Strive for boosting agricultural production

Today is the time when the government, the Tatmadaw and the people are making relentless efforts for bringing about harmonious and equitable development the length and breadth of the nation and for the emergence of a peaceful, modern, developed and discipline-flourishing democratic nation.

Unprecedented progress has been made across the nation thanks to strenuous efforts and correct policy of the government.

Head of State Senior General Than Shwe has always given guidance on boosting the agricultural production of the nation. In particular, the Head of State has given guidance on construction of more dams and reservoirs in arid regions, where water is scarce, for agricultural purpose in the interest of the people.

In accordance with the guidance of the Head of State, constant efforts are being made for the development of the agricultural sector. As a result, altogether 176 dams and reservoirs have now been built and opened in the nation.

Myohla (Tatkon) Dam opened on 25 July in Tatkon Township is the 176th of its kind in the nation. It was built with the aim of boosting the agricultural production and greening the environs of the facility.

Mandalay, Magway and Sagaing Divisions are in the arid zone with a scanty rainfall. Apart from the regions where there are dams and reservoirs, there has been scarcity or insufficiency of water for agricultural and drinking purposes. Thus, these divisions in the past lagged behind in health, social and economic sectors when compared with others.

To overcome those obstacles and difficulties, the government has laid down and is implementing projects for supply of water in the arid zone, spending a large amount of funds for development of the agricultural sector and greening the environs.

Nowadays, there have emerged 44 dams and reservoirs in Mandalay Divisions and the facilities are now benefiting over 372,866 acres of farmland. With the emergence of those irrigated facilities, local people of the division are now fully engaged in agriculture.

The local people will be able to further serve the interest of the State and their own, making better use of the development infrastructures created by the government.

Therefore, we would like to call upon the farmers and officials to make concerted efforts for boosting the agricultural production, making the most of those irrigated facilities constructed by the government.

March towards a healthy country

Dr Khun Soe Moe

The Ministry of Health has to take responsibilities for public health care with a huge amount of expenditure of the State. It is said that such a prudent drive is an investment, and out of different types of investments, the investment in health yields greater benefit than any others.

Per capita income of national people is used as the yardstick to evaluate the development of a nation. Having high per capita income is due to the fact that a nation has an adequate number of educated human resources, its people are healthy, and they can do their work with might and main. Supposing the people of a nation are in good health, such a nation needs to spend just a little amount of expenditure on raising the health standard of the people and taking preventive measures against the diseases. That is why it is said the investment in health produces the greatest benefit.

In this regard, it is necessary for the Ministry of Health to cooperate with other related ministries for ensuring sustainable health of the entire people. Cooperation between ministries yields mutual benefits. Cooperation is essential whether it is between one individual and another or between one organization and another so long as it is mutually beneficial and there is no strings attached. The Ministry of Health is mainly responsible for promotion of the health standard of the people, but it has to cooperate with other related ministries, organizations for women's affairs, youth organizations, non-governmental organizations, religious and social organizations and all international NGOs. The Ministry of Health has been making efforts in collaboration with 27 international NGOs and nine internal NGOs for the motherland to become a healthy country. In doing so, the ministry has to carry out tasks under the supervision, instructions and assistance of the National Health Committee led by Secretary-1 of the State Peace and Development Council Lt-Gen Thein Sein. Here, one should be clearly convinced of why the ministry has to discharge such duties.

- 1. Cooperation between ministries leads to healthy life of the people and helps achieve sustainable success.
- Views can be exchanged and benefits, shared by ministries concerned in addressing health
- A ministry can take lessons from strong points and fulfil requirements of others through mutual trust and respect. All have to share knowledge about both advantages and disadvantages of the cooperation. Every activity must be done based on the system of equally sharing the outcomes. Only then, will the synergy be achieved.

The methods comprise advocacy, giving health education talks, consultation, conducting seminars, seeking ways collectively, and practical activities

The government established the Myanmar Academy of Medical Sciences to raise the role of the medical experts who are still in service and who have retired from respective departments, thereby contributing much towards the health sector of the State. The major purposes of the drive are to promote public health care, and to catch up with the international standard in doing research, producing medical staff, and constantly giving health education talks to the people.

With the emergence of the Myanmar medicine and medical equipment trading association in 1999, the merchants abide by the national drugs law by importing and distributing medicine and medical equipment needed for the public health care.

Now, success has been achieved in raising the health standard of rural areas thanks to the drive being implemented by the Ministry of Health in harness with other related ministries. However, there have still left many measures to be taken to meet the goal. Water supply projects have led to the agricultural development, but it is still needed to take more steps for ensuring safe agricultural produce and better health care for agricultural workers. Unsystematic use of pesticides makes the products unfit for consumption and endangers the workers. The ministry hand in hand with the agricultural service is conducting courses to ensure systematic use of pesticides. The Food and Drug Administration Committee under the Ministry of Health is constantly examining edible products. It indicates the farsightedness of the Head of State to establish food poisoning control centres in Yangon and Mandalay that have been taking surveillance tasks for prevention of food poisoning and making necessary arrangements for giving medical treatments to patients in case of food poisoning. The Ministry of Agriculture and Irrigation and the Ministry for Progress of Border Areas and National Races and Development Affairs have striven for supply of clean water in concert with the Ministry of Health, reducing the expenditure on treatments as well as the number of the outbreak of the diseases that occur because of contaminated water. The diseases are such as diarrhoea, skin diseases, and trachoma. Part of the health expenditure goes to control and prevention of diseases. Besides, production can be boosted with healthy and strong person-

Today, rapid dissemination of information and facts about the diseases play a vital role in taking preventive measures. The ministry has taken necessary steps for better communications between its departments to get information in time, carry out surveillance tasks, transfer of patients, and send medical staff to proper places in time. In this regard, it has to cooperate with the ministry concerned in order that the people can get to health care centres at ease and to stay away from traffic accidents.

Due to the cooperation with the Ministry of Information, the Ministry of Health can learn facts about the outbreak of diseases in keeping abreast of the time and can take precautionary measures. It can effectively disseminate knowledge of health care to the people in a short time by means of presenting health education programmes through media. The Ministry of Health has to join hands with the Ministry of Information in presenting programmes on health care and educative talks on common diseases, traffic safety, and systematic use of insecticides to the people in time.

The Ministry of Mines distributes iodized salt to the people, and as a result, the number of those suffering diseases resulting from jodine deficiency can be reduced markedly.

Every citizen needs to have education and hygiene for better health. They also need to be taught lessons on basic health care services. School lessons on health care help raise the health standard of the mass of women and disseminate food preparation methods. The literacy campaign plays an important role in the drive. The Ministry of Education is helping the Ministry of Health carry out tasks for ensuring healthy school compounds by prescribing lessons on health care in the curriculum of basic education, establishing tobacco free areas in school compounds, supplying clean water, and building fly-proof latrines.

Under the assistance of UNICEF and the Ministry of Health, the Ministry of Education has inserted the School Based Healthy Living and AIDS Prevention Education (SHAPE) in the curriculum from fourth to ninth standards in over 4,000 schools in 50 townships.

The people and the staff of the Development Affairs Department are cooperating in the drive for sprucing up the environment and for proper drainage. Car exhaust and burning rubbish cause air pollution. Throwing away litter from driving automobiles and discarding garbage into drains are improper acts.

The law and legislation department has helped draw and promulgate laws on health.

The Health Department is cooperating with related departments in creating healthy environment for an employee of a State-owned factory, and preventing air and water pollution, and occunational hazards

Emphasis has thus to be placed on public health standard for national development and serious attention paid to better health of low-income people. The expenditure on health care is contributed mostly by the State and partly by social security board, entrepreneurs and wellwishers. International community are also contributing donations to the nation's health promotion plan.

1. Giving vaccines	75%	90%
2. Clean water supply	18%	72%
Fly-proof latrines	32%	63%
4. Under-1 year child
mortality rate (each 1000)	80%	60%

The achievement is due to political commitment of the State, departmental cooperation, contribution of NGOs, and participation of the people from all walks of life.

With a fine tradition of cooperating with related organizations, the Ministry of Health has a good reputation in World Health Organization. Every citizen is thus urged to enhance personal hygiene and participate in sanitation tasks so as to contribute towards the drive for marching towards a healthy country.

At the same time, the Government, the people and the Tatmadaw made concerted efforts for development and uplift of the living standard of the people under the correct leadership and guidance of the Head of State. Therefore, progress in construction of roads. bridges and dams, facilities of education and health and economic

But, the entire people must build the peaceful, modern and developed nation through united strength by overcoming hindrances. All are to uphold Our Three Main National Causes - nondisintegration of the Union, non-disintegration of national solidarity and perpetuation of sovereignty. While restoring peace and stability of the State, the Tatmadaw Government laid down and implemented short-term plans for economic development in accord with the four economic objectives. Myanmar fine arts of high standard, which had existed since time immemorial, was able to depict Myanma lifestyle and character. Myanmar has been dealing with neighbouring nations with high civilization and the vast number of population since yore. However, it has been able to stand tall among them without losing its own culture, own literature and own national character.

Thanks to good attitude, courage, diligence and efforts of our ancestors, Myanmar traditional fine arts has been flourishing with own national prestige and integrity. It is incumbent upon the entire national people to hand down this heritage to new generations.

As such a time like this, most of the world nations have been making all-out efforts to safeguard their own culture and traditions by their own ways. Hence, the duties of those who are engaged in safeguarding Myanma culture and traditions are noble and subtle. At a time when efforts are being made for safeguarding Myanmar culture and traditions, various kinds of Western music and dance are penetrating into Myanmar at a steady pace by means of VCD, CD, Internet and satellite disc.

The government hoped that with a correct outlook on the situations and challenges faced by the State, and the government's efforts and future plans, the trainees would take a more active role in the national duties in the education sector through correct reviews, thoughts and strength.

Moreover, certain big nations are constantly perpetrating instigation and deception to break up national solidarity and spurring destructive acts. So there occasionally have colonialists' lackeys who never hesitate to harm the national interests for their own. Such lackeys' rivalry for power and tricking the nation's political affairs led to deterioration of national unity and internal armed strife. Subsequently, the nation was hovering on the verge of collapse and it lagged behind in development. Such evil consequences have always overshadowed the nation's history.

It is natural that when a nation is on its way to development, there usually come destructive acts. But, the nation only needs to continue its development drive with added momentum attending to the basic requirements of the nation.

All can be aware of the fact that at a time when the government's efforts are bearing fruit, destructive elements inside and outside the nation are speeding up their attempts in collusion to break up the fine foundations.

Putin demands preemptive action in fighting terrorism

Moscow, 28 July-Russian President Vladimir Putin told the country's military and law enforcement officers on Wednesday to take preemptive actions in fighting terrorism, which he said remains a major threat to the world.

"Your activities in this area should be preemptive in nature," Putin told top military, law enforcement and security officers at a meeting in the Kremlin, the Interfax news agency reported.

"We perfectly understand how serious the tasks are that face Russia's law enforcement and security agencies," primarily police and interior forces, Putin said.

The recent attacks in London, Egypt and in Russia's Caucasus region show "terrorism remains one of the main threats to the world", and Russia will play an important part in the joint work to fight terrorism, Putin said.

Russia's Chechen republic has been plagued by frequent rebel attacks on law enforcement forces and civilians, and the fighting between government forces and separatist rebels there have spilled over into nearby regions including Dagestan.

The Russian Government has intensified operations to rein in separatists in the breakaway republic since the Beslan school siege, which killed over 330 people last September in the southern republic of North Ossetia.

Putin urged the Interior Ministry to give priority to protecting people's rights and freedom, preventing attempts to infringe on their legitimate property and building a favourable business climate in Russia.

Spain calls shooting of Brazilian in London "serious mistake"

MADRID, 28 July-Spanish Interior Minister Jose Antonio Alonso on Wednesday described as "a serious mistake" the British Government's ordering the fatal shooting of a terrorist suspect in London.

Shoot-to-kill, "in any democratic country", is something under any perspective inadmissible,

Alonso said in a statement issued in the wake of Spanish Prime Minister Jose Rodriguez Luis Zapatero's visit to Lon-

Brazilian electrician Jean Charles de Menezes was fatally shot by the British police who mistook him for a suicidal bomber in London last Friday.

However, Aloso said the British Government "is interested in clearing up the case, and does whatever it takes to prevent a similar situation from happening".

Dealing with terrorism "cannot affect the general task, evidently a democratic one" of the British police, he said.

"What a democratic police has to do, from my point of view is, when such a terrible mistake has occurred, to establish who is accountable and revise its protocols," he said. "That is precisely what is taking place with the British police."

French PM calls for "true economic patriotism"

Paris, 28 July -French Prime Minister Dominique de Villepin called Wednesday for "a true economic patriotism" to defend French companies' interests.

Speaking at his second news conference since the May 31 government reshuffle, Villepin urged the French to "summon all their strength" and to rally round a "real economic patriotism".

"I know that is not a common expression but when times are hard, when the world is changing it is a question of gathering our strengths... and defending France and things French," he said.

Besides a decree to be published in September to better control foreign investments in the fields of security and defence, the Prime Minister announced France would adopt the European directive, which, approved in November 2003 in Brussels, aims at harmonizing the takeover rules among the bloc's 25 members.

Villepin said he had asked the Finance Ministry to take measures to encourage investors to maintain long-term stakes in companies.

He made the remark in the wake of recent speculation that American beverage giant PepsiCo was planning a hostile takeover bid for French food group Danone, which generated resistance from

French Government. Earlier in the day

President Jacques Chirac warned in a Cabinet meeting that the "instability" of capital of some big French companies threatened jobs and the nation's industry, according to government spokesman Jean-Francois Cope said.

"There is obviously no question of opposing in principle any purchase of French companies, Chirac said, noting "We must reinforce the measure of protection to our strategic companies, and examine whether changes are necessary, in terms of company law or accounting standards, in order to encourage long-term holdings."--MNA/Xinhua

Astronauts perform first shuttle damage inspection

HOUSTON, 28 July-Astronauts on the shuttle Discovery slowly scanned the wings and nose of their spacecraft with a laser-equipped robot arm on Wednesday in a critical safety inspection never before performed on a shuttle mission.

Manoeuvring the computer-aided arm from within the orbiter, the astronauts looked for cracks that could endanger the shuttle when it returns to the Earth's atmosphere for landing on 7 August and builds up temperatures up to 2,500 degrees Fahrenheit through the inspection, which was expected to take seven hours, no signs of damage had been apparent. At one point, engineers on the ground asked for a second look at a suspect spot, but astronauts went back over the area with the camera at a different angle and it showed nothing."Everything has gone exceptionally well," NASA spokesman Rob Navias said.

Television shots from space showed the procedure from the perspective of the laser, which is accompanied by a television camera, as the robot arm crept along the black edge of the wing.

The painstaking inspection is one of many safety measures put in Almost halfway | place after the fatal | nose landing gear and an Columbia disaster on 1 February, 2003, when a loose chunk of insulating foam at launch damaged the wing and caused the shuttle to disintegrate on re-entry over Texas, killing its seven astronauts.

Discovery launched on Tuesday from Florida in the first shuttle flight since Columbia.

The launch was smooth but not flawless. Video from one of an array of cameras at the takeoff showed a nick in heatprotective tiles near the unexplained piece of debris falling away from the exterior fuel tank.

The debris did not strike the shuttle, but the one-inch (2.5 centimeter) gouge in the tile would require further study, said flight operations manager John Shannon

Because of schedule constraints, Wednesday's inspection would not include a look at the damaged tile, Shannon said. That likely would not happen until Friday, he said.—MNA/Reuters

Swiss expert warns of shuttle fleet's old age

Geneva, 28 July-Though welcoming the launch of the space shuttle Discovery by the United States, a Swiss expert warned that the shuttle fleet was now showing its age

Rudolf von Steiger, a director at Switzerland's International Space Science Institute, pointed out Wednesday that there are some problems with the current system, although he believes that Discoverv now is "as safe as it can reasonably be".

"The shuttle system was set up and designed in the 1970s, the first shuttle flew in the 1980s - it's more than 20 years since then and the shuttle system is quite old now," he told the official web site Swissinfo

"We have also found out that the system has a very fundamental and serious flaw, which is that cargo and humans are packaged in the same envelope and this makes it very large and vulnerable to security risks which are deadly for humans," he said, adding that this had to be changed in a future system.

Ronaldo double gives Real 3-1 win in Japan

Токуо, 28 July — Brazil striker Ronaldo scored twice as Real Madrid beat Japan's Jubilo Iwata 3-1 on Wednesday in the second of two pre-season games

Captain Raul had fired the Spanish club ahead in the third minute after Michael Owen's initial effort was deflected into his path.

Ronaldo came close moments later before England striker Owen had a seemingly good goal disallowed after a late offside flag in the ninth minute.

Shu Naruoka equalized for Jubilo in the 24th minute with a low shot from 25 meters but Ronaldo picked himself up after being fouled to restore Real's lead from the penalty spot in the 28th minute.

Raul squandered a gilt-edged chance 10 minutes into the second half following slick build-up play from Guti and Roberto Carlos.

Ronaldo added Real's third in injury time, latching on to substitute Luis Figo's defence-splitting ball to slot the ball through the legs of Jubilo goalkeeper Yoshikatsu Kawaguchi.

England captain David Beckham completed 68 minutes in his second game after pulling a hamstring in the United States last week and received a standing ovation from the crowd of 34,000.

Travel-weary Real suffered an embarrassing 3-0 defeat in a bad-tempered game with Tokyo

Verdy on Monday.

Beckham was involved in a furious tunnel fracas after the first half of that game after accusing a Verdy player of spitting at him.

"After Monday's game some of the players were angry," Real coach Vanderlei Luxemburgo told reporters. "I told them to stay calm today and play their normal game".

The Brazilian added: "The Verdy game was not at all good because the players were tired. We had no time to prepare so we gave away silly goals. Things improved today".

Real won two friendlies in the US before arriving in the Far East. They finish their lucrative trip with a friendly in Bangkok on Friday. The Spanish giants are expected to earn around 25 million US dollars from their sixmatch pre-season tour.

United jolted by quake, lost to Antlers

Токуо, 29 July — Manchester United were jolted by an earthquake and a Masashi Motoyama double as they lost 2-1 to Japan's Kashima Antlers in a pre-season friendly on Thursday.

A tremor rattled Tokvo's National Stadium early in the first of United's two matches in Japan and the visitors were also stunned when they went behind after five minutes.

Japan midfielder Motoyama gave J-League leaders Kashima the lead with a superb left-foot volley that gave United goalkeeper Tim Howard no chance. Ryan Giggs swept in a Cristiano Ronaldo cross to equalize three minutes later but Motoyama restored Kashima's lead with a carbon-copy of his first goal in the 24th minute

"Credit to them - two great goals," Giggs told Reuters. "We had our chances in the second half and the lads looked sharp It was a good test."

England striker Wayne Rooney went close with a fierce drive on the hour mark and Ronaldo headed wide from point-blank range in the 71st minute as United pressed for an equalizer.

They paid for their

wastefulness, however, | with strikers Louis Saha and Ruud van Nistelrooy also guilty of glaring misses.

"We probably got more out of this game than any other game on the tour," said Phil Neville. "We sharpened up in the second half but we just missed chances. It was a good workout for us.'

New signing Park Jisung came on as a 70thminute substitute for Ronaldo and he too missed a simple chance when he blazed over from close range. The South Korea midfielder left the pitch moments later with blood pouring from a cut to his face after colliding with Antlers goalkeeper Hitoshi Sogahata. The 24-year-old needed nine stitches above his left eye and was left nursing a badly swollen face after being caught by Sogahata's elbow.
