Foreign tourist arrivals via air soar to 880,000 in nine months

International travellers at Yangon International Airport.

The arrival of international tourists is mainly through flights this year and when compared year on year the growth is almost five times.

From January to September 2023, more than 880,000 international tourists entered Myanmar by air, with the largest number of tourists coming from Thailand, according to U Aung Aye Han, Deputy Director-General of the Department of Hotels and Tourism.

The arrival of international tourists is mainly through flights this year and when compared to the same period last year in 2022 the growth is almost five times.

“For the entry of international tourists to Myanmar, there are ways to enter through the border entrance, by air and sea. Now, in 2023, air travel and border entry are the main entry points. Most of the tourists are from Thailand. In preparation for the upcoming tourist season, Thai and Russian tourists have also been invited to visit the country, and the number of visa-free countries with Myanmar has reached 24 countries, so more people are expected to visit Myanmar, rather than in previous years,” said U Aung Aye Han.

In Myanmar, 14 destinations that can be visited by international tourists have been identified and prepared, and services will be provided by over 2,000 hotels, motels and guesthouses, over 2,000 licensed tour guides and over 500 travel companies throughout the country. — ASH/KZL

Myanmar handicraft stores to open in Yangon shopping centres' promotion zones

The group documentary photo of Myanmar's Arts and Crafts Association members at the Thai Myan Trade Fair held in Bangkok, Thailand, in the previous year.

MYANMAR handicraft stores will be opened to revive the market in promotion areas of shopping centres in Yangon Region, according to U Thardu, patron of Myanmar's Arts and Crafts Association.

During the COVID-19 outbreak, Myanmar's products made of timber, cane and bamboo were seriously hit, and the business restarted in 2022 but it is still struggling.

"Although our businesses was the worst situation during the COVID-19 period, it is not in good condition. It runs in its proper momentum. Last two years, Thai officials invited us to the Thai Myan Trade Fair and so we displayed Myanmar handicrafts with six booths. That was their very first fair after COVID-19 so it was not crowded with visitors. But they have a stable market and they regain their market potential. We do not stand still and we are struggling. We arrange to promote the market by opening the galleries at promotion areas of Junction Square, Junction City, Junction 8 and Myanmar Plaza in Yangon," he said.

Although there are invitations to international trade fairs to introduce Myanmar's handicrafts, the people have to consider their accommodation charges, booth rental fees and causes of low sales. — ASH/KTZH

SOME sugar mills notified the sugarcane growers that they will hike up the offering price of sugarcane to K150,000 per tonne in the upcoming 2023-2024 sugarcane season.

The sugar mills released a notification last early August stating that the buying price would be K110,000 per tonne of sugarcane for the 2023-2024 sugarcane season. The mills set higher prices to K120,000 per tonne in early October. However, Shwenyaung Myabayin sugar mill raised the price further to K150,000 per tonne, according to its notification released on 2 November.

Additionally, sugar mills are pushing the growers to ramp up per-acre yield and expand the cultivation acres.

The company set the sugarcane floor price at K90,000-100,000 per tonne last season.

Sugar mills raise sugarcane price to K150,000/tonne for 2023-2024 season

This year, in addition to the price rise of sugar, the company offers higher prices to deal with high cultivation input costs of the growers and entice them to improve production, sugarcane and sugar businesspersons shared information.

However, the sugarcane growers called for the sugar mills to maximize the offering prices as much as they could amid the rocketing fuel prices and fertilizer prices this year.

Following the soaring sugar price, intending to facilitate sugarcane growers, Ngway Yi Pale Sugar Company informed the growers last year of a subsidy of K200,000 per acre in advance for the 2023-2024 season if they add new acres of sugarcane plantation.

Myanmar's annual sugar production is estimated at 450,000 tonnes. Myanmar earlier sent sugar to China and Viet Nam beyond self-sufficiency. At present, it is delivered to Viet Nam only, Myanmar Sugar and Cane Related Association said.

Sugarcane is commonly found in the upper Sagaing Region, followed by northern Shan State. It is also found in the western and eastern Bago Region, Yangon Region and Mandalay Region.

The sugarcane is grown in December-January. It can be harvested from November to February of the following years. The sugarcane growing rotation cycle lasts four years in Myanmar. — NN/EM

Pure gold price gains on global cues

The picture shows a gold jewellery outlet in Yangon.

THE price of pure gold surged to K3.55 million per tical (0.578 ounce or 0.016 kilogramme) in the grey market tracking the rise in spot gold price to US$1,990 per ounce.

Along with the Kyat depreciation against the US dollar at K4,000, the pure gold price hit an all-time high of K4 million per tical last August.

The pure gold price fell again to K3.4 million per tical with the Kyat devaluation against US dollars slowing at approximately K3,300 in the grey market.

Nonetheless, the reference price set by the Yangon Gold Entrepreneurs Association was only K3.1 million per tical, indicating a large gap of over K400,000 per tical between the reference price and the reference price.

Yangon Gold Entrepreneurs Association (YGEA) switched to the Central Bank of Myanmar's exchange rate (K2,900) for interbank transactions in calculating the reference price for pure gold. At present, the US dollar is exchanged at K3,250 in the grey market.

The US dollar exchange rate, therefore, weighs on the gap between the domestic gold market value and YGEA's reference gold price.

The soaring dollar exchanging up to K4,000 drove the gold price up to a record high of K4 million per tical in late August 2023. — NN/EM

Build public-centred media for the interests of people and the country

IN THE realm of media, it is paramount that those who bear the responsibility of disseminating information adhere to the stipulations outlined in the Myanmar News Media Law, enacted on 14 May 2014. As a foremost duty, media personnel and news agencies must respect the intellectual property of the original creators. Equally important is the imperative to abstain from generating content that incites religious, ethnic, or racial conflicts.

The primary mission of MPC is to oversee information affairs, ensuring that media professionals enjoy the freedom to exercise their vital role in society while simultaneously safeguarding the rights of citizens to access accurate and unbiased information. Furthermore, the council is dedicated to enhancing the capabilities of media personnel and refining the functions of the media industry as a whole.

Regrettably, some individuals within the media sector and certain news agencies have strayed from the core mission and vision of serving the state and its people, as well as from the efforts of the Myanmar Press Council. Instead, they have engaged in unscrupulous practices aimed at sowing discord and intentionally maligning specific individuals.

In response to this grave concern, the Myanmar Press Council issued a resolute statement on 20 October 2023, categorically denouncing such unethical conduct. It made clear that these actions not only jeopardize the standing of the media sector but will also not be tolerated, nor will the council take responsibility for addressing the consequences that may arise from these transgressions.

People yearn for reliable and accurate news, for falsehoods and misinformation have the power to lead astray, causing undue hardships and suffering to innocent families and their loved ones. Therefore, it is incumbent upon all media personnel to steadfastly uphold their duty of guiding the public towards the path of truth and accuracy.

The government is diligently working towards the establishment of a Union based on democratic and federal systems. As the fourth estate, the media bears the profound responsibility of scrutinizing and adjusting government actions to ensure they align with the nation's ultimate goals. Media professionals approach their work with impartiality, critically evaluating all government initiatives aimed at benefiting the country and its people.

Every media professional and news agency must commit themselves to becoming a public-centred media outlet, serving the best interests of the people. Irrespective of their political or ideological inclinations, they must be resolute in combating fake news and misinformation for the sake of the nation and its citizens to become the most reliable source for the future state.

TO CONDUCT Myanmar-China Media Exchange and strengthen Paukphaw friendship ties, Myanmar's media representatives were cordially invited to visit the capital Beijing, dreamy Hangzhou and bustling Shanghai of the People's Republic of China. A group of ten media correspondents from MRTV, MITV, The Global New Light of Myanmar, Myanma Alinn, One News, Swe Myo Pauk-Phaw magazine, The Standard Time Daily, Eleven Media Group, Yangon Media Group and Vidya made a media visit to China from 12 to 19 September 2023.

Capital Beijing - home to headquarters of large firms

The visit started from the capital city of the People's Republic of China, located in northern China. They stayed at the Jinglun Hotel. The city used to be called Peking and now it's called Beijing as per the current romanization system for Mandarin Chinese. The name Beijing means Northern Capital. It's also one of four municipalities directly under the Central Government. It's the most prominent city in China's history.

The capital is the second most populous city with over 2.2 million in China after Shanghai with the largest population. It is the transportation hub of northern China. It's also the political, educational and cultural centre of China. It is an ecologically sustainable city with skyscrapers and a smart transportation system.

On 12 September, a group of correspondents went on a pilgrimage to the Buddhist temple "Lingguang Temple", housing the sacred Buddha tooth relic. After learning the history of the magnificent Lingguang Temple and edifices, we paid homage to Andarekin Pagoda built by Senior General Than Shwe, chairman of the State Peace and Development Council and spouse Daw Kyaing Kyaing at the Temple. The ancient edifices, exquisite Chinese Cement Wall arts and crafts and archives kept in the precinct of Lingguang Temple strongly depict the religious beliefs of Chinese ethnic groups, and cultural heritage preservation for generations.

We visited the ASEAN China Centre on the morning of 13 September. The officials explained the objectives, performances and future prospects of the ACC. The ACC is to promote investment, trade, education, culture, and tourism, and enhance exchanges and cooperation in information technology and media sectors between ASEAN and China. Afterwards, we left for People's Daily HQ and officials concerned showed news archives and Live broadcasting studios and also demonstrated how they broadcast Live, programmes through videos. People's Daily is the official newspaper run by the CCP, accumulating over two million copies daily. Although the rise in digital media and social media trends impacted the print media, the People's Daily can run with the largest million copies daily. This is a big inspiration to us.

Media trip to China: Exploring Capital Beijing, dreamy Hangzhou and bustling Shanghai

We went to the China-ASEAN Environmental Cooperation Center in the afternoon. The officials of the Centre presented environmental conservation activities. Throughout the Beijing tour, we can learn that China is committed to prioritizing environmental protection and promoting green. Green building development is remarkably found in big cities like Beijing with incredible skyscrapers and iconic buildings.

We wandered around Qianmen Street, a famous pedestrian street for shopping and sightseeing in Beijing's central axis, running from Archery Towner in the north to Tiantan Park. It is 840 metres long and 21 metres wide. It is constructed with the Chinese traditional styles of the Qing Dynasty. The handicrafts, eye-catching traditional consumer products, local food, traditional costumes, traditional footwear, traditional hand fans, and Chinese traditional medicines are capturing the attention of the tourists on this commercial street.

The famous Laoshe Tea House was away from 10 to 15-minute walk away, showcasing Magic, cross talk, the teapot in the Universe, Beijing Folk Wrestling, the Face-Changing of Sichuan Opera, Acrobatics and puppet shows.

The tea house recreates the charm of old Beijing as visitors can enjoy splendid performances and green tea with a ticket worth 120 Yuan (around K130,000) per person.

We visited the prominent landmark in Beijing, Imperial Palace, also known as The Forbidden City in the morning of 14 September, thereby coming to know the old drainage system with an ancient architectural miracle of the Forbidden City. The drainage system in the palace complex retains ancient rain ditches up to 15 kilometres in length and 13 kilometres of them are underground. The ditches are leading to the 52-metre-wide surrounding moat outside the Forbidden City and connected to the Zhonghai-Nanhai water systems. The sound drainage system was constructed in the Ming Dynasty.

The foundation of the Forbidden City follows the sloping terrain of Beijing, which is higher in the north and lower in the south. It's also higher on the central axis and lower on both wings, which is ideal for natural drainage. The sound ancient drainage system protects the Palace from heavy rains and intense flooding.

We arrived at Xinhua, the State news agency of China in the afternoon. Xinhua is the largest organ in China, boasting a network with over 170 branches worldwide and 31 domestic branches. It's headquartered in Beijing and it distributes information related to the Chinese Communist Party (CCP) and Central Government, along with coverage of politics, economics, sports, cultural news and features. Its headquarters is located near the offices of the Central Government in Beijing.

Officials of the newsroom guided us to the Me Creatives' studio and we learned the technology and broadcasting facilities. The agency also provides employees with a good workspace, health facilities and recreational activities to relax.

In the evening, we went for a stroll in South Luogu Lane, the oldest alleyway in Beijing. It's filled with cafes, shops and liquor shops, preserving the traditional residential area "Hutong".

It's also a famous destination in Beijing, with a history of more than 800 years. The South Luogu Lane was recognized as one of 25 historical sites listed by the Beijing municipal government in 1990. Efforts to reduce river plastic waste in Sagaing Region in progress

Locals and departmental personnel carrying out collective plastic garbage collection activities in Sagaing Region.

THE Sagaing Region Environmental Conservation Department under the Ministry of Natural Resources and Environmental Conservation is collaborating with the Sagaing Region Development Committee to remove plastic waste while restricting the disposal of plastic into the Ayeyawady River with the participation of the local people in their effort to conserve the environment, according to an official of the department.

"In Sagaing Region, where the Ayeyawady River, a lifeblood of Myanmar passes through, we are conducting awareness-raising seminars on hazards of dumping plastic waste, especially into the river, while carrying out collective plastic garbage collection activities every month. Plastic bags pollute water and soil, as well as damage the ecosystem, so we are focusing on the prevention of the disposal of waste including plastic into the river," said Daw Mi Mi Kyaw, assistant director of the Sagaing Region Environmental Conservation Department.

Currently, worldwide efforts are underway to decrease marine plastic pollution. In Myanmar, where plastic consumption is high, the Ayeyawady River is highly contaminated with microplastics due to the disposal of plastic waste into the river by businesses, residents, and watercraft workers. — ASH/TH

Banks with CIPS linkage reduce Myanmar-China bilateral trade loss

Central Bank of Myanmar Governor Daw Than Than Swe addresses the launching ceremony of the cross-border inter-bank yuan payment system (CIPS).

CENTRAL Bank of Myanmar Governor Daw Than Than Swe said that the connection of the RMB Cross-border Interbank Payment System (CIPS) will increase bilateral trade and investment between Myanmar and

China and reduce related losses. She said this at the launching ceremony of the cross-border inter-bank yuan payment system (CIPS) of the Industrial and Commercial Bank of China (ICBC) Yangon branch was held on 1 November.

ICBC Yangon branch was honoured to be a direct member bank in the CIPS system, and in 2021, the CIPS system was started to be used in Myanmar after China and Myanmar established a clearing system for cross-border trade in yuan. This is another important development in China-Myanmar cooperation in the yuan and represents further progress in the use of the yuan in Myanmar.

It is beneficial for the deepening of bilateral financial cooperation and the promotion of China-Myanmar trade and investment.

Individuals from various areas of China-Myanmar also grasped the opportunity and worked together to achieve the agreement results of the 3rd "Belt and Road" International Cooperation Summit.

Chinese Ambassador to Myanmar Mr Chen Hai said he hopes to promote financial inclusion by making good use of the CIPS financial service and enhance the mutually beneficial development of the two countries' economies.

ICBC Yangon branch successfully connected to the CIPS system on 18 October. Cross-border inter-bank Renminbi payment service was launched on 23 October as Myanmar's first CIPS direct bank membership.

The implementation of the CIPS system in Myanmar is very important. ICBC Yangon Branch's participation as a direct member bank in the CIPS system means that financial institutions in Myanmar can participate in the CIPS global clearing network directly and conveniently.

China is Myanmar's largest trade partner and largest foreign investment country. Linking to the CIPS system will help increase Myanmar-China bilateral trade and investment and reduce related losses.

The central bank governor said that the Central Bank of Myanmar will continue to support the deepening and practical implementation of Myanmar-China financial cooperation. — TWA/KZL

Maersk to slash 3,500 jobs as profits, revenue plunge

DANISH shipping giant Maersk said Friday it would slash 3,500 jobs as net profit and revenue plunged in the third quarter due to a sharp fall in freight rates.

Maersk's net profit nosedived to $521 million between July and September against $8.9 billion a year earlier.

"Our industry is facing a new normal with subdued demand, prices back in line with historical levels and inflationary pressure on our cost base," CEO Vincent Clerc said. The company had already begun to cut costs, reducing staff levels from 110,000 at the start of 2023 "to around 103,500 today".

"Maersk is intensifying those measures and today introduce plans to further decrease the workforce by 3,500 positions, with up to 2,500 to be carried out in the coming months and the remaining to extend into 2024," the company said. — AFP

Norway inaugurates satellite launch site

The date of the first launch is not yet known, but Isar Aerospace says it is targeting sending a first launcher to Andoya "within this year" with a first test flight "as soon as possible". PHOTO: ANDOYA SPACE

Isar Aerospace plans to complete Europe's first operational orbital spaceport at Andoya, north of the Arctic Circle.

NORWAY on Thursday joined the race to launch satellites from the European continent by inaugurating a new spaceport on the island of Andoya, north of the Arctic Circle.

Isar Aerospace said the "Andoya Spaceport" was to "become the first operational orbital spaceport in continental Europe to finalise the construction of the launch site".

It was inaugurated at a ceremony attended by Norway's Crown Prince Haakon nine months after the inauguration of the Esrange spaceport in neighbouring Sweden.

The launch base, which eventually will have several launch pads, was built by Norwegian public company Andoya Space, on a site which until now has only been used for firing suborbital scientific experiment rockets.

Spectrum, a two-stage craft capable of carrying up to one tonne and developed by the German start-up Isar Aerospace, is scheduled to be the first rocket to be launched from island which is located near the idyllic Lofoten archipelago. — AFP

APOLLO 13 ASTRONAUT, KEY TO SAFE RETURN

Apollo astronaut Thomas K Mattingly dies aged 87

A NASA astronaut who was removed from the ill-fated Apollo 13 mission but helped bring its crew back home safely thanks to his problem-solving efforts from ground control has died at the age of 87.

Thomas K. "TK" Mattingly passed away on 31 October, the space agency said in a statement Thursday.

His most dramatic role came when he was assigned as command module pilot for the Apollo 13 flight but was grounded 72 hours prior to launch due to exposure to rubella, NASA Administrator Bill Nelson said.

After an explosion crippled the spacecraft on its way to the Moon, Mattingly, who did not in fact get sick, went to Mission Control and devised procedures to conserve power so the vehicle could successfully re-enter the atmosphere, ensuring astronauts James Lovell, Jack Swigert, and Fred Haise survived.

The mission was drama-tized in the 1995 film "Apollo 13" in which Mattingly was played by Gary Sinise.

Mattingly began his career as a US Navy pilot before being selected to the astronaut class of 1966.

He later took on the role of command module pilot on the Apollo 16 mission and was the spacecraft commander in two Space Shuttle missions.

"TK's contributions have allowed for advancements in our learning beyond that of space," said Nelson. — AFP

Latest developments in the Israel-Hamas war

HERE are key developments from the past 24 hours:

Blinken in Israel

US Secretary of State Antony Blinken arrived in Israel on Friday at the start of a new regional tour, telling reporters before leaving that he would seek "concrete steps" from Israel to minimize harm to Palestinian civilians in Gaza.

Türkiye's Recep Tayyip Erdogan also called for an immediate ceasefire, saying "crimes against humanity" were being committed in Gaza, and that Ankara was pushing for an international peace conference.

Troops encircle Gaza City

Fresh Israeli strikes hit northern Gaza on Friday, with the health ministry reporting at least 15 deaths in Gaza City's Zeitun neighbourhood and seven in the Jabalia refugee camp. Diaz can decide availability for Liverpool after parents' kidnap: Klopp

LUIS Diaz will decide whether he wants to be involved in Liverpool's Premier League match against Luton after the kidnaping of his parents in Colombia, manager Jurgen Klopp said on Friday.

Diaz's mother was rescued hours after the abduction in the northern town of Barrancas last weekend but his father Luis Manuel Diaz is still missing.

The Colombian government on Thursday accused the ELN guerrilla group of being behind the kidnaping, which took place in their home town.

The ELN and the government of leftist president Gustavo Petro are in the midst of peace negotiations and a six-month ceasefire, which entered into force in August.

The ELN, or National Liberation Army, has not claimed responsibility for the kidnaping.

Klopp said 26-year-old winger Diaz had trained this week ahead of the match at Luton on Sunday.

"We must wait," he told his pre-match press conference on Friday. "If he feels right, he will be here and train with us."

"The session he had with us, you can see when he is with the boys he is fine, he is OK, but you could see he didn't sleep a lot. — AFP

Quality of top Premier League teams 'unprecedented', says Arteta

MIKEL Arteta says there is "unprecedented" quality at the top of the Premier League as he prepares to take his unbeaten Arsenal team to face in-form Newcastle at St James' Park on Saturday.

Arsenal, last year's runners-up, are second in the table, two points behind pacesetters Tottenham after seven wins and three draws in 10 games.

Champions Manchester City are level on points with Arsenal, with Liverpool just a point further back and Aston Villa and Newcastle rounding out the top six.

"What has happened in the last five years is unprecedented," said Arteta. "It never happened with the amount of points and level of the teams."

"Now it's the amount of teams with that level that is increasing and increasing. That's why comparing to the past in this league is a waste of time."

"It's very different to what it used to be, and that puts the demands of what we do every single day in a different scope."

"A much-changed Arsenal team suffered a chastening 3-1 midweek defeat at West Ham in the League Cup, on the same evening that Newcastle, also with multiple changes, beat Manchester United 3-0 at Old Trafford.

"Arteta said St James' Park was one of the "toughest places" to win.

"We've done it and there is nothing new to it, we know what we're expecting," he said. "It is very clear what they do, what their strengths are, and where the opportunities are for us. We will try to take the game where we want." — AFP

Troubled Man Utd urged to stick together as Spurs face Pochettino reunion

UNDER-FIRE Manchester United boss Erik ten Hag cannot afford another damaging defeat when his troubled side face Fulham on Saturday.

Tottenham's Premier League title challenge will get an intriguing test as the leaders' former boss Mauricio Pochettino returns with Chelsea.

Arsenal also harbour title aspirations, making their showdown with top-four contenders

Newcastle one of the weekend's marquee match-ups.

Crisis-torn Man Utd have to 'stand up' Erik ten Hag urged his Manchester United flops to "stand up" to the pressure as the Dutch coach battles to stop their season imploding. United have made their worst start since 1962-63 and a loss against Fulham at Craven Cottage could push Ten Hag to the brink of the sack after less than two seasons in charge.

Hammered 3-0 by Manchester City last weekend, United were brushed aside by the same score against Newcastle in the League Cup fourth round on Wednesday.

Ten Hag's men have lost eight of their 15 matches in all competitions this term, leaving them eighth in the Premier League and in danger of failing to reach the Champions League last 16. — AFP

Students ordered to wear masks in smog-hit Lahore

Punjab government ordered action due to a "smog emergency" declared by the High Court.

AUTHORITIES in Pakistan ordered schoolchildren in the smog-smothered city of Lahore to wear masks during lessons starting Thursday, an effort to protect against hazardous levels of polluted air.

The Punjab state government issued the mandate after the High Court declared a "smog emergency" and asked officials to take steps to help mitigate health problems.

On Wednesday night, private and public schools sent out messages to parents via text and WhatsApp, stating that children must come to school wearing masks for a month.

"Parents whose children suffer from asthma or eye problems often stop sending their children to school. So this is a good step by the government," said Madeeha Hassan, a secondary school teacher in the city.

Globally, South Asia is the region worst hit by air pollution, according to the Air Quality Life Index report from the University of Chicago.

Air pollution has worsened in Pakistan in recent years, as a mixture of low-grade diesel fumes, smoke from seasonal crop burn off and colder winter temperatures coalesce into stagnant clouds of smog.

populous metropolis and close to the border with India, is consistently ranked in the top 10 cities globally with the worst air quality by monitoring firm IQAir. — AFP

DDOS ATTACKS TARGETING WEBSITES AND NETWORKS

Singapore public health services under cyberattack: agency

PUBLIC healthcare institutions in Singapore were under cyberattack on Friday but there was no evidence that data had been accessed, a government-owned agency said.

The so-called distributed denial of service (DDoS) attacks, which make websites or network resources unavailable by flooding them with malicious traffic, began on Wednesday, national health IT agency Synapse said in a statement.

Internet access at public healthcare institutions was disrupted for about seven hours that day before the affected services were restored, according to Synapse.

The DDoS attacks continued on Friday and there may be "occasional disruptions in internet services as a result", it said, adding investigations were underway. — AFP
