March. Chairman of the Committee Chairman of the State Peace and Development Council Commander-in-Chief of Defence Services Senior General Than Shwe at the meeting gave guidance. Ministers for Agriculture and Irrigation, Industry-2, Construction, Electric Power No (1), Electric Power (2), Energy, and Rail Transportation presented reports sector-wise. The projects will be greatly beneficial to the State as they are to be undertaken by the ministries concerned.

Among the projects, the project to be implemented by the Ministry of Industry-2 attracted attention from me. I have written many bylines on factories, workshops, and vehicles and accessories produced by the Ministry of Industry-2. In addition, I have made many trips to write bylines. (See page 7)

In the process of national development

The government is in the process of developing the country in all sectors including socio-economy and education standard of the entire nation. Its development undertakings cover 24-region development project, border areas and national races development project and rural development project.

In its endeavours for harmonious progress of the whole Union, the government has been providing transport infrastructures for development to reach every region. It has already built a transport network covering over 70,000 miles of roads and many bridges large and small all over the nation. We are heartening to see that the transport network is now at the service of national development.

Moreover, we have witnessed the number of our country's airports including two international facilities reaches 70. Building of many more new airports and upgrading of the existing ones have significantly cut the traveling time and help facilitate economic and social activities.

We have also seen marked development in maritime transport and the number of international wharfs reaching 26 at present from 13 in the past. Our country now has three international level container yards.

All regions across the Union now have sound foundations for progress regardless of their sizes and locations. The government is still in the process of implementing projects for national advancement with added momentum. We are sure that completion of the projects in time will accelerate national and socio-economic development.

Police battle gunmen in southern Afghan town

KABUL, 17 March—Would-be suicide attackers hit at least two locations in a southern Afghanistan city and a gunbattle was ongoing

Wednesday morning, an official said.

The attacks in Lashkar Gah targeted a government office and a charity that help farmers, said Dawood Ahmadi, spokesman for the government in Helmand Province.

He said there was at least one explosion, but did not have information on casualties. He said security forces fought the attackers at one location.

Lashkar Gah is the closest major town to Marjah, where thousands of NATO troops have been fighting to oust the Taliban from their largest stronghold and operational hub in Helmand Province.

US soldier dies in Iraq

BAGHDAD, 17 March—A US soldier died and three others injured in a vehicle roll-over in northern Iraq, a statement of US military in Iraq said late Tuesday.

The statement said the accident happened on Monday when the soldiers were conducting a patrol.

The injured were evacuated to a military medical facility for treatment, said the statement, adding the incident is under investigation.

Afghan bomb kills two NATO soldiers

KABUL, 17 March—Two foreign soldiers have been killed in southern Afghanistan by a crude bomb, the main weapon used by Taliban rebels, NATO said on Wednesday.

In a brief statement, NATO's International Security Assistance Force (ISAF) said the soldiers died on Tuesday.

The nationalities of the soldiers were not revealed, according to policy.

The deaths bring to 125 the number of foreign soldiers to have died in Afghanistan so far this year, according to an AFP count based on a tally kept by the independent casualties.org website.

The toll far outstrips that of the same time last year — when deaths for the first three months were fewer than 80 — as the war against Taliban militants has escalated, especially in southern strongholds.

The number of US and

NATO-led troops is set to rise to 150,000 by August under a counter-insurgency strategy marrying military and civilian efforts to eradicate the militant presence and establish Afghan sovereignty.

The strategy is currently being tested in Helmand Province, where poppy-production is controlled by Taliban and drug traffickers in areas that have long been outside government control.

Mexico-bound bus crashes in Texas, killing two

CAMPBELLTON, 17 March —A crowded bus carrying young families and spring breakers toward Mexico went careening off a Texas highway and flipped onto its side on Tuesday, killing two people and forcing dozens of bloodied passengers to climb to safety through broken windows and an emergency exit.

The Americanos USA bus left San Antonio with 42 people on board and was headed to the Mexican border city of Matamoros, with planned stops in Falfurrias and McAllen, Texas.

About 45 miles from San Antonio, the bus driver heard a loud noise before the bus veered from the right lane of Interstate 37.

The bus spun toward the grassy median and landed on its right side, said Chuck Garriss, the emergency management coordinator for Atascosa County.

Daryl Champagne, 17, of San Antonio, who was on his way to South Padre Island with two high school classmates for spring break, said he was thrown through a window and was wedged between the bus and the ground before he managed to crawl free.

“I think we did a 180. We flipped and I was out the window,” said Champagne, who had cuts from glass all over his back. “I went through to the ground and was out of the bus.”

New START treaty to combine offensive, defensive weapons

Moscow, 17 March—Russian Foreign Minister Sergei Lavrov reassured on Tuesday that the new strategic arms reduction treaty (START) with the United States will combine offensive and defensive weaponry.

Lavrov reiterated Russia’s stance concerning the issue in a joint Press conference with his Ukrainian counterpart Konstantin Grishchenko broadcast live by local TV station Russia Today.

“It would be comfortable for Moscow to sign the strategic arms reduction treaty with Washington in Kiev, but the choice is up to the Russian and American presidents,” said Russia’s top diplomat.

Lavrov also said that Russia would be happy to sign the new START treaty with the United States in Kiev, Russian news agencies reported.

“There will be a legally binding link with missile defence, so no problems will arise,” he said.

Earlier Russian media reported that Kiev had suggested to serve as the venue of the signing ceremony, in an effort from the newly elected Ukrainian President Viktor Yanukovich to position as a link between Russia and the West.

Grishchenko said at the Press conference held in Moscow that signing the new START treaty in Kiev would strengthen non-proliferation regime.

L American countries seek to eradicate hunger, poverty

QUITO, 17 March—Agriculture ministers from Latin America and the Caribbean discussed on Tuesday how to eradicate hunger and poverty in their countries by 2025.

The ministers debated common strategies to fight hunger and poverty, though the situation in each country was different.

The meeting, entitled “Latin America and the Caribbean without Hunger 2025,” was convened in order to fulfil one of the UN Millennium Goals.

Ecuadorian Agriculture Minister Ramon Espinel said that the Latin American and Caribbean countries should eradicate extreme poverty and hunger by 2025. However, this goal has not been achieved by all.

“The joint effort is very important, but it is also of crucial importance what every country does to achieve this goal,” Espinel said.

“In Ecuador, we are working hard on this matter, because it is a constitutional mandate for the Ecuadorian people,” he added.

Belarusian President stresses strategic partnership with Venezuela

CARACAS, 17 March—Visiting Belarusian President Alexander Lukashenko on Tuesday stressed the strategic partnership with Venezuela and how the partnership can benefit the peoples of both countries.

During his speech to the Venezuelan National Assembly, Lukashenko expressed satisfaction with the strategic partnership with Venezuela which he called a trading partner in Latin America.

"Our countries are on different continents, but this does not interfere with our similar political insight. Both countries fight for their people, against oligarchy plans and imperial dominations," Lukashenko said.

Belarus and Venezuela now have 70 cooperation agreements and the trade volume between two countries stood at 200 million US dollars in 2009, which is expected by Chavez to increase to some 1 billion US dollars.

Lukashenko told Venezuelan lawmakers the trading platform headquartered in their country for selling Belarusian products to Latin American countries will be used to sell goods at low prices to members of the Bolivarian Alliance of the Americas (ALBA).

Shanghai Expo to boost China tour in Italy, says official

ROME, 17 March — The Shanghai World Expo will attract more Italian tourists to China, a tourist official from China's National Tourist Office (CNTO) in Italy said.

"This year has begun in the best of ways," director general of the CNTO's Italian office Xiong Shanhua told Xinhua in a recent interview. "In January there was a 47 percent rise in arrivals from Italy to China and we expect this trend to increase by 9-10 percent throughout the year compared with 2009. It is for sure the best January we have ever had," Xiong said.

More than 190,000 Italian tourists visited China in 2009 to savor the country's culture, history and natural scenery, he said.

Despite a 1.47-percent drop compared with 2008, Italian tourist arrivals increased 10 percent year on year in the second half of 2009, according to statistics from the CNTO.

Xiong said the positive data on Italy's growing China-bound tourism indicated the global economic crisis was about to end, adding that forecasts for the upcoming months were even brighter.

French policeman killed in suspected ETA attack

PARIS, 17 March—A French policeman died in a shootout southeast of Paris with Basque-speaking gunmen linked by Spanish media to the Basque armed separatist group ETA.

"Several leads were being explored" on Wednesday, said sources close to the inquiry, with the "most serious" implicating ETA after one of the men involved in the shootout was arrested and gave a Basque identity.

The firefight broke out near Dammarié-les-Lys, 50 kilometres (30 miles) southeast of the French capital, after a police patrol checked the identities of a group that had stolen cars from a garage.

Sources close to the inquiry said a police patrol tried to question three men and a woman in a stolen BMW near Dammarié-les-Lys when a second vehicle with two men on board pulled up and one of them opened fire.

A 52-year-old policeman died, hit in the thorax despite his bulletproof vest. His colleagues returned fire but it was not known if any of the group was hit.—Internet

Diamond-loving dog swallowed $20,000 gem

The owners of a Maryland jewelry store said a $20,000 diamond dropped in the shop by a dealer was immediately snatched up and swallowed by their dog.

Robert Rosin, one of the owners of the store, Robert Bernard Jewelry Store in Rockville, said a diamond dealer brought the three-plus carat rock to the store to show the owners and dropped the valuable gem on the floor in front of Soli, a rescue dog owned by George Kaufmann, another owner of the store, WJLA-TV, Washington, reported on Monday. "Twenty thousand dollars — that is all I could think about," Rosin said.

Kaufmann said a vet told him the best way to get the diamond out of Soli's belly was to wait for it to pass by natural means. "It was not that pleasant," Kaufmann said. "I followed him; I had to pick up his stuff; I had to go through the things. I can understand what it was like in the old Gold Rush. I felt like I had just hit pay dirt." He said the diamond came out after three days and was returned to the dealer. "It was a happy ending to say the least," Kaufmann said.

So, I was eager to write the new projects the ministry will have to implement.

I was warmly welcomed by officials of the Ministry of Industry-2 when I asked them for the projects. Due to their wholehearted help, I got facts about the new projects: the project to produce one-ton, 1.5-ton and two-ton electric automobiles, Solar Panel Project, small dredger project, Technical Institute (Magway) Project, and the project to produce rice milling machines that can mill rice from three to five tons a day.

The Ministry of Industry-2 has gained a lot of experience in auto industry.

The vehicles the ministry produces are fine, strong, and user-friendly, thus winning customer satisfaction. Now, the ministry has a plan to manufacture electric automobiles with the aim of catching up with the global changes in the auto industry.

The documentary photos and statistics on electric vehicles produced with international auto technology are very interesting and eco-friendly. They help curb air pollution because they consume less fuel.

Electric automobiles will be of one-ton, 1.5-ton and two-ton units, which are common sizes in workplaces. The ministry carried out thorough research to produce electric automobiles so as to avert potential weaknesses in the products.

Electric automobiles are useful, irrespective of worksite.

They will make contribution towards the transport sector. They are suitable for factories, mills, airports and hospitals. In particular, they can be used with convenience in transporting goods of light weight, and passengers.

Under the programme, the ministry plans to produce 200 units a year at the automobile factory in Yangon.

Now, fuel problem is common throughout the world. Each country is taking innovative measures to manufacture suitable automobiles. So, it is fair to say that the ministry’s project is prudent. I am confident that the project will bring a lot of benefits to the nation since the products are eco-friendly and they help reduce air pollution.

I was also informed about the Solar Panel Project of the Ministry of Industry-2 that is new to me. Once a thought came into my mind. “How nice it will be if the ministry produces solar panels.” Now, a dream has come true. The Ministry of Industry-2 is now in a position to fulfil the public requirements of household electrical apparatuses. Now, it is gearing up to pursue the Solar Panel

Project in line with the global changes.

The Solar Panel Project is designed to introduce new methods on producing solar panels; to produce military and civil apparatuses; to generate electric power from the rays of sun at low cost; and to help curb environmental degradation. So, it is, indeed, a welcoming project.

According to the demands, two megawatts of solar panels are due to be produced a year at the plant in Yangon under the ministry. Without doubt, the ministry will have to manufacture solar panels on a commercial scale for the domestic demand of solar panels is likely to be on the increase.

The Ministry of Industry-2 will soon install necessary machines to produce thin film solar panels locally.

Generation of renewable energy has been common in many countries. Today, fossil fuel is somewhat exhausted, and the world has turned its attention to solar power. Therefore, the Solar Panel Project will bring substantial benefit to the people.

On the whole, the project will surely serve the interest of the nation and the people to a certain degree.

Greece needs solidarity from Europe, not money

BUDAPEST, 17 March—Greek Prime Minister George Papandreou said on Tuesday that Greece needed support from Europe rather than financial aid.

Speaking in Budapest, Hungary, after meeting Hungarian Prime Minister Gordon Bajnai, Papandreou said that Greece was taking necessary measures to overcome its current economic problems but needed "breathing space" so that the measures could have "oxygen to survive."

Greece needed immediate help from the EU, Papandreou said, but he stressed that "we are not asking for money, rather a safety net for our reform package." The Greek measures aim to cut its budget deficit from 12.7 percent to 8.7 percent in 2011, and 4 percent by 2012.

He proposed an EU instrument of "solidarity" that would intervene in the markets so that Greece could borrow at rates similar to other countries in the eurozone and not too expensive for the country in the medium or long-term.

Papandreou said that beyond the short-term, Europe needs new financial and economic architecture such as a European Monetary Fund or eurobond loan facilities to combat financial and market instability.—Xinhua

Rocket attack destroys NATO oil tanker in NW Pakistan

PESHAWAR, 17 March—Suspected militants fired a rocket on a tanker carrying oil for NATO troops in Afghanistan, in northwest Pakistan's Khyber tribal agency on Wednesday, residents said. The tanker caught fire after hit by the rocket at Landikotal, the main city in Khyber agency, which is the main route for supplies to over 100,000 US-led NATO forces in Afghanistan. No one was hurt in the attack but the tanker was destroyed.

Residents said that traffic on the main road between Afghanistan and Pakistan was blocked after the attack. No group claimed responsibility for the attack. But several militant groups including Tehrik-i-Taleban Pakistan (TTP) are active in the region.

Commander says tough year ahead for US military in Afghanistan

WASHINGTON, 17 March—David Petraeus, commander of US Central Command, told Congress on Tuesday the military faces a tough year ahead in Afghanistan, but violence level there is unlikely to rise as high as the 2006 peak in Iraq.

Petraeus told the Senate Armed Services Committee in a hearing that US military and its NATO allies have "spent much of the past year working to get the inputs right in Afghanistan," and "we're starting to see the outputs."

The United States has added a third of the 30,000 additional forces it plans to have in place in Afghanistan by August, Petraeus said. NATO partners have committed to adding 9,000 forces to the effort.

He said the recent offensive in Afghanistan's Helmand Province is the beginning of a larger campaign which will "unfold over the next 18 months, and it's going to likely get harder before it gets easier."

"We're not likely to see the levels of violence we saw at the peak in Iraq, but 2010 will be a difficult year. We will see a reversal of the Taliban, but it's going to be tough fighting and periodic setbacks," he acknowledged.

US President Barack Obama's July 2011 target for the start of a US drawdown in Afghanistan has given Afghan leaders a sense of urgency in building up their own forces, Petraeus said.

Seizure of energy, food may incite new world's conflicts

JAKARTA, 17 March—Indonesian President Susilo Bambang Yudhoyono said that the world's future conflicts could possibly be incited by the seizure of energy, food and water resources, local media reported here on Wednesday.

"In the past, conflicts used to be fomented by ideology-, religion- and territory-related issues. Now it is already over," the president was quoted as saying by the local media the Detik. com.

He said there are less chances of conflicts incited by those factors and that the future conflicts could be incited by the efforts to secure energy, water and food resources.

According to the president, major countries in the world are now taking efforts to secure energy, water and food resources for their people amid the diminishing volume of those resources in the world.

"The problems become more complex as the world is now facing impacts of climate change," the president added.

President Yudhoyono pointed out four efforts necessary to be exercised by global community to avoid the conflicts fomented by the countries' efforts to secure those three resources.—Xinhua

Honda recalls 412,000 US vehicles for 'soft' brakes

CHICAGO, 17 March—Honda announced the recall of an estimated 412,000 vehicles in the United States because of problems with "soft" brakes, in the latest blow to the embattled Japanese auto industry.

Honda said the problem can result from air accumulating in a "vehicle stability assist modulator," which causes the pedal to get closer to the floor than normal before the vehicle stops.

The move came a month after Japan's second-biggest carmaker recalled more than 437,000 vehicles worldwide to fix airbags that it said can explode and spray out potentially deadly metal shards.

In January, some 646,000 Honda Fit and Jazz vehicles were recalled worldwide because the power window switch could short out and cause a fire if too much water got into the door handle.

OPEC has no need to change output ceiling

ABU DHABI, 17 March—The Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) has no need to change its output ceiling as current oil prices between 70 and 80 US dollars per barrel are "acceptable and reasonable" for both producers and consumers, United Arab Emirates (UAE) Energy Minister Mohammed bin Dhaen Al Hamili said on Tuesday.

"The current levels of oil prices will enable OPEC member states to secure investment for boosting crude oil output capacities in the years to come to catch up with pace of economic growth," Al Hamili was quoted by the state news agency WAM as saying ahead of an OPEC ministerial meeting in Vienna on Wednesday.

It is unreasonable to predict that the meeting will put forward a resolution on production ceiling in the coming period, he said, adding that current data in the oil market do not invite a change in the targeted output level.

EU to review trade policy towards developing countries

BRUSSELS, 17 March—The European Commission on Tuesday launched a public consultation on review of the European Union (EU)'s trade policy towards developing countries.

EU Trade Commissioner Karel De Gucht announced the launch of the consultation at a conference, which was designed to discuss publicly how to maintain the effectiveness of the EU's General System of Preferences (GSP) in promoting development, how to make the most of regional trade agreements with developing countries, and how to encourage sustainable development.

But the consultation was specifically about the review of the EU's GSP scheme, under which the EU grants tariff preferences to developing countries. The results of the consultation would feed into the commission's future proposal on an updated GSP regulation.

"In formulating its trade policy towards developing countries the EU needs to take into account recent changes in the global economic landscape with emerging economies playing an increasingly important role. However, more vulnerable developing countries are still facing challenges in exploiting the full potential of trade," said De Gucht.

Some breast cancers detected by exam

ROCHESTER, 17 March — Some breast cancers are still detected as a palpable lump rather than through mammographic screening, US researchers say. Patients who presented with palpable tumors — those detected as a result of breast complaint or during examination — had larger tumors and were at a more advanced stage at diagnosis. The women who underwent annual mammographic screening had the lowest rate of palpable presentation.

Dr Amy C Degnim of the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn., said the data suggested clinical breast examination and breast self-examination should continue to play a role in detecting breast cancer.

"We were a little surprised to find that the percentage of women with breast cancer who presented with a palpable lump hadn't changed much since 1990," Degnim said in a statement. "We found that 43 percent of breast cancers at Mayo Clinic Rochester in 2000 had a palpable presentation and most of the women had undergone some prior screening mammograms, but not always at the recommended annual interval."

A total of 115 women were in the 40-49 age group with 67 breast cancers identified by the patients or their doctors and 48 found by mammography, the study concluded.

Healthy weight advised before pregnancy

LITTLE ROCK, 17 March — A child's body-weight-regulating mechanisms might be permanently altered by a mom-to-be's signals linked to the mother's overweight, US researchers say.

Kartik Shankar of the Arkansas Children's Nutrition Centre in Little Rock, Ark., and colleagues are taking a closer look at how influences that occur in the womb — and perhaps during the first few months of life — might affect development of a child's ability to regulate his or her weight later in life.

Shankar looked at weight gains among rats pups whose dads were lean and whose mothers, called "dams," were either lean or overweight — from overfeeding — before conception and throughout pregnancy.

All offspring were of normal weight at birth and at weaning. However, when the weaned offspring were given free access to an unlimited amount of high-fat rations, the offspring of overweight dams showed remarkable sensitivity to the high-fat rations.

The pups gained significantly more weight, and more of that weight as fat mass, than did the offspring of lean dams, the researchers say.

The study is published in Agricultural Research magazine.

Italy to celebrate for first time World Theater Day

ROME, 17 March — Italy will celebrate for the first time on 27 March the World Theater Day with a series of initiatives aimed at spreading awareness on this important artistic form, officials said at a press conference on Tuesday at the government's headquarters.

Undersecretary of State Gianni Letta, president of the organizing committee, said the festivity offers an "opportunity to celebrate and make people get familiar to the theater by conveying its values and significance."

On 27 March theaters across the country will be open with non-stop performances. School stu-

Rooney is Real's top target

MADRID, 17 March—Big-spending Real Madrid, who suffered an embarrassing Champions League exit, are eyeing Manchester United star Wayne Rooney as they prepare for next season, according to reports on Tuesday.

The 24-year-old is the "favourite" of Real chairman Florentino Perez "for the new plan," the newspaper ABC said.

Perez "has had his eye on Rooney for a long time, even more so in view of the great season he's having."

The England striker has unleashed an incredible burst of 24 goals in his last 22 matches that have kept United in contention in both the Premier League and Champions League.

But Spanish media say it is unlikely that Rooney will follow former United star David Beckham to Spain. Real are unlikely to accept the probable 70-million-euro price tag and United manager Alex Ferguson is unwilling "to lose a player who is a substitute for Cristiano" Ronaldo, the Portuguese winger who was signed by Real last year for a world record fee.

Mourinho warns Abramovich as Inter beat Chelsea

LONDON, 17 March—Inter Milan manager Jose Mourinho has warned Roman Abramovich that Chelsea may never win the Champions League after the former Blues boss returned to dump his old club out of the competition.

Mourinho masterminded Inter's 1-0 victory in the last 16 second leg at Stamford Bridge on Tuesday which clinched a 3-1 aggregate success and left Chelsea owner Abramovich still waiting to fulfil his dream of winning Europe's elite club event.

Ever since he was sacked by Abramovich in September 2007 following a lengthy power struggle with the Russian billionaire, Mourinho must have dreamed of the moment he would exact his revenge.

Thanks to his inspired game-plan, Inter's resolute defending and a superb goal from Samuel Eto'o, Mourinho was able to prove his point and deny his former employer the trophy he prizes most.

Mourinho resisted the temptation to gloat too much but he made it clear there is no guarantee Chelsea will ever win such a demanding competition. "I know that Roman is a very intelligent person. And because of this he is not the same person he was one year, three years or five years ago," Mourinho said.—Internet

Baghdatis topples Federer in Indian Wells

INDIAN WELLS, 17 March—Marcos Baghdatis toppled Roger

Roger Federer of Switzerland leaves the court after losing to Marcos Baghdatis of Cyprus during the BNP Paribas Open on 16 March, in Indian Wells, California.—INTERNET

Federer 5-7, 7-5, 7-6 (7/4), saving three match points en route to his first victory in seven tries against the Swiss world number one.

"Seven is my lucky number," Baghdatis said on Tuesday after polishing off the 16-time Grand Slam champion in two hours and 22 minutes to reach the fourth round of the Indian Wells ATP Masters 1000.

He finished it off with a service winner on his first match point - after surviving a match point in the 12th game of the third set, when Federer netted a backhand.

Villa push for Europe back on track

WIGAN, 17 March—James Milner put Aston Villa back at the heart of the battle for Champions League football next season with the decisive strike in a 2-1 win over Wigan here on Tuesday.

The England World Cup hopeful struck the winner just after the hour mark after Gary Caldwell had cancelled out the James McCarthy own goal which had gifted Villa the lead.

The victory left Villa in seventh place in the Premier League table but they are just three points off fourth-placed Tottenham with a game in hand over their rivals.

Sevilla rue Palop howler as CSKA progress

MADRID, 17 March—A costly goalkeeping blunder from Sevilla captain Andres Palop helped CSKA Moscow qualify for the Champions League quarter-finals for the first time with a 2-1 win here on Tuesday.

The Russians march on to uncharted waters at the expense of Sevilla having secured a 3-2 aggregate victory.

With the last 16 tie level at 2-2 Palop allowed Japan international midfielder Keisuke Honda's long-range free-kick to creep in on 55 minutes and Sevilla could not find the two goals they needed as they joined Spanish counterparts Real Madrid in exiting the competition. Tomas Necid shot CSKA into a 39th minute lead only for Argentine Diego Perotti to equalise two minutes later and level the tie 2-2 on aggregate. Palop then underestimated the ferocity of 23-year-old Honda's free-kick which forced its way in and proved the decisive moment in the tie.—Internet

Gerrard ban could take shine off Liverpool win

LIVERPOOL, 17 March—Liverpool captain Steven Gerrard is in danger of a three-match ban after appearing to elbow Portsmouth's Michael Brown in an off-the-ball incident during his side's 4-1 victory on Monday.

The Football Association may yet take action after studying film of the clash which happened during the second half at Anfield - and it could bring a suspension that would rule Gerrard out of their meeting with Manchester United next Sunday.

Gerrard was substituted shortly after Brown was flattened in an incident that was not punished by referee Stuart Attwell, who thought it was a "coming together" between the players. "They were asking me about it, but I didn't see it. I prefer to enjoy the game," said Liverpool manager Rafa Benitez afterwards.—Internet

Woods will return to golf at Masters on 8 April

PALM HARBOR, 17 March—For Tiger Woods, this figures to be a Masters like no other.

Woods said Tuesday he will end more than four months of seclusion and play at Augusta National in three weeks, shielded by the most secure environment in golf as he competes for the first time since a sex scandal shattered his image.

"The Masters is where I won my first major and I view this tournament with great respect," Woods said in a statement. "After a long and necessary time away from the game, I feel like I'm ready to start my season at Augusta."

The Masters begins April 8.

No other major championship attracts such a large television audience, and that's under normal circumstances.
