Human resources are being turned out for operating manufacturing process which plays a key role in promotion of State economy: Senior General

SAC Chairman Prime Minister Senior General Min Aung Hlaing delivers address at State economic promotion meeting at SAC Chairman office on 30 June.

State-owned factories must be operated with benefit, said Chairman of the State Administration Council Prime Minister Senior General Min Aung Hlaing at the State economic promotion meeting at the SAC Chairman Office in Nay Pyi Taw yesterday afternoon.

Myanmar embraced 3.2 per cent increase of State economy in 2022-23 financial year. The Senior General expressed his review that economic change of the country depended on trade and incomes as well as human resources. Myanmar stood seventh to eighth positions in GDP in ASEAN countries. Thai's GDP stood with US$536.16 billion, Malaysian GDP US$407.923 billion, Viet Nam's GDP US$406.452 billion and Myanmar's GDP US$60 billion. These countries' export position of agriculture and livestock farm is very different from Myanmar.

Lesser volume of Myanmar's agriculture sector participates in the GDP of the nation.

Myanmar cultivates 14.9 million acres of monsoon paddy this year, and more than 13 million acres of land are farmlands. Of them, 6.6 million acres of farmlands are placed under the double crops and 7.3 million acres under beans, sunflower, tapioca or other crops. If one acre of crop produces K1 million worth of products, the country will get products worth K7,300 billion. If so, participation of agricultural sector in the GDP will increase.

Oil crop cultivation was undertaken on 800,000 acres of land without oil palm in 2022-23 FY. It may yield 690,000 tonnes of oil. All oil crops can be produced for 126.2 per cent of oil sufficiency. If all cultivation of oil crops is undertaken, oil sufficiency of the nation will be 249.5 per cent.

The Senior General also highlighted cultivation of cotton, kitchen crops, coffee, tea and livestock breeding farming tasks.

The Senior General underscored that the country faced more than $12 billion of trade deficit from 2011 to 2016 and $12.61 billion from 2016 to 2021. The government solved the spending of foreign currency from the international aid and loans.

The Senior General urged all to practise the thrift for spending the money except necessary spending without fail. Hence, people need to use locally made products instead of imported ones.

The Senior General noted that the government will import necessary volume of fertilizers for agriculture sector. Moreover, it is necessary to use natural fertilizers and bio-fertilizer for the agricultural farms.

The Senior General said that power generation projects were suspended and cancelled in the previous government terms. So, the country is not sufficient in electricity. Hence, it is necessary to generate electricity from small scale hydro-power plants and solar power projects.

Deputy Prime Minister and Union Minister for Planning and Finance U Win Shein reported on restrictions in promotion of State economy and solving ways, GDP increase from 2020 to 2023 in financial years, development of agriculture, industry and service sectors, disbursement from State economic promotion fund, inflation rate, and management for State owned enterprises.

The chairman of Nay Pyi Taw Council and chief ministers of regions and states also presented reports on undertaking for development of MSME, local food sufficiency, expansion of agriculture and livestock farms, increase of export volume, incomes of foreign exchange, and opening of industrial, agriculture and livestock schools.

SAC members, Union ministers and senior military officers reported on reform for State owned enterprises and industries for having economic effectiveness, betterment of market economic system, assistance for MSMEs, capital, quality seeds, inputs and techniques for boosting production of agriculture and livestock farms.

In his speech, the Senior General said if groundnut and sesame oils are produced at home, the country will have oil sufficiency. He urged region and state authorities to manufacture tyres and tubes in relevant states and regions. It is necessary to restrict illegal trade which can harm incomes of the State.

In his concluding remarks, the Senior General stressed that State-owned factories must be operated with benefit. Agriculture and livestock products are sure raw materials of MSME businesses. Human resources are being turned out for operating manufacturing process which plays a key role in promotion of State economy. The Senior General urged all region and state chief ministers to arrange learning of all school-age children to have school education and techniques. — MNA/TTA

Create a happy society for older persons in Myanmar

MYANMAR stands apart from other nations due to its flourishing four cardinal virtues: affection, compassion, empathetic joy, and detachment. Regardless of racism, religion, doctrine, or localism, the people of Myanmar can associate with each other peacefully, intertwining these virtues. One noteworthy aspect of Myanmar society is its tradition of paying respect to elders and giving priority to senior citizens who have dedicated their lives to serving the community. These older individuals have carried the traditions and legacy of society, ensuring its longevity and strength.

In light of their contributions and long-lasting lives, it is essential for everyone in Myanmar society to extend loving-kindness towards older persons. During their sunset years, they deserve attention, priority, and empathy from the community in recognition of their past sacrifices and services. Offering a helping hand to the elderly enables them to spend this phase of their lives joyfully.

Moreover, the government provides social pensions to individuals above 85 years of age, offering financial assistance for their needs. Nevertheless, children should provide even greater support and compassion to their parents. Likewise, the wider Myanmar society should lend a helping hand to the elderly, allowing them to navigate the remaining paths of life with ease. Such acts of kindness serve as noble and meritorious deeds, fostering positive cycles within the community.

lend a helping hand to the elderly, allowing them to navigate the remaining paths of life with ease. Such acts of kindness serve as noble and meritorious deeds, fostering positive cycles within the community.

It is crucial for everyone to recognize that they too will grow older one day, provided they are fortunate enough to experience a long life. This is because people worldwide often lose their lives at different ages. Therefore, during the period when individuals can stand tall in their own lives, it is imperative that they exhibit warm kindness towards one another, free from any attachments. By doing so, they can shape a happy and pleasant society, establishing it as a cherished tradition for future generations.

That is why Myanmar society thrives on the values of affection, compassion, empathetic joy, and detachment. This society holds a deep respect for older persons, acknowledging their contributions and dedications. It is the responsibility of each individual to extend loving-kindness towards the elderly, both within their families and throughout society. By supporting and empathizing with older persons, Myanmar can foster a society that values and cherishes its elders, ultimately shaping a happy and fulfilling community for all.

MYANMAR society generally accepts that house chores must be done by the housewife. As a tradition of Myanmar society, Myanmar families exercise the division of labour that husbands must serve livelihoods for families to earn incomes to be spent on various expenses. On the other hand, the housewife has to serve the household chores.

Daily challenges

Currently, every family is facing financial problems monthly. Even though both husband and wife earn incomes but their incomes are not enough for monthly expenditures. Mostly, low-income families are suffering the severe impacts of the mundane world. Everybody can guess that if the family of husband and wife faces difficulties in daily routine, the families comprising offspring will be sure to suffer unprecedented plights and they have to try hard to overcome daily challenges. Hence, current Myanmar families have to work to earn incomes for families with the strength of all adult family members.

Those from low-income families are working one after another to earn income for their families. They do not have extra time for daily routine but they wish to extend hours of the day to do more work for securing surplus incomes. Only if, increased incomes will help their families be a smooth and convenient process. Generally, as most of the low-income family members had completed lesser middle school education, they are difficult having knowledge and experience of the vocational techniques. As a result, most of them are consoled with the status of labour workers with the least daily wages.

Another challenge in the society

At a time when low-income families are trying hard to overcome social and financial challenges on a monthly basis, middle-class and high-class families are also experiencing some social and family problems. As they are educated persons, they are able to work their jobs by applying their experiences and skills. So, their high salaries help their families happy and prosperous. However, as a nature of human beings, they have some greed to earn more and more income from their jobs. As such, they try hard to enhance their capacity and qualification so as to apply for higher positions of the jobs. Depending on their skills and talents, bosses of jobs settle them in the appropriate positions and give deserved salaries as an encouragement to their efforts. As such, both husband and wife of those middle and high-class families are trying to march forward towards the goals they expected.

But, a common problem can be seen among these three classes of families in Myanmar society. It can be said that they do not have a spare time. Some persons are trying to earn incomes based on their lower education and knowledge so as to support their families. So they spend many hours at workplaces. Those from middle and high-class families are also seeking the best ways and means to earn more and more incomes for their wealthy lives. So, they do not have adequate spare time. Those people from three strata of the societies are currently facing challenges depending on their family problems and greedy acts for future prosperity.

The Role of Maids

Some female labours seek jobs abroad in legal and illegal ways. Some of them who went abroad through illegal routes faced varieties of problems and went back home. But, they try to go abroad to do jobs as maids illegally. It is because they do not have adequate knowledge to apply for a passport and other official documents. Some of them do not wait for a long time to go abroad for various reasons. Whatever it may be, a large number of female labour wish to go abroad to seek maid jobs depending on their education qualification. As every job has challenges, they face many challenges in their jobs. It is not a strange factor in the labour society.

The market for maids in urban areas

Some female labour seeks maid jobs in the country without eagerness to go abroad. Those maids contact brokers and official agencies at home. Some brokers recruit female teenagers from rural areas and far-flung areas with lip promises that they will seek high-salary jobs for those teenagers in urban areas. Practically, some of those teenagers become victims of human traffickers. Let it be! When those teenagers arrive in urban areas or houses of maid agents, their challenges start. The promise given to them is not in conformity with the current situation. Some maid agents allot the new recruits to work maid jobs at some urban houses. But they have to sign at least a three-month agreement with house owners. On the other hand, the house owner needs to pay a brokerage charge as a one-month salary of the maid to the agent. It is an unmentioned rule.

Some middle and high-class families are difficult to do household chores on a daily basis. It is because they are working the whole day as well as many hours per day. So, they are absent from household chores. Hence, the role of a maid is very important in operating the household chores. So, they search and contact maid agents for hiring them to do their household chores. In this regard, some situations are different in managing maids. Jobs for maids may be different. Some maids are hired to serve as a nurse for older persons. Some maids have to do jobs as custodians of the property depending on their loyalty and long-time experience. Some of them have to do real household chores such as cooking, house cleaning, washing and so on.

Nature of maids

The article specifically mentions the nature of maids. In Myanmar, most of the housemaids are served by females. So, the article represents the nature of maids only. Actually, the arena of the maid is very complicated. Some maids do secretly contact agents or brokers to manipulate the house owners through unscrupulous ways. For example, some maids sign a three-month agreement with the owners. In the first month, they do their jobs without any problems showing their innocent nature. But, they cannot cover their deceitful natures in the second month by secretly eating meals more than the quota allotted for them, stealing money from the owners in various ways, disturbing complaints about their jobs. Some maids break the rules in the agreement in any way. Some maids promise that they are skilful in their jobs but actually, they are worse in serving jobs. Mostly, maids do not have the family owners. Some owners slap maids whenever they are satisfied with the serving of maids. Some owners do not give adequate meals to maids. So, those maids buy some meals by spending their salaries.

Yangon Region. It is an example problem in the maid area.

Moreover, some house owners ask the maids to do household chores but they spoke rude words, and swear at the maids for owners for disappointing them and so on. Some of the problems are committed for various reasons.

In signing the agreement for hiring the maid, the house owner has to pay a charge to the broker or agent. Some agreements mention that house owners shall pay three-month salaries for the maid to the agent in advance. So, the maid has to serve her job at the relevant house for three months. But, the maid does not serve it. So, she makes many problems the house owner does not prefer. They break the rules mentioned in the agreement several times. Finally, the house owner surrenders to accept the maid at the house and releases her without receiving any refund for the cost of the maid.

It is not enough for mentioning the wicked ways of the maid. Some maids bully the children of the house owners behind them. The maid threat children not to complain to their families about their sufferings based on bullying of maids. Some maids take meals and snacks for the children of house owners. Some maids do not strictly obey the orders of house owners and make many spirit in doing their jobs. Although they are staying at their assigned houses, most of them do not consider the interests of the assigned houses but prioritize selfishness.

Some maids wish to grad authorities in doing household chores. Although they are maids, they see themselves as house owners. So, some problems happen between maids and house owners. Some problems are based on the overconfident nature of the maid with their acts over the house owners. Some maids see themselves as the house owner; so they order the owners to do something. It is very bad. As a nature of human beings, all the maids are not clever but some maids have family spirit in conformity with relevant families of the house owners in serving their duties with genuine goodwill. If so, they can live along with the families of owners for a long time as well as along their lives without any disputes among them.

Sufferings of maids

On the other hand, some maids face inhumane acts of house owners. Some maids suffer bullying and torture by house owners. Some owners slap maids whenever they are satisfied with the serving of maids. Some owners do not give adequate meals to maids. So, those maids buy some meals by spending their salaries.

At a time when the maids suffer from fever; they miss the chance to receive medical treatments due to restrictions of house owners. Moreover, some owners cut the salaries of maids for some mistakes such as crush of ceramic plates or glass cups, unintentionally broken things, scorched meals and so on. As the worst event, some male owners rape the maids without sympathy and empathy. And, at a time when the maids are pregnant, the owners give some compensation and expel those maids to avoid crime. It is a regrettable event in the maid arena. But, some maids dare to commit crimes by attacking their owners for various reasons. Recently, the social network pages mentioned two female maids killed the owner to take money in a township in some forgettable mistakes. If some maids do not have tolerance, both sides maids and owners will face quarrels. If so, both sides' relations will not be good in the long run, and it will reach departure for the jobs.

Unmentioned ethics of maids

Maids have to share the fortune of relevant houses together with house owners during their assignments. If they do everything in line with the provisions of the agreements, they can enjoy the entitlements given by the house owners. Actually, their faithfulness to their jobs and house owners is enough for their side. At this juncture, it should consider an important factor that the families which hire maids would not be surely wealthy. Hiring maids are based on various reasons. As such, maids should not seem that they would do house chores conveniently and they could do just light work on a daily basis. It is totally wrong. Most house owners hire maids for many reasons. Some of them recruit maids for prioritizing family issues without turning to household chores. Some families need to emphasize healthcare services for aged persons. Some businesspersons cannot do everything at home due to busy time for all.

Hence, maids should completely ask what they can enjoy entitlements in jobs before signing agreements. If not, they have a chance to request to fulfil their needs in serving jobs before signing the contracts. If they are dissatisfied with the agreements, they have a chance not to sign them and wait for other jobs as they expected.

Hence, maids should completely ask what they can enjoy entitlements in jobs before signing agreements. If not, they have a chance to request to fulfil their needs in serving jobs before signing the contracts. If they are dissatisfied with the agreements, they have a chance not to sign them and wait for other jobs as they expected. Even if they have signed the agreements, they should not mention their dissatisfaction.

Expectations in maid arena

As ordinary human beings, both house owners and maids wish to meet with generous persons in their jobs. But they do not notice that if they do not discard their characters to dominate each other, they never meet with generous people. They have to change their mindset at first. Both of them have to uphold sympathy and do jobs with goodwill. If so, both sides will build physical and mental well-being on a daily basis. In consequence, their agreements will be extended for a long time. Gradually, maids will be relatives of house owners whereas house owners will be close family members of maids. If so, their relevant houses will be peaceful and prosperous. Families of owners and maids will rely on each other in the long run and the faithfulness between them will initiate mutual trust.

Solving problems based on compassion and sympathy

For the best situations, both maids and owners need to uphold patience, tolerance and forgiveness for some minor cases and to solve win-win solutions in face-to-face discussions over some problems. Both sides need to understand the patience and tolerance of others and consider the welfare and interests of others. Both sides need to avoid wicked ways in daily routines and do everything based on compassion and sympathy for long-term good relations.

Pigeon pea price rebounds to above K3 mln per tonne

THE price of pigeon pea bounced back to above K3.015 million per tonne on 30 June after dropping to K2.9 million per tonne on 28 June, showing a sharp increase of K100,000 per tonne within two days, according to the Yangon Region Chambers of Commerce and Industry (Bayintnaung).

The current price has not reached a record high of K3.33 million per tonne recorded on 5 June. The price rise is attributed to the foreign demand and low stock.

As a result of this, the Myanmar Pulses, Beans and Sesame Seeds Merchants Association notified on 12 May 2023 that growers should primarily cultivate green gram and pigeon pea this year's pulses season.

There is a strong market share of black gram and pigeon pea in India. Most of the growers also select them as main crops.

India notified that the free import policy of black gram (urad) and pigeon pea (tur) extended up to 31 March 2024, bringing more benefits to the stockholders in the supply chain including growers and exporters. That being so, they should black gram, green gram and pigeon peas to foreign markets. Of them, black gram and pigeon peas are mostly conveyed to India while green grams are shipped to China and Europe.

According to the meeting outcome 32/2022 of the Foreign Exchange Supervisory

After receiving export declaration, export earnings must be deposited to the company's account within seven working days. After that, they can claim their 20-per-cent deposit return.

Those companies with less than three years of establishment must pay a 35 per cent deposit to the department from 1 July. They will also get their deposit returned after the in-

Manuha Temple of King Manuha in Bagan ancient cultural zone

WHEN travellers visit the Bagan-NyaungU ancient cultural zone in NyaungU Township of Mandalay Region, they can pay homage to Manuha Buddha image of King Manuha and study other 37 pagodas depicting 37 Bodhi Pakkhiya in Myinkabar village.

King Manuha, ruler of Thaton, constructed the Manuha Buddha temple in Bagan ancient cultural zone in 1059 AD while he was imprisoned as prisoner of war of King Anawrahta. The temple was constructed with the inspiration of Hindu temple and there are 37 small pagodas on that temple.

There is a large sitting-Buddha image in the centre of the temple and is surrounded by two medium-sized stupas while the Shinpin Thalyaung reclining Buddha image, is at the back.

The rooms are barely large enough to contain the four images. It is believed that King Manuha wanted to express his frustration about his captivity.

To the north of the Manuha Temple is Mingalar Cedi while Mya Zedi, Gypyaunggyi pagoda, Shwe Zedi in northeast, Apeyadana pagoda, Nagayon pagoda, Kyaukmyathmaw pagoda, Sein Nyet Ama pagoda and Pyu Phayathonsu pagodas in the south and the pilgrims can see other various 3,822 temples and stupas in Bagan ancient cultural zone. — Dipa Lin/KTZH

COFFEE industry insiders at the Sao Paulo Coffee Festival, held here from 23 to 25 June, were optimistic about the prospect of the Chinese specialty coffee market.

The three-day festival attracted coffee lovers and companies from Brazil and abroad to enjoy the feast, bringing consumers abundant experiences related to coffee, including music, art and gastronomy.

Noting "specialty coffees are very people-oriented," Caio Fontes, director of the Sao Paulo Coffee Festival, told Xinhua that coffee is in Brazil's culture and has a "very emotional and social connection in Brazil." The event aimed at spreading the information and knowledge of specialty coffee to more people, as Brazil is the world's largest coffee exporter and one of the best coffee producers, Fontes added. Helcio Junior, the co-founder of Brazilian specialty coffee producer Unique Cafes, which has been established 15 years ago and already entered the Chinese market with continuous export growth, said the cooperation between China and Brazil is "fundamental." — Xinhua

EU to lift post-Fukushima import restrictions on Japan food products

THE European Union is poised to lift its remaining import restrictions on Japanese food products imposed in the wake of the 2011 Fukushima nuclear power plant disaster, a diplomatic source said Thursday.

An announcement is expected possibly at the end of July, paving the way for the removal of a requirement for radiation test certificates for seafood and mushrooms from 10 prefectures, including Fukushima. Japanese farm minister Tetsuro Nomura said Friday in Tokyo that he is "aware that there are positive moves" on the issue and will meet with EU Commissioner for Agriculture Janusz Wojciechowski

Pokemon Go firm Niantic slashes staff

THE maker of mobile game Pokemon Go has said it will slash 230 jobs, almost one-third of its staff, in another blow to the tech industry.

Niantic boss John Hanke said in an email to staff posted online late on Thursday that the San Francisco-based firm needed to cut costs because of a post-pandemic slump in business.

Hundreds of thousands of people have lost their jobs in the tech sector over the past year, with firms often blaming over-hiring during the pandemic.

Australia inquiry urges online gambling ad ban

ADVERTISING for online gambling should be banned in Australia within three years, a parliamentary inquiry recommended Wednesday, citing serious harm caused by an inescapable "torrent" that is "grooming children".

The inquiry said that partial bans do not work and called for a "phased, comprehensive" ban that "leaves no room for circumvention".

Australians spend more on online gambling than citizens of any other country, the report said, adding that almost half of those surveyed last year had placed a bet on sports or racing.

"Online gambling has been deliberately and strategically marketed alongside sport, which has normalised it as a fun, harmless, and sociable activity," parliamentary committee chair Peta Murphy said.

"Gambling advertising is grooming children and young people to gamble and encourages riskier behaviour," she added. "The torrent of advertising is inescapable." — AFP

State of emergency mulled by French govt over protest violence

FRENCH Prime Minister Elisabeth Borne said Friday that the government was considering “all options” to restore order, including declaring a state of emergency, after a third night of rioting over a police officer’s killing of a youth.

Asked by reporters if a state of emergency was a possibility, as some right-wing opposition parties have demanded, Borne replied: “I won’t tell you now, but we are looking at all options, with one priority: restoring order throughout the country”.

The prime minister, who was visiting a police station in Evry-Courcouronnes south of Paris, is to attend a crisis security meeting chaired by President Emmanuel Macron at 1:00 pm (1100 GMT).

to declare localized curfews, ban demonstrations, and give police more freedom in restraining suspected rioters and searching homes. Macron cut short a trip to Brussels for an EU summit on Friday and was said by an aide to be prepared to adopt new measures “without taboos”, though some ministers in the cabinet are known to be opposed to a state of emergency.

During the nationwide urban riots in 2005, the right-wing government at the time declared a state of emergency after around two weeks of clashes, the first time the measure had been used in mainland France since the 1950s.

“We are calling for a curfew initially, then the imposition of a full state of emergency and the mobilisation of all the forces of law and order in the country,” spokesman for the far-right National Rally Sebastien Chenu told LCI television Friday.

“Right now we’re at the bottom of a cliff and we need to be extremely tough,” he said. — AFP

Task force recommends major reparations for Black Californians

CALIFORNIA should pay substantial financial reparations to African-Americans to compensate for the legacy of US slavery and systemic racism, a committee report published Thursday said.

The state, known for being one of the nation’s most liberal, became the first to create a task force dedicated to the issue of reparations in the wake of George Floyd’s death in 2020 and amid the “Black Lives Matter” movement.

After three years, the committee’s final 1,100-page report recommends that California’s legislature “make a substantial initial down payment on reparations” and organize a public apology. Although it did not directly suggest an amount of compensation, the text proposed a methodology for quantifying the harm experienced by California’s African-Americans.

Black Californians, the report said, had experienced harm in a number of ways, whether to their health or via “housing discrimination,” “unjust property takings,” “mass incarceration and over-policing,” and devaluation of their businesses. — AFP

‘No future’: Egyptians risk lives at sea to reach Europe

HOPING to escape a dire economy and bleak prospects, Egyptians are increasingly attempting the perilous sea crossing to Europe that this month claimed dozens of lives in a shipwreck off Greece. “I spoke to my son for the last time on the evening of 7 June. He told me they were taking off” two days later, said the father of a 14-year-old who had disappeared in the Mediterranean.

The crowded fishing boat his son boarded along with hundreds of other migrants set sail from Libya. It capsized in the Ionian Sea near Greece’s Peloponnese peninsula on the night of 13

June before reaching European shores. At least 82 people died in what has been called one of the deadliest migrant drownings in recent years. “Young men regularly leave our village without telling their families,” the father told AFP, requesting anonymity to protect his privacy. — AFP

Online police patrol the Internet in Denmark

AT Denmark's police headquarters, officers have been glued to their computers playing the popular video game Counter-Strike. But they weren't kicking back on a break — they were tracking crimes on the internet.

In addition to getting paid to game, the online patrol unit is on Twitch, Discord, Instagram, Facebook and TikTok, openly letting their presence be known with the aim of making the internet a safer place for both children and adults.

Dressed in uniform when on online patrol, their primary targets are sexual predators and economic criminals.

The 10-strong unit was established last year amid a rise in online crime during the Covid pandemic lockdowns.

explained to AFP. Miriam Michaelsen, a law-

"When you talk to young people, they don't see a difference between the physical world and the digital world, with one exception: they see police all the time on the streets," she said.

"When you see police drive by, it can have an effect both for victims but also for criminals... it's the same online."

Since its creation in April 2022, "Politiets Online Patrulje" has opened more than 65 cases.

Inmates in UK to be involved in construction of prisons - Justice Secretary

INMATES in the United Kingdom will start building prisons as part of the government plan to curb re-offending and increase the number of places of imprisonment across the country, UK Secretary of State for Justice Alex Chalk said on Friday.

"For example, there are prisoners who are literally going to be building the concrete foundations for other prison house blocks ... We think that there is a certain justice about that.

Those people who have offended against society should be building the foundations of the custodial estate," Chalk was quoted by UK media as saying.

Inmates at HMP Fosse Way, a newly opened jail in the county of Leicestershire, will learn to drive construction vehicles using a simulator, the newspaper reported, adding that the offenders would be paid from 12.5 to 15 pounds ($15.7- $19) per week for their work at construction sites. — SPUTNIK

PSG coach arrested in discrimination probe

PARIS Saint-Germain coach Christophe Galtier was held for questioning along with his son as part of a probe into alleged discrimination, the Nice prosecutor told AFP on Friday.

The move follows an investigation launched in April, following claims he made racist and Islamophobic remarks about players when he coached Nice in the 2021/22 season.

The prosecutor said they would provide more information on the arrests of 56-year-old Galtier and his son John Valovic-Galtier — a player's agent — via a statement later on Friday.

Galtier, guided PSG to their 11th league title last season, but was told at the beginning of June by the club's Qatari owners he would be fired after a largely underwhelming season in which PSG suffered 10 defeats in 2023, exiting the Champions League, the team's main objective, in the last 16. — AFP

MEXICO secured their spot in the CONCACAF Gold Cup knockout stage with a game to spare, after beating Haiti 3-1 in Glendale, Arizona, on Thursday.

The win, with all the goals coming in the second half, means Mexico lead Group B with six points from two games, with Haiti three points behind.

Qatar and Honduras both have a point each, drawing 1-1 earlier on Thursday after a stoppage-time leveler from the Central Americans. Mexico dominated the opening 45 minutes but were unable to find a way past Haiti keeper Alexandre Pierre.

Pierre almost gifted El Tri an opener in the fourth minute when he fumbled a low cross but Edison Alvarez, with the goal at his mercy, struck the post. — AFP
