In its effort to boost the development of the country, the government is building a lot of power stations and hydropower stations across the nation.

To supply hydropower needed in the country, Thaukyaykhat hydropower project (2) is being implemented about 14 miles east of Toungoo. The hydropower project includes Sittoung basin development project. Experts from UNDP and Myanmar engineers carried out feasibility study the project in 1964.

The Ministry of Electric Power No.1 started the project in 2008. The purposes of building the project are to distribute electric power supply generated from the project to the whole country through the national grid and to irrigate many acres of farmlands in the region.

Record paddy output on target

Agriculture is the major sector for economic growth of the nation. The agricultural sector makes greater contribution to GDP than any other sector. Now, agricultural production is on the increase year by year and so is agricultural export.

Agricultural farming is the main source of income for rural folks, who make up the great majority of the nation's population. Boosting production of crops especially paddy can improve the social-economic status of rural people as well as the economy of the nation.

Now, annual paddy output has touched over 1500 million baskets from over 20 million acres of monsoon and summer paddy fields. This agricultural season, the paddy output of more than 1600 million baskets is on target. The goal calls for more sown acreage and scientific agricultural methods.

In this regard, the regions without favourable conditions to grow paddy extensively should focus greater attention to high-yield paddy strains. And the departments concerned should provide paddy seeds of quality strains and advanced agricultural methods.

Moreover, all farmers should use agricultural machinery and should be provided with many forms of agricultural assistance such as fertilizers and pesticides. Post-harvest methods should also be disseminated in order that farmers can minimize loss and wastage in the production processes.

So far, the government has constructed more than 200 dams for supply of adequate irrigation water. It is also providing paddy seeds of high-yield strains. Entrepreneurs, farmers and agriculturists are therefore to keep working harmoniously for boosting production of crops including paddy.

KABUL, 30 Aug—Continued Taliban-led militancy in the war-torn Afghanistan have claimed 971 lives including 618 Taliban militants, 229 civilians and 124 personnel of Afghan National Police (ANP) over the past month, spokesman of the Interior Ministry Zamarai Bashari said on Sunday.

These casualties have been reported from 23 July to 22 August, he said.

"Some 691 terrorist and violent incidents, most of them roadside bomb blasts took place, which indicates 33 percent decrease from the previous month," Bashari told a joint Press conference with the NATO-led International Security Assistance Force (ISAF) spokesman Brigadier-General Josef Blotz in the interior ministry compound.

He said that 434 Afghan civilians, 232 ANP personnel and 135 militants were also wounded over the same period.

According to Bashari, 593 Taliban and other anti-government militants had been arrested over the above period.

KATHMANDU, 30 Aug—Nepalese investigators hoping to find the cause of a small plane crash last week that killed 14 people, including six foreigners, offered a reward Monday for help in finding the aircraft's "black box" recorders. Investigators still have been unable to locate the voice and data recorders nearly a week after the 24 Aug crash near Shikharpur village, about 50 miles (80 kilometers) south of Kathmandu.

The private Agni Air flight was heading to the Mount Everest region when it crashed in heavy rain outside Nepal's capital, killing all 14 people aboard, including four Americans a Briton and a Japanese.

Suresh Acharya, a spokesman for the government appointed investigation team, said investigators distributed photos of such devices among villagers and offered a reward of 50,000 Nepalese rupees ($675) for anyone who finds them.—Internet

Four NATO oil tankers destroyed by Taliban in Pakistan

ISLAMABAD, 30 Aug—At least four NATO supply oil tankers were completely destroyed on Sunday in an attack near Torkham, Pakistan-Afghanistan border area in northwest of Pakistan, local media reported.

Militants attacked NATO tankers supply caravan in with rockets turning the four tankers into ashes in Khyber Agency tribal area of Pakistan, local sources told DAWN. However, no casualties were reported.

Major incidents include an attack in June when 60 NATO supply trucks were burnt to ashes and eight local drivers were killed and several injured in an attack near capital city Islamabad. While in April four policemen were killed as 12 NATO trucks were burnt in eastern Punjab Province.

Gunman kills four before committing suicide in US state of Arizona

LOS ANGELES, 30 Aug—A gunman fatally shot four people in an Arizona community of the United States early Sunday, authorities said.

The gunman entered a home in Lake Havasu City of Arizona and started shooting people inside, according to a police report.

The gunman fled with two of his children in a truck after the shooting, the report said.

Those killed were the children's mother and three others. Two survived in the shooting, Lake Havasu police said.

The gunman had been fighting with his wife over custody of their young children, police said.

The suspect was found dead later Sunday in California of a self-inflicted gunshot wound, police said.

The two young children were found safe with their relatives.

Computers take a closer look inside the Earth

SACRAMENTO, 30 Aug—More detailed pictures of the processes that continuously reshape the Earth from the inside out are being generated by new, more sophisticated computer models, yielding new insights into the hidden world beneath our feet.

The added resolution that these models provide down to a single kilometre from a minimum of 20 kilometres (0.6 to 12 miles) in previous models - could improve our understand-ding of the forces behind the movement of the planet's tectonic plates, which cause the rumblings of earthquakes and explosion of volcanoes.

It may also help explain why the Earth, uniquely in our solar system, has plate tectonics in the first place.

Some of the insights these models could provide are detailed in a study in the 27 Aug issue of the journal Science. The movement of plates depends on many complex factors, including temperature, stress and the composition of the local rock.

To include all these things in a model requires very high resolution, explained Thorsten Becker of the University of Southern California, who was not part of the study but who wrote an accompanying editorial on the study in the same issue of Science.

From outer space, a new dilemma for old-growth forests

WASHINGTON, 30 Aug—A new study using laser pulses shot from satellites has found that the world's tallest forests are those along the Pacific Northwest coast. Though the findings shouldn't shock anyone who grew up in the region, they offer another indication of how important these ancient trees eventually could become.

The temperate forests of Douglas fir, Western hemlock, redwoods and sequoias that stretch from northern California into British Columbia easily reach an average height of more than 131 feet. That's taller than the boreal forests of northern Canada and Eurasia, tropical rainforests and the broadleaf forests common in much of the United States and Europe. The only forests that come close are in Southeast Asia, along the southern rim of the Himalayas and in Indonesia, Malaysia and Laos. As scientists try to unravel the mystery of missing carbon, increasing attention is focused on these forests.

From 15 percent to 30 percent of the 7 billion tons of carbon that are released globally every year is unaccounted for, government scientists say. About 3 billions tons remain in the atmosphere, and the oceans absorb 2 billion tons. Vegetation, including the forests, probably absorbs the remaining 1 billion to 2 billion tons, but no one knows for sure how much and where.—Internet

Gene testing war looms for AstraZeneca heart drug

STOCKHOLM, 30 Aug—Gene testing is shaping up to be a marketing battleground for new blood thinners like AstraZeneca's Brilinta, underscoring the power and limitations of genetics as a tool to predict medical outcomes.

The arrival of generic copies of Sanofi-Aventis and Bristol-Myers Squibb's top-seller Plavix makes the issue a hot topic scientifically and commercially, new studies at the European Society of Cardiology congress on Sunday showed.

One study found AstraZeneca's Brilinta, unlike Plavix, requires no genetic testing to check if it will work, while another showed Eli Lilly and Daiichi Sankyo's Effient also worked irrespective of gene variations.

On the face of it, the results of the two company-sponsored trials give the firms valuable ammunition in a looming marketing war with cheap copies of Plavix, or clopidogrel.

"Physicians don't like complications, so if there was an alternative to clopidogrel that worked the same way that did not have these variations then most people would jump on it," said Alfred Bove of Philadelphia's Temple University School of Medicine.

But the evidence is far from clear-cut. A third study, sponsored by Sanofi and Bristol, contradicted the idea that people with a certain genetic make-up don't benefit from Plavix.

New Yorker quietly updates Digital Edition for iPad

NEW YORK, 30 Aug—Subscribers to The New Yorker have been able to read their issues—as well as archived magazines going back to 1925—online in a Web browser for a while thanks to The New Yorker Digital Edition. Unfortunately, the site was incompatible with Safari running on the iPad, making the feature a lot less useful for people on the go.

But now the magazine has quietly updated its site to give iPad users full access to 85 years of wit and wisdom from the pages of The New Yorker. The Digital Edition automatically recognizes you're visiting from an iPad, and serves an optimized version of the site. You can view single pages in portrait orientation or spreads in landscape orientation, and you can double-tap to zoom in on a section and then scroll around the page. A single tap on the screen brings up controls for viewing thumbnails of pages, accessing archives by year, setting preferences, and more.

Playing with the iPad version in Safari, I found it to be pleasurable and easy to use, although not as slick and smooth as the magazines I read using Zinio. Publisher Conde Nast has announced it plans a native New Yorker app for the iPad sometime this year, but there's been no indication whether it will offer free access to subscribers as the new People Magazine app does.—Internet

Quality of care after joint surgery may affect heart health

CLAMART, 30 Aug— The quality of care a patient receives immediately after orthopedic surgery has a major impact on long-term heart health, a new study shows. A team of French researchers checked troponin levels in 378 patients for three days after they had orthopedic surgery, which includes procedures such as joint replacement. Troponin is a protein that's measured to determine whether physiologic stress related to surgery has caused damage to the heart.

Dr Sylvain Ausset, of Percy Military Hospital in Clamart, France, and colleagues focused on troponin levels to detect myocardial ischemia (commonly called angina), which correlated with worse long-term cardiac outcomes. The researchers then modified postoperative care to reduce events believed to lead to increased episodes of angina based on elevated troponin levels. Doing so lowered the incidence of cardiac problems months, and even years, later, they found. The methods used to improve quality of care included tighter control of oxygen and glucose levels in patients' blood, along with consistency and continuity of care as hospital staff monitored and cared for patients, according to the report published in the October issue of Anesthesiology.

Prescription painkillers could be new 'gateway' drugs

BUFFALO, 30 Aug— Prescription medicines are the way that many drug addicts first get hooked, making these legal medicines the new "gateway" drugs, new study findings show.

University at Buffalo researchers interviewed 75 patients hospitalized for opioid detoxification and found that 31 of them said they first became addicted to legitimately prescribed painkillers. Another 24 patients said their addiction began when they used a friend's left-over prescription pills or stole drugs from a parent's medicine cabinet, while the remaining 20 patients said they got hooked on street drugs. But the study found that 92 percent of the patients said they eventually bought illegal drugs (usually heroin) because street drugs are less expensive and more effective than prescription drugs. Their reasons for continuing to use drugs included to feel "normal," to feel "like a better person" or to ease emotional pain and stress. "We are seeing an increase in the number of patients addicted to prescription drugs, so we wanted to better understand how they first got hooked," study senior author Dr Richard Blondell, a professor of family medicine, said in a University at Buffalo news release.

Global auto sales to hit 70 mln units this year

BEIJING, 30 Aug—Global auto sales are expected to reach 70 million units this year, as China continues to lead the new car market, a senior executive with Japanese automaker Nissan Motor Co said. In 2009, global auto sales only reached 60.99 million units due to the global economic downturn, according to the International Organization of Motor Vehicle Manufacturers (OICA).

China became the second largest market for Nissan in 2009, said Dr Andy Palmer, Senior Vice President and Executive Committee member of Nissan Motor, on Friday. Sales of Nissan's luxury brand Infiniti in China hit 5,113 units in the first half year, more than double from a year earlier, said Palmer, adding that sales for the entire year could exceed 10,000 units, second only to the United States market. Mars's mysterious elongated crater

NEW YORK, 30 Aug—Orcus Patera is an enigmatic elliptical depression near Mars's equator, in the eastern hemisphere of the planet. Located between the volcanoes of Elysium Mons and Olympus Mons, its formation remains a mystery.

Often overlooked, this well-defined depression extends approximately 380 km by 140 km in a NNE-SSW direction. It has a rim that rises up to 1800 m above the surrounding plains, while the floor of the depression lies 400-600 m below the surroundings.

The term 'patera' is used for deep, complex or irregularly shaped volcanic craters such as the Hadriaca Patera and Tyrrhena Patera at the north-eastern margin of the Hellas impact basin. However, despite its name and the fact that it is positioned near volcanoes, the actual origin of Orcus Patera remains unclear.

Aside from volcanism, there are a number of other possible origins. Orcus Patera may be a large and originally round impact crater, subsequently deformed by compressional forces. Alternatively, it could have formed after the erosion of aligned

Newborn Hurricane Earl threatens north Caribbean

SAN JUAN, 30 Aug—Islanders set up emergency shelters and airlines canceled flights as newly born Hurricane Earl churned toward the northern Caribbean on Sunday. Cruise lines diverted ships to avoid the storm's path.

The US National Hurricane Centre in Miami said Earl strengthened into a Category 2 storm with maximum sustained winds of 100 mph (160 kph), and was expected to continue picking up steam as it moved near the northern Leeward islands.

Steady bands of rain began lashing islands including Antigua, where the Grand Pineapple Beach Resort on the north side battened down early for the night and tourists sought shelter inside their rooms.

Winds were heavy but had not caused any major damage, and the surf was higher than normal but not punishing, general manager Courtney Miller told The Associated Press by phone.

Centre forecasters said Earl could strengthen into a major hurricane as soon as Monday — probably while east of Puerto Rico. Major hurricanes are those Category 3 and higher.

Prehistoric villages ruins found in North China

HOHHOT, 30 Aug—Archeologists in north China's Inner Mongolia Autonomous Region said on Monday they have found the ruins of two prehistoric villages in Tongliao City of eastern Inner Mongolia.

The ruins in Hamin'aile Village, of Horqin Left-wing Middle Banner (County), were identified in the spring as possibly originating from Hongshan Culture, dating back 5,000 years, said Ji Ping, a researcher at the Institute of Cultural and Historical Relics and Archaeology of Inner Mongolia.

About 1,200 square meters had been excavated out of an estimated 200,000 square metres, and homes and tombs had been discovered, Ji said.

"Pitted earthenware, such as jars and pots, were also found, which was the first time that have been unearthed in the prehistoric ruins in northeast China," he said.—Xinhua

Thousands affected by flooding in southern Mexico

VILLAHERMOSA, 30 Aug—Authorities in Mexico's Gulf coast state of Tabasco are evacuating about 7,000 people and preparing to dig relief channels to avoid further flooding from the Grijalva River.

Weeks of steady rains have caused a half-dozen rivers to overflow, partially flooding the homes or croplands of more than 60,000 people in about 200 towns. Dams in the area are near capacity.

The federal government has declared a state of emergency for 12 low-lying Tabasco townships, freeing emergency funds. The state government said it would evacuate people on Sunday, and authorities said relief ditches would be dug to channel water through less-populated areas to prevent flooding in the state capital, which was severely flooded in 2007.

India meets for decision on BlackBerry ban

NEW DELHI, 30 Aug—Indian officials meet on Monday to decide whether to ban some of Research In Motion's BlackBerry services, a day before the deadline runs out for the firm to give security agencies access to its secure data.

Government sources have said the 31 August deadline could be extended some suggestions on how a secure email on BlackBerry may be accessed. "A final decision will be taken after considering all aspects and national security interests," a source in the interior ministry told Reuters. The outcome of the meeting may not be announced on Monday. The sources

Death toll from Ecuador's bus accident reaches 42

QUITO, 30 Aug—The death toll from Sunday morning's bus accident in the Andean region of Ecuador has reached 42 with 11 others injured, the Ecuadorian Red Cross said.

Most of the injured were in serious conditions and had been taken to nearby hospitals, local media reported.

The accident occurred early Sunday morning at 3 am local time (0800 GMT) when a passenger bus carrying 53 passengers fell into a cliff. It was traveling from Cuenca, in the centre of the country, to Quito.

The latest death toll has not been confirmed by the Ecuadorian Interior Ministry and the police. Earlier, Ecuadorian Interior Minister Gustavo Jalkh said 38 people had died from the accident with 12 others injured.

Initial reports showed that the bus driver, who died in the accident, apparently lost the vehicle's control and went off the line before falling to the cliff.

Indonesia's volcano re-erupts, threatens international aviation

Mount Sinabung volcano spews smoke in the district of Tanah Karo outside the city of Medan, North Sumatra on 28 August, 2010.—XINHUA

JAKARTA, 30 Aug—Volcano in Sumatra Island of Indonesia erupted again on Monday morning, spewing smokes up to over 2,000 metres high, potential to disturb international flight, Volcanology Agency and Meteorology Agency said.

Mount Sinabung in North Sumatra Province re-erupted at 06:30 am Jakarta Time on Monday (2330 GMT Sunday), head of the Investigation Unit of the volcanology agency Muhammad Hendratno told Xinhua over phone from West Java Province.

Spokesman of Transport Ministry Bambang Ervan said that the eruption is potential to disturb aviation.

"It will depend on the direction of wind blow.

Should it direct to the north, it will hamper international flight, and if the wind blow direct to the east, it will disturb domestic flight," he told Xinhua.

Most of international flights to the main airport in the province and other airports in the island come from north, said Ervan. Official of the information meteorology at the Meteorology and Geophysics Agency Agie Wandala said that the wind direction at this time is toward the north.

"The direction of wind blow at this period is toward the north," he said. Spokesman of the transport ministry said that the flight must be canceled.—Xinhua

Bolivia finishes rescue of 12 pink river dolphins

LA PAZ, 30 Aug—Bolivian biologists say they have finished rescuing 12 pink, freshwater dolphins who were trapped in a river.

Rescue team member Mariana Escobar says the six-day effort to free the dolphins finished on Thursday.

The animals had swum from their normal home in the Rio Grande into the more tranquil Rio Paila to breed. Flooding blocked the river and prevented them from returning to their habitat. They were at risk of dying as the dry season lowers the smaller river.

Rescuers caught the dolphin in nets and carried them in padded containers in an all-terrain vehicle to the larger river, where they were released.

The dolphins weight about 65 to 90 pounds (30 to 40 kilogrammes).—Xinhua

Oil hovers above $75 as Asian stocks rally

SINGAPORE, 30 Aug—Oil prices hovered above $75 a barrel on Monday in Asia, buoyed by rallying global stock markets and improving investor sentiment.

Benchmark crude for October delivery was up 1 cent at $75.18 a barrel at midday Singapore time in electronic trading on the New York Mercantile Exchange. The contract rose $1.81 to settle at $75.17 on Friday.

Federal Reserve Chairman Ben Bernanke said on Friday the central bank was ready to step in if the US economy showed further signs of weakening. Bernanke's comments sparked a stock market rally, with the Dow Jones industrial average jumping 1.7 percent on Friday.

All major Asia stock markets followed the US lead and rose Monday. They also got a boost from Japan's central bank deciding at an emergency board meeting to further ease monetary policy by extending more cheap loans to financial institutions.

Oil traders often closely watch equities as a gauge of overall investor sentiment.

"Markets got the clarity they wanted," DBS bank said in a report. "The Fed will cut if it needs to."

Oil prices have bobbed near $75 for most of the past year as the global economy recovered from last year's recession, but developed countries struggle to regain strong growth.—Internet

Singapore ramps up measures to cool property market

SINGAPORE, 30 Aug—Singapore on Monday announced fresh anti-speculation measures to cool its private property market as the city-state's double-digit economic growth keeps upward pressure on demand.

Owners who sell houses and apartments less than three years after buying them will have to pay a duty of three percent of the resale value — a measure previously applicable to transactions within one year of the purchase. For buyers with at least one outstanding loan, the minimum cash down payment was raised from five to 10 percent of valuation, while the maximum amount a bank can lend was capped at 70 percent, down from 80 percent. The balance of the purchase price can be taken from pension savings.

The measures, which take immediate effect, are designed to discourage "flipping" — buying properties on easy credit with low cash down payments, and then reselling them quickly for profit.

They were announced as a traditional lull in the property market in August was about to come to an end.

"The government's objective is to ensure a stable and sustainable property market where prices move in line with economic fundamentals," said a joint statement from the central bank and ministries of finance and national development.—Internet

Intel to buy Infineon's wireless ops for $1.4 billion

FRANKFURT, 30 Aug—German chipmaker Infineon has agreed to sell its wireless unit to Intel for $1.4 billion, enabling the US chipmaker to boost its presence in the smartphone market.

The cash transaction is expected to close in the first quarter of 2011, Infineon said in a statement on Monday. The wireless unit will remain as a standalone business, Intel said.

"The acquisition of Infineon's WLS business strengthens the second pillar of our computing strategy - Internet connectivity - and enables us to offer a portfolio of products," Intel Chief Executive Paul Otellini said.

Three people familiar with the matter had told Reuters on Friday that Intel and Infineon would likely reach an agreement on the future of Infineon's wireless operations within the next few days.

Infineon shares closed down 0.9 percent at 4.61 euros ($5.86) in Frankfurt on Friday, recouping some of the losses they posted after Intel warned that its third-quarter revenue would fall short of its own expectations due to weak consumer demand on personal computers. Intel shares closed largely flat at $18.37.—Reuters

Russian emergencies chief calls on volunteer firefighters

Moscow, 30 Aug—Russia, a vast country of 144 million people, needs as many as one million volunteer firefighters, said Emergencies Minister Sergei Shoigu on Sunday.

"We need an 800,000-, one million-volunteer fire department. But we would like it to be a service based on professionalism, so that these people are trained, so that they are well equipped," said the minister as quoted by the RIA Novosti news agency. Shoigu also voiced hope that the new law on volunteer fire service could be enacted this year.

Currently Russia owns some 250,000 professional firefighters. Thousands of Russian volunteers have participated in the combat against hundreds of scorching wildfires amid abnormal heat waves this summer, along with firefighters and servicemen.

Also on Sunday, the regional administration of Ukraine's Lugansk said Shoigu has voiced gratitude to the regional head Valery Golenko and local rescuers, for lending a hand in extinguishing wildfires in Russian region of Voronezh. The Lugansk region shares a 700-km border with Russia.

According to the Iar-Tass news agency, Ukraine sent two firefighting planes and other machinery to Russia this summer, helping put out blazes that devoured forests in 22 regions.—Xinhua

The deal is expected to be rubber-stamped next month, although Vodafone is deciding whether to seek a strategic investor for the stake or sell the shares on the Hong Kong stock market, where China Mobile is listed, the report said.

A Vodafone spokeswoman told AFP the claim was "speculation" and the company would make no further comment.

Three Russian pilots reportedly kidnapped in Sudan's Darfur

KHARTOUM, 30

Aug—Three Russian pilots were kidnapped in Nyala, capital of the South Darfur State, on Sunday by unidentified gunmen, reported Khartoum Al Ahdath daily on Monday.

The paper quoted an anonymous local official in the South Darfur State as saying that "unidentified men on a Land Cruiser vehicle obstructed a mini-bus that was carrying the three pilots and kidnapped them at gun point."

"The abductors drove with the kidnapped pilots to a remote area north of Nyala.

The security authorities identified the area and presently surrounding the abductors," the anonymous source said according to the paper.

The three Russian pilots were working for the Sudanese Badr Aviation Company, the paper said.

The incident came after a series of abductions against foreigners and humanitarian workers in the Darfur Region which has been suffering from a civil war since 2003.

Screening reveals key to migraines in the genes

LONDON, 30 Aug — A revolutionary way of screening the entire human genome for the genetic signposts of disease has produced its latest success — the first inherited link to the common migraine.

The technique, which scans all 23 pairs of human chromosomes in a single sweep, has found the first genetic risk factor that predisposes someone to the common form of migraine, which affects one in six women and one in 12 men. The discovery has immediately led to a new possible cause of migraine by alerting scientists to DNA defects involved in the build-up of a substance in the nerves of sufferers that could be the trigger for their migraines.—Internet

Crowds of spectators and 163 competitors from around the world, some in fancy dress, descended on Waen Rhydd Bog on the outskirts of Llanwrtyd Wells, Powys, mid Wales.

Winner Dan Morgan, from Brecon, beat the previous best time by almost eight seconds when he swam two lengths of a 55-metre (180ft) trench in one minute 30.66 seconds. Run by a team of volunteers, the annual competition is part of a roster of eccentric events held throughout the year at Llanwrtyd Wells, the UK's smallest town.

It also hosts the Man Versus Horse Marathon and a bog snorkelling triathlon, which includes a seven and a half mile run and a 19-mile bike ride, as well as two lengths of the infamous bog.

Frenchman crowned air guitar champion once again

France's Sylvain Quimene, or "Gunther Love", performs during the 2010 Air Guitar World Championships in Oulu, Finland, on 27 August.

Sylvain "Gunther Love" Quimene of France won the annual Air Guitar World Championships for the second time in a row late Friday, the event's organizers in Finland said.

"Last year's World Champion Sylvain 'Gunther Love' Quimene gave once again a stunning performance and took the highest crown back to France," they said in a statement.

Quimene wowed judges with his imaginary guitar renditions, performed wearing nothing but sunglasses and shiny, tight, gold-coloured trousers.

The 29-year-old Frenchman danced and lip-synched in front of a crowd of up to 8,000 air guitar fans gathered in the northern Finnish town of Oulu.

Man nabbed with fake $1 million bills in Abu Dhabi

US dollar notes being counted. A man has been arrested in the United Arab Emirates for tricking a woman into trying to get change at the central bank for two souvenir one million dollar notes he persuaded her were real, a local daily said.

Can you break a $1 million?

Not a chance. But the story is rich in audacity.

A man from the Ivory Coast is in police custody in Abu Dhabi after allegedly persuading a woman to try to exchange two phony $1 million bills at the UAE's Central Bank.

Police say the suspect promised the woman a 30 percent cut after the bills were traded — presumably for US bills or UAE dirham. The suspect was identified in press reports on Sunday only by the initials AB.

The phony notes feature the $1 portrait of George Washington and are mostly black and white on the front.

Miami park empties when tiger escapes

Officials at Miami's Jungle Island say about 20 visitors asked for their money back as they hustled out after a tiger escaped from its enclosure.

The popular tourist attraction was open for business Sunday after a scare the previous day when Mahesh, a 3-year-old Bengal tiger, jumped 14 feet over a fence and did some impromptu mingling among the suddenly frantic crowd. "People were running for their lives," Larry Rhodes of Pompano Beach told the Miami Herald.

A park spokesman said nearly two dozen of the approximately 700 guests stopped at the ticket booth on their way out for a refund.

As for Mahesh, the 500-600 pound cat didn't attack anyone and was seen in television images calmly lounging around a walkway during part of its 90-minute breakout.

Injury faker caught on tape, arrested

A New York City woman has been arrested for allegedly faking an injury after a light pole knocked down by a truck missed her, police said.

Sherin Brown, 23, was walking on a Brooklyn borough street on Friday when an out-of-control truck hit the pole, which fell but did not hit Brown, the New York Post reported on Sunday.

As police responded to the accident scene, a surveillance camera allegedly caught Brown, unharmed, lying down on the ground near the felled light fixture and telling responding officers she was injured, the newspaper said. Taken to a hospital for examination, she was arrested after police viewed the surveillance tape. Brown faces a Class A misdemeanor charge for falsely reporting an emergency, the Post said.

'Mad Men,' 'Modern Family' win top Emmy Awards

LOS ANGELES, 30 Aug.—The darkly intimate 1960s-era drama "Mad Men" and the comedy romp "Modern Family" were the top honorees at Sunday's Emmy Awards as American life past and present proved a winning formula.

"To our fans, we are so grateful, we are so thrilled that families are sitting down together to watch a television show, and we're so happy that you have let us into your families," said Steven Levitan, "Modern Family" executive producer.

The best comedy series award was the first for the freshman sitcom, which also captured an acting award for Eric Stonestreet and a best writing trophy.

"Mad Men" earned its third consecutive best drama series trophy. Series creator Matthew Weiner seemed to take the night in stride.

"I knew one day I would run somewhere and win a trophy," Weiner joked earlier in the ceremony when he dashed to the stage to claim the Emmy for best drama series writing with Erin Levy.—Internet

'Last Exorcism' takes No 1 spot

LOS ANGELES, 30 Aug.—The spooky "The Last Exorcism" took the No 1 spot at the US box office with $21.3 million in gross receipts during the weekend. But "Takers," starring Matt Dillon and others, was a close No 2 with $21 million.

All estimated studio receipts are via Box Office Mojo. Sylvester Stallone's "The Expendables" was a distant No 3 with $9.5 million.

Julia Roberts "Eat Pray Love" was fourth with $7 million, "The Other Guys" fifth with $6.6 million, "Vampires Suck" sixth with $5.3 million, "Inception" seventh with more than $5 million, "Nanny McPhee Returns" eighth with more than $4.74 million and "The Switch" ninth with more than $4.65 million.

Villa defeat Everton to boost MacDonald's job claims

BIRMINGHAM, 30 Aug — Aston Villa boosted caretaker manager Kevin MacDonald's hopes of landing the job on a permanent basis as Luke Young's goal secured a 1-0 win over Everton on Sunday.

Villa have been without a full-time manager since Martin O'Neill quit just before the start of the season and MacDonald has been holding the fort with mixed results since then.

After an impressive opening day win over West Ham, Villa were thrashed 6-0 at Newcastle and then crashed out of the Europa League against Rapid Vienna in the play-off round on Thursday.

Mancini hopes to hang on to Republic of Ireland goalkeeper Shay Given who is wanted by Fulham manager Mark Hughes.

But Brazil's Robinho, loaned to Santos in his native country last season, is seeking an escape route and has been linked with Barcelona and clubs in Turkey, while Santa Cruz is another Fulham target.

Mancini confirmed: "I would prefer Shay to stay, but I spoke with Roque and he has two or three situations, and Robinho is the same."

Modeste spares Bordeaux against 10-man Marseille

PARIS, 30 Aug — A late Anthony Modeste header earned Bordeaux a 1-1 draw at home to Marseille on Sunday and ensured the 2009 French champions avoided defeat in their first game since the sale of Yoann Gourcuff.

Gourcuff joined Lyon in a 22 million-euro deal earlier this week and in his absence Bordeaux looked set to slip to their third defeat in four games after Lucho Gonzalez gave the visitors a 12th-minute lead.

Marseille had to play for over an hour with 10 men following the first-half dismissal of Edouard

Cisse and they were within two minutes of their first league win at Bordeaux since 1977 when Modeste struck.

Teen motorcycle racer killed in crash at Indy

INDIANAPOLIS, 30 Aug—The motorcycle racing community mourned the death of a promising 13-year-old rider in a crash at Indianapolis Motor Speedway while defending the youth circuit that allows teens to drive vehicles that can top 120 mph.

Peter Lenz of Vancouver, Wash., fell off his bike during the warmup lap for Sunday's first race at Indianapolis and was run over by another motorcycle, driven by a 12-year-old. Medical workers immediately placed Lenz in a neck brace, put him on a stretcher and began chest compressions while taking him to a hospital. Several hours later, he was pronounced dead.

The Marion County coroner's office said Lenz died from blunt force trauma. More details could be released on Monday following an autopsy on the youngest driver or rider ever killed at the 101-year-old speedway.

"Peter passed away early this morning when he was apparently struck by another rider," read a posting on Lenz's Facebook page, which was signed "Dad."

Pwintbyu in pursuance of five methods to get adequate irrigation water

The Irrigation Department and the Water Resources Utilization Department are doing everything possible for supply of adequate irrigation water in central Myanmar. The drive covers five methods namely construction of dams of various sizes; construction of diversion weirs; digging lakes and repairing old lakes; pumping water with electric power from water sources; and sinking tube-wells.

Along our way to Pwintbyu, 26 miles from Minbu, we saw green paddy fields along with some summer paddy fields waiting for harvest.
