Ayeyawady Delta to enjoy highest development rate

The 200-bed hospital in Pyapon Township, Pyapon District, Ayeyawady Division, was opened the other day. It was upgraded from a 100-bed one with the donations by a well-wisher family.

The 200-bed hospital in Labutta District and 25-bed hospital in Pyinsalu will be put into service soon. In addition, the two 100-bed hospitals, one in Bogale and the other in Mawlamyinegyun, are being built.

Being blessed with fertile soil and a large number of rivers and creeks and adjacent to the sea, Ayeyawady Region stands as a source of crops and fish and meat. Local people, therefore, have to make good use of those favourable conditions.

Over two years ago, Ayeyawady Region was hit hard by a cyclone "Nargis", encountering wholesale death and destruction. Thanks to collaborative efforts of the government, the people and the Tatmadaw and relief supplies by donors, the storm-hit areas have enjoyed better living conditions than ever before.

A network of 10 roads linked with seaside areas is being built. So far, the delta has more than 400 bridges, large and medium, including Yazudaing Bridge No (1) and No (2). The remaining roads in the region will be upgraded to tarred ones. Meanwhile, more railroads are being built in the region. The Hinthada-Zalun railroad section has been put into commission.

With abundant agricultural produce, meat and fish, Ayeyawady Region has achieved food security. It enjoys cumulative development in the economic, education and health sectors. The region has to keep working hard, harnessing natural resources and mobilizing concerted efforts of local people so as to become a region with the highest development rate in the nation.

Iran says it killed 30 perpetrators of deadly bombing

TEHRAN, 28 Sept—Iranian Revolutionary Guards have killed 30 perpetrators of last week's deadly bombing at a military parade in western Iran, apparently in a cross-border raid in Iraq, state-run media reported on Monday.

Abdolrasoul Mahmoudabadi, the Guards commander in the Province where the parade was bombed, said those killed included "mercenaries" working for the United States, which he implicated in the bombing, the state-run television's website reported.

"Thirty of the main elements of the terrorist attack in Mahabad were killed" in an operation on Saturday, Mahmoud-abadi said. Wednesday's bombing had targeted a military parade in Mahabad in West Azerbaijan Province, killing 12 people and wounding at least 81 others. Most of the victims were reported to be women and children.

"These terrorists were comprised of (Iraq's) old Baathist regime officers and American mercenaries," Mahmoudabadi said without giving details. He said the Revolutionary Guards and volunteer Basij militia were involved in the attack.

"The weapons seized from them shows that the American intelligence service was behind it (the bombing)," he added.

Mohammad Pakpour, commander of the Guards' ground forces, had implied that the 30 were killed in a cross-border raid in Iraq.

"As soon as the terrorists and other anti-revolutionaries gathered in an area on the other side of the (Iraqi) border, the Guards launched the operation," the television website reported on Sunday.

Gunmen abduct 15 school children in southern Nigeria

LAGOS, 28 Sept—Unidentified gunmen have kidnapped 15 school children in their school bus in Nigeria's southern Abia State on Monday.

The driver of the bus had picked the children at designated points and was on the way to school when the suspected kidnappers struck, local media reported.

A Toyota Camry saloon car blocked the bus and the occupants, brandishing a gun, ordered it to stop.

"As the driver came down, the hoodlums collected his cell phone and ordered him to lie face down while they drove off with the pupils towards Etche in Rivers," the News Agency of Nigeria quoted an eyewitness as saying.

State police spokesman Geoffrey Ogbonna said he was yet to get any report on the incidence. The kidnappers are said to be demanding 20 million naira as ransom. The state government, last week, gave kidnappers in the State two weeks ultimatum to surrender their weapons and be rehabilitated by in an amnesty programme.

Mexican mayor found hacked to death

MEXICO CITY, 28 Sept—The mayor of Tancitaro, a small town in the central Mexican state Michoacan, was found hacked to death, the State Attorney's Office told Mexican broadcaster Milenio. Gustavo Sanchez was found dead alongside Rafael Sanchez's death comes just four days after gunman killed Prisciliano Rodriguez Salinas, mayor in Doctor Gonzalez, a small town in the northern Mexican state Nuevo Leon. At least 10 mayors had died in attacks linked to the nation's drug cartels this year, Mexican political parties said.

In response to recent deaths, Mexican President Felipe Calderon condemned the murders and restated his commitment to fight against organized crime. An estimated 28,000 people have been killed by drug gangs since Calderon beefed up crackdowns on cartels in late 2006.

Study zeroes in on likely eruptions

LEEDS, 28 Sept—A study of recent volcanic activity in Africa has revealed a method to pinpoint where volcanic eruptions are likely to occur, British researchers say.

Scientists from the universities of Leeds along with US and African researchers studied volcanic activity in the remote Afar desert of Northern Ethiopia from 2005 to 2009, a release said.

Looking at a sequence of magmatic events, where molten rock flowed into a crack between the African and Arabian tectonic plates, they found the location of each event in the sequence was not random.

Instead they were linked, because each event changed the amount of tension in the earth's crust, the researchers said.

By monitoring levels of tension in the ground near where each event occurred they found subsequent eruptions were more likely in places where the tension increased.

One researcher compared the linkage to that observed for earthquakes.

"It's been known for some time that a large earthquake has a role to play in triggering subsequent earthquakes, but until now, our knowledge of volcanic events has been based on isolated cases," Ian Hamling at the University of Leeds said.

"We have demonstrated that volcanic eruptions can influence each other."

'Fifty percent of spilled oil remains in Gulf'

WASHINGTON, 28 Sept—Over half the oil released from a busted BP well remains in the Gulf of Mexico, a presidential panel has been told, contrary to government claims, as the US pointman lamented a "dysfunctional" response to the disaster.

Interior Secretary Ken Salazar meanwhile told the bipartisan commission the spill had bolstered a drive to reform federal regulations for offshore drilling, promising that lessons were learned with a moratorium still in place.

In an ominous sign for residents of states on the Gulf of Mexico, however, oceanographer Ian MacDonald said that while much of the oil was dispersed, evaporated or removed by burning and skimming, "the remaining fraction — over 50 percent of the total discharge — is a highly durable material that resists further dissipation."

The assessment implied some 2.5 million barrels of oil — or 105 million gallons — was still embedded in the fragile ecosystem, out of the estimated 4.9 million barrels that gushed into the Gulf during the 87 days before the well was capped.—Internet

Will your new film be a hit? Ask the web

WASHINGTON, 28 Sept—Tracking web searches for new songs, video games and movies can predict which ones will be big hits, but often not much better than traditional methods, researchers at Yahoo Inc reported on Monday.

And they confirmed earlier findings that showed searches associated with diseases, such as Google's Google Flu Trends, were not any more effective than traditional methods for predicting the spread of infections. Tracking web searches worked the best in predicting how a new video game would sell, Yahoo's Sharad Goel and Jake Hofman said.

"Here we show that what consumers are searching for online can also predict their collective future behavior days or even weeks in advance," they wrote in a report published in the Proceedings of the National Academy of Sciences. "Specifically we use search query volume to forecast the opening weekend box-office revenue for feature films, first-month sales of video games, and the rank of songs on the Billboard Hot 100 chart, finding in all cases that search counts are highly predictive of future outcomes," they added.—Internet

BlackBerry maker RIM unveils tablet computer

SAN FRANCISCO, 28 Sept— BlackBerry smartphone maker Research In Motion Ltd (RIM) on Monday unveiled a tablet computer named BlackBerry PlayBook, which is seen as the company's answer to Apple Inc's iPad. The PlayBook is expected to be available in the United States in early 2011 and later roll out in other international markets, RIM said while introducing the tablet at its annual developers' conference held in San Francisco.

RIM's PlayBook features a seven-inch touch screen, smaller than that of the iPad, and weighs about the same at nearly 400 grams.

Unlike the iPad, the PlayBook has front and rear facing cameras for video capture and video conferencing that can both record HD video at the same time. It is powered by a dual-core, one gigahertz processor and will run a new operating system called BlackBerry Tablet OS, which is built upon the platform of QNX, a company bought by RIM earlier this year.

PlayBook users can pair the tablet with their BlackBerry smartphone using a Bluetooth connection, RIM said, noting that content stored on the smartphone is only temporarily cached on the tablet.—Internet

EU finds no narcolepsy link to flu vaccine

LONDON, 28 Sept— There is no evidence to link GlaxoSmithKline's H1N1 swine flu vaccine Pandemrix to cases of narcolepsy, European drugs regulators said on Thursday, but a full review is needed and will take three to six months.

The European Medicines Agency (EMA) said its Committee for Medicinal Products for Human Use had reviewed all available data on the suspected link between narcolepsy and Pandemrix.

"The committee concluded that the available evidence was insufficient to determine whether there is any link between Pandemrix and reports of narcolepsy, and that further studies were necessary to fully understand this issue," it said in a statement.

Narcolepsy is a rare sleep disorder that causes a person to fall asleep suddenly and unexpectedly. Its precise cause is unknown, but it is generally considered to be triggered by a combination of genetic and environmental factors.

Glaxo said in a statement that the total number of cases of narcolepsy following immunization with Pandemrix reported to it as of September 17, 2010, was 80, the majority of which were from Sweden and Finland.

Pandemrix has been used since September 2009 for vaccination against H1N1 pandemic flu, also known as swine flu, and has been given to at least 30.8 million Europeans.

"We will also continue our own investigation in an effort to gather additional data and information regarding the reported cases," Norman Begg, chief medical officer at GSK Biologicals, said in a statement.

Researchers find youth athletes are more likely to sustain concussions and to take longer to recover from concussions than adults. # Kayin Peoples Party presents its policy, stance and work programmes

NAY PYI TAW, 28 Sept—Chairman U Saw Tun Aung Myint and Vice-Chairman (1) Professor Dr Saw Sai Mon of Kayin Peoples Party presented the party's policy, stance and work programmes on radio and TV on 28 September.

The translation of their presentations is as follows:—

I am Chairman U Saw Tun Aung Myint of Kayin Peoples Party. My Kayin name is Saw Sar Tu Waw. I thank the authoritative body for granting us permission to speak to the people.

At first, I would like to define the name of our party. Our party is led by Kayin nationals, so it is named Kayin Peoples Party. Indeed, our party represents the entire people. Therefore, the word "peoples" is embodied in the name of our party. According to the political dictionary, the term "peoples" means ordinary class, ordinary people, those representing the majority of the people living through thick and thin. So, I would say not only Kayin nationals but also people of any other national race can join our party. Ours is not narrow-minded policy and we invite the entire people to our party. Anyone may be member and stand for election through our party.

Our party is designed to gain space and platform to submit matters in the interest of the entire Kayin nationals and represent the entire people including Kayin nationals.

Our party's concept is that the nation can enjoy economic growth only with State stability and community peace. Only then, can every citizen enjoy higher living standard and the nation can enjoy development and keep abreast of neighbouring countries.

From the political point of view, it is impossible to achieve democratization process overnight, and it calls for great care and patience. If democratization is carried out in haste, there may be adverse effects on the nation.

Regarding the economic sector, we think that our country will enjoy greater economic development if the market economy is practised freely and we invite foreign investments.

Regarding the education sector, we think an education system should be launched in which every child has easy access to education and job. Ethnic minorities also should have access to learning their languages and literatures. Our Union is home to various national races, so we should seek ways to strengthen national unity.

Regarding the health sector, a cost-effective health care system should be launched for ordinary people. In other words, there should be more funds on education and health care. Development can be achieved only if the people are convinced of the fact that education and health care is the best investment for them.

Regarding social affairs, we should encourage altruistic associations and provide them with assistance.

Regarding national races affairs, only when all national races remain united will it be possible for the nation to enjoy development. So, we have to show magnanimity and seek all possible ways to build trust between one national race and another.

Regarding national reconsolidation, we should open door to peace talks and implement plans step by step.

Regarding political parties, we will join hands with all Kayin parties and Kayin nationals that share objectives with us. We will work together with any congenial party.

Kayin Peoples Party will work without personality cult and attachment to our party if necessary for public interest. We will give top priority to long-term interest of the nation.

We target national races hluttaws with which we can serve greater interest of Kayin nationals. And we will also stand for Pyithu Hluttaw and Amyotha Hluttaw. We will give second priority to Region Hluttaws in which we can directly deal with the public. In forthcoming elections, we will stand for:

- 5 seats in Nationalities Hluttaw
- 24 seats in Region / State Hluttaw
- 5 seats in Amyotha Hluttaw
- 7 seats in Pyithu Hluttaw, totaling 41.

In conclusion, I would like to urge the people to vote for the candidates they like. Elections will come true, so there is no use of choosing abstention. The people should take part in elections for transition to democracy.

I am Vice-Chairman-1 Professor Dr Saw Sai Mon of Kayin Peoples Party. I am glad to have the opportunity to make a presentation to the people. First, I wish you all health and happiness.

As our Chairman has presented the party's policy, stance and work programmes, I will now present some points that have not been clearly known among the people, especially among the Kayin people.

First, I would like to say why I have entered politics from retirement. In short, the reason is that I want to leave the best heritage to the younger generation, based on my experiences. I have chosen to take part in the transition to the people's government with a constitution. In other way, I have planned to play a role in nation-building endeavours. As we have come from retirement, we would be only statesmen but we could not be smart politicians.

As said by the Chairman, our aim is to create platform and space for Kayin nationals and for the people. Among the eight majority groups of national races in the Union of Myanmar, I want the pillar of Kayin to stand firm in order to help develop the Union.

Although we came form the army, police force and government departments, we are the ones born of the people. So, we have come to the knowledge of people's desires. As for the basic principles of the constitution, our party has signed in the testimony to maintain and protect the State constitution and so have the other remaining parties. I think all candidates will accept the fact that the Tatmadaw government will try its best to hold free and fair elections showing its magnanimity towards the people's parties as the people have understood Tatmadaw's taking of 25 percent of seats in the transition period.

After regaining independence, the Union of Myanmar wrote the constitutions in 1947 and in 1974. In 2008, a constitution was drafted and has come into operation. The previous 1947 and 1974 constitutions did not prescribe the rights of minority groups of Myanmar. In Article 161 of the 2008 constitution, the rights of minority groups are prescribed.

Kayin people live in many parts of Myanmar. They are very weak in national political awareness. The objective of Kayin people has lost its way as well.

This is why Kayin Peoples Party will implement the following three tasks.

- (1) for organizing Kayin people living in many parts of the nation to live closely
- (2) for Kayin people to be politically awaken
- (3) for Kayin people to improve their socio-life

For the affairs of Kayin nationals, our party has five candidates in Yangon Region, Ayeyawady Region, Bago Region, Taninthayi Region and Mon State. A candidate to take charge of affairs of Kayin nationals will represent the majority of Kayin people. Only a representative of Kayin national party will be able to carry out Kayin national affairs completely.

A free and fair election is actually necessary. A people's government can be formed only if the people can choose without any influence. A free and fair election is the lifeblood of the upcoming elections. Only with the real desires of the people, can peace and prosperity of the future nation be envisioned. A real representative for Kayin national affairs can be chosen only through a free and fair election.

Our Kayin Peoples Party will compete not only on mainland but also in Kayin State. We have four candidates in Toungoo of Bago Region and Thantaung Township. We have given the chance to the local Kayin Party (Phalon & Sawaw) to compete in other regions of Kayin State.

We will not guarantee any responsibilities we cannot take as our party has been formed recently and it is in its young age. We will only guarantee that our party will try its best for the sake of the people and Kayin nationals depending on time and circumstances by negotiating with other parties with common belief, attitude and conviction.

Our party has only 41 representatives in the upcoming elections. Although the number is small, the representatives will really serve the best interest of the people. So we would like to request for the ardent support of the people. I conclude here saying that Kayin People's Party has vowed to work hard to serve the best interests of the people, including the Kayin nationals.

houses and buildings worth more than K 700 billion. In the township there were 3rd mile and 5th mile camps and 53 other temporary rescue camps to shelter about 50000 victims. In order to systematically provide emergency food, medicines and health care, temporary camps were built in many parts as front, middle and rear camps. Labutta Township was a strategic middle camp for rescue work.

With the motto of the central committee 'Every survivor must remain alive', the victims from nearby areas were evacuated to the middle camp and provided water, food and medicines. In order to prevent infectious diseases following the storm and to train the victims to be physically and psychologically healthy, 17 middle health camps were opened round the clock, hospital ships established and groups of traditional practitioners sent to treat the survivors.

At the same time, damaged office buildings, schools, hospitals, dispensaries and religious buildings were repaired immediately. Low-cost housing were built and farm, marine and salt businesses regenerated for the victims. Besides, reconstruction tasks such as establishment of mangrove forests, construction of cyclone shelters, embankments and a network of 11 roads and development of education, health and social sectors of the storm-hit regions were carried out. All have been known that the storm-affected regions have developed in a short time and now they have developed more than ever.

In line with the guidance of the Head of State on rehabilitation work, 'Let's replace bricks with hewn stone, the 25-bed hospital has been upgraded into a 200-bed one so as to take preparedness measures against natural disasters and provide health care for the local people. Moreover, new Labutta town was built on a hillcock in order to prevent natural disasters such as floods, tsunamis and storms. As the hospital has been upgraded into the 200-bed one, specialists specialized in six main subjects and 12 basic subjects have been appointed.

The Prime Minister said he praised the storm victims for being able to stand tall with new spirit in their region that has been developed more than ever thanks to the kind help of the State, the Tatmadaw and the people although they had experienced such an unthinkable disaster. Based on that spirit, they are to continue to work hard for development of individuals, their families and region.

Minister urged the health staff to try to provide health care for the full convenience of the local people, to give health education talks down to the rural areas and to ensure that all health facilities built with noble goodwill of the Head of State are for all the citizens. As people's hospitals are responsible for health care services round the clock, health staff are to try to be reliable persons for the State and the people.

All in all, taking lesson from the success of Nargis rehabilitation that has been achieved with the cooperative strength of the government and the people, all are to cooperate with the government in successfully holding the multi-party democracy election on 7 November and to choose the good, patriotic persons who have the spirit of defending the Union with consideration. The success of elections is concerned with the image of the State as well as every citizen. So, the State, the people and the Tatmadaw are to prevent those attempting to disrupt the elections.

Next, the Prime Minister asked about health, social and economic conditions of the region and cordially greeted those present.

Bayintnaung brokerage houses in Yangon are standing as a trading centre for all beans and pulses coming out of the country. This year beans and pulses arrival was much higher than last year. They were distributed to local market, especially to foreign market.

Joint Secretary-1 U Than Nyein said, "export banks on demands. We are exporting 10,000 tons of green gram and 40,000 tons of other beans and pulses to India a week."

Green gram, pigeon pea and mung bean are the country's major export items. Last year, 550,000 tons of green grams, 250,000 tons of pigeon pea and 150,000 tons of mung bean were exported.

Central Executive Committee member of the association Dr Myint Oo

Central Executive Committee member of the association Dr Kyaw Win explained, "There are local demand and foreign demand in the market. Local demand is the purchase of dealers from immediate environs of Bayintnaung brokerage houses who will export the grain on their own. Foreign demand is direct purchase from the local companies and Myanmar-based foreign companies."

Myanma beans and pulses are exported to India, Malaysia, Dubai, Pakistan, Bangladesh, Japan, South Korea and China (Taipei). They find ready markets abroad. Therefore, living condition of beans and pulses growers are enjoying better socio-economic status.

Daho-Montana ski area plans $20M expansion

SPOKANE, 28 Sept.—Lookout Pass Ski Area on the Idaho-Montana border is planning a $20 million expansion that would more than quadruple its terrain, add eight chairlifts and a second base area, and encompass two additional peaks, according to a report in the Spokesman-Review.

The ski area has submitted a 20-year plan to the US Forest Service that considers the improvements in phases.

“There’s a need,” said Lookout Pass chief executive Phil Edholm told the Spokesman-Review. “People like affordable recreation, and that’s what we offer here.”

The ski area operates on national forest land under a special use permit. The plan is subject to environmental reviews and will involve input from officials with the Idaho Panhandle and Lolo National Forests, the newspaper reported.

The ski area sits atop the Idaho-Montana divide, about 80 miles east of Spokane, Wash. It currently operates three chairlifts that access about 540 skiable acres, and employs about 100 part-time workers in the winter.

Lookout Pass’s full 20-year expansion would add 2,000 more acres to the ski area. If two proposed new peaks were accessed, the ski area’s current peak elevation of 5,800 feet on Runt Mountain would increase to about 6,200 feet.

Apart from crew training, Singapore is also the only place outside of the United States to offer training on repair of composite materials.

Teens skip family dinner, higher drug risk

GAINESVILLE, 28 Sept.—US teens who eat fewer than three family dinners per week are more than twice as likely to say they expect to try drugs in the future, researchers say.

Dr Scott Teitelbaum, an associate professor of pediatrics and psychiatry at the University of Florida College of Medicine and medical director of the Florida Recovery Center, and colleagues say the report reveals that 72 percent of teens think eating dinner frequently with their parents is very or fairly important.

Compared with teens who have frequent family dinners — five to seven times per week — those who have infrequent family dinners are:

- * Twice as likely to have used tobacco.
- * Almost twice as likely to have used alcohol.
- * One-and-a-half times more likely to have used marijuana.

LONDON, 28 Sept — A Malaysian scientist is expected to be appointed as "world leader" with

Scientists discover 'off switch' for migraine pain

LONDON, 28 Sept — Migraine sufferers could have their headaches "switched off" after researchers discovered a gene that acts like a pain thermostat in the brain. The finding could allow scientists to create a new generation of drugs that can simply turn up the threshold at which the body feels pain.

The study, by scientists at Oxford University and in Canada, found that a gene called TRESK appears to be fundamental in causing migraines. It is believed that it controls the sensitivity of pain nerves in the brain and, if faulty, can bring the threshold so low that just living is painful.

This is why migraine sufferers are so sensitive to light, sounds and even touch. But the gene is also susceptible to being switched on and off with drugs, which means that it could be altered to increase the threshold to such an extent it eliminates the feeling of pain altogether.

Masterpieces of watermelon sculpture

BEIJING, 28 Sept — It's getting to be the season to pick pumpkins and carving jack o' lanterns for Halloween, but in the small city of Pinghu in Zhejiang Province, everyone knows how to carve watermelon lanterns.

Many melons are elaborate works of folk art in Pinghu where kids as young as eight years and residents as old as 80 sculpt and etch the melons into things of beauty, glowing from within.

They carve them all year round, since the melons grow all year, but September is the month of the annual Watermelon Lantern Festival, held since 1985. At night, 3,000 fantastic lanterns light the street, creating a warm, somewhat greenish glow.

The nearby river, the moonlight and pipa (Chinese lute) music create a magical scene. Pinghu melons are famous around China for their flavor, sweetness and abundant juice. So these are not only delicious but also beautiful to behold.

"Wow! These are amazing!" says Hu Yamei, a 50-year-old visitor from Shanghai, staring at a display of watermelon lanterns, some carved like Kunqu Opera masks, some like landscapes and traditional gardens.

Haibao, the World Expo 2010 mascot, is another favorite subject. The art of carving watermelons has become a famous folk art and dates back around 200 years in Pinghu.

Musician performs in eight countries in 24 hours

A German musician who wanted to break a world record and promote his new CD gave concerts in eight countries this weekend — all in 24 hours. Vicente Patiz, 34, first performed in the northwestern German City of Oberhausen on Saturday and then drove more than 1,000 km (600 miles) to give more concerts in Belgium, the Netherlands, Luxembourg, France, Switzerland and Liechtenstein, performing his final concert in Austria on Sunday.

The concerts, at which Patiz played Mediterranean guitar music he had composed himself, lasted up to 1-1/2 hours and were attended by between 20 and 100 people. "The concerts weren't all held at sociable times," he said. "It was a bit difficult to get the Swiss to come to a concert first thing on Sunday morning."

"I'm a little bit tired but very proud," the professional musician said.

The feat is due to be entered into the Guinness World Records, he added.

The current world record is held by Jeff Aug, who gave six concerts in six countries within 24 hours in March 2009.

Mayonnaise spill causes highway pile-up in Japan

A load of mayonnaise falling off the back of a lorry in Japan caused an eight-vehicle pile-up, leaving three people injured, police said Monday.

The accident, involving a motorcycle, two trucks and five cars, closed part of a two-lane highway for five hours early Saturday in Hyogo prefecture, said police official Masaaki Miyazaki. None of the injuries were serious.

According to witnesses boxes filled with bottles of mayonnaise fell off the back of the truck, he said.

"What probably happened is that cars travelling behind the truck squashed the bottles of mayonnaise, spreading it on the road," he said.

The sauce's ingredients of eggs, vinegar and oil mean "it is more slick and dangerous than snow", he said.

Police were searching for the truck driver, he added.

Residents live on Aussie 'no-name' street

Residents of a 2-mile-long street in Cararra, Australia, say they have been struggling with red tape since their road lost its name years ago.

In a realignment of busy Nerang-Broadbeach Road, a stretch of road with 30 homes, two trailer parks and two small businesses, was turned into a service road—and lost its name in the process, The (Brisbane) Courier-Mail reported Monday. Since then residents of the Brisbane suburb, some of whom have lived there for 30 years, have been haggling with the city to get an official name for their street.

Satellite navigation system companies, street directory editors and even the Gold Coast City Council have been left confused over what to call the stretch of road eight years after the realignment, the newspaper said.

'Titanic' co-star Gloria Stuart dies at 100

LOS ANGELES, 28 Sept—Gloria Stuart, the 1930s Hollywood beauty who gave up acting for 30 years and later became the oldest Academy Award acting nominee as the spunky survivor in "Titanic," has died. She was 100. Stuart died of respiratory failure Sunday night at her Los Angeles home, her daughter, Sylvia Thompson, said Monday. The actress had been diagnosed with lung cancer five years ago and had beaten breast cancer about 20 years ago, Thompson said.

"She did not believe in illness. She paid no attention to it, and it served her well," Thompson said. "She had a great life. I'm not sad. I'm happy for her." In her youth, Stuart was a blond beauty who starred in B pictures as well as some higher-profile ones such as "The Invisible Man," Busby Berkeley's "Gold Diggers of 1935" and two Shirley Temple movies, "Poor Little Rich Girl" and "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm." But by the mid-1940s she had retired.—Internet Bollywood superstar Khan will be hoping for third time lucky at next year's Oscars, after the latest movie he produced was chosen as India's entry for the Best Foreign Language Film category.

MUMBAI, 28 Sept—Bollywood superstar Aamir Khan will be hoping for third time lucky at next year's Oscars, after the latest movie he produced was chosen as India's entry for the Best Foreign Language Film category.

"Peepli Live" — a biting satire about the divide between rural and urban India and the problem of farmer suicides — beat 26 other films to be submitted for the longlist, Film Federation of India secretary general Supran Sen said.

Khan, who produced the film, welcomed the nomination and said it stood a "very good chance" of success. Two other films he has produced have previously been selected as India's official Oscar entry.

US author Tania James presents her first novel "Atlas of unknowns" at the "Fiction America" literary festival at Vincennes, just outside Paris. Her novel, which was published in 2009, follows two sisters, Linno and Anju, whose mother died — perhaps committed suicide — when they were both young.—INTERNET

Two worlds collide in Tania James's fiction

VINCENNES, 28 Sept—When Tania James writes she travels, navigating between her parents' birthplace in India and the United States where the young author has spent most of her life, she told AFP.

"Atlas of Unknowns", her first novel, shuttles constantly between India and New York, as she explained in an interview at the "Fiction America" literary festival at Vincennes, just outside Paris.

Does she think of herself as Indian or American? Born in the 1970s in Chicago, James grew up in Louisville in Kentucky and a few months ago moved to Washington with her husband.

by one year through until June 30, 2012.

The contract, which mirrors a similar extension for the Dutchman's assistant Andries Jonker, was signed in the Swiss city of Basel, where Bayern play in the Champions League on Tuesday.

Despite Bayern's patchy start to the season, club officials have been at pains to say they were committed to van Gaal staying on.

"We don't change our mind after one defeat," Monday's Bild newspaper quoted chairman Karl-Heinz Rummenigge as saying in reference to Bayern's 2-1 defeat to Mainz on Saturday.—Internet

Captains issue Twitter ban for Ryder Cup players

CARDUFFM 28 Sept — US and European players have been banned from using Twitter and other social networking sites during the Ryder Cup.

US captain Corey Pavin and European counterpart Colin Montgomerie say there will be a blanket ban in place this week to keep players focused on the three-day competition, which begins on Friday at Celtic Manor.

"We have decided as a whole to not tweet this week," Pavin said. "It can be a little bit distracting sometimes. I think it's important to focus on the Ryder Cup and playing the matches and just enjoying camaraderie with the team itself.

"But first thing a week from today, I'm sure tweeting will be all over the place."

Montgomerie also told his players to avoid Twitter and other sites and "focus on the job at hand this week."

Manchester United bid to end Spain jinx

MADRID, 28 Sept — Manchester United look to end their miserable European record in Spain on Wednesday as they search for their first Champions League win of the season at Spanish league leaders Valencia. United have won just once in 18 matches in Spain against Spanish opposition, with their only win coming in the 2001-02 Champions League quarter-final first leg at Deportivo La Coruna.

They will have their work cut out against an unbeaten Valencia side who have won four out of their first five league matches to top the Spanish top flight.

Europe's football underdogs return to form

PARIS, 28 Sept — Unheralded Mainz top the table in Germany, Cesena have led Serie A, Saint-Etienne are back at the summit of the French first division and Barcelona were beaten, at home, by minnows Hercules.

Strange things are afoot in European football.

Over the early weeks of the season, in every major league on the continent, the big guns have struggled and the lesser lights have seized their chances.

Mainz beat reigning German champions Bayern Munich 2-1 on Saturday to record their sixth win in six league matches.

Their completely unexpected form has taken them to the top of the Bundesliga for the first time in their history, while Bayern are already 10 points off the pace in ninth.—Internet

Barca play Euro guessing game over Messi

MOSCOW, 28 Sept — Barcelona may be tempted to throw Lionel Messi into Champions League action against Rubin Kazan on Wednesday despite the Argentine superstar having been sidelined by an ankle injury.

World footballer of the year Messi was in the 19-man squad which travelled to Russia for the Group D clash despite the Spanish giants sitting comfortably, having crushed Panathinaikos in their opening game.

Messi, who has missed the last two league games, scored twice in that match but Barcelona are wary of a Rubin Kazan side which pulled off a famous 2-1 win at the Nou Camp on their competition debut last season.
