Lashio Wholesale Centre has been established in the compound of Mansu Market in Lashio, Shan State (North) in the interest of local farmers, bringing about a marked increase in trade of goods including agricultural produce between the region and other ones.

U Sai Tun Tin, Chairman of Lashio Wholesale Centre, told the Myanma Alin, "We launched the centre on 18 September 2007 under the directive of Shan State Peace and Development Council. So, local farmers can sell their agricultural produce freely, and merchants cannot dictate the prices of goods of farmers here. Farmers benefit from the centre because they can sell their goods at face prices."

"We issue the daily prices of crops that pre-

Wipe the danger of narcotic drugs out

The danger of narcotic drugs is threatening human beings and their social environment. Drugs and stimulant pills produced based on chemicals are common in the world, causing various problems for drug addicts and their families and social environment.

Well aware of the danger of narcotics, every nation or region has placed great emphasis on taking drug elimination measures. All global countries are trying their utmost to reduce and eliminate narcotic drug production and trafficking assisting each other in the fight against transnational crimes in border regions.

Myanmar is carrying out drug elimination tasks tirelessly. It is providing every necessary assistance to farmers enabling them to establish poppy-substitute plantations of rubber, sugarcane, maize and orange and livestock farms and other businesses in the poppy-growing regions.

At the same time, poppy plantations in the border regions notorious for growing poppy have been destroyed in cooperation with the local people. During the poppy growing season, some poppy fields in Tachilek, Monghsat, Mongshu, Pekhon and Pinlaung townships were destroyed.

Myanmar is also taking effective measures for eliminating drug trafficking and production. As a result, 182 drug-related cases were exposed and action was taken against over 200 culprits in December, 2009.

Attaching great importance to drug elimination, the government is scaling up preventive measures against narcotic drugs and educative campaigns against the danger of narcotic drugs. So, public cooperation is necessary for eliminating the menace — a threat to humans and their social environment.

Iraq suicide blast kills at least 18

BAGHDAD, 26 Jan—A suicide car bomber killed at least 18 and injured dozens more Tuesday in a strike against a police crime lab in central Baghdad, a day after several hotels were hit by suicide attacks, officials said.

This week's bombings - all against prominent and heavily fortified targets - dealt yet another blow to the image of an Iraqi government struggling to answer for security lapses that have allowed bombers to carry out a number of massive attacks in the heart of the capital since August.

Among those confirmed killed were 12 police officers and six civilians who were visiting the office. Officials said more than half the wounded were police. Tuesday's attack comes one day after a series of bombings targeting hotels favored by Westerners.

The toll from those blasts continued to rise, with 41 people confirmed killed and up to 106 reported injured, police and health officials said Tuesday.—Internet

Putin orders free education for Haitians in Russia

Moscow, 26 Jan—All students from quake-stricken Haiti in Russia will receive state funding to continue their studies, Russian Prime Minister Vladimir Putin said on Monday.

"We have decided that all those who are studying on a paid basis will study at the expense of the Russian federal budget," Putin was quoted by Russian news agencies as saying during a visit to a university in the central Russian city of Cheboksary.

Putin said 75 students from the Caribbean nation are currently studying at Russian universities.

He also expressed his condolences over the disaster. "Certainly, we will try to help you like we did in the first days after the tragedy, by sending our rescuers and medical staff there."—Xinhua

Bulgarian soldiers injured during rocket attack in Kandahar

SOFIA, 26 Jan—A rocket attack on a Bulgarian military base in Afghanistan left a Bulgarian soldier severely injured and three others slightly wounded, sources with Bulgarian Ministry of Defence said on Monday.

Three of the wounded soldiers were receiving treatments at a nearby American hospital, the sources said.

Taliban militants opened fire late Sunday when Bulgarian Defence Minister Nickolay Mladenov and Commander of the Joint Operational Command Lieutenant-General Atanas Samandov visited the military base in the Kandahar Airport.

A rocket blasted only 200 metres from the officials but they were unharmed, the sources added.

Currently, 500 Bulgarian troops are stationed in Afghanistan. About 300 are based in the capital of Kabul and 200 in Kandahar.

In December 2009, Mladenov said an additional 100 Bulgarian troops will be sent to Afghanistan in 2010, and the Bulgarian contingent in Afghanistan will be consolidated in Kandahar.

Death toll rises to 36 in Baghdad bombings

BAGHDAD, 26 Jan — Up to 36 people were killed and 71 others injured by the three suicide car bombings targeted major Baghdad hotels on Monday afternoon, an Interior Ministry source said.

"The total number of people killed by the three blasts is 36 and some 71 others were injured," the source told Xinhua on condition of anonymity.

The three attacks were carried out by suicide bombers who drove their cars to the areas outside the three heavily-fortified major hotels in central Bagdad, the source said.

The first blast occurred at about 3:40 pm local time (1240 GMT) near the two of major Baghdad hotels of Sheraton and Meridian on the Abu Nawas street, the source said.

TV footage showed several of the concrete walls around the Meridian hotel had fallen on the ground by the powerful blast wave that caused severe damages to the hotel building which houses offices of many foreign media and companies.

Minutes later, another blast hit the area outside the Babylon hotel some 5 km to the south of the first blast and the third was outside the al-Hamraa hotel in Karrada district, the source added.

Baghdad has witnessed a number of high-profile bomb attacks in recent months, mainly targeted the government buildings, killing and wounding thousands of Iraqis.

US military and Iraqi officials have said that they expect more violence ahead of the country's landmark parliamentary elections slated for 7 March.—Xinhua

Cold snap kills 40 in eastern Europe

BUCHAREST, 26 Jan — More than 40 people have died this week as eastern and central Europe battles a Siberian cold snap that has cut power and roads, disrupted air travel and stranded whole villages, officials said on Monday.

Snow has blanketed swathes of western Turkey, Bulgaria and Romania, with lows of minus 35 degrees Celsius (minus 31 Fahrenheit), while Poland has again been gripped by a deep freeze that has killed more than 200 in the country since November.

An ice and snow front moved on Monday into Germany causing the cancellation of more than 200 flights out of Frankfurt airport—Europe's third biggest international air hub—according to the airport management company.

In Bulgaria, schools remained closed on Monday in many eastern towns while rescuers fought their way through four-metre-(13-foot)-high snowdrifts to bring bread and other necessities to cut-off villages.

Temperatures plummeted to minus 34.4 degrees Celsius in central Romania where roads were cut and dozens of trains cancelled.—Internet

Singapore to host forum on tax information exchange

SINGAPORE, 26 Jan—Singapore will host the Global Forum on Transparency and Exchange of Information for Tax Purposes from 30 Sept to 1 Oct this year, the country's Ministry of Finance said on Monday.

The Global Forum, comprising over 90 jurisdictions, is responsible for assessing and monitoring through peer reviews the effective implementation of the internationally agreed standard for exchange of information for tax purposes across jurisdictions.

This is the first meeting of the Global Forum after it was constituted as a self-standing body in September 2009 in Mexico.

The 2010 meeting of the Global Forum will review the preliminary outcomes of the peer review process and the progress made over the past one year.

Tharman Shanmugaratnam, Minister for Finance of Singapore said, "Singapore is pleased to host the Global Forum at an important time as it puts in place an objective peer review process aimed at monitoring the implementation of the internationally agreed standard for exchange of information."

Greece bets on five-year bond sale starting on Monday

ATHENS, 26 Jan—Greece put on auction on Monday five-year bonds at an estimated value of at least three billion euros in a critical test of its potential to borrow more from investors on international markets in a critical period for its economy.

In a challenging time for Athens, as foreign analysts express doubts whether the country will be able to tackle its enormous budget deficit in the future and meet its financing needs, the Greek Public Debt Management Agency opened the way for the sale.

While the spread between Greek and German 5-year bonds has widened over 380 points the past few days, Greece's government takes up a bold bet.

According to analysts in Athens this choice showcases the government's optimism that it can restore confidence in Greek economy soon.

They express caution though that the move could backfire if Greece will not be able to obtain more than three billion euros.

According to sources from the Finance Ministry the money raised within this week will finally exceed 5 billion euros. Representatives of Greek banks who are involved in the process express optimism too.

Greece needs 53.3 billion euros to finance its needs this year.

Apple posts record-high profit on strong iPhone sales

SAN FRANCISCO, 26 Jan— A doubling of iPhone sales helped Apple post record-high quarterly net profit on Monday of 3.38 billion dollars.

"We're thrilled to report our best quarter ever," Apple chief financial officer Peter Oppenheimer said in a conference call with financial analysts.

Apple said revenue in the first quarter rose to 15.68 billion dollars from 11.88 billion dollars in the corresponding quarter a year ago.

"If you annualise our quarterly revenue, it's surprising that Apple is now a 50-billion-dollar-plus company," said the iconic California firm's chief executive Steve Jobs.

"The new products we are planning to release this year are very strong, starting this week with a major new product that we're really excited about," Jobs said in a statement.

Apple has maintained trademark secrecy regarding a Wednesday event at which it is expected to unveil a tablet computer along the lines of a "iPhone on steroids," according to analysts.

Vietnam may face steel oversupply this year

HANOI, 26 Jan—Vietnamese Vice Minister of Industry and Trade Do Huu Hao said here on Monday that Vietnam may face steel oversupply this year.

Hao made the forecast at a meeting with the Vietnam Steel Corporation (VNSteel), saying that the pressure is from overproduction of domestic companies and increasing steel import.

A report from the Vietnamese Ministry of Industry and Trade forecast that Vietnamese steel companies will produce 6.8 million tons of steel in 2010, up 9.3 percent from last year. The Vietnam Steel Association said that Vietnam's steel demand is expected to stand at 5.8 million tons this year, up 10 percent year-on-year.

NZ airline offers economy-class bed seats

WELLINGTON, 26 Jan— Air New Zealand said on Tuesday it will set a new benchmark for longhaul flights by offering beds in economy class, but they come with a catch — passengers need to buy three seats to enjoy lie-down travel.

The airline's "Skycouch" will use three economy seats that unfold to create a space where children can play or people can relax and sleep, airline chief executive Rob Fyfe said. The Skycouch is aimed at couples and families, and will be the price of about two and a half seats. "For those who choose, the days of sitting in economy and yearning to lie down and sleep are gone," Fyfe told reporters. "The dream is now a reality, one that you can even share with a traveling companion — just keep your clothes on thanks."

Developed in-house by Air New Zealand designers and engineers, Fyfe said the Skycouch represents the first real improvement in comfort for economy travelers in more than 20 years and would help the airline set a new benchmark for international travel.—Internet

Montreal conference endorses roadmap for Haiti recovery

MONTREAL, 26 Jan— Recognizing the huge challenges in rebuilding the quake-ravaged Haiti, the international community on Monday endorsed a roadmap to gradually restore order in the Caribbean nation.

Major donors and regional and multilateral partners agreed to restore the operational capacity of the government of Haiti and urgently conduct post-disaster and reconstruction-focused needs assessments.

They agreed that another technical conference would be held in March at the headquarters of the United Nations in New York to coordinate the aid and relief efforts.

Recognizing the continued leadership and sovereignty of the government of Haiti, the participants held that an initial 10-year commitment was essential in concerted efforts to rebuild Haiti's capacity.

"Sustainable development, including environmental sustainability, climate resilience, disaster risk reduction and emergency preparedness, will be a cornerstone of our joint approach," they said in a statement.

Up until 25 bodies found: Ethiopian airlines

ADDIS ABABA, 26 Jan— While searching for survivors continues some 25 bodies have been recovered after an Ethiopian Airlines plane crashed off the coast of Lebanon on Monday, the Ethiopian Airlines said in a statement.

A team of experts from Ethiopian has arrived in Beirut. The Boeing 737-800, carrying 82 passengers and eight crew, crashed into the Mediterranean some four minutes after taking off from the Beirut-Rafic Hariri International Airport in the capital.

According to Ethiopian Airlines, Flight ET-409 was carrying 82 passengers and eight Ethiopian crew. Passengers included 23 Ethiopians, 51 Lebanese nationals, two British, one Turkish, one Frenchman, one Russian, one Canadian, one Syrian and an Iraqi national.

Army and naval rescue units were searching for survivors alongside a UN Maritime Task Force, it said. Rescuers found 25 bodies of Lebanese and Ethiopians. Six of them are Ethiopians. The Ethiopian team is closely working with all concerned offices to provide support to the family and friends of victims affected by the unfortunate accident.

A team of senior government officials led by Foreign Minister Seyoum Mesfin will be heading to the accident scene on Tuesday, according to a report filed by the Ethiopian Radio and Television Agency.

According to Ethiopian public relation office, the pilot has served for more than 20 years.

Government officials including Prime Minister Meles Zenawi have expressed their deep sorrow over the sudden accident.—Xinhua

Rival Fatah, Hamas leaders argue over end of PLC mandate

GAZA, 26 Jan—Leaders of Gaza Strip-ruling Hamas movement and Palestinian President Mahmoud Abbas' Fatah party on Monday argued over the end of the legal mandate of the Hamas-dominated Palestinian Legislative Council (PLC), or the parliament of the Palestinian National Authority (PNA).

According to the Palestinian basic law, the four-year term for the PLC ends on Monday, four years after the Islamic movement won the legislative elections held in the Palestinian territories in January 2006, ousting Fatah party which dominated the parliament for 10 years.

Fatah party leaders say that from now and further, the legislative council, is not legal anymore and what is needed is to immediately head to the ballots to elect new parliament, while Hamas leaders say that the current parliament it dominates "is legal" until the sworn-in of the new elected parliament members.

Mortar attack kills several at AU Mogadishu base

MOGADISHU, 26 Jan—A mortar shell smashed into an African Union peacekeeping mission base in Mogadishu on Monday, killing several people, including a soldier, officials on the base said.

An 82-mm mortar round struck a secondary entrance to the AMISOM's main Mogadishu base, ripping through an area where dozens of Somali civilians queue up every day to receive treatment from the mission's doctors, an official said on condition of anonymity.

According to an official with AMISOM's Ugandan contingent, one Ugandan soldier was killed in the attack.

The force's spokesman, Ba-Hoku Barigye, confirmed the incident but could not give an accurate death toll.

"An explosion took place at one of the base's entrances, it appears several Somalis were killed," he said.

They launched a fierce military offensive in May 2009 aimed at toppling internationally-backed President Sharif Sheikh Ahmed, whose embattled administration has owed its survival largely to the protection of AMISOM's 5,300 peacekeepers.

Iraq's 'Chemical Ali' hanged for 1988 gas attack

BAGHDAD, 26 Jan— Even in Saddam Hussein's ruthless regime, "Chemical Ali" stood apart, notable for his role in gassing 5,000 people in a Kurdish village — the deadliest chemical weapons attack ever against civilians. Ali Hassan al-Majid was hanged on Monday, leaving a notorious legacy that stamped Saddam's regime as capable of unimaginable cruelty and brought unsettling questions about Iraq's stockpiles of poison gas and whether it could unleash them again.

The poison gas clouds that struck the village of Halabja began what would become an about-face by Washington — which had supported Saddam during the eight-year war against Iran's new Islamic state in the 1980s, but soon became his arch-foe and protector of the Kurds in their northern enclave.

Unusual item forces evacuation of US Southwest Airlines plane

CHICAGO, 26 Jan—Passengers were removed from a US Southwest Airlines flight at Midway Airport in Chicago on Monday afternoon after an "unusual item" was found on board, airport officials said.

The unidentified item was spotted as Flight 2543, bound for Detroit, was pulling away from the gate around 1:15 pm local time, and the plane was searched, according to the US Transportation Security Administration (TSA). "The pilot returned the plane to the gate where all passengers and carry-on items were rescreened, with negative findings," the TSA said in a Press release.—Xinhua

Egyptian workers in Luxor, Egypt, restore the Alley of Sphinxes, known as the 'Kebash Road', which was originally lined with 1,200 sphinxes and was built by Amenhotep III in the 12th century BC. Luxor is set to become the world's largest open-air museum as a multi-million dollar project to restore the Alley of Sphinxes begins in the south of Egypt, said the governor of Luxor.

'Sphinx Alley' gives Egypt large open-air museum

Luxor is set to become one of the world's largest open-air museums when a multimillion dollar project to restore the "Sphinx Alley" is complete in March, the governor of Luxor, Samir Farag, said.

The project to restore the two-mile (three-kilometre) alley that links the grand temples of Luxor and Karnak on the east bank of the River Nile in Luxor has cost $45 million.

Sphinx Alley was originally built with 1,200 statues, with one side lined up with ram-headed sphinxes and the other with regular sphinxes with human heads.

The alley was built by Amenhotep III in the 12th century BC. Over the years, the alley was buried under.

Rare dinosaur skeleton turned over to researchers

A rare and nearly complete dinosaur skeleton stolen from private property in Montana and stored in an evidence locker for more than two years has been turned over to researchers.

Scientists at the Black Hills Institute of Geological Research in South Dakota say the 70-million-year-old turkey-sized predator could be a new species of raptor.

"It's a mean and nasty little dinosaur," said Peter Larson, president of the institute. "Even though it's not very big, you wouldn't want to meet it in a dark alleyway."

Researchers say it's unusual to find the skeleton of a meat-eating dinosaur, and especially one that's so small.

"So many things can happen to a small-bodied animal," Larson said.

The commercial fossil hunter who dug up the dinosaur removed it without the knowledge or permission of the property owners. Nathan Murphy was convicted last year in state court of felony theft for taking the raptor fossil from a ranch in northern Montana and sentenced to 60 days in jail. In a separate federal case last year, Murphy was sentenced to four months in a halfway house and three years probation after pleading guilty to stealing fossils on federal land, and was ordered to pay $17,325.

Man says he will use leopard to save home

A Russian man said he will employ the assistance of his pet leopard in defending his Moscow home from demolition.

Sergie Bobyshev, of the Rechnik settlement, a rural area of the Russian capital, said the residents of the area were granted the land during the era of Soviet rule, RIA Novosti reported.

"We will fight to the bitter end," Bobyshev said, adding that his "very affectionate pet cat" will help him keep officials and construction workers away.

An investigation in 2006 spurred by an environmental watchdog group, Rosprirodnadzor, looked into 400 private homes built on land belonging to a federal canal agency.

Most of the buildings were legalized, but court decisions have been handed down permitting demolition of the others, the news service said. Bobyshev and the owners of several dozen of the residences on the protected land said they simply had been forgotten, RIA Novosti said.

Wholesale Centre has been exporting corn since September 2009. Up to the mid-January 2010, we have exported 40,260 tons of corn. Northern Shan State has exported 118,097 tons of corn, so far. In 2008-2009 financial year alone, we exported 34,261 tons of corn, so this year's ex-

Indeed, Lashio Wholesale Centre is still in its infancy, but it has been able to generate mutual benefits between it and farmers, because farmers sell their goods at the centre, instead of in brokerage houses.

It is, therefore, safe to say that Lashio Wholesale Centre contributes towards one of the four social objectives the government has been implementing: Proper evolution of the market-oriented economic system.

May peace prevail everywhere

Mi Pyi Chit

Surely, the majority of the viewers get agitated, while watching news stories on instability and conflicts that are rife in many countries screened by TV stations around the world. They include suicide bomb attacks in Iraq, tensions between Palestine and Israel, incidents along Afghanistan and Pakistan border areas, internal armed revolts in some African countries, and protests associated with political protests and bomb attacks in a neighbouring country.

In like manner, Myanmar has lost lives of countless number of servicemen, armed insurgents and civilians, stemming from the internal armed revolts of multicoloured armed groups. Actually, they are evil consequences of instability.

Such undesirable effects are sparked by individuals' emotional feelings, grudges, hatred, hostility, disputes, highly running passion, jealousy, impatience, and lack of loving-kindness, compassion and cardinal virtues. In other words, the avoidable incidents are due to their failure to suppress their feelings with farsightedness and mindfulness.

In order to possess good behaviours, everyone needs good relations with their parents, teachers, and close friends. Parents and teachers should feel obliged to keep their children and students grounded in speech, character, habit and concept. In my opinion, a child may become rough in speech if he is brought up by a rude mother; heartless in action, if he is brought up by a hard-hearted father; and pessimistic in thought, if he is taught by a teacher who does not look on the bright side.

Personally, verbal action is more important in that regard. Any words a person speaks should not have adverse effects on others. I want all people to speak beneficial, but harmless words to others. Maybe a person had misbehaviours in his youth due to innocence. Therefore, such people have to mend their ways according to conditions when they come of age. It is not very difficult for a person to keep his tempers and give up misconduct. Any words not intended to harm others, but that can cause doubts should not be spoken in order to avoid adverse effects for the sake of himself and his society.

Being a Buddhist is very fruitful. In Buddhism, there are a large number of religious verses, maxims, and homilies. The 38 Ways to Blessings, for instance, should be exercised, irrespective of religious faith, race and time. The practice of one of the 38 ways: to stay away from the foolish can bring peace to those who follow it and their societies.

A nation will be peaceful without any conflicts if warm relations, loving-kindness and mutual understanding are common between the people. I wish to see flourishing of Ways to Blessings, Dhamma, cardinal virtues, and deterrent principles of shame and fear to do evil deeds throughout the year 2010.

To associate with the wise can bring about considerable benefits. One may enjoy peace of mind and pervasive peace straight from the heart by paying respects to whom respect is due.

Putto Vada Sutta features duties of people inclusive of duties of parents, duties of children, duties of teachers, duties of students, duties of masters, duties of servants, duties of monks, and duties of lay disciples. People may gain worldly benefits by following the duties concerned.

There are a lot of good advantages of being Myanmar citizens. A person and his society may enjoy peaceful situations by exercising Myanmar's way of life. Myanmar is surrounded by rows of mountain ranges that serve as natural barriers to its enemies and natural disasters. The geographical features form a huge quantity of rivers and creeks, including long rivers such as Ayeyawady, Chindwin, Sittoung and Thanlwin that facilitate the nation's transport and agricultural farming. Many dams have been constructed and many other are being constructed by damming them to generate hydropower. Myanmar has three seasons, a variety of climate patterns in various regions, and snow-capped mountains. Diverse species of flowers and crops thrive in the nation. Myanmar hardly faces violent natural disasters. It is said that there is a link between the attitude of the people and the natural conditions of their country. The nation is also blessed with a very long coast.

Now, not only adults but also the youth have easy access to the opportunities of learning the Teachings of the Buddha. The nation has countless number of pagodas, stupas, temples, monasteries, and meditation centres. Fraternal and family-like relations between strangers are traditions of Myanmar.

The people are familiar to Dhamma (the Teachings of the Buddha) due to the good opportunities to learn them with convenience. No one can deny that practising Dhamma can significantly curb lawlessness and unjust actions, and to live in Myanmar is a golden opportunity.

In Myanmar, the regions have their social, economic and health problems, but the number of the issues is very low, if compared with those in other countries. Myanmar is therefore a nation in which it is worth to live.

Myanmar is a land of the Ways to Blessings, peaceful coexistence of various religions, culture, hospitality, and teachings of elderly persons. So, I would say that Myanmar is the sole paradise of insight peace, impressive geographical features, good sunshine, fertile soil, and abundant clean water and fresh air.

A nation will be peaceful without any conflicts if warm relations, loving-kindness and mutual understanding are common between the people. I wish to see flourishing of Ways to Blessings, Dhamma, cardinal virtues, and deterrent principles of shame and fear to do evil deeds throughout the year 2010.

May the entire people have positive attitude, good thoughts, good speeches and good concepts, gain insight from the Dhamma, enjoy benefits in both mundane and supramundane affairs, reconstruct the motherland taking lessons from international incidents, safeguard own race and Sasana, help and deal with each other in accordance with the Ways to Blessings, encourage Dhamma and ward off unjust actions, and try with correct concept and conviction, attentiveness and farsightedness to achieve the goal of democracy.

Two blasts rock Kyaukkyi, no one hurt

NAY PYI TAW, 26 Jan – Two separate explosions occurred in Kyaukkyi, Bago Division, early this morning. One occurred in front of a building in Theindan Ward at about 4 am, and the other in front of a house in Myitta Ward at about 4.05 am. There were no casualties as there were hardly people around there at that time but the fences and some windows of the buildings were slightly damaged.

It was learnt that the perpetrations were the acts of a group of KNU Brigade-3. In a similar incident in which 7 people were dead and 11 others injured that occurred in Ppun, Kayin State 16 December 2009 was also the act of a group under KNU Brigade-5.

Such incidents have proved that KNU insurgents are detonating bombs, blowing up power lines, planting mines in farms and gardens and extorting money, rice and rations from villages and towns, the majority of whose populations are Kayin nationals, although they are shouting that they are serving the interest of Kayin nationals and Kayin State. It is learnt that as the terrorist insurgents in disguise are penetrating regions where peace and stability prevail, the local people are cooperating with the authorities in exposing them.—MNA

NASA's telescope spies near-Earth asteroid

WASHINGTON, 26 Jan—NASA's Wide-field Infrared Survey Explorer, or WISE, has spotted its first never-before-seen near-Earth asteroid, the first of hundreds it is expected to find during its mission to map the whole sky in infrared light.

But there is no danger of the newly discovered asteroid hitting Earth, NASA said on Monday in a statement.

The near-Earth object, designated 2010 AB78, was discovered by WISE on 12 Jan. The mission's sophisticated software picked out the moving object against a background of stationary stars.

As WISE circled Earth, scanning the sky above, it observed the asteroid several times during a period of one-and-a-half days before the object moved beyond its view. Researchers then used the University of Hawaii's 2.2-metre (88-inches) visible-light telescope near the summit of Mauna Kea to follow up and confirm the discovery.

The asteroid is currently about 158 million km from Earth. It is estimated to be roughly 1 km in diameters and circles the sun in an elliptical orbit tilted to the plane of our solar system.

The object comes as close to the sun as Earth, but because of its tilted orbit, it will not pass very close to Earth for many centuries. This asteroid does not pose any foreseeable impact threat to Earth, but scientists will continue to monitor it.

Electricity price to rise in Phnom Penh

PHNOM PENH, 26 Jan—Customers of Electricity du Cambodge (EDC) in Phnom Penh and five other provinces would pay a new value-added tax (VAT) on electricity consumed beginning 1 March, under a new plan proposed by the Ministry of Industry, Mines and Energy on Monday, local mediareported on Tuesday.

Ith Praing, a secretary of state at the ministry, was quoted by the Phnom Penh Post as saying that current electricity prices, which have been in effect since 2006, do not reflect the current oil price on the world market and other input costs for generating power, and thus have been draining revenue from EDC.

According to the plan, for houses in Phnom Penh and Kandal province that use less than 50 kilowatt-hours per month, electricity will be charged at 610 riel, or about 0.15 US dollar, per kilowatt-hour, up 56 percent from the current price of 390 riel.

Record number of young Americans jobless

CHICAGO, 26 Jan—The US economic recession has taken a particularly heavy toll on young Americans, with a record one out five black men aged 20 to 24 neither working nor in school, according to research released on Tuesday.

Teenagers have found it significantly harder to get a job since the recession began in late 2007, with black youths and young people from low-income families faring the worst, wrote Andrew Sum of Northeastern University in Boston, a employment researcher commissioned by the Chicago Urban League and the Alternative Schools Network.

“Low-income and minority youth, who depended on part-time jobs as a significant stepping stone to future employment, have been forced out of the job market and economically marginalized,” Herman Brewer of the Chicago Urban League said in a statement.

Overall, 26 percent of American teenagers aged 16 to 19 had jobs in late 2009, said the report, which was based on US Census Bureau data. That figure is a record low since statistics began to be kept in 1948, the researchers said.—INTERNET

Study maps birds' auditory brain pathway

DURHAM, 26 Jan—Duke University Medical Centre scientists say they've identified an auditory feedback pathway in the songbird brain that is needed to learn a song.

Professor Richard Mooney, senior author of the study, said the research lays the foundation for improving human speech, for example, in people whose auditory nerves are damaged and who must learn to speak without the benefit of hearing their own voices.

“This work is the first study to identify an auditory feedback pathway in the brain that is harnessed for learned vocal control,” Mooney said, noting the research team also devised a way to alter the activity of the neurons to prove they interact with the motor networks that control singing.—INTERNET

S Korea betters ties with India, looks to tap into emerging economy

SEOUL, 26 Jan—South Korean President Lee Myung-bak is about to wrap up his four-day state visit to India, where he sought to strengthen bilateral ties with the emerging regional powerhouse as part of his new Asia-oriented diplomatic vision.

Lee's moves to expand ties with India also come at a time when the country is eyeing to tap into India's ever-expanding consumer market following the comprehensive economic partnership agreement (CEPA) with India, a type of free trade pact that went into effect at the start of the year.

Lee said his first overseas trip this year to India marks a cornerstone in what he calls “new Asia diplomacy,” the country's new diplomatic vision focusing on Asian neighbors, beyond the global powers with which the small peninsula country had traditionally strived to stay on good terms.—Xinhua

NEW YORK, 26 Jan—Officials at New York's Metropolitan Museum of Art said a hole torn in a Picasso painting by a stumbling patron can be fully repaired.

The officials said “The Actor,” a painting created by Pablo Picasso in 1904-1905, sustained a 6-inches tear in the bottom of its canvas when an unidentified woman attending an adult education class at the museum tripped and fell into the work, The New York Daily News reported on Monday.

“Fortunately, the damage did not occur in a focal point of the composition,” the museum said in a statement.

LG Electronics targets to double share in North American air conditioner market

SEOUL, 26 Jan—South Korea's LG Electronics, the largest air conditioner manufacturer in the world, said Tuesday it is targeting a twofold jump in its commercial air conditioner market share in North America.

In a related move, LG participated in the 2010 AHR Expo on Monday in Orlando, Florida to unveil 25 new commercial air conditioner models and Energy Star-labeled residential models, the company said.

LG also said it has been expanding its infrastructure for commercial air conditioners (CAC) in the North American market, as it has opened its second LG CAC Training Academy last December with plans to build two more by the end of the year.

The AHR Expo is the world's largest heating, ventilation, air conditioning, and refrigerating exposition, where more than 1,800 exhibiting companies from over 120 companies showcase their new product lines.

The Energy-Star label, awarded by the US Department of Energy and the Environmental Protection Agency, is only given to products that prove it is significantly more energy-efficient than regular products.

NYC may lay off 19,000 workers if state cuts aid

NEW YORK, 26 Jan — New York City will have to lay off more than 10,000 public workers, in addition to 8,500 teachers, if the state legislature approves the $1.3 billion of cuts the governor proposed in his deficit-closing budget, Mayor Michael Bloomberg said on Monday.

The mayor, in a speech to the legislature, estimated 3,150 police officers would be cut, reducing the force's "operational strength" to 1985 levels.

About 1,050 firefighters would have to be let go, along with 900 correctional officers, and the city would have to cut its daily inmate population by 1,900, he said. The number of at-risk children that service workers monitor would fall to 2,700 from 9,000, Bloomberg said.

The mayor, an independent, said Governor David Paterson's budget "utterly fails the test of fairness." He told lawmakers: "You can't lose control of the streets in terms of safety or cleanliness. You can't lose control of the streets in terms of an ambulance or a firefighter showing up."

Both the economies of New York City and the state depend on Wall Street for much of their tax revenues, and big banks' brush with near-death last year has severely dented public budgets.—Internet

Green power to help ancient rice terraces

MANILA, 26 Jan — A group of international power companies has donated a $1 million hydroelectric project to help save legendary rice terraces in the Philippines.

Deterioration of the massive rice terraces — dubbed the "stairway to heaven" and the "eighth wonder of the world" — prompted UNESCO in 2001 to include them on its list of World Heritage Sites in Danger. They were created mostly by hand more than 2,000 years ago by the indigenous people of the northern province of Ifugao.

The hydro facility, located on the Ambangal River downstream of the terraces, will generate about 1,450 megawatts annually, providing 18 percent of the electricity needs for Ifugao.

With a development phase of four years, in collaboration with the Philippines Department of Energy and the Provincial Government of Ifugao, the facility was built and donated by Japan's Tokyo Electric Power Co on behalf of the e8, an international non-profit organization of 10 leading power utilities from G8 countries.

"It is our goal not only to pursue sustainable energy development but to raise awareness of the cultural heritage of one nation. The Ifugao Rice Terraces is a cultural site and must be protected," e8 Executive Director Johane Meagher said in a statement on Friday.

Cyprus police bust large antiquities theft ring

NICOSIA, 26 Jan — Authorities have busted a smuggling ring in Cyprus and recovered dozens of ancient artifacts it planned to sell for euro11 million (15.5 million), including a miniature gold coffin, silver coins and terracotta urns, police said Monday.

In what is believed to be the largest antiquities theft case of its kind in the Mediterranean island's history, police seized the artifacts dating back thousands of years from homes, storage sheds and vehicles where they were being hidden.

The artifacts include copper and silver coins, terracotta urns and clay and limestone figurines believed to date from the Copper Age to around 400 BC, Cyprus Antiquities Curator Maria Hadjicosti told The Associated Press. Ten Cypriots were arrested during the raids over the weekend, and authorities were searching for another five suspects, including a Syrian man, police spokesman Michalis Katsounotos said. The suspects face charges of illegally possessing and trading in antiquities.

Police said the smugglers had planned to sell the artifacts in Cyprus, but would not identify the buyer. Authorities also said they were investigating where the artifacts had been obtained.—Internet

Many unaware they have hepatitis B or C

WASHINGTON, 26 Jan—As many as 5.3 million people in the United States have hepatitis B or C but most are unaware until they develop liver cancer or liver disease, researchers say.

An Institute of Medicine study found hepatitis is not widely recognized as a serious public health problem, and as a result, viral hepatitis prevention, control and surveillance programmes have inad-equated resources.

The report concludes the current approach to prevention and control of chronic hepatitis B and hepatitis C is not working.

The Institute of Medicine recommends increased knowledge and awareness about chronic viral hepatitis among healthcare providers, social service providers and the public; improved surveillance for hepatitis B and hepatitis C; and better integration of viral hepatitis services.

The Institute of Medicine is calling for a major public health push to decrease the stigma of the hepatitis viruses, which are to blame for nearly half the liver transplants performed every year in the United States.

At present, the only hepatitis treatment approved by the US Food and Drug Administration is a cocktail of interferon and ribavirin, which must be administered in a 48-week course and is effective in less than half of patients.

Gym could hurt eardrums

EDMONTON, 26 Jan — A workout at the gym may be a strain on the ears, a Canadian researcher warns.

Bill Hodgetts of the University of Alberta says his research suggests almost half of the people working out in noisy gym-type environments and listening to an iPod turn up the volume to levels that may put them at risk for hearing loss — likely due to the presence of background noise. Hodgetts says it is not the listening level alone that's risky — it's how long a person listens at that level. In the study, almost half of the participants listened for a length of time during exercise that puts them at risk for hearing loss.

However, Hodgetts advises an easy way to avoid raising the volume to harmful levels may be getting better earphones that "seal" the ear canal so background noise is reduced. The study is published in the International Journal of Audiology.

Menus list calories, less calories chosen

SEATTLE, 26 Jan — Parents who have access to fast-food menus with calorie information tend to choose lower calorie selections for their children, US researchers say.

Study leader Dr Pooja S Tandon of Seattle Children's Research Institute said the study involved 99 parents of children ages 3-6, who sometimes eat in fast-food restaurants with their children. They were presented with sample McDonald's restaurant menus which included current prices and pictures of items, and asked what they would select for themselves and also for their children as a typical meal.

Half of the parents were given menus that also clearly showed calorie information for each item. Choices included most of the items sold at McDonald's, including a variety of burgers, sandwiches, salads, dressings, side items, beverages, desserts and "Happy Meals."

The study, published in the journal Pediatrics, found parents who were given the calorie information chose 102 fewer calories on average — a calorie reduction of approximately 20 percent — for their children, compared with the group who did not have access to calorie information on their menus.

"Even modest calorie adjustments on a regular basis can avert weight gain and lead to better health over time," Tandon said in a statement. "Just an extra 100 calories per day may equate to about 10 pounds of weight gain per year."

Low-carbo diet better than low-fat to lower blood pressure

BEIJING, 26 Jan — A low-carbohydrate diet may be better than a low-fat diet plus the weight-loss drug orlistat for its effect on helping lower blood pressure, a new study in Monday's Archives of Internal Medicine said.

Researchers in US picked up 146 overweight or obese adults who were randomly assigned to a low-carbohydrate diet or orlistat with a low-fat diet.

The average age of the study participants was 52 and the average body-mass index was 39 (30 and over is considered obese). Orlistat was marketed as Xenical, a prescription medication, and Alli, available over the counter.

The low-carb diet began with a carbohydrate intake of less than 20 grams of carbohydrates a day. The group taking orlistat received a 120-milligram dose of the drug three times daily and got less than 30 percent of their calories from fat.

Over 48 weeks, the low-carbohydrate group lost 9.5 percent of their body weight, while the orlistat group lost 8.5 percent.

Insulin and glucose markers improved only in the low-carb group, and there was a significant drop in blood pressure in the low-carb group compared to the orlistat group. Similar reductions were seen for diastolic blood pressure.

"Weight loss was similar but substantial in both groups we studied, but blood pressure improved more in the low-carb dieters," said study author Dr William Yancy Jr, an associate professor of medicine at Duke University Medical Centre and a staff physician at the Department of Veterans Affairs Medical Centre in Durham, NC.

"There are options out there. Pick a diet you think you could stick to better, and work with your physician to help you target the right intervention for you," he advised.

Yancy said the blood pressure and cholesterol drops might have been even more impressive if people had stayed on their medications, but as they lost weight and normalized these readings, the doctors took them off blood-pressure and cholesterol drugs.

Obesity is a significant inducement to many illnesses, including heart disease, stroke, diabetes and many cancers.

Prostate therapy differs between hospitals

SAN DIEGO, 26 Jan — What type of prostate cancer treatment a man receives depends on whether he is treated at county or private hospitals, US researchers say. The study, posted online ahead of print in the journal Cancer, found patients treated in county hospitals are more likely to undergo surgery while patients treated in private facilities tend to receive radiation or hormone therapy.

Principal investigator Dr J Kellogg Parsons of the Moores Cancer Centre at the University of California, San Diego and colleagues say surgery, radiation and hormone therapy are the most common treatments for localized prostate cancer. Each is associated with different risks and benefits, but there is no consensus as which is the most effective form of treatment. —Internet

1.3 billion smoke worldwide

ATLANTA, 26 Jan — Tobacco has at least 1.3 billion users and kills more than 14,500 people worldwide every day, while debilitating and sickening many more, US researchers say.

Thomas Glynn, director of the American Cancer Society Cancer Science and Trends, says the organization's report points out the globalization of tobacco began more than 500 years ago but public health has responded only in the past 50 years to death, disease and economic disruption caused by tobacco use.

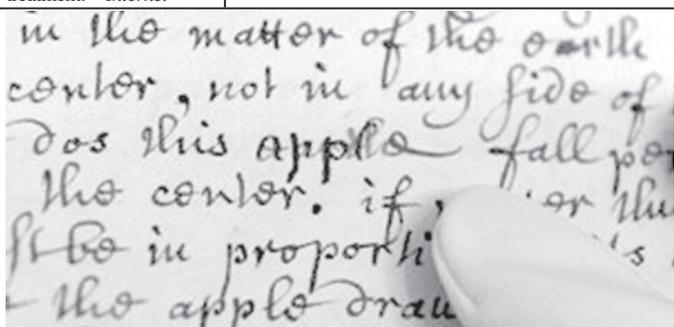

The World Bank estimates more than 180 million lives could be saved in the first half of this century if the prevalence of current tobacco users were cut in half by 2020. The report, published in CA: A Cancer Journal for Clinicians, says raising tobacco taxes is considered the most effective intervention to reduce tobacco use.

"Tobacco is the most unregulated consumer product on the market today, exempt from important basic consumer protections, such as ingredient disclosure, product testing, accurate labeling, and restrictions on marketing to children," the report says.

Among the recommendations of the report are:

- Physicians and healthcare providers should discontinue using tobacco.
- Decrease targeting of women, the prevalence of smoking among women worldwide is expected to be 20 percent by 2025, compared with 12 percent today.
- Decrease duty-free and reduced-cost sales of tobacco.
- Decrease exposure to secondhand smoke.
- Decrease subsidies for tobacco production.

Rooney ready to stay at United

MANCHESTER, 26 Jan—Manchester United's Wayne Rooney said Monday that while interest from other clubs was flattering, he had no plans to leave Old Trafford.

The England striker has been in superb form this season, scoring 19 goals in the Premier League alone - including all four in United's 4-0 win over Hull on Saturday that took the defending champions back to the top of the table.

Rooney's goals have been a huge boon to United in the absence of Portugal winger Cristiano Ronaldo, who left Old Trafford before the season started for Spanish giants Real Madrid in an 80 million pounds move.—Internet

Goalkeeper Enyeama takes 10-man Nigeria into semis

LUBANGO, 26 Jan—Nigeria goalkeeper Victor Enyeama turned Africa Cup of Nations matchwinner by converting the decisive kick in a 5-4 penalty shootout win over Zambia on Monday after a goalless quarter-final.

John Obi Mikel, Obafemi Martins, Obinna Nsofor and Osaze Odemwingie also scored from the spot to give the 'Super Eagles' a 100 percent success rate from five kicks.

Thomas Nyirenda was the unconsolable Zambian at the end after Enyeama saved his kick - the seventh of the shootout - and Nigeria scraped through despite having Onyekachi Apam sent off during extra time.

The ultra-negative last quarter-final of the biennial African football showcase was a massive disappointment after victories for Ghana, Algeria and Egypt in thrillers.

Defending champions Egypt made the penultimate stage a few hours before Nigeria thanks to a 3-1 extra-time triumph over Cameroon with 170-cap midfielder Ahmed Hassan scoring twice for his side and once for his opponents.

Tennis doubles greats honoured in Australia

MELBOURNE, 26 Jan—One of the world's best doubles partnerships was honoured Tuesday as Mark Woodforde and Todd Woodbridge were inducted into the Tennis Australia Hall of Fame.

The pair, who won 61 doubles titles, including a record six Wimbledon, two Australian Opens, two US Opens and a French Open, said the recognition matched their Grand Slam achievements.

"I think it's such an incredible honour and probably equal, if not better, than winning the Wimbledon and the Olympics because I think it just reflects back about how well you succeeded in the sport," Woodforde said.

Arsenal's Senderos moves to Everton on loan

LONDON, 26 Jan—Arsenal's Swiss defender Philippe Senderos moved to Everton on loan for the rest of the season, the club said on Monday.

The 24-year-old, who has been capped 35 times by his country, spent all of last season on loan at Italian side AC Milan after falling out of favour with coach Arsene Wenger.

Egypt down Cameroon in Nations Cup to set up Algeria rematch

BENGUELA, 26 Jan—Aided by a brace from skipper Ahmed Hassan, Egypt defeated 10-man Cameroon 3-1 after extra-time in an Africa Cup of Nations quarter-final match here on Monday.

Egypt's prize is a mouth-watering last-four showdown on Thursday against bitter rivals Algeria, who pipped the Egyptians to a World Cup ticket in dramatic circumstances in November.

The Pharaohs thus improved to 17 matches their unbeaten run in the tournament and also extended their five-year superiority over the Indomitable Lions.

Egypt assistant coach Shawki Gharib saluted Cameroon for pushing his team all the way, while defending the performance of South African referee Jerome Damon.

"Cameroon are a great team and they pushed us very hard," said Gharib. "We, on our own part, played very well and knew what we needed to do to win this match."

Henin to face Zheng in Aussie Open semi

MELBOURNE, 26 Jan—Justine Henin's dream run in her first Grand Slam on the comeback trail gathered pace Tuesday as she powered into the Australian Open semi-finals where she will face China's Zheng Jie.

The 27-year-old decided to return to tennis after seeing fellow Belgian Kim Clijsters win the US Open last year, and she has more than justified the faith of organisers here who handed her a wildcard. The draw opened up for her nicely when Clijsters was knocked out in the third round and Henin has seized the opportunity, using her vast experience to down determined Russian 19th seed Nadia Petrova 7-6 (7/3), 7-5.—Internet

Cilic outlasts Roddick in Aussie Open semis

MELBOURNE, 26 Jan—Marin Cilic became the first Croatian to reach the semi-finals of the Australian Open with a gripping five-set victory over American Andy Roddick on Tuesday.

Cilic, at 21 the youngest of the eight quarter-finalists, wore down the seventh seeded Roddick, 7-6 (7/4), 6-3, 3-6, 2-6, 6-3 in three hours 50 minutes on Rod Laver Arena.

His reward is a semi-final against either defending champion Rafael Nadal or British fifth seed Andy Murray, who play later Tuesday.

It was another test of endurance for the 14th seeded Cilic, who has spent the longest time on court of all the remaining players in the draw at 18 hours eight minutes for his five matches.—Internet

Teen pregnancy rate up after 10-year decline

WASHINGTON, 26 Jan— The US teen pregnancy rate rose in 2006 for the first time in more than a decade, reversing a long slide, a US think tank reported on Tuesday. The overall teen pregnancy rate was up 3 percent in 2006, with a 4 percent rise in the rate of births and a 1 percent rise in the rate of abortions, according to the report by the Guttmacher Institute.

The United States has higher rates of teen pregnancy, birth and abortion than in other Western industrialized countries. There were 71 pregnancies per 1,000 US girls aged 15-19. In 2006, 7 percent of all teenage girls got pregnant, according to the report.

Fewer black teenage girls got pregnant, closing a gap with Hispanic teens. But rates among both groups were still significantly higher than for white teens, the report said, and rates went up for all ethnic groups. "We're not quite sure yet whether this is just a blip or whether it's the beginning of a longer upward trend," Larry Finer, Guttmacher's director for domestic research, said in a telephone interview.

Scenes on progress of Hainggyikyun

Article & Photos: Ko Tin Hlaing (Meiktila)

Hainggyikyun, a town of Labutta Township in Ayeyawady Division, is located on the coastal region, which is an entrance to the Bay of Bengal. Hainggyikyun, constituted with three wards and 100 villages of 22 village-tracts, has an area of five miles long and three miles wide.

In 2008, Hainggyikyun was destroyed by cyclonic storm. The government, companies and wellwishers provided necessary assistance for the storm and tidal ravaged villages of Hainggyikyun.

Due to impacts of the storm, seawater flowed into wells and lakes of the villages. Therefore, efforts were made to remove salty water from the wells and lakes and cleaned them for supplying potable water to the local people.

For ensuring availability of clean drinking water, a total of 32 new wells and 36 lakes were renovated in 36 villages of village-tracts.

Hainggyikyun Development Affairs Committee repaired the damaged jetties and built new pontoon jetties at villages for berthing of ships that carried relief items for the storm survivors. The committee also renovated the damaged roads and bridges for transportation of relief items to the villages.

Moreover, 3.7-mile Pammawady Road and the circular road were tarmacked and 0.7 mile long gravel road section was constructed on U Aung Zeya Road in the urban area. Furthermore, the committee renovated rural roads namely Kyongya, Yekhaunggyi, Pyinkhayaing, Kyaukkalat, Thetkeithaung, Thauglayletaw and Po Nyo Gon roads.

Hainggyikyun had 85 Basic Education Primary, Middle and High Schools. A total of 56 buildings of 156 from the schools were destroyed by the storm. So far, all the school buildings have been renovated with the contributions of the State, wellwishers and companies. Neat and tidy dispensaries are providing health care services to the local people.

Storm affected Phonedawpyay and Khongyi Villages of Ottwin Village-tract were reconstituted as
