PERSPECTIVES

Strive for further development of the agriculture sector

The government of Myanmar has laid down national plans and is implementing them. One of them is to meet the nation's need of food and it has been so successfully implemented that food is not only sufficient but also in surplus.

With a steady increase in food surpluses, we will be able to export more and have to try to establish an industrialized nation by investing export earnings in the other economic sectors.

In fulfilling the entire people's need for food, clothing and shelter, it is necessary to follow the guidance of the Head of State and make effective use of natural and human resources to raise the productivity of all the economic sectors.

A study of the nation's export situation of agricultural produce has shown that the value of export stood at 1400.85 million US dollars in the 2008-2009 fiscal year and it reached 509.87 million US dollars up to the month of July of the 2009-2010 fiscal year.

Increases in export of agricultural produce and export earnings are the signs of success for the agriculture sector. The nation has still vast tracts of land that can be reclaimed for agricultural use and this offers excellent potential for quantitative and qualitative improvement in agricultural production.

If we strive for further development of the agriculture sector by making better use of human resources, investments and modern technologies coupled with the support of the government and active participation of the private sector, the economy of the nation will develop with greater momentum and the entire people will be able to enjoy high returns.

Four Americans killed in attack in Afghanistan

KABUL, 9 Sept—Four US troops died on Tuesday in a militant attack in eastern Afghanistan, and NATO forces acknowledged for the first time that civilians were among the dozens killed in an airstrike on two hijacked fuel trucks.

Top NATO and US commander Gen Stanley McChrystal appointed a Canadian major general to lead an investigation into Friday's strike on the fuel tankers in northern Kunduz Province. An Afghan official appointed by President Hamid Karzai to examine the attack said his best estimate of the death toll was 82, including at least 45 armed militants.

Also Tuesday, McChrystal banned the sale of alcohol at the military alliance's Kabul headquarters after becoming frustrated when he had trouble getting in touch with some of his staff after the attack in Kunduz, said Capt Elizabeth Mathias, a US military spokeswoman.

Mathias said four American troops were killed in "a complex attack" in eastern Afghanistan's Kunar Province but did not give details.—Internet

Iran condemns "massacre of civilians" in Afghanistan by NATO forces

TEHERAN, 9 Sept—Iranian Foreign Ministry Spokesman Hassan Qashqavi on Tuesday strongly condemned "massacre of civilians" in Afghanistan by NATO forces, the local Fars news agency reported.

"Targeting civilians and massacre of defenceless people of Afghanistan is an inhumane behavior and is completely against moral values and international criteria," Qashqavi was quoted as saying.

"Unfortunately, these self-centered actions against innocents have repeatedly happened. We strongly condemn this approach," he said.

NATO's deadly air strike against suspected Taliban insurgents in Kunduz Province north of Afghanistan early Friday, according to local officials, left over 100 people dead and injured.

BUENOS AIRES, 9 Sept—A violent storm that spawned a tornado and mudslides killed at least 15 people across northern Argentina and southern Brazil, authorities said on Tuesday. Dozens were injured in the winds and hail as their homes were destroyed.

Investing in high education helps economic recovery, says OECD

PARIS, 9 Sept—The Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD) said on Tuesday in a report that investing in high education will contribute to economic recovery, suggesting governments to consider this in planning education policies.

“As we emerge from the global economic crisis, demand for university education will be higher than ever,” the OECD Secretary-General Angel Gurría said.

“To the extent that institutions are able to respond, investments in human capital will contribute to recovery.”

In the annual Education at a Glance report, the Paris-based organization said growing advantages for the better educated and likely continuing high unemployment will bring more and more young people to stay on in education.

According to the report, in the United States, a male graduate can expect to earn more than 367,000 US dollars extra in his lifetime, nearly doubled the other OECD countries. A female US student with a university degree can earn more than 229,000 US dollars, despite of the disparity in most countries between male and female.

Holding children on slides risky

Holding a child in your lap while going down a playground slide could increase the risk the child will suffer a broken leg, doctors in Mineola, NY, warn.

"Many parents think it is actually safer to hold their toddler while going down a playground slide, but this study may prove otherwise," Dr John Gaffney, an orthopedic surgeon, said of Winthrop University Hospital's findings.

During 11 months of study, doctors at Winthrop found 13.8 percent of tibia fractures in children occurred while sliding down a slide on an adult's lap. The age range of children who suffered tibia fractures on a slide varied from 14 months to 32 months, Gaffney said. The number of children involved in the study wasn't provided.

The injuries typically happen when a child's leg become twisted, creating a torque in the tibia, Gaffney said in a release from the American Academy of Orthopedic Surgeons.

Myanma Farm Machinery Factory

In order to boost production of rice year by year, the government is using high-yield quality paddy strains and reclaiming more and more vacant and virgin lands. The major requirement of expediting the agricultural work is tractor.

With the aim of attending to that need, the government built a farm machinery factory at Ingone Village in Kyaukse Township.

On our recent tour around Mandalay Division to gather regional news for some bylines, we visited the farm machinery factory.

Deputy Manager U Zaw Khin said, "The Agricultural Mechanization Department of the Ministry of Agriculture and Irrigation established this factory in December 2003 to manufacture power-tillers to help transform the nation into mechanized farming. Now, our factory produces 3000 units a year and distributes the products to farmers at reasonable prices."

He added, "Apart from power-tillers, our factory has produced 400 combine-harvesters in 2009-2010 fiscal year."

Farm Machinery Factory in Ingone Village, five miles south of Kyaukse Township, manufactures Leya-16 and Leya-22 brands power-tillers and distributes the products in cash and by installment.

If a farmer wants to buy a Leya-16 brand power-tiller in cash, he has to pay 1.5 million kyats. And if he wants to get it by installment, he has to pay 350,000 kyats in first payment, 300,000 kyats in second payment, 300,000 kyats in third payment and 160,000 kyats in fourth payment, totaling 11.1 million kyats in one and a half years.

A Leya-22 brand power-tiller is priced at 1.55 million kyats in cash. If it is to be bought by installment, first payment is fixed at 430,000 kyats; second payment, at 300,000 kyats; third payment, at 300,000 kyats; fourth payment, at 300,000 kyats; and five payment, at 250,000 kyats, amounting to 1.6 million kyats in two years.

With a Leya-16 power-tiller, a farmer can plough two to three acres of farmland in a day, and the machine consumes two gallons of diesel. And with a Leya-22 brand power-tiller, he can plough three to four acres of land a day. The machine consumes two gallons of diesel if it is equipped with harrows, and only one gallon of diesel, if with a plough.

A combine-harvester can harvest four acres of crop plantation per two hours, consuming half a gallon of diesel an hour. This year, the factory is producing 20 units of power-tillers as a trial test.

The factory has a workforce of 977, thus generating job opportunities for local residents. It is therefore fair to say that the prudent project creates a large quantity of job opportunities for local people and helps accelerate the process of transforming the nation from conventional into mechanized farming.

Indonesia province closes schools, airport owing to forest fire

JAKARTA, 9 Sept—The administrator of Indonesia's Central Kalimantan Province has ordered to close schools and airport following thick haze that came out from forest fire in the province, the Jakarta Globe reported on Wednesday.

"This morning, the governor ordered schools to close because of the poor air quality, which is endangering our health," Central Kalimantan Province spokesman Kardinal Tarung said on Tuesday.

The spokesman said the order was particularly aimed around the province's capital city of Palangkaraya, which had been blanketed in thick smog for the past three days. However, he added that almost every district in Central Kalimantan was experiencing severe haze problems.

School opening hours in the Palangkaraya area have been pushed back since mid-August because the haze is at its worst in the morning.

Central Kalimantan's main airport, Tjilik Riwut in Palangkaraya, was also forced to shut down on Tuesday because of low visibility. "Haze has reduced visibility on the runway, rendering flights impossible," said airport chief Jamaluddin Hasibuan.—Xinhua

China's Geely eyes bid for Ford's Volvo cars

SHANGHAI/HONG KONG, 9 Sept—China's Geely Automotive (0175.HK) said on Wednesday its parent wants to bid for Ford's (F.N) Volvo Car Corp, becoming the latest Chinese automaker to chase a foreign brand in a global industry overhaul.

The move could boost the profile of Geely, a small, home-grown car maker and, more importantly, give it access to Volvo technology it needs to upgrade its cars, analysts said, though some doubted it could manage an international brand.

Geely's privately held parent, Geely Holding Group Co, would make any bid in conjunction with a government-backed investor, CEO Gui Shengyue told Reuters by telephone.

"I believe if Volvo is for sale and Ford has a global announcement, then our parent company will participate," Gui said. "It is interested in Volvo's sedan business and not trucks."

Gui added that Geely's parent is waiting for Ford to decide whether to sell the Swedish car maker, but that Hong Kong-listed Geely would not participate in any bid.

Rather than merely taking a stake in Volvo, Geely's parent would seek full ownership, Gui said, adding Ford will make a decision on whether to sell Volvo within a month

Protein found as link to heart evolution

SAN FRANCISCO, 9 Sept— US scientists say they've found a specific protein helped the 3-chambered heart of amphibians evolve into the 4-chambered heart of birds and mammals.

Scientists from the Gladstone Institute of Cardiovascular Disease in San Francisco, Swarthmore College and Michigan State University analyzed tissues from animal embryos. They explained the heart of amphibians has three chambers — one atrium receives deoxygenated blood from the body, while the other atrium receives oxygenated blood from the lungs. Those two streams mix in a single ventricle that pumps incompletely oxygenated blood to the rest of the body.

The researchers noted birds and mammals have two separate ventricles, one pumping deoxygenated blood from the body to the lungs at low pressure, the other pumping highly oxygenated blood from the lungs to the body at high pressure.

The study found the evolution to a four-chambered heart was governed by the distribution of a protein called T-box transcription factor that regulates the expression of specific genes in the embryonic heart. Professor Benoit Bruneau of the Gladstone Institute says the study's findings will help researchers "understand how a protein like (T-box) is involved in forming the heart and how in the case of congenital heart disease its function is impaired."—Internet

It pays to quit smoking before surgery

COLOGNE, 9 Sept— People who can quit smoking before surgery can halve their risk of poor wound healing, researchers in Germany found.

Peter Sawicki of the German Institute for Quality and Efficiency in Health Care analyzed current research showing that nicotine replacement therapy can help people quit smoking and avoid complications after surgery.

Nicotine replacement therapy helps reduce withdrawal symptoms when people stop smoking by giving them nicotine through a patch or chewing gum.

The study, published on informedhealthonline.org, said trials showed 14 percent of the patients who smoked had problems with wound healing if they had nicotine replacement therapy at least four weeks before surgery, compared to 28 percent of the patients who did not have nicotine replacement therapy.

Bronchoscopy hikes lung cancer detection

HEIDELBERG, 9 Sept— German medical scientists say they have determined narrow-band imaging bronchoscopies increase the specificity of bronchoscopic early lung cancer detection.

Bronchoscopy is a technique of visualizing the inside of the trachea using a bronchoscope for diagnostic and therapeutic purposes, Wikipedia said. The bronchoscope inserted into the airway can be either a rigid metal tube with attached lighting devices or a flexible fiberoptic tube with real-time video equipment.

The researchers at the University of Heidelberg in Germany said bronchoscopic technologies utilizing white light, auto-fluorescence or narrow-band imaging have been developed to enhance the ability to diagnose such lung cancer cells. Narrow-band imaging is the newest of the technologies.

Dr Felix Herth and colleagues conducted a 10-month review of patients in need of airway screening and surveillance. Of 57 patients, researchers found those observed with narrow band imaging and auto-fluorescence imaging experienced significantly superior sensitivities compared to white light imaging alone. Narrow-band imaging also proved to provide high levels of specificity compared to auto-fluorescence imaging.—Internet

Press reports are lies, says tetchy Domenech

BELGRADE, 9 Sept—Embattled French coach Raymond Domenech insisted on Tuesday that stories published in the French press about a row between himself and national captain Thierry Henry were 'lies'.

Domenech was speaking on the eve of the crucial 2010 World Cup qualifier here against Group Seven leaders Serbia, who lead the French by four points after France drew 1-1 at home to Romania last Saturday.

Defeat on Wednesday would leave France - who Domenech guided to the 2006 World Cup final - restricted to at best a play-off between the best eight runners-up if they are to make it to South Africa next year.

Domenech, who was jeered by the French fans when his name was announced at the Stade de France last Saturday, was adamant, though, that Monday's report in Le

Parisien stating that Henry had blasted him at the players meeting on the eve of the Romania match was false.—Internet

Nadal advances at US Open

NEW YORK, 9 Sept—Rafael Nadal assured a jump past Britain's Andy Murray back into the world number two ranking by advancing to the US Open quarter-finals while the Scotsman crashed out in humbling fashion.

Spanish third seed Nadal, trying to complete a career Grand Slam with a seventh major title, defeated French 13th seed Gael Monfils 6-7 (3/7), 6-3, 6-1, 6-3 to book a spot in the last eight against Chilean Fernando Gonzalez.

"He's a very good player," Nadal said. "If I don't play my best it's going to be impossible." Nadal showed no sign of pain after a two-month layoff with knee tendinitis, calling his knees "very good", or from a right abdominal muscle injury that was treated during his third-round victory Sunday over countryman Nicolas Almagro.—Internet

Williams, seeded second despite being widely regarded as the best player in the world, defeated Italy's Flavia Pennetta 6-4, 6-3.

Clijsters, bidding to become just the third mother to win a Grand Slam title in the modern era, saw off the challenge of China's Li Na 6-2, 6-4. The Belgian had defeated Serena's sister Venus in the fourth round.

The win over Pennetta was a fifth consecutive straight-sets win for Williams, who has been in imperious form as she seeks a fourth US Open crown and a 12th Grand Slam title overall.

European clubs want FIFA decision on Olympic U-21s

GENEVA, 9 Sept—European clubs on Tuesday urged FIFA to accept that only players aged under 21 years can take part in the Olympic Games football tournament instead of 23 years as presently allowed.

After a meeting of the European Club Association (ECA), top executives accused world football's governing body of wavering and changing its mind on the issue.

"All 100 ECA member clubs present in Geneva support the under 21 with no over age players solution," Barcelona president and ECA vice-chairman Juan Laporta said.

"It's important to have a clear-cut rule," he told journalists. The International Olympic Committee (IOC) has indicated that it wants FIFA to stick to the 23-year-old age limit.

That is at odds with the general under-21 format applied by FIFA for young internationals, although three over-age players are allowed per team.

Sixth seed Del Potro advances at US Open tennis

NEW YORK, 9 Sept—Sixth seed Juan Martin Del Potro fired 22 aces and 44 winners Tuesday to defeat Spanish 24th seed Juan Carlos Ferrero 6-3, 6-3, 6-3 and advance to the quarter-finals of the US Open.

The 20-year-old from Argentina will play for a semi-final berth against either Croatian 16th seed Marin Cilic or British second seed Andy Murray.

Murray beat Del Potro in last year's US Open, the South American's first Grand Slam quarter-final appearance, and owns a 4-1 record against Del Potro, who reached his first Slam semi-final at this year's French Open. "I'm happy to be in the quarter-finals. It's a return for me," Del Potro said. "It's like magic."

Del Potro won his only match against Cilic in the fourth round of this year's Australian Open.

NEW YORK, 9 Sept—British second seed Andy Murray was dumped from the US Open on Tuesday by Croatian 16th seed Marin Cilic, who reached his first Grand Slam quarter-final with a 7-5, 6-2, 6-2 victory.

The 22-year-old Scotsman, last year's US Open runner-up, was foiled in his bid to become the first British man to win a Grand Slam title since Fred Perry in 1936.

Cilic will play for a semi-final berth against Argentine sixth seed Juan Martin Del Potro, who ousted Spanish 24th seed Juan Carlos Ferrero. Cilic lost their only prior meeting in this year's fourth round at the Australian Open.

Boeing faces lawsuit over Turkish Airlines crash

AMSTERDAM, 9 Sept—Survivors of a Turkish Airlines crash at Amsterdam's Schiphol Airport in February plan to sue Boeing in the United States for up to 20 million US dollars each, a Dutch law office said on Monday. Nine people were killed when flight TK 1951 from Istanbul crashed on approach to Schiphol on the morning of February 25 and Dutch investigators have said a faulty left-hand altimeter shut down the engine of the Boeing 737-800 before it crashed. Boeing said in response it was "issuing a reminder to all 737 operators to carefully monitor primary flight instruments during critical phases of flight".

Dutch law office AKD Prinsen Van Wijmen (AKD) said 10 survivors of the crash have agreed on its advice to ask Clifford Law Offices to start proceedings in the United States against Boeing. The case could be lodged in two to six weeks. "Boeing does not comment on open litigation," Boeing spokesman Jim Proulx said.—MNA/Reuters

Foreign diplomats make tour around Laukkai in Kokang Region

Deputy Minister for Home Affairs Brig-Gen Phone Swe explains facts about recent incidents in Kokang Region, Shan State (North).—MNA

NAY PYI TAW, 9 Sept—A team made up of diplomats, military attaches and representatives of foreign embassies in Yangon led by Dean of the Diplomatic Corps to the Union of Myanmar Singaporean Ambassador to Myanmar Mr Robert Chua Hian Kong, members of the Myanmar Foreign Correspondents Club, and chief editors and reporters of local journals, accompanied by Director-General U Kyaw Kyaw of the Protocol Department of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and officials, left Lashio in a convoy and arrived at Kokang Region in Shan State (North) at noon yesterday.

Chairman of Shan State (North) Peace and Development Council Commander of North-East Command Maj-Gen Aung Than Htut, Deputy Minister of Home Affairs Brig-Gen Phone Swe and officials extended a warm welcome to the guests at the Paei Sein Hotel in Laukkai.

A press conference on recent incidents in Kokang

Region, Shan State (North), was held at the assembly hall of the hotel.

In his address, Deputy Minister Brig-Gen Phone Swe said that he would clarify the conditions of the region and the incidents before the field trip to the region; and that he would make just a brief account of the story as the attendees had been given a copy on his clarification compiled bilingually; in Myanmar and in English.

He said that the issue was merely a legal affairs that concerned the four offenders including U Phon Kya Shin, but not a political issue or a dispute between national races; that the issue could be addressed in no time due to the fact that the People's Republic of China with good neighbourliness informed the case, which might harm the bilateral interests; and that the Kokang Region Provisional Leading Committee and officials concerned tried from 8 to 26 August to persuade U Phon Kya Shin to work out the problems in the framework of the law.

Nevertheless, he said that the troops loyal to U Phon Kya Shin opened fire on the security force trying to rescue the members of the Myanmar Police Force who were discharging their duties at Yanlonkyaing border checkpoint, and the attacks cost some members of the security force; that the security force had no choice but to make a counter offensive attack to the troops; and that the numbers of casualties of both sides had been stated in the news programme of the MRTV and newspapers, so he would not explain that.

He disclosed that after forming the Kokang Region Provisional Leading Committee security measures were being taken with its contribution and that preparatory measures were being taken to establish regular administrative machinery, ensure regional development and for Kokang Self-Administered Zone Leading Body which will come to existence in accordance with the constitution in 2010.
