Blaze of greed and anger

We always need to be aware of the danger of fire. Once started, it could cause boundless losses. All too often, fire is put out by hands. If not, it causes serious loss.

Everyone has a fear for fire. There are many other fires as dreadful as literal meaning of fire: the blaze of greed and the blaze of anger.

They share common nature—even more serious—with the fire. As fire ravages possessions, they destroy one's life and said to be more dreadful.

Irrationality and jealousy raise the temperature of one's mind, burning more and more inside. The fire anyone ignites burns himself. We need to put out these fires before it get blazed up.

There are many examples that insatiability and temper bring oneself to the tragic end. Trailing the greed, some go beyond the framework of law. Following the anger, some commit crimes.

There is no hideout for offenders. They must face legal actions. Penalties are disgraceful and dreadful. Being shameful, one may avoid breaching laws and committing crimes.

If with much greed, there will be no room for shame in mind. If with much anger, reasoning power will be lost.

We have to put out the fire of greed and of anger by satiation and patience.

Iran's IRGC to stage new ground military drills

TEHERAN, 13 Feb—The Islamic Revolution Guards Corps (IRGC) Ground Force has planned to carry out new military exercises by the end of the current Iranian calendar year (starting March 20), the local satellite Press TV reported. Commander of the IRGC Ground Forces Brigadier General Mohammad Pakpour said Sunday that the IRGC is completely prepared to strike back at any act of aggression against the Islamic Republic, said the report.

According to Pakpour, the main purpose of IRGC military drills is to improve the combat preparedness of Iranian forces for any possible military attack. The report did not specify the location of the next IRGC military drills. Last week, IRGC Ground Forces wrapped up the "Hamiane Velayat" (supporters of Velayat) military drills in southern Iran. Pakpour said that all elements of a tactical commando raid and aerial combat were "successfully practiced during the ground military drills.

The IRGC forces also launched air offensive and defensive operations, carried out heliborne and antiheliborne maneuvers and ambushed the hypothetical enemies' armored and mechanized columns, and the forces exercised the aerial transportation of military equipment as well as overnight raids during the military maneuvers, Pakpour said. The drills were intended to convey a message of peace and friendship to the countries in the Middle East. while advising Iran's enemies to observe prudence in their behavior towards the Islamic Republic, he added.

Iran has said that its exercises in the southern waters and the nearby areas are aimed at maintaining readiness to confront threats in the Persian Gulf, the Sea of Oman and the Strait of Hormuz, an important passage for oil tankers. Teheran has also threatened to close the strait if it cannot sell its oil in the face of Western sanctions against the Islamic Republic.

Colombia seizes All cap rebels' explosives cache

BOGOTA, 13 Feb - The Colombian security forces have seized three tonnes of explosives and arms belonging to the country's biggest left-wing rebel group, the All cap. Officers found the explosives in an abandoned rebel camp in the jungle in the south of the country. They said they had been tipped off by rebels who had handed themselves in to the authorities.

The seizure comes 10 days after the Farc set off a bomb outside a police station in Tumaco, killing 11 people. Security officials said they had seized 3,200 sticks of explosives, as well as landmines and hundreds of grenades. Col Wilson Diaz said the camp on the shores of the river Yari was large enough to house around 100 rebels.

The colonel said the seizure had been one of the largest in that region for years. All cap rebels have stepped up their offensive against the security forces since their leader. US Navy: Iran prepares suicide bomb boats

in Gulf

MANAMA, 13 Feb-Iran has built up its naval forces in the Gulf and prepared boats that could be used in suicide attacks, but the US Navy can prevent it from blocking the Strait of Hormuz, the commander of US naval forces in the region said on Sunday. Iran has made a series of threats in recent weeks to disrupt shipping in the Gulf or strike US forces in retaliation if its oil trade is shut down by sanctions, or if its disputed nuclear programme comes under attack

"They have increased the number of submarines ... they increased the number of fast attack craft," Vice Admiral Mark Fox told reporters.

"Some of the small boats have been outfitted with a large warhead that could be used as a suicide explosive device. The Iranians have a large mine inventory." "We have watched with interest their development of long range rockets and short, medium and long range ballistic missiles and of course ... the development of their nuclear programme,' Fox, who heads the US Fifth Fleet, said at a briefing on the fleet's base in the Gulf state of Bahrain, Iran now has 10 small submarines, he said.

Military experts say the US Navy's Fifth Fleet patrolling the Gulf, which always has at least one giant supercarrier accompanied by scores of jets and a fleet of frigates and destroyers, is overwhelmingly more powerful than Iran's navy. But ever since al-Qaeda suicide bombers in a small boat killed 17 sailors on board the destroyer USS Cole in a port in Yemen in 1996, Washington has been wary of the vulnerability of its huge battleships to bomb attacks by small enemy craft. Asked whether the US Navy was prepared for an attack or other trouble in the Gulf, Fox said: We are very vigilant, we have built a wide range of options to give the president and we are ready... What if it happened tonight? We are ready today."- Reuters

Immune cells use 'starvation tactics' on HIV

LONDON, 13 Feb - Scientists have shown how some cells in the body can repel attacks from HIV by starving the virus of the building blocks of life. Viruses cannot replicate on their own; they must hijack other cells and turn them into virus production factories. A study, published in Nature Immunology, showed how some parts of the immune system destroy their own raw materials, stopping HIV.

It is uncertain whether this could be used in therapy. experts caution. HIV attacks the immune system and can weaken the body's defences to the point that everyday infections become fatal. However, not all parts of the immune system become subverted to the virus' cause Macrophages and dendritic cells, which have important roles in orchestrating the immune response, seem to be more resistant.

Last year researchers identified the protein SAMHD1 as being a critical part of this resistance. Now scientists believe they know how it works. They have shown that SAMHD1 breaks down the building blocks of DNA. So if a cell needs to make a copy of itself it will have a pool of these building blocks - deoxynucleoside triphosphates or dNTPs-which make the new copies of the DNA. However, they can also be used by viruses.

The study, by an international team of researchers, showed that SAMHD1 lowered the levels of dNTPs below that needed to build viral DNA and prevented infection. When they removed SAMHD1 then those cells had higher levels of dNTPs and were infected by HIV. The report said: "By depleting the pool of available dNTPs, SAMHD1 effectively starves the virus of a building block that is central to its replication strategy."It is possible for macrophages and dendritic cells to produce SAMHD1 as they are "mature cells" which do not go on to produce new cells .-- Internet

Overeating may double risk of memory loss

WASHINGTON, 13 Feb Older people who eat too much are at risk for memory impairment, a new study contends. People 70 and older who eat between 2,100 and 6,000 calories a day may be at double the risk of these deficits in memory, which can be an early sign of Alzheimer's disease, the study authors said.

"Excessive daily caloric consumption may not be brain-health friendly," said lead researcher Dr Yonas Geda, an associate professor of neurology and psychiatry at the Mayo Clinic in Scottsdale, Ariz.

"It may sound like a cliche, but we need to be mindful of our daily caloric consumption," he said. "The bottom line is that eating in moderation, not in excess amount, may be good for your brain.

The results of the study are due to be presented in April at the annual meeting of the American Academy of Neurology, in New Orleans. The data and conclusions should be viewed as preliminary until published in a peer-reviewed journal. the For study investigators collected data on more than 1,200 people, aged 70 to 89, living in Olmsted County, Minn. Among these people, 163 had been diagnosed with the memory deficits known as "mild cognitive impairment." Each person told the researchers how much they ate. One-third ate between 600 and 1.525 calories a day, one-third between 1,526 and 2,142 calories a day, and onethird ate between 2,143 and 6,000 calories a day.

Among those who ate the most, the odds of being diagnosed with the impaired-memory disorder was more than twice that of those who ate the least, the researchers found. There was no significant increase in risk for memory problems among those in the middle group, the researchers added.

Boeing says it's frustrated with Dreamliner glitch

SINGAPORE, 13 Feb-Boeing Co, the world's secondlargest plane maker, is frustrated with the latest 787 Dreamliner production glitch, but it shouldn't delay output goals, a top executive said on Sunday. Boeing has fixed a shimming problem discovered earlier this month on some 787 fuselages and plans to inspect other planes for the error, Boeing vice president of 787 development Mark Jenks said Shims are used to close tiny gaps in joints

"It's a pretty straightforward issue," Jenks told reporters in Singapore. "It shouldn't have any significant impact on our production ramp-up." Boeing still plans to boost production from a current two to three 787s per month to 10 of the planes per month by the end of next year. Lab study raises questions over nano-particle impact

Tests involving chickens have raised questions about the impact on health from engineered nano-particles, the ultra-fine grains commonly used in drugs and processed foods, scientists said. NEW YORK, 13 Feb-Tests involving chickens have raised questions about the impact on health from engineered nano-particles, the ultra-fine grains commonly used in drugs and processed foods, scientists said on Sunday. Chickens exposed to high oral doses of polystyrene particles 50 nanometres (50 billionths of a metre) across absorbed less iron in their diet, according to their study.

At the same time, birds that were chronically exposed to these doses had a "remodelling" of their intestinal villi, the microscopic finger-like projections that play an important role in absorbing nutrients. The changes meant that the villi increased the surface area available for taking in iron. Intestinal uptake of calcium, copper, zinc and vitamins A, D, E and K may also be affected by high exposure nanoparticles, although further research is needed to investigate this, say the authors. The team, led by Michael Shuler of Cornell University in New York, tested the particles on chickens as a substitute for the human intestine and also used lab-dish cells from the lining of the human gut.

How to observe Gemini, the heavenly twin constellation

NEW YORK, 13 Feb-If you head outside around 10:30 pm local time this week and look straight up, you'll be looking directly at Gemini, the Twin Brothers. The heads of the Gemini twins are the bright stars Pollux (yellowish) and Castor (white; a bit dimmer than Pollux). According to Greek mythology, the twins were the sons of Zeus and Leda and brothers of Helen of Troy. Ancient mariners regarded Pollux and Castor as the patrons of seafarers, and in Elizabethan times they were also considered the protectors of all at sea. The expression "by Jiminy!"- an exclamation of surprise or awe-has been said to be a popular corruption of ancient swears by these patrons 'by Gemini!"). In addition, the twins were often billed as adventurers, warriors and famous navigators

Most of the other stars that compose the constellation figures' arms and bodies are noticeably fainter than those in their heads and feet. A second-magnitude star known as Alhena marks one of Pollux's feet (on the astronomers brightness scale of magnitudes, the lower the number, the brighter the star). -Internet

Video game sales fall ahead of PlayStation Vita launch

LONDON, 13 Feb-Video game sales slumped in the US their biggest market - in January. NPD group said stores sold $1.14bn (£720m) worth of games over the month, down 34% on the previous year. It added that hardware sales were down 38%. The consumer data provider linked the drop to a lack of major new releases.

Other analysts also pointed to worries about the economy and said this might have an impact on the upcoming launch of Sony's PlayStation Vita console. NPD said that Activision Blizzard's Call of Duty: Modern Warfare 3 was the month's best-selling title. It was followed by Just Dance 3, Elder Scrolls V: Skyrim and NBA 2K12.

Microsoft's Xbox 360 held onto its title as the top selling hardware platform for the sixth month running. While the lack of new launches was a major reason for software declines, games which launched in the last three months of 2011 also performed poorly in January 2012,

Capriles wins right to challenge Venezuela's Hugo Chavez

CARACAS, 13 Feb-Venezuela's opposition has chosen Henrique Capriles Radonski to stand against President Hugo Chavez in October's election, say officials. The election of the Miranda State governor came after the opposition held its first ever primary. Voting was extended for a hour after what organizers said was a higher-than-expected turn-out.

President Chavez has said he is confident of winning reelection no matter who he ran against. The left-wing leader has governed Venezuela since 1999, winning repeated election victories. He had surgery for cancer last year but says he has recovered and is ready to campaign for another sixvear term in office.

The primary, organized by the opposition Democratic Unity (MUD) coalition, was open to all Venezuelans of voting age, regardless of their political affiliation. "We are going to surpass all expectations of participation," Mr

Iran to fully launch Fordo nuclear enrichment facility "soon"

TEHERAN, 13 Feb-Informed sources in Iran's capital Teheran said that Fordo nuclear enrichment facility will become fully operational over the next few days, the local Mehr news agency reported on Sunday. Iranian President Mahmoud Ahmadinejad said on Saturday that Iran will announce new "big" nuclear achievements in days.

"In the following days, the world will witness the inauguration of several big achievements in nuclear fields," he said addressing a large crowd of people gathered at Teheran's Azadi Square on the occasion of the 33rd anniversary of the Islamic revolution.

Early January, Iran's permanent representative to the International Atomic Energy Agency (IAEA) Ali-Asghar Soltanieh said at the IAEA headquarters in Vienna that Iran had begun uranium enrichment at an underground bunker of the Fordo nuclear facility.

The Fordo nuclear plant has been built near the Iranian central Shi'ite holy city of Qom, which was used for producing up to 20 percent enriched uranium. The start of the nuke work at the Fordo site has increased international fear as the West suspects that Iran's uranium enrichment may be meant for moving closer to the ability to make nuclear weapons.

But Iran insists that its nuclear programme is only for the purpose of peaceful use. - Xinhua

By developing human resources through promoting education and health...

As far as the Education Sector is concerned, at the first regular session of Pvidaungsu Hluttaw which convened on March 30, 2011, President U Thein Sein gave guidance of 10 point education policy. Based on this new policy, a number of significant activities such as, initiation of free and compulsory primary education, promulgation of private school registration law, and preparation for provision of scholarships and stipends in the coming academic years

By focusing on the basic education sector, 30 years, Long-Term Basic Education Development Plan, starting from (2011 to 2031), and Education for all National Action Plan from (2003 to 2015), they are ongoing national plans. In accord with the frame work of the rural development and poverty reduction, 13 education activities have been implemented in receptive regions and states

In the basic education sector, the achievement can be seen by the following indicators, they are -the intake rate of grade 1 of age 5 and over is 98.37%,

-the Primary Level Net Enrolment

Rate is 84.61 % and

-the Primary Level Completion

Rate, is 82.20% respectively.

These indicators, show that retention in primary level is one of the major challenges in basic education, and retention in secondary level is also a high priority to emphasize. Moreover, other necessary tasks, such as improving teachers education quality, improving their socio-economic status, fulfilling necessary requirements for quality learning environment, establishment of quality control system, and making the national qualification framework to be in line with regional qualification framework too.

For the higher education sector, more students are offered for more opportunities for learning, by opening more new universities and degree colleges and other educational programmes are also expanded to promote greater diversity. In 1998, the National Centre for Human Resource Development (NCHRD) was established so that knowledge can be disseminated to the populace residing in the vicinity of universities and colleges by means of non-formal education, offering academic and skill upgrading courses for people willing to study, or willing to acquire an additional skill.

Various courses have been opened for learners, as diverse as those who have had studies interrupted, or for those willing to acquire additional skills. It has been possible to develop the knowledge and skills for learners, from students who have passed the matriculation examination to postgraduates at universities. But, the productively should be in line with the demand in the existing labour market, not only in quantity but also in quality. Therefore, expansion of accessibility as well as quality enhancement are necessary to strengthen, both in basic and higher education.

Regarding the technical and vocational sector, it is the main responsibility of Ministry of Science and Technology. Technical and vocational trainings are importance to keep abreast with the state of the art technology which is the deciding for factor to increase the productivity. This education not only provides the qualifications needed in the business society, but also help young people to the practices of cooperation, coordination and collaboration. So that it is necessary to upgrade this technical and vocational education to keep their ready for the industrial labour force, especially in developing Special Economic Zones and in the process of future industrialization.

Moreover, Information and Communication Technology can provide rapid and low cost access to information to almost all areas of human activity, and the Internet is breaking barriers of geography, making markets more efficient, creating more opportunities for income generation and enabling everyone to adept modern technology. So that, it is necessary to strengthen ICT education for further development of knowledge which is another important factor in the growth of the economy.

The role of R&D development, which can create innovative and capable society is also increasingly important now a days. If there is a critical gap between research findings and outputs, and their development into commercial propositions, R&D will not be sustainable. By establishing Technology and Innovation Centres, it enables industry to exploit new and emerging technical knowhow and close the gap through the provision of a business-focused capability

For the health sector, emphasis has been placed, and a lot of inputs invested, for improving health care system since National Health Plan is an integral part of the national development plan. The Ministry of Health has laid down two objectives, to enable every citizen to attain full life expectancy while enjoying longevity and to ensure that every citizen is free from diseases

To achieve these objective, many

health activities have been implemented under three strategies, which are widespread dissemination of health information and health education to reach the rural areas, improving disease prevention activities, and providing effective treatment of prevailing diseases. Although most of the health related indicators show significant improvements in the past years, there are many areas still needed to be tackled energetically

New health challenges are looming since climatic and environmental conditions are changing with some negative consequences. To face these new health challenges, existing partnership needs to be strengthened further. We will have to try to overcome these challenges by increasing our involvement in the collective efforts with the international community.

Health and education spending could be combined estimated 7.5 percent of government spending, up from 5.4 in FY 2011-12, for education at 4.7 and health at 2.8. As we all are aware that more investment in education and health sector will head to more development of the nation. At present, the national budget on education and health sector is lower than that of the other countries

Now many nations have changed the way they manage their economy from natural resource to human resource based. National resource will be exhausted with the passing time, the human resources are said to be non-exhaustible and it also has multiplier effect in stimulating the economy. Based on human resources alone, we have seen many countries achieving higher development without natural resources. That is one of the reasons, the countries with poor human resources are unable to ride out the current rapidly changing global waves

And so, we will like to call upon all stakeholders, government officials, private organizations, civil societies, international organizations, local NGOs and INGOs to help promote human resource of this nation. It is always mention that, all helps are welcome, anytime, anywhere, in promoting these resources, for they are now accepted as important deciding factors in the nation-building

I am confident that, this Conference will effectively help to develop the nation's National Human Resource Development Plan to gain national policy inputs. In conclusion, I would like to express my sincere thanks to all distinguished guests, participants and all the stakeholders for their contributions.

It is unclear how the proposed initiative of planting trees in Sumatra before marriage will be policed.—Internet

JAKARTA, 13 Feb-Couples in the western Indonesian city of Medan will have to plant two trees before they are granted a marriage permit, officials say. The "environmentally-friendly" initiative was announced by the religious affairs office in the Sumatran Capital on Wednesday. The policy will be rolled out in the city from March

One official estimated that Medan will get at least 2,000 new trees each month as a result of the plan. Iwan Zulhami told the BBC that the couples will get two seedlings upon registration. "The policy has a noble purpose, and it is necessary to support the government's tree-planting programme," he said, explaining that the trees were to be planted at the couples' home.

Aside from Medan, a number of districts on Sulawesi island will also be implementing the policy. It is unclear how the new initiative will be policed. In Indonesia, Muslim couples intending to marry must register with the Office of Religious Affairs. Non-Muslims register with their places of worship and the Civil Registry Office. Qantas says latest "A380" delay unrelated to wing cracks

SINGAPORE, 13 Feb -Qantas Airways played down a steering issue that forced an Airbus A380 to twice abandon departure before taking off from London's Heathrow airport on Saturday, saying it was unrelated to wing cracks that have led Europe's air safety officials to order global checks on the superjumbo. Qantas said the plane, due to fly from London to Singapore, was travelling at a very slow speed when the decision was made to return to bay. "It was due to the steering issue. It has no relation to the cracks in the wing ribs at all," Qantas spokeswoman Courtney Treak said. "Our engineers were able to fix the issue, so we don't have any further concerns.'

A spokesman for manufacturer Airbus declined to comment, saying that only the airline could comment on operational matters. Dr Faye Smith, business development director at the Royal Aeronautical Society, said the A380 aircraft was on the runway when it twice abandoned take-off. "Technical issues with the nose gear meant the pilot had to abort take off and have us towed off the runway for repairs twice," Smith told Reuters by email.

According to a statement from the foreign ministry, Foreign Minister Hector Timerman on Friday briefed UN General Assembly President Nassir Abdulaziz Al-Nasser on the recent escalation of the dispute over the disputed islands

Al-Nassar expressed hope that the two governments would use peaceful means under the framework of international law to resolve the issue and offered to mediate.

Wisconsin fishermen on ice as sturgeon spear season opens

WINNECONNE, 13 Feb - Dan Loftus, on a mission to spear a sturgeon from the ice-choked waters of Wisconsin's Lake Winnebago, dropped a rubber chicken into the frigid emerald abyss and waited

The 48-year-old chiropractor from Germantown sat on a lawn chair in the dark and leaned over, staring into the murky water through a hole carved into 10-inch-thick ice as his two buddies gregariously told stories and drank beer behind him. 's the most boring thing ever.

It's really boring, just watching a hole," Loftus said of his quest. "But it's relaxing."

The trio, huddled in their shanty, were some of the thousands of fishermen to take part in the opening day on Saturday of Wisconsin's brief sturgeon spear season for a hunt that is part outdoor sport and part tradition.

When and if a sturgeon swam into their hole, one of the men was to drop a five-tined spear onto the prehistoric-looking fish. Once the sturgeon is speared, fishermen pull the fish which could weigh 200 pounds - out of the hole in the ice.

Argentina and Britain both have long claimed sovereignty over the disputed islands, some 460 km off of the Argentine coast. The spat led to a war in 1982, which ended with Argentina failing to occupy the islands but refusing to acknowledge British rule of the territory

Argentina recently appealed to the United Nations to protest against an increased British military presence near the disputed islands as the 30-year anniversary of the war that killed more than 900 people approaches. Britain claimed that the warships it has sent to the region were part of a routine deployment.-Xinhua

Britain's oldest married couple to give advice on Twitter

LONDON, 13 Feb-A British couple who have been married for 76 years - the longest in the country - have now joined Twitter to speak about the secret of their remarkable romance. Lionel and Ellen Buxton from Dover, Kent, have invited users of the networking website to tweet them with their problems.

The couple said they have not spent more than one night apart in the past eight decades, the Daily Mail reported. Ellen, 100, said: We have never been apart really and have never wanted anyone else. We have been married happily because we have been good friends as well as husband and wife. We have always made sure we have had nice evenings out together. Whether it is going for a romantic meal or out to play bingo." Lionel turns 100 in March.

The couple, who met in March 1930, grew up in London's East End and met while working at the Henley Cable factory in north Woolwich. Ellen would often ask for technical help from apprentice engineer Lionel.

"She was lovely. I always looked forward to when she needed help from me. We got on so well went on a few dates together and became a couple. We ended up getting married. We would have done it sooner but could not afford it," Lionel said.

"Terrorists live among us. We want you to tell us about anyone or anything you see which is out of place in your normal day-to-day lives.

Fears over Leicestershire double deaths and ketamine link

LONDON, 13 Feb-The deaths of two people in Leicestershire may have been due to the drug ketamine purchased on the Internet, police have revealed. A 59-year-old woman was found at an address in Leicester on Saturday and a man of 32 in Melton Mowbray on Sunday. Detectives say the deaths are not suspicious, but have confirmed one line of inquiry is the use of ketamine. Anyone who has purchased the drug on the Internet is being urged not to take it.

Det Insp Rob Widdowson, of Leicestershire Police, said: "We are investigating the circumstances leading to the deaths of these two people in order to prepare files for the coroner. "One of our lines of inquiry is that prior to their deaths both people may have taken a form of the drug ketamine, known medically as methoxetamine, which may have been purchased over the Internet."-Internet

PEBBLE BEACH, 13 Feb-Phil Mickelson rallied from six shots behind to win for the fourth time at Pebble Beach, a final round made even more memorable by the guy in a red shirt who was among the first to congratulate him Sunday on the 18th green.

Turns out that Tiger Woods was just along for the ride. Mickelson closed with an 8-under 64, beating Woods by 11 shots in a one-sided showdown at the Pebble Beach National Pro-Am.

"I just feel very inspired when I play with him," said Mickelson, who has posted the better score the past five times he has played alongside Woods in the final round. "I love playing with him. and he brings out some of my best golf. I hope that he continues to play better, and better, and I hope that he and I have a chance to play together more in the final rounds." Woods, one shot out of the lead on the sixth hole after 54-hole leader Charlie Wi fell apart early, followed his first birdie of the final round with three straight bogeys, starting with a threeputt from 18 feet on the par-3 seventh.

It never got much better from there. He finished a miserable day with another three-putt on the 18th for a 75, the only consolation coming from belief that he's closer than ever to putting it all together.-Internet

No Djokovic, no problem as Serbia eve Spain's Davis Cup title

PARIS, 13 Feb-Serbia shrugged off the absence of Novak Djokovic to reach the Davis Cup last eight with the 2010 champions confidently setting their sights on dethroning Spain in November's final.

Janko Tipsarevic secured an unassailable 3-1 lead over Sweden in the World Group first round tie in Nis with a 6-2, 7-6 (7/5), 7-5 win over Michael Ryderstedt.

Victory gave Serbia a quarter-final tie in April against the Czech Republic, but captain Bogdan Obradovic believes that with world number one Djokovic back in the side for that clash, his country can start dreaming of a second title.

"It's never easy to play matches in which you are the odds-on favourite but the players dealt with the pressure really well against Sweden," Obradovic told www.daviscup.com.

"With a bit of luck, we will reach this year's final and hopefully take on Spain because we are confident that we can beat them on home soil.

Tipsarevic had beaten Filip Prpic in straight sets in Friday's opening rubber and had then played doubles on Saturday when Sweden had clawed their way back into the tie.

But despite those efforts, he had no problem in disposing of Ryderstedt. Internet

Conference on Development Policy Options with Special Reference to Education and Health in Myanmar commences

Vice-President of the Republic of the Union of Myanmar Dr Sai Mauk Kham delivered an opening address at the Conference on Development Policy Options with Special Reference to Education and Health in Myanmar.

NAY PYI TAW, 13 Feb—Vice-President of the Republic of the Union of Myanmar Dr Sai Mauk Kham delivered an opening address at the Conference on Development Policy Options with Special Reference to Education and Health in Myanmar at Myanmar International Convention Centre, here, at 9 am today.

Also present on the occasion were Union ministers, deputy ministers, region and state ministers for Social Affairs, departmental heads of ministries, resident representatives of UN agencies, officials of NGOs and INGOs, ambassadors of foreign missions and officials, representatives of private sector and guests.

The Vice-President delivered an address. He said: First of all, I would like to extend my warmest welcome to the Conference on Development Policy Options in Myanmar, with Special Reference to Education and Health.

The objective of this Conference is to promote the policies towards human resources development area, especially in education and health sectors. I hope this Conference will produce good out-comes from the best practices of some countries, including Asian countries to be able to have policy inputs for the formulation and implementation of the development policies.

The national seminar on poverty reduction and rural development was conducted last year with the participation of all stakeholders. It is well aware that about 70% of the population is residing in rural areas, improving livelihood for rural populace is one of our main priorities. The Central Committee and Subcommittees on Rural Development and Poverty Reduction are set up and eight major tasks are being implemented in all states and regions, targeting to reduce the poverty rate from 26% at present to 16% by 2015. By developing human resources through promoting education and health sectors, we hope to realize our vision, which is "building modern, developed and democratic nation".

The concept of development can be conceived of in a multidimensional process. Since the challenge is to improve the quality of life, the needs must be fulfilled. It is necessary to focus on quality growth which can share the fruits of development among the people equitably. In his context, one of the economic policies is to achieve balanced and proportionate growth and to be inclusive as well.

It is observed that Human Development Index (HDI) of this country is low compared to other ASEAN countries, and it will be necessary to double the living status if we are to achieve the Millennium Development Goals by 2015.

To develop disciplined democracy in Myanmar, it is also necessary to nurture the people to be thoroughly acquainted with knowledge, rational thinking and behaviors. For instance, decentralization processes can be successful only when the capacity and capability are there, at the basic level. Good intelligence and knowledge are also needed to take responsibility, accountability and proper management. We believe that only in this way, the democratic principles which we value so much can be accomplished. (See page 9)
