Let's not relax till we reach our victory over COVID: State Counsellor

STATE Counsellor Daw Aung San Suu Kyi wrote on her Facebook page yesterday "Let's not relax till we reach our victory over COVID". This was what she wrote:

The three big cities of Myanmar are Nay Pyi Taw, Yangon and Mandalay with Mandalay and Yangon having their own histories and unique qualities; Nay Pyi Taw is the late arrival new city (or rather the new big city).

During this COVID period, we had to pay special attention to Yangon because its population is the largest and the domestic spread of infection rate is the highest. Taking into consideration the situation of the disease we relaxed some restrictions where possible.

Although the situation in Mandalay is not as bad as Yandensity and the population figure of Nay Pyi Taw are not that high, we can say that the danger of the disease was not Because the population density and the population figure of Nay Pyi Taw are not that high, we can say that the danger of the disease was not as serious as Yangon or Mandalay; however, we had to pay very special attention because it is the seat of the Union Government.

gon, the regional government imposed rules and regulations with care.

Because the population

as serious as Yangon or Mandalay; however, we had to pay very special attention because it is the seat of the Union Government. Because there is the travel to and fro of diplomats and visitors, we had to impose rules and regulations so that this would not impact on the running of the government machinery.

In the early stages, all three cities followed the rules and regulations fearing the danger of the disease; later they became more and more careless. If I said Nay Pyi Taw is the least careless, would I be showing it favour?

With good competitive spirit, may you all be able to show that your city is the best in following the rules and regulations? "Let's not relax till we reach our victory over COVID."

Need to Distinguish between Politics and Discipline

You are required to distinguish politics from discipline. Nothing will work without discipline. If someone wants to violate a discipline, he must be well convinced of what kind of punishment he deservedly will receive as a consequence. Try your best to have an order changed by keeping discipline. Abide by disciplines before having it changed. This is the difference between politics and discipline.

I hope our country would become more united and stronger

If we can overcome this challenge, it would be a success not only for the present but also for generations to come. An authouress once said that moments of honour in the history of a country can become sources of strength to overcome difficult periods for ages to come. It is the strong belief which tells us that we have overcome big difficulties before; this time around also we can overcome.

With the strength of the people, I hope our country would become more united and stronger in the post-COVID period.

Up-to-date voters list can ensure electoral integrity in 2020

THE Union Election Commission is making preparations to ensure the 2020 general elections meet five standards: they are free, fair, transparent, reliable, and harmonious with the people's desire.

Cooperation from ministries and the people are sine qua non for making the 2020 general elections, which will be held on 8th November, successful.

The UEC has compiled a voters list and a constituency list nationwide as part of its efforts for ensuring that eligible citizens do not lose their votes.

The sub-commissions in regions and states of the UEC have taken steps to keep their voter registration lists accurate and up-to-date since 2019.

The commission announced yesterday that the voters list will be published at ward/village election offices nationwide from 25 July 2020 to 7 August 2020, and in October again.

The commission announced yesterday that the voters list will be published at ward/village election offices nationwide from 25 July 2020 to 7 August 2020, and in October again.

The goal of maintaining an accurate voters list is to ensure that eligible voters are able to cast a ballot, to keep track of who has voted to prevent anyone from voting twice and, by reducing inaccuracies, and speeding up the voter check-in process at polling places.

Voter registration lists are the foundation of everything else in election administration. Hence, people are advised to check to see if they are on the voting rolls. Besides, they are advised to verify a new voter registration applicant's information and updated information on the voter list. If they find flaws or mistakes on their information, they have rights to submit a complaint against the electoral officials in accordance with the law and to request them to make the information correct.

They also have rights to request directly to the officials to remove no-longer eligible voters from the list when they find them in the list.

A national voter registration list can prevent or mitigate voter fraud in an effort to protect the right to vote for eligible voters and increase electoral integrity.

The time has now come to implement public and constituent awareness programs for the 2020 general elections and disseminate election news and information speedily and effectively to the public.

Therefore persons who are in charge at different levels of various commissions are urged to be competent and qualified in their work.

Conserving the Environment as well as Extending Due Care to the Affected Communities and Societies

By Lokethar

ON World Environment Day we were reminded of our environment and to take care not to degrade it. The Earth's natural environment is composed of living things, mobile and immobile. It is also made up of geological formations such as the snow capped poles, mountains, volcanoes, forests, glaciers, rivers, soil and swamps above ground and other formations beneath the surface of the seas and within the depth of the oceans.

There is much awareness creation about conserving the environment so as to minimize happenings such as emission of green house gases, destruction of the Ozone layer, rise in Global temperature, melting of polar ice-caps leading to rising sea levels, climate change inducing raging storms, flooding, land slides, and other catastrophic events. There is much discussion about conserving the eco-system which is defined as being a "community of living organisms in conjunction with the non-living components of their environment, interacting as a system". As such, it can be said that human beings are as much a part of the eco-system (even if others think otherwise) as are all other living entities. Human beings live in countries, communities and societies and are usually most affected by both natural and man-made environmental changes.

As for the communities that are "displaced" and "resettled" in some other place due to, say for example a "Mega Project" with a potential to more or less "change" the entire Environment, the lives of the inhabitants will be affected to a greater or lesser extent. The Environmental Impact Study of the Project probably looked more at the changes on the physical environment which could result, and had to be conserved; but they probably did not fully take into account the long term impact to the disruption to life, community and society which the human habitants would suffer. Due care needs to be exercised to tackle the "human" aspect of environmental change made by "humans". What is most regrettable is the suffering of the people who were inhabitants of the place and who earned their living from the natural environment before the "behemoths" moved in to change the landscape and their lives.

Perhaps we should give more importance to the human factor while conserving the Environment, to avoid to the extent possible, disruptions to communities and societies and the suffering to the "people" involved. After all the people are the key. If they have to be moved, they should be provided with alternate places in which they can earn a good living and live safely.

The recent landslides in the Phakant jade mining area, involving rain soaked jade mining waste rubble piles built high over the years of mining operation by private companies, which caused the death of over 160 people was an extremely tragic event. Most of the local mining people displaced as the result of the mining permits that were granted to private companies, somehow returned to live in the vicinity to make a living as "prospectors" as before, out of searching (now the rubble) for jade stones. This is not the first time that such landslides have caused death and destruction of the jade "prospectors". It seems that the surface mining operations of private companies using heavy machines in the process of extracting the jade stones, without effective measures for safe disposal of the rubble they generate was the cause of the "major accident" - the term is as defined in the Occupational Safety and Health Law (2019), of Myanmar.

The repeated occurrence of such landslides resulting in death and destruction points to weakness in exercising "due care" by the mining companies concerned in conducting their operations. They should come forward now, as we hope they will, to render necessary help and assistance to the victims' families. At the same time they should take "due care" to prevent such "major accidents" happening in the future.

With Charity to all and Malice to none.

REQUIRING PEOPLE TO WEAR MASKS IN PUBLIC INDOOR SPACES

France will require face masks indoors as virus picks up

French President Emmanuel Macron said: "I would like to make masks mandatory in all enclosed public spaces". PHOTO: AFP

FRENCH President Emmanuel Macron said Tuesday that face masks will soon be required in public indoor spaces to curtail the coronavirus outbreak, acknowledging that infections were again on the rise.

His comments, in a television interview marking Bastille Day, came after he oversaw the traditional military ceremony that was drastically downsized because of the pandemic.

"I would like to make masks mandatory in all enclosed public spaces," Macron said in the interview, a Bastille Day tradition he had shunned since taking office three years ago.

"We have indications that (the outbreak) is accelerating a bit," he added, suggesting that his government would require masks in shops and public buildings from August 1.

He later posted on Twitter that "Wearing a mask in enclosed public spaces will be mandatory in the coming weeks."

The virus reproduction rate, the "R" ratio, has again risen above one in France, he said in the interview, meaning that a person infected with COVID-19 is likely spreading the disease to at least one other person.

Macron's comments come as doctors have warned of a potential second wave of infections that could again overwhelm hospitals and require new lockdowns that could further hammer the economy.

Asked whether France had enough masks in case of a new spike in cases, following massive shortages as the outbreak worsened in March, Macron said: "We will be ready."

"We have secured both the stocks and the supply sources, and we are organized on the ground, to allow us to deal with an upsurge, if it comes," he said.

He also said the government's "massive" recovery plan would reach 100 billion euros ($114 billion), on top of more than 460 billion euros spent so far to limit the social and economic devastation from the two-month lockdown imposed in mid-March.—AFP

U.S. CDC urges all Americans to wear masks

U.S. Centres for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) on Tuesday urged all Americans to wear masks to prevent the spread of COVID-19. "Cloth face coverings are one of the most powerful weapons we have to slow and stop the spread of the virus, particularly when used universally within a community setting. All Americans have a responsibility to protect themselves, their families, and their communities," CDC Director Robert Redfield said in a statement.

CDC's appeal came days after U.S. President Donald Trump wore a mask publicly for the first time when visiting a hospital in Maryland.

For months, Trump and some senior administration officials have been criticized for being reluctant to advise the public to wear masks. According to a new Hill-HarrisX poll, 44 per cent of voters said people were less likely to wear masks when Trump did not set an example in wearing a mask to lower the spread of COVID-19.SOURCE: Xinhua

MPE opens gas stations for household consumption in YangonNew four gas stations in four townships of Yangon are aimed for reduction of household electricity consumption. PHOTO: MYINT MAUNG

MYANMAR Petrochemical Enterprise (MPE) under the Ministry of Electricity and Energy has opened four gas stations in townships of Yangon Region in cooperation with Yadanar Su Company limited in efforts to reduce household electricity consumption and to mitigate environmental impact.

"Around 30,000 households are using the gas in Yangon Region. Our ministry will open four gas stations as a joint venture business for the people to save power consumption. Then, we will sell the gas at an affordable price," said U Aung Lwin Oo, the officer in charge of the South Okkalapa Township gas station, MPE. In Yangon Region, MPE opened the gas stations as a joint venture in South Okkalapa, Insein, North Dagon and Hmawbi townships. These four gas stations are distributing the gas across the Yangon Region. The gas is carried from the Nyaungdon gas field by boxer trucks and distributed to the public via these four gas stations.

To save the money during coronavirus prevention and control period, the MPE is selling the gas for K800 per kg. There are two types of the gas cylinder such as 48kg and 15kg. The gas is distributed to households by car.

There are three types of LPG such as Propane gas, Butane gas and mixed propane and butane gas. Among them, butane gas is more suitable for use in household kitchens.

Although Myanmar is one of the natural gas producer countries, only a few people are using gas. So, we are providing awareness talks for the people to use the gas widely.—Myint Maung

Myanmar FDI fetches $4.6 bln in 10 months, closer to its target $5.8bln

Myanmar Investment Commission issues permits to 208 foreign enterprises in this financial year.

By Nyein Nyein
MYANMAR is expected to meet its foreign direct investment

(FDI) target of US$5.8 billion in the current fiscal year 2019-2020, and over $4.6 billion flowed into the country around the ten months, said U Thant Sin Lwin, director-general of the Directorate of Investment and Company Administration (DICA).

"We intend to reach FDI target of US$5.8 billion in the current fiscal year," he highlighted.

Only over a billion dollar is required to meet the target.

As per the meeting of Myanmar Investment Commission held on 10 July, 19 foreign enterprises have obtained permits from the MIC and endorsements from the respective investment committees of Yangon, Bago, Ayeyawady and Magway regions, and Shan State. Those projects brought in the capital of over $170.275 million and are to create more than 11,300 jobs for the local residents. They will execute in manufacturing, livestock and fisheries, hotel, electricity, agriculture and another service sector. In the current fiscal, 208 foreign enterprises have obtained permits from the MIC and endorsements from regional and state Investment Committees in the current fiscal and brought in the capital of over $3.39 billion.

Myanmar attracted foreign direct investment of more than US$4.6 billion between 1 October and 10 July in the current financial year, including the expansion of capital by existing enterprises, according to the Directorate of Investment and Company Administration (DICA). The total figure includes investments of $116.557 million in the Special Economic Zones, under the Special Economic Zone Law. At the present time, the foreign investments, as well as domestic investments, are growing, despite the COVID-19 impacts on Myanmar's economy. The existing businesses are also seen the expansion of capitals and an increase in the labour force, the MIC stated.

By Nyein Nyein

THE Directorate of Investment and Company Administration (DICA) is planning to launch online platform regarding the recommendation for a visa extension of the expatriates in Myanmar, said DICA Director-General U Thant Sin Lwin.

This move aims to reduce opportunities for dishonesty in applying for visa extension, check the lists of the recommended company for visa, get easy access to the data of expatriates and stay period, reduce paperwork, ensure social distancing and facilitate the processing, he continued.

"The DICA, on behalf of MIC, is planning to launch online system for the recommendation for a visa extension of the foreign director and foreign employee of the companies, and their family members in order to ensure smooth processing at the Ministry of Labour, Immigration and Population," he added.

At present, the online application form is posted on the DICA's official website. The users can submit a suggestion to the system.

Last 7 July, the director-general and deputy director-general of the DICA met with U Nyein Min Oo, CEO of Myanmar Digital IT Solution Co., Ltd regarding drawing software, and the work matters were suggested and explained.

Exports top $13 bln as of 3 July

MYANMAR'S exports between 1 October and 3 July in the 2019-2020 financial year shot up to US$13.28 billion from $12.9 billion registered in the corresponding period of the previous fiscal, according to data from the Ministry of Commerce. The figure reflects an increase of $351 million compared with the year-ago period.

Of the seven export groups, agriculture, fisheries, minerals and other goods showed an increase in exports. Meanwhile, exports of livestock, forest products and finished industrial goods declined. Export values were registered at $3 billion for agro products, $62.7 million for livestock, $712.7 million for fishery products, $1.35 billion for minerals, $115.7 million for forest products, $7.09 billion for manufactured goods, and $838.4 million for other goods.

Myanmar's top 10 export countries are China, Thailand, Japan, Singapore, the US, India, Germany, the Republic of Korea, Spain and the UK, the Commerce

Ministry stated. The country's export sector relies more on the agriculture and manufacturing sectors. While export earnings from the CMP (cut, make, and pack) garment businesses are rising, the country's reliance on natural resources, such as natural gas and jade, is lowering. The CMP garment sector which contributes to 30 per cent of Myanmar's export sector is struggling owing to cancel of order from some countries and suspension of trade caused by the COVID-19 negative impacts. It can harm the export sector to a certain extent, the businesspersons pointed out. At present, exports of rice, corns and pulses are rising, while CMP garment export is dropping. The Ministry of Commerce is focusing on export promotion in order to reduce the trade deficit. Since 2011, the Ministry of Commerce has adhered to its reform policy. A series of moves to liberalize and open the economy have been introduced through policy development to improve the trade environment.—Ko Khant

Regional products to be imported through Myawady Friendship Bridge-1

PLAN is underway to import the regional products which are worth not more than K1 million on a manageable scale through Myawady Friendship Bridge-1, it is learnt.

Authorities from Myawady district have already submitted a proposal to import a total of 146 products with the three-per cent tax imposed and imported items have to be worth not more than K1 million. It is highly likely to get permission. Regarding the manageable-scale import through Myawady Friendship Bridge-1, the officials from both sides will make discussions in detail. If they get permission, only one driver and trader are allowed on board the truck to cross the border:

"Currently, regular trade and border trade are being carried out through Bridge-2. The traders have to pay the full tax. Tachilek is importing the local products with the only three-per cent tax imposed. We have already requested the authorities concerned to grant us the permission," said the official from Myawady district administration department.

This manageable trading is carried out only via Myawady-Mae Sot bilateral trade with an aim for the local residents to consume the local products at affordable prices in the coronavirus pandemic period, he added.

Although the Myawady Friendship Bridge-1 and Bridge-2 are still officially closed, the bridge-2 has now allowed the border trading and returned

Myanmar citizens and Thai citizens by negotiation arrangement, said the official. "We are making an effort for the citizens who are living in the border areas to cross Myawady and Mae Sot freely. It is related to both countries. Currently, the airports and the borders are closed till the end of July," he added.—Zin Yaw Aye

The Statement of the Myanmar National Human Rights Commission (MNHRC) on the status of its handling of complaints

Statement No. (10/2020)

Under the Paris Principles relating to National Human Rights Institutions (NHRIs), to take up any situation of violation of human rights is among the responsibilities conferred on national human rights institutions. Accordingly, the MNHRC Law vested the Commission with the powers to verify and conduct inquiries and to visit the scene of human rights violations in respect of complaints and allegations of human rights violations. These duties constitute the core functions of the Commission in its protection activities. While other important functions such as prison inspection visits, human rights lectures at training courses organized by the Government had to be withheld for the moment due to COVID-19 restrictions, receipt of complaints of human rights has not abated.

In March 2020, the Commission received 254 complaints and, together with 371 complaints remaining from February, 625 complaints were examined. A total of 73 cases, including a visit to a scene of human rights violations, were referred to relevant departments and organizations for verification and necessary measures, with 20 cases referred back to the complainants, with recommendation. Those complaints under trial before a court or under appeal or revision on the decision of any court and those that have been finally determined the court or that did not meet criteria for admission or that have been resolved by the Commission before, totalling 193 cases were systematically recorded.

In April, the Commission could completely examine 367 cases, out of 417 complaints, including 78 new complaints and 339 complaints left from March. As such, 106 cases were referred to relevant departments and organizations, while 19 complaints were referred back to the complainants, with recommendations. The remaining 242 cases were, for reasons mentioned above, systematically put on record.

In May, the Commission examined 200 complaints which include 150 new complaints and 50 complaints left from April. Out of them, 53 cases were referred to relevant departments and organizations, while 16 complaints were referred back to the complainants, with recommendation. The remaining 131 complaints were systematically put on record.

From January to May 2020, the Commission examined a total of 1,177 complaints, including 316 complaints, left from the previous Commission. A statement has already been issued by the Commission concerning the complaints received up to end of February 2020.

On examination of the complaints received over the last 5 months, it was found out that most cases were received from Yangon, Mandalay, Bago, Sagaing and Ayeyawady Regions. The complaints received from the remaining States and Regions are relatively small in number. No complaints have been received from Kayah State. The majority of the cases concern land issues, followed by those against law enforcement personnel.

The complaints, after examination, were referred to relevant departments and organizations for verification and necessary measures and responses to the complaints referred are to be provided by relevant departments and organizations within 30 days. However, cooperation in this regard is less than satisfactory.

The Commission wishes to state that to reduce human rights violations and to improve the human rights situation for the people, cooperation from relevant departments and organization is essential.

306 Myanmar nationals come back home via Myawady border bridge on 15 July

A total of 306 Myanmar nationals returned home from Thailand through No.2 border bridge in Myawady Town, Kayin State, yesterday.

Kayin State Hluttaw MP U Thant Zin Aung, Myawady District Administrative Office U Tay Zar Aung and local officials helped the returnees with medical tests and other supplies. The number of migrant workers who returned home from abroad through this border has been 47,552 until now.

50 returnees from S Korea test negative for COVID-19

FIFTY Myanmar nationals who returned from the Republic of Korea on 23 June and were quarantined at the Hotel S.Y.H (Gaba Aye) in Mayangon Township in Yangon tested negative for COVID-19, and returned to their homes 14 July morning.

Ko Hein Lynn Phyo, a Myanmar seaman who returned from ROK, said, "I felt worried because COVID-19 had been spread across the world when I came back to Myanmar. But the authorities welcomed us and arranged COVID-19 tests for us. After we tested negative, we could return to our homes, so my family members felt happy."

He also expressed thanks to Myanmar authorities for strict and disciplined measures to control the COVID-19 pandemic in Myanmar. He urged Myanmar nationals who will return to the home country to follow the directives related to COVID-19 containment.

Another Myanmar seaman, Ko Kywe Htay said, "Since the beginning, we knew that we would be quarantined when we arrived back in Myanmar. We chose to have hotel quarantine. Everything was Ok during the quarantine."

Ko Myo Khaing Chit, another Myanmar seaman, pointed out that the COVID-19 preventive measures at the Yangon International Airport are more intensive. He added that their tests for COVID-19 were carried out twice, so the results were more reliable.

Dr Aung Tun, who returned from the United States via the Republic of Korea, said that he would "stay at home" for a week as a preventive measure. He is a medical doctor, so he knows the COVID-19 related duty that he must fulfil, he said.

Hotel S.Y.H (Gaba Aye) owner U Ye Htut said, "Both the Hotel S.Y.H (Gaba Aye) and the Hotel S.Y.H (Kandawgyi) owned by our Shin Ye Htut Group have been registered at the Ministry of Health and Sports to receive returnees for hotel quarantine. We are glad to collaborate with the government."

He added that the hotel quarantine is a "win-win situation" for both of the country, the returnees and the hotel staff.

The Hotel S.Y.H (Gaba Aye) received 15 Myanmar nationals who returned from Singapore on 26 June and 30 people who returned from Japan on 28 June for hotel quarantine. The hotel has been preparing to receive the people who will come back to Myanmar via All Nippon Airways in August.—(Ko Htwe) MNA

China's Chang'e-4 probe resumes work for 20th lunar day

BEIJING—The lander and rover of the Chang'e-4 probe have resumed work for the 20th lunar day on the far side of the moon. The lander woke up at 5:48 am Wednesday (Beijing Time), and the rover awoke at 12:53 pm Tuesday. Both are in normal working order, according to the Lunar Exploration and Space Programme Centre of the China National Space Administration.

The Chang'e-4 probe, launched on Dec. 8, 2018, made the first-ever soft landing on the Von Karman Crater in the South Pole-Aitken Basin on the far side of the moon on Jan. 3, 2019.

A lunar day is equal to 14 days on Earth, and a lunar night is the same length. The Chang'e-4 probe, switching to dormant mode during the lunar night due to the lack of solar power, has survived about 559 Earth days on the moon.—Xinhua ■

NEWS IN BRIEFS

U.S. troops withdrawn from 5 bases in Afghanistan, Pentagon says

WASHINGTON—The United States has withdrawn its troops from five bases in Afghanistan and maintains its force level in the country at mid-8,000s, fulfilling its obligation under the U.S.-Taliban deal signed in late February, the U.S. Department of Defence said Tuesday. "U.S. forces in Afghanistan remain in the mid-8,000s and five bases formerly occupied by U.S. forces have been transferred to our Afghan partners," Chief Pentagon Spokesperson Jonathan Hoffman said in a statement.

Hoffman urged all sides to "reduce violence and embark on intra-Afghan negotiations capable of achieving a negotiated and lasting peace for Afghanistan." According to the agreement signed on Feb. 29 between the United States and the Afghan Taliban, the United States would reduce its forces in Afghanistan to 8,600 within 135 days till July 13.—Xinhua ■

Foreign visitors to Japan drop 99.9% in June for 3rd straight month

TOKYO—Japan received an estimated 2,600 foreign travellers in June, down 99.9 per cent from a year earlier for the third consecutive monthly decline amid the coronavirus pandemic, government data showed Wednesday.

The total number of foreign visitors fell 76.3 per cent to about 3.95 million in the first half of 2020 from a year earlier, with inbound visitors totalling 1,700 in May, marking the lowest figure since 1964 when the government began compiling such statistics, according to the Japan Tourism Agency.

Numbers have fallen below 3,000 since April, which saw a total of 2,917 travellers entering the country. The previous low for monthly foreign visitors prior to April was 17,543 recorded in February 1964.

The figure fell in June for the ninth consecutive month since October, when there was a significant drop in visitors from South Korea.—Kyodo ■

Tokyo on top virus alert level after new cases

TOKYO—Tokyo is on its highest coronavirus alert level after a spike in new cases, the city's governor warned Wednesday, as experts said the rising infections were a clear "red flag".

However, the move to a "red" alert does not mean the city will ask businesses to close or events to be postponed. Even during a national state of emergency in April, there was no "lockdown" in Japan of the type seen in Europe.

"The experts just told us that the situation of infections is at the fourth level of the four-level system, which means 'the infections seem to be spreading,'" Governor Yuriko Koike said during a meeting on the virus.

Her comments came after a panel of experts said the city was seeing a spike in younger people infected with the virus, with cases in nightlife areas but also workplaces and in families.

"Our assessment is that can't but say this is the red flag, the highest level, if we simply look at numbers," said Norio Ohmagari, an expert on the panel.

Prime Minister Shinzo Abe lifted a nationwide state of emergency in late May and appears to have little appetite to reintroduce it, with the economy suffering its first recession since 2015.

But new daily cases have climbed after the state of emergency was removed, reaching a fresh record last week of 243 in Tokyo, the epicentre of the fresh outbreak.

Authorities say many of the new cases come from night-life entertainment districts in the capital and those infected appear to be people in their 20s and 30s, who are less likely to become seriously ill with the coronavirus.—AFP ■

Virus-hit North Macedonia votes as EU talks loom

SKOPJE—North Macedonia went to the polls on Wednesday in a tight parliamentary election whose winners will face a surging coronavirus outbreak and the start of talks to join the European Union.

It is the first parliamentary election since the Balkan country added “North” to its name early last year, ending a decades-old dispute with Greece.

The accord ushered the country into NATO and opened the door to the EU.

But critics are still bitter about conceding a part of their national identity to appease Greece, which claims exclusive rights to the name Macedonia for its own neighbouring region.

The election pits an architect of the accord, Social Democrats leader and former prime minister Zoran Zaev, against the right-wing critics of VMRO-DPMNE.

Neither is forecast to win an outright majority, setting the stage for complex coalition talks after the results, which are not expected until early Thursday.

The coronavirus pandemic has added another layer of uncertainty as authorities try to slow an infection spike without inflicting further damage on an economy already heading into recession.

With more than 380 deaths among a population of around two million, the country has the highest per capita fatality rate in the Western Balkans, according to official data.

France's Macron lays out “new path” to meet health, economic challenges

PARIS—In his first Bastille Day interview, President Emmanuel Macron on Tuesday promised that France is ready for a second epidemic wave and his team will follow a “new path” based on social dialogue to address the challenges triggered by the coronavirus crisis that has claimed over 30,000 lives and plunged the growth of the euro zone’s second largest economy.

READY TO FACE SECOND COVID-19 WAVE

France is prepared to address an eventual resurgence of the coronavirus epidemic by making face mask mandatory, bolstering testing capacity and stockpiling enough protective gear, said Macron.

He noted “uncertainties” and “signs” suggesting that the virus “restarts a little.” But, he reassured that the country was getting ready if the virus hits again.

“Now, we have both stocks and supplies and we have the organization as close to the ground as possible, which would make it possible to face an resurgence,” he said. Adding to that, he said France will make wearing face masks compulsory at all enclosed public places starting from Aug. 1 as one of the measures to contain any eventual resurgence of the epidemic.

“We are doing everything to avoid a new wave and to take a differentiated approach,” he said, pledging “to isolate as quickly and as locally as possible.”

Macron also confirmed that France would be among the first countries to get access to a potential vaccine being developed by French drugmaker Sanofi.

As of Monday, 172,377 people had been tested positive for the COVID-19 in France, of whom, 30,029 have succumbed to the respiratory illness since early March. According to Public Health Agency, 94 clusters were under investigation.—AFP ■

Thousands in Bolivia anti-government protest

LA PAZ—Thousands of demonstrators defied quarantine restrictions and marched on the Bolivian capital La Paz on Tuesday to protest against the government of interim President Jeanine Anez.

“The people are expressing their needs, they are expressing their voice in protest,” said Juan Carlos Huarachi, leader of the country’s biggest trade union, Central Obrera Boliviana.

The demonstration, held over worker grievances about health and education policies and massive layoffs, was the biggest since the coronavirus pandemic reached the South American country in March.

“There are many layoffs,” said Huarachi, “because of the fall in the economy.”

Marchers also called for the resignation of Education Minister Victor Hugh Cardenas, as thousands of pupils in rural areas have no access to the internet for virtual classes while schools remain closed.

“We are asking for free internet, because there are children who do not have mobile phones with internet and cannot study,” said Feliciana Quesucala, 46, an indigenous Aymara woman from El Alto.—AFP ■

US rescinds order denying visas for foreign students

WASHINGTON—The United States government rescinded its controversial decision to revoke foreign student visas whose courses move online due to coronavirus, a federal judge said Tuesday.

The universities of Harvard and MIT -- with the support of a number of other institutions, teachers’ unions and at least 18 US states -- had taken legal action against the move that US Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) announced on July 6.

“The government has agreed to rescind” the decision as well as any implementation of the directive, Judge Allison Burroughs said in a brief hearing.

Harvard and MIT earlier this month had asked the court to block the order announced by ICE that students must leave the country if their classes are only online, or transfer to a school offering in-person tuition.

The measure was seen as a move by President Donald Trump’s administration to put pressure on educational institutions that are adopting a cautious approach to reopening amid the global COVID-19 pandemic.

The universities say in their lawsuit that the order would harm students “immensely,” both personally and financially.

It describes the order as “arbitrary and capricious” and says it threw US higher education “into chaos.”

There were more than one million international students in the US for the 2018-19 academic year, according to the Institute of International Education (IIE).

The court gave no reason for the Trump administration’s flip, and the president did not immediately react Tuesday.

“We are thrilled that the government backed down,” said the University of Southern California in a statement.

“Our international students are a vital part of the USC community, and they deserve the right to continue their education without risk of deportation.”—AFP ■

Guardiola pleased with Man City ban lift, Klopp & Mourinho less sure

LONDON—Manchester City coach Pep Guardiola on Tuesday welcomed the decision taken by the Court of Arbitration for Sport (CAS) to lift the two-year ban on European football that had been imposed on the club by UEFA for alleged breaches of Financial Fair Play (FFP) regulations. The decision means that City will be able to play in next season's UEFA Champions League, and will make it easier for the club to maintain its star players and attract new signings - which would have been harder without the offer and the financial impact of European football.

"Yesterday was a good day for football, because we played with the same Financial Fair Play rules as all the clubs in Europe. People said we were cheating and lying, and many times the presumption of innocence was not there," commented Guardiola. "The elite clubs have to understand we deserve to be here. We want to go on the pitch and compete with them. We deserve to get stronger year by year. We have incredible people working in this club to make our fans proud."

Guardiola admitted his club were big spenders "like a lot of clubs". "But we did it on the right things - if not, we would have been banned. And we are not banned, because we followed the rules of Financial Fair Play," he concluded. —Xinhua ■

WLC plan to participate in Tokyo Olympic event

WORLD Lethwei Championship (WLC) is now aiming to take place a Lethwei event in Tokyo just a few weeks ahead of Tokyo Olympic start, showcasing best Japanese fighters in Lethwei before the audience, according to the WLC.

Tokyo Olympics is now rescheduled to begin on 23 July, 2021, and end on 8 August, 2021, in Tokyo, Japan after it has postponed from this summer due to coronavirus global pandemic.

Chairman of the WLC, U Zay Thiha has revealed the Myanmar Lethwei plans in the couples of the year with pandemic safe condition.

"After the historic success in 2019, World Lethwei Championship has successfully driven the sport of Lethwei to become the fastest growing sport in the world," said WLC Chairman U Zay Thiha. "This upcoming season will continue our efforts to develop and grow the infrastructure of Lethwei globally.

"We are excited to hold events with our esteemed broadcast and corporate partners in Cambodia, Thailand, Japan, and the United States of America to deliver world-class Lethwei content throughout multiple continents," he stated.

That includes Japan, which will become the centre of the sports world next summer for the Olympics. The opportunity to put Lethwei athletes in front of that grand stage is sure to bring out the best of the best - and the best of the athletes themselves in action, he added. —Lynn Thit (Tgi) ■

Tokyo Games can uplift world hit by coronavirus: JOC chief

TOKYO —The postponed Tokyo Games can provide inspiration to a world dragged down by the coronavirus pandemic, Japanese Olympic Committee chairman Yasuhiro Yamashita said Tuesday.

The outlook for the Olympics remains clouded in the absence of a vaccine for the pneumonia-causing coronavirus, but Yamashita told a press confidence he was confident of successfully hosting the games from next July.

"The new coronavirus has had such a negative effect, so I want to help revitalize society through sport. To that end, I'm focused on a successful Tokyo Olympics," Yamashita said.

He remained bullish about Japan's prospects, saying the host nation still aimed to win 30 gold medals despite the public health crisis interrupting preparations for many athletes.

But Yamashita, who won judo gold at the 1984 Los Angeles Games, said additional costs resulting from the one-year postponement were among a number of matters that needed to be addressed "urgently."

Yamashita took the reins as JOC chairman in June last year following the resignation of predecessor Tsunekazu Takeda, who is under investigation by French prosecutors for alleged bribery related to Tokyo's successful bid for the 2020 Games.—Kyodo ■

Arsenal's Arteta hits out at 'crazy minutes' players are clocking up

LONDON—Arsenal boss Mikel Arteta has bemoaned the fixture scheduling since the Premier League restart, saying on Tuesday his players have amassed "crazy minutes" on the pitch in recent weeks.

The Gunners host newly crowned Premier League champions Liverpool on Wednesday, three days after falling to defeat to Tottenham in the north London derby. In the five games that followed their opening game of Project Restart -- a 3-0 defeat at Manchester City -- Arsenal's opponents had longer to prepare, with Arteta keen to stress that point. "We have only had an advantage in one -- which was against Spurs," he told his pre-match press conference.

"But look at the boys, they keep going, they go full-gas, it doesn't matter and we will do it again." An FA Cup semi-final against City is next up for Arsenal after the Liverpool clash, with Arteta keen to be able to field his strongest side in both games, despite the demands placed on his players. "Obviously they've been hit and a lot of them have played some crazy minutes up until now and again we're going to have games every two-and-a-half days.—AFP ■
