Work in concert for success of ACMECS work programmes

The opening of the Ayeyawady-Chao Phraya-Mekong Economic Cooperation Strategy (ACMECS) Summit was held at the Yellow Room of the Santi Maitri Building in Bangkok, Thailand, on 3 November morning.

Prime Minister of the Union of Myanmar General Soe Win, Thai Prime Minister Dr Thaksin Shinawatra, Cambodian Prime Minister Mr Samdech Hun Sen, Laotian Prime Minister Mr Bounnhang Vorachith and Vietnamese Prime Minister Mr Phan Van Khai attended the meeting and made speeches on the occasion.

In his address, Prime Minister General Soe Win said that encouragement is to be given to government organizations and private sector to participate in the tasks for successful implementation of the objectives; that partner countries are to be invited to take part in the tasks; and that regional cooperation and national level cooperation are effective ways to narrow the development gap among the nations.

The Ayeyawady-Chao Phraya-Mekong Economic Cooperation Strategy (ACMECS) Summit was held in Bagan, Myanmar in November 2003. The meeting adopted the Bagan declaration and future work programmes to widely and effectively carry out the tasks in the region.

In the process, the tasks should be launched through cooperation and effective use of particular qualities and natural resources of each member nation. Myanmar, being a ACMECS member nation, has to take responsibility for successful implementation of agricultural and industrial cooperation as a leading coordinator.

After the opening ceremony of the ACMECS, the Second Informal ACMECS Summit followed. At the Summit, the Prime Ministers of the ACMECS member nations discussed promotion of trade and investment, cooperation in agricultural and industrial sectors, extension of transport services among member nations, enhancement of tourism industry, energy efficiency, extended production of bio-fuel, development of human resources, cooperation in prevention against bird flu and other infectious diseases, exchange of views on organizing the Third ACMECS Summit, and preparations for issuing the declaration of the Second ACMECS Summit.

Next, the Prime Ministers of Cambodia, Laos, Myanmar, Thailand and Vietnam signed the declaration of the Ayeyawady-Chao Phraya-Mekong Economic Cooperation Strategy (ACMECS) Summit, and declaration on Partnership in Combating Avian Influenza and Other Infectious Diseases.

All in all, we firmly believe that all the ACMECS member nations will work in concert for successful implementation of future work programmes laid down by the Second ACMECS Summit through regional cooperation and national level cooperation.

Hu Jintao calls for further cooperation between China, Russia

BEIJING, 5 Nov— Chinese President Hu Jintao on Friday called for more and better cooperation between China and Russia, in a bid to further enhance the Sino-Russian strategic and cooperative partnership.

Hu said that while meeting Russian Prime Minister Mikhail Yefimovich Fradkov, who is here for the 10th regular meeting between Chinese and Russian prime ministers.

"The Sino-Russian strategic and cooperative partnership kept growing this year and showed great vigour," Hu said. Chinese and Russian leaders met four times and reached consensus on major issues this year, he said.

The two countries signed a joint statement on international order in the new century and launched strategic security consultation, according to Hu.

The two countries have also carried out sound cooperation in politics, trade, economy, energy, investment and military sectors, and coordinated closely on international and regional affairs, he noted.

The President urged the two sides to further utilize the regular meeting between Chinese and Russian prime ministers and strive for more fruits.

Fradkov said that Russia and China have done a lot of fruitful work in implementing the consensus reached by the two countries' leaders.

The two sides enhanced mutual-understanding and mutual-trust, enriched the strategic and cooperative partnership, and coordinated soundly on major international and regional issues, he said.

Russia and China share common points of view on the goal and measures in the next stage of cooperation, he said, appealing to the two sides for implementation of all the proposed projects.

Bush faces new hurdle of falling integrity rating

WASHINGTON, 5 Nov — A poll showing rising doubts among Americans about President George W Bush's integrity has raised a new hurdle to the fresh start he is seeking after the indictment of a senior White House aide and other political woes.

A week after vice-presidential aide Lewis Libby resigned and was indicted on charges related to the leaking of a CIA operative's identity, an ABC News/Washington Post poll showed that fewer than half of Americans viewed Bush as trustworthy and honest. The President's overall approval rating dropped to a new low of 39 per cent.

"That's a very ominous sign for Bush," Ross Baker, professor of political science at Rutgers University, said of the integrity rating. Bush ran for office in 2000 with a pledge to uphold "honour and dignity" in the presidency after former President Bill Clinton's impeachment scandal.

A CBS poll on Wednesday put Bush's job approval rating at 35 per cent, his lowest since taking office in 2001.

Baker said such numbers could portend difficulties for Republican congressional candidates in the 2006 mid-term elections as well as for Bush's effectiveness in pushing his second-term agenda.

Virginia's Republican candidate for governor, Jerry Kilgore, refused to attend a Bush speech in his state last week, but the White House said Bush would make an election-eve stop next Monday in the tight race seen as a potential national bellwether.

Venezuelan President says US free trade proposal "dead"

MARDEL PLATA (Argentina), 5 Nov — Venezuelan President Hugo Chavez said on Friday that the US-proposed Free Trade Area of the Americas (FTAA) is "dead" as it only helps large US companies at the expense of Latin American workers.

The FTAA "is dead and I didn't come here to talk of the dead", Chavez, an outspoken critic of US President George W Bush, told reporters outside his hotel in the beach resort city in southern Argentina.

Chavez said that he will seek to boost his own trade initiative at the Summit of the Americas due to open on Friday afternoon.

Chavez has said that he plans to lead a "final burial" of the US proposal for the giant free trade area that would encompass all countries in the Western Hemisphere except Cuba.

President Bush, who arrived here on Thursday for the summit, has insisted that jobs can be created and poverty reduced through free trade.—MNA/Xinhua

Al-Qaeda in Iraq threatens more attacks on foreign diplomats

CAIRO, 5 Nov— The al-Qaeda terror network in Iraq threatened on Friday to mount more attacks on foreign diplomats if they fail to heed the warning and leave the country, according to an Internet statement.

"We are renewing our warning to all the diplomats who are still staying in Baghdad and have not realized the consequences of going against our will," said the statement, posted on a website often used by the al-Qaeda's group in Iraq.

The statement also said the group would not differentiate between high-ranking diplomats and the lowest-level in tracking them down and carrying out merciless revenge.

The authenticity of the statement, allegedly signed by the spokesman of the al-Qaeda group in Iraq, cannot be immediately verified.

The Friday warning came after another Internet statement said on Thursday that Iraq's al-Qaeda would kill two Moroccan Embassy employees, who were kidnapped last month.

The al-Qaeda network has masterminded and carried out some of the most gruesome kidnappings and killings in Iraq.

It has vowed to kill all the foreign diplomats in Iraq, accusing them of being "collaborators" with the US-backed new Iraqi Government.

Mothers of Plaza de Mayo protest against Bush's visit

MAR DEL PLATA (Argentina), 5 Nov—Members of the human rights group, Mothers of Plaza de Mayo of Argentina, protested against the arrival of US President George W Bush in the country on Thursday.

They held a banner which read "Bush out" in Spanish near the venue of the 4th Summit of the Americas at the tourist resort of Mar del Plata, 400 kilometres south of the capital Buenos Aires.

"Bush is repugnant, and we are here in a show of repudiation for his government," said Hebe de Bonafini, leader of the human rights group, wearing the trademark white scarf.

She described Bush as a murderer, miserable hypocrite and terrorist.

The aging mothers, now embracing a variety of causes, have been marching every week for 28 years to demand the punishment of those who are accountable for the disappearance of their sons and daughters during the military dictatorship of 1976-1983 in Argentina. The group is expected to join an organized large-scale demonstration on Friday to protest globalization and US-backed free market economic policies.

The demonstration will bring in anti-Bush celebrities like Argentine Nobel Peace Prize winner Adolfo Perez Esquivel, Argentine soccer legend Diego Maradona, Bolivian presidential front-runner, indigeneous leader Evo Morales, and Cuban singer-songwriter Silvio Rodriguez.

India to give free treatment to 20 more Pakistani children

NEW DELHI, 5 Nov — India on Thursday said it would give free medical treatment to 20 more children from Pakistan, raising to 60 the number of such patients receiving the treatment here.

"The Government of India has sanctioned free medical treatment of another batch of Pakistani children," External Affairs Ministry spokesman Navtej Sarna said here.

This scheme enables needy and seriously ill children of Pakistan to get quality medical treatment free of cost in India.

Under the scheme launched early last year, the Indian Government pays the air fare and accommoda-

Malaria kills 400 Ugandans daily

KAMPALA, 5 Nov—A new research report on the use of dichloro diphenyl trichloroethane (DDT) to control malaria has said that the disease kills about 400 Ugandans daily. The report which was quoted by local Press on Friday indicated that those killed by the disease are mostly children and pregnant women.

According to the Ministry of Health, malaria remains the number one killer disease in the country and consumes 10 per cent or 34 million US dollars of the ministry's annual budget for the drugs and services. The research was carried out between May and August 2005 in areas which were spread with DDT. It examined the effects of DDT on humans and the environment and also recommended the control use in fighting malaria.

Gabriel Bimenya, the chief researcher and lecturer at Makerere University said that whereas allegations have come up against the use of DDT, results have shown no direct association between DDT and human defects like impotence, infertility, neurological deficits, congenial abnormalities or cancer.

He said that the contrary, the results showed a very fecund society in areas where the chemical was applied in the country about 45 years ago.—MNA/Xinhua

Zimbabwe attacks Britain for dragging UN into dispute

HARARE, 5 Nov— Zimbabwe on Friday attacked Britain for dragging the United Nations into its "bilateral differences" over land reform with the country.

This follows this week's attempts by Britain to pressure the United Nations to condemn Zimbabwe over a clean-up campaign the country carried out early this year to rid cities of slum, in which thousands of illegal housing structures were demolished.

United Nations Secretary-General, Kofi Annan issued a statement, following "pressure" from British Foreign Secretary Jack Straw and Prince Charles, expressing concern over the plight of people affected by the clean up campaign, according to the Zimbabwean Government.

In response, Foreign Affairs Minister Simbarashe Mumbengegwi said it was most regrettable that Britain was continuing to "abuse" the UN framework to try and settle scores with Zimbabwe.

"Over the years, Britain has tried to drag her bilateral dispute with Zimbabwe onto the agenda of the United Nations even at the expense of the rules and procedures governing the conduct of business in the world body," the minister said.

Zimbabwe, the minister said, was already working with a UN country team on a cooperation framework to assist people affected by Operation Restore Order, and had since indicated to the world body that it only required "complimentary assistance". He said the government was developing a cooperation framework under its housing delivery programme based on lasting shelter solutions and not on some "fictitious humanitarian crisis".

"Zimbabwe is committed to producing a lasting solution to the shelter requirements of all its citizens under the clean up campaign," he said.

US military deaths sharply rise to 2045 in Iraq

WASHINGTON, 5 Nov— As of Saturday, 5 Nov, 2005, at least 2,045 members of the US military have died since the beginning of the Iraq war in March 2003, according to an Associated Press count. At least 1,590 died as a result of hostile action, according to the military's numbers. The figures include five military civilians.

The AP count is 10 higher than the Defence Department's tally, last updated at 10 am EDT on Friday.

The British military has reported 97 deaths; Italy, 27; Ukraine, 18; Poland, 17; Bulgaria, 13; Spain, 11; Slovakia, three; Denmark, El Salvador, Estonia, Netherlands, Thailand, two each; Hungary, Kazakhstan, Latvia one death each.

Since 1 May, 2003, when President Bush declared that major combat operations in Iraq had ended, 1,906 US military members have died, according to AP's count. That includes at least 1,481 deaths resulting from hostile action, according to the military's numbers.—Internet

Cuba has no need for Venezuelan "F-16s"

SANTA CLARA (Cuba), 5 Nov— Communist Cuba said on Friday it had no need for F-16 fighter jets offered this week as a gift by leftist ally President Hugo Chavez of Venezuela.

"We do not need the planes, and he (Chavez) has not made a formal offer," said Cuban Foreign Minister Felipe Perez Roque.

Chavez said on Tuesday his government may give its US-made F-16 fighters to Cuba or China and replace them with Russian or Chinese aircraft after accusing Washington of blocking purchases of US military parts. A fierce critic of the Bush Administration, Chavez has rattled Washington by strengthening ties with anti-US states like Cuba and promoting his self-described socialist revolution as a counterweight to US regional influence.

Chavez has become the closest ally of Cuban President Fidel Castro, whose Air Force is equipped with Soviet-built MiGs.

"The idea sounds legitimate, because Chavez is quite right in rejecting the United States for refusing to sell spare parts," Perez Roque told reporters.

If Chavez did supply the jets to Cuba, he would be breaking an agreement with Washington on the transfer of technology without US permission and further strain ties between the United States and Venezuela, one of its main oil suppliers. The Cuban minister said Venezuela was not a military threat to the United States.

"The US Government does not have the moral authority nor the legitimacy to demand arms control by other countries: it is spending no less than 500 billion US dollars this year on weapons," he said.

Panamanian freighter breaks down on South China Sea

GUANGZHOU, 5 Nov— A Panamanian freighter has died on the South China Sea and its 15 sailors have been saved, after nearly 40 hours of drifting, by Chinese rescuers, authorities said on Thursday.

The incident took place at around 8 am on Monday in the seawaters approximately 110 sea miles south of the Yongxing Island of the Xisha Archipelago, when the steering machine of the VERA777 freighter suddenly broke down and the sailors sent signals for help, according to the South China Sea Rescue Bureau of China's Ministry of Communications.

The freighter, sailing from Shanghai to Singapore, had to be driven by the strong current of wind and drifted about on the sea at a speed of six sea miles per hour, the bureau said.

The bureau received the signals for help and immediately sent a rescue team at 7 pm on Monday, but it did not reach the scene until Wednesday noon due to strong wind and the long route of approximately 450 sea miles.—MNA/Xinhua

View acts and movements of neo-colonialists with farsightedness

Aung Thein (Dawei)

Recently, I paid a visit to Bagyi Phyo to have a chat with him.

Phyo: Hello, long time no see. Where have you been lately? Have durian and green tea.

Author: Thank you. My youngest son has gout since he was born. His knee is getting worse, and now he can't walk well. He'll study matriculation this year. So, I had to earn extra money for his medical treatment. He'll have to undergo an operation in Dawei Hospital before school. That's why I haven't visited you these days.

Phyo: You're right. You have to earn enough money in advance to cover all the costs. But, the Ministry of Health is implementing a motto for needy patients to receive medical treatments at low costs. If a needy person is to be hospitalized, he should let the officials know his financial situation. And they will provide assistance for him as much as they can.

A: I've heard of it, too. The cost-sharing system means needy patients just need to contribute whatever cash he can.

Phyo: We Myanmar people have a fine tradition of extending cooperation when the nation is being constructed in various aspects. By the way, the conference of World Health Organization held in Geneva, Switzerland, on 21 June 2000 issued the World Health Report 2000. It incorrectly stated the health standard of Myanmar was poorer than other nations.

A: I think it was due to the instigation of the big power.

Phyo: You're right. WHO said the big power was interfering in the affairs of UN agencies and it later knew that the report lacked true facts.

A: It's no longer secret. The Ministry of Health of our nation won the World No-Tobacco Day award in 2004 that WHO awarded. That went down in the annals of our nation.

Phyo: The truth will come out one day. By the way, I learnt at the press meet 4/2005 held at the Ministry of Information in Yangon on 15 May 2005, Minister Brig-Gen Kyaw Hsan clarified that a well-known organization of a big nation conducted a course on explosives for some members of armed insurgent groups in border areas starting from the second week of December 2004, and the well-known organization provided 100,000 US dollars for expatriate Sein Win of NCGUB under the heading of assistance for refugees.

A: So did I.

Phyo: The Myanmar Language programme VOA aired at 6 pm on 19 May that Myanmar people knew a super power meant the US and the well-known organization meant CIA.

A: That's their guess. They can think as they like.

Phyo: May-7 bomb blasts of terrorists left many innocent people dead and wounded. According to the list of casualties on 12 June, the bomb blasts killed 23 people and wounded over 100. Do you know why the terrorists launched vicious attacks on a small nation like Myanmar? If you do, tell me something about that.

A: Our nation is situated between South Asia and Southeast Asia as well as between the two heavily populous nations. After the cold war, West bloc was interested in Myanmar located in strategic area as it wanted to keep the regional nations under its domination. In 1988, Myanmar saw many changes, and the Tatmadaw had to take up State's duties. NLD that won the 1990 election stuck to the policy of confrontation against the government before the launch of writing a draft State Constitution instead of cooperating with the government. As you know, the West bloc provided various forms of assistance for their lackeys to come into power with the intention to overthrow the Tatmadaw government because it understood that to gain its self interests, the government that would come into power must be a puppet one. However, now it's virtually hopeless attempting to install a puppet government, therefore, as the saying that goes "One sprinkles sand on the morsel of meat for which one has no share to eat", it committed such a ruthless act to tarnish the image of the government, to create a public panic and to instigate mass demonstration resulting from poor basic needs and general discontentment.

Phyo: You're right. Myanmar plays a strategic role in the regions of ASEAN, East Asia and the Pacific and BIMSTEC. If Myanmar is totally under the domination of a big nation and its puppets come into power in the country, that will threaten regional nations including neighbours that have already gained unity, and that also poses a grave danger to peace and stability of the region. The West bloc nations must have destructive tactics to topple the governments of the nations that refuse to follow them and that don't get along with the West bloc.

A: Certainly, I have read the book "Political Warfare" by American median John Scott that features so many political tactics such as diplomatic means, economic sanctions, media propaganda, instigating mass demonstrations, destructive acts, intimidations, violence, and isolating them from their friendly nations and supporters for weakening the power of enemies, and destroying them if possible.

Phyo: I see. Neo-colonialists are applying the destructive tactics of West bloc against our nation.

A: Elaborate it, please.

Phyo: In 2003, the US Congress approved the Burmese Freedom and Democracy Act 2003 under the Senate and House of Representatives to impose economic sanctions against Myanmar. The EU also imposed economic sanctions against the nation. These acts are like the destructive tactics, aren't they?

A: Yes, they are.

Phyo: I think you have also heard that the previous successive press conferences clarified that our nation is gaining development momentum in economic and political sectors for transforming into a discipline-flourishing democratic one without directly copying the Western democracy. But, internal and external destructive elements are launching three-pronged attacks from underground, aboveground and from abroad to disrupt the national development.

A: You're right. I notice that their attacks on our nation have got more frequent since the National Convention resumed.

Phyo: Those are some of their destructive tactics. Recently, BBC aired a false news story imminent on change in the State leadership to create public panic and to cause inflationary effects of price rises. They also organized ASEAN countries to be their followers and instigated the nations to put pressure on Myanmar. But, it was unsuccessful. So, again they drove a wedge between UN agencies and the nation. They instigated UN agencies to leave Myanmar, and then put all the blame on the nation.

A: The US 2005 report stated that Myanmar was at the bottom of the list of the nations of human trafficking campaigns. It also accused the nation of failing to make effective efforts to combat narcotic drugs. The Ministry of Foreign Affairs rejected that statement. As a matter of fact, those were just exaggerations based on false news.

Phyo: Their last attack on our nation was that they instigated well-known Vaclav Havel and Desmond Tutu to submit a report of accusations against Myanmar to the UN Security Council.

A: In accordance with the political warfare, they regarded Myanmar that is opposed to alien domination, as their enemy nation. And they are isolating our nation from friendly nations and supporters. So, we Myanmar need to be vigilant against their wicked tactics.

Phyo: Yes, we will have to be aware of the dangers of their acts.

A: Now, the government, the people and the Tatmadaw are cooperating in building a modern developed nation to catch up with world nations in line with the motto "The strength of the nation lies within". And the seven-point Road Map is being implemented and the National Convention is being convened for democratic transition. But, internal and external destructive elements who cannot bear to see national progress are resorting to a broad variety of wicked means to interfere in the internal affairs of our nation. In this regard, what should national people do for perpetuation of our nation?

Phyo: In my opinion, we national people must uphold the national policy or Our Three Main National Causes namely "Non-disintegration of the Union, Non-disintegration of national solidarity, and perpetuation of sovereignty". We must try our best to be fully equipped with Union Spirit. And we must wipe out the dangers of internal and external saboteurs through the might of national unity, in case our nation will fall into the servitude again. Only then will our nation exist as long as the world does.

A: Thanks for your elaboration.

Phyo: No need to mention it. May I continue my conversation. I still remember it might be in the time of the AFPFL government. At the UN General Assembly, the permanent UN resident representative of Myanmar and also the ambassador presented Myanmar's opinion on the bloc of Soviet Union and the bloc of the US vying each other for the political and military gains. He used a Myanmar saying "Men of the same trade know each other's secrets" to compare it to the mounting tension between the two blocs. Then, the delegates from world nations applauded the simile. The destructive tactics of the neo-colonialists are no longer secret in the world. So, we need to be constantly vigilant against all their acts and movements.

A: Yes, it's high time we national people were constantly vigilant against destructive acts and movements.

Phyo: According to Loka Niti (Buddhistic instructions in ethics), a wise man shall stay far away from forthcoming dangers, and shall bravely tackle the dangers at hand. So, I would like to call for collaborated and harmonious cooperation of the government, the people and the Tatmadaw to adhere to the teaching of Loka Niti so as to see the acts and movements of neo-colonialists in overcoming the destructive acts of lackeys of neo-colonialists.

A: What a proper exhortation it is, Bagyi Phyo.

Deepcut Army barracks deaths probe criticized

LONDON, 6 Nov — A review has criticized how police investigated the deaths of four young soldiers at an Army barracks in Deepcut, Surrey.

Devon and Cornwall Police, called in to examine Surrey Police's own investigation into the deaths, said on Friday the probe had been poorly led and lacked focus. But the review cleared Surrey detectives of any suggestion of collusion with the Army in reaching their conclusion that no one else was responsible for the deaths of the soldiers. The recruits all died from gunshot wounds at the Princess Royal Barracks at Deepcut between 1995 and 2002. The families of the recruits do not believe the soldiers killed themselves and on Friday repeated their calls for a public inquiry. Devon and Cornwall Police said they had found "confusion of roles and responsibilities" in the Surrey probe, and said it had been difficult to identify who was in charge of the investigation.

It said the investigative focus of the inquiry may have also been reduced in the early stages of the probe because of a decision to widen the inquiry to include causes of suicide within the military. Surrey Police said many of the criticisms in the report were over procedural issues and that their investigation was "safe and sound". "The bottom line is that after an intensive two-year review of our re-investigation, Devon & Cornwall Constabulary has assured us that they did not find any new lines of inquiry or evidence that we have missed," said Surrey Police Deputy Chief Constable Brian Moore.

Dutch Customs make huge haul of fake sportswear

AMSTERDAM, 6 Nov — Customs officials at Rotterdam, Europe's biggest port, have seized more than one million items of counterfeit branded sportswear since June and will destroy or recycle the clothes and shoes, the government said on Friday.

Customs found the goods in about 80 containers from China that were destined for Russia and were mainly carrying sports clothes and shoes bearing counterfeited brand names. "This is the first time that Customs has exposed such a large case of imitation goods," the Finance Ministry said in a statement. "More than one million items of clothing will be destroyed or recycled."

"The inferior quality was the main thing that attracted attention. The clothes and shoes were also packed in an unconventional way in compact bundles." The ministry said the trademark holders had been informed. A ministry spokesman said copies of all the main sports brands were included in the haul, but declined to name specific firms. In the whole of 2004, the Dutch Customs seized about 8.6 million counterfeit goods, including about 217,000 items of clothing and accessories.

East Asia's economies to grow 6.2% in 2005, 2006

WASHINGTON, 5 Nov — The World Bank said Thursday that East Asia's economies should grow 6.2 per cent this year and next, compared with 7.2 per cent last year.

In its twice-yearly report on East Asia's economies, the Bank forecast that China's gross domestic product (GDP) would slow down to 8.7 per cent in 2006 from a likely 9.3 per cent this year.

Japan is showing signs a robust economic recovery, the Bank said. It estimated Japanese GDP growth at 2.3 per cent in 2005, up 1.5 percentage points from an April forecast.

According to the Bank, East Asia's exports growth had slowed to about 16-17 per cent by mid-2005 from 30 per cent in mid-2004. That and the soaring oil prices were the main reasons for slower Asian growth.

Meanwhile, the Bank said that oil prices would average 54 dollars per barrel in 2005 and 56 dollars per barrel in 2006.

The Bank said that East Asia's economies in 2005 countered a series of threats, including rising oil prices and interest rates, the high-tech slowdown, and the end of preferential export quotas for garments.

"Economies in the region have adjusted well to some fairly serious shocks since the end of 2003, not least of which was the doubling of global oil prices," said Jemal-ud-din Kassum, Vice-President, East Asia and Pacific Region of the World Bank. — MNA/Xinhua

US Govt defends nuke cooperation agreement with India

WASHINGTON, 5 Nov — The Bush Administration has said that it would not ask the US Congress to take legislative action that would end India's nuclear isolation unless New Delhi act to fulfil its commitments, particularly separating its civilian and military facilities.

"Our judgement is that it would not be wise or fair to ask the Congress to make such a consequential decision without evidence that the Indian Government was acting on what is arguably the most important of its commitments — the separation of its civilian and military facilities," Under Secretary of State for Political Affairs Nicolas Burns told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee on Wednesday.

The administration believed that it was better to "wait" before it asked Congress to consider any required legislative action "until India is further along in taking the necessary steps to fulfil our agreement", he said.

Under the Agreement, reached between President George W Bush and

Prime Minister Manmohan Singh on 18 July, the US would lift restrictions on the supply of reactors and fuel for India's civilian nuclear programme provided New Delhi fulfilled a series of obligations.

China to become world's No 1 tourist destination in 2017

NINGBO, 5 Nov — China will become No1 tourist destination country in the world in 2017, three years earlier than the forecast by the World Tourism Organization (WTO), according to a Chinese tourist official.

The WTO has predicted that China will receive 137 million overnight inbound tourists in 2020, thus becoming world's largest tourist destination.

"But the goal may be achieved in advance by three years, according to the calculation by the National Tourism Administration (NTA) based on the booming industry of tourism in China," said Zhang Jilin, deputy director of NTA's Planning, Development and Financial Department, at an investment fair for tourism held in Ningbo, a city in east China's Zhejiang Province, three days ago. Official statistics show that China received 41.76 million overseas tourists who spent at least one night on the Chinese Mainland last year, ranking fourth in the world. Tourism revenue hit 25.7 billion US dollars, ranking seventh in the world, according to a report about China's tourism investment issued by NTA in Ningbo. — MNA/Xinhua

Basque leader sentenced for insulting Spanish King

MADRID, 5 Nov — Spain's Supreme Court sentenced the leader of an outlawed Basque party to a year in prison on Friday for calling King Juan Carlos the "leader of the torturers".

The court found that the comment by Batasuna leader Arnaldo Otegi at a news conference in 2003 broke a law prohibiting serious insults against Spain's King.

Batasuna, accused by Spanish authorities of being the political wing of armed Basque separatist group ETA, was outlawed in 2003 for failing to condemn terrorism.

"We sentence Arnaldo Otegi, as criminally responsible for a crime of serious insults against the King ... to the penalty of one year in prison," the Supreme Court's written ruling said.

Otegi is unlikely to serve his sentence because the offence is legally his first conviction, and is below the two-year minimum sentence required for a first offender to go to prison under Spanish law.

Otegi served a three-year jail term from 1987 to 1990 for participation in an ETA kidnapping, but that has been expunged from his record because it was more than 10 years ago. — MNA/Reuters

LONDON, 5 Nov — Two men were charged on Friday under anti-terrorism laws with planning to carry out an attack in Britain, possibly on a hospital, police said.

Waseem Mughal and Younis Tsouli, both British and aged 22, were accused of conspiracy to murder and conspiracy to cause an explosion, along with other offences. A third man, Tariq Al-Daour, was also charged with offences relating to the possession of money and fundraising for terrorist purposes.

The men, who were arrested last month, will appear before magistrates in London later on Friday.

KUALA LUMPUR, 5 Nov— A total of 127 people have been killed in road accidents in Malaysia over the past eight days as of Thursday, slightly more than the figure recorded during the same festival season last year, police said.

The fatal road accidents mainly occurred when the drivers lost control of their vehicles and rushed them into trees, or lamp posts, according to statistics by the traffic police.

Four charged with stealing US military secrets

LOS ANGELES, 5 Nov— An engineer at a California defence contractor and three others who authorities say are "foreign intelligence officers" for China have been arrested and charged with stealing US military secrets, according to court documents.

Federal prosecutors declined to comment on Friday on the arrest a week earlier of the two married couples, who were taken into custody at Los Angeles International Airport as they prepared to board a late-night flight for China.

An FBI affidavit unsealed this week showed Chi Mak and his wife, Rebecca Laiwah Chiu, were charged in US District Court along with Chi's brother, Tai Wang Mak and Tai's wife, Fuk Heung Li, with theft of government property, conspiracy and transportation of stolen goods.— MNA/Reuters

Scientists slow light using crystal waveguide

LOS ANGELES, 5 Nov—Using a tiny silicon device, scientists with IBM successfully slowed down light to 1/300th of its ordinary speed.

This device, called crystal waveguide, may help develop future computers using light instead of electricity for communications, reported scientists in Thursday issue of the journal Nature. These computers will use only a fraction of the energy of current machines.

Light moves at 300,000 kilometres per second, but it can be slowed down in dispersive materials near resonances. In earlier experiments, scientists designed different machines to decelerate the light in laboratories.

These experiments, "cooling" the light using clouds of ultra cold atoms, needs huge equipments. IBM scientists said that their light-slowng device is the first to be manufactured with industrial material, and has the potential of being commercialized.

The so-called crystal waveguide, less than half-thousandth of a centimetre across, was made of silicon using conventional chip-manufacturing processes, according to the researchers.

Heating the photonic crystal waveguide with a two-milliwatt integrated micro-heater, scientists could also control the velocity of light efficiently in about 100 nanoseconds. A nanosecond is one billionth second. The light can be further slowed by applying an electric field to the waveguide, the Nature paper said.

This achievement may one day help realize the envision of optical computer, said Yurii Vlasov, physicist at IBM's Watson Research Centre and first author of the Nature paper.

In a computer system, orderly moving slower light pulses could carry data rapidly. Exploitation of slow light phenomena has potential for applications ranging from all-optical storage to all-optical switching, he explained.—MNA/Xinhua

5,000-year-old necklace unearthed in central China

ZHENGZHOU, 5 Nov— Archaeologists recently unearthed a dainty necklace at an archaeological site dating back 4,000 to 5,000 years in central China's Henan Province.

Unlike today's necklaces of gold or jewellery, or primitive ones of animal teeth, this one was made of white porcelain, said Jin Yindong, director of the cultural heritage bureau in the ancient city of Dengfeng.

The necklace was found among several other white porcelain wares and some implements made of stone and animal bones, at Nanwa archaeological site in Junzhao Village of Dengfeng, Jin said.

Never before had Chinese archaeologists found so many pieces of white porcelain at one site, said Professor Zhang Guoshuo, an archaeologist at Zhengzhou University in the provincial capital. "Probably there used to be a white porcelain workshop here."

Gold bars commemorating "Shenzhou-6" space journey sold

BEIJING, 5 Nov— More than 600 sets of gold bars commemorating the recent successful journey of China's Shenzhou-6 spacecraft have been sold, the National Museum of China announced on Thursday.

The National Museum on 24 October started to issue 1,000 sets of gold bars to commemorate the successful manned space tour of Shenzhou-6. One set includes two pieces of gold bullions, weighing 100 grammes each. The selling price of each set is 32,000 yuan (3,951 US dollars).

About 200 sets were sold out in Beijing, and another 300 sets were sold to local dealers in other parts of China, according to the National Museum.

Toyota reports record-high sales, lower profit

TOKYO, 5 Nov— Toyota Motor Corp logged new high sales in the first half of fiscal 2005, but its profit in the same period suffered the first drop in four years, according to its interim report released on Friday.

The world's second largest carmaker after General Motors Corp. of the United States sold 3.83 million vehicles for the six months through September 30, rising 266,000 vehicles from the same period of last year. On a consolidated basis, net revenues rose 10.3 per cent to a record 9.95 trillion yen (85.04 billion US dollars).

However, its operating profit dropped 6.6 per cent to 809.49 billion yen (6.92 billion US dollars). Pretax profit slipped 6.3 per cent to 856.00 billion yen (7.32 billion US dollars).

Toyota expected that the sales volume is expected to reach 8.03 million vehicles for the full year through next 31 March, up from 7.41 million the previous year.

Its group net profit for the current fiscal year is likely to top one trillion yen (8.55 billion US dollars) for the third year in a row, the company said.

Toyota's Executive Vice-President Mitsuo Kinoshita said, "We attained a high level of profit while expanding production capacity and developing advanced technology and future products in response to strong demand worldwide."

India to contribute technological expertise for new telescope

PUNE, 5 Nov— India will provide specific hardware and software expertise for a state-of-the-art telescope named "Square Kilometre Array" (SKA), that will be capable of reaching deeper into the space than any other now operational across the globe.

The giant telescope is to be constructed by an 18-country Consortium of Institutions, of which India is a member, at a cost of one billion US dollars in the next ten years.

"India has gained technological expertise by setting up the Giant Metrewave Radio Telescope (GMRT) at Khodada in Pune District. Now that expertise is proposed to be used for building cost-effective 12-metre dishes (antennas) for the SKA," CH Ishwara Chandra, senior scientist of National Centre for Radio Astrophysics, told PTI.

Around 100 scientists of the consortium are engaged in deliberations at a three-day conference here since October 31 to give shape to their plans to set up the SKA, which will have sensitivity 50 to 100 times more than any existing telescope in the world and a net collecting area of one million square metre.

The radio astronomers Thursday visited the GMRT observatory at Khodada Village, about 100 kilometres from Pune, before a small group called the International SKA Steering Committee meets here for two days from Friday.— MNA/PTI

Beijing lowers thermostats to avoid energy crunch

BEIJING, 5 Nov— China's capital will keep thermostats at a maximum 20 degrees Celsius (68 Fahrenheit) this winter to avoid another energy crunch, the Beijing News said on Friday.

Last winter, Beijing halted gas supplies to some industries and homes and asked hotels and office buildings to lower their heating dials after demand outstripped supply from Beijing's only source, PetroChina. The city has 300,000 tons of coal in store for this winter, but heating systems in most modern office and apartment blocks are gas powered.

"Indoor temperatures will be above 16 degrees Celsius but no higher than 20 degrees this winter," the newspaper quoted an official of the Beijing Heating Group as saying.— MNA/Reuters

Russian youngster wins first position at China Grand Prix

BELING, 5 Nov — Andrei Griazev of Russia won the first position of the men's single dance at the China ISU Grand Prix here on Friday.

The Russia youngster Griazev scored a total of 71 points to lead the 12 skaters, followed by Chinese Li Chengjiang with 70.25.

The third place went to the 2005 world champion Stephane Lambiel of Switzerland.

Griazev, who only managed 11th place in the 2005 World Championships, said he is satisfied with the performance.

"This is a good performance and I am looking forward to tomorrow's free skating," said Griazev.

Li, the silver medallist of the 2005 World Championships, also expressed his satisfaction on Friday's performance.

"I am satisfied with my performance today," said Li, who changed his music to Song of Love. "This is the beginning of the season. I want to change something to find what suit me more. I am glad to see I scored a satisfied the score today." Li, who placed fourth in the 2003 World Championships, said he wants to go forward in the upcoming 2006 Turin Olympics.

"A medal of Olympis is a long-time dream for me. I wish I could reach my dream in Turin," said 26-year-old.

Li ranked ninth at the 2002 Salt Lake Olympics.

Early on Friday, reigning World Champions Tatiana Navka/Roman Kostomarov of Russia danced to the lead after the original dance with 95.33 points, 5.29 more than second place Italian Federica Faiella/Massimo Scali.

Ferguson threatens to ban England action

LONDON, 5 Nov — Manchester United manager Alex Ferguson has threatened to pull his players out of the November friendly between England and Argentina in order to prevent meaningless injuries.

He told the club magazine: "I've never had problems with competitive games but I'll not risk my players in a friendly."

"I do not like friendly internationals. England have one this month and you can bet that Chelsea and Arsenal will be pulling their players out."

"And if I have the injury problems I have at the moment, I will be too."

Wayne Rooney, Rio Ferdinand,

Kieran Richardson and Alan Smith are all expected to be in Sven-Goran Eriksson's squad for the match in Geneva on Saturday 12 November.

It is the first of only four internationals England will play before they head to the World Cup in Germany next June and Eriksson sees it as a vital part of the preparation process.

Wenger will not be silent on Chelsea

LONDON, 5 Nov — Arsenal manager Arsene Wenger claimed on Friday he is sick of his war of words with Jose Mourinho, but will talk about Chelsea if he chooses to do it.

The pair have exchanged words all week in a row started on Monday by Mourinho, who said Wenger was obsessed with Chelsea and called him "a voyeur".

Now the Gunners chief was quoted by BBC as saying: "I will still give my opinion about Chelsea if I want to. Nothing will stop me doing that. We are not in a dictatorship."

"It was a personal attack (by Mourinho) and it was not involved with football."

Mourinho has claimed his comments about Wenger are not personal, but said he attacked the Frenchman after Chelsea compiled a 120-page dossier containing his comments about the Premiership champions.

Wenger said on Friday that he was "amazed" such a dossier existed.

"I'm quite amazed. We have no file about anybody," Wenger said.

Mourinho has offered to apologize if Wenger does the same but the Arsenal boss, who has threatened to take some kind of "action" against his counterpart, shows no sign of wanting to do that. "For me, the story is now over. I don't want to speak about it any more," Wenger said in the London Evening Standard on Friday.

"I will take action if I want to take action. I have not decided yet."

"If people say my team plays bad football or they don't like it, I can take that. When I speak sometimes, I can say words that somebody else does not like, but I have never meant to offend anybody.— MNA/Xinhua

Mourinho dismisses Robben row claim

LONDON, 5 Nov — Chelsea manager Jose Mourinho has dismissed rumours which alleged that he had a bust-up with Arjen Robben after the Dutch winger was substituted in the loss at Real Betis.

Robben, 21, was taken off with pain in his hamstring due to a problem which is thought to stem from his spine. "This situation is not easy and the boy is playing sometimes not feeling 100%."

"The reality is he is not playing well or feeling confident and this bad feeling in the hamstring coming from the spine is not good," Mourinho said.

"It's quite a strange situation, not a typical muscular injury."

"We feel it's not an injury that can become worse if he plays so sometimes we say 'okay let's go and try'." Although Chelsea's doctors have diagnosed the problem, even Mourinho admits that "solving it is quite difficult as there is no miracle". And the Portuguese stressed reports indicating the pair had fallen out after the 65th-minute substitution against Betis were wide of the mark.

"I understand what it looks like but he was injured again," he added.

"I would say to you if he was disappointed because I changed him, but he was disappointed because he was injured."

"He was making a sign from the pitch saying he couldn't carry on. He was running a little bit out of control and disappointed because of the injury."

Thai PM says no transmission of bird flu from human to human BANGKOK, 6 Nov— Thai Prime Minister Thaksin Shinawatra confirmed here on Saturday that there has been no transmission of bird flu virus from human to human.

The Prime Minister said during his weekly radio address that so far 12 areas in Thailand's six provinces, most of which are in the central region, have been found to be hit by avian influenza. Fowls which were suspected of having contracted the disease had been culled and public health officials are now watching closely to determine whether the areas remain infected with the disease, Thaksin added.

Meanwhile, a senior medical doctor said that 11 patients suspected of having contracted the deadly avian influenza in the country's northern province of Chiang Rai earlier are not infected with the virus after all.

The medical expert, Dr Surin Sumnapun, assistant public health official in Chiang Rai, also told a Press conference on Saturday that tests on the 11 patients suspected of having contracted the disease were carried out and that it was determined that none of them suffered from avian influenza.

INSIDE

Myanmar plays a strategic role in the regions of ASEAN, East Asia and the Pacific and BIMSTEC. If Myanmar is totally under the domination of a big nation and its puppets come into power in the country, that will threaten regional nations including neighbours that have already gained unity, and that also poses a grave danger to peace and stability of the region. The West bloc nations must have destructive tactics to topple the governments of the nations that refuse to follow them and that don't get along with the West bloc.
