Psychology in Milwaukee said people should avoid the trap of over-emphasizing financial matters and consider a complete portfolio of resources.

"Essentially, we have two forms of prosperity: economic and psychological," Diener said in a statement. "I don't know if one is better than the other. But what we've found is that while money may be able to make people lead more comfortable lives, it won't necessarily contribute to life's pleasant moments that come from engaging with people and activities rather than from material goods and luxuries."

The father-son team told the 117th annual convention of the American Psychological Association in Toronto that a Gallup poll that surveyed more than 136,000 people in 132 countries from 2005-2006 indicated those who said they had a great life reported higher income, but that larger salary did not mean they felt happier on a day-to-day basis. —Internet

Meteorite yields clues about Mars' past

This image taken by NASA's Mars Exploration Rover Opportunity shows an unusual, lumpy rock informally named "Wopmay" on the lower slopes of "Endurance Crater." Like "Escher" and other rocks dotting the bottom of Endurance, scientists believe the lumps in Wopmay may be related to cracking and alteration processes, possibly caused by exposure to water.

INTERNET

PASADENA, 11 Aug—The US space agency says its Mars rover Opportunity has found a metallic meteorite that's providing researchers details about the planet's history.

The rock, dubbed "Block Island," is larger than any other meteorite discovered on Mars. Scientists calculate it is too massive to have hit the ground without disintegrating unless Mars had a much thicker atmosphere than the Red Planet now has. "Two weeks ago, Opportunity had driven approximately 600 feet past the rock in a Mars region called Meridiani Planum," NASA said. "An image the rover had taken a few days earlier and stored was then transmitted back to Earth. The image showed the rock is approximately 2 feet in length, half that in height and has a bluish tint that distinguishes it from other rocks in the area." The rover team decided to have Opportunity backtrack for a closer look, eventually touching Block Island with its robotic arm.

"There's no question that it is an iron-nickel meteorite," said Ralf Gellert of the University of Guelph in Ontario, Canada. "We already investigated several spots that showed elemental variations on the surface. This might tell us if and how the metal was altered since it landed on Mars."—Internet

Toshiba finally adopts Blu-ray Disc standard

BEIJING, 11 Aug—Toshiba is planning to launch players and laptops with support for Blu-ray Discs later this year, the company said on Monday.

The company was the primary backer of the HD DVD optical-disc format that had been battling Blu-ray Disc. However in 2008 Toshiba pulled the plug on its HD-DVDs, conceding defeat to the Blu-ray camp led by proponents Sony and Panasonic.

In a brief statement Toshiba said it had applied for membership of the Blu-ray Disc Association (BDA), the standards setting and licensing body behind the format. The company also stated it would be launching products before the end of 2009.—Xinhua

Mothers influence parenting of daughters

COLUMBUS, 11 Aug—Mothers tend to parent as their mothers did but fathers don't seem to use their moms as parental role models, US researchers said.

Ohio State University researchers tracked parents in the 1990s on how often parents spanked, read to and showed affection to their children.

They compared the results to how the parents were treated by their own mothers. Study co-author Jonathan Vespa, a doctoral student in sociology at Ohio State University, said the researchers used data from the National Longitudinal Survey of Youth — men and women ages 14-22 in 1979 were interviewed annually from 1979 to 1994 and every two years from 1996 forward.—Internet

"Water Curtain Cave Site" discovered in Hebei Province

BEIJING, 11 Aug—An important Paleolithic cave site, named "Water Curtain Cave Site", was discovered in the Huhushui Scenic Area in Hebei Province, north China.

This site is located in the steep ridges at the eastern foot of Taihang Mountains. The cave with a small opening is just behind the water curtain of a waterfall. In shape the cave is narrow, but long and winding.

MIYAZAKI, 11 Aug—Japanese scientists say they've discovered a chemical found in blueberry leaves can help block the replication of the hepatitis C virus.

The researchers, led by Hiroaki Kataoka and colleagues at the University of Miyazaki, said the discovery opens a new avenue for treating chronic hepatitis C infections. Currently, there is no vaccine for HCV, and although a combination drug regimen can clear HCV infection, the scientists preliminary investigation proved abundant cultural relics in the "Water Curtain Cave Site," which so far mainly comprise stoneware and animal bones. Scrape marks can still be seen on the bones from the ancient people chopping or scraping meat from them.

A great deal of stone ware was also found in the cave. It is believed that the masters of the "Water Curtain Cave Site" used hammers to make stone said that treatment is only about 60 percent effective and poses risks of severe side effects.

Kataoka and colleagues screened nearly 300 different agricultural products for potential compounds that suppress HCV replication and uncovered a strong candidate in the leaves of rabbit-eye blueberry — a plant native to the southeastern United States.

They purified the compound and identified it as proanthocyanidin — a polyphenol similar to the beneficial chemicals found in grapes and wine.

While proanthocyanidin can be harmful, Kataoka and colleagues noted its effective concentration against HCV was 100 times less than the toxic threshold, and similar chemicals are found in many edible plants, suggesting it should be safe as a dietary supplement.

The scientists said they now will explore the detailed mechanisms of how this chemical stops HCV replication.

Breastfeeding associated with reduced risk of breast cancer among women with family history

WASHINGTON, 11 Aug—Women with a family history of breast cancer appear to have a lower risk of developing the disease before menopause if they have ever breastfed a child, according to a report in the August 10/24 issue of Archives of Internal Medicine.

More women around the world develop breast cancer than any other malignancy, background information in the article showed. Established risk factors include a family history, beginning menstruation at an early age and not having children or having a first child at a late age.

Alison M Stuebe, of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, and her colleagues used information from 60,075 women who had given birth and participated in the Nurses' Health Study between 1997 and 2005.

Each woman completed a detailed questionnaire on demographic characteristics, body measurements and lifestyle factors with follow-up questionnaires every two years. Breastfeeding history was assessed in detail on the 1997 questionnaire and on each subsequent follow-up the women were asked to report whether they had been diagnosed with breast cancer.—Xinhua

Advances in lung cancer research announced

PHOENIX, 11 Aug—US scientists have announced two significant advances in lung cancer research.

Dr Glen Weiss of the Translational Genomics Research Institute made both announcements last week in San Francisco during the 13th World Conference on Lung Cancer.

In one presentation, Weiss described research that eventually might help prevent lung cancer from spreading to the brain.

A team led by Weiss found several microRNAs, which are single-stranded RNA molecules that regulate how genes control cellular development — as well as several high-tech imaging characteristics — all associated with the spread of lung cancer to the brain.

"With additional validation, this work can lead to better techniques to predict, treat and ultimately prevent brain metastasis in patients with non-small cell lung cancer," Weiss said.

In another presentation, he discussed the release by Threshold Pharmaceuticals Inc and the Virginia Piper Cancer Center at Arizona's Scottsdale Healthcare of results of two clinical trials for a drug called TH-302, which is activated in the absence of oxygen, on patients with advanced solid tumors.—Internet

Chelsea's Lampard gearing up for trophy haul

LONDON, 11 Aug—Frank Lampard is gearing himself up for one of the biggest seasons of his career and is determined to win major silverware for both club and country.

Lampard believes Chelsea can mount a serious challenge for the title again and still dreams of helping his side win the Champions League for the first time in the club's history.

Chelsea signalled their intentions by beating Manchester United in the Community Shield at Wembley on Sunday and have been able to keep their big name players at the club.

With former AC Milan coach Carlo Ancelotti taking over the managerial helm at Stamford Bridge, the Chelsea midfielder feels his side will not stand a better chance of challenging the big boys once again.

Moyes worried by lack of signings

LIVERPOOL, 11 Aug—Everton manager David Moyes admitted Monday he was worried by the club's failure to bolster their squad ahead of the new season.

Moyes knows he is in a race against time to bring in new players ahead of the club's Europa League play-off tie against Czech side Sigma Olomouc later this month

"We are not ready as far as the squad goes, we want more players in," said Moyes, who has rejected bids for Joleon Lescott and Louis Saha.

"We let a few go in the summer—Andy van der Meyde, Lars Jacobson, Nuno Valente—and we have not replaced any of those players yet.

Flu-hit Ronaldo in doubt for Portugal friendly

MADRID, 11 Aug—Cristiano Ronaldo has returned from Real Madrid's pre-season tour of North America with the flu and is in doubt for Portugal's friendly on Wednesday against Liechtenstein, the Spanish side said on Monday.

The 24-year-old striker will join up with his national side "if the flu which he is suffering from allows it", Real Madrid said in a statement posted on their website.

Portugal coach Carlos Queiroz named Ronaldo, who joined Real from Manchester United in June for a record 94 million euros, last Thursday in his 18-man squad for the friendly international in Vaduz, Liechtenstein.

City admit Bellamy mistake

MANCHESTER, 11 Aug—Manchester City admitted Monday to failing to notify the Welsh Football Association of striker Craig Bellamy's absence for the friendly against Montenegro on Wednesday.

Wales' officials were left bemused when Bellamy failed to turn up for national duty after City forgot to tell them he was injured.

In a statement, City said: "Craig Bellamy is continuing his fitness and rehabilitation work following a knee injury.

Fergie frets over Nani, Foster after Wembley defeat

LONDON, 11 Aug—Alex Ferguson faces an anxious wait to discover if Manchester United's Premier League title defence suffered an early blow during his side's Community Shield penalty shootout defeat to Chelsea.

Ferguson had plenty to occupy his mind on the journey back to Manchester on Sunday as he contemplated an injury to Portugal winger Nani that could wreck his plans for life after Cristiano Ronaldo and Carlos Tevez.

Nani had made a significant contribution to United's first half dominance at Wembley and it was perhaps no coincidence that his departure early in the second half with a dislocated shoulder was the prelude for Chelsea's best period of the game.—INTERNET

Clijsters makes triumphant return to tennis

CINCINNATI, 11 Aug—Former world number one Kim Clijsters made a triumphant return to tennis, defeating France's Marion Bartoli in straight sets in her first match in more than two years.

Clijsters, who retired in May of 2007 and gave birth to a daughter in February of 2008, defeated 12th-seeded Bartoli 6-4, 6-3.

"I'm really excited playing my first match," said Clijsters, 26, who received a wild card into the draw of the tournament which has been bumped up to WTA premier status.

"I've been training since the start of February, and I've always been focused on Cincinnati. Win-

Woods to be fined for criticism of rules official

CHASKA, 11 Aug—Tiger Woods will be fined by the PGA Tour for his public criticism of a rules official after winning the Bridgestone Invitational, a tour official said on Monday.

The official spoke on condition of anonymity because the tour does not publicize fines.

Woods was bothered after his four-shot victory Sunday because he and Padraig Harrington were put on the clock at the par-5 16th. He said that caused Harrington to rush three difficult shots, leading to triple bogey.

European Tour chief referee John Paramor told Woods and Harrington they were being timed.

Woods said he told Harrington after it was over, "I'm sorry that John got in the way of a great battle."

Paramor said the final pairing was well behind most of the back nine, but officials gave them time to catch up. They were still 17 minutes out of position on the 16th tee, when they were put on the clock.—INTERNET

Portsmouth rule out Kidd return

PORTSMOUTH, 11 Aug—Portsmouth manager Paul Hart on Monday ruled out the return of experienced assistant coach Brian Kidd for the upcoming Premier League season.

Kidd worked alongside Hart from February last season and helped keep Pompey in the top flight.

But Hart told BBC Radio: "He did a great job for me after turning down a number of other jobs. But he's a family man and Manchester is a long way."

Kidd spent the bulk of his coaching career with Manchester United, working under Sir Alex Ferguson after moving to Old Trafford from Preston in 1991.

After a short time in charge at Blackburn, he later became an assistant to Sven-Goran Eriksson in the England set-up before a spell at Sheffield United.

Hart said that no replacement has yet been lined up.

Venlo's Honda says Liverpool interested in him

Japan's midfielder Keisuke Honda (top) battles for the ball with Chile's defender Ismael Fuentes during the Kirin Cup tournament in Osaka, May 2009. Honda said that Liverpool was interested in him.—INTERNET

TOKYO, 11 Aug—Venlo and Japan midfielder Keisuke Honda said Tuesday that Liverpool was interested in him.

"I was told before the match that a scout from Liverpool had come," Honda said on his website, two days after scoring twice in promoted Venlo's 2-2 draw with ADO Den Haag at home in the Dutch first division.

The 23-year-old Japanese, who won the MVP award in the second division last season, has already scored three goals in the first two games of the new season.

Japanese media have carried Dutch and English press reports quoting Venlo chairman Hai Berden as saying that several top European clubs have expressed an interest in signing Honda.

"A number of top clubs are interested in Honda. Some of them are participating in the Champions League this year," Berden said, adding two of England's top five clubs were among them.

Honda has scored 21 goals in 52 games for Venlo since joining the club in January last year after four seasons with J-League Nagoya Grampus.
