Harvest, winnow and store monsoon paddy in time

National economy relies mainly on agriculture. With the advancing agricultural technique, farmers are trying for promotion of cultivation capacity and per-acre high yield and growing quality paddy strains.

It is now in mid-November. The rice-growing regions have started harvesting monsoon paddy as there is no more rain. Many parts of Ayeyawady and Bago Regions are harvesting monsoon paddy. Some areas have already harvested two thirds.

According to weather condition, there might be untimely rainfall. So, the Ministry of Agriculture and Irrigation has issued notices on preventive measures against loss and wastage of newly-harvested monsoon paddy. It is necessary to winnow and store harvested paddy in a shelter as quickly as possible.

If harvested paddy is left on an embankment or in another suitable place for long, it can be broken. As broken paddy can reduce the output rate of rice-milling, paddy should be harvested and winnowed with the use of machinery.

Winnowed paddy must be first dried and sent to a shelter in time. Otherwise, about three baskets of rice per acre can be wasted. The rice produced can be broken and inferior in quality.

All in all, by following the notices of the ministry, farmers will gain benefits from the high yield of quality paddy.

Karzai wants US to cut back Afghan military operations

WASHINGTON, 15 Nov—Afghan President Hamid Karzai wants the US military to scale back the visibility and intensity of its operations in Afghanistan and end night raids that he said incited people to join the Taliban insurgency, The Washington Post reported on Saturday.

“The time has come to reduce military operations,” Karzai told the Post in an interview. “The time has come to reduce the presence of, you know, boots in Afghanistan to reduce the intrusiveness into the daily Afghan life.”

The Post said his comments put him at odds with US General David Petraeus, who has made “capture-and-kill” missions a central part of counterinsurgency strategy.

In the past three months, such night raids of Afghan homes by US Special Operations forces had killed or captured 368 militancy leaders, the Post said.

Karzai was quoted as saying his comments were not meant as criticism of Washington, adding that candor could improve what he termed a “grudging” relationship between the two countries.

A senior Afghan official was quoted by the newspaper as saying that Karzai had repeatedly criticized the night raids in meetings with Petraeus and was seeking veto power over the operations.

“The raids are a problem always. They were a problem then, they are a problem now. They have to go away,” Karzai said in the interview. “The Afghan people don’t like these raids, if there is any raid it has to be done by the Afghan Government within the Afghan laws. This is a continuing disagreement between us,” he said.—MNA/Reuters

Two killed, 11 wounded in bomb attack in S Afghanistan

KANDAHAR, 15 Nov— A powerful bomb blast designed to target a police vehicle rocked Spin Boldak, a border town in southern Afghanistan on Sunday, killing two people and injuring 11 others, a local official said.

“The explosive device planted on a motorbike was detonated by remote control at around 9:00 am local time when a police van was passing by a bus stop, as a result two persons were killed and 11 others sustained injuries,” Hajji Abdul

Ghani, the governor of Spin Boldak district told Xinhua, adding that all victims were civilians.

The official blamed the attack on the enemies of peace, a reference to Taliban militants though no group has claimed responsibilities. French charge four suspected in terror training

PARIS, 15 Nov—A judicial official says that four men suspected of belonging to a network sending French residents to the tribal zones of the Pakistan-Afghanistan border to train for combat have been charged.

A woman who was detained with them has been released.

The official said on Saturday that the men, aged 25 to 30, have been charged with “criminal association linked to a terrorist enterprise.”

The official said the four are also suspected of plotting to kill the head of the Grand Mosque of Paris, Dalil Bouhakeur but there wasn’t enough evidence to justify charges. The official, not authorized to discuss cases publicly, demanded anonymity.

Two of the suspects were detained Monday after disembarking from a flight from Egypt. The others were picked up Tuesday in Paris.

Afghan militants torch NATO convoy; blasts kill three

KABUL, 15 Nov— Militants set fire to a convoy of NATO fuel tankers in eastern Afghanistan on Sunday, while a series of bomb blasts in the south killed a NATO service member and two civilians. The civilians were killed in an explosion in Spin Boldak district of Kandahar Province, just east of the Pakistan border, said district government chief Abdul Ghani. The bomb was attached to a motorcycle parked in the main market, he said. The blast injured more than 10 people.

The NATO service member was killed in a separate explosion. The international military coalition did not provide further details or the nationality of the dead service member. The convoy attack started in the early morning when a group of gunmen rushed on the trucks in Behsud district of Nangarhar Province — the same area on the edge of Jalalabad City where a group of would-be suicide bombers tried to storm a NATO base on Saturday, said Ahmad Zia Abdulzai, a spokesman for the provincial government.

Authorities imposed a curfew as they searched for the assailants.

Clashes during the search operation killed six militants and wounded one soldier in the Matta area.

KABUL, 15 Nov—A soldier with NATO-led International Security Assistance Force (ISAF) was killed in a suspected Taliban bomb attack in southern Afghanistan on Sunday, ISAF said in a Press release.

“An International Security Assistance Force service member died following an improvised explosive device attack in southern Afghanistan on Sunday,” the press release said.

However, it did not identify the nationality of the victim, saying it is ISAF policy to defer casualty identification procedures to the relevant national authorities.

Earthworms play essential role in Chinese recycling scheme

ZHENGZHOU, 15 Nov—A Chinese environmental group is recruiting volunteers to take part in a scheme to breed earthworms in a bid to recycle kitchen waste in several Chinese cities. Friends of Nature, one of the oldest environmental groups in China, has recruited 21 families since the scheme was started in March in Zhengzhou, capital of central China's Henan Province.

"We keep thousands of earthworms in our flower bed. They eat most of the kitchen waste my family produces every day," said Fan Xiaohong, a woman from one of the volunteer families. Guo Mingliang who helped initiate the scheme in Zhengzhou, said he had contracted a patch of waste land by the side of the Yellow River running through the city, which he used to showcase the effect of biological waste treatment.

"This is our earthworm farm, as big as two soccer fields. We use half of it to raise earthworms and the rest for growing organic vegetables with the worms' dirt," he said. The group's volunteers believe the loess soil will be turned fertile through the worms' activity. "If the scheme is successful, we will have more evidence to lobby the government with to support our 'green community project'," Guo said.

He said more efforts should be made to raise people's environmental awareness. It is not easy to convince people to breed earthworms as it requires a lot of energy and time, said Yang Xiaoqing, one of the group's volunteers. Even though scheme in Zhengzhou is making headway, the volunteers admitted the project was not going well in the other two cities, Beijing and Shanghai, as families seemed less eager to join the scheme.—Xinhua

More ash-buried bodies found at Indonesia volcano

Mount Merapi spews volcanic material as seen from Manis Renggo, Klaten, Indonesia, on 13 Nov, 2010.—INTERNET

MOUNT MERAPI, 15 Nov—Rescuers digging through several feet (a metre) of ash discovered nine more bodies on the slopes of Mount Merapi, whose explosive eruption a week ago buried whole villages. As confirmation of more deaths trickled in Sunday, the toll from a series of blasts at the Indonesian volcano rose to at least 250.

The mountain, which has let off blasts of hot gas clouds over the past two days, resumed spewing ash on Sunday as it as done continuously since it roared to life on 26 Oct. No new deaths have been reported from the latest flows, which were well within the zone that has been evacuated. Though there has been no major eruption since 5 Nov — the deadliest day at Merapi in decades — tallying the dead from that blast has been slow.

Many villages where officials knew people had died have remained too hot — shrouded in drifts of ash several feet (a metre) deep — for rescuers to work. Conditions have improved in the past few days, pushing the death toll from the devastating eruption higher, said Waluyo Rahardjo, a search and rescue official.

Small quake shakes Puerto Rico, Dominican Republic

SANTO DOMINGO, 15 Nov—A 5.6-magnitude earthquake has shaken buildings in Puerto Rico and the Dominican Republic but caused no damage. The quake happened early Saturday in the Mona Passage between the US Caribbean territory and the island of Hispaniola, which the Dominican Republic shares with Haiti.

US Geological Survey geophysicist Randy Baldwin said the tremor was not an aftershock of the devastating 12 Jan earthquake that killed an estimated 300,000 people and left millions homeless in Haiti. A couple of tremors reported earlier this week in Haiti have been identified as aftershocks, however.—Internet

Snowstorm causes 400 Minn crashes; two die in Wis

NEW YORK, 15 Nov — Parts of the Upper Midwest dug out from a heavy snowfall Saturday that caused more than 400 traffic accidents in Minnesota, and wintry conditions also were being blamed for a collision in northern Wisconsin that killed two people. Nearly a foot of snow had fallen in parts of the Twin Cities area by Saturday evening, downing trees and causing sporadic power outages.

The storm that began late Friday night was blamed for a collision Saturday morning that killed both drivers and left a passenger hospitalized. The sheriff's department in Wisconsin's Bayfield County said the storm produced "rapidly deteriorating road conditions" that likely contributed to the crash. Kevin Kraujalis of the National Weather Service's Duluth office estimated that Bayfield County had a couple of inches of snow on the ground when the collision occurred. The meteorologist said the county had about 5 inches as of 6 pm Saturday.

The Minnesota State Patrol responded to 401 crashes as of 4 pm, with 45 of them involving minor injuries, Patrol Capt Matt Langer said. There were no other immediate reports of fatalities or major injuries. The storm dumped 11 inches of snow in parts of Eden Prairie, Minn, and 10 inches in the Forest Lake and Mankato areas, said Todd Krause, a federal meteorologist in Minneapolis. The major snowfall activity ended by early afternoon, and Sunday's forecast looked milder, he said.—Internet

Asia-Pacific leaders vow to work for freer trade

YOKOHAMA, 15 Nov— Asia-Pacific leaders endorsed a blueprint for future growth Sunday that calls for pushing ahead with free trade agreements and rolling back protectionist measures put in place during the financial crisis.

Wrapping up the annual Asia-Pacific Economic Cooperation, the leaders of 21 economies put aside differences over currency policies to voice a strong commitment to increasing the trade and investment crucial to the region's growth and resilience.

Leaders representing the US, China, Japan, Russia and other regional economies also agreed on the need to reduce trade imbalances and government debt and avoid sharp, potentially disruptive fluctuations in exchange rates.

While many participants remained at odds over currency policies and other issues, they appeared to agree on the vital role freer trade can play in sparking growth.— Internet

Chubby galaxy cluster suggests dark energy was stronger long ago

NEW YORK, 15 Nov — Astronomers have created a new, incredibly detailed map of dark matter by using the Hubble Space Telescope to peer through a huge cluster of galaxies as if it were a cosmic magnifying glass.

Though invisible, dark matter makes its presence known through its gravitational tug on normal stuff. Scientists now calculate that dark matter could make up 80 percent of all the matter in the universe. The new dark matter map could reveal secrets not just about dark matter, but about its equally enigmatic sibling, dark energy. This is the name given to the perplexing force that is pulling against gravity, causing the universe to balloon in size ever more rapidly.

The dark matter map was created with observations from the Hubble telescope of a large galaxy cluster called Abell 1689, located 2.2 billion light-years from Earth. This cluster is famous as a stunning example of gravitational lensing — a phenomenon predicted by Einstein that happens when massive objects warp the space-time around them, causing even light to travel on a bent path when it passes by.—Internet

China to play role in General Motors IPO

Americans uncomfortable with US government ownership of General Motors may want to hear more: One of those banks is the Industrial and Commercial Bank of China, one of China's four big central government banks. The other, China International Capital Corp, is a joint venture run primarily by Central Huijin Investment Ltd, an arm of the state, and Morgan Stanley.

Property bubble fears weigh on Spanish recovery

MADRID, 15 Nov— Knockdown home prices, idle cranes and builders forced to retrain for new jobs: despite sliding prices the spectre of a Spanish property bubble is hurting a fragile economic recovery.

The new labour minister, Valeriano Gomez, summed it up when he took over at the end of October: "Three out of four jobs lost in the crisis are in construction and related sectors." Spain has the euro zone's highest jobless rate at about 20 percent.

All-out building in suburbs, the country and especially on the coast was the engine of the economy in the past decade.

"In the last eight years, two thirds of the homes built in Europe were in Spain," said Christian Palau, director of the online real estate advertising site Fotocasa. From 2000, Spain built about 700,000 homes a year, as many as in France, Germany and Britain combined, until the 2008 glut pricked the bubble, with a price slump and a slew of property developer bankruptcies.

Australian students cheat by outsourcing homework on foreign websites for two US dollars

CANBERRA, 15 Nov— Australian high school and university students have been found outsourcing their homework to websites in India, Pakistan and Egypt which provide English essays and maths papers for as little as two US dollars, Australia's media reported on Sunday. According to News Ltd newspapers, these websites offer fixed-price tariffs or auction-style services where students post their assignments, and mostly graduates from India and Pakistan bid to take on the projects.

The Sunday Telegraph tracked down one worker offering his services, graduate Mohammed Ali Khan, 23, of Islamabad, Pakistan. "It's my part-time job," Khan told The Sunday Telegraph on Sunday. "I get work from all over the world including Australia, the US and the United Kingdom." Schools are powerless to stop cheaters using the outsourcing services, because custom-made work cannot usually be detected by plagiarism software. And Academics expressed concerns about the new customized cheating factories on the net.

According to University of Western Sydney associate dean Craig Ellis, in the past five years there has been an explosion in sites where you can download pre-written assignments.

He said the trend towards custom-produced work at such low costs is particularly worrying, because it is much harder to spot. Meanwhile, Australia's New South Wales Department of Education warned that any students caught cheating would be given zero marks.

Somali pirates free British couple

ADADO, 15 Nov—Somali pirates on Sunday freed British couple Paul and Rachel Chandler, ending an ordeal that started when their yacht was hijacked off the idyllic shores of the Seychelles a year ago. An AFP correspondent said the Chandlers arrived in Adado, a central Somali town near the Ethiopian border, after the pirates handed them over to the forces of the local self-proclaimed administration of Himan and Heeb.

The couple looked tired but happy as they were given mobile phones to make calls as soon as they entered the safety of the compound housing the administration headquarters under heavy guard. "They are OK. They are being given breakfast now," said Abdi Mohamed Helmi "Hangul", a Somali surgeon who was instrumental in the Chandlers' release. "They look in relatively good health but they need to be checked," he told AFP. "Security is huge here, inside and outside the compound, nothing can happen to them now."

The Chandlers were wearing the same clothes they have worn during most of their captivity and were invited to take a shower upon arriving at the compound of Himan and Heeb president, Mohamed Aden "Tiiceey". A deal was struck with the pirates this week and although no official involved in the negotiation spoke of a ransom, local elders in the region said the Chandlers were exchanged for money.

Wildlife officer killed on patrol

HARRISBURG, 15 Nov—A Pennsylvania wildlife conservation officer was killed in a shootout with a man using a spotlight for illegal hunting, police said. David Grove, 31, died Thursday night while he was on patrol south of Gettysburg, The Philadelphia Inquirer reported. He was the first wildlife officer to die in the line of duty in the state since 1915.

Christopher Johnson, 27, of Fairfield, was arrested and charged with murder Friday. Investigators said he was wounded in the exchange of gunfire and was camped near the spot where Grove died. Johnson allegedly pulled out a gun as Grove tried to handcuff him. Investigators say Grove saw a truck equipped with a spotlight parked on the side of a back road and heard shots.

Grove became a fulltime conservation officer two years ago after several years as a volunteer deputy. He graduated from Penn State with a degree in wildlife science and also attended Appalachian Bible College in West Virginia.

State Police Commissioner Frank Pawlowski said Grove was aware of the dangers of dealing with people carrying guns, often at night and in desolate areas, and usually wore a bullet-proof vest on the job. This month's Pennsylvania Game News includes an article by Grove, "A Shot in the Dark," describing an encounter with poachers while he was on patrol with a cadet.

YALE, 15 Nov—The stabbing victims' 17-year-old daughter was one of three people in custody Saturday in the investigation of a small-town attack that killed a man and seriously injured his wife, police said.

Meanwhile, an autopsy confirmed Paul Skinner, 47, died of multiple stab wounds. "There was nothing that we didn't expect," Young said of the autopsy. Two women, two children missing in Ohio

HOWARD, 15 Nov—A full-scale search Saturday failed to find an Ohio woman, her two children and a woman friend who lived nearby, authorities said. The Columbus Dispatch said the hunt for Tina Herrmann, 32, of Howard; her children, Sarah Maynard, 13, and Kody Maynard, 10; and Stephanie Sprang, 2 of Howard Township was concentrated in the Knox County countryside around the women's homes. The four have been missing since Wednesday. Knox County Sheriff David Barber said an unusual amount of blood was found Thursday in Herrmann's home.

"It was not from someone stubbing a toe, cutting a finger or peeling an apple," said Barber, who added he still considered it a missing persons investigation. "We still hope for a positive outcome." The sheriff said authorities were "brainstorming, backtracking, trying to figure out where Stephanie went, where Tina went, where they could be." Herrmann's pickup truck was found abandoned on the Kenyon College campus in nearby Gambier Thursday night.

Palestinians critical of US settlement proposal

JERUSALEM, 15 Nov—Palestinians are expressing strong reservations about a US proposal meant to entice Israel to reinstate limits on West Bank settlement construction and revive peace talks. Palestinian negotiator Saeb Erekat did not reject the proposal outright on Sunday, but said a decision on whether to endorse it would be made after consultations with Palestinian and Arab leaders.

The proposal calls for a 90-day ban on housing starts in the West Bank, but not in war-won east Jerusalem, the Palestinians would-be capital. Erekat says the Palestinians "have

US officials try to address air security worries

WASHINGTON, 15 Nov—The US Department of Homeland Security said it is trying to address concerns of pilots about stepped-up screening at US airports and worries in the travel industry that fliers will limit trips because of more rigorous checks.

Security officials have defended the measures after foiled plots by al-Qaeda in the Arabian Peninsula, which tried to hide bombs in clothing and parcels that made it aboard a US passenger airliner and two cargo planes.

After fierce complaints by pilots about new full-body scanners and more thorough patdowns that began recently, the Transportation Security Administration has started testing other methods for them, a DHS official said.

TSA is examining "alternative security protocols for airline pilots that would expedite screening for this low-risk population while maintaining high security standards," the DHS official told Reuters. The new tests come after talks earlier this week between TSA Administrator John Pistole and the head of the Air Line Pilots Association, the largest US pilot union, about how to address the concerns among cockpit crews.

The union has advised its members who are uncomfortable after being patted down to call in sick and not fly. Pilots have also expressed worries about health risks from the body scanners because they go through them more often than travellers. DHS officials have said they are safe and people are exposed to more radiation naturally than from one scan.—MNA/Reuters

Japan, China agree ways to improve ties

YOKOHAMA, 15 Nov—Japan and China's foreign ministers agreed on Sunday to improve ties through private and cultural exchanges, a Japanese official said, after tensions spiked over a territorial row in the East China Sea.

Relations between Asia's two biggest economies soured after Japan in September detained a Chinese skipper whose fishing boat collided with Japanese patrol vessels off the disputed islands.

The boat captain was later released and sent home, but tensions have persisted, prompting worries about fallout for business. Japanese Prime Minister Naoto Kan has come under domestic fire for appearing to cave in to China's demands.

The top spokesman for the Chinese Foreign Ministry, Ma Zhaoxu, told reporters that Beijing was "satisfied with the outcome" of the meeting, which comes a day after Japanese Prime Minister Naoto Kan met Chinese President Hu Jintao on the sidelines of an Asia-Pacific summit in Yokohama, near Tokyo.

The two ministers "thoroughly discussed growth strategies, human security, regional economic integration, an assessment of the Bogor goals, the Doha round negotiations and the future development of the Asia-Pacific Economic Cooperation organization, reaching a broad consensus, and achieving abundant, practical and substantive outcomes".

Japanese Foreign Minister Seiji Maehara urged Beijing to reopen talks on gas fields in the East China Sea, the Japanese official said.

But Chinese Foreign Minister Yang Jiechi replied that an "environment" was needed to do so, the Japanese official said, which would suggest that a feud over potentially vast maritime resources will continue to fester.

Rabat arrests 96 in connection with W Sahara unrest

RABAT, 15 Nov—Moroccan authorities said Saturday they had arrested 96 people accused of inciting violence during a controversial police raid on a squatter camp near the Western Sahara town of Laayoune. Most of those detained are blamed for setting fires and destroying private and public goods, the Moroccan public prosecutor's office in Laayoune said in a statement.

At least three "are accused of threatening the state's internal security", it said. Half a dozen of those arrested have appeared before the military court chief, including anti-Morocco activist Annaama Asfari, according to a source close to the Sahrawi independence movement. Morocco recently announced 163 arrests following a police raid Monday on a camp near Laayoune housing thousands of Sahrawis who moved there to protest their living conditions.

Climate change worsens plight of Iraqi farmers

BAGHDAD, 15 Nov—Frequent dust storms and scarce rains are stifling Iraq's efforts to revive a farming sector hit by decades of war, sanctions and isolation.

Wheat and rice production has suffered from a severe drought in the past two years, due in part to rising temperatures, along with a dearth of water in the Tigris and Euphrates rivers.

The UN Inter-Agency Information and Analysis Unit (IAU) says water levels in the two rivers — Iraq's main water sources have dropped to less than a third of normal capacity.

"The tendency of rainfall in general is continuously declining. The same for temperature ... you can see there is a rise," said Deputy Environment Minister Kamal Hussein Latif.

Farmers like Akram Mousa now face a struggle to keep their land cultivatable in the once fertile country watered by rivers that nurtured Mesopotamia's ancient civilisations. "The temperature rise has deformed our crops.

They either don't grow properly or wither. It has made me abandon half my farms," said the 65-year-old who owns seven farms of tomato, cucumber and melon in Zubair, in the southern Province of Basra.

Farming is one of Iraq's biggest employers, but contributes less than 3 percent of state revenue and gets little investment compared to the oil sector, the source of 95 percent of revenue. Iraq is among the world's top 10 importers of wheat and rice, purchased mostly for a huge public food ration scheme.—MNA/Reuters

Five years comatose, Israel's Sharon taken home

JERUSALEM, 15 Nov — Israel's comatose former Prime Minister, Ariel Sharon, was moved back to his desert ranch on Friday, leaving the secure hospital ward that has been his home for almost five years, officials said. Sharon, 82, will continue to receive treatment at Sycamore Farm, where as premier he would summon advisers to plan strategies such as Israel's 2002 offensive in the Palestinian West Bank and the surprise 2005 withdrawal from the Gaza Strip.

Felled by a stroke in January 2006, the ex-general left behind an often jittery Jewish state that has since fought two wars while charting an uncertain course in US-sponsored peace talks with the Palestinians.

"Today, in 2010, the aspiration of any patient, our aspiration in the hospital, is to ensure that any chronic patient, when possible, is with his community, at home," said Professor Shlomo Noy, director of rehabilitation at the Sheba Medical Centre outside Tel Aviv, where Sharon had been receiving care.

Asked whether there was any chance of Sharon making a significant recovery or even returning to public life, as a few of his loyalists envisage Noy told Israel's Army Radio: "Clearly what's behind this is the hope that his situation will get better. But the improvements that we talk about in such situations are not great improvements, not dramatic improvements." After his stroke, Sharon settled into what medical staff and the friends who were allowed to visit describe as a limbo state uncommunicative but apparently responding to basic stimuli and television.

Germany lifts passenger flight ban from Yemen

BERLIN, 15 Nov—Germany has lifted a suspension of passenger flights from Yemen but left in place a ban on air cargo imposed after bombs were found in packages sent from there two weeks ago, the Transport Ministry said on Saturday.

The discovery of suspected al-Qaeda parcel bombs at the end of last month prompted governments, airlines and aviation authorities around the world to review their security. Several western states have implemented flight suspensions.

Packages intercepted in Britain and Dubai contained bombs sent from Yemen and addressed to synagogues in Chicago. One, found on a United Parcel Service cargo plane at East Midlands Airport in Britain, had been trans-shipped at Cologne Bonn airport in Germany.

A Transport Ministry spokeswoman said passenger planes had been given permission to fly from Yemen to Germany as of 1300 GMT on Friday. Cargo flights and the transport of cargo on passenger flights are still banned.

The decision to lift the ban on passenger flights followed a new security report from Germany's Interior Ministry, which sent German police to Yemen to investigate security at airports, the website "Spiegel Online" reported.—MNA/Reuters

Nigerian military warns of action in oil delta

YENAGOA, 15 Nov—Nigeria's military threatened on Saturday to carry out raids against what it said were camps of criminal gangs in the creeks of the oil-producing Niger Delta, and told civilians in the vicinity to leave.

Any major offensive by the Armed Forces would be the first in the Niger Delta, the heartland of the OPEC member's energy industry, since an amnesty programme brokered by President Goodluck Jonathan began in August 2009.

Seven expatriate workers were kidnapped from an oil rig off the Niger Delta almost a week ago, while the home of President Goodluck Jonathan's main adviser on the region was attacked with explosives late on Thursday.

"We have observed with concern some criminal acts within the past few days by some people claiming to be militants ... Many of these criminals are known to be hiding in camps within the creeks of the Niger Delta," Chief of Defence Staff Oluseyi Petinrin said in a statement.

"These camps will no longer be tolerated. To avoid any collateral damage, we are seizing this opportunity to instruct all law-abiding citizens who live around the vicinity of these camps to leave immediately," the statement said.

The military taskforce in the Niger Delta (JTF) said one camp in Bayelsa, one of the three main oil-producing states, was raided on Friday. Officials said there was an exchange of gunfire, and weapons and maps of oil facilities were seized.

Kenya Navy kills three suspected Somali pirates

MOMBASAS, 15 Nov—Kenyan Navy officers on patrol in the India Ocean shot dead three suspected Somali pirates who boarded their vessel after mistaking it for a merchant ship, a military spokesman said on Saturday. The Kenya Navy said the three were in the company of several others who tried to seize the patrol vessel late on Friday some 21 nautical miles off Kilifi.

"The Navy vessel was on normal patrol at around 11 pm in Kilifi area when four suspected Somali pirates on board a speed boat climbed the vessel, mistaking it for a merchant vessel," Bogita Onger, Department of Defence spokesman, told Reuters by phone. "Three of them ... gunned down by naval officers while one dived into the sea with bullet wounds during the scuffle." Onger said the fourth pirate most likely died from his wounds. "Several others, whose number could not be immediately established, escaped in the speed boat that they were using," he said, adding that the dead pirates' bodies had been taken to Mombasa's Coast General Hospital.

Somali pirates have plagued the busy shipping lanes off the Somali coast, where the Gulf of Aden and its adjacent seas links Europe to Asia, raking in millions of dollars to release ships in captivity.

London sprays roads in bid to reduce pollution

LONDON, 15 Nov — London began spraying its roads with a dust suppressant on Friday to tackle its high air pollution levels. The capital is close to breaching European Union legal limits for particulate matter (PM10), a pollutant produced mainly by engine emissions along with tyre and brake wear. London Mayor Boris Johnson hopes a six-month trial of the dust suppressant, designed to stop vehicle emissions recirculating and choking residents, will cut PM10 levels by 10 to 20 percent.

"We expect this new measure to have an immediate impact on air quality in the most polluted areas of central London," he said. Tests in Sweden, Norway, Austria, Italy and Germany have recorded similar success, Johnson said. The dust suppressant, made from calcium magnesium acetate, works by sticking the particulate matter to the road. Johnson is running the dust trial in two of London's worst affected areas, Victoria Embankment by the Thames river and the road west of King's Cross station, at a cost of 300,000 pounds.

"We have scoured the globe to find new ways to tackle pollution and found this wonderful contraption that tackles air quality head on, sticking particles to the roads' surface and preventing their dastardly escape back into the air we breathe," Johnson said.

Five dead in SoCal crash, seven cycles involved

OCOTILLO, 15 Nov—Five people were killed on Saturday in a crash involving seven motorcycles and at least one other vehicle on a rural desert highway east of San Diego, authorities said. The five fatalities occurred in the collision shortly before 1 pm on Route 98 near Ocotillo in Imperial County, just miles from the US-Mexico border, California Highway Patrol spokesman Pablo Torrez told the Imperial Valley Press. Torrez said he did not know whether one or two vehicles other than the motorcycles were involved. It was not clear which vehicles the dead came from or why so many motorcycles were riding together. The CHP had earlier reported six injuries, but it was not clear if any of those six were among the dead.

Va sturgeon may be key to ancient fish's recovery

HOPEWELL, 15 Nov—Researcher Matt Balazik wears his passion for saving the Atlantic sturgeon on his right arm — a tattoo of the ancient fish — and lives it by counting the bottom-feeding giants in the James River. The 30-year-old doctoral student is part sturgeon wrangler, part census taker as he patrols the river in a small boat, checking 1,000-foot-long nets for what scientists believe is the last viable reproductive population of Atlantic sturgeon in the Chesapeake Bay.

Sturgeon, which have survived virtually unchanged since the time of the dinosaurs, are dwindling worldwide under the influence of human beings. You hear these monster fish before you see them — Atlantic sturgeon leap out of the water and land with a loud splash, like a log dropped from above.

On a recent languid fall day on the river, in one of his last checks of the day in this shoestrapping recovery effort, Balazik has snared a sturgeon in his net and hauls it into the well of his boat.

Dog stuck on cliff rescued by sheriff's deputy

PUEBLO, 15 Nov—A springer spaniel stuck overnight on a cliff ledge in Lake Pueblo State Park is OK after a sheriff's deputy rappelled down a canyon to retrieve him.

The dog named "Doc" went over an 80-foot cliff on Thursday morning while training to become a hunting dog.

The Pueblo Chieftain reports the spaniel became trapped after sliding down a shale canyon side. The pup landed on a ledge about 80 feet down a 200-foot ravine.

Master Deputy Dylan Jacketta says it was too dark Thursday to attempt a rescue, so rescuers passed blankets down to the ledge. On Friday morning, Jacketta rappelled down the canyon and rescued Doc.

Quake-jolted world heritage site reconstruction to finish in southwest China

CHENGDU, 15 Nov — The reconstruction of the Erwang Temple, which was damaged in the Wenchuan Earthquake in 2008, is expected to finish on 18 Nov in southwest China's Sichuan Province, according to local heritage protection authorities on Friday.

Sitting in the Yulei Mountains in Dujiangyan City, Erwang Temple was built over 2,000 years ago to commemorate Li Bing and his son, the two engineers who built the Dujiangyan irrigation system, which was listed as a World Heritage site in 2000. The temple will soon be partially open for visitors and the final touches are being added to the water supply, drainage system and lavatories in these areas, said Fan Tuoyu, deputy chief of the Dujiangyan Cultural Relics Administration.

The entire temple will be opened after the Chinese Lunar New Year, which falls on 3 Feb, 2011, said Fan. The reconstruction project kicked off in June, 2008 with an investment of 126 million yuan (19 million US dollars) from the central budget. The temple was seriously damaged in the Wenchuan earthquake with almost all the ancient buildings having collapsed.

Australian airline Qantas finds more engine problems

CANBERRA, 15 NOV — Australian airline Qantas has been plagued with more engine problems, with a domestic flight carrying 234 passengers to Melbourne forced to turn back to Perth, local media reported on Saturday. Qantas said the flight from Perth to Melbourne that turned around after experiencing engine problem, has nothing to do with concerns over Qantas' Airbus A380 fleet.

According to Australia Associated Press, the flight crew noticed the problem between five to 10 minutes after QF768 took off from Perth on Friday. The crew then followed with precautionary procedure, sought priority clearance from air-traffic control at Perth Airport before landing. The airline has grounded all six of its A380s, after flight QF32 from Singapore to Sydney of Australia had to turn back when one of its four engines exploded over Indonesia on 4 Nov.

The manufacturers of the A380 engine, Rolls-Royce, on Friday announced it had drawn two important conclusions about the incident. "First, as previously announced, the issue is specific to the Trent 900 engine," Rolls-Royce said in a statement on Friday. "Secondly, the failure was confined to a specific component in the turbine area of the engine."

BEIJING, 15 NOV — A blaze engulfed a 99-year-old building in Tsinghua University, one of China's leading seats of learning in Beijing, early Saturday, with no casualties reported.

The fire broke out at about 1:00 am at "Tsinghua College", a German style building that spreads 800 square metres, and was put out at 3:15 am, said the fire brigade under Beijing Public Security Bureau. The building on fire is adjacent to several main teaching buildings of the university. Some witnesses said smoke and flare were billowing from the top of the building.

The "Tsinghua College" was built in 1911, from which developed the current Tsinghua University. The building was under renovation for the university's forthcoming centenary celebrations. Police are probing into the cause of the fire, and the damage is under assessment.

First foreign cruise ship docks in Cuba in three years

HAVANA, 15 NOV — A Spanish cruise ship carrying 220 tourists anchored in Havana Friday, the first foreign cruise ship to visit the US embargoed nation. The Gemini, owned by the Spanish Happy Cruises company, has a capacity for 800 passengers. It carried tourists from 11 countries, mostly Spain, who will start to tour Cuba and Mexico on Saturday. The Spanish cruise company, together with the Cuban travel agency Cubatur, operates the tour, which will take the tourists to the Mexican ports of Cozumel and Cancun, and conclude in Havana.

It was the first time in three years that Cuba had been visited by a foreign cruise ship after the Spanish company "Pullmantur" suspended its operations in Cuba following its acquisition by US owned Royal Caribbean Cruises. Philip Lester Oliva, president of Cubatur, said the Spanish Happy Cruises company is expected to keep stable operations until the first half of 2011. He also said a British and a Russian cruise are scheduled to start regular operations in Cuba.

"Cuba expects a big growth of cruise tours in the future," he added. According to the Cuban Tourism Ministry, if Washington lifts its embargo banning US citizens from traveling to the island country, Cuba would receive an estimated 1,000 cruise ships a year carrying 1.2 million US tourists. Cuba and the United States are separated only by the narrow strait of Florida.

Pacquiao wins on dominating performance

ARLINGTON, 15 Nov — Manny Pacquiao more than made up with speed what he lacked in size. Giving away both pounds and inches, boxing's little superstar turned Antonio Margarito into a bloody and nearly blind fighter with a dizzying array of punches Saturday night in a lopsided decision victory that wasn't close from the opening rounds on.

In a spectacular performance before a delighted crowd of 41,734 at Cowboys Stadium, Pacquiao cemented his claim to being the best fighter in the world by dominating the bigger but slower Margarito almost from the opening bell. Pacquiao won round after round, opening a cut on Margarito's cheek, closing his right eye, and turning his face into a bloody mess.

The punches came quickly, and they came often. Margarito was plenty game as he tried to stalk Pacquiao around the ring, but every time he got close Pacquiao would land a four- or five-punch combination that snapped his head back and stopped him in his tracks.—Internet

Monfils sinks Federer to set up Soderling showdown

PARIS, 15 Nov — Gael Monfils stunned top seed Roger Federer 7-6 (9/7), 6-7 (1/7), 7-6 (7/4) to reach the ATP Paris Masters final on Saturday, after Robin Soderling had edged Michael Llodra in an equally epic tie.

Monfils, the French 12th seed, fought back from 4-1 down in the third set to reach the final at the Bercy arena

The Frenchman will bid to win his first Masters title against fourth seed Soderling, who is also yet to win a Masters event, after the Swede ended unseeded Llodra's fairytale run with a 6-7 (0/7), 7-5, 7-6 (8/6) victory.—Internet

Chelsea shrug off Wilkins exit, Lampard setback

LONDON, 15 Nov — Carlo Ancelotti has endured one of his most troubled weeks as Chelsea manager following the dismissal of assistant manager Ray Wilkins and another injury setback for Frank Lampard. The sacking of Wilkins — who has a 37-year connection with the club — less than six months after last season's FA Cup and Premier League double has prompted surprise and dismay.

Ancelotti confirmed the decision had been taken by the club's chief executive Ron Gourlay but declared he "respected" the decision. The Italian will be assisted by the rest of his backroom staff for the visit of Sunderland and while no decision has been taken on the identity of Wilkins' successor, Ancelotti insists it will be an internal appointment.

"I just want to say one thing," said the Chelsea manager. "Ray was a fantastic assistant coach and I want to say thanks to him because he was fantastic support last season, this season."—Internet

Inconsistent Arsenal face Everton test

LONDON, 15 Nov — Arsenal's season is proving frustratingly — if typically — inconsistent and a victory at Everton would be the ideal way for Arsene Wenger's side to restate their title ambitions. The meeting between the two sides comes seven days after Newcastle United stunned the Gunners at the Emirates Stadium, inflicting a single goal victory that appeared to expose the home side's flaws. There is little doubt that Wenger's side is far from being the finished article.
