Conserve natural ecology of Inlay Lake

Many environmental challenges triggered by climate changes such as global warming, extinction of biodiversity, desertification and shortage of freshwater have taken the centre stage, and the world countries have been turning serious attention to the best solution to the global issue: growing trees all the more and conservation of forests and woodlands.

Standing at an altitude of nearly 3000 feet, Inlay, a large lake in a plateau in Nyaungshwe Township, Shan State (South), is a place where there are several famous pagodas, villages, floating vegetable patches, and cottage industries of national races, as well as a natural habitat with natural ecology of biodiversity. So, the natural lake is the major tourist attraction in Myanmar.

Now, the watershed areas of Inlay Lake are deteriorating in consequence of deforestation, silting, hillside cultivation, slash and burn farming, and horizontal expansion of crop farming in the lake. Naturally beautiful sites and biodiversity in and around the lake can be on the verge of extinction soon if the condition of the lake goes from bad to worse.

The lake has been conserved in successive periods. Now, the Forest Department is stepping up its tasks for conserving the natural resources in the areas within a 20-mile radius of the lake, including setting up plantations, mixed plantations of crops and trees, plantations for firewood, and watershed plantations.

The people of the villages around the lake are being educated about conservation of the environment and soil, and using natural pesticides and fertilizers in place of chemical ones.

The flora and fauna in the lake are of large varieties of species including regional herbs and orchids, aquatic and migratory birds, and large numbers of species of fish. Therefore, local people need to work hand in hand with service personnel in conserving the natural lake for its durability.

Another NATO soldier killed in Afghanistan's restive south

KABUL, 29 Aug — A NATO soldier was killed in an operation in Afghanistan's restive southern region on Sunday, bringing the number of military alliance casualties to three in a single day Sunday, NATO said on Monday.

"An International Security Assistance Force service member died during an operation in southern Afghanistan yesterday," said a statement issued by NATO-led International Security Assistance Force (ISAF) here on Monday morning.

Another ISAF soldier was killed in an Improvised Explosive Device (IED) attack in southern Afghanistan while the third service member lost his life in a militant attack also on Sunday in the same region, according to separate ISAF statements issued on Sunday.

However, the brief statements did not provide details about the exact place of incidents and nationality of victims, only saying it is ISAF policy to defer casualty identification procedures to the relevant national authorities. Troops mainly from US, Britain, Canada and Australia have been stationed in the southern region within the framework of ISAF to fight Taliban militants there.

Taliban militants, whose regime was toppled in a US-led incursion in late 2001, have intensified activities since the militant group announced to launch spring offensive against Afghan security forces and NATO-led troops stationed in Afghanistan on 1 May. Over 410 NATO soldiers, most of them Americans, have been killed in Afghanistan since the beginning of this year.—Xinhua

No vaccine and autism link found

HEALTH

WASHINGTON, 29 Aug— A review of 1,000 studies found no links between vaccines and autism and type 1 diabetes, a team of US researchers said.

A committee of experts convened by the Institute of Medicine, a non-profit group outside the framework of the US federal government to provide independent guidance and analysis to improve health, said few health problems are caused by or clearly associated with vaccines. The committee said its review found convincing evidence of 14 health outcomes — including seizures, inflammation of the brain and fainting — that can, in rare instances, be caused by certain vaccines.

The group found indicative, though less clear, data on associations between specific vaccines and four other effects, such as allergic reactions and temporary joint pain.

In addition, the review found convincing evidence that the measles-mumps-rubella (MMR) vaccine can lead to fever-triggered seizures in some recipients, although these effects are almost always without long-term consequences, the report said. The MMR vaccine appears to trigger short-term joint pain in some women and children, the experts said.

“The findings should be reassuring to parents that few health problems are clearly connected to immunizations, and these effects occur relatively rarely,” Ellen Wright Clayton, professor of pediatrics and law, at Vanderbilt University, Nashville, said in a statement.

“And repeated study has made clear that some health problems are not caused by vaccines.”

The sale marks one of the biggest since the downturn in US commercial real estate four years ago.

It attracted more than two dozen buyers, said a source who was not authorized to speak on the record. The total price paid for all the loans was between $7 billion and $8 billion, the source said.

To attract a large pool of potential buyers, the portfolio was broken into eight separate pools according to the performance of the loans and the length to maturity. The first three pools to $3.5 billion, the source said. Wells Fargo recently bought a $1.4 billion performing loan portfolio from the failed Bank of Ireland for about par, another source said.

Global distressed debt and equity investor Lone Star won the remaining five pools of sub-performing and non-performing loans. The five pools have a face value of about $5 billion.

Those loans, which could lead to the buyer either getting the property or restructuring the loans, had attracted other private

Samsung launches mobile instant messaging tool

Tech

SEOUL, 29 Aug—Samsung Electronics Co said on Monday it would launch a mobile instant messaging tool in its latest push to attract more consumers to its handsets and challenge rivals such as Apple and BlackBerry maker Research In Motion.

The new service, called ChatON, will be available from October and preinstalled in Samsung's feature phones as well as smartphones running on its own bada operating system and Google's Android software, it said.

With the move, Samsung enters an already crowded mobile messaging market, which telecoms carriers fear will hit revenue from profitable text messaging services.

Apple plans to roll out iMessage, enabling the millions of iPhone and iPad users to send messages to one another over the Internet at no cost, and RIM aims to leverage the popularity of its BlackBerry Messenger with a new music service.

Samsung's messaging tool will work across all major smartphone platforms including iPhone and BlackBerry and will allow users to send text, images, and hand-written notes, as well as chat in groups and share video clips.

Details of Sony's S1 PlayStation Tablet revealed

Tech

NEW YORK, 29 Aug—Technology blog Engadget has uncovered additional details about one of Sony's forthcoming tablets, previously announced as the S1 tablet.

"The official name of the S1 is the Sony PlayStation Tablet S," revealed Engadget, adding that Sony is "currently projected to bring its 9.4-inch (1280x768) screen to market in the first two weeks of September."

In April Sony announced that its S1 tablet would run version 3.0 of Google's Android operating system but Engadget believes the touchscreen device will ship with the newer Android 3.1. Honeycomb OS "with an eye towards upgrading to Ice Cream Sandwich once that's available."

The S1 is designed for media consumption with a 9.4-inch display, two cameras and a curved-top, "off-centre design" that is conducive to extended viewing sessions.

Sony has previously said that the tablets will be able to "smoothly access digital content including videos, games and books through Sony's premium network services and more, on-the-go at any time."

Engadget provided further details about the S1's connectivity adding that it will provide seamless access and control of all devices in the home thanks to integrated WiFi, DLNA-compatibility and an IR blaster.

Both tablets will have access to Sony's existing Qriocity music and video streaming service and readers will be able to download digital titles from Sony's Reader Store.

Engadget did not provide any details about Sony's second book-like dual-screen S2 tablet.

"What we don't know yet is [the Sony PlayStation Tablet S's] final price — we'd heard $599 previously — but there should be more to say about that and the clamshell S2 tablet soon," wrote Engadget.

It will be interesting to see how Sony fares in the tablet war, considering its tablets are not expected to be launched until mid-September 2011.

HP has already announced its intention to leave the tablet game after its first WebOS-based TouchPad tablet failed to gain traction in the lucrative tablet market against Apple's second edition iPad and the onslaught of Android-based rivals from LG, HTC, Motorola, Samsung, and Archos.

Interestingly, consumers have been clambering to get their hands on one of the discontinued HP TouchPads since the prices dropped from $499.99 to $99.99 in a so-called "fire sale."—Internet

Cassini closes in on Saturn's tumbling moon Hyperion science

WASHINGTON, 29 Aug—NASA's Cassini spacecraft captured new views of Saturn's oddly shaped moon Hyperion during its encounter with a cratered body on 25 Aug. Raw images were acquired as the spacecraft flew past the moon at a distance of about 15,500 miles (25,000 kilometres), making this the second closest encounter.

Hyperion is a small moon — just 168 miles (270 kilometres) across. It has an irregular shape and surface appearance, and it rotates chaotically as it tumbles along in orbit. This odd rotation prevented scientists from predicting exactly what terrain the spacecraft's cameras would image during this flyby.

However, this flyby's closeness has likely allowed Cassini's cameras to map new territory. At the very least, it will help scientists improve colour measurements of the moon. It will also help them determine how the moon's brightness changes as lighting and viewing conditions change, which can provide insight into the texture of the surface. The colour measurements provide additional information about different materials on the moon's deeply pitted surface.

Cassini's closest encounter with Hyperion was on September 26, 2005, when the spacecraft flew approximately 310 miles (500 kilometres) above the moon's surface.

Cassini's next flyby of Hyperion will be on Sept. 16, 2011, when it passes the tumbling moon at a distance of about 36,000 miles (58,000 kilometres).

The Cassini-Huygens mission is a cooperative project of NASA, the European Space Agency and the Italian Space Agency.

permission of the medical superintendent; that separate funds are set with the programme of the physician in charge of the ward concerned; that drugs are also replenished under the departmental funds accounts (03-01) and (05-03); that the Department of Health is taking measures to buy some more ambulances in transferring patients from suburban hospitals to Yangon General Hospital; and that so there will be unnecessary delays in transferring patients; that previously, Yangon General Hospital had three radiotherapy machines, and one of them was beyond repair two years ago; that now, one modern machine and one old machine are all, and each patient has to wait for three to four months; that public contributions were received commencing August 2009 to import Theratron Phoenix Eternal Therapy System from Canada; that it arrived at Radiotherapy Unity of Yangon General Hospital on 26 July 2011, and it is now in the process of being installed by the foreign engineer; that in the first week of September, one more engineer from Canada arrived with source, and in cooperation with experts from I.A.E.A, he is adjusting the radiation, and the machine will soon be transferred to Yangon General Hospital; that the process of regularly receiving patients is expected to start by this October; that with the help of this foreign expert, the machines out of order will be repaired and needed parts will be imported with the help of I.A.E.A; that if all the three machines are serviceable, each patient has to wait for only one month; that during the period of one month, necessary arrangements can be made and lab tests can be made; and that a similar question on need to appoint more doctors from universities of medicine was answered at the fifth-day session of Pyithu Hluttaw on 26 August.

The Union minister said that the question raised by U Aung Thein Lin from South Okkalapa Constituency is similar to that of Dr Than Win.

In response to the question of U Soe Naing from Pyapon Constituency if necessary amendments will be made the rules on bank interest rates in the interest of exporters, businessmen and the people, Union Minister for Finance and Revenue said that the interest rates of the Central Bank of Myanmar are set as necessary on deposits and loans to help improve the nation's economy; that according to the Central Bank law and rules, the Central Bank of Myanmar lays down monetary policies occasionally reviewing the economic and financial conditions of the nation to boost and stabilize the nation's economy; that in changing the interest rates, one of the monetary means, the Central Bank of Myanmar lowers interest rates as it needs to encourage investments to deal with the nation's economic downturn and accelerate the nation's economy, and it needs to increase interest rates when the economic growth and inflation rate are high; that to fix bank interest rates, it needs to take account of the economic objectives and prevailing conditions of the nation; that the deposits and loans of banks are on the increase; that the government keeps an eye on bank interest rates and related economic points including bank interest rates for industrial loans; and that necessary plans will be underway when it is opportune to adjust interest rates in the interest of the savers and borrowers.

In response to the question of U Shwe Maung (a) Adu Rawseph from Buthidaung Constituency what the government will do to dissuade national experts from going abroad and persuade national experts living abroad to return to the motherland in the interest of the nation and the people, Union Minister for Home Affairs Lt-Gen Ko Ko said that some of the Myanmar young people staying abroad for further studies do not return to the country and keep living and earning their living there; that some national experts are emigrating to foreign countries; that some do not go abroad for good, but are working for companies and enterprises in the foreign country concerned they are living; that working in a foreign country is based on the extent of patriotic spirit of individuals; that every citizen can enjoy fundamental rights of citizens according to the 2008 constitution; that all citizens have been fully granted the rights, so national experts can work freely in the countries; that the nation welcomes back any national experts who can work for the country.

It is found that to go abroad, some Myanmar citizens have practiced illegal ways including breaking laws and staying in foreign countries after going abroad illegally. Legal action can be taken anyone who go abroad illegally. Responsible departments are working together with ASEAN Police Force and International Police Force to arrest those who have violated law and stay in foreign countries.

The government has planned to work together with experts to stop the movement of Myanmar scholars to foreign countries and to attract them to come back to Myanmar.

Under the supervision of the Ministry of Labour, licensed employment agencies sent altogether 586,806 semi-skilled and general workers to 15 foreign countries from 1990 to July, 2011 and no scholars were sent to foreign countries. As part of efforts for creating more job opportunities for scholars, the government has been creating opportunities for those who want to do investment in the country in high-tech factories and research and services. Besides, the ministry is making efforts to attract Myanmar scholars in foreign countries to work in the country.

Afterwards, Union Minister for Sports U Tint Hsan replied the questions raised by U Aung San, a representative of Pabedan Constituency, on "whether any plan to introduce a bill for life security of athletes in an attempt to produce outstanding athletes in Myanmar, and any plan to hire experienced international coaches to train Myanmar athletes who will participate in the XXVII SEA Games in 2013 and to make friendly matches with foreign athletes and teams."

The Union Minister said as part of efforts for improvement of sports, there are 187 sports grounds, 84 stadiums, 50 tennis courts and stadiums and grounds for other sports across the country. To achieve success in the upcoming SEA Games, the ministry has organized division/state sports competitions and made field trips to select the new generations of sports athletes. Moreover, the ministry has planned to hold the Champion Challenge Cup Tournaments for sports clubs in states and divisions as from September, 2011, and to provide cash, sports equipment and awards to them.

To produce new generations of athletes from universities, colleges and basic education schools, the ministry has arranged to send trainers of the ministry to universities, colleges and schools to train athletes there in timetables and has made coordination with responsible personnel to hold sports competitions for students. The ministry will help the selected new generation athletes receiving trainings at respective sports federations and send them to the Sports and Physical Education School 2 to become the country's selected athletes. Arrangements are being made to do research on and to apply international sports techniques and to do search on sports medical science and to apply it in an attempt to improve the sports standard.

So far 28 foreign coaches have been hired for 18 sports federations, and arrangements are being made to hire qualified foreign coaches for remaining sports federations, to train selected athletes along with skilful athletes from foreign athletes to boost their speed and to make friendly matches with sports teams from foreign countries.

Therefore, the ministry has made efforts for life security of athletes and will consider the bill, and has laid down plans for hiring more coaches from foreign countries and to organize more friendly matches, the Union Minister for Sports said.

Afterwards, Member of the Pyithu Hluttaw Bill Committee U Stiphen proposed the open letter signed and announced by 23 hluttaw representatives with the name of People's Representatives and National Races Representatives to the Hluttaw. The Pyithu Hluttaw agreed and recorded it. The open letter was covered in the issues of dailies dated 9, August.

Afterwards, ten representatives discussed the proposal "to provide necessary arrangements for drafting a bill of the Prisons Act which is agreeable to the 21st century and guarantee human dignity and to introduce the bill to the third regular session of the first Pyithu Hluttaw" submitted by U Thein Nyunt of Thingangyun Constituency. Union Minister for Home Affairs Lt-Gen Ko Ko said not to waste energy of the prisoners and to benefit the State, the prisoners at prisons, labour camps and new life camps are assigned to agricultural, livestock breeding and production jobs. The ministry has allowed the prisoners to enjoy their wages. But, their wages are saved at the prisons and they are allowed to get back their wages when they are released. At new life camps, the prisoners are called workers and they can save their wages, their family members are allowed to visit and stay with them and hospitals, clinics and schools are set up for them. Besides, if they wish to live in the new life camps when they are released, the ministry provide them with homes, land for farming, farming equipment, loans free and help them to live with dignity in societies.

Moreover, with the aim of not only punishing them, but also improving their mental and physical abilities, the prisoners have to learn vocational skills, and meditation centers are also opened for them so that they become good citizens and are not willing to commit crime again.

At present, the draft of the Myanmar Prisons Act (2006) have already written as the bill and plans are underway to introduce the bill to the Hluttaw in accordance with rules and regulations, the Union Minister said.

U Thein Win from Constituency No. 9 of Sagaing Region asked whether issuance of individual trading cards will be allowed with fixed period for traders with medium and small capitals and whether goods prohibited from importation will be allowed for legally importation and his another question is that whether export taxes on border trade can be reduced as trading taxes on regular trade activities have been reduced from 8% to 5%.

The Union Minister answered that each individual was issued trading card in border trade camps including Tamu border trade camp as it was not possible to set up companies when border trade camps were first established in 1995; that in spite of this, there emerged difficulties due to weakness in accuracy of statistics, lack of standardized trade activities, and difficulties to design taxes and that the issuance of individual trading card was ceased in 1999-2000 and trading cards are issued only after establishment of companies, with a view to habit of regular trading system; that companies now have to register at Directorate of Investment and Companies under Ministry of National Planning and Economic Development and Directorate of Trade under the same ministry is issuing exporters and importers registration cards for trade activities; that traders with medium and small capitals if they have difficulties in setting up companies can register as import, export cooperative syndicate and offices of Border Trade Department in border areas can help them apply for trading cards.

Of the nine prohibited goods, importation of green peas and gram measures will be checked in accord with the procedures to provide locals at border areas for consumption; that as to sugar, refined sugar is allowed to import with the recommendation of Sugarcane Growers Association, but it will need recommendation of the Food and Drug Administration as it is foodstuff; that edible oil is currently not allowed for importation through borders but through seas with the recommendation of the FDA; that for sugar importation through border it would be more suitable to form a group or company under the permit, recommendation and supervision of the region/state government and ask for importation of the required amount with the recommendation of the FDA; that importation of ahmwe and papala, being foodstuffs, is allowed with recommendation of the FDA; that as to importation of various kinds of medicines, it is allowed if applied with drug importation approval certificate and drug registration certificate issued by the FDA of Health Department under the Ministry of Health in addition to recommendation of the FDA; that as to wheat seeds and

U Hline Oo from Constituency No. 12 of Ayeyawady Region said that adequate capitals will be needed to help increase of agricultural production for increased incomes of farmers; that it costs about K 220,000 to grow one acre of rice plants meeting the set standards; that one acre of green gram and leguminous plant costs K 170,000 and the current rate of agricultural loans disbursed by the State is K 20000 per acre of

The Union Minister replied that it is a question concerned with the Ministry of Commerce, Ministry of Agriculture and Irrigation and Ministry of Cooperatives and he would answer the question based on the replies of those ministries; that rice dealer companies and beans dealers companies were set up in accord with the set qualifications commencing 2009-2010 cultivation season in a drive for development of Myanmar rice and crops industries; that from 2009-2010 cultivation season until now, 39 rice dealer companies and 21 beans and pulses dealer companies, totaling 60 companies have been registered in Ayeyawady, Bago, Sagaing, Magway and Yangon regions and Rakhine and Shan states and Nay Pyi Taw Council Area; that those companies provided agricultural loans and inputs worth K 16947.31 million (16.947 billion) to 45909 farmers for 313691 acres of farmlands in 2009-2010 summer and monsoon paddy cultivation season, agricultural loans and inputs worth K 4115.91 million (4.116 billion) to 15564 beans and pulses growers for 116281 acres in 2009-2010 beans and pulses cultivation season; that agricultural loans and inputs worth K 29318.67 million (29.319 billion) were provided to 82192 farmers for 628542 acres of farmlands in monsoon and summer cultivation season in 2010-2011 fiscal year and agricultural loans and inputs worth K 6640.18 million (6.64 billion) were provided to 18747 beans and pulses growers in 2010-

He went on that registration of 11 rice dealer companies, six beans and pulses dealers companies and one agricultural company, totaling 18 companies in 18 townships is in the process and so there will be 50 rice dealer companies, 27 beans and pulses dealer companies and one agricultural company totaling 78 dealer companies and plans are underway to provide greater amount of agricultural loans through establishing more dealer companies.

He noted that Myanmar Agricultural Bank has been providing loans of K 20000 per acre of paddy and K 10000 per acre of other crops in 2011-2012 cultivation season and according to the directives of the President, the bank has increased the amount of loan for paddy to K 40000 per acre and been providing additional K 20000 for an acre of paddy commencing 16 August, 2011.

U Tin Maung Myint of Taninthayi Region Constituency No. 3 raised a question that local coastal fishing boats are being in trouble because of trawling boats casting nets within about one mile off the coast in western sea of Taninthayi Region. They are illegally carrying out fishing works even in no-fishing period, using lighting boats with the use of over voltage than permitted and unlawful fishing nets that lead to fish extinction. He asked the long-term arrangements so as to prevent extinction of natural species in fishing.

Union Minister for Livestock Breeding and Fisheries U Tin Naing Thein replied to the question that the ministry has designated the sea 10 miles away from coast as offshore waters in which 30-foot-long boats with not more than 20-horsepower engine are issued with license to fish. It is stated that over 30-foot-long boats with more than 20-horsepower engine are labeled deep-sea boats. Their fishing area is designated outside the area 10 miles away from the shore. If trawling boats and deep-sea boats are found fishing in offshore waters, they are fined under the title of undisciplined boats. If anyone comes forward with undisciplined boats, Fisheries Department will take actions against those undisciplined boats.

The fishing area around Kyunsu Township, Watphyutaung and Thanya Ami island is claimed as no-fishing zone during fish and prawn reproduction season. He requested that it is needed to inform the officials of undisciplined boats in order to take action against them.

The Fisheries Department of the Ministry has issued Notification No (13/2010) dated 30-4-2010 defining Cod End Mesh Size to 2 inches and banning fishing with high-voltage induction fishing tackle for survival of fish and prawn resources and sustainable production.

Departmental personnel inspect the size of fishing nets before departure of fishing boats at respective stations to ensure the use of eligible nets.

A paper reading session on survivability and production of fish and prawn resources from Myanmar's offshore fishery was held on 1 and 4 July, 2011, as an attempt of the Ministry to avert the situation of fish and meat insufficiency following extinction of fish species. As a result, 37 resolutions were adopted to ban fishing tools which could hurt the fishery resources and to take actions against fishing boats which fail to abide by the rules. These resolutions and regional cooperative measures of Southeast Asia Fisheries Development Centre for sustainable conservation of fishery resources are long-term plans for protection of biodiversities.

U Phone Myint Aung of Yangon Region Constituency (3) asked "whether magistrates in Myanmar visit prisons and reports under Court Directives (8/62) and (8/68) or not and if any, whether the statement will be released or not". Union Chief Justice U Tun Tun Oo answered that the Court Directives (8/62) and (8/68) are instructions for magistrates to visit jails monthly to acquire the interruption of criminal hearings. The living, food and health situations of detainees and prisoners are to be included in the report of their visit. It was when the Correction Department was under the Ministry of Justice that these directives were issued.

The 1974 Public Judge Group Law, 1988 Judiciary Law and 2000 Judiciary Law suggest that the judges have the rights to visit jails, labour camps, and police custody camps to ensure legal rights to those serving prison terms and under custody and to avoid delay of the hearings and so does 2010 Union Judiciary Law. So, it is in accord with the Union Judiciary Law.

In response to the question raised by U Zarad Rawmam (a) U Htay Win of Rakhine State Constituency (7) that "indigenous Myanmar Muslim voters in Maungtau District of Rakhine State cannot travel freely; to travel other Regions or States for economic, education, health and social reasons, they have to take out Application Form (4) of Immigration Department under the directive of Na-Sa-Ka, forcing them to face many difficulties in socio-economic life; and how the state will help address this issue". Union Minister for Immigration and Population U Khin Yi answered that those who are labeled "Myanmar Muslims" were assumed to be Bengalis in Maungtau of Rakhine State; as Maungtau neighbored with another country for about 152 miles and Bengalis in Maungtau have shared common religion, culture, appearance and language with their counterparts in another country, they have exchanged communications between the two countries a long time ago; taking advantage of these facts, the foreign Bengalis illegally entered our resource-rich country and mixed with local Bengalis by marriages.

As there was mass migration, 180,000 were given refuge after being scrutinized by Nagarmin Operation and Hintha Plan in 1978 in need of stability of border region and nationalism; the 230000 took refuge again till July 2005 in measures under the bilateral agreement started on 22 September, 1992; to date, the refugee camp is still opening but no person requested refuge; though, the migration is still happening; and these migrations penetrate not only into the neighbouring region but deep into the country.

These facts cause complexities; so the Application Travel Form (4) is used to scrutinize them as the security of the State and the national duties.

The use of Travel Form (4) is not the travel ban but a application of scrutiny system; they are allowed to go every village and even every places where they like to visit in the township; if they were about to go beyond the township in the state, the permission of respective township, district and State immigration and national registration departments is needed and the permission of regional authority with the recommendation of State head of the department is needed to travel outside the state; to date, all applications for travel which satisfy the conditions are passed; depending upon education, health and social needs, the extensions are allowed; from 1 January, 2011 to 28 August, 2011, 360 persons are allowed to travel to Yangon; many are allowed extensions; in regard of education, there are 23 students in respective universities as the extension for education was increased to the whole academic year from 1 July, 2011 to 28 August, 2011.

From 2005 to 2011, 258 migrants were arrested, but no action was taken against them and they were sent back to their original places; the number hundreds indicate that the systematic supervision is still needed.

So, the Application Form (4) is used in need of State's security and nationalism as the foreign Bengalis illegally migrated into Maungtau of Rakhine State.

Then, Amyotha Hluttaw Bill Committee Chairman U Mya Nyein submitted Report of Amyotha Hluttaw Bill Committee on Union Election Law Amendment Bill and presented existing provisions, to-be-amended provisions and suggestions of the committee.

Regarding Section 3 of the Amendment Bill, he suggested the amendment that "the Union President shall form Union Election Commission for holding Hluttaw elections and supervising political parties; in forming UEC, at least five members including Commission Chairperson shall be designated".

Regarding Section 4, he said that the proposal of UEC is appropriate as some provisions in Section 398 Sub-section (b), Sub-section (c) (i, ii, iii and iv), Sub-section (e) and Sub-section (h) of the Constitution are added.

Regarding Section 6, provision in Sub-section (b) should not be included and the amendment that if the post of Commission Chairperson or member is vacant, the Union President shall designate new person. The term of newly designated Chairperson or member is the remaining term of the commission should be included in one Sub-section.

Regarding Section 7, existing provision should not be amended.

Regarding Section 8, the amendment of UEC is appropriate because the duty and rights in Section 396 of the Constitution are included as Sub-section (j). Member of Union Election Commission U Aung Myint submitted the proposal to approve the bill. Dr Khin Maung Lay of Bago Region Constituency (8) seconded the proposal.

The Amyotha Hluttaw Speaker read out amendments of the bill paragraph by paragraph. When the approval was decided, the Hluttaw approved the bill as amended by the Hluttaw Bill Committee.

Amyotha Hluttaw Bill Committee Secretary U San Tun read out Report the Bill Committee regarding Labour Organization Bill. Union Minister for Labour U Aung Kyi submitted the proposal to approve the bill. A Hluttaw representative seconded the proposal.

Eat chocolate daily to reduce heart disease risk by a third

LONDON, 29 Aug— Here's good news for all chocolate lovers – a research has indicated that a daily dose of chocolate could slash the risk of developing heart disease by a third.

Scientists have known for some time that a small amount of cocoa-rich dark chocolate can be good for you because of its high antioxidant and anti-inflammatory properties.

But now a review of seven previous studies has suggested that the benefits may be more widespread.

Researchers analysed the studies of more than 100,000 participants with and without existing heart disease.

For each study, they compared the group with the highest chocolate consumption against the group with the lowest consumption.

Five studies reported a beneficial link between higher levels of chocolate consumption and the risk of cardiovascular problems. They found that the "highest levels of chocolate consumption were associated with a 37 percent reduction in cardiovascular disease and a 29 percent reduction in stroke compared with lowest levels," reports the Daily Express.

Researcher Dr Oscar Franco, from the University of Cambridge, said just how eating chocolate affects your heart remains unclear. He said further studies were needed to test if chocolate causes the reduction or if it can be explained by some other factor. The finding has been published online in the British Medical Journal.

Cancer patients in England 'three times more likely to get key drugs'

LONDON, 29 Aug — Campaigners have claimed that a "devastating divide" has opened up when it comes to accessing cancer drugs, after research revealed that people in England are much more likely to get drugs that their doctors think may work for them than patients living in Scotland or Wales

Using the Freedom of Information Act, the Rarer Cancers Foundation (RCF) gathered data from health trusts in England on the types of drugs approved through the government's cancer drugs fund. The fund, worth £200m a year, was set up so that patients in England could be given drugs that had been approved by their doctors but had not been given the go-ahead for widespread use on the NHS. The data was then compared with exceptional-case approvals for the same drugs in Scotland and Wales.

The analysis suggests that patients in England are three times more likely than people in Scotland to gain access to key cancer drugs, and five times more likely than patients in Wales.

Andrew Wilson, chief executive of the RCF, said the fund in England was "great news" for patients, but he was critical of the "devastating divide" that had opened up with Scotland and Wales.

Capello calls up United kids for Euro qualifiers

LONDON, 29 Aug —Fabio Capello has selected Manchester United youngsters Phil Jones, Tom Cleverley and Chris Smalling in his England squad for next month's Euro 2012 qualifiers against Bulgaria and Wales. Jones, 19, is called up for the first time after a superb start to his United career following a £16.5 million pre-season transfer from Blackburn, while midfielder Cleverley, 22, gets the nod again after being brought in as a late addition to the squad for last month's postponed friendly against Holland.

Defender Smalling, 21, was an unused substitute for a friendly defeat against France last season and is still waiting for his international debut. On the day United routed Arsenal 8-2 at Old Trafford and Manchester City beat Tottenham 5-1, Capello packed his squad with players from both Manchester clubs. Problems dog 'three kings' ahead of US Open

NEW YORK, 29 Aug — Novak Djokovic, Rafael Nadal and Roger Federer face a worrying power shortage, but Andy Murray doesn't expect injury and faltering form to dim tennis' brightest lights at the US Open. World number one Djokovic, the hottest player in 2011 with a 57-2 winning record, was forced to quit the Cincinnati Masters final against Murray when his weary right shoulder betrayed him.

Defending US Open champion Nadal, who completed the career Grand Slam with his victory in 2010, has endured a torrid summer since capturing a record-equalling French Open in June. Early exits in Montreal and Cincinnati again prompted questions over the Spaniard's recovery from a left foot injury which had flared up at Wimbledon when he lost to Djokovic in the final.

Nadal's mood wasn't improved when he burned his fingers on his right hand in a Cincinnati restaurant. Federer, meanwhile, is without a major since extending his record Grand Slam collection to 16 at the 2010 Australian Open. Djokovic, Nadal and Federer, having won 28 of the last 31 Grand Slam crowns. Certainly world number four Murray scoffed at suggestions they were particularly vulnerable.

Wenger plans transfer raids after massacre at United LONDON, 29 Aug — Arsene Wenger has vowed to end Arsenal's miserable start to the season by splashing the cash in the aftermath of his side's humiliating 8-2 defeat at Manchester United. Wenger saw his makeshift team put to the sword as a Wayne Rooney-inspired United inflicted one of the heaviest defeats in Arsenal's history at Old Trafford on Sunday.

The woeful Gunners conceded eight goals for the first time since 1896 in a craven capitulation that served to highlight Wenger's need to bolster a side that has been ravaged by injuries, suspensions and departures since the start of the season.

Arsenal have failed to win any of their first three Premier League matches, losing to United and Liverpool, in a disastrous start which has confirmed the worst fears of Gunners fans. However, Wenger, who insists he has no intention of resigning, has money to spend and is poised to act by signing Monaco's South Korean striker Park Chu-Young, with more deals in the pipeline before the transfer window shuts on Wednesday.

Federer says he's still hungry as US Open starts

NEW YORK, 29 Aug — First came the end of Roger Federer's remarkable run of reaching a record 10 consecutive Grand Slam finals. Then he failed to make it to a major semifinal after a record 23 in a row.

The US Open marks Federer's last chance to prevent the close of another streak: In each season from 2003-10, he won at least one Grand Slam title — and sometimes as many as three. He's 0-for-2011 heading into the year's last major tournament, where play is scheduled to begin Monday morning, after what the US Tennis Association said was "minimal damage" to the site over the weekend from Tropical Storm Irene.

This US Open also is Federer's first major tournament since he turned 30 on 8 August. That age tends to represent a barrier to success in tennis: Of the past 100 Grand Slam titles, only five were won by a man past his 30th birthday. The last to do it was Andre Agassi at the 2003 Australian Open.

First, U Swe Aung of Constituency No. 12 of Yangon Region said that vegetables are now traded on commission which leads to huge gap between market price of vegetables and income of the growers and instability of commodity prices; that if agricultural products are sold with competitive bidding system which is widely practiced in most countries, there will be more price stability and an increase in incomes of farmers and asked if there is a plan to set up cold storages for rent.

The Union Minister replied that vegetables are now traded on 10% commission and Myanmar Kitchen Crops Producers Association is taking such measures as setting up syndicates in regions and states, and extended building of brokerages where necessary against such system of trade; that after the establishment of brokerages, steps will be taken to shift to competitive bidding system from sale on
