NAY PYI TAW, 17 Feb—Accompanied by Chairman of Shan State (East) Peace and Development Council Commander of Triangle Region Command Maj-Gen Kyaw Phyto and Chairman of Shan State PDC Commander of Eastern Command Maj-Gen Yar Pyae, Lt-Gen Min Aung Hlaing of the Ministry of Defence pointed out development of region, and presented sets of computer and TV in meeting with departmental officials, members of social organizations and local people at Bala Min Htin Hall in Mongyawng on 15 February.

At People's Hospital in Mongyawng, he presented food and gifts to patients and medicines for the hospital. (See page 8)

Kyaukme emerges as a symbol of dragon ball cultivation

Recently I visited townships including Kyaukme on my way back to Mandalay from Lashio. I had an opportunity to get every detail of Kyaukme as I spent the son and tea. Now it has acquired a good reputation for being the best land to grow dragon ball plants.

I had an interview with the chairmen of Kyaukme District and night there as planned.

Downtown streets are neat and tidy as Mandalay-Lashio motorway stands beside it, not passing through the town centre. Among townships along Mandalay-Lashio Motorway, Kyaukme is the largest one, a district town. It is famous for its sweet dam-

Township PDCs. Kyaukme Township PDC Chairman U Myo Lwin gave accounts on cultivation of monsoon and summer paddy in the township and construction of roads and bridges for regional development.

The secretary of Kyaukme District PDC took me to go sightseeing.

I had a chance to enjoy an aerial view of Kyaukme from Mt. Minkuthawady. Brick buildings on the vast land of Kyaukme reflect the sound economic status of the town. Kyaukme Myoma market bustling with trucks, shopkeepers and shoppers is the trading center of the region. I was pleased to see students on bicycles along the road. All these have been due to peace and stability, prevailing in the region and contributing towards development of trade, economic, education and health sectors.

I also had an interview with Tea Broker U

Thein Lwin of Kyaukme. He took me to his Thin Shwephi tea brokerage house in Ward-6 of Kyaukme to study pickled tea business. He explained to me that tea can be harvested from the mid of March to October and November as it is a perennial plant, saying that tea leaves that come out first are the best. Pickled tea business is suitable for rainy season and dried tea business for summer, he added. A tea plant produces processed tea, green tea and pickled tea. The quality of tea relies on the types of mountain they are grown.

He continued that only 25 per cent was left in the process of producing dried tea from tea leaves. But 80 per cent was left in pickled tea business. Namhsan blessed with sandy soil is the best place for tea cultivation. He briefed me on putting 30000 acres of farmland under tea in Kyaukme and 40000 acres in Namhsan. It is learnt that per acre yield of tea is 250 viss and 200 viss is left in pickled tea business.

Lend a helping hand to government to wipe out narcotic drugs

Nowadays, various forms of narcotic drugs have been widely used all over the world, including stimulant tablets produced with the use of chemicals. Therefore, every nation and region has placed a special emphasis on drug elimination work. With the purpose of curbing or wiping out drug production and trafficking, respective countries are working together in the fight against cross-border crimes.

Myanmar is also accelerating the momentum of its fight against narcotic drugs. The government has been implementing the 15-year plan for elimination of narcotic drugs since 1999. The Central Committee for Drug Abuse Control has occasionally held ceremonies to set fire to narcotic drugs seized from all over the country.

The government has also been rendering all the necessary assistance to the people of the regions where poppy used to be grown in order that they can grow rubber, sugar cane, corn and orange in place of poppy and engage in livestock breeding and other businesses. In some border areas, poppy plantations were destroyed with the help and cooperation of the local people. Also in Tachilek, Monghsat, Monghsu, Pekhon and Pinlaung, acres of poppy plantations were destroyed during the poppy cultivation season.

Moreover, the government is raising the tempo of curbing and eliminating narcotic drugs production and trafficking. In January, 2010, a total of 205 drug cases were exposed and action was taken against more than 200 people who committed crimes related with drug abuse, production and trafficking.

For elimination of production, trafficking and use of narcotic drugs, the government is also educating the people from all walks of life, including student youths, on prevention of the danger of narcotic drugs. Therefore, we would like to call on the entire people to lend a helping hand to the government in its drive to wipe out the danger of narcotic drugs.

Latest Darfur fighting displaces 'thousands'

KHARTOUM, 17 Feb—Recent fighting between Sudanese troops and rebels in the western region of Darfur has killed many people and displaced thousands more, UN and African peacekeepers said on Tuesday.

A statement from African Union-United Nations Mission in Darfur (UNAMID) called on all parties to exercise maximum restraint following hostilities in Jebel Marra, South Darfur, and Jebel Moon, West Darfur.

"The clashes over the past few days have left many dead and caused thousands to flee their homes," the statement said. Fighting pitted government forces and combatants from the Sudan Liberation Army of Abdelwahid Nur — one of two main rebel groups, in Jebel Marra, according to various reports.

The fighting forced the French aid group Medecins du Monde to evacuate a dozen of its expatriate workers, the organization said.

Armed confrontation also erupted in Jebel Moon, another rebel stronghold near the border with Chad.

Bomb explodes at JP Morgan office in Athens, no injuries

ATHENS, 17 Feb—A time bomb exploded at the offices of JP Morgan brokerage firm in the central Athens district of Kolonaki around 7:50 pm local time on Tuesday evening, causing damages to the building, but no injuries, according to the first information by Greek police authorities.

The blast occurred 30 minutes after an unidentified man made a warning phone call to a Greek daily newspaper, so police had time to evacuate the building and seal off the crowded area.

No group has claimed responsibility for the attack yet, but it is a common practice for Greek extreme Left and anarchist guerilla groups to give warnings a few minutes before terrorist attacks. Foreign economic targets, along Greek politicians and policemen, are the main targets of attacks of terrorist groups operating in Greece for years. Terrorist attacks have been stepped up in the country since December 2008, when a teenager was shot dead by police fire and Greece witnessed the worst riots in its recent history.—Xinhua

Cold snap killing Florida's coral reefs

The polar snap enveloping much of the United States in record cold has been killing off coral reefs in the normally balmy warm waters off the Florida Keys, experts said on Monday.

The unusually chilly weather so far this year has seen sea temperatures plummet in southern Florida — a fatal development for the coral, which dies when exposed for an extended time to temperatures below 15 degrees Celsius (59 degrees Fahrenheit).

Especially in the lower Keys, "temperatures have been lower... there is higher mortality," Diego Lirman, a University of Miami expert on coral, told AFP.

Florida's usually mild and sunny winter weather has given way to record low temperatures during the historic cold snap in recent weeks.

In Miami, the thermometer in January and February regularly dropped below 35 degrees Fahrenheit (1.6 Celsius), the coldest temperatures since 1970.

The cold snap also has led to "bleaching," in which the coral loses pigmentation and ultimately dies.

Destruction of coral having a negative effect on delicate tropical eco-systems in the region, Lirman added, with micro-algae living within the coral forced to leave their habitat for lack of a food source.

A Green sea turtle is seen in a climate controlled tank as it is treated for "cold stun" at the Jumbo Limbo Nature Centre in January 2010 in Boca Raton, Florida. Zahi Hawass, media-savvy guardian of Egypt's past Egypt's antiquities chief Zahi Hawass, at 62, still bubbles with excitement whenever he announces the latest discovery of a tomb or relic, his eyes lighting up under the brim of his trademark Indiana Jones-style hat.

Aside from his love of the media limelight, Hawass is locked in battle to assert Egypt's sovereignty over its heritage, even if that means crossing swords with the world's most prestigious museums.

His style and patriotism will be on show again on Wednesday when he holds a Press conference to announce the DNA results on the mummy of boy-king Tutankhamun, the pharaoh whose origins have mystified scholars.

Hawass insisted the tests be carried out by Egyptian scientists.

Born in the Nile Delta town of Damietta, Hawass studied archaeology at the universities of Cairo and Alexandria, and went on to earn a doctorate from the University of Pennsylvania.

Since becoming head of the Supreme Council for Antiquities (SCA) in 2002, he has pressed for the return of relics held in foreign museums, while tightening up on the supervision of foreign excavation teams.

Mine blasts injure nine in Laukkai

NAY PYI TAW, 17 Feb — Absconders Phon Kya Shin, Phon Kya Phu, Phon Ta Shwin and Phon Tarli of former Myanmar National Democratic Alliance Army (Kokang group) were involved in an early morning mine attack that took place in Laukkai, northern Shan State, today.

Two mines rocked an old market place at the corner of Tonchain ward in the town at 1.25 am and 2.20 am respectively, but there was no death or injury.

Four more unexploded remote control mines were found when authorities combed the area. With the help of local people security personnel found out that the culprits were the said four absconders.

But in another mine attack two days earlier at the same ward injured nine persons. A mine went off at 8.05 am and another followed 25 minutes later in the park and play ground in front of Drug Elimination Museum. The injured were six persons including U Shaik Sium son of U Shaik Sipa of Namkyun village, Kunlong Township, and three citizens of People's Republic of China including Chan Pheinhua son of U Dan Tonphan from Fulan of Fulan Proviane of PRC. Two more remote control mines were found in the area. It was also the work of the same group of the said four absconders.—MNA

Thriving summer paddy — a joy of life ...

"The weir will play a pivotal role to go multi-cropping pattern."

Staff Officer (Civil) U Wai Phyo Kyaw. Waingmaw Township Irrigation Department.

With a view to developing agricultural sector in Kachin State, the construction of Wahshaung Diversion Weir started in 1962-63 fiscal year and was completed in 1966-67 fiscal year. It was built by damming Nantmyinkha Creek near Wahshaung village in Waingmaw Township in Myitkyina

District of Kachin State in order to extend farmlands in Waingmaw Township.

The catchment area of the diversion weir is 108 square miles. The weir, which is of ogee concrete type, has 21-feet height and 250.5 feet length. It has a 60,812 feet long canal and a 273,110 feet long tributary. It can irrigate 11,762 acres of farmlands.

Staff Officer (Civil) U Wai Phyo Kyaw of Waingmaw Township Irrigation Department said, "Villages included in the irrigated area of Wahshaung Diversion Weir will grow summer paddy. The weir will hold a pivotal role to go multi-cropping pattern. Designed by Head Office of Irrigation Department, RC-type 30-feet wide spillway of the weir designed to prevent flood is due to be completed in this open season."

As in the other years, the dredging of canals will be carried out in the open season. The maintenance of the structures was done in the rainy season. The works contribute not only to the extended cultivation of summer paddy but to minimizing the wastage of water.

The farmlands in irrigation area of Wahshaung Diversion Weir enjoy sufficient irrigation water and start next step to multi-cropping pattern through the proper maintenance of the 53-year-old weir.

China, S Korea, Japan to launch joint study on trilateral free trade deal

SEOUL, 17 Feb— South Korea plans to launch a joint research with China and Japan on the feasibility of a free trade agreement (FTA) among the three Northeast Asian countries, South Korea's Foreign Ministry said on Wednesday.

According to a report by the ministry, the country, which has been seeking an economic integration of the Northeast Asian region by creating favorable conditions for FTAs, will kick off a joint study with the countries, in which government officials, scholars and business representatives will participate.

Along with the trilateral FTA, the country will also continue to push for settling separate bilateral trade agreements with China and Japan, the ministry said in the report.

Currently, South Korea has free trade agreements with Chile, Singapore and the European Free Trade Association, as well as a similar pact with the Association of Southeast Asian Nations.

Recently reaching a free trade deal with the European Union, the country also wrapped up its free trade talks with India, settling the so-called comprehensive economic partnership agreement (CEPA) in August.

With respect to the free trade deal with the United States, signed in June 2007, both countries are waiting for legislative approval.

French envoy in DR Congo says Great Lakes countries to hold economic meeting

KINSHASA, 17 Feb— The French ambassador to the Democratic Republic of Congo (DR Congo), Pierre Jacquemot, announced on Tuesday that there will be a meeting in June to mobilize funds for the Economic Community of the Great Lakes Region (CEPGL) to support Rwanda, Burundi and DR Congo.

The French diplomat declared this in Kinshasa during an opening ceremony of a seminar of government experts, which was to discuss the validation of basic agreements and the restructuring of CEPGL.

According to Jacquemot, France holds the opinion that regional cooperation would bring about lasting peace for the benefit of the local populations, especially during this post-conflict period. The present meeting is pursuing three objectives, including a basic law to support CEPGL, measures to support the promotion of commercial exchanges and free movement of the populations and their goods, and a proposal for the restructuring of the permanent executive secretariat for CEPGL.

CEPGL is a sub-regional organization created in September 1976 for the economic integration and facilitation of movements of goods and people within the Great Lakes countries of Burundi, DR Congo and Rwanda.—Internet

India's Tata Steel Q3 consolidated profit down 42 percent

Kirby Adams, CEO of Tata Steel Europe addresses a press conference in Mumbai. Tata Steel, the world's eighth-largest steelmaker, reported on Tuesday a 42 percent drop in consolidated quarterly profit that included results from British unit Corus.—INTERNET

MUMBAI, 17 Feb—Tata Steel, the world's eighth-largest steelmaker, reported on Tuesday a 42 percent drop in consolidated quarterly profit that included results from British unit Corus.

It blamed low steel prices for the performance.

For the three months to December, consolidated net profit slumped to 4.72 billion rupees (102 million dollars) from 8.13 billion rupees a year earlier, the company said.

The consolidated net profit for the fiscal third-quarter however beat market expectations of 1.8 billion rupees.

Net sales fell 21 percent to 262.02 billion rupees. "Average selling prices of steel were lower across the group," the company said in a statement.

Tata Steel shares rose 2.23 percent, or 12 rupees, to 549.35 ahead of the release of the earnings data.

Tata Steel Europe chief executive Kirby Adams said trading conditions in Europe remain tough and weakness in the construction sector would continue to be a challenge.—Internet

Argentina escalates row with Britain over Falklands

BUENOS AIRES, 17 Feb—Argentina escalated a row with Britain over oil drilling in the Falklands by ordering all ships heading to the disputed islands through its waters to seek permission from Buenos Aires first.

Argentine President Cristina Kirchner signed the decree, ratcheting up tensions between Argentina and Britain over Las Malvinas, the Spanish name for the islands they warred over in 1982 at the cost of almost 1,000 lives.

"All ships that wish to move between ports in continental Argentina and ports in the Malvinas islands, or that wish to cross Argentine territorial waters as they head to the islands" require prior permission, it said.

Kirchner's chief of staff Anibal Fernandez left no doubt the move was intended to clamp down on shipping that might be helping Britain as it launches operations to explore the region's oil and mineral reserves.

British inflation hits 14-month high of 3.5%

LONDON, 17 Feb—Britain's benchmark Consumer Prices Index (CPI) rate of inflation rose to 3.5 percent year-on-year in January, according to official figures released on Tuesday, pushed to the 14-month high by an increase in Value Added Tax (VAT) to 17.5 percent, higher oil costs and the effects of sterling's depreciation.

The rise comes after December's rise in the CPI of 0.6 percent, which took it to 2.9 percent. This latest rise to 3.5 percent has led to Mervyn King, governor of the Bank of England (BoE), Britain's central bank, to write a public letter of explanation to Alistair Darling, the chancellor of the exchequer.

King forecast that inflation was likely to fall back towards its target level of 2 percent later in the year. In his letter to the chancellor, King outlined the causes of the rise. "Three short-run factors have driven the current measured rate of inflation up. First, the restoration of the standard rate of VAT is raising prices relative to a year ago."

"Second, over the past year, oil prices have risen by around 70 percent. That is pushing up petrol-price inflation significantly, which, in turn, is raising overall CPI inflation."

Bharti founder eyes Africa market

NEW DELHI, 17 Feb—Indian telecom tycoon Sunil Bharti Mittal is hoping to make it third time lucky as he seeks to gain a presence in Africa, one of the world's least developed mobile phone markets.

After two failed attempts to tie up with South African flagship MTN, the founder-chairman of cellular giant Bharti Airtel announced this week a 10.7-billion-dollar bid to buy the African unit of Kuwait's Zain telecom group.

The takeover would be one of India's biggest cross-border deals and give Bharti a significant foothold in the continent's cellular market where just 36 out of every 100 people own a mobile phone.

That compares with Europe and other developed markets where there are more mobile phones than people, while in India mobile use stands at about 44 connections per 100 people.

"Africa is under-penetrated, it has less competition (than the Indian market). It is a step in the right direction" for Bharti, said Romal Shetty, senior telecom analyst at international consultancy KPMG.

No rights charge against NY police in 50-shot death

NEW YORK, 17 Feb— Several New York City police officers who killed an unarmed black man in hail of 50 bullets on his wedding day will not face criminal civil rights charges, the US Justice Department said on Tuesday.

Sean Bell, 23, was killed and two friends injured outside a strip club after his bachelor party in November 2006. His death outraged New York's black community, who contended that no white suspect would have been shot so many times, if at all.

In April 2008, a New York state judge cleared two of the officers of manslaughter and a third of reckless endangerment. Federal authorities then launched a separate investigation that could have brought civil rights charges against the officers.

"After a careful and thorough review, a team of experienced federal prosecutors and FBI agents determined that the evidence was insufficient to prove, beyond a reasonable doubt, that the law enforcement personnel who fired at Bell... acted willfully," the Justice Department said.

"Accordingly, the investigation into this incident has been closed," it said.

Treaty signed to protect endangered sharks

NEW YORK, 17 Feb— More than 100 nations signed a UN-supported wildlife treaty on Tuesday designed to protect shark species threatened with extinction.

The 113 countries signing the treaty are party to the UN Environment Programme-administered Convention on the Conservation of Migratory Species of Wild Animals.

UN officials said the countries agreed to prohibit the hunting, fishing and deliberate killing of certain shark species — the great white, basking, whale, porbeagle, spiny dogfish, and the shortfin and longfin mako sharks. "This first global CMS instrument on commercially exploited species is a decisive step forward in international shark conservation," said UNEP/CMS Executive Secretary Elizabeth Mrema.

"Wildlife conventions, UN agencies and international fisheries need to work together to prevent these creatures that roam the world's oceans from becoming extinct."

The agreement, signed during a meeting of government representatives in the Philippines, is designed to restore the long-term viability of populations of migratory sharks.

look old in a 3-2 win in the Champions League last 16 first leg clash here on Tuesday to record their first ever victory in the San Siro.

Rooney scored a brace as Milan's old legs finally caught up with them as United came from behind to win at a canter until some late drama that saw United's Michael Carrick dismissed in injury time for a second booking.

Ronaldinho gave Milan an early lead but after Paul Scholes's fortuitous equaliser Sir Alex Ferguson's side gradually took control and by the end they threatened to run up a cricket score.

Chardy upsets Verdasco at Memphis ATP

MEMPHIS, 17 Feb—France's Jeremy Chardy shocked second-seeded Fernando Verdasco 7-6 (7/4), 6-3 in the first round of the ATP Tour's Memphis stop.

France's Jeremy Chardy (pictured last November) shocked second-seeded Fernando Verdasco 7-6 (7/4), 6-3 in the first round of the ATP Tour's Memphis stop.—INTERNET

Chardy needed just one hour and 15 minutes to dispatch the Spaniard, who had rallied to beat Andy Roddick in the final at San Jose, California, on Sunday.

Chardy, ranked 41st in the world, fell behind in the first-set tiebreaker but rallied, then earned a break en route to a 5-2 lead in the second set.

Verdasco fended off a match point against his serve at 5-2, but couldn't hold off Chardy in the next game as the Frenchman advanced to a second-round meeting with Lukas Lacko.—Internet

Venus reaches final 16 in Dubai Tennis Open

DUBAI, 17 Feb—Venus Williams' bid to hang on to one of her two remaining titles made a reassuring start as she quashed the challenge of one of the tour's brightest young hopes to reach the last 16 of the Dubai Open.

The defending champion's 6-2, 6-3 win over Sabine Lisicki, the 20-year-old Wimbledon quarter-finalist, contained consistent serving, well-timed increases in pressure, and a conspicuously tight focus.

A good week here is important for the five-time Wimbledon champion's belief that, approaching her 30th birthday, she remains capable of winning more majors, and that need showed in the quality of her performance.—Internet

Moyes anxious as Sporting's late goal leaves tie on the edge

LIVERPOOL, 17 Feb—Everton manager David Moyes admitted his side's Europa League hopes are in the balance after they conceded a crucial late goal in their 2-1 win over Sporting Lisbon at Goodison Park.

Moyes' men were cruising towards the last 16 after strikes from South Africa midfielder Steven Pienaar and French defender Sylvain Distin put them two goals ahead just after half-time in Tuesday's last 32 first leg.

But Distin was sent off in the closing moments for a foul on Liedson that led to a penalty calmly converted by Sporting midfielder Miguel Veloso.

That put the Portuguese club firmly back in the tie going into the second leg in Portugal next Thursday.—Internet

Makoun extends Real's Lyon misery

LYON, 17 Feb—Lyon ruined former striker Karim Benzema's return to his boyhood club by beating Real Madrid 1-0 in their last 16 Champions League first leg clash here on Tuesday.

The defeat will add to the woes of Real's Chilean coach Manuel Pellegrini, who is under pressure to return European football's most coveted trophy to the Santiago Bernabeu following the triumph of fierce rivals Barcelona in the competition last year.

Defeat continued Real's desperate record at Lyon's ground, having failed ever to win there or even score.

Lyon coach Claude Puel has been under pressure of late as the fans have taken the view that he is too negative in his strategy, but the former Monaco and Lille handler was sporting a beaming smile after this victory.—Internet

Ferry wins men's 12.5 km pursuit Olympic biathlon gold

WHISTLER, 17 Feb—Bjorn Ferry of Sweden claimed the gold medal of the men's 12.5 km pursuit of biathlon at the Vancouver Olympic Winter Games on Tuesday.

The 31-year-old Sweden finished first in 33 minutes 38.4 seconds, 16.5 seconds faster than Christoph Sumann of Austria, who won the silver.

"It was a great ski day today, and all my competitors, 40 to 50 of them, were good today. This is more of a mental game and I was mentally prepared for this one," said Ferry after his competition.

"It's a great medal, it's a great feeling. I am 31 and I've waited for this my whole life," he added.
