Statement to appreciate teachers' efforts

TEACHERS are honoured as part of the Five Infinite Venerables, and the manner of paying respect to the teachers can be only seen in Myanmar as a tradition. The teachers teach their pupils based on their goodwill like their own children and dutifully serve a teacher's duties. They must train their pupils and students in the best discipline. They see that they grasp their lessons well. They instruct them in the arts and sciences, they provide for their safety in every quarter, and they introduce them to their friends and associates.

As the COVID-19 infection rate is controlled to a certain extent, the basic education high, middle and primary schools under the Department of Basic Education have reopened across nation for the 2021-2022 academic year starting 1 June.

Those who want to seek good sake of one party, political extremist NLD members and supporters, NUG, CRPH and PDF committed arson attacks at the schools using mines, homemade bombs and grenades to fail the teaching processes, and threatened the teachers in addition to the incitements, social punishment and threats against education staff to join CDM while the officials made preparations for the reopening of schools and during the current teaching period. Their doings left some casualties, and the State Administration Council has expressed its deepest condolences and sympathy to the victims' families.

The SAC also appreciates the concerted efforts of teachers, who understand two virtues, Hiri — shame at doing evil —and Otappa—fear of the results of doing evil —for teaching the new generations of the country amid such difficulties and challenges.

The security forces will take extraordinary measures to ensure the safety of teachers who are making efforts in the academic sector for the next generations in order to promote the education qualification. The people should keep security awareness and cooperate with the security members in community peace and peaceful learning of children.

MIFER ex-Union minister U Thaung Tun charged under Anti-Corruption Law

THE Anti-Corruption Commission (ACC) formed an inspection team to examine the activities of former Union minister U Thaung Tun of the Ministry of Investment and Foreign Economic Relations under the Anti-Corruption Law.

According to the inspection, ex-chairman of the Myanmar Investment Commission U Thaung Tun leased 9.22 acres of land on upper Pazundaung Road in Mingala Taungnyunt Township owned by the Consumers Affairs Department of the Ministry of Commerce during his service term to a private company for 30 years. In such doing, he did not follow notification No 39/2011 (on the right to use land relating to the Republic of the Union of Myanmar, Foreign Investment Law) and President Office Directive 3/2018, paragraph 2, subparagraph (g) the rental fee of state-owned land and buildings must fix according to the current prices of the location, and tender procedures of the President Office Directive 1/2017. Although the price of land of the Consumer Affairs Department in Yangon is between $10 and $15 per square metre, he let the company pay only more than $0.24 million per year at $6.5 per square metre. It caused a loss of more than $0.13 million per year.

While he was serving duties, the minimum land use premium fee in Yangon was $1 million per acre for the company. But, in leasing 9.22 acres of land of the Ministry of Commerce to a private company, they had to pay only more than 0.24 million of land use premium fee instead of $9.22 million, and it also caused a loss of more than $7.9 million.

Therefore, ex-Union minister U Thaung Tun was charged under the Anti-Corruption Law Section 55 at Phayagon Myoma police station in Nay Pyi Taw yesterday and the ACC will take further action. — MNA

Cementing the Union Spirit

EVERYBODY needs to notice a saying that “If one does not know the past, one may commit mistakes again. Likewise if one is too eager to embrace the past, one may lose the road to the future”. The government has decided to further promote the process of cementing the Union Spirit and peace process before the forthcoming Diamond Jubilee Union Day and Independence Day.

Analyze everything with widened scope for consequences

THE third wave outbreak of COVID-19 mostly runs out. The government started to ease the restrictions of the pandemic for the people in daily life. As the infection rate of the disease declines, most of the townships among over 100 townships have been removed from the list of Stay-at-Home programmes.

Nonetheless, some of the COVID-19 treatment centres and quarantine centres are still open for readiness to admit the confirmed patients. It is because the COVID-19 shall not totally disappear from the world, people are to live together with the impacts of the pandemic to some degree.

That is why it is not time out for everything. The economy of the State needs to be recovered. As part of improving the economic sector of the State and the people, efforts must be made for booming the businesses in order to earn incomes in export and import activities.

On the other hand, it is necessary to arrange the leisure and pleasure of the people by implementing the tourism industry. Indeed, the tourism industry can earn income for the businesspersons as well as the State while giving tourism services to the local and foreign travellers.

Nowadays, the global countries are implementing various kinds of tourism services—domestic tourism, international tourism, outbound tourism, business tourism, adventure tourism, wildlife tourism, medical tourism, wellness tourism, pilgrimage and spiritual tourism, cultural tourism, dark tourism, culinary tourism, celebrity tourism or film tourism, educational tourism, cruise tourism, rural tourism and space tourism—in conformity with their natures. Myanmar is making preparations to reopen its land and international borders to international visitors as part of paving the way for more foreign investments and business recovery. Such a plan is mutual interests not only for the travellers but for the businesspersons and operators. The global people and local people have been staying at home for many months due to the outbreak of COVID-19 from the first to the third waves. As such, the plan of reopening the borders arranged by the government would be a great chance for them.

In fact, the government and the businesspersons need to take special care of forthcoming consequences in reopening the borders. Conscience should not be placed under the limit. Hence, everybody needs to widen their scopes for the future by analyzing everything possible for gaining outcomes.

Current system will not protect us from the next pandemic, 'which could happen at any time'

In assessing the progress made since last May, the report covered the areas of leadership and governance, financing, equity, a new legal instrument, and a stronger WHO.

EFFORTS to reform global pandemic preparedness and response are happening too slowly, the World Health Organization's (WHO) Independent Panel for Pandemic Preparedness and Response said on Monday.

Presenting the findings of a six-month accountability report, Co-chairs Helen Clark, former Prime Minister of New Zealand, and Ellen Johnson Sirleaf, former President of Liberia, warned that "uneven" progress in addressing the COVID-19 pandemic continues to cause illness, deaths and economic losses.

Calling for Heads of State and Government to come together to make faster progress, especially at the UN General Assembly, the two leaders pointed out that with much of the groundwork done, now is the time to end the pandemic and prepare for the next global health threat.

Immediate action needed

In assessing the progress made since last May, the report covered the areas of leadership and governance, financing, equity, a new legal instrument, and a stronger WHO.

Since May, the report noted that 90 million more people have contracted COVID 19, and 1.65 million have died.

Following the deep-dive into COVID-19 responses, immediate action was recommended for a package of international, inter-linked reforms to stop a future outbreak.

"Given the scale of devastation from this pandemic and its continuing impact on people across the globe, the Panel resolved to document fully what happened and why, and to make bold recommendations for change", said Ms Clark.

Unequal attention

Unfortunately, vaccine inequity has changed very little. And in the poorest countries, less than one per cent of the population are fully vaccinated.

Although wealthy countries have publicly pledged donations, Ms Sirleaf observed that "just a fraction of redistributed doses have actually been delivered".

The co-chairs maintained that the pledged donations must be transparently planned to quickly deliver the vaccines and to develop, adding that "a true end-to-end global public goods model remains the answer".

Much more to be done

The former leaders pointed to a speech delivered by Secretary-General António Guterres in September calling for the panel's recommendations to be a starting point for urgent reforms to the global health architecture.

The co-chairs highlighted a growing momentum for a UN global summit as well as increasing support for a new top-level political leadership Global Health Threats

Council to mobilize the strong collective commitment required for global health security, which should provide "much-needed leadership and accountability".

New financing

The report stressed that "governance without finance lacks teeth; and finance without governance lacks accountability".

The Independent Panel noted that the Global Health Threats Council should also allocate and monitor funding from a new financing mechanism that supports pandemic preparedness and responses. At least $10 billion in new financing annually and up to $100 billion in a pool of response funding is needed for a pandemic threat, the report said.

"Our message is simple and clear: The current system failed to protect us from the COVID-19 pandemic", said Ms Sirleaf. "And if we do not act to change it now, it will not protect us from the next pandemic threat, which could happen at any time".

Philippine "diving capital" yearns for tourists as pandemic situation improves

With cases down and the vaccination rate up, more and more places in the Philippines have recently eased restrictions on public activities.

AFTER more than a year in the doldrums, tourism in the coastal Mabini town, known as the "birthplace" of scuba diving in the Philippines, is enjoying a rebound with visitors returning to see the beautiful seaside scenery and explore rich species underwater.

"Thankfully, the pandemic is being handled well, and the cases are in a downward trend. As you can see, tourists are pouring into Mabini nowadays," Florian Bueno, Mabini municipal tourism officer, told Xinhua.

Favorite weekend destination

Famous for crystal clear azure water, Mabini, a resort town of some 70,000 inhabitants located in Batangas province, south of capital Manila, is a favorite weekend destination for foreign and domestic tourists.

Before the pandemic struck, Mabini had been attracting over 500,000 tourists annually, of which about 30 per cent comes from abroad, mostly from Asia and Europe. The tourism sector significantly contributes to the economy of Mabini, helping to provide thousands of jobs for residents.

The COVID-19 pandemic dealt a severe blow to the tourism sector in Mabini, slashing foreign arrivals and displacing service workers. With cases down and the vaccination rate up, more and more places in the Philippines have recently eased restrictions on public activities. Intercity travels for leisure and reopening of over 100 resorts in the town, therefore, became possible.

"We are now allowed to reopen with 50 per cent capacity to people fully vaccinated. And still, we have to observe health safety guidelines strictly," said Ike Moreno, general manager of a resort in the town. "Tourists keep coming, and they must make an early reservation for diving and other recreational facilities," he added.

Earlier this month, Bueno's municipal tourism office launched a long-awaited nationwide promotion campaign via traditional and social media, hoping to attract more domestic travellers to Mabini.

Resorts are now operating

According to Bueno, more than 80 resorts are now operating, and a few dozens are ready to reopen. "Both the local and national governments are promoting programs to support the revitalization of the tourism industry. We will adopt all the health safety guidelines set by the government while helping the city rebound from the pandemic," said Bueno.

With most of the tourism workers inoculated, the Philippines will soon allow the entry of fully-vaccinated foreign tourists from China and 43 other "green" or low-risk COVID-19 countries and regions, vowing it is "more than ready to provide visitors with a safe and pleasant experience."

According to the Department of Tourism's (DOT) plan, fully vaccinated tourists will be welcome and whisked straight to tourist destinations without the need for hotel quarantine.

Aside from the sun and beach tourist destinations that the country is well-known for, the DOT also spotlights new and enhanced bike tours, dive circuits, farm and food tourism circuits, hiking and trekking, and outdoor museums through historical and cultural tours, among others.

The DOT said these activities cater to tourists' "new normal" preference for outdoor activities and well-ventilated areas.

Rising economic indicators point to India shaping up for 'growth decade': Piyush Goyal

UNION Commerce and Industry Minister Piyush Goyal on Monday said India is working on 'Aatmanirbhar Bharat' just like the United States embarked on a 'Build Back Better' framework.

While welcoming United States Trade Representative (USTR) Katherine Tai at a reception in New Delhi, Goyal said the Indian economy has recovered sharply and the rising economic indicators point towards 'India shaping up for a growth decade'.

He said India and US have gained strength over years due to defence co-operation and the Quadrilateral Security Dialogue (Quad) has given it a new boost. Tai is on a two-day visit to India and is accompanied by Deputy United States Trade Representative Sarah Bianchi. Goyal said India-US bilateral trade is showing a robust increase. The minister said that rising economic indicators point towards "India

NEWS IN BRIEF

Turkey to abandon digital tax in favour of OECD agreement: US

TURKEY will drop its tax on US tech giants in favour of a global agreement on taxes under the Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD), the US government announced Monday.

In response, Washington will revoke the tariffs it imposed – but did not collect – on Turkey in June over Ankara's 7.5 per cent tax on foreign tech firms that generate the equivalent of at least $1.7 million per year in revenue in the country, a very low threshold that encompassed virtually the entire sector. The tax was similar to those imposed by Austria, Spain, Italy, the United Kingdom and India to force US multinational tech companies to pay at least a portion of their revenues in local tax.

Washington slapped duties on those countries in retaliation, though they were never collected, and in October, those nations agreed to end levies on Big Tech companies once a global minimum corporate tax deal takes effect, which is expected in 2023. The minimum tax deal was reached earlier last month by 140 countries under the auspices of the OECD, and would see the imposition of a 15 per cent minimum tax. That historic move aims to put an end to corporations sheltering profits in low-tax haven countries, and would address the issue the digital services taxes like those imposed by Turkey were aimed at.—AFP ■

Panasonic develops cybersecurity system for internet-connected cars

PANASONIC Corp. is aiming to introduce a security system it has developed for automakers to prevent cyberattacks amid the launch of more vehicles that offer various services via the internet.

The new system will see software installed in internet-connected cars to detect abnormalities and dedicated teams at Panasonic and the automakers will monitor the cars around the clock, the Japanese electronics conglomerate said.

In late October, Panasonic demonstrated an example of a cyberattack and how it is detected at a mock-up surveillance center set up in Tokyo. Once a demo car in Osaka was hit by an experimental remote attack, the car's driving wheel quickly turned 180 degrees and a warning beep blared out in Tokyo.

"If the computerized control is taken over during driving, it leads to fatal accidents. Practically, abnormalities need to be detected at a much earlier phase," a company official said, adding that the company's system is capable of doing just that.—Kyodo

Tuchel says Chelsea owner Abramovich 'in love with the game'

THOMAS Tuchel has praised Chelsea owner Roman Abramovich for being "in love" with football ahead of the title-holders Champions League match against Juventus. Abramovich, a Russian billionaire, was in London to host Israeli president Isaac Herzog at Stamford Bridge on Sunday and may stay on to see Chelsea at home against Italian giants Juventus on Tuesday. "Is he a special owner? I think, first and most importantly, he's a football fan, a huge football fan.

"He is in love with the game, he's in love with the details, he wants to know everything about what's going on here in Cobham (Chelsea's training ground). "And we keep him posted, because he has such a genuine interest and love for the game. "This is the most important and this makes things very special." Abramovich's £140 million Chelsea takeover in 2003 triggered a seismic shift in power in the Premier League.

He brought Jose Mourinho to Stamford Bridge in 2004, with the Portuguese boss winning the Premier League title in his first season in charge as the Blues ended a 50-year wait to be crowned champions of England. — AFP ■
