Preservation and safeguarding of cultural heritage and national character

A meeting between the Leading Committee for Holding the 17th Myanmar Traditional Cultural Performing Arts Competitions and representatives from the states and divisions took place at the meeting hall of the Ministry of Culture in Nay Pyi Taw on 10 August.

At present, contestants from the states and divisions who will take part in the Myanmar Traditional Cultural Performing Arts Competitions are in the process of preparing for the competitions.

The contestants from the states and divisions are to take part in the Myanmar Traditional Cultural Performing Arts Competitions in line with the objectives of the competitions laid down by the State.

The number of constants from the states and divisions in the competitions held annually has been increased year by year. As a result, they have been able to present their performing arts to other countries and their presentation received high acclaim.

As it is impossible to impose limitations on the area of performing arts in order that alien culture that is not in conformity with Myanmar people cannot be imported, efforts are to be made to enable the people to resist it with national culture.

If alien culture penetrates into the nation it will undermine the national prestige and integrity, thereby resulting in moral degeneration. And even own races and identity can be in danger of extinction. Thus, it is incumbent upon the entire national people to safeguard their culture and traditions.

Therefore, all the contestants are urged to actively take part in the 17th Myanmar Traditional Cultural Performing Arts Competitions with strong belief and conviction in accordance with one of the four social objectives—uplift of national prestige and integrity and preservation and safeguarding of cultural heritage and national character.

Car bombs hit Baghdad, eight killed, 30 wounded

BAGHDAD, 12 Aug—Two car bombs stroke Baghdad on Tuesday night, killing at least 8 people and wounding 30 others, police source said.

Local police source, on condition of anonymity, told Xinhua that the first blast occurred near Al-Muhesen Shiite mosque in the district of Al-Amin, southeast of Baghdad; the second happened near a coffee shop, also in the district of Al-Amin.

The two explosions came “almost at the same time,” and the blasts also affected surrounding shops and buildings, the source added.

According to the source, at least 8 people were killed and 30 others wounded, but the specific casualty number of each incident has not been given yet.

Sporadic attacks have continued in Baghdad and other Iraqi cities and towns after U.S. combat forces’ pullout despite low level of violence compared with the previous years.

Fidel Castro, turning 83, still a force in Cuba

HAVANA, 12 Aug— Fidel Castro is not the presence he once was in Cuba after three years out of public view but as he turns 83 on Thursday he still has clout and is working to ensure the island stays communist long after he is gone.

Although younger brother Raul Castro, who is 78, replaced him as president last year, Fidel Castro continues to be a powerful international voice for Cuba, through the regular commentary columns he writes for state-run media.

His internal role in Cuba's government is less clear but it is generally assumed that while his brother runs the show from day to day, he does it in consultation with Fidel Castro.

"It's still, I think, a partnership but Raul is now the senior partner," said Brian Latell of the University of Miami's Institute for Cuban and Cuban-American Studies. "Fidel is not able to be involved in the day-to-day stuff anymore."

Fidel Castro led the revolution that toppled dictator Fulgencio Batista on 1 January, 1959, and ran the country for 49 years before he underwent emergency surgery for an undisclosed intestinal ailment in July 2006.

GENEVA, 12 Aug—The A/H1N1 influenza has caused a total of 1,462 deaths worldwide since it was first detected in April, the World Health Organization (WHO) said on Tuesday.

OPEC's forecast for the global crude oil demand remains unchanged

VIENNA, 12 Aug—OPEC on Tuesday left its global oil demand forecast unchanged for this year, projecting a fall of 1.65 million barrels a day compared to last year.

World oil demand, the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) said in its monthly report, is expected to show an increase of 500,000 barrels a day in 2010.

According to the report, it was expected that the average global crude oil demand this year would be 83.91 million barrels a day (mb/d), and it would continue to rise to 84.41 mb/d next year, which was respectively 0.07mb/d more than the forecast made last month.

The report also pointed out that world demand for OPEC crude oil fell by 2.3 mb/d, amounting to 28.4 mb/d. It would be further reduced by 0.5 mb/d, and reaching 28 mb/d next year. This decline exceeded the previous estimate of OPEC, the cartel that controls a third of the world's oil production. In accordance with OPEC's estimate, demand from the countries of the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD) would continue to decrease in 2010.

In the international crude oil market, only in the Middle East, China and Latin America would demand keep rising this year, OPEC said.

The report also said that due to uncertainties that persist concerning a recovery from the global recession, as well as ample stocks of crude, the international oil market remains still fundamentally weak. —Xinhua

As if seeing son shouldering a pot of gold

Yokel

After watching the special afternoon news programme of MRTV-4 on 11 August, Yokel called on Bagyi Hmon with a big smile. Bagyi Hmon watching an MRTV programme looked back over his shoulder with a broad smile, saying, "You look as if you have just picked up a package of gold by chance."

Yokel said, "Yes, I do, but it'd be exactly what it is if you said, "You look as if you see your son shouldering a pot of gold" which is an expression of Suvannasama Drama." We were in fear wondering what the court's sentence to Daw Aung San Suu Kyi would be like on 11 August. There were so many news stories saying protests would be staged if Daw Suu Kyi faced a prison term. I could breathe a sigh of relief only when I learnt the court sentence. Now, everything is okay as in the finale of Suvannasama Drama: Suvannasama survived the poisoned arrow shot and his parents regained their eyesight." Saying so, Yokel hurled himself onto the chair.

Bagyi Hmon said, "I felt the same as you did. Since the case was stated in news programmes, the people have been wondering what sentence the court would pronounce. At that time, the term of restrictions on Daw Aung San Suu Kyi was nearly over, and the 2010 election that will lead to different policy in Myanmar is drawing near. A US citizen illegally entered the compound of Daw Suu Kyi's house. That brought about misfortune to her and somewhat harmed our country's democratic programmes. Even ordinary people of us felt unhappy, so surely, State leaders had to be very sorry for the case. They are under the duty to handle the case fairly and correctly in accordance with the law as the saying "No man is above the law". Another point to be taken into consideration is that she is the daughter of our country's founding father General Aung San who sacrificed his life for independence. However, according to the nature and development of the case, she received the man who had violated the law, and she failed to inform those concerned his illegal visit. So, we can guess at what degree State leaders are sorry for the case.

The entire people are indeed a family in which they related to each other. If a clash between two family members is handled with loving-kindness based on family spirit, the family problem can be settled easily, as our forefathers said, do not let family problem spread outside the house. If internal problems spread outside the nation due to grudge, the colonialists are happy with it. And those who will suffer the evil consequences are no one, but the people of us.

Yokel said, "However, some foreign countries were spreading news that the government created the case in collusion with Mr Yettaw because it did not want to lift the restrictions on Daw Suu Kyi, and they put pressure on the government to release her, that is beyond the jurisdiction of a country. To make matters worse, as the saying "Wildcats are happy while the forest fire is raging", terrorists under various names who rely on remnant insurgents in border areas planned to provoke mass protests. And local anti-government groups were echoing their voices."

"In fact, it is natural that both sides did not understand much, and harboured grudge against, instead of showing loving-kindness for each other. The conflict was growing and taking long unnecessarily. The entire people are indeed a family in which they related to each other. If a clash between two family members is handled with loving-kindness based on family spirit, the family problem can be settled easily, as our forefathers said, do not let family problem spread outside the house. If internal problems spread outside the nation due to grudge, the colonialists are happy with it. And those who will suffer the evil consequences are no one, but the people of us," said Bagyi Hmon with all seriousness.

Yokel remarked, "That is why the Head of State issued a directive that Daw Aung San Suu Kyi, being the daughter of Bogyoke Aung San who sacrificed his life for the independence of Myanmar, viewing that peace, tranquility and stability will prevail, that no malice be held against each other, that there be no obstruction in the path to democracy, the Chairman of the State Peace and Development Council desires within the ambits of his rights and powers to exercise leniency upon her, and whatsoever sentence be pronounced, it is amended under Criminal Procedure Code Section 401, Sub-Section (5) that half of the sentence to be served is remitted and remainder of the sentence is to be suspended. During the period of suspended sentence, in paragraph 4, Daw Aung San Suu Kyi shall reside in her residence on University Avenue in accordance with the annexed stipulations. It is informed that should Daw Aung San Suu Kyi abide in accordance with the stipulations in good conduct during the suspended period and not exceeding such period, the suspended sentence shall be pardoned. Personally, I think the directive is designed to ensure convenience of both sides without harming the law, as a token of his consideration."

Bagyi Hmon said, "The directive not only respects the State's jurisdiction but also relieves the concerns of international community and regional countries that favour the interest of Myanmar. In addition, our country could avert harms to community peace and State stability and disruptions to the democratic process that can take place due to possible instability."

Yokel expressed his view, "The people of us thank the visionary Head of State for the directive he issued with good-will and loving-kindness, because due to the directive we can continue to lead a peaceful life and do our businesses, and the democratic process will go on smoothly. We want to see political forces and national brethren all working together to build a new nation, showing loving-kindness for each other with forgive and forget stance.

96 cases, mostly U.S. soldiers diagnosed with A/H1N1 flu in Iraq

BAGHDAD, 12 Aug—The Iraqi Ministry of Health announced Wednesday it registered 96 cases of A/H1N1 virus, including 67 cases among the U.S. soldiers in the country.

“So far, the total number of A/H1N1 flu cases registered in the country climbed to 96, with only one case of death that registered for a teenage girl in the city of Najaf several days ago,” Mohammed Jubier, deputy head of the public health department in the Iraqi Ministry of Health, told Xinhua.

Jubier confirmed that most of the cases in the country were detected among the U.S. soldiers with 67 cases, while 29 cases are Iraqis, including 11 in Baghdad alone.

He said that all the patients are receiving medical treatment and in stable condition.

On 9 Aug, spokesman of the Health Ministry put the total number of A/H1N1 flu cases registered in the country at 67, including 39 among American soldiers.

Earlier this week, the ministry confirmed the first A/H1N1 flu death of 21-year-old woman in the city of Najaf, some 160 km south of Baghdad.

A/H1N1 influenza is a highly contagious acute respiratory disease with symptoms generally including upper respiratory problems, but the air-borne illness can cause severe pneumonia and even death.

In light of its rapid spread worldwide, the World Health Organization in June raised the A/H1N1 alert to its highest level, formally declaring it had developed into a global pandemic.

Japanese wholesale prices post record fall

Tokyo, 12 Aug—Japan's wholesale prices fell at the fastest pace on record last month, data showed Wednesday, fanning concern that deflation could overshadow a recovery in the world's second largest economy.

The prices of goods traded between companies dropped by 8.5 percent in July from a year earlier, the central bank said. It was the seventh straight month of year-on-year declines, and followed a revised drop of 6.7 percent in June.

The drop, the sharpest since comparable data became available in 1960, was mainly caused by declines in energy costs, which had surged a year earlier as crude oil prices hit record highs.

The slump also reflected weak domestic demand, with 48.2 percent of the items in the wholesale price index showing year-on-year falls in July, up from 44.4 percent the previous month, a central bank official said. Hopes are growing that the economy is crawling out of its recession as a slump in exports and factory output eases, but there is concern that rising unemployment and deflation may hinder a recovery.

Three killed in Iran helicopter crash

TEHERAN, 12 Aug—Three people were killed and three others were injured in a Bell 205 police helicopter crash in southern Iran, local satellite Press TV reported on Tuesday.

The helicopter was returning from an operation when it crashed in a mountainous region near the city of Kerman on Monday afternoon, the report said.

A technical problem is supposed to be the cause of crash, according to an official in the Governor General office of Kerman Province.

Iran has seen several plane accidents in the past one month.

Earlier this month, a Boeing 707 passenger plane belonging to Iran's army airlines Saha made an emergency landing at Ahvaz airport due to technical failure, but nothing happened to the 176 passengers on board.

Volt electric car may earn 230 mpg rating

DETROIT, 12 Aug—The Chevrolet Volt electric car may earn a fuel-efficiency rating of 230 miles per gallon for city driving, US automaker General Motors Co said on Tuesday.

GM has been working with the Environmental Protection Agency for several years on how to rate the mileage of the Volt, which runs on electricity, but includes a gas-powered engine that generates extra electricity for trips longer than 40 miles, CNNMoney.com reported.

Essentially, the Volt will drive the first 40 miles on an electric charge alone. After that, the gas-powered motor kicks in.

Longer trips would change the equation. A 300-mile trip would reduce fuel efficiency to 62.5 miles per gallon.

Nevertheless, GM Chief Executive Officer Fritz Henderson called the Volt a potential "game-changer for us."

GM is currently producing 10 Volts a month, but plans to have the car reach showrooms in late 2010.

Venezuela considers suspending Colombian gas import

CARACAS, 12 Aug—The Venezuelan government is considering halting the import of Colombian gas on account of the recent political impasse between the two neighbouring countries, local media quoted a Venezuelan minister as saying on Tuesday.

Venezuelan Energy and Oil Minister Rafael Ramirez said "we can have a balance in gas production and we can stop buying gas from Colombia without any problem," according to local daily "El Nacional."

The two countries launched an oil pipeline in October, 2007, to transport 250 million cubic feet of gas daily from Colombia to Venezuela.

According to a contract, the transfer would last until 2011, when Venezuela begins gas supplies to Colombia.

Ramirez, who is also president of state-owned Petroleos de Venezuela, said, "That is a contract between both countries. It will depend on how the ties are developed. Venezuelan President Hugo Chavez announced the freezing of the country's diplomatic ties with Colombia on 28 July, after Colombia intended to allow US military presence in Colombian bases, and accused Venezuela of aiding Colombian rebels.—Xinhua

Aspirin lowers colon cancer death risk

BEIJING, 12 Aug — Colon cancer patients who take aspirin can lower their risk of dying from the disease, a new study suggests in media reports on Tuesday.

It has long been known that people who take aspirin regularly are less likely to develop colon cancer. But the study has found that even after a diagnosis of colorectal cancer, patients who took aspirin had nearly 30 percent more chance of surviving than non-users.

Dr Andrew Chan, a gastroenterologist at Massachusetts General Hospital and an assistant professor of medicine at Harvard Medical School in Boston, and colleagues studied aspirin use in 1,279 men and women with colorectal cancer that had not spread to other parts of the body.

In a separate analysis of subgroups of patients, the researchers found that among the 549 participants who used aspirin regularly after their diagnosis, 81, about 15 percent, died from colon cancer. In contrast, among the 730 people who didn't use aspirin, 141 died of the disease — the death rate was about 19 percent.

Taking into account other cancer risk factors, such as family history, aspirin has an overall benefit of 29 percent reduction in risk of death, according to the study.

Double defect prevents movement disorder

MANHASSET, 12 Aug—US scientists have found a second brain lesion prevents dystonia in people who already have a lesion due to a genetic mutation for the movement disorder.

Researchers at the Feinstein Institute for Medical Research, Weill Cornell Medical College and the Beth Israel Medical Center used a type of magnetic resonance imaging to study the integrity of nerve pathways in the brains of 20 people with dystonia—a disorder characterized by sustained involuntary muscle contractions.

Although all 20 patients had inherited a genetic mutation for the disorder, only 12 showed symptoms of the disease.

Along a pathway linking the brain's cerebellum to its motor cortex, the researchers found two sites that jointly determine whether a person with the mutation will show symptoms of the disorder. Those with a single lesion in that pathway developed the involuntary and debilitating movements characteristic of dystonia. Those with a second lesion did not.

Beet root juice increases stamina

EXETER, 12 Aug—British researchers found drinking beetroot juice made it possible to exercise up to 14 percent longer.

Their study, published in the Journal of Applied Physiology, suggested the nitrate in the juice may turn into nitric oxide in the body and reduce the oxygen cost of exercise.

Researchers at the University of Exeter and Peninsula Medical School in England gave eight men—ages 19-38—about 16 ounces of organic beetroot juice for six consecutive days before they completed a series of exercise bike tests. After drinking the juice, the men were able to cycle an average of 92 seconds longer than when given a placebo of black-currant cordial under the same circumstances. Drinking beetroot juice was also associated with lower resting blood pressure.

“We were amazed by the effects of beetroot juice on oxygen uptake because these effects cannot be achieved by any other known means, including training,” corresponding author Andy Jones of Exeter said in a statement.

Cheerful women have less cardiovascular disease

LOS ANGELES, 12 Aug—Less cardiovascular disease and fewer deaths are reported among women who are optimistic, a new study suggests.

In the study, researchers at the University of Pittsburgh measured optimism by a questionnaire on whether a woman agreed with such statements as “In unclear times, I usually expect the best.”

The questions measuring cynicism asked about agreement with such statements as “It is safer to trust no one” and “I have often had to take orders from people who did not know as much as I did.” The study found that women who take a darker view of life are more likely to develop heart trouble than those with a cheerful and trusting outlook.

The study, published in the August issue of Circulation, tracked more than 97,000 postmenopausal American women for more than eight years.

Women within the highest 25 percent of optimism scores had a 9 percent lower chance of developing heart disease and a 14 percent lower chance of dying of any cause, said the study.—Xinhua

Vietnam's A/H1N1 flu cases rise to over 1,200

HANOI, 12 Aug—Vietnam confirmed 33 more cases of A/H1N1 influenza, raising the total number of flu patients in the country to 1,211, said a report of the website of Vietnam's Ministry of Health on Wednesday.

Among the newly-reported cases, one patient was a seller of a supermarket in the central Gia Lai province of Vietnam. This is the first supermarket in the country reported A/H1N1 flu case, according to local newspaper Liberty Saigon on Wednesday.

Positive expectations may speed recovery

EDMONTON, 12 Aug—Canadian and Swedish researchers say whiplash recovery was not related to injury severity and patients with positive expectations had shortened recovery times.

Linda Carroll and Dejan Ozegovic of the University of Alberta in Edmonton looked at a cohort of more than 6,000 Canadian adults with traffic-related whiplash injuries. Carroll found those with positive outlook toward their recovery recovered three times faster than those with less positive expectations.

Dejan Ozegovic looked at predictions around returning to work and found those with positive return-to-work assumptions felt they had “recovered” 42 percent faster than those who had more negative expectations.

Lena Holm, a researcher from Sweden who had worked at the University of Alberta, found study participants in Sweden who had low expectations of complete recovery were four times more likely to still feel symptoms six months after an injury.—Internet

Brazil to produce A/H1N1 flu vaccine in October

RIO DE JANEIRO, 12 Aug—Brazil will start producing A/H1N1 flu vaccine in October, the head of Brazil's Butantan Institute said on Tuesday.

The country will initially produce 30 million doses of the flu vaccine. The virus samples to be used in the vaccine's production, which were sent by the World Health Organization (WHO), arrived in Sao Paulo on Tuesday, said Isaias Raw, president of the institute. Raw said the Butantan Institute was not capable of producing enough vaccine to immunize the entire Brazilian population. He estimated the vaccination campaign would start in January 2010 and health professionals and children would be the first to be vaccinated.

“Our goal here is public health, not profit. Prevention is cheaper than treatment,” said Raw.—Xinhua

Gerrard out of Dutch game, Young deputises

Liverpool captain Steven Gerrard

AMSTERDAM, 12 Aug—Liverpool captain Steven Gerrard has pulled out of the England squad for Wednesday's friendly against the Netherlands in Amsterdam because of a groin strain with Aston Villa's Ashley Young called on to deputise.

Midfield dynamo Gerrard trained on Monday but felt a slight soreness in the leg and it was decided to pull him out of the squad as a precaution.

The remainder of Fabio Capello's squad made the trip to the Netherlands and headed off the Amsterdam Arena for a training session.

Goalkeeper Ben Foster has already been replaced by Joe Hart after hurting his knee in Manchester United's Community Shield defeat to Chelsea on Sunday.

Young, who has won five caps, failed to shine brightly for England last November against Germany but then featured in a thrashing of Andorra.—Internet

Murray eases back in Montreal

MONTREAL, 12 Aug—Andy Murray's summer hardcourt season began at the Montreal Masters on Tuesday with a satisfying 6-4, 6-2 win over Frenchman Jeremy Chardy, as the Scot took his first step towards a possible move to the world number two ranking.

Third-ranked Murray had a few niggles to iron out but was not at all dissatisfied with his showing in just over 90 minutes against the number 36 winner of last month's Stuttgart clay title.

"I shanked a few returns," admitted Murray, who trained for more than a week to prepare for the start of his post-Wimbledon season in North America.

"I'm hoping that will get better with a few matches. Overall, I'm pleased with the state of my game right now."

Hull sign US teenager Altidore on loan

HULL, 12 Aug—Jozy Altidore, the teenage striker who played a major part in the United States' successful Confederations Cup campaign, is joining Hull on a one-year loan deal from Villarreal.

The deal was clinched Tuesday after Hull succeeded in gaining a work permit for the 19-year-old who produced the opener in the USA's shock 2-0 Confed Cup semi-final win over Spain in South Africa in June.

In the final itself in Johannesburg the USA led Brazil by two goals to nil at half-time only to go on

Messi injured to skip Argentina's friendly against Russia

BUENOS AIRES, 12 Aug—Lionel Messi displeased his national coach Diego Maradona as the star striker pulled a leg muscle and has to miss Argentina's friendly against Russia, local media reported on Tuesday.

The Barcelona forward sustained the injury in training, just ahead of the Argentine national side's friendly in Moscow on Wednesday.

"We're not going to risk Messi for a single minute," angry Maradona told reporters. "I'm a wizard... I knew this match shouldn't have been organised."

Maradona said last week he was worried injuries could deprive him of key players for Argentina's World Cup qualifier at home to Brazil on 5 Sept.

Inter Milan's Diego Milito was the likely replacement in the team for Messi, who flew to Moscow from Barcelona's pre-season tour of England and North America accompanied by the Spanish club's physio.—Xinhua

BEIJING, 12 Aug—Prices of agricultural products in 36 Chinese large and medium-sized cities rose 0.5 percent this week from Aug. 3, according to figures released by the Ministry of Commerce (MOC) Wednesday.

Thirty-one out of 57 kinds of farm produce saw week-on-week price increases while the prices of 18 types saw a drop, said a report on the MOC website.

Myawady, a prosperous township of Kayin State

Article: Win Shwe (Myanma Alin); Photos: Reporter Tun Zaw (Sangyoung)

I, on a tour of Kayin State, refreshed myself with a wonderful view of lush and green paddy fields and thriving rubber farms like a very long green carpet along Hpa-an-Kawkareik-Myawady Road en route for Myawady, 101 miles and four furlongs from Hpa-an. Some time after the automobile with crew members of us from the Myanma Alin Daily on board left Bote at the foot of Dawna Mountain along the uphill road, I happened to glance over my shoulder to see the road section we had left and saw a breathtaking view of a stream of traffic flowing up along the zigzag road. The higher we got, the hardly we could see things, and the whole summit was shrouded in mist.

After leaving middle Bote, the road was all downhill towards Myawady Township. Asian Highway was found large and fine between Thingan Nyinaung and Myawady.

Myawady Township is located in the easternmost part of Kayin State, sharing border with Thailand. It is 389 miles from Nay Pyi Taw, 265 miles from Yangon, and 101 miles and four furlongs from Hpa-an. It is surrounded by Thailand in the east, Kawkareik Township in the west, Kya-in Seikkyi (See page 10)
