Tens of thousands rally against Obama government

WASHINGTON, 13 Sept— Tens of thousands of protestors from across the United States descended on the nation's capital on Saturday, decrying President Barack Obama, "big government" and big spending.

They carried hand-painted posters protesting Obama's proposed health care reforms and accusing his administration of leading the United States down the road to socialism.

"Abortion is not healthcare," read one sign. Another, held aloft by an immigrant from Ukraine, said: "I had enough of socialism in the USSR."

The demonstrator, who refused to give his name, said he had come to Washington from Baltimore because "too many things remind me of what I saw in the communist countries."

"Communism didn't work over there and it's not going to work over here," he told AFP.

Quinn Ryan, 11, stood in the middle of Pennsylvania Avenue, near the spot where Obama and his wife

Michelle greeted supporters in January after he was sworn in as America's first black president, brandishing a sign reading: "Born free, taxed to death."

The protest was coordinated by Freedomworks, a grassroots movement calling for lower taxes, less government and more economic freedom for all Americans. The march had to set off before the scheduled 11:30 am start time as Freedom Plaza near the White House filled to overflowing.—Internet

Netanyahu and Mubarak meet on reviving peace talks

CAIRO, 13 Sept — Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu and Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak meet on Sunday in a bid to revive peace talks with the Palestinians ahead of a possible three-way meeting later this month.

Netanyahu's visit, his second since May, will coincide with the arrival of US Middle East envoy George Mitchell in the region as Washington continues its push to get the peace process back on track.

Israel's expansion of Jewish settlements in the Palestinian West Bank, which defies US pressure and Palestinian Authority president Mahmud Abbas's condition for resuming talks, is likely to top the agenda in Cairo.

The two leaders are also expected to discuss the exchange of an Israeli soldier held by the Islamist movement Hamas in the Gaza Strip for more than 1,000 Palestinian prisoners in Israeli jails.

Iran has no plan to make nuclear weapons

TEHRAN, 13 Sept — Iranian Defence Minister Ahmad Vahidi said on Saturday that Iran has no plan to develop nuclear weapons, the Iranian Labour News Agency (ILNA) reported.

"We regard production of weapons of mass destruction as contrary to our religious, human and national principles,"

Vahidi also lashed out at the remarks of US Secretary of Defence Robert Gates that Arab countries should enhance its military cooperation with Washington to counter Iran's nuclear threat, according to Iran's English-language satellite channel Press TV.

"Since the beginning of the Iranian nuclear case, Washington has misjudged the situation, drawn up a wrong strategy and tried to feed it to other states in the region," Vahidi said.

Three people killed in central Baghdad bombing

BAGHDAD, 13 Sept— Three people were killed and up to 15 others injured in twin bomb explosions at a Shiite shrine in central Baghdad on Saturday, an Interior Ministry source said.

Two explosive charges detonated at about 12:30 pm (0930 GMT), one inside the shrine Imam Othman Bin Sa'id al-Omary near Haraj market in Bab al-Mua'dham area, and another at a parking lot outside the shrine, the source told Xinhua on condition of anonymity.

"Our latest report said that three people were killed and 15 injured by the two blasts," the source said.

Earlier, the source put the toll at three killed and eight wounded.

The first blast occurred while worshippers were leaving the shrine after the noon prayer, forcing the panic worshippers to run through the rear door of the shrine where another bomb was waiting for them at the parking lot outside the building of the shrine, the source added.—Xinhua

Russian envoy cautions US on Afghan troops surge

KABUL, 13 Sept — Russia's ambassador to Afghanistan has some advice for top NATO commanders fighting the Taliban based on the Soviet Union's bitter experience battling militants here in the 1980s: Don't bring more troops.

"The more troops you bring the more troubles you will have here," Zamir Kabulov, a blunt-spoken veteran diplomat, told The Associated Press in an interview.

Five US troops among 50 killed in Afghan violence

KABUL, 13 Sept — About 50 civilians, security forces and militants were killed in a wave of violence around Afghanistan, including a bomb that left 14 Afghan travelers dead in one of the country's most dangerous regions. Five American soldiers died in two attacks using roadside bombs.

The attacks on Friday and Saturday reached a broad swath of the country, demonstrating the spread of the Taliban insurgency, which had been largely confined to the country's south and east in the years after the 2001 US invasion. Half of those killed in the most recent attacks were civilians, who often find themselves caught in the grinding war between the Taliban and US and NATO forces.—Internet

New energy: key to next round of world economic boom

DALIAN, 13 Sept—As global business leaders and policy makers managed to find new areas of growth in efforts to pull the world out of recession, they picked new energy as the key to the next round of economic boom.

"New energy has been recognized as the engine to boost the next round of world economic growth," Wu Changhua, Climate Group's Greater China director said on the sideline of the 2009 Summer Davos in northeastern China's port city of Dalian, which concluded on Saturday.

"There is no doubt on this," Wu said. "The definition of new energy here covers much broader issues instead of a summary of new energy resources. It includes both energy production and consumption," she said.

Both governments and enterprises were striving to find new technologies and industries which could bail out the world economy from the crisis and developing new energy became an important strategy in an equal effort to fight climate change, according to a report released last month by the Climate Group, a British-based non-governmental environmental organization.

Gazprom sees Ukraine gas 'risk' next year

MOSCOW, 13 Sept—Ukraine is ensuring smooth transit of Russian gas supplies to Europe but there is a risk of disruption next year due to uncertainty on payments, the head of Russian gas giant Gazprom said on Saturday. Gazprom chief executive Alexei Miller, speaking in a meeting with foreign research and media specialists on Russia, hailed the "remarkable" current cooperation between Russian and Ukrainian state gas firms.

But he cautioned that "there is a political risk" and a measure of uncertainty about next year that could negatively impact that relationship as it has in the past.

A dispute on gas pricing between the Russian and Ukrainian gas companies at the start of this year led to a shut-off of Russian supply to Ukraine which in turn triggered shortages to European clients further downstream.

The bulk of Russian gas supplies to Europe are piped through Ukraine and the relationship on gas between Moscow and Kiev has direct implications for the energy supplies of many third-party countries in Europe.—INTERNET

Saudis lose out to Russia in oil cuts

LONDON, 13 Sept—Saudi Arabia sacrificed billions of dollars in revenues this year by cutting oil output to prop up the price of crude, only to see Russia snatch a bigger chunk of the market, analysts say.

Now the Gulf kingdom, previously a vigilant enforcer of the cuts by the OPEC cartel that checked the sharp fall in oil prices last year, appears to be expanding its own oil flow again in exasperation.

"The cartel has lost a significant portion of market share in global crude production in the last year mostly to Russia," wrote Francisco Blanch, a commodities analyst at Bank of America Merrill Lynch, in a note.

With its production capacity rising but output held down by lower quotas, he estimated, "Saudi Arabia's 'missed oil revenues' are probably running at close to 100 billion dollars per annum, or almost 25 percent of GDP."—INTERNET

Airlines offer lightest fall schedules since 2001

DALLAS, 13 Sept—The US airline industry is shrinking to a size not seen since the months after the 2001 terror attacks.

The airlines have been trimming flights for the past two years, matching the falling demand for air travel. Additional capacity cuts are under way at American, the nation's second-largest carrier, and at No 3 United. It could get worse.

Most big airlines depend heavily on a relatively small chunk of passengers who pay the highest fares, "and that's generally business travelers," says Robert Mann, an aviation consultant in Port Washington, NY "If business travel doesn't rebound, we're going to see further (capacity) cuts."

Less capacity means consumers will be left with fewer flights to choose from and planes will be crowded. Fewer seats normally means higher fares but that might not happen this time unless the economy begins a true recovery and passenger traffic picks up.

Airlines measure capacity in "seat miles," the number of miles flown multiplied by the number of seats on the planes. Capacity is crucial in the airline industry in the same way that inventories matter to car dealers and retailers. Too much capacity, and airlines have to cut prices, just as a department store stuck with too many suits and dresses will hold a fire sale. Airlines cut capacity by reducing the number of flights or using smaller planes that carry fewer passengers.

LONDON, 13 Sept — Twelve children were currently in hospital with complications arising from Escherichia coli (commonly referred to as E coli) which causes diarrhea and can lead to serious kidney and blood complications, the British Health Protection Agency (HPA) said on Saturday.

They were reportedly to have caught the E coli following visits to the Godstone Farm in Surrey, which has closed while the Agency carried out an investigation into an outbreak of E coli among people who have visited there. The Agency's Sur-

Measures to reduce the risk of the infection spreading were put in place by the farm last week but as more cases have been reported, the farm has agreed to close to enable detailed investigations into the source of the infection.

Those who will help open democracy door to the Union

The Union of Myanmar is a land where over 100 national races reside through thick and thin. Myanmar national races by nature prefer to lead a peaceful life, minding their own business. They join hands firmly and harmoniously in warding off alien threats in times of alien intrusion, interference in the internal affairs. National races remain consanguine and cohesive, but never hesitate to face challenges in times of emergency.

In the three aggressive wars the colonialists waged against Myanmar in 1824, 1852 and 1885, various national races spontaneously strove to repulse the foreign attacks in synchronization without giving any signals to one another to do so. The strong sense of patriotism shown by highlanders and plain dwellers in the fight against the alien intruders went down to the annals of the Myanmar history.

Colonialists were greatly impressed and frightened by the bravery and nationalistic fervour of national brethren united and hypersensitive to national causes. Therefore, the colonialists began to exercise the divide-and-rule policy to undermine national unity after 1885 with the conviction that they could secure their colonial rule only with the disintegration of national unity.

They considered that only with national disunity among the national races was it easier for them to colonize the natural resource-rich country for a long time. However, in the pragmatic world, all Myanmar national races remained harmonious and active together in the fight against the Fascists and colonialists to regain independence. In addition, they proved themselves well resistant to the wedge the colonialists drove among them, by convening Panglong Conference, endorsing Panglong Agreement, and showing Panglong spirit. When the colonialists had no choice but to grant independence to Myanmar, they proposed a very clever programme to grant independence to the people in the plains, but to still get the national races in hilly regions under their rule. However, the people managed to ward off the scheme with Panglong Agreement and regained independence of the whole Union.

In the course of the post-independence period, national brethren safeguarded the motherland, own races and sovereignty in times of emergency in which the Union of Myanmar was under the threat of collapse and loss of independence or sovereignty. Simultaneously, old and neo-colonialists have been resorting to all possible means to break up and exploit the Union of Myanmar. But, Myanmar people have managed to defend the nation with steadfast awareness and a sense of Union Spirit.

Today, the nation has achieved internal peace or national unity and put an end to the internal armed insurgency. As a result, far-flung and border areas, plains and rural and urban areas are now in a position to enjoy equitable development.

The more united the people are and the more peaceful the nation is with greater development, the greater number of ways and means internal and external subversives resort to. After the nation has seen peace back to normal with cumulative development, the government laid down the State's seven-step Road Map. Now, the fourth step has been realized, and the fifth step — multiparty democracy election in 2010 is under way.

To complete the first step, the National Convention was convened to lay down principles to draw a State constitution. The convention was attended by the national race delegate group made up of more than 600 representatives from the four corners of the nation, the delegate group of political parties comprising the eight political parties of national races and the National Unity Party and NLD party, before they walked out of the NC, the delegate group of representatives-elect, the delegate group of peasants, the delegate group of workers, the delegate group of intellectuals and intelligentsia, the delegate group of service personnel, many of whose members were national races, and the delegate groups of other invited persons, the majority of which were from national race peace groups. Many of the members of the eight delegate groups were representatives of national races.

Throughout its lifespan, the National Convention faced a wide range of disruptions posed by internal and external elements with the intention of dealing a devastating blow on the national level conference. They brazenly plotted to launch bomb attacks to kill National Convention delegates. Nevertheless, the authorities managed to expose the scheme. National Convention delegates surmounted all forms of destructive acts with the public support.

And many members of the 54-member Commission for Drafting the State Constitution of the Republic of the Union of Myanmar were legal experts of national races. Despite assorted destructive acts, the commission managed to complete the process of drafting the State Constitution.

The Commission for Holding Referendum formed with various national races held the referendum in May 2008 for approval of the constitution (draft) by overcoming various difficulties and hardships. Out of about 27 million eligible voters from states and divisions, more than 26 million cast their votes. Over 25 million voted 'YES' for the constitution accounting for 92.48 percent.

In the overwhelmingly approved constitution of the Republic of the Union of Myanmar, it is stated that the Union will be constituted with seven regions, seven states, and six self-administered zones. It is also stated that no part of the Union shall secede from the Union.

Pyidaungsu Hluttaw, Pyithu Hluttaw and Amyotha Hluttaw vested with the legislative power will be formed with representatives of various national races elected in constituencies concerned. National people from respective regions will have the right to be elected for State Hluttaws, Region Hluttaws and self-administered zone leading bodies. Besides, for national races whose population accounts for 0.1 percent of the nation's total population and they have no region or state, they will have the right to elect one representative each. It can be said that there is only one union in the world whose national races have more legislative, executive and judicial powers than any other nation. That union is the Union of Myanmar and it is the first of its kind in the world.

Necessary laws will be passed in time for the 2010 election. Political parties will get registered and canvass for votes. Party candidates and independent candidates will have to try to win public votes by presenting their policy programmes and goodwill efforts.

Thus, the road to democracy has been smooth. However, internal and external elements with negative view are driving a wedge among the people to disrupt the democratic process. Recently, there occurred an incident in Kokang Special Region (1) due to the rapacious acts of U Phon Kya Shin and his three accomplices producing weapons and trafficking in narcotic drugs by ignoring the interests of their union, region and people. But the four men left Kokang region within days and the region restored peace and stability.

All the national race peace groups are actively participating in nation-building tasks such as ensuring perpetuation of the Union and peace and prosperity of the State and building a genuine democratic nation with discipline flourishing. Despite outside instigation to cause disintegration of national unity, the Myanmar national people are adhering to the way to democracy with peace and prosperity. So we want to say, 'Give up your ill attempt, neocolonialists'.

The announcement released by Kachin Independence Organization on 9 September 2009 has proved that the Union and the Kachin nationals are in oneness. The announcement states that: "KIO Central Committee members held a meeting on the future of the Kachin people with elders from Kachin regions and national race representatives totalling 324 at Monlawtmonli Hall of Laiza on 5-9-2009.

As to the transition processes of KIO under the leadership of the Tatmadaw government of the State Peace and Development Council, we all attending the meeting approved that we accept the transition in principle since it is the future of task of the whole union.

As to the transition processes to be carried out, the State Peace and Development Council which is the government of the Union of Myanmar and KIO strongly oppose armed clashes with a view to making coordination and discussions based on mutual trust at the time of promoting peace."

It is obvious that they have chosen the most correct and appropriate way for the peace of the Union and regional development based on Union Spirit. Dr Ma Nam Tuja's group of KIO and U Za Khun Ting Ring's group attended the National Convention and chose the democracy road. Other national race peace groups in unity also chose the democracy road starting from the National Convention. We hope that they will continue to walk to the 2010 multi-party democracy general elections, the fifth, sixth and seventh steps of the road map and finally open the democracy door together.

Cuban Vice President Juan Almeida dies

HAVANA, 13 Sept — Cuban Vice President Juan Almeida Bosque, a revolutionary commander who fought alongside Fidel Castro to bring down a pro-American dictatorship, has died. He was 82.

An official communique issued through state media said Almeida, the number three official in the Americas' only communist regime, died late Friday from cardiac arrest.

Almeida was one of just three top Cuban leaders to hold the title of revolutionary commander.

His death served as a reminder that Cuba's old guard is not getting any younger. President Raul Castro is now 78, and Fidel Castro is five years his senior, Vice President Jose Ramon Machado, the regime's number two, is also 78.

As a black man in racially diverse Cuba, Almeida was an important visual symbol of a break with the past, particularly in 1950s Cuba, where racism and discrimination were common. His close relationship with Castro for decades has been a sign of Afro-Cubans' access to power and influence in communist Cuba.

Born on 17 February, 1927 in Havana, Almeida took part in the 1953 assault on the Moncada barracks in Santiago de Cuba that historians cite as the starting point of the Cuban Revolution.

Thousands lose power in US city of San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO, 13 Sept — At least 35,000 residents in the US city of San Francisco suffered a power outage early on Saturday morning due to bad weather, local media reported.

More than 35,000 Pacific Gas & Electric Co customers in several San Francisco neighbourhoods were affected by the outage, the KCBS radio station said in a report. The blackout was caused by a dry lightning and thunderstorm system moving through the San Francisco Bay Area, which also resulted in a number of small grass fires in the area's Sonoma, Alameda and Santa Clara counties.

The US National Weather Service (NWS) has extended a red flag warning for the region, mainly for the northern Bay Area counties until 5 pm Pacific Daylight Time on Saturday.—Internet

A telluric movement of moderate intensity, which lasted about 5 seconds, was felt in Caracas, amid a hailstorm that happened to hit the Capital District at the same time.

"The movement was fairly strong," Diosdado Cabello, Venezuelan Minister of Public Works and Housing, told the local media. But he didn't reveal whether there was casualty or damage.—Xinhua

Chinese woman spends $600,000 on dog

A millionaire in northern China paid four million yuan (600,000 dollars) for a dog and ordered 30 luxury cars to come to the airport to greet her and the animal, local media reported.

The woman and her new pet — a black Tibetan Mastiff — flew into Xi'an, capital of Shaanxi Province, a report on popular news portal sohu.com said.

A convoy of 30 black Mercedes-Benz cars, led by two sports utility vehicles, drove to the airport on Wednesday to pick up the pair, who had arrived from the Tibetan-populated Province of Qinghai in China's northwest. Photos of the event posted with the report showed a committee of dog-lovers holding up a long red banner welcoming the mastiff to Xi'an.

The millionaire, who only gave her surname as Wang, said she and a friend had spent a long time searching for an original Tibetan mastiff.

"Gold has a price, but this Tibetan mastiff doesn't," the young woman said, according to the report.

China's economy has developed at a fast pace, creating with it an increasing number of millionaires.

Research by the Hurun Report, a magazine that tracks China's wealthiest, revealed in April that 825,000 people had personal wealth of over 10 million yuan (1.5 million dollars), or 0.06 percent of the population.

The vast majority of these millionaires have said the global financial crisis has not had any impact on their lifestyle, the research said.

Beijing's Sixth Ring Road opens to traffic

BEIJING, 12 Sept— With the construction of its western section completed on Sunday, Beijing's Sixth Ring Road, China's longest city expressway, has been fully open to traffic, according to local communications department.

The western section linking Liangxiang and Zhaikou measured 38.28 kilometers and was the last phase of the Sixth Ring Road construction project which started in December 1998. Measuring 187.6 kilometers long, the Sixth Ring Road accounts for more than one-fifth of the total mileage of Beijing's expressway and covers the city's most population, said sources with the Beijing Municipal Committee of Communications.

The road connected with major outbound expressways and national highways would also allow Beijing residents much easier access to peripheral cities such as Chengde in Hebei Province and the suburban Pinggu county, they said.

As Beijing is a vital transportation terminal between northwestern China and the northern sea ports, the committee said that the Sixth Ring Road would not only ease downtown traffic pressure and improve the city's air quality but also facilitate passenger and cargo transportation from the north and the west to the east and the south.

Moreover, reduced traffic pressure and tie-ups could help cut automotive exhaust by around three percent.

Finland's economy expected to turn to grow this year

HELSINKI, 13 Sept— The result of a new survey gathering a number of Finnish economists' opinions showed that the recession in Finland will end and the Finnish economy is believed to start to recover before the end of this year, the Finnish Broadcasting Company reported on Saturday.

According to the survey result, eight of ten economists interviewed by the Finnish Broadcasting Company felt that an upward trend of Finland's economy would appear during this year, probably in the fourth quarter.

The economists made the optimistic forecast assuming that Finland's export will benefit from euro zone's favourable situation, when German and French national output has turned to grow during the second quarter.

Besides that, the economists in Finland have also seen signs of recovery in increased activity in the retail sector and more orders coming in to the industrial sector.

According to these experts, however, there is still a great deal of uncertainty. The growth in unemployment will prevent households from consumption spending, and demand for Finnish exports will only pick up when global business investment needs strengthen.

Gunmen fire at bus, hurt two at US mine in Indonesia

JAKARTA, 13 Sept— Gunmen fired at a bus carrying workers of US mining giant Freeport on Saturday in Papua Province, wounding two Indonesian security guards, police said.

Ambushes near the world's largest gold mine since mid-July have left three dead, including a 29-year-old Australian, and more than a dozen wounded.

Around four gunmen ambushed the bus on its way to drop off workers for the Saturday morning shift, Papua police spokesman Lt Col Agus Rianto said.

A security guard was shot in the thigh and another was hurt by broken glass, but both were in stable condition at a nearby hospital, he said.

Police are searching for the gunmen, who fled into the jungle, Rianto said.

A Freeport spokesman could not immediately be reached for comment.

The Freeport mine has often been targeted by arson, roadside bombs and ambushes since production began in the 1970's in under-developed Papua, home to a low-level separatist movement of thousands of miles (kilometres) from the capital, Jakarta.

It is unclear if the rebels, who have been implicated in past attacks, were involved in the latest shootings.

SEOUL, 13 Sept—South Korea on Saturday reported its 5th death related to the A/H1N1 influenza.

According to the Ministry of Health and Welfare, a 73-year-old female patient, who suffered from high blood pressure, died earlier in the day due to complications related to the new flu, bringing

Dangerous staph germs found at west coast beaches

SAN FRANCISCO, 13 Sept—Dangerous staph bacteria have been found in sand and water for the first time at five public beaches along the coast of Washington, and scientists think the state is not the only one with this problem.

The germ is MRSA, or methicillin-resistant Staphylococcus aureus — a hard-to-treat bug once rarely seen outside of hospitals but that increasingly is spreading in ordinary community settings such as schools, locker rooms and gyms. The germ causes nasty skin infections as well as pneumonia and other life-threatening problems. It spreads mostly through human contact. Little is known about environmental sources that also may harbour the germ.

Finding it at the beach suggests one place that people may be picking it up, said Marilyn Roberts, a microbiologist at the University of Washington in Seattle. "We don't know the risk" for any individual going to a beach, she said. "But the fact that we found these organisms suggests that the level is much higher than we had thought."

Hughes appeals for leniency for Adebayor

MANCHESTER, 13 Sept—Mark Hughes has appealed for leniency for his forward Emmanuel Adebayor, who is likely to be the subject of FA disciplinary action following Manchester City's 4-2 victory over the Togo forward's former club Arsenal. Adebayor had already appeared to stamp on the face of former team mate Robin van Persie when he scored a crucial third goal ten minutes from time. In the celebration that followed, he sprinted the entire length of the field and gestured in front of the Arsenal supporters who threw missiles onto the field and tried to storm their way past stewards and police to get at their former player. Hughes claimed not to have seen the van Persie incident and, citing the fact that his player issued a swift apology, added that he hoped the FA would not punish him for the provocative celebration. Hughes said: "People have asked me about the stamp but I haven't seen it so I can't really comment but Adie understands that celebrating like that was the wrong thing to do.—Internet

Bayern humiliates Dortmund 5-1, Hamburg on top

BERLIN, 13 Sept—German record champions Bayern Munich humiliated Dortmund 5-1 at the latter's Signal-Iduna Park on Saturday's Bundesliga powerful clash, while Hamuburg came back on the top of the table with a 3-1 win over VfB Stuttgart.

Bayern delivered further evidence of their return to form, dishing out a 5-1 drubbing to Borussia Dortmund to secure their first away win of the current Bundesliga campaign. The result moved the German record champions into the top third of the table following an indifferent start, ending Dortmund's 19-game unbeaten run at the Signal Iduna Park.—Internet

Ferguson backs United to sustain title bid

LONDON, 13 Sept—Sir Alex Ferguson has backed Manchester United to defy their critics and secure a fourth consecutive English Premier League title this season. United were widely seen as being severely weakened by the departures of Cristiano

Ronaldo and Carlos Tevez this summer and the doubts mushroomed after an unconvincing start to the season, which included a defeat at newly-promoted Burnley. But Ferguson's side are now finding an ominous rhythm and, two weeks after crushing Wigan 5-0 at the DW Stadium, they chalked up another impressive victory on Saturday, ending Tottenham's unbeaten start to the new campaign with a 3-1 victory. "It's early in the season and too early to say, but I think we will be in the shake-up," Ferguson said.—Internet

Juve clear at top while Milan stumble again

MILAN, 13 Sept—Juventus maintained their 100 percent record at the start of the Serie A season with a 2-0 victory at previously unbeaten Lazio on Saturday. But fellow giants AC Milan suffered more misery as they were held 0-0 at promoted Livorno.

Martin Caceres scored his first goal for Juve and former France international forward David Trezeguet wrapped up the scoring deep into injury time to take the Old Lady of Turin three points clear at the top, for a day at least. Benitez expects Mascherano to return for Euro clash

LIVERPOOL, 13 Sept—Rafa Benitez is confident that Argentina midfielder Javier Mascherano will be fit for the start of Liverpool's Champions League campaign. Mascherano was missing as his side demolished Burnley 4-0 at Anfield on Saturday, with his replacement Yossi Benayoun scoring the third hat-trick of his Liverpool career.

But Benitez expects Mascherano to be available for Wednesday's game against Hungarian side Debrecen at Anfield after the midfielder was given special permission to remain in South America for treatment. Mascherano suffered a pelvis injury playing for Argentina in their 1-0 World Cup qualifying defeat against Paraguay on Wednesday.

Kaka inspires Real to Espanyol win

MADRID, 13 Sept—Real Madrid kept pace with Barcelona at the top of the Spanish league table with Brazilian playmaker Kaka pulling the strings in a 3-0 win at Espanyol on Saturday. Kaka has yet to open his Real account since joining from AC Milan, but showed a touch of class to set up Esteban Granero for his first Real goal and create the second for stand-in captain Guti. Substitute Cristiano Ronaldo, the world's most expensive player, added a third in the final minute for his second goal in as many games.

"I don't think he (Ronaldo) has this enormous weight on his shoulders (due to the transfer fee)," said Real coach Manuel Pellegrini. "He scored against Deportivo (La Coruna) and again today. He is adapting to a new league and sometimes people just scrutinise him too much." It was

NEW YORK, 13 Sept—Serena Williams walked toward the line judge, screaming, cursing and shaking a ball in the official's direction, threatening to "shove it down" her throat.

On match point in the US Open semi-finals Saturday night, defending champion Williams was penalized a point for unsportsmanlike conduct — a bizarre, ugly finish that gave a 6-4, 7-5 upset victory to unseeded, unranked Kim Clijsters.

The match featured plenty of powerful groundstrokes and lengthy exchanges. No one will remember a single shot that was struck, though, because of the unusual, dramatic way it ended.—Internet

Barcelona, Real Madrid enjoy away wins

MADRID, 13 Sept—Both reigning Primera Liga Champions FC Barcelona and Real Madrid won their respective league matches on Saturday night. Barcelona overcame a poor first half performance away to Getafe to win its second game in two matches. Real Madrid meanwhile won 3-0 away to Espanyol. China's gun salute battalion braces for National Day festivities

BEIJING, 13 Sept—The gun salute battalion of the Beijing Armed Police Corps is rehearsing hard as the 60th anniversary of the founding of the People's Republic of China draws near.

A total of 56 guns stand in two lines. As soon as Geng Qing'an, who is in command of the battalion, shouts his order, the 112 policemen present arms. They have to complete the moves of unbolting the guns, taking the ammunition and then breeching it in synchronization in three seconds. This is a scene which can be seen almost every day in the battalion's camp.

The battalion was established in the early March, 1984. Then it had only eight manually-operated guns. The guns the battalion now uses are sixth-generation models, all are automatic. Firing intervals can be easily regulated.

"The new guns are an encouragement to the police officers, but they also entail tougher training requirements," said Geng.

The armed police have to unbolt a thousand times a day, and kneel down in the firing position another thousand times.—Xinhua
