Yesagyo to produce abundant cold season crops soon

Myanmar is an agro-based country. Relying on natural resources and favourable climate, farmers have been engaging in agricultural task since long ago.

As a result of applying modern agricultural methods and using quality strains, the country achieves local food sufficiency and exports the surplus to the foreign market.

Out of over 22 million hectares of cultivable lands, Myanmar puts over eight million hectares of farmlands under paddy. Therefore, the country produces 18 million metric tons of rice. In addition, the cultivation and production of maize, beans and pulses, edible oil crops, kitchen crops and other crops are on the increase year by year.

Nowadays, the whole world is suffering from the impacts of climate change. In accord with the guidance of the Head of State, all-out efforts are being made in supplying water for agricultural purpose. So far, over 200 dams and sluice gates, river water pumping stations and underground water tapping works have been built across the nation to increase the irrigated sown acreage.

As Myanmar has a foreign market share for beans and pulses, all the farmers have to make efforts for carrying out the extended cultivation and production of the crops. In this regard, they should pay serious attention to exporting only high quality beans and pulses. Taking technological assistance of agriculturists, the farmers should grow beans and pulses with the use of natural organic fertilizers.

At present, the farmers extend cultivation of crops

Myanmar, land of tourist destination

Every nation in the world has placed a special emphasis on tourism as it is a business that can be successful. The countries in the Asia Pacific region, including Myanmar, have become one of the major tourist attractions in the world.

During the tourist season this year, the number of foreign visitors to Myanmar has increased and most of them enter the nation through Yangon, Mandalay, Bagan and border checkpoints. Last year, more than 700,000 tourists visited Myanmar.

Most of the tourists visit Bagan, the archaeological treasure house of Myanmar. The Inlay Lake and Pindaya in Shan State (South), with their scenic views and traditional handicraft industries, are also a magnet for tourists. Moreover, tourists are interested in traditional new year celebrations of national races and traditional festivals held in various regions.

As Myanmar has sanctuaries and national parks with rich bio diversity, it has the potential for development of eco-tourism. Snow-capped mountains in the northern part of Myanmar, tropical monsoon forests and beautiful beaches lined with coral reefs are favourable natural conditions for development of eco-tourism.

At the time when there is an influx of tourists, it is necessary to offer warm hospitality and to make preparations and meet requirements to be able to provide accommodation and transportation facilities of international standards.

With development of tourism, communications will develop among people of various regions. Increased eco-tourism will help generate more income for local people and contribute to regional development. As tourism is a lucrative business, we should strive for further development of the tourist industry of Myanmar by extending warm welcome and hospitality and offering the best possible services.

Embattled Afghan Taliban rely on human shields

MARJAH, 18 Feb — Taliban fighters holding out in Marjah are increasingly using civilians as human shields, firing from compounds where US and Afghan forces can clearly see women and children on rooftops or in windows, Afghan and US troops said on Wednesday.

The intermingling of fighters and civilians also has been witnessed by Associated Press journalists. It is part of a Taliban effort to exploit strict NATO rules against endangering innocent lives to impede the allied advance through the town in Helmand Province, 610 kilometres (360 miles) southwest of Kabul.

US hails capture of Taliban leader

WASHINGTON, 18 Feb — The White House said on Wednesday that the capture of the Taliban military leader, Mullah Abdul Ghani Baradar, is a "big success" for joint efforts by the United States and Pakistan.

"It is a big success for our mutual efforts in the region," White House spokesman Robert Gibbs told reporters, but did not offer details on the capture and the following interrogation. In a statement issued early on Wednesday, the Pakistani military said that the Afghan Taliban's number two leader was arrested from the south Pakistani port city of Karachi, while Taliban claimed that Baradar is safe and leading fight in Afghanistan.

Pakistani analysts believe the arrest of the top Taliban commander will be a huge shift in the policy toward Taliban, and US officials say it is a breakthrough in the cooperation between Pakistan and the United States on the fight against terrorism. — Xinhua

Cluster bomb convention to become law

WASHINGTON, 18 Feb — A convention banning cluster bomb munitions will become law after being ratified by 30 countries in just 15 months, a rights group in Washington said. Burkina Faso and Moldova were the 29th and 30th countries to ratify the convention, which will become binding international law on 11 Aug, Human Rights Watch said in a release on Tuesday.

The Convention on Cluster Munitions was opened for signatures in December 2008; 30 ratifications were necessary for it to become binding, HRW said. The 2008 Convention on Cluster Munitions prohibits the use, production and shipment of cluster munitions, provides deadlines for clearing affected areas and destroying cluster munition stockpiles and requires assistance be given to victims, HRW said.

"The short time it took to reach this milestone shows that governments have a strong desire never to see these terrible weapons used again," said Steve Goose, HRW arms division director and Cluster Munition Coalition co-chairman. "But every signatory needs to ratify, and those who haven't signed need to come on board to keep more civilian lives and limbs from being needlessly lost." — Internet

Yet, the spokesman said that there is still a chance for the remaining militants to surrender and "return to the right path." If they do so, it will be taken into consideration when they are under interrogation, he said. — Xinhua

Israel says no proof it carried out Dubai killing

JERUSALEM, 18 Feb — Israel's Foreign Minister said on Wednesday the use of the identities of foreign-born Israelis by a hit squad suspected of killing a Hamas militant in Dubai did not prove the Mossad spy agency assassinated him. Britain summoned the Israeli ambassador to a meeting on Thursday to explain how several British citizens living in Israel found their passport details used by the alleged killers.

"There is no reason to think that it was the Israeli Mossad and not some other intelligence service or country up to some mischief," Israeli Foreign Minister Avigdor Lieberman told Army Radio when asked about the operation and alleged passport subterfuge. But Lieberman did not deny outright Israeli involvement in the killing of Hamas's Mahmoud al-Mabhouh in a Dubai hotel last month, saying Israel has a "policy of ambiguity" on intelligence matters and there was no proof it was behind the assassination. — Internet these now as a "clarification" exercise rather than negotiation.

This source said EADS would back the take-it-or-leave-it deal offered by seven nations, but declined to give a timetable and cautioned that final details were among the most complex. An EADS spokesman declined to comment on its response to the offer and said it was still being studied.

Indonesian floods inundated part of Jakarta, East, West Java

JAKARTA, 18 Feb — Flood waters have inundated western and eastern parts of Indonesia's key island of Java on Thursday with the deepest level of 3 meters in the capital city recorded in East Jakarta, a local media reported here. The deepest flood occurred in Kampung Pulo, East Jakarta located in the bank of Ciliwung, the landmark river that lined the capital city.

The flooding forced residents to abandon their work for the day because they needed to evacuate and rescue their valuables.

However, parents decided that their children should attend school where it would be safer because the building was not flooded. Some people had gone to shelters, but some others chose to stay in their homes, fearing that their belongings could be looted.

In Indramayu, West Java, hundreds of houses and hectares of shrimp farms were flooded after the Cimanuk river dam burst due to heavy rain, which has been falling since Wednesday afternoon. The residents of Jatibarang and Pilang Sari tried to stop the water using sandbags, but were unsuccessful.

In Bojonegoro, East Java, four hours of rain caused hundreds of houses to flood. The one meter high flood affected four villages. Most residents chose to stay in their homes and wait for the water to recede. The Indonesian Red Cross (PMI) was prepared to handle the yearly flood, said Jusuf Kalla on the sidelines of his meeting with lawmakers at the Commission IX in the parliament.

China should lead Asia in achieving millennium targets by 2015

MANILA, 18 Feb—China, with its huge resources and success in reducing poverty, should lead developing Asian countries in attaining the Asia-Pacific region's Millennium Development Goals (MDG), a senior official of the United Nations Development Programme said on Wednesday. after the launch of the regional report entitled "Achieving the Millennium Development Goals in an Era of Global Uncertainty". The report was prepared by the UNDP, the Asian Development Bank (ADB) and the United Nations Economic and Social Commission for Asia and the Pacific (ESCAP).

China has been on track in attaining most of its MDG targets including slashing poverty rate from 60 percent to 16 percent in 2005, reducing malnutrition, halting the spread of

HIV and AIDS and providing universal primary education. China has also allocated a quarter of its fiscal stimulus package to social protection programmes such as allocating for low rent housing and improving rural living standards. But more than that, China, owing to its substantial resources, can also help other developing countries attain MDG targets.—Xinhua

NASA releases first images of WISE

LOS ANGELES, 18 Feb — NASA on Wednesday released the first images of cosmic characters from the Wide-field Infrared Survey Explorer, or WISE. "These first images are proving the spacecraft's secondary mission of helping to track asteroids, comets and other stellar objects will be just as critically important as its primary mission of surveying the entire sky in infrared," said Ed Weiler, associate administrator of the Science Mission Directorate at NASA Headquarters in Washington.

The images revealed a glowing comet, a star-forming cloud, a new view of the Andromeda galaxy and a dense galaxy cluster. "We've got a candy store of images coming down from space," said Edward (Ned) Wright, the principal investigator for WISE. "Everyone has their favourite flavors, and we've got them all." Launched in December, WISE began its scan of the entire sky in infrared light on 14 Jan.

Since then, the space telescope has beamed back more than a quarter of a million raw, infrared images. NASA processed several of them for the public.

During its survey, the mission is expected to find perhaps dozens of comets, including some that ride along in orbits that take them somewhat close to Earth's path around the sun. WISE will help unravel clues locked inside comets about how our solar system came to be.— Xinhua

BEIJING, 18 Feb — China's operational high-speed railways have exceeded 3,300 kilometres, leading the world in both length and technologies, the Ministry of Railways said on its official website on Thursday. Last year China finished two high-speed railways between Wuhan-Guangzhou and Zhengzhou-Xi'an, with an operating speed of 350 km/h. Before that, China had built high-speed railways between some of its major cities, including Beijing-Tianjin, Shijiazhuang-Taiyuan, Qingdao-Jinan, Hefei-Wuhan and Hefei-Nanjing.

A number of new high-speed railways are being built and will be finished in the coming few years, of which the Beijing-Shanghai line has a length of 1,318 km and a designed travel speed of 350 km/h. Construction of the line started in April 2008 and would finish in around five years.

It would cut travel times between the two cities to only five hours from about 12 hours. China's railway links had expanded to 86,000 kilometres by the end of 2009, the world's second longest only after the United States.

Railway passengers topped a record 1.53 billion last year. Cargo transportation hit 3.32 billion tonnes, according to the ministry.— Xinhua farmers need to spend less for cultivation. The alluvial lands are the best for cold season crops.

Yesagyo Township of Magway Division grows 26 kinds of cold season crops, namely edible oil crops, beans and pulses, maize, kitchen crops and others.

The township has cultivated 137,522 acres of cold season crops against the target of 145,017 acres in 2009-2010. Therefore, the township is striving for exceeding the target of crops cultivation this year.

A total of 40 village-tracts located in the alluvial lands of the township are reliable areas in cultivation of crops.

During my visit, I asked Assistant Officer Ko Teza of Township Settlement and Land Records Department to know the sown acreage and cold season crops at the field No. 111 in Nyaungdaw Village-tract. He explained that at field No. 111, a total of 529 acres of land is put under beans and pulses, 375 acres under cold season groundnut, 125 acres under corn, 620 acres under cold season sunflower as mixed cropping, 50 acres under niger, 310 acres under kitchen crops, 133 acres under vegetables, 22 acres under other crops and 60 acres as pasture land.

Brain control can be a neural workout

SEATTLE, 18 Feb—University of Washington scientists say they've discovered interacting with brain-computer interfaces can produce stronger brain signals.

The research team, consisting of computer scientists, physicists, physiologists and neurosurgeons, said harnessing brain signals to control keyboards, robots or prosthetic devices is an active area of medical research. And now they've discovered a human brain hooked up to a computer shows the two can quickly adapt to each other — possibly to the brain's benefit.

The scientists said they studied signals on the brain's surface while a person used imagined movements to control a cursor and found that watching a cursor respond to one's thoughts prompts brain signals to become stronger than those generated in day-to-day life.

"Bodybuilders get muscles that are larger than normal by lifting weights," said doctoral student Kai Miller, the study's lead author. "We get brain activity that's larger than normal by interacting with brain-computer interfaces. By using these interfaces, patients create super-active populations of brain cells."

Aspirin cuts breast cancer survivors' risk

BOSTON, 18 Feb—Taking an aspirin two days a week significantly reduced breast cancer survivors' risk of metastasis — cancer spread — and death, US researchers said.

Dr Michelle D Holmes of the Channing Laboratory at Harvard and Brigham and Women's Hospital in Boston, and colleagues found an aspirin at least two days a week significantly reduced breast cancer death risk by 64 percent to 71 percent, Medpage Today reported on Tuesday.

The analysis included responses from 4,164 female registered nurses diagnosed with early stage breast cancer from 1976-2002 with follow-up through death or June 2006. Holmes said aspirin use assessments in the first year after the breast cancer diagnosis were excluded since the drug is discouraged during chemotherapy.

For the women who survived for more than a year after diagnosis, those who used aspirin more were less likely to subsequently die from breast cancer, the study said.

The findings, published in the Journal of Clinical Oncology, were "all the more notable because the Nurses' Health Study did not find an association between aspirin use and breast cancer incidence."

New device aims to hike solar power output

WASHINGTON, 18 Feb—Amid a global scramble to invest in solar power as a viable renewable energy option, pressure is mounting on manufacturers to maximize electricity output with minimum outlay.

Mitsubishi Electric Corporation announced it has developed the world's first technology to maximize output power in photovoltaic systems in poor weather conditions.

Mitsubishi said the PV systems' output would be enhanced through the inclusion of a new maximum power-point tracking system in PV inverters.

The technology, which works with a single PV inverter, achieves the maximum power point even when part of a PV array is hidden by shadow or dust, Mitsubishi said. Solar power as a renewable energy of the future has gained ground worldwide but with its popularity pressure has built on both energy producers and plant manufacturers to extract maximum results at minimum cost. Industry analysts said solar energy output and cost efficiency increasingly would depend on the quality of equipment supplied.

Hormone therapy increases heart risk

BETHESDA, 18 Feb—Analyses from the Women's Health Initiative confirm combination hormone therapy increases heart disease risk, US researchers said.

Researchers from the Harvard School of Public Health and the National Heart, Lung and Blood Institute re-analyzed data from the landmark Women's Health Initiative clinical trial of the effects of combination hormone therapy — progestin in combination with estrogen — in 16,608 post-menopausal women with an intact uterus, ages 50-79 years at enrollment.

The study, published in the Annals of Internal Medicine, found a trend toward an increased risk of heart disease during the first two years of hormone therapy among women who began therapy within 10 years of menopause, and a more marked elevation of risk among women who began hormone therapy more than 10 years after menopause.

"Today, most women who take hormone therapy for menopausal symptoms begin therapy shortly after menopause."

US airports to use new flexible explosives screeners

WASHINGTON, 18 Feb—US aviation security authorities will begin using portable screeners at airports to check for explosives from passengers and their carry-on bags, the USA TODAY reported on Wednesday. Sterling Payne, spokeswoman of US Transportation Security Administration (TSA), said that the portable machines have already been tested at five airports after the failed Christmas bombing attempts and will be rolled out nationwide in a few weeks.

The explosives detectors are usually fixed at airport checkpoints. Screeners take chemical swabs from passengers and their bags to check for explosives under sensors, which are so sensitive that even passengers who have recently taken heart pills containing nitroglycerin can ring the alarm. It marks the first time that explosives screeners, whose size is like a microwave oven, will be used outside checkpoints. Screeners can use those machines to take random checks on passengers waiting in lines for boarding an airplane.

The new explosives screeners will fill the security hole under current metal detectors widely used at all airports.—Xinhua

23 taken to hospital in US school carbon monoxide incident

WASHINGTON, 18 Feb—Twenty-three students and teachers were taken to a hospital in a US high school carbon monoxide incident on Wednesday, local media reported. The incident occurred at St Thomas Aquinas High School in Derry, New Hampshire.

One student and one teacher fainted when fire officials arrived, and many others also showed symptoms of carbon monoxide poisoning, local WMUR-TV reported. The building has been evacuated. Firefighters and ambulances have come to the scene for emergency response. —Xinhua

Foot-long surgical tool left in woman's abdomen

IVANCEICE, 18 Feb—Czech medical staff are being disciplined after a foot-long surgical instrument was found in the abdomen of a woman who was operated on five months ago. The patient, 66-year-old Zdenka Kopeckova, repeatedly complained of severe abdominal pain following a gynaecological operation at a hospital in the south-eastern town of Ivanceice.

"I said that nobody helps me and I cannot live like this till the end of my life. I'll get pills, have a glass of an alcohol and hang myself," she said after the spatula-like instrument was discovered a week ago and successfully removed. Kopeckova is seeking compensation over the error, claiming staff initially tried to cover up the mistake by saying there was nothing they could do but recommend pain killers. "I told the head surgeon that if I had no pain I would not be complaining. I'm not a hypochondriac," she said, adding she had requested an x-ray but was told this would needlessly expose her to radiation.

Jaromir Hrubec, Ivanceice hospital director, said strict operation procedures should have been followed by medical staff and an unnamed hospital official told Reuters Television that those concerned would be disciplined.

Photographer in the frame over track soaking

WHISTLER, 18 Feb—A photographer caused a delay during a crucial moment of the women's luge competition on Tuesday when he accidentally knelt on a switch that sent water spurting on to the track.

Germany's bronze medalist Natalie Geisenberger was just about to push off for her fourth run down the Whistler course when a red warning light flashed at the starting gate—causing a two-minute delay.

"It was a hold put on the track as a result of a hydrant being accidentally activated, spraying water on the track. It was a obviously a matter of safety for the athlete," race director Ed Moffat said.

Gardasil protects older women, gay men

WASHINGTON, 18 Feb—Gardasil, the vaccine that protects against the cervical-cancer-causing human papilloma virus, may soon be approved for women over age 27. New clinical trial data involving more than 3,800 women ages 24 to 45 showed that the shot was nearly 90 percent effective at preventing persistent HPV infections—which are sexually transmitted—over the study's four-year duration, according to manufacturer Merck, which released the study today. (The vaccine protects against two strains of the virus responsible for 70 percent of cervical cancers and two strains that cause genital warts.)

Merck is hoping that the Food and Drug Administration will grant the company permission to expand its product label to include women over 27; it's currently approved only for those ages 9 to 26. The agency deferred a decision on Merck's application for expanded use in June 2008 and again last year. The FDA asked Merck for longer-term efficacy data out to four years, according to Merck spokesperson Pamela Eisele. She says the company expects an FDA decision by June.

Single women could benefit big time from an expanded approval of this vaccine—especially if they're back on the dating scene after a long hiatus. Many, warned by their doctors against the risk of HPV infections, are currently footing the bill for the $360 cost of the three injections since insurance usually won't cover vaccines or drugs that doctors administer "off label."

Australian state issues whooping cough warning

CANBERRA, 18 Feb—Queensland Health on Thursday renewed its call for parents and carers of babies to be immunized against whooping cough with the illness still on the rise. More than 700 have been recorded since January this year following the reporting of about 6,000 cases last year. Dr Jeanette Young said whooping cough can be fatal for babies, and parents and carers need to have a booster dose of the vaccine.

"The most important group that we need to look after are young babies because they can't be vaccinated until they're at least two months of age and they don't get full protection until they've had their third shot when they're six months of age," she said.—Xinhua

Suicide car bomber kills six in western Iraq

RAMADI, 18 Feb—At least six were killed and 10 others injured in a suicide car bomb attack on Thursday in Ramadi, the capital of Anbar Province, a provincial police source said. The suicide bomber drove his explosive-laden car into a checkpoint near the provincial government office in central Ramadi, some 100 km west of Baghdad, the source told Xinhua on condition of anonymity. Most of the victims were civilians as the blast hit several civilian cars at the checkpoint, the source said. Iraqi security forces sealed off the scene while dozens of them deployed in the surrounding area and blocked the main roads leading to the scene, the source said.—Xinhua

Europe's giants make last-ditch bid for glory

PARIS, 18 Feb — Italian giants Juventus will take a stab at European glory for the second time this season when they meet Dutch heavyweights Ajax in the first-leg of their Europa League tie on Thursday.

The last 32 clash is a rematch of the 1996 Champions League final, which saw the Italian club triumph over then holders Ajax in a penalty shootout 4-2 after it finished 1-1 at the end of normal time.

With the Amsterdam side nine points off league leaders PSV Eindhoven and Juventus trailing first-placed Inter Milan by 16 points, the Europa League represents their last chance at winning a major title in 2010.

Juve's French midfielder Jonathan Zebina conceded that another Serie A title is out of the club's reach but that his team would give their all to win the trophy. "We have to continue now as the season is still long and there are objectives.

It might not be the Scudetto, but it won't be bad if we win the Europa League," Zebina told the official Juventus website.

Wenger blames ref over controversial Porto goal

PORTO, 18 Feb—Arsene Wenger accused referee Martin Hansson of gifting Porto the winning goal in the Portuguese side's 2-1 victory over Arsenal in the first leg of their Champions League last 16 tie.

The Swedish official allowed Porto to take a quick free-kick in the 52nd minute of Wednesday's game here after Arsenal goalkeeper Lukasz Fabianski handled a back-pass, allowing Falcao to score what proved to be the winner.

Hansson came under fire in November after failing to spot a clear handball by Thierry Henry in the build-up to France's winning goal in their World Cup qualifying play-off with the Republic of Ireland.

"It is better than a penalty. It is unbelievable that he allows Porto to play straight away and put the ball in the net. I've been in football for a long time and I'd never seen something like that," Wenger said.

Wenger also queried the decision to award the free-kick, arguing that Sol Campbell had not deliberately passed the ball back to his goalkeeper, and said Arsenal should have been given a penalty for a foul on Tomas Rosicky shortly before Porto's second goal.

The Russian remained on course for a clash with second-seeded American Melanie Oudin, who beat compatriot Lilia Osterloh 6-2, 6-1. Oudin needed just 61 minutes to win through, despite having won her opener late on Tuesday.

Bolton stay in relegation zone after stalemate at Wigan

WIGAN, 18 Feb — Bolton remained in the Premier League relegation zone after grinding out a 0-0 draw against fellow strugglers Wigan on Wednesday. Owen Coyle's 18th placed team moved up one spot as a result of the stalemate at the DW Stadium, but they missed a chance to climb out of the bottom three. Wigan are also still in trouble and lie just two points above the drop zone after their fifth league game without a win.

Latics boss Roberto Martinez handed a first start to Bolivian striker Marcelo Moreno, signed on loan from Ukraine's UEFA Cup winners Shakhtar Donetsk, while Bolton named an unchanged side following Sunday's FA Cup draw against Tottenham. With Bolton in the bottom three and Wigan just above the relegation zone, there was more than just Lancashire pride at stake for both teams in this local derby.—Internet

Insua grateful for Reds run

LIVERPOOL, 18 Feb — Emiliano Insua feels this season has seen him solidify his place as a regular in the Liverpool side despite a campaign of disappointments at Anfield. The 21-year-old Argentinian left back has been a regular in Rafael Benitez's teams this season, playing 24 games in the Premier League. Liverpool were knocked out of the Champions League in the group phase and, having been tipped to challenge for the English title, are now battling for fourth place.

They now face Romanian side Unirea in the first leg of the round of 32 at Anfield here on Thursday as they begin their Europa League campaign. Insua has made the most

On fire Wendel hits double to dump Lorient out of cup

PARIS, 18 Feb —Bordeaux's Brazilian midfielder Wendel struck his second double in as many games as defending French League Cup holders Bordeaux beat 10-man Lorient 4-1 in their semi-final clash on Wednesday.

Much of the pre-match hype had centred on the father and son match-up between Bordeaux playmaker Yohann Gourcuff and Lorient coach Christian, who is still chasing the first piece of silverware of his managerial career.

However, the fate of the match was effectively decided in the 24th minute when Lorient were leading 1-0 but their goalscorer Laurent Koscielny was harshly adjudged to have fouled Marouane Chamakh and was also sent-off while Wendel converted the ensuing penalty. Gourcuff senior said that the manner of the defeat had left a bitter taste in his mouth.—Internet

Bayern leave it late against 10-man Fiorentina

MUNICH, 18 Feb—Bayern Munich left it late to beat a dogged 10-man Fiorentina with a controversial last-minute goal to hand the German giants a 2-1 win, making it 13 in a row in all competitions. German international striker Miroslav Klose headed home in the 89th minute after the ball went loose from a long distance shot from Dutch international Arjen Robben, but he was in a clear offside position.

The strike gave the Bundesliga outfit a slender advantage when the two sides head to Florence for the second leg on 9 March, with the Italians clinging to a precious away goal. After the game, Klose admitted that he was offside, saying: "I haven't seen the replay but it felt like I was offside." Shown the replay, he acknowledged that the goal should not have been given.—Internet

Dalglish claims Celtic face do or die Old Firm clashes

GLASGOW, 18 Feb—Kenny Dalglish admits Celtic have to win their two remaining Old Firm games against arch rivals Rangers if his former club are to win the Scottish Premier League title. Celtic currently trail Rangers by 10 points with 13 games remaining, but they can claw back six of those points by defeating their Glasgow neighbours twice - starting with the visit to Ibrox at the end of February.

Dalglish knows all about the pressure of fighting Rangers for the title after an eight-year spell as a Celtic player. The Liverpool legend also had a brief spell as Celtic director of football and, speaking in Glasgow at the launch of a new football youth initiative on Wednesday, he said: "Celtic have to get 11 more points than Rangers before the end of the season.—Internet

Seeing is believing: Go Muse

Due to better transport in the time of Tatmadaw government, Muse in Shan State (North) has developed into a border tourism town.

Having a more consolidated relationship between Myanmar and China, it becomes a border tourism town. In the past, Muse has difficulties in transport sector due to transport and security barriers.

Being a border trade centre of Myanmar, trade between Myanmar and China has increased. In order to write articles on regional development, Myanmar Alin daily news crew made a trip to Muse, a border
