Rakhine State spent K16.485 billion between the 2015-2016 fiscal year (FY) and 2019-2020FY for construction of a total of 47 dams, and the Department of Rural Development spent K19.525 billion between the 2015-2016 fiscal year (FY) and 2019-2020FY for 2,796 projects to provide adequate water supply to villages. So, the total spending by the two departments for water supply projects in the Rakhine State in that period was K36.01 billion.

The Union Minister added that the relevant municipalities and the Department of Rural Development are cooperating for sufficient supply of water in the Rakhine State.

According to 2014 Myanmar Population and Housing Census, the percentage of households using improved drinking water sources stood at 37.8 per cent in the Rakhine State. But, according to the "Rainy Season Data" of the Myanmar Living Conditions Survey (MLCS-2017) jointly conducted by the Ministry of Planning, Finance and Industry, about 45 per cent of the population in the Rakhine had access to improved water sources, said the Union Minister Dr Aung Thu.

The Union Minister continued to say that 2019 Interim Census has already been completed, so the updated data for accessing to improved water sources in the Rakhine State will be announced soon.

MP U Bwe Khane from Chin State constituency 3 raised a question on whether a budget will be got for constructing a new school building in the premises of the middle school in the Foneka village, Thantlang township, Chin State.

In response to his question, the Union Minister for Education Dr Myo Thein Gyi replied that the existing school building is enough for the current number of students, so there will be no budget allocation for constructing a new school building in the 2020-2021FY. But the budget may be provided in the 2021-2022FY, and it will depend on the number of students, said the Union Minister for Education.

MP U Myo Htap (a) Salai Myo Htike from Chin State constituency 12 raised a question on whether new school buildings will be built in the premises of the high schools of Lonenu village and Ganam village in Paletwa township, Chin State, in 2020-2021 FY. The Union Minister for Education Dr Myo Thein Gyi replied that the new school buildings will not be constructed in the 2020-2021FY, but the proposal will be considered in next fiscal years in order to fulfil the needs.

MP U San Myint from Ayeyawady Region constituency 3 asked a question on whether there is a plan to build new school buildings to replace the dangerous old school buildings in the premises of the high school in Kone Pyin village, Yay Kyi township, Patheingyi district, Ayeyawady Region. The Union Minister for Education replied that the budget for constructing a (130x 30) feet two-storey building has been allocated for the 2020-2021 FY.

MP Daw Shwe Shwe Sein Latt said that the objective of the report, the research result and the suggestions can reflect the current situations, so all stakeholders should cooperatively implement the suggestions for the sake of the nation and the citizens. She also suggested that some of the suggestions in the report will also be useful in implementing the COVID-19 Economic Relief Plan (CERP).

MP U Ba Myo Thein from Yangon Region constituency 5 discussed that good agricultural practices should be adopted.

Questions related to land issues were raised by MP U Hla Myint (a) U Hla Myint Than from Mon State constituency 11 and MP U Saw Than Htut from Kayin State constituency 2.

Then, Amyotha Hluttaw's Agriculture, Livestock and Fishery Development Committee Secretary Dr Win Myint said that the committee took about a year to draw up the report. He expressed thanks to the MPs who made the discussions, and tabled a motion to accept the report of the committee.

Afterwards, Amyotha Hluttaw Speaker Mahn Win Khaing Than announced Hluttaw's agreement to accept the report of the Amyotha Hluttaw's Agriculture, Livestock and Fishery Development Committee, after obtaining the decision of the Amyotha Hluttaw.

EU disburses €37.625 mln in support of Myanmar education

THE European Union disbursed €37.625 million [59.693 billion MMK] yesterday to further support education reform in Myanmar.

The grant is paid earlier than planned to help the Government address the exceptional needs that arose due to COVID-19 and ensure a safe return to school for all children, and improve the quality of education and vocational training throughout the country.

This is the third payment from a total of €221 million (MMK 382 billion) provided by the European Union to increase access to quality education for all in Myanmar.

Union Minister for Education Dr Myo Thein Gyi said, "The European Union is a trusted partner. Its support will help us make sure that every child in Myanmar has access to education in post-COVID-19. At the same time, we will be able to continue our reform and roll out our new curricula."

EU Ambassador Kristian Schmidt said, "The reopening of schools has been debated throughout the world. I am encouraged by the Government's efforts to make schools safe 'post-COVID-19' for all children in Myanmar, while keeping the pace for the ambitious reform of the education sector."

The disbursement followed an Education Sector Reform Policy Dialogue meeting between the Government and the European Union, in particular on the plans for reopening schools as well as access to education in Rakhine State and public financial management.

EU has agreed for €221 million grant to the Ministry of Education.—Aung Khin

Need to Distinguish between Politics and Being Disciplined

You are required to distinguish politics from being disciplined. Nothing will work without having discipline. If someone wants to violate a discipline, they must be well convinced of the kind of punishment they will deservedly receive as a consequence. Try your best by being disciplined to have an order changed. Abide by disciplines before having it changed. This is the difference between politics and being disciplined.

The motion said that over 20,000 Myanmar citizens could not return home although they have submitted their names for repatriation at the embassy; there is no relief flight for them, but the Tatmadaw has offered to use some multi-purpose vessels, like Mottama Navy ship, that can carry about 1,000 persons each time from Malaysia.

The motion also mentioned that many Myanmar people are stranded in Thailand as there is no enough relief flights of MAI and MNA, while the Tatmadaw can use its aircrafts to bring back them home before the elections.

However, the motion received only 125 supporting votes, and failed to meet the required number 144 to discuss it at the Hluttaw.

This is the time we should be on our guard

In our country, we haven't even reached three months from the time we started imposing health rules and regulations to protect ourselves from COVID. I can see some people who have lost their patience. In this type of situation, we should be scared because we need to be scared; this is the time we should be on our guard. In some countries where they have announced that they have overcome the COVID challenge, they are facing COVID cases again. This is really scary.

Let me remind you again. Researchers are of the opinion that the second COVID wave is more likely to be worse than the first wave. We did not overcome the first wave easily. We had to invest in financial resources, human resources, and spiritual energy and will power. All types of energy. We need to come up with spiritual energy and will power continuously so that the investments we have made so far couldn't turn out to be for nothing.

Local farmers, businessmen need to coordinate to prevent declining sugarcane cultivation

THE local farmers and businessmen are needed to coordinate to control the market so that they can prevent sugarcane growing from declining, according to the Agriculture Department in Aunglan township.

The sugarcane cultivation has decreased to about 1,000 acres of land this year in Aunglan township compared to that of last year.

The sugarcane is grown mostly in Taungdwingyi, Aunglan and Kanma townships. Last year, the Aunglan township grew about 10,000 acres of sugarcane. But, this year, the local farmers from Aunglan can grow only 9,000 acres of sugarcane.

"As there is a decline in the sugarcane cultivation, the local farmers have reduced the grown acreage of sugarcane plants because sugar mills are only willing to buy the sugarcane plants at a much lower price. If the sugarcane production continues to decline, the sugar mills will not get the raw materials. The local growers don't want to sell their sugar if the millers do not want to offer the right price. The growers are selling their products to places where they get a higher price. It is interrelated and so, both the local growers and the businessmen should control the market to make it stable," said U Tun Hla Aung, the head of Agriculture Department in Aunglan Township.

Magway Region targeted to grow 15,000 acres of sugarcane plants in 2019-2020 fiscal year. However, the Magway region grew a total of 16,389 acres of plants which is an increase over the target, said Director U Lin Myat of Agriculture Department in Magway Region.

The local farmers grow the sugarcane plants from November to January. The duration of the sugarcane growing is one year. The inputs of the sugarcane cost around K400,000-K500,000. Each acre of sugarcane can yield around 30-40 tonnes. Each tonne of sugarcane plants can make a profit of around K900,000-K1.2 million, according to the sugarcane growers. —Zayyatu (Magway)

Myanmar records over 2,800 DHF cases as of 27 June

THE Ministry of Health and Sports reported more than 2,800 Dengue Haemorrhagic Fever (DHF) cases across the country from January to 27 June with over 1,100 cases arising in 20 days.

Myanmar reported over 1,700 dengue fever infection cases with 12 deaths from January to 6 June. However, a total of 2862 cases have reportedly increased with 20 deaths in 26 weeks.

At present, the DHF is reported mostly in Sagaing Region, Mandalay Region, Yangon

Region, Magway Region and Mon State.

From 1 January to 30 May, Sagaing Region has seen most cases with 74 cases and two deaths in Chaung-U Township, 57 cases in Yinmabin Township, 47 cases and one death in Budalin Township, followed by Mon State with 43 cases in Mawlamyine Township and 37 cases and two deaths in Paung Township.

A total of 1,480 cases have been recorded with 11 deaths in Myanmar from the beginning of the year through 30 May, according to the Ministry of Health and Sports.

As of May, the DHF transmission rate in Yangon Region was rampant with 24 in South Dagon, 16 in Htantabin, 16 in Shwepyitha, 15 in Hlinethaya, 14 in Dala, 11 in North Dagon, 10 in Thingangyun, 10 in Insein, eight in Thanhlyin and seven in North Okkalapa townships respectively.

The half of the death rate of dengue cases are reported mostly in Yangon Region. The high population in the town can be attributed to transmission of both dengue fever and coronavirus, according to the Ministry of Health and Sports.

The Health Department is conducting effectively preventive and control measures against DHF under the programme of covering, emptying and cleaning of water storage containers and spraying of mosquito repellents. The department is also planning to provide awareness training courses for the local people to understand how to prevent the disease from breaking out.—Aye Cho

FDI inflows into Myanmar up by $900 mln

By Nyein Nyein

MYANMAR has attracted more than US$4.4 billion in foreign direct investments within the past ten months of the current fiscal year, an increase of over $900 million compared with the corresponding period of the previous FY, as per data of the Directorate of Investment and Company Administration (DICA).

According to the DICA statistics, 208 foreign enterprises have obtained permits from the Myanmar Investment Commission

(MIC) and endorsements from regional and state Investment Committees between 1 October and 10 July in the current fiscal year 2019-2020, bringing in the capital of $4.49 billion, including the expansion of capitals by the existing enterprises.

In the year-ago period, FDI of just $3.526 billion had poured in from 224 enterprises.

The number of permitted or endorsed enterprises this year was 16 lower than last year. However, the surge in investment in the current fiscal was attributed to the projects with large investments, the DICA stated.

Both the foreign and domestic investment sectors are not affected by the coronavirus negative impacts, said DICA Director-General U Thant Sin Lwin.

Amid the coronavirus concerns, foreign direct investments flow into many types of businesses including the garment enterprises. The foreign investors are not bothered by the disputes between employers and employees and the closure of some CMP businesses during the meantime.

Of the investment proposals, the manufacturing and labour-intensive businesses are prioritized by the commission.

Myanmar Investment Commission (MIC) is planning to accept investment projects in manufacturing masks, pharmaceuticals and others which can contribute to the fight against the pandemic infection in the country at the soonest.

In the current financial year, the MIC has set an FDI target of $5.8 billion. The Ministry of Investment and Foreign Economic Relations has been inviting responsible businesses to benefit the country.

“The Myanmar Investment Promotion Plan (MIPP) has been drawn up with the assistance of the Japan International Cooperation Agency (JICA), and it is now under implementation. As per the MIPP, Myanmar aims to reach an FDI target of $200 billion in forthcoming 20 years,” said Union Minister U Thaug Tun of the Ministry of Investment and Foreign Economic Relations.

Govt to shift integrated poultry, fish farming to GAqP

THE government is phasing in a ban on integrated poultry and fish farming to undergo Good Aquaculture Practices (GAqP) system, according to the Yangon Region Fisheries Department.

“We have to ensure food safety from farm to table to comply with GAqP system. The system has to cover from farming to processing factories. The training courses related to Good Manufacturing Practices (GMP) and Hazard Analysis and Critical Control Points (HACCP) have been conducted at ISO laboratories and factories.

We trace the quality of water and wastewater management system in fish farming lakes and production chain of feedstuff. The integrated poultry and fish farming have been gradually banned since last year. Some fish ponds are found antibiotics in non-compliance with GAqP standard, said Director Dr Yin Yin Moe of Yangon Region Fisheries Department.

There are over 495,000 acres of integrated fish farms across the country, while 9,735 acres are located in Yangon Region.

According to the Myanmar Livestock Federation (MLF), at present, there are 1.35 million broilers being raised for meat, about 1.465 million semi-broilers, and more than 2.9 million layers for an egg at integrated poultry and fish farms. “The industry has been producing meat and eggs at a reasonable price to fulfil the needs of the consumers. It also helps support the country’s meat sector,” it stated.

Currently, there are 211 livestock entrepreneurs employing 6,330 labourers in the integrated farming industry. It is estimated that about 37,980 people are relying on this industry, according to the MLF.

“If the government bans integrated poultry and fish farming with immediate effect, it could hurt the livelihood of more than 37,980 people depending on this industry and investors. Moreover, it can pose land problems for poultry farming and reduce the number of poultry raised,” said Dr Kyaw Htin, Vice President of the Myanmar Livestock Federation.

“Having said that, the federation has requested the government to conduct a systematic analysis of integrated poultry and fish farming,” he said.

As a result of this, the government is slowly moving to the GAqP system, with a gradual ban on integrated farming system.

According to the Myanmar Fisheries Federation, about 80 per cent of such mixed farming is being conducted with the help of foreigners. This kind of integrated poultry and fish farming is not in line with Good Aquaculture Practices, Good Manufacturing Practices, and Hazard Analysis and Critical Control Points (HACCP), and it can harm the export of farm-raised fish, MFF’s officials said.

“Moreover, fish bred on integrated farms pose food safety risks and are not suitable for consumption. Furthermore, such practices can harm the country’s National Aquaculture Development Plan to build a sustainable aquaculture sector in Myanmar,” they added. — Thant Zin Win/ Ko Khant

Investors eyeing industrial estate development sector

By Nyein Nyein

SOME local and foreign investors are interested in industrial estate development sector, said Director-General U Thant Sin Lwin of the Directorate of Investment and Company Administration.

At present, domestic, foreign enterprises and joint ventures are discussing to invest in industrial estate development sector.

“We are preparing to have readiness for investments in the industrial zone development sector. We had discussions regarding this, but any proposal is not received yet,” he said.

In the current fiscal year 2019-2020, zero investment is found in the industrial estate development sector.

During last fiscal, there was Korea-Myanmar Industrial Complex project implemented by KMIC Development Co., Ltd on 558 acres of land in Hlegu Township, Yangon; and Development and Operation Project of Smart and Eco City and Related Businesses by Thailand-based Amata Group on 2,000 acres of land near Dagon Myothit (East) and (South) townships.

The construction of those projects started this year.

The real estate development sector attracted K248 billion in the 2011-2012FY, K51 billion in the 2013-2014FY, K14 billion in the 2014-2015FY, K260 billion in the 2015-2016FY and K36 billion in the 2018-2019FY, he added.

No stone unturned in combatting challenges ahead in fighting COVID-19

WE have witnessed our achievements in containing the COVID-19, to date.

In our country, 341 people have been infected with the disease to date, along with six dead and 266 who have been discharged from hospitals after they recovered from the infection.

In comparison, the situation in our country is not as severe as the situation faced by other countries.

However, quarantine still needs to be an essential part of our battle with COVID-19 because those who returned from foreign countries may be infected with the coronavirus.

The return of migrant workers during the spreading of the Coronavirus in our country is one of many challenges we are facing today. The regulations to prevent the possible spread of Coronavirus are already in place, and the returnees are still required to abide by these necessary 14-day stay at home quarantine or facility quarantine orders to protect public health.

Meanwhile, volunteers are facing language barriers in some ethnic areas, challenges in transporting food and water, as well as difficulties in transporting swabs to laboratories due to poor transportation in some areas, especially in hilly regions, including Chin State. There are also shortages of fuel and food assistance for those who are quarantined.

To make the fight to stop the spread of Covid-19 effective, enforcement should be tightened among those who return illegally to the homeland through waterways, even as the authorities are focusing on those who return officially through borders.

The government is obliged to fulfill the needs of our frontline volunteers who are staying within quarantine centres and have helped the government in preparing quarantine centres at risk of coronavirus infection.

Life in a quarantine centre is tough. The volunteers require help for their safety and effective work.

Despite such challenges, we are confident that the participation, understanding and support of our people can overcome all obstacles.

No doubt, we have been successful, thus far, thanks to the public's participation and awareness. Again, this is credited to the crucial role of public participation in preventing and containing the global pandemic.

Our country is not rich. But, the government would leave no stone unturned in fighting the disease and in helping our frontline volunteers and providing treatment to all suspected patients, whether the infection is severe or not, with the use of all possible resources to overcome outbreaks of the disease.

Hence, we would like to urge our people to remain farsighted, determined, diligent and unified.

The Mission of the NCP for Marine Pollution and Stockpile Contingency Analysis

By Captain Aung Zaw (HSSE Consultant For Maritime Safety, Security and Environmental Protection Division Department of Marine Administration)

Introduction to NCP in Marine Pollution

The Department of Marine Administration (DMA) has finalized a National Contingency Plan for Marine Pollution (NCP) at the end of 2018. The NCP has been translated from English to Myanmar successfully and submitted to the Ministry of Transport and Communications for approval from the Union Government in the first quarter of 2020.

Background

In recent years there has been a supertanker terminal, Kyaukpyu deep-sea port, constructed in the Rakhine region on the west coast of Myanmar. The received oil has been transported through a pipeline to China, which is made island project which makes Myanmar become an oil receiver country in a million tones per annum, so the risk of oil pollution is likely to be significant.

On the other hand, several oil terminals and general cargo wharves are situated along the Yangon River though there are no persistent oils, other than bunker fuels, imported so far, shipping traffics is more congested and therefore the risk of an oil spill is relatively more profound. Besides, offshore blocks for exploration and production have been extended to deep water in the EEZ and thus as to present a fairly high risk of marine pollution owing to collisions, stranding, blowouts, and other marine accidents. Such risks of pollution threaten coastal habitats, amenity beaches, the tourist industry, sea birds, marine life and mangroves, coastal installations and fishing industry.

National Task Force (NTF) Meetings

Myanmar has signed the International Convention on Oil Pollution Preparedness, Response, and Co-operation OPRC 1990, on 15 December 2016. Therefore, the DMA has encouraged the maritime stakeholders, including oil and gas industries, to prepare their respective oil spill contingency plans as well as appropriate response stockpile based on spill risk to be in place.

The National Task Force

was formed by consisting of (22) members from national authorities and concerned departments nominated by several ministries, representatives from port terminals, and offshore industries.

There were also local and international consultants and experts from the Norwegian Coastal Administration (NCA) and IMO-IPIECA GISEA Project Coordinator. The mission of the group is targeted to draw up a NOSCP, later on, it was changed the name to National Contingency Plan for Marine Pollution (here and after refers as NCP) as it was advised by the Norwegian Coastal Administration (NCA) consultants in order to cover all types of pollution, not just caused by oil.

There were a series of meetings throughout the year 2017 till the end of 2018 that was a deadline given by the Ministry to be the completion date. Because of that order, the plan for conducting surveys for sensitivity mapping along the coastline was postponed to later months in 2019 when it was expected to finally be approved by the government level.

Risk Assessment Methodology

- Identify Initial Risk Rating

- Identify Control Measures
- Elimination of Risk(s)
- Reduce/Substitution
- Engineering Control
- Administrative /Procedural Control
- Personnel Protective Equipment (PPE)
- Identification of Control Measures
- Review residual risk after control measure have been identified

Risk Assessment Design Oil Spill Risk Assessment

- Identify possible oil spills scenarios
- Identify the sensitive resources that may be impacted by the oil spill risks
- Evaluate the risk based on the probability and severity of the oil spill impact
- Evaluate preventive and response measures including the level of equipment capability available
- Gather information on the oil products (e.g., storage location, quantity, oil characteristic, etc.)

BRIMMING WITH FAKE NEWS STORIES ON THE NOVEL CORONAVIRUS

Middle East mythbusters battle virus 'infodemic'

BROWSE through Arabic-language social media pages and you could walk away thinking COVID-19 is an American hoax, isn't deadly and can be swiftly cured with a garlic clove.

Arabic pages on Facebook, Twitter and Instagram are brimming with fake news stories on the novel coronavirus, from benign inaccuracies to full-throated conspiracy theories.

As authorities work to stem the spread of the novel coronavirus, civic platforms across the Middle East are stepping up to combat the Arabic "infodemic" they say is as dangerous as the infection itself.

"We correct the news and save lives," said Baher Jassem, an Iraqi activist from the Tech 4 Peace collective, which switched from its four-year campaign against fake political and economic news to setting the record straight on COVID-19.

Every few hours, the collective's Facebook, Instagram and Twitter pages publish screenshots of fabricated news stories about the virus, from claims about new remedies to celebrity deaths from the illness or a reassuring wave of recoveries.

The pictures are marked with a red stamp reading "fake post", accompanied by a correction and links to more accurate information. Their accounts reach more than one million followers.

"We don't just want to expose lies. We want to spread awareness about the coronavirus, the right way to protect yourself, the wrong remedies that are circulating," Jassem told AFP.

The corrections campaign could not have come sooner: the region appears to be experiencing a long-feared COVID-19 spike.

Iraq's daily case rate increase exploded to more than 2,000 in late June, nearing 3,000 per day this month.

Lebanon, Oman and Algeria saw peaks of daily new cases in mid-July, while Saudi Arabia and Jordan witnessed crests in late June but appear to be stabilizing.

Doctors in Iraq blame online misin-formation: their patients have insisted coronavirus is an American conspiracy, or people are actually dying from a sarin gas attack, or that Iraq's blistering heat would halt the virus's spread.

Medics say such false information could make people less likely to wear masks in public, abide by social distancing or wash their hands regularly.

'This is personal'

Misinformation about COVID-19 has been spreading in various languages since the pandemic's early days, but the proliferation in Arabic is particularly dangerous because of the lack of quality reporting, activists told AFP.

Indeed, Reporters Without Borders has noted authorities' tightening control over media in the Middle East in 2020, specifically over information relating to COVID-19.

As a result, activists said, news consumers are suspicious of the information they find in traditional outlets and more likely to entertain conspiracy theories.

"Media literacy is non-existent. Iraqis can go on Facebook and Twitter but are not really equipped to see 50 different sources and differentiate what's fact and what's fiction," said Faisal al-Mutar, a US-based Iraqi activist and founder of Ideas Beyond Borders.

IBB has partnered with Wikipedia to translate more than 250 detail-rich pages on COVID-19's origins and spread into Arabic. It's no easy task given the Arabic language's diverse dialects, said volunteer translator Issam Fawwaz, based in the northern Lebanese city of Tripoli.

"The scientific terms aren't standardized. A term used in Syria, Lebanon or Jordan is totally different from Egypt or Morocco," while some English terms have no Arabic equivalents, 33-year-old Fawwaz told AFP.

But conviction in the impact of his work has kept him going.

"This is personal for me. I was one of those people that used to believe fake news, but I was lucky to have people who pushed me to use my brain," he said.

"One person persuaded by a fake news story can spark a calamity in his community."

Brazil set to test Chinese coronavirus vaccine

BRASILIA — Brazil will begin advanced clinical testing of a Chinese-made vaccine against the new coronavirus Tuesday, issuing the first doses to around 900 volunteers, officials said.

The coronavirus vaccine, developed by private Chinese pharmaceutical firm Sinovac, is the third in the world to enter Phase 3 trials, or large-scale testing on humans — the last step before regulatory approval.

It will be administered to doctors and other health workers who volunteer for the program across six states in Brazil, one of the countries hit hardest by the pandemic. “Trials of CoronaVac, one of the vaccines that has advanced furthest in testing in the world, will begin at the Clinical Hospital of Sao Paulo,” the state’s governor, Joao Doria, told a news conference. He said initial results were expected within 90 days.

Sinovac is partnering with a

Brazilian public health research center, the Butantan Institute, on the trials. If the vaccine proves safe and effective, the institute will have the right to produce 120 million doses under the deal, according to officials. “In Brazil, we could have the first vaccine to be put to widespread use, which is very, very promising,” said the head of the Butantan Institute, Dimas Covas. Brazil is the second-hardest-hit country in the coronavirus pandemic, after the United States. Its death toll surpassed 80,000 on Monday, and it has registered 2.1 million infections. Those grim figures make it an ideal testing ground for potential vaccines, since the virus is still spreading quickly.

China requires negative COVID-19 tests for inbound air passengers

BEIJING — Passengers on flights to China are required to provide negative nucleic acid test results before boarding, the country’s civil aviation regulator said Tuesday. Chinese and foreign passengers taking flights to China must complete the tests within five days before embarking, the Civil Aviation Administration of China said in a joint statement issued with the General Administration of Customs and the Ministry of Foreign Affairs. The tests should be conducted in institutions designated or approved by Chinese embassies, the statement added.—Xinhua

Risk Identification Increase Traffic

The number of vessels calling at Port of Yangon gradually increased during the last decade that 2018 figure reaches 140% of the number in the last ten years. Cargo handling at Yangon Port is also an outstanding surge from 2008 to 2018. As the number of ships increasing in traffic, no doubt the risk of maritime accidents is likely to encounter much more frequently. The increase in shipping traffic is the main cause of spill risks.

Industrial Zone

As booming economic and industrial zones to require the capacity expansion of ports, depot, tanks, pipelines, particularly in Thilawa industrial zones and Yangon city, the increase of fuel demand is one of the casual factors to oil import activities and transportation more frequently. Particularly serious challenge likely to result from the Thilawa SEZ, together with new port regardless of export or import, definitely becomes the vessel traffic congestion. Thus, these development scans to be considered as the potential of an oil spill.

Oil and Gas Industry

According to the statistic, the risk of a major oil spill from an offshore platform is very low. On average, each year, it only contributes less than 4% of the total spills into the sea come from offshore exploration and production. In general, oil production offshore is regulated through national legislation. However, in this region, offshore operations are controlled by the E&P operators themselves. In principle, the government should have regulated and set the standards for operation and planning for emergencies, including oil spill response. At the same time, contingency plans have to be prepared by the operator of the offshore facility and shall be endorsed by the regulatory authority before the facility begins operation. The development of oil and gas exploration and production activities in Myanmar waters is one of the spill risks.

Natural Disaster

Natural Disaster or severe weather conditions could increase the risk of spill in the operation of the Oil and Gas industrial and maritime transportation. Recalling the worst catastrophe happened in Myanmar deltaic region, during 2008 Cyclone Nargis hit the Deltaic region of Myanmar on 02 May 2008, crossing the south of the country over two days, and left devastating consequences.

Other causes

Not only a natural disaster but human-made disasters are also manifested to fire and explosion that may be caused by the terrorist attack, sabotage or by any perpetrators who have been threatening maritime safety and security as well.

Contingency Plan

The format of a contingency plan should comply with existing:

- Local legislation and regulations
- Company policy and standards
- The National contingency plan
- YOSCP operates as an Area Plan
- MMIP serves as PFOSCP as well as Area Plan
- Furthermore, all OSCPs are integrated into the NOSCP

Observations

- The Project team recorded the following observations: -
- Good general awareness of the National Contingency Plan for Marine Pollution (the National Plan).
- Most of the port operators are waiting for guidance from the government with regard to the implementation of the National Plan.
- There is a fundamental lack of understanding of the Risk Assessment of spill risk and the selection of appropriate response(s).
- The Tiered Response concept is largely understood. National Plan Tier 1: “a small-sized spill or minor event within the facility”
- Guidelines are required concerning Risk Assessment and the development of appropriate response(s).
- Some facilities have been proactive and have Oil Spill Response Equipment (OSRE); however, most are not serviceable or is inappropriate, illustrating the lack of a formal risk assessment approach.

- Given the dominant high current speeds, any spill in or entering the River should automatically be considered a Tier 2 event since the response required would fall outside the Tier 1 capability.
- The provision of a common Tier 2 stockpile of OSRE would provide an efficient and cost-effective way to meet the requirements of the National Plan.
- A dedicated, professional, appropriately trained, and equipped response organization would be best placed to deliver an adequate and appropriate Tier 2 response on the Yangon River.

THE WAY FORWARD

Key requirements for implementation: -

- Risk Assessment
- Spill Response Centre Establishment
- Capacity-building
- Drills
- National Level Exercise
- Regional Level Exercise
- Initiate the Network among Thilawa SEZ and Yangon Port Terminal for corporation and collaboration in case of any emergency Oil spills, Safety and Security concerns
- To promote safety culture within industry Thilawa SEZ and

Yangon ports operators

Florida teachers sue to stop school openings as virus rages

TALLAHASSEE —Florida’s main teachers union on Monday sued Governor Ron DeSantis and other authorities to stop schools from reopening in August, as the state has become a US epicentre of the COVID-19 pandemic. The Florida Education Association, which represents 140,000 teachers, says the state constitution asserts that schools must provide a “safe and secure” environment, but that the COVID-19 resurgence “is remarkable and out of control.” Florida reported 10,347 new COVID-19 cases and 90 deaths on Monday, bringing the total death toll to 5,072. More than 9,500 novel coronavirus patients have been hospitalized and just 18 per cent of intensive care beds are available, officials say. DeSantis “needs a reality check,” said FEA President Fedrick Ingram.

“Everyone wants schools to reopen, but we don’t want to begin in-person teaching, face an explosion of cases and sickness, then be forced to return to distance learning,” he said. The lawsuit calls on DeSantis, state education commissioner Richard Corcoran and the mayor of Miami county to desist “from unnecessarily and unconstitutionally forcing millions of public-school students and employees to report to unsafe brick and mortar schools.”—AFP ■

EU agrees huge virus aid plan

EU member states Hungary and Poland often come under fire in Brussels for allegedly undermining European legal standards and democratic values. PHOTO: AFP

BRUSSELS—European leaders on Tuesday agreed on a massive aid package for their pandemic-ravaged economies, as President Donald Trump changed his tune in favour of face masks as a tool against the coronavirus in the United States. The virus has infected more than 14.6 million people and killed over 600,000 of them since it first emerged in China, with fresh alarm being sounded over its accelerating spread in Africa. The pandemic has devastated the global economy, and after a fractious summit, European leaders agreed on a rescue package of 750 billion euros ($858 billion) to try and pull their bloc out of a deep recession.

The package will send tens of billions of euros to countries hit hardest by the virus, most notably heavily indebted Spain and Italy that had lobbied hard for a major gesture from their EU partners. The talks saw strong resistance from some members against sending money to nations they consider too lax with public spending. With even richer nations struggling, experts have warned that the impact would be harsher in poorer regions of the world like Africa. There are fresh concerns about the continent, particularly South Africa, where the death toll crossed 5,000 over the weekend.

French President Emmanuel Macron called the date of reaching the agreement on the EU economic recovery fund and the long-term financial budget a ‘historic’ day for Europe. “This is a historic day for Europe,” Macron said on Twitter after a four-day EU summit in Brussels. Earlier in the day, EU leaders finished their summit in Brussels that had been lasting for four days. According to European Council President Charles Michel, the leaders have managed to reach an agreement on the long-term EU budget and post-coronavirus economic recovery fund. EU Chancellor Angela Merkel said at a press conference that she was pleased with the summit results.

“After a very long meeting, we have reached a good result. I am very happy about it,” Merkel said at a press conference. The EU leaders, in particular, agreed on the long-term budget of $1.2 trillion for 2021-2027 and the post-coronavirus economic recovery fund of $858 billion. European leaders for the first time agreed to link payment of EU funds to a member state with respect for the bloc’s legal norms -- although Poland and Hungary insisted they had blocked tougher planned measures.

“It is the first time that the respect for rule of law is a decisive criteria for budget spending,” EU Council President Charles Michel, who chaired the marathon summit, told reporters. Poland and Hungary had threatened to veto the EU’s entire budget package if there was any linkage between funding and rule of law but, as the talks continued through a fourth night, a deal was finally reached.—AFP, ANI ■

Nepal to resume international, domestic flights in August

KATHMANDU—Nepal will resume operation of commercial international and domestic flights from Aug. 17, the government said Tuesday.

A Cabinet meeting late Monday instructed aviation authorities to prepare a safety protocol to be followed for the operation of flights, Tourism Minister Yogesh Bhattarai told reporters.

“Airlines will have to strictly abide by the safety regulations,” Bhattarai said, without elaborating.

Nepal suspended all flights on March 22 before going under a complete lockdown on March 24. Ever since, only chartered and repatriation flights have operated.

The lockdown has since been eased partially with the government allowing private vehicles to operate on an odd-even basis and public transport to operate at a third of their capacity.

Travel from one district to another is, however, difficult because of the need to produce a variety of documents. Schools remain closed.

Markets have been allowed to open, but consumer appetite to purchase anything other than essentials remains tepid.

As of Tuesday afternoon, Nepal has confirmed 17,844 coronavirus infections, with 40 fatalities.

The health ministry’s

daily virus briefings show declining infection numbers and an increasing number of cured patients being discharged on a consistent basis over the past several days, decreasing pressure on the nation’s quarantine facilities.—

Bauer shuts eight magazines in Australia due to virus downturn

The economic crisis sparked by the coronavirus has devastated news media around the world. PHOTO: AFP

HAMBURG—BauerMedia is closing eight of Australia’s best-known magazines due to the impact of the coronavirus pandemic, the publisher announced Tuesday, a month after it was bought by a private equity firm.

The axed titles include the Australian editions of Harper’s Bazaar, Elle, In-Style, Men’s Health and Women’s Health.

The German media conglomerate paused publication of many of its Australian and New Zealand magazines in May due to a drastic fall in advertising revenue caused by business closures and travel restrictions imposed to curb the spread of COVID-19. Bauer then sold its Australian and New Zealand operations in July to Sydney-based private equity firm Mercury Capital.

Bauer ANZ CEO Brendan Hill, who stayed on after the sale, said that earlier hopes that all of the company’s 43 magazine brands could resume publication later this year had been dashed by the depth of the economic downturn.

“No one could have anticipated the swift, widespread and ongoing impact of the pandemic on our business and industry,” Hill said in a statement.

“The reinstatement of these titles and teams was always dependent on the advertising market bouncing back and the return of domestic and international travel.

“Despite promising signs from advertisers in recent weeks, this has not outweighed the medium-term outlook for these titles.”

The economic crisis has devastated news media around the world, with dozens of Australian newsrooms closed and hundreds of journalists losing their jobs in recent months.

While Australia had curbed the virus and began easing restrictions in June, a serious outbreak in Melbourne in recent weeks has cast a pall over its recovery.

Bauer cited data from Nielsen AdQuest showing the COVID-19 lockdowns caused a nearly 40-per cent drop in media advertising expenditure in Australia from March to April, while it was down 33 per cent in June compared to a year earlier.—AFP ■

Australia extends stimulus spending as 'COVID recession' looms

CANBERRA — Australia will extend record stimulus spending into next year, the government announced Tuesday, outlining multi-billion-dollar measures to shield the labour market from the ravages of the rolling coronavirus crisis.

Prime Minister Scott Morrison said that supplements to the unemployed and businesses struggling to retain staff would continue until at least the end of the year, and likely beyond.

With Australia poised to fall into its first recession in almost 30 years and struggling to tame now double-digit unemployment, the government will increase stimulus spending on two income support programmes to around Aus$86 billion (US$60 billion).

The government has already doled out around $30 billion to almost one million companies which have seen their turnover slashed.

The money has allowed around 3.5 million staff to be retained, according to government estimates.

Morrison, who dubbed it the "COVID-19 recession", said the stimulus programme "has saved businesses and it has saved livelihoods", as he announced measures that would trash his much-vaunted election promise to deliver a budget surplus this year.—AFP ■

Korea-Myanmar Industrial Complex to be established in Hlegu Township

By Kyaw Htike Soe

THE Korea-Myanmar Industrial Complex is set to be established on 556 acres of land in Nyaung Hna Bin Village, Hlegu Township in Yangon Region and construction of the project is expected to begin in October this year. Union Minister for Investment and Foreign Economic Relations U Thaung Tun held a video conferencing with Ambassador of the Republic of Korea to Myanmar Mr Lee Sang-hwa on June 10 to discuss matters relating to the project.

The project will be developed in two phases, and the first phase will be built on 314.69 acres of land while the second phase is scheduled to be set up on 241.12 acres of land. It will be the first South Korea-funded industrial complex in Myanmar which will be built under the agreement between the two countries. The Urban and Housing Development Department (UHDD) under the Ministry of Construction of Myanmar and the Korea Land and Housing Corporation from the Republic of Korea signed the agreement to jointly establish an industrial complex in Hlegu Township, Yangon Region on 16 June 2017 in Jeju Island in South Korea. Under the agreement, an industrial zone will be implemented in Yangon Region at an estimated cost of about US$ 110 million.

The Myanmar Investment Commission (MIC) approved the project on 27 February 2019 as a 60/40 partnership between Myanmar and South Korea and the industrial park will be built in two phases with the first starting from 2019 to 2021 and the second phase from 2022 to 2024. Seoul-based Kyongdong Engineering Co., Ltd was awarded the contract to draw up the project design. The industrial park will be made up of three scale (large, medium and small) industrial plots where factories and warehouses for garment products, food manufacturing, jewellery processing, vehicle spare parts factory, and electronic parts will be constructed. Besides, it will include residential, commercial, vocational training school, main roads, intersection roads, drainage system, power stations, plantation of green spaces, and wastewater treatment plants.

The industrial complex will support the development of industrial, export and human resource sectors in Myanmar. Many South Korean companies are expected to make investments in the industrial complex which will create 50,000 to 100,000 job opportunities for local people and generate US$ 10 million in taxes annually. In addition, it will uplift the socio-economic conditions of local people in the region. Once the project is completed, it will boost mutually beneficial Myanmar-Korea trade. It also has the huge potential of attracting investors at home and abroad by establishing an investor-friendly environment. Myanmar has also taken some significant steps to give a boost to economic ties and tourism from South Korea, by offering visa waiver for South Korean tourists.

Over 200 South Korean companies including multinational conglomerate Lotte Group are currently operating in Myanmar and many Korean manufacturing companies are now interested to make inroads into Myanmar. South Korea is a crucial investment and trading partner for Myanmar and is the sixth largest foreign investor in Eco Green City Project.

Union Minister for Investment and Foreign Economic Relations, U Thaung Tun and the Ambassador of the Republic of Korea, Mr Lee Sang-hwa held a virtual meeting via video conferencing.

the Southeast Asian country with most investment from the East Asian country flowed to oil and gas, infrastructure, retail, and real estate sectors. South Korea has so far injected nearly US$ 4 billion worth of investments into 177 projects in the real estate, agriculture, manufacturing, infrastructure, logistics, and construction sectors in Myanmar, accounting for 4.86 per cent of total foreign direct investments in the Southeast Asian country. Bilateral trade between Myanmar and South Korea was almost US$ 660 million in the financial year 2015-2016, soared to US$ 866 million in the fiscal year 2016-17, saw US$ 790 million in 2017-2018FY, and reached nearly US$ 800 million in 2018-2019FY, according to the statistics from the Ministry of Commerce.

Guardiola takes swipe at Arsenal over 'respect'

LONDON — Manchester City manager Pep Guardiola took a swipe at Arsenal on Monday (Jul 20) by admitting he does not respect them off the pitch.

Guardiola's side were knocked out of the FA Cup at the semi-final stage by Arsenal on Saturday as the Gunners won 2-0 at Wembley.

Guardiola was impressed by Arsenal's play under his former assistant Mikel Arteta, but he made a distinction in his thoughts about the north London club when it comes to their approach away from the pitch.

Guardiola's anger with Arsenal is thought to come from the role they played in the group of eight Premier League clubs perceived to have turned on City during their successful appeal against a two-year Champions league ban.

The group wrote to the Court of Arbitration for Sport (CAS), to try to ensure any attempt by City to delay their two-year ban while their appeal was ongoing was dismissed.

City had their ban overturned by CAS earlier this month, but Guardiola told reporters: "The opponents always deserve my respect and credit, and Arsenal, they have it.

"I have all the respect for what Arsenal are on the pitch – not much off the pitch, but on the pitch a lot.

So I congratulate them and good luck against Chelsea in the final."

Meanwhile, Guardiola says he is "optimistic" as City prepare to resume their bid for Champions League glory against Real Madrid.

City will host the Spanish champions in the second leg of their last 16 tie on August 7.

Historic Ronaldo puts Juve on brink of ninth straight Serie A title

TURIN — Cristiano Ronaldo put Juventus on the brink of a ninth consecutive Italian league title on Monday after he scored twice in a 2-1 win over Lazio to become the first player to hit 50 goals in Serie A, La Liga and the Premier League.

Juventus ended a three-match winless run thanks to Ronaldo's second-half brace that moves them eight points clear of second-placed Inter Milan with four games remaining.

Maurizio Sarri's side could win the title on Thursday against lowly Udinese, or on Sunday at home against Sampdoria, depending on their rivals' results this week.

"We are missing four points, only after we have achieved them will we then be able to think about the goal achieved," said Sarri.

"All the games are difficult now, and in the space of six days, we play three games. So, we must stay focused and think about securing the missing points."

Sarri added: "Cristiano is an impressive player because he has the extraordinary ability to complete a quick recovery between games.

"Not only physically, but, above all, mentally: he is a champion with his feet, but also with his head."

Ronaldo grabbed the first goal from the penalty spot just after the break and was handed a tap-in three minutes later by teammate Paulo Dybala.

The Portuguese has scored 30 goals this season, equal with Lazio's Ciro Immobile, who ended his three-match drought with a late penalty. His second was his 50th goal in Serie A, after also passing the landmark in England and Spain.—AFP ■

Coach Calleja leaves Villarreal after finishing fifth

MADRID — Villarreal announced on Monday (Jul 20) that Javi Calleja is no longer their coach despite taking the team to a fifth-placed finish in La Liga.

"Javi Calleja is no longer Villarreal CF head coach. The Yellows would like to thank him for his hard work, dedication and professionalism during his time as Yellows first-team manager," the club said in a statement.

Former Villarreal player Calleja, 42, took over as coach in September 2017 and in his first season took the side to fifth and qualification for the Europa League. The following December he was sacked with the outfit in the relegation zone, only to return after less than two months to save them from the drop.

This season Calleja once again led Villarreal to fifth, in part thanks to a good run of results after the Spanish top-flight returned from the coronavirus suspension last month.

However Spanish media report former Sevilla, Paris Saint-Germain and Arsenal coach Unai Emery will take his place. Calleja is the second major figure at the club to leave this summer, after Qatari club Al-Sadd announced on Monday that Santi Cazorla will be joining them. The Spain midfielder bid farewell to Villarreal ahead of the team's final game of the La Liga season, a 4-0 thumping of Eibar on Sunday.—AFP ■
