National unity is of utmost importance

Only if the nation is in peace with national unity, can democracy be practiced in earnest. Socio-economy of the people will improve only through democratic practices and national development. All the people should therefore be well aware of the fact that national unity is of utmost importance.

PERSPECTIVES

A hundred of arrows

The race means a group of people who share the common attitude and interest for years through thick and thin. Myanmar is home to Kachin, Kayah, Kayin, Chin, Bamar, Mon, Rakhine and Shan nationalities. Despite variations on traditional customs, language and social systems, they are brethren in essence.

Experiences we have come across in the course of history have highlighted the vital importance of unity among the national races. Firm unity portrays high level of civilization and a national character that could shape a harmonious society. Myanmar said no to yoke of colonialism and toughs of Fascist rule. The country can now stand on her own feet and hold her head high on the international stage.

Essence of unity is well entrenched in hearts of Myanmar people. Proverbs of various national races show their love for unity. "Men cannot crack a hundred of arrows. Only if eaten together is it sweeter. Only if carried together is it lighter."

Global nations are moving towards peaceful co-existence. Though, developing countries are still confronting interference and hegemony of some powers. For a country like Myanmar with rich natural resources and strategic geopolitical position, it is needed to prevent attempted hegemonies of foreign countries.

Mainly, national unity is essential. In establishing democratic nation, the new democratic nation cannot be built up by the government alone. It is high time for all the national people to get involved in harmony in the process for flourishing democratic practices, the rule of law, national reconsolidation and eternal peace.

Stability of the State is the key to building a new nation. Only with national unity, will there be stability. The onus is on all national races to safeguard the Union. Now is time for all national brethren to live in unity and amity.

History of the Union is of all national races. Unity is the strength of the Union. Regardless of topography, all the national people should march towards the new peaceful democratic nation, maintaining fine traditions of high morale and unity.

The navy said the graves were found in two ranches in Acavucan city, nearly 540 km southeast of Mexico City, following the arrest of a man on Tuesday.

In a joint statement released by the navy and the local government of Veracruz, the murder of the 10 persons was attributed to the drug gang "Los Zetas.

Israel says Palestinian leadership "embrace" terror

JERUSALEM, 9 Feb- Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu on Wednesday lashed at the Palestinian reconciliation deal reached between the Palestinian National Authority (PNA) President Mahmoud Abbas and Hamas chief Khaled Meshaal, saying that the PNA needs to choose between the "path of Hamas or the path of peace." Speaking at a plenum in honor of the 63 anniversary of the Knesset parliament, Netanyahu had harsh words for Abbas, The Jerusalem Post reported.

"We've seen recently that the PA (Palestinian Authority) has chosen to refrain from taking action against extremists, even chose to embrace them," Netanyahu said.

In line with the prime minister, Israeli President Shimon Peres said during the plenum that the PNA must choose between Hamas, who "aspires to terror" and Fatah who "is ready for negotiations" and calls for renewed peace talks.

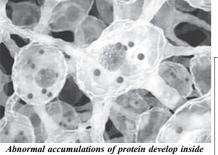

Abbas and Meshaal on Monday announced the unity deal in Doha, Qatar, which ended a dispute between the two rivals on forming a transitional unity government.

According to the declaration, Abbas will head the interim government, which will include independent ministers and will prepare for the presidential and legislative elections in the Palestinian territories and the reconstruction of the Gaza Strip.-Xinhua

Genetic Parkinson's disease brain cells made in lab LONDON 9 Feb —

Scientists in the US have successfully made human brain cells in the lab that are an exact replica of genetically caused Parkinson's disease. The breakthrough means they can now see exactly how mutations in the parkin gene cause the disease in an estimated one in 10 patients with Parkinson's And it offers a realistic model to test new treatments on-a hurdle that has blighted research efforts until now. The team told Nature Communications their work was a "game-changer". "This is the first time that human dopamine neurons have ever been generated from Parkinson's disease patients with parkin mutations," said Dr Jian Feng who led the investigations. "Before this, we didn't even think about being able to study the disease in human neurons. "The brain is so fully integrated.

It's impossible to obtain live human neurons to study. Studying human neurons is critical in Parkinson's disease since animal models that lack the parkin gene do not develop the condition, rendering them useless for this research purpose. To make the human neurons the scientists used a technique already successfully tested by others which can turn donated skin cells into brain tissue. They used skin samples from four volunteers - two healthy people and two with Parkinson's disease caused by a parkin gene mutation. This allowed them to

German exports set record of a trillion euros in 2011

BERLIN, 9 Feb -- Germany's trade surplus reached 158bn euros (£132bn; $209bn) in 2011 on record exports that rose 11.4% to top 1tn euros for the first time. The national statistics office also said that imports rose 13.2% to reach an all-time high of 902bn euros. In 2010, the trade surplus for Europe's biggest economy was 155bn euros.

Meanwhile, the Bank of France has warned that the eurozone's second biggest economy would stagnate in the first three months of 2012. German exports to countries outside the 27-nation European Union showed the strongest growth last year, up 13.6% to 432.8bn euros. Exports to other EU countries rose 9.9% to 627.3bn euros Of those, 420.9bn euros went to the eurozone bloc, an 8.6%

Germany's balance of payments, a broader measure of exchanges with other countries that includes financial transactions, showed a surplus of 136bn euros 2011, down from 142bn euros the year before. Also on Wednesday, the Bank of France said the country's economy was likely to see zero growth in the first three months of 2012. The French economy, the second-largest in the eurozone, has posted a trade deficit for 2011 of almost 70bn euros.

observe the parkin gene at work. Normally, parkin controls the production of an enzyme called MAO (monamine oxidase) which, in turn, keeps a check on the brain-signalling chemical dopamine

When parkin is mutated that regulation is lost and levels of MAO increase, which can be toxic to dopamine-producing brain cells. The scientists now want to test new treatments that might prevent this damage occurring and stop this form of Parkinson's. They have already shown that they can reverse the defect by putting a normal parkin gene into diseased neurons. Dr Michelle Gardner, research development manager at Parkinson's UK, said the study was particularly exciting because it provided a new way to investigate this genetic form of Parkinson's. "Parkinson's UK funded research has already shown that parkin plays a key role in how Parkinson's develops in the brain nerve cells that die."— Internet

In the latest study, led by Fuzhong Li of the Oregon Research Institute in Eugene, tai chi was tested in 195 people with mild-to-moderate Parkinson's. The participants attended twice-weekly group classes of either tai chi or two other kinds of exercise-stretching and resistance training, which included steps and lunges with ankle weights and a weighted vest. The tai chi routine was tailored for the Parkinson's patients, with a focus on "swing and sway" motions and weight-shifting, said Li, who practices tai chi and teaches instructors.

Health official calls for real-name HIV testing

BEIJING, 9 Feb- A senior health official on Wednesday advocated the use of real-name HIV testing, stating that the tests will be beneficial for the prevention and treatment of HIV/AIDS

Wang Yu, director of the Chinese Centre for Disease Control and Prevention, made the remark at a Press conference held by the Ministry of Health on Wednesday in response to a question about a controversial piece of legislation that may soon be approved in south Guangxi Zhuang autonomous region.

A draft regulation on HIV/AIDS prevention is expected to be handed over to the standing committee of the region's local people's congress for approval. The regulation states that HIV tests should be carried out on a real-name basis, with those who test positive obliged to inform their spouses or sex partners. HIV carriers might spread the virus to others through unprotected sex or other channels. Under such circumstances, should we protect the privacy of the carriers, or control the epidemic and protect public health?" Wang said.

Scientists melt mystery over icecaps and sea levels

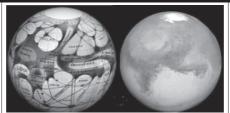

SINGAPORE, 9 Feb - US scientists using satellite data have established a more accurate figure of the amount of annual sea level rise from melting glaciers and ice caps which should aid studies on how quickly coastal areas may flood as global warming gathers pace. John Wahr of the University of Colorado in Boulder and colleagues, in a study published on Thursday, found that thinning glaciers and icecaps were pushing up sea levels by 1.5 millimetres (0.06 inches) a year, in line with a 1.2 to 1.8 mm range from other studies, some of which forecast sea levels could rise as much as 2 metres (2.2 yards) by 2100.

Sea levels have already risen on average about 18 centimetres since 1900 and rapid global warming will accelerate the pace of the increase, scientists say, threatening coastlines from Vietnam to Florida and forcing low-lying megacities to build costly sea defences. To get a better picture of the pace of the melting, Wahr and colleagues used a satellite that measures variations in gravity fields to study changes in the mass of large ice-covered areas. #### Mars and the moon have night sky rendezvous on Thursday

NEW YORK, 9 Feb — Late Thursday night (9 Feb), skywatchers who cast a glance toward the waning gibbous moon in the eastern sky will also notice the presence of a very bright, yellow-orange "star" shining with a steady glow hovering a bit above and to the moon's right. That's no star, though. It's the planet Mars. The apparent distance between the moon and Mars will be rather large, amounting to about 9 degrees. That's roughly equal to the width of your fist held at arm's length. The sky map of Mars and the moon for this story shows how they will appear on Thursday night to skywatchers with clear skies.

But even though the gap is quite large, the brightness of Mars at this time makes it stand out despite the much greater brilliance of the nearby moon. On this night, Mars will be 69 million miles (111 million kilometres) from Earth. Mars is unmistakable once it rises in the east around 7:45 pm. Its fiery-colored luster shines nearly twice as bright as the lighter-hued Arcturus star far to its lower left (Arcturus rises in the east-northeast a couple of hours after Mars). Mars currently shines at magnitude -0.8; excluding the moon, it is outshone in our current evening sky by only Venus, Jupiter and Sirius.-Internet

America and Eurasia 'to meet at north pole'

LONDON,9Feb-America and Eurasia will crash into each other over the North Pole in 50-200 million years time, according to scientists at Yale University. They predict Africa and Australia will join the new "supercontinent" too, which will mark the next coming together of the Earth's land masses. The continents are last thought to have come together 300 million years ago into a supercontinent called Pangaea. Details are published in the journal Nature.

The land masses of the Earth are constantly moving as the Earth's tectonic activity occurs. This generates areas suchas the Mid-Atlantic Ridge, where Iceland has formed, and areas such as that off the coast of Japan, where one plate rides over another. Geologists believe that, over billions of years, these shifting plates have driven the continents together periodically, creating the hypothesised supercontinents of Nuna 1.8 billion years ago. Rodinia a billion years ago, and then Pangaea 300 million The next vears ago. supercontinent has already been given the working title of What the researchers have set out to do is predict when and where it will form by looking back at where its predecessors emerged. "We're all pretty familiar with the concept of Pangaea, but there hasn't been much convincing data to suggest how the supercontinents take shape," Ross Mitchell of Yale University told BBC News. NEWYORK, 9Feb—As reported by Kotaku earlier today, Sony is ditching plans to allow new Vita wners to download PSP titles that they currently own on UMD disc. Sony rolled out this programme in Japan at launch during December 2011 and all Japanese owners can register their UMD titles on the Vita by paying a fee based on the value of the game, thus Japanese owners can avoid having to repurchase the titles at full cost on the PlayStation Vita digital download store. New PlayStation Vita owners in North America on February 22 will have to keep the PSP in order to access old titles or repurchase older games at full price to utilize the software on the newer handheld system

By announcing this decision two weeks prior to the launch of the PlayStation Vita, Sony fans that held onto old PSP games in hopes that the titles could be transferred to a new PlayStation Vita will get significantly less money or trade-in value for the titles than six months ago. However, PSP owners would have still had to pay an average of $13 per title for each game they alreadv owned

Speaking at this year's

He said the ministry also aims to decrease the workload of social workers by 20 per cent. At the same time, it wants to systematically groom some of the social workers to develop depth and expertise to handle new challenges and complex cases. Mr Chan said the National Council of Social Service will also work with the Committee for Practice Standards to develop a Code of Professional Practice for FSCs.—Internet

- * Build the Union with all energy

Min Shwe Moe (Trs)

In world of diverse attitudes, rallying all the people is not as easy as ABC. Though, national unity was built up by national races representatives in Panglong on 12 February, 1947, singing an agreement. It is the day the entire national races in Myanmar displayed their unanimous tendency towards togetherness. And, it is the day we call the Union Day.

Myanmar is a sovereign nation with a rich history. When development of the country and its national people is reviewed from historical point of view, it will be found that ups and downs of the country depended on unity of its national races along the course of the history.

The stronger the national unity, the higher the national prestige. The weaker the national unity, the lower the political, economic, security and social standards of the country.

Now is the time to abandon narrow-minded nationalism, regionalism, attachment to party, idealism, personality cults, extremism, and extremist ideologies. Apart from the interest of any particular race or region, that of the Union and all the national people should be taken into account. It should be noticed that denizens of the Union suffered grieves among conflicts ignited by racism, regionalism, idealism, and extremism.

Disintegration of the Union is not to think of, not to write about, not to speak of and not to mastermind. Understanding all the national brethren are our own flesh and blood, ideologies, thoughts, principles and works that would strengthen the Union should be encouraged.

Perpetuation of the Union is not propaganda, but real requisite for all of the people. All the people of Myanmar should adopt the idea unanimously. If anyone really loves the Union and desires the development of the country, they will throw themselves heart and soul into the strides for its development.

To perpetuate the Union, to maintain the national unity and to protect the sovereignty of the State are needed for the whole Union and the entire people for ever and ever. They are also a reality to face and a duty to accomplish for sustainable development of the Union. They are policies that guarantee the national people—the interest of the people and the interest of the Union—for long, facts that commensurate with the reality and eternal truth, and national goals all the citizens should uphold.

In retrospect, non-disintegration of the national unity is found to be the main theme of national politics. If without national unity, the Union will split and then the sovereignty will follow to be lost. So, any of Our Three Main National Causes cannot be breached. It is national duty for all Myanmar citizens to uphold Our Three Main National Causes.

Section 3 of the constitution describes, "The State is where multi-National races collectively reside." Despite seemingly different customs, languages and social systems, national races of Myanmar are in unity, based on Union Spirit.

According to first-hand knowledge of various national races, wish of the pure national people is stability of their own region. They want to live a peaceful life in their own region. They want to live for ever with their family, healthily and happily.

The importance of Union Spirit for the Independence of the country and non-disintegration of the Union is crystal clear. The Union Spirit simply means firm belief seeing the entire Union is a single family or a home. It is built on nationalistic fervour, the love for the races and of the region.

The nationalistic fervour should not be shown in words but by works. Some are giving lip services with the words national unity, national reconciliation, national reunion and national reconciliation. But their actions lead to disintegration of the national unity. So, they should try to cultivate the Union Spirit, getting rid of these activities.

Helping each others, solving problems together, working cooperatively, and showing sympathy and understanding towards each others are sound foundations of the Union Spirit.

Otherwise, the Union Spirit means the attitude assuming the people of the Union are national brethren, overcoming difficulties together without leaving behind, sticking together through thick and thin, having united when the situation calls and showing no regard of hills or plains. As sayings go, "Unity brings about developed country," and, "Unity is strength."

In picking up the strength of the Union, the entire national races of the Union have to live together in unity (See page 9)

With a view to building up national unity for stability of the State, the policy of working in cooperation on common ground in the interest of the people is being adopted. Necessary measures to let all the people participate in national political scenario have been taken. Citizens outside the country for various reasons are invited to return to participate in nation-building tasks. Thanks to these measures, national unity becomes stronger and internal peace prevails. It is why the new government succeeded to establish national reconciliation or national unity within short range of time. So, the entire people of the Union are heartened. Maintaining prevailing peace, eternal peace should be built with added momentum.

and amity forever without seceding from the Union. As long as the muscle of Union Spirit is strong, the Union will be perpetuated. The Union is a haven for all the national people. The onus is on all national races to protect their haven.

In restoring stability of the State, new policies are being adopted for building eternal peace in the Union, based on the reality of the State and historical experiences. Negotiations were made with 11 national races armed groups which had yet to return to legal fold and fundamental agreements have been signed with seven groups. Talks with other four groups are under way. In short, peace-making procedures are a success. Eternal peace is now taking shape.

Democracy is the rule of law driven by the will of the people and respect for human rights under the law. They are foundations for flourishing democracy. If democratic practices are adopted among political parties, social organizations and organizations exercising power invested by the people and other institutions thoroughly, they are said to be in democracy and have human rights.

Democracy protects and promotes prestige and fundamental rights of individuals. It is the only political system that allows applying one's own capacity and reasoning power. Most people accept democracy as a practice and set as a goal. Justice, liberty, equality, transparency, accountability, and unity in diversity are ABCs of democracy. If the society could be organized in democracy, internal peace and development could be translated into reality.

Good governance is not the command-driven system, but the management steered by the majority and governed under policies and law. It is the essence of democracy. Only when democracy

LONDON, 9 Feb-British scientists have suggested that soldiers could control weapons systems simply by using their minds. A study, from the Royal Society, Britain's national academy of science, described the possible benefits of neuroscience to military and law enforcement. It predicted new designer drugs that boost performance, make enemy troops fall asleep and ensure captives become more talkative. They also suggested the use of devices called brainmachine interfaces (BMIs) to connect soldiers' brains directly to military technology such as drones and weapons, the Telegraph reported.

The study, published on Tuesday, stated that the work built on previous research that has enabled people to control cursors and artificial limbs through BMIs that read their brain signals. ## Missouri teen gets life for slaying

JEFFERSON CITY, 9 Feb-A Missouri teen who described brutally killing her 9-year-old neighbour as "ahmazing" was sentenced to life in prison Wednesday.

"If I could give my life to bring her back, I would," 18year-old Alyssa Bustamante said to the family of her victim prior to the sentencing. "I just want to say I'm sorry for what happened. I'm so sorry." Cole County Presiding Judge Patricia Joyce sentenced Bustamante to one life sentence for second-degree murder and 30 years for armed criminal action, The (Jefferson City) News-Tribune reported.

Bustamante pleaded guilty 10 Jan to seconddegree murder in the October 2009 death of Elizabeth Olten -Bustamante confessed she strangled, stabbed and slit the throat of the girl.

Bustamante, who was 15 at the the time of the slaying, described the experience of killing Olten in her journal as 'ahmazing," a forensic consultant testified in court.

Her court-appointed lawyer, Donald Catlett, said Bustamante struggled with severe mental illness for more than two years prior to the slaving.

A psychiatrist, who testified on behalf of the defendant, said changes in Bustamante's Prozac dosage may be linked to mood swings that could have played a role in the slaving, the newspaper said.

Costa Concordia closer to edge of rocky shelf

GIGLIO, 9 Feb-The crippled cruise ship Costa Concordia has shifted 2 feet since it capsized 31 Jan in Italy, moving closer to plunging off a rocky shelf, officials said.

If it fell to the seabed, a depth of more than 230 feet, salvage operations would become much more difficult and the fuel tanks could be ruptured, sending 500,000 gallons of diesel and heavy oil into the waters off the Tuscan island of Giglio, The Daily Telegraph of Britain reported.

Movement of the ship is being measured hourly with sophisticated instruments attached to the hull

"The more time passes, the weaker the wreck [of the Concordia] becomes," said Alessandro Gianni, director of Greenpeace Italy. "The best option would be to remove it in its entirety from Giglio, even if that takes a couple of months longer." Trying to cut the ship into pieces in the water would be "disastrous" for the environment, he said.

When the cargo ship Rena broke up off the coast of New Zealand this year, pollution affected about 40 miles of coastline, Greenpeace Italy said. There's no immediate danger of the 950-foot Concordia breaking up or sinking deeper into the sea, experts said .-- Internet

Hundreds of raids against London gang suspects

LONDON, 9 Feb-A new specialist police unit tackling London gangs carried out hundreds of raids Wednesday, exactly six months on from the riots that hit the capital, arresting nearly 160 people.

The 158 suspected members were picked up as hundreds of Metropolitan Police officers mounted more than 300 raids across the city, starting at dawn.

Those detained are accused of assault, robbery, the supply of drugs and money laundering, police said, and 'significant amounts of crack cocaine, heroin and cash" were also seized.

The arrests came as Met Commissioner Bernard Hogan-Howe said the launch of the new unit was a "step change" in tackling gang crime in London.

The 1,000-strong Trident Gang Crime Command has been created to monitor gang activity and work with local authorities in London.

The unit, thought to be the largest in the country, has 19 dedicated gang crime task forces.

The Metropolitan Police Service said in a statement: "As part of the MPS crackdown on gang crime, 144 warrants have been executed so far across London, resulting in 158 arrests for a variety of offences including possession of a firearm, the supply and possession of drugs, money laundering and gang-related violence.

"A significant amount of cocaine and cannabis has been seized at various addresses across the capital."

Two people were arrested in Barnet in north London on suspicion of possession of a firearm, and a handgun was found at the scene. Two rounds of ammunition and £4,000 ($6,350, 4,800 euros) were also seized.

A total of £10,000 was found at another address in London.

Hogan-Howe said the new unit "will allow us to identify and relentlessly pursue the most harmful gangs and gang members." He added: "It will help us identify young people on the periphery of gangs and work with partners to divert them away."-Internet

Jarvis was one of the goalscorers as Wolves took advantage of Djibril Cisse's sending off to record a vital 2-1 victory at Loftus Road. Los Angeles, 9 Feb -Padraig Harrington believes that Tiger Woods will surpass the record 18 major victories achieved by Jack Nicklaus without ever regaining his dominance of the late 1990s and early 2000s.

Woods won the most recent of his 14 major titles at the 2008 US Open before his game went into decline after the 2009 season following assorted leg injuries and the breakdown of his marriage. However, the American has

Spanish federation to sue French TV for Nadal skit

In the video skit on the satirical program called The Puppets, a lifesize cartoon figure of Nadal is shown urinating into a gas tank before racing off and being pulled over by police for speeding.

NEW YORK, 9 Feb - A German runner has won an annual race up 86 flights of stairs at the Empire State Building for a record seventh straight time. Stuttgart resident Thomas Dold completed the Empire State Building Run-Up on Wednesday in 10 minutes and 28 seconds. "Well, the good thing is that I've done better than all the others," said the 27-year-old Dold, who completed his last three run-ups in 10 minutes and 10 seconds or less.

He said he didn't know why the finish was "so exhausting" this year because he's "really fit" and compares training techniques with other runners. Two other men have won the race five times since it began in 1978; American Al Waquie from 1983-87 and Australian Paul Crake from 1999-2003. Crake remains the record holder with a time of 9 minutes and 33 seconds but has not competed since suffering a devastating bicycle accident in 2006

Melissa Moon, of Wellington, New Zealand, was this year's women's winner in 12 minutes and 39 seconds. The 42-year-old Moon also won the race in 2010. "You can't start too fast too soon in a race like this," Moon said. "I knew I had it when I got to the 70th floor and I could no longer hear them breathing behind me."-Internet

FA would prefer Englishman But Bernstein says next manager will 'not definitely be English'

LONDON, 9 Feb— Football Association chairman David Bernstein says there is no guarantee that the next England manager will be English, with it important for them to find the right man for the job.

He admits that the preference would be to turn to an Englishman, in the wake of Fabio Capello's resignation, but he has made it clear that all options will be considered.

Tottenham boss Harry Redknapp is the firm favourite to take the reins, with it expected that the FA will look to appoint a homegrown coach.

Main points from press conference:

Bernstein, though, claims no decision has been taken as yet regarding the next coach, with it important for the organisation to avoid rushing the selection process.

Asked if Capello's successor will definitely be English, he said: "No, he will not definitely be English. There clearly is a preference for an Englishman.

Interesting

"I have been asked this question consistently and the position hasn't changed. There is a preference for an English person, or a British person. But, at the end, we want the best person.

"We aren't prepared to rule out anything at this stage. Clearly, an English or British person would have a good start on the matter."

Pressed on whether Redknapp was among those in the running for the vacant post, Bernstein added: "I am not going to enter into discussions on individuals, but we will do it as sensibly as we can. It will be interesting to see who comes up, who comes to us and we will put a shortlist together.

"We are in very good shape in many ways, everything is in place and there is plenty of time for a new man to get in place and
