Myanmar does not condone the practice of trafficking in persons and is constantly striving to overcome the pernicious practice Myanmar issues announcement regarding 5th annual "Trafficking in Persons Report" issued by US State Department

Yangon, 9 June—The Ministry of Foreign Affairs of the Government of the Union of Myanmar today issued an announcement with respect to fifth annual "Trafficking in Persons Report" issued by the US Department of State this month. The full context of the issue is as follows:

The fifth annual "Trafficking in Persons Report" issued by the US Department of State this month is a compendium of situations in selected countries. Although the stated aim of the US is to eradicate trafficking in persons internationally, the report lacks objectivity and does not inspire greater action against human trafficking.

The section in the report concerning Myanmar is contradictory. While it alleges that Myanmar does not comply with the minimum standards for the elimination of trafficking and is not making significant efforts to do so, it acknowledges that Myanmar has made improved efforts to combat trafficking for sexual exploitation.

With regard to prosecution, the report notes that over the past year, the Myanmar Government did make progress in addressing trafficking for commercial sexual exploitation, including establishing a police task force to combat trafficking, enhancing cooperation with neighbours, and beginning to draft anti-trafficking legislation.

With regard to protection, the report criticizes Myanmar for providing minimal assistance to victims, yet acknowledges that Myanmar has set up a repatriation centre on the Myanmar-Thailand border.

The Myawaddy Repatriation Centre was established on 18 February 2002 and efforts are being made to provide services to the victims of trafficking in cooperation with the United Nations Inter-Agency Project (UNIAP), Save the Children (UK) and World Vision.

Moreover, the Preventive Working Committee for Trafficking in Persons which was formed in July 2002 has been active. Between 2002 to 2004, the Committee reviewed 474 cases. As a result, 519 persons had legal action taken against them; 2629 victims were rescued; 722061 were educated regard-

With regard to prevention, the report notes that the measures adopted by the Myanmar Government to prevent trafficking for sexual exploitation include publicizing the dangers in border areas through discussion-groups, distribution of printed materials and media programming, but that the efforts remained under-funeded. Myanmar considers trafficking in persons a serious issue. Accordingly, it has been tackling it through a comprehensive approach that includes a national plan of action, legislation, and cooperation at the bilateral and multilateral levels.

The National Plan of Action contains strategies for prosecution, protection and prevention. A Committee on Combating Trafficking in Persons, a Preventive Working Committee for Trafficking in Persons and a Task Force to draft the anti-trafficking law have been established. The Mutual Assistance

Work in concert for peace and development of the Union

The State Peace and Development Council has been implementing development projects systematically in the interests of various regions across the nation including Panglong Region and successful implementation of these projects is due to the guidance of the Head of State and the active and enthusiastic cooperation and participation of the entire national people and government employees.

During his tour of Shan State (South), Prime Minister Lt-Gen Soe Win visited Panglong, Loilem District, on 5 June and met with district- and township-level department personnel, members of social organizations and townselders. On the occasion, the Prime Minister said that it was because of national leaders' decision in Panglong in 1947 to live in unity through thick and thin that Myanmar had been able to stand as a union and all of its regions were enjoying peace, stability and development.

To honour Panglong where seeds of fine traditions were sown, Panglong District has been designated as a development region of Shan State and education, health, transport and communication infrastructures are being built and upgraded.

According to the demand of history, the government is carrying out development endeavours for the good of the national people living in various regions across the Union including historic Panglong Region and has spent more than K 68,000 million on special projects for border area development since 1989-1990.

In the past, only Taunggyi was the most developed region in Shan State. But now, southern, northern and eastern regions of Shan State are enjoying parallel development due to the establishment of special development regions.

Only with the harmonious development of all the regions will the whole Union be fully developed and able to catch up with other na-

Therefore, we would like to call on the entire national people to work in concert with Union Spirit under the leadership of the government for peace, stability and development of the nation and in their own interests.

People's Desire

- * Oppose those relying on external elements, acting as stooges, holding negative views
- * Oppose those trying to jeopardize stability of the State and progress of the nation
- * Oppose foreign nations interfering in internal affairs of the State
- * Crush all internal and external destructive elements as the common enemy

India disappointed with US, EU services offers

New Delhi, 8 June — India on Tuesday said that it was very disappointed with offer made by the United States in the services negotiations of World Trade Organization as it has not increased number of work visas

"We are very dissapointed with US | its gross domestic product was very offer," senior federal Commerce Ministry officials said, cautioning that India's revised offers to be submitted to WTO this month end "will reflect this disappointment".

The services offer submitted to WTO by the European Union was also not upto India's expectations, though it was slightly better than its earlier one, the officials told PTI.

While US' improved offer pegs the visas for professionals at 65,000, no improvement from current status, EU has also toed the similar line with no further liberalization on Mode 4

With developed countries' "improved" offers not showing any real improvement, it is likely that India will also submit a conservative offer and not even bind its autonomous liberalization

India lures FDI thanks to efficient management culture

WASHINGTON, 8 June — After decades of isolation, Corporate India is luring foreign capital, thanks to the efficient management system, a leading American financial daily said on Monday.

"Corporate India has become a showcase for the benefits of globalization," the Wall Street Journal said attributing the increased capital flow to the country's strong managemet culture.

Unlike China, where transformation has been captured by daily headlines of rapid growth on the macroeconomic level. India's conversion occurred quietly on the corporate level.

"India has not managed to replicate China's record of sustained annual economic growth. But then, Corporate India has not had many of the advantages of China, notably cheap capital and supportive government policies," the Journal said. Fears that India would be marginalized by China instead have proved a catalyst for India's private sector awakening. "The enthusiasm for India reflects the country's strong managemet culture," said the daily.

"Indian companies are very returnfocused... By contrast, China is just market-share driven," Jim Walker, chief economist for Credit Lyonnais Securities Asia in Hong Kong, was quoted as saying by the daily. -MNA/PTI

Cambodia, Laos sign extradition agreement

PHNOM PENH, 8 June — Cambodia and Laos have signed an agreement on extradition of criminals for prosecution of transnational crimes in their home country, local newspapers reported on Tuesday.

Cambodia's Foreign Affairs Minister Hor Nam Hong and Laos Ambassador Thouane Vorasarn inked the deal at the Ministry of Foreign Affairs Monday, six years after the agreement was drafted. Cambodia Sin Chew Daily reported.

Under the agreement, Cambodians and Laotians who commit transnational crimes, like human and drug trafficking, in their home countries but escape to freedom across the border will be shipped back to their countries to stand trial, Khmer newspaper Rasmei Kampuchea said.

The agreement went into effect after the signing. The Cambodian and Laos dignitaries said the extradition treaty would bolster the countries' cooperation and cut down on crimes plaguing the region and the world.-MNA/Xinhua

Mechanism for early tsunami warning in place in India

HYDERABAD, 8 June - A mechanism to provide early warning for tsunami and storm surges in the Indian Ocean is already in place and India has immense capability to forecast such a disaster, an official said on Monday.

The tsunami-warning system being adopted for the Pacific Ocean is not beneficial to India, H K Gupta, Secretary, Department of Ocean Development, said while delivering Professor Y Navudamma Memorial Lecture on 'India's Initiative in Mitigation of Tsunamis and Storm Surges'.

"We have a vast coastline. The global method is based on the location of the earthquake and its magnitude only.

"This can give false alarms up to 70 per cent and not advisable for Indian condtions," he said.

Stating that India needed to take storm surges also into consideration besides tsunami threat, he said only Andamans and Makran coast in India can be called tsunamigenic zones in India.

The total project would cost 1.25 billion rupees. A forecast mechanism is already in place, the entire project will be ready by 2007, he said adding "we are also networking with international scientific community to share information and coordinate research".

Andhra Pradesh Minister for Finance and Legislative Affairs, K Rosaiah lauded the efforts of Andhra Pardesh Akademi of Sciences in promoting scientific research and spirit.

Thai Govt to ease tax burden on elderly

BANGKOK, 8 June— Thai Government is planning to introduce new tax measures to ease the financial burdens on the country's elderly, state-run Thai News Agency reported Tuesday.

The new tax measures will be announced after the government finish collecting data on elderly citizens. Deputy Prime Minister and Finance Minister Somkid Jatusripitak said.

As part of the government's social welfare policy, the measures will be in the form of either more rebates or lower tax rate for the elderly.

The government may also raise the minimum income ceiling, at which the elderly will be exempted from paying tax. The new tax measures will specifically benefit Thailand's elderly citizens aged over 65. They will get a windfall similar to sons and daughters who take care of their parents," Somkid said.

Earlier, the government had introduced tax measures to relieve financial burden on sons and daughters who are carers of their parents.

Poverty reduction slows down in Bangladesh

DHAKA, 8 June — A latest government survey in Bangladesh puts the country's annual poverty reduction rate at 0.52 per cent, which trails behind the target of 1.35 per cent set by the Millennium Development Goals (MDGs).

The government has targeted to bring down the poverty rate to 29.4 per cent by the year 2015 to keep pace with the MDGs set by the United Nations, local newspaper The Daily Star reported on Tuesday.

According to the recent Preliminary Report of the Poverty Monitoring Survey (PRPMS) 2004, incidence of poverty by head count ratio on the basis of Food Energy Intake (FEI) was 44.7 per cent in 1999 before it came down to 42.1 per cent in 2004.

The survey reveals that the poverty reduction rate has actually slowed down as compared to the last decade. According to the PRPMS 2004 survey, poverty incidence decreased by 10 per centage points in the decade from 1990 to 2000, which means poverty reduced at a rate of 1 per cent on average.

Dr. Zaid Bakth, Research Director at the Bangladesh Institute of Development Studies (BIDS), said if the government is to see the pace of poverty reduction rate pick up, scoring a GDP growth rate of 6 per cent alone will not be enough — the inflation needs to be reined in as well.—MNA/Xinhua

India, Pakistan agree to accelerate plans to build pipeline

ISLAMABAD, 8 June — India and Pakistan on Tuesday agreed to accelerate plans to build a 4.16-billion-US-dollar pipeline to bring Iranian gas to South Asia for meeting the huge energy deficits of the two countries.

Petroleum Minister Mani Shankar Aiyar and his Pakistani counterpart Amanullah Khan Jadoon "agreed that transnational pipeline projects should be given top priority as there would be substantial advantage to both countries in pursuing and realizing cooperation in these projects, to serve their energy security interests, and to create linkages and inter-dependencies for establishing an enduring relationship between the two countries," said a joint statement issued after twodays of ministerial level talks on import of gas through transnational pipelines. The two sides agreed to set up a Joint Working Group at the secretary-level to draw parameters and lay roadmap for the Iran-Pakistan-India pipeline.

They "agreed to exchange information in regard to the financial structuring, technical, commercial, legal and related issues to realize a safe and secure world class project," the statement said

Releasing the joint statement, Aiyar said "we have come to conclusion of a very successful visit to Pakistan. It comes in context of our desire to very considerably strengthen our mutual and joint quest of energy security".

Aiyar, who called on Pakistan President Pervez Musharraf Tuesday morning, said India would also continue to explore options of importing Turkmenistan gas through the Asian Development Bank (ADB)sponsored Turkmenistan-Afghanistan-Pakistan (TAP) pipeline and possibly from Oatar through a pipeline that would run undersea and overland through UAE and Pakistan.

Besides, options of linking gas reserves in Uzbekistan, Khazakhstan and Russia to TAP will also be explored. With Musharraf blessing the project and pledging to "personally work towards relations with Pakistan in | removing all roadblocks", Aivar said "the success of talks has exceeded the boundaries of my boundless optimism."

> On security of the pipelines and safe delivery of gas through terrains that are known to be infested with terrorism, Aiyar said "we have moved from the stage of asking questions about security to addressing security concerns in serious and sincere manner." Aiyar said Musharaff endorsed the present format of negotiations on the pipeline where three separate bilateral dialogues — between India and Pakistan, India and Iran and between Pakistan and Iran — were on towards reaching a overarching trilateral agreement in future. Int'l Hydropower Conference begins in Kathmandu

KATHMANDU, 8 June- The 6th International Conference on Development of Hydropower kicked off here on Tuesday with the view to discussing and exchanging experiences on the development and extension of hydropower.

About 350 individuals concerned to the field from 25 Asian-African countries including China are participating in the conference on 7-9 June held under the joint aegis of International Association on Electricity Generation. Transmission and Distribution (Afro-Asian Region), Nepal Electricity Authority and Central Board of Irrigation and Power of India.

A total of 60 work papers on various topics like hydro policies, financial mechanism, participation of the government and private sectors, extension and distribution of electricity, environmental and legal concepts, sustainable development of hydro-power, regional hydropower trade and management of hydro projects will be presented at the three-day conference.

"The developing countries has not been able to take advantage of the new technologies of renewable energy, because of their relatively high cost, both in terms of initial investment as well as operational cost," Tulsi Giri, vice-chairman of Nepali Council of Ministers, said while inaugurating the conference.

He hoped the conference will bring out concrete proposals and pragmatic and cost effective measures to accelerate development of hydropower, together with other renewable sources of energy.

The World Environment Day

Moe Htet Myint (Delta Region)

Environment is the natural world which surrounds us. Soil, water, air, forests, animals, rivers, lakes and natural resources are the natural environment of the people.

All living beings rely on the environment to get fresh air, clean water, fresh food and clothes, and to meet shelter needs. Therefore, we need to conserve the environment.

The Confernece on Human Environment was held on 5 June 1972 in Stockholm, Sweden, for the first time. The World Environmental Day was designated to be 5 June at the conference and United Nations Environmental Programme-UNEP was organized.

Raising environmental awareness, UNEP has been carrying out environmental conservation tasks. The Silver Jubilee of the UNEP fell in 1997. Each and every world nation holds ceremonies to mark the World Environment Day on 5 June every year.

Some previous mottoes of the World Environment Day were: "Poverty and the Environment; Breaking the vicious circle", "One Earth, One Family", "We the people; United for the Global Environment" and "Our Earth, Our Habitat, Our Home".

The World Environmental Day for 1997 was celebrated in Seoul, the Republic of Korea and it's motto for that year was: "For Life on Earth".

The environmental deterioration causes air and water pollution, deforestation, land degradation, desertification and extinction of plants and animals.

In Myanmar, the National Commission for Environmental Affairs was set up in February, 1990. The commission was organized with departmental heads under various ministries. The commission plays a key role in keeping in touch with international organizations. It also serves as a coodination mechanism to facilitate the functions of relavant bodies and is responsible to the government. There are four committees under the commission, namely, (1) Natural Resources Conservation Committee, (2) Environmental Pollution Prevention Committee, (3) Research, Education and Information Committee and (4) International Cooperation Committee.

Since 1991, mass tree planting ceremonies organized by the National Commission for Environmental Affairs and the Ministry of Forestry have been celebrated in Myanmar.

Moreover, the Basic Education Department has been carrying out the activities for greening of the school environs. The National Committee for Environmental Affairs holds ceremonies to mark the World Environment Day on 5 June every year to enhance public environmental awareness.

Regarding the environmental conservation, Head of the State Senior General Than Shwe

The Central Myanmar Greening Project being implemented under the leadership of the Government is an achievement in a bid to improve and green the nation's arid zone. Under the project, over 200,000 acres have been put under tree plantations and over 600,000 acres of land protected.

gave guidance at Natkanle Camp at Popa Hill Resort on 19 April in 1997. He said that emphasis was laid on the project for greening the nine special districts including Popa region for the benefits of the posterity.

Mandalay, Magway and Sagaing divisions, three arid regions, are home to 35 per cent of the nation's population. The 13-district Greening Project covering these divisions is the largest environmental conservation drive in the nation. Prior to that project, the government also implemented the three-year Nine-District Greening Project (1994-95 to 1996-97) that covered Sagaing, Shwebo and Monywa districts in Sagaing Division, Myingyan, Yamethin and Meiktila districts in Mandalay Division, and Magway, Minbu, Thayet and Pakokku districts in Magway Division.

The purposes of the project were to prevent deterioration of the environment, to fulfil rural people's firewood requirements, to improve the environment by keeping it green, to convince regional folks of the benefits of the existence of forests and trees, and to help maintain water sources with the use of trees.

The Ministry of Forestry is implementing four work programmes to implement the project. It is establishing tree plantations, protecting trees against indiscriminate felling, growing plants on bare mountains, and establishing tree plantations near villages.

The government also formed the Arid Zones Greening Department to widen the scope of the effectiveness of the project. So far, it has built 42 dams in Mandalay Division, 34 in Sagaing Division, and 33 in Magway Division apart from over 2,000 small scale dams and lakes. It has also planted trees on all the vacant lands in watershed areas, and constructed more than 160 waterworks along Ayeyawady and Chindwin rivers.

These measures for environmental conservation depicts that Myanmar welcomes World Environment Day designated for the concern of the world and all human beings.

Now, many parts of the world are witnessing environmental deterioration. The skies, earth and waters have been polluted with wastes to a certain degree.

The Government has placed emphasis on the improvement of the environment. It laid down the environmental conservation 21st Century vision in 1997 to make economic development and environmental conservation harmonize, and to realize the Myanmar National Environmental Affairs Policy. It is enhancing knowledge of environmental conservation in the formal and non-formal education. The Central Myanmar Greening Project being implemented under the leadership of the Government is an achievement in a bid to improve and green the nation's arid zone. Under the project, over 200,000 acres have been put under tree plantations and over 600,000 acres of land protected. The 30-year plan is in progress to keep the forests ever-confronting China, including trade barriers targeting Chinese exports, environmental problems and tense energy supplies.

Chinese leaders have repeatedly underscored the need to increase exports of new and hi-tech products, products of independent intellectual property rights and brands and high value-added products to improve its export growth mode. There's a more urgent need now that its textile products are facing trade barriers in some foreign countries.

The meeting, chaired by Premier Wen Jiabao, also discussed and approved in principle guidelines on promoting further opening-up of the old industrial base in northeast

According to the guidelines, further opening up to the outside world is an important component part of the strategy to invigorate northeast China and other old industrial bases. It is a major approach to achieve these goals.

The guidelines urged relevant departments to improve the quality and level of foreign investment, guiding it to key industrial sectors and technological upgrade of key companies.

According to the guidelines, northeast China should also promote the opening up of service trade, actively participate in regional economic and technological cooperation and beef up infrastructure construction.

NASA nears readiness for July shuttle launch

WASHINGTON, 9 June — US National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) is nearing readiness for space shuttle launch in July with still three recommendations to complete for the first shuttle flight since the Columbia disaster in 2003.

Reports reaching here said the task force overseeing NASA's work to improve flight safety hoped the US space agency would meet the remaining recommendations in time.

The task force completed review of five recommendations in Houston on Wednesday.

NASA is required to complete 15 recommendations for returning the shut-

A key outstanding issue NASA has vet to resolve is to develop techniques to repair "the widest possible range of damage" in space. However, task force member James Adamson said this issue will not block the shuttle launch, which is set between 13 July and 31 July. The task force said Wednesday NASA must eliminate all sources of potential debris from the external fuel tank and finish hardening the shuttle's exterior.

The external fuel tank has undergone many design changes after the Columbia tragedy in February 2003, in which all seven astronauts aboard were killed. The tragedy was blamed on a suitcase-sized insulation foam that fell off the tank during liftoff and harmed the shuttle's left wing, leading to the shuttle's disintegration during re-entry.

Central Africa summit discusses regional integration

YAOUNDE, 9 June — Leaders of the Economic Community of Central African States held a summit meeting on Tuesday in Brazzaville, capital of the Republic of the Congo, to discuss issues concerning the regional integration in politics, economy, security and justice.

In his opening remarks to the summit, Congolese President Denis Sassou-Nguesso, the executive chairman of the community, urged all the 11 member states to take coordinate actions to promote regional integration and construct a stable and sustainably-developing Central Africa.

Heads of state and government leaders or their representatives from the member states attended the meeting

Reports from Brazzaville said Sassou-Nguesso hoped that the United Nations will set up a permanent office in the region to help the bloc's member states.

On the regional integration issue, the two-daylong summit will focus on establishing a free trade zone, reducing tariffs among member states, and lifting obstacles to the free floating of personnel, property, work force and capital in this region.

homes in western Canada

Ottawa, 9 June — Hundreds of residents in the town of Highwood River in Canada's western province of Alberta were told to leave their homes overnight as rivers began to overflow after days of heavy rain, reports reaching here said on Wednesday.

Early on Wednesday morning, some of the 3,500 residents living near the community's golf course were woken up as a mandatory evacuation was ordered for the area. On Tuesday afternoon, a mandatory evacuation was ordered for about 200 residents of three subdivisions of the town of Highwood River.

An evacuation centre with sleeping bags and cots had been set up at a local high school. Some areas of southwestern Alberta have been hit by between 100 millimetres and 170 millimetres of rain over the past few days. But forecasters said the rain could subside starting Wednesday or Thursday. Officials have issued a flood watch for almost 24 rivers, streams and creeks in the southern part of the province.

China rises to world's second largest medicinal material producer

SHANGHAI, 9 June — With annual output of 800,000 tons of medicinal raw materials, China has risen to be the world's second largest producer of raw materials for medicine, next only to the United States, said an official with China's health care products organization.

Cui Bin, secretary of China chamber of medicine and health care products import-export commerce, said China is capable of manufacturing 1,400 kinds of medicinal raw materials, 60 of which are competitive in the world market, and more than 90 per cent are exported.

He noted that import-export of China's medicine and health care products surpassed 22.1 billion US dollars in 2004, up 26 per cent from the previous year.

The 2005 world pharmaceutical material exhibition, to be staged in Shanghai, is expected to attract more than 100 pharmaceutical enterprises from 20 countries and regions such as the United States, France, the United Kingdom and Germany.

However, Cui pointed out that China should strive to increase export of the ready-made Chinese medicine and raw material of traditional Chinese

African agriculturists urged to link research to industries, markets

KAMPALA, 9 June — African agricultural researchers have been urged to link their work to industries and markets to promote development on the world's poorest continent.

The call was made by Ugandan President Yoweri Museveni when he was opening the 3rd Forum for Agricultural Research in Africa (FARA) in Entebbe, some 40 kilometres south of Kampala on Monday afternoon, according to a Press release from the State House available on Tuesday.

Museveni pointed out that unlike in the colonial era where in Africa research was based on the production of raw materials for export only, today's research should be linked to the processing of products in order to realize maximum profits.

"Research should go beyond production to industrial processing," he Museveni further emphasized that the research that must be linked to industries should produce improved ing, quick maturing, resistant to diseases and drought.

The President told scientists that Africa in general and Uganda in particular lost millions of dollars as well as jobs due to the export of raw materials.

He said in 1986 Uganda exported two million bags of coffee and earned 500 million dollars while today it exported four million bags but earns only 100 million dollars despite world coffee trade being 80 billion dollars

Museveni noted that the only way forward for Africa in general and Uganda in particular was to add value to such products and ensure their accessibility to internal, regional and international markets.

Josue Dione, director of Sustainable Development Division from the United Nations Ecoseeds that are high yield- nomic Commission for

Africa (ECA), presented a paper on constraints, opportunities and challenges for the structural transformation of African agriculture

He appointed out among other things that while 70 per cent of the poor in Africa live in rural areas, the majority of them depend directly or indirectly on agriculture and 60 per cent of the total African labour force is employed in agriculture.

He called for search of lasting solutions for the improvement of the livelihoods of the people on the African continent.

The six-day forum that is running under the theme "Innovation to Transform Agriculture for Improved Livelihoods and Development in Africa" has drawn agricultural scientists from Rwanda, Kenya, Senegal, Tanzania, South Africa and Uganda.

South Africa backs traditional medicine to fight AIDS

Durban, 9 June — Amid demands for the South African Government to step up the use of anti-retroviral drugs for treating AIDS, the country on Tuesday asked the international community to focus on traditional medicines to fight the scourge.

Anti-retroviral drugs are not the only solution for the HIV-AIDS pandemic, South African Health Minister Manto Tshabalala-Msimang told reporters at an International AIDS conference here. "In the absence of a cure for AIDS, it is critical to invest more energy and resources into prevention which remains the mainstay of our response,' Minister Tshabalala-Msimang said.

G-4 agree to temporarily drop demand for veto power

UNITED NATIONS, 9 June—Germany, Japan, Brazil and India, the four countries aspiring to be new permanent members of an enlarged Security Council, distributed on Wednesday a new draft resolution on the body's expansion, under which new permanent members would not exercise the right of veto until 2020 at earliest.

The four nations have wanted the 191-nation General Assembly to adopt a framework resolution in June which would add six new permanent members and four new non-permanent seats to the Security Council.

The Council, the only UN organ whose decision is binding on all member states, is currently composed of permanent members with veto power and 10 elected non-permanent members with two-year terms. "The new permanent members shall not exercise the right of veto

Assembly meets to review the Council 15 years after the proposed expansion comes into force, the new draft said. The review conference would decide on the question of expansion of veto power to new permanent members, according to the draft.

Germany, Japan, Brazil and India, known as G-4, convened a meeting with some 30 countries which have intended to cosponsor the draft on Wednesday morning. After the meeting, the draft was circulated to all UN member states. Adoption of Assembly requires a twothirds majority. Under a three-step procedure proposed by G-4, the Assembly would vote on the draft as early as this month, then elect new permanent members in mid-July and adopt a resolution to amend the United Nations Charter. After orally presenting the new draft at a meeting of some 160 countries on Wednesday afternoon, German Ambassador Gunter Pleuger told reporters that G-4 still sticks to its timetable and France, one of the current permanent members, would co-sponsor the "until after the General | the draft by the General | new draft.—MNA/Xinhua

Vietnam to import 4.5m tons of clinker this year

Hanoi, 9 June — Vietnam will this year have to import some 4.5 million tons of clinker for cement production, the same amount as last year, the country's biggest cement producer said on Wednesday.

The producer, the state-owned Viet- | and around 69 million tons in 2020. A nam National Cement Corporation, will import around 2 million tons of clinker, mainly from Thailand, in 2005, it said, noting that its import prices currently stand at 28 US dollars per ton, up 30 per cent against the same period last year.

Vietnam imported nearly 2.6 million tons of clinker worth 77 million dollars in the first five months of this year, posting year-on-year respective surges of 66 per cent and 133 per cent. The corporation alone imported 888,000 tons of the product. Vietnam's cement demand is estimated at 46.8 million tons in 2010, some 62.5 million tons in 2015 small part of the demand will be met by imports, predicted the corporation.

Vietnam, which posted total cement sales of some 26 million tons in 2004, is expected to consume 29 million tons of the product this year. It now has 61 cement facilities with annual combined capacity of more than 20 million tons.

To increase domestic cement production and reduce imports, Vietnam is focusing its investment on upgrading existing plants, and building new ones in southern, central and northern mountainous regions in the 2005-2008 period. the corporation said. - MNA/Xinhua

Mexico rejects US' proposal to "supervise democracy" in Latam

Mexico rejected on Monday a US proposal which calls for the creation of a so-called "democracy supervision mechanism" in Latin America. "In principle, we don't agree with any supervision whatsoever," Mexico's presidential spokesman Ruben Aquilar told the Press

"We agree in extending the guarantees and MEXICO CITY, 8 June rights of the nations of the continent, though. We do agree with extending the respect of human rights, but never under the supervision of anyone," said Aquilar.

The remarks came at a time when a debate is under way on whether the OAS countries are ready to have an observation mechanism to prevent and manage crises at the bloc's annual general assembly being held between June 5 and 7 at Fort Laderdale, the United States.

US Secretary of State Condoleezza Rice said on Sunday that the "OAS has to be a valid instrument to help the countries of America whose democracies are in peril".

Latin American nations flav US proposal on democracy

WASHINGTON. June— Latin American nations have strongly opposed US Secretary of State Condoleezza Rice's proposal for a permanent mechanism to strengthen democracy in the region, saying it amounted to a blatant interference in their internal affairs.

Two days after Rice mooted the proposal at the Assembly of the Organization of American States (OAS), Ambassadors of several Latin American countries met on the sidelines of the conference and decided to oppose the American plan, media reports said

Representatives of countries from the region, including Brazil, Argentina, Chile. Mexico, Venezuela, Peru and Uruguay, have informed US officials that the proposal would be a blatant interference in the internal affairs of nations, and they would not support it.

Addressing Foreign Ministers from the 34member grouping at Fort Lauderdale, Florida, Rice had said that "focused action" must be taken to advance democracy in the Americas and favoured a mechanism for strengthening democracy throughout the region.

US leads in mental illness

Washington, 8 June — The United States leads in mental illness globally with 46 per cent of Americans suffering mental disorders ranging from anxiety, depression to substance abuse in their lifetime, The Washington Post reported Tuesday.

Within the past year, about 25 per cent of all Americans met the criteria for having a mental illness, and fully 25 per cent of those had a "serious" disorder that significantly disrupted their ability to function day to day, according to a one-year-and-a-half survey of the country's mental health, conducted by the University of Simultaneous occurrence of two or more illnesses was reported in nearly half of the mental disorder sufferers.

The survey is by far the largest and most detailed of its kind in the United States, during which nearly 300 trained interviewers visited 9,282 households selected at random in 34 states.

It focused on four major categories of mental illness. They are anxiety disorders, such as panic and post-traumatic stress disorders; mood disorders, such as major depression and bipolar disease; impulse control disorders, such as hyperactivity; and alcohol or drug abuse.MNA/ Xinhua

Those Americans with mental disorders will mostly seek treatment after delays of years or often more than a decade, if ever, the survey found, adding that it is much so among younger sufferers.

Half of those who will ever be diagnosed with a mental disorder show signs of the disease by the age of 14, and three-quarters by 24.

One third of people in need of treatment rely solely on nonprofessional sources such as Internet support groups and spiritual advisers despite the availability of effective treatments for many mental illnesses, said the newspaper.

The survey, published in the June issue of the Archives of General Psychiatry, attributed the low treatment rate to factors including inattention to early warning signs, inadequate health insurance and the lingering stigma that surrounds mental illness

Scientists report breakthrough against Ebola, Marburg viruses

Los Angeles, 8 June — New vaccines against two killer viruses, Ebola and Marburg, have been proven 100 per cent effective in monkey tests, scientists reported on Monday.

In a study published in this month's on-line issue of the journal Nature Medicine, researchers from the Public Health Agency of Canada and the US Army Medical Research Institute of Infections Diseases (USAMRIID), have developed vaccines against the Ebola and Marburg viruses that have been shown to be effective in non-human primates.

Monkeys are known to develop hemorrhagic fever symptoms that are similar to those observed in humans infected by these viruses. Demonstrating that these vaccines are safe and effective in monkeys is a promising indicator of their real potential for use in humans, the researchers said.

"When you see the tragedies these viruses cause, it's very frustrating that we can't do more to help people," said Heinz Feldmann, the lead investigator in this study who has been providing on-site rapid diagnostic support to the current Marburg outbreak in Angola.

"It'll be some time before we can use these vaccines in the field, but it's satisfying to know that we're getting closer."

This is the first vaccine system, or platform, that has protected non-

Ebola and Marburg, according to the research-

"In addition, the vaccine targets dendritic cells, which are the same cells that Ebola and Marburg attack," said Thomas Geisbert, co-author from the USAMRIID. "These cells are also important in generating a protective immune response. So the vaccine goes exactly where we want it to go."

The researchers developed the vaccines by replacing a surface protein in an animal pathogen, called vesicular stomatitis virus, with a surface protein from either human primates from both | the Ebola or Marburg viruses. Following extensive work including trials with mice and guinea pigs, the researchers proved their efficacy in primates.

> "A single intramuscular injection of the EBOV (Ebola Virus) or MARV (Marburg Virus) vaccine elicited completely protective immune responses in nonhuman primates against lethal EBOV or MARV challenges. Notably, vaccine vector shedding was not detectable in the monkeys and none of the animals developed fever or other symptoms of illness associated with vaccination," they wrote in the paper. —MNA/Xinhua

Italian Govt issues new decree laws on stadium violence

ROME, 8 June — Italian Interior Minister Giuseppe Pisanu announced on Monday that the government has signed three decree laws aimed at curbing violence in Italian soccer stadiums.

The new measures, to come into effect at the start of the 2005-2006 season, involve ticket sales, video surveillance inside grounds and other administrative aspects of stadium management.

Pisanu did not give further details but said they had been agreed with soccer clubs, which had shown a readiness to take what action they could.

"This is a joint effort to guarantee security," he said. "Clubs have committed themselves to taking greater responsibility for preventing violence.

He discussed the measures at a meeting with other ministers, the head of the Italian Olympic Committee and the head of the soccer federa-

In September 2003, Pisanu issued an anti-hooliganism plan, inspired by the way the English game rooted out hooliganism in the '80s.

Under the proposals, believed to be the basis of the latest decrees, stadiums would become allseater venues controlled by stewards, ending the terracing used as cockpits by hard-core fans.

There would be greater restrictions on ticket sales to avoid them falling into the wrong hands and every stadium will have a security and safety chief.

Swiss ex-ambassador jailed for money laundering

GENEVA, 8 June — Former Swiss ambassador to Luxembourg, Peter Friederich, has been sentenced to three and half years in jail for money laundering and embezzlement, the official web site Swissinfo reported Tuesday.

The Swiss Federal Criminal Court found Friederich guilty of money laundering, embezzlement as well as damaging creditors' interests and falsifying documents, said the web site.

But the court cleared him of accusations of belonging to and assisting a criminal organization.

Friederich was also ordered to pay a 15,000-Swiss franc (12,000-US-dollar) fine, while a number of his assets were seized.

Judges said the former ambassador had accepted 2.4 million Swiss francs (1.9 million dollars) from some Spanish and Colombian drug dealers in 2001 while he was the ambassador to Luxembourg.

New York bid officials disappointed with stadium vote

Washington, 8 June — New York's bid committee for the 2012 Olympic Games said on Tuesday that they are "deeply disappointing" with the failure to get approval for the plan to build an Olympic Stadium in Manhattan.

The two-billion-USdollar project to build a stadium on Manhattan's West Side, considered crucial to the city's Olympic bid, need to get unanimous support to go ahead but two members of the state Public Authorities Control Board abstained in a vote on Monday.

The vote came 10 hours after the International Olympic Committee released a generally favourable evaluation of New York's bid as part of a report on all the five candidates, which also include Paris, London, Ma- | committee, said in a statedrid and Moscow.

The board's decision means it will be almost impossible for the city to guarantee construction of the Olympic stadium, a prerequisite for it's bid to host the Games

FIFA, SOS Children's Villages new campaign starts in Netherlands

AMSTERDAM, 9 June — Within the scope of the new FIFA-SOS Children's Villages campaign "6 villages for 2006", FIFA, on the occasion of the FIFA World Youth Championship Netherlands 2005, will support the Dutch entity of the global charity organization in its efforts to build a new village in Morelia (Mexico).

The new village will contain 14 family homes, where, by the end of 2006, 126 children will be lovingly cared for by their SOS family.

A football field will be built there, as, after all, sports and fair play are essential for the complete and healthy development of every child, particularly underprivileged young people and hundreds of children from the near communities will also benefit from them.

To a large extent, this FIFA-SOS campaign is being led in the Netherlands by the Dutch exgoalkeeper Hans van Breukelen and top striker Ruud van Nistelroov, Both have been ambassadors for the children's charity for a long time. During the FIFA World Youth Championship, van Breukelen and van Nistelrooy will be devoting extra time to support the campaign.

Van Breukelen commented: "I still remember how I began to play football in a field behind my house. Every talent begins young. I support SOS Children's Villages because they do everything they can to encourage the talent in children."

Iran beats Bahrain to qualify for 2006 World Cup final

TEHERAN, 9 June — Iranian national football team here Wednesday night defeated Bahrain 1-0 in a thrilling 2006 World Cup Asian qualifier, qualifying for the top tournament in Germany a round ahead.

GMT). Although a draw would be enough to send the Iranian players to Germany, they were expected to perfect their qualification tour by a win.

"Iran will always seek wins, always!" Iran's coach Branco Ivankovic told Xinhua several minutes ahead of the kickoff.

Cheered up by nearly 80,000 fans, including President Mohammad Khatami, in Teheran's Azadi Stadium, the aggressive Iranian players squashed the Bahrainis to their half-court and dominated the field. They obtained three consecutive corners even in the beginning three minutes.

Iran's most heart-beating chance came at the 20th minute when No. 2 Mehdi MahdaviKia fed an excellent pass on a free kick to his teammate No. 20 Mohammad Nosrati who headed the ball against the

Maradona wants Argentina "attacking" Brazil

BUENOS AIRES, 9 June — Former Argentine soccer star Diego Armando Maradona said Wednesday the Argentine national soccer team "has to attack" Brazil in the Wednesday qualifier at Buenos Aires.

Few hours prior to the match, Diego recognized before the Press that the visitors "are a little better than the locals" but the "personality of the Argentine player is bigger than that of the Brazilian one".

Maradona was consulted at the Ezeiza International Airport a few minutes prior to departing for Italy for a tribute match for his former teammate Ciro Ferrara.

He said coach Jose Pekerman, of the Argentine national soccer team, will certainly "will make Argentina attack rather than defend" as they "do not know how to do it"

Maradona appeared confident about the victory of his country's team and lamented not being able to be at Monumental Stadium of Buenos Aires for the quali-

Press says Uruguay has no chance to qualify for Germany 2006

MONTEVIDEO, 9 June — The national soccer team of Uruguay is moving farther away from qualification for next year's World Cup finals, said Wednesday the local Press after their 0-0 draw with Peru.

Daily El Pais said "The draw does not suffice and it seems we're moving farther away from qualification, after the 0-0 result in an away match in Peru as part of the South American World Cup heat.

Meanwhile daily El Observador said the team coached by Jorge Fossatti "only wins at home."

Nonetheless, El Pais said the national team "just like in the match at Maracaibo did not play bad, but did not have a good performance in its teamwork."

"Now we see the consequences of the defeats as locals against Peru and Venezuela, in Montevideo," it

The Peru-Uruguay match opened the 15th round of the South American heat, leaving the table of positions as follows: Argentina 28, Brazil 27, Ecuador 23, Paraguay 19, Uruguay 18, Colombia 17, Chile 17, Venezuela 15, Peru 15 and Bolivia 13.

Dragon boat race may join 2010 Asian Games

WUHAN(Central China), 8 June — Dragon boat racing may be admitted into the 2010 Asian Games to be held in Guangzhou, South of China, according to an official with the Asian Olympic Council (AOC).

The AOC sports committee member Preeda Rodphothong, while attending ongoing fourth Yangtze River Three Gorges International Dragonboat Racing tournament in Yichang, central China, was quoted as saying by Tuesday's Chinese Sports Daily that his visit here is mainly to study the possibility of dragon boat racing becoming a medal sport in Asian Games

The paper said that Asian Dragon Boat Federation has applied for the sport to be included in the Asian Games after becoming a member of the AOC.

The dragon boat racing, already the medal sport of the Southeast Asian Games, will make its debut as a competition sport in the fourth East Asian Games to be held in Macao, China late this year.

Japan first to qualify for 2006 World Cup

BANGKOK, 9 June — Japan defeated North Korea 2-0 here on Wednesday to become the first team to qualify for the 2006 World Cup alongside host Germany.

After a scoreless first half, striker Atsushi Yanagisawa found the net first in the 63rd minute and substitute Masashi Oguro added a second a minute from time

North Korean striker Kim Yong-su was sent off in stoppage time.

The Asian zone Group B match was shifted from Pyongyang to Bangkok, a punishment imposed by FIFA for crowd violence following North Korea's 2-0 defeat by Iran in Pyongyang in March.

This was the third straight time for Japan to qualify for the World Cup finals, first in 1998 and then the 2002 tournament as co-hosts with South Korea.

North Korea's chance of reaching the World Cup for the first time since 1966 ended with its fifth straight defeat. - MNA/Xinhua

Nepal welcomes investment in hydropower

KATHMANDU, 9 June — The Nepali Government has created an investment friendly environment for the development of hydropower in private sector through necessary policy as well as legal framework, a senior government official said on Wednesday.

Tulsi Giri, vicechairman of Nepali Council of Ministers, told the on-going 6th international conference on Development of Hydropower on Wednesday that clean, cheap and environment friendly hydropower technology can play a pivotal role in poverty alleviation and sustainable economic growth in such countries

Speaking at the international conference, Giri said Nepal's hydropower potential is far beyond its requirement even in the long term and countries in the region can take advantage of this potential through regional power trading.

Kicking off here on Tuesday, the three-day conference are discussing and exchanging experiences on the development and extension of hydropower.

About 350 individuals concerned to the field from 25 Asian-African countries including China are participating in the conference on 7-9 June held by the International Association on Electricity Generation Transmission and Distribution (Afro-Asian Region), Nepal Electricity Authority and Central Board of Irrigation and Power of India.

A total of 60 work papers on various topics like hydro policies, financial mechanism, participation of the government and private sectors, extension and distribution of electricity, environmental and legal concepts, sustainable development of hydro-power, regional hydropower trade and management of hydro projects are presenting at the con-

Moeyungyi sluice gate to benefit over 40.000 acres of farmland

Minister for Agriculture and Irrigation Maj-Gen Htay Oo inspects Moeyungyi sluice gate project in Waw Township, Bago Division. — A & I

Yangon, 9 June — Minister for Agriculture and Irrigation Maj-Gen Htay Oo went to Moeyungyi sluice gate project being implemented by Irrigation Department Construction Group-6 near Kwetesu Village, Waw Township, Bago Division, on 4 June afternoon.

Director of Construction Group-6 U Hla Myint reported on the purpose of the construction of sluice gate, its advantage, and progress of work and Director-General of Irrigation Department U Kyaw San Win on water supply for greening 30-mile radius of Yangon City.

With respect to the reports, the minister instructed officials to coordinate with related departments for construction tasks meeting set standard and storage of water at the sluice gate and cultivation of perennial crops suitable for the environs of the sluice gate.

Next, the minister inspected construction tasks for the sluice gate structure, leading channel and outlet channel with the use of heavy machinery.

Moeyungyi sluice gate is built on Zwebat creek. It is of concrete type. It includes six 12 feet wide valves, four 8 feet wide valves, a 3,500 feet long leading channel and a 7,800 feet long outlet channel.

Moeyungyi Lake can store water for cultivation of summer paddy and greening of 30-mile radius of Yangon City.

Moeyungyi sluice gate benefits over 40,000 acres of farmland.

Its benefited area is connected with that of Shankaing, Paingkyon, Tarwa and Shwelay sluice gates in southern part of Pagaing embankment in Bago Division and that of Wakadok, Zaungtu and Baingda dams in upper Moeyungyi Lake.
