Infant and young child feeding

Human resources development has reached the centre stage for a country's development as the world today is relying more and more on technology and science that man has created for his own good.

As human resources are renewable, the more important thing is the inexhaustible supply of skilled workforce and intellectuals and intelligentsia that can shape a better future and bring prosperity.

Here, we need to develop the human resources from the very start or in other words from the childhood so that we will have an inexhaustible source. We cannot educate an infant or a baby, but we can make him healthy and smart through nutritious food.

It's simple that infants and young children need wholesome food to develop everything from their bones and muscles to brains. In fact, infant and young child feeding are a cornerstone of care for childhood development.

Generally, infants and young children are under the full care and protection of their parents, especially mothers. Accordingly, parents have the duty to make their children fit and healthy and develop their brains through proper feeding.

But rather than letting the job done by parents alone, there should be a comprehensive strategy jointly realized by a wide sector of participants for producing tangible results.

One of the effective ways is to educate these persons on the proper infant and young child feeding practices as even the well-educated and well-informed people sometimes lack knowledge on this issue.

As this strategy calls for the participation of a wide range of sectors, the government departments, private businesses, local communities, domestic and international NGOs and UN agencies can fulfill this requirement.

With such a comprehensive force, we can surely facilitate the work of disseminating infant and young child feeding knowledge and practices to reach every grassroots and every doorstep even in remote areas.

MRTV programmes go UHF in Patheingyi retransmission station

NAY PYI TAW, 24 Feb—Patheingyi TV retransmission station in Ayeyawady Region has switched over from 3 KW (VHF Channel 4) to 3 KW (UHF J-17) in transmitting MRTV programmes since 19 this month to extend the coverage with clearer pictures. Patheingyi, Ngapudaw and Myaungmya townships have access to MTTV programmes through 3 KW UHF system. Villages-tracts in the south of Ngapudaw and Myaungmya within 30 miles radius of Patheingyi can enjoy vivid pictures with the help of UHF outdoor antenna (11-bar) with booster.

Patheingyi TV retransmission station will still be broadcasting through VHF Channel 4 and UHF Channel J-17 till 29 this month and shift to 3 KW UHF (Channel J-17) beginning 1 March, 2012.

Putin vows 'victory' in battle for Russia's future

Moscow, 24 Feb—Prime Minister Vladimir Putin on Thursday vowed he would not allow foreign powers to interfere in Russia's internal affairs and predicted victory in an ongoing battle for its future.

"We will not allow anyone interfere in our internal affairs," Putin said in a speech to more than 100,000 people packed into the stadium and its grounds at Moscow's Luzhniki stadium ahead of 4 March presidential elections.

"We will not allow anyone to impose their will on us. We have our own will and this has always helped us be victorious. We are a victorious nation. This is in our genes. This is in our genetic code."

In a fiery, nationalist-tinged speech that had not been announced in advance, Putin thanked voters who would support him in the elections and repeatedly invoked past battles for Russia.

"We will be victorious," declaimed Putin. He then turned to the crowd and asked: "And I want to ask you. Will we be victorious?" The tens of thousands in the crowd roared back "Yes!"

he said.

He added: "We came today to say that we love Russia and to say it so that the whole country hears us," he said. "My question is do we love Russia?" he asked, as the participants again yelled in return "Yes!"

In his only clear reference to the approaching elections, he added: "I cannot embrace each one of you and shake each one of your hands. But I see everything and thank you for the support, for the moral assistance."

"I thank you for each one of your votes," he said.

Possibly addressing those not in the stadium who have staged mass protests against his rule, he added: "I would like to tell you that we are not pushing anyone away, we are not defaming anyone or grabbing anyone."

"Just the opposite—we call on everyone to unite around our country, those who see Russia as their own motherland, who are ready to protect her, cherish her and believe in her."

Indian PM accuses US NGOs for fuelling stir at nuclear plant, opposing biotechnology

NEW DELHI, 24 Feb—Indian Prime Minister Manmohan Singh has accused America-based non-government organizations for fuelling protests at the Russia-aided Kudankulam nuclear power station in the southern State of Tamil Nadu.

Prime Minister Manmohan Singh

"What's happening in Kudankulam... the atomic energy programme has got into difficulties because these NGOs, mostly I think based in the United States, don't appreciate the need for our country to increase the energy supply," the local media Friday quoted prime minister as saying in an interview to US journal Science. The prime minister has also blamed these NGOs for opposing genetically modified foods and use of biotechnology to increase food production in the country.

"Biotechnology has enormous potential and in due course of time we must make use of genetic engineering technologies to increase the productivity of our agriculture. But there are controversies," he said.

"There are NGOs, often funded from the United States and the Scandinavian countries, which are not fully appreciative of the development challenges that our country faces," Singh added. The 130 billion rupee (2.6 billion US dollars) Kudankulam Nuclear Power Plant, being built with Russian collaboration in Tamil Nadu, is expected to provide respite from the power shortage problem in the state.

But activists and locals have stalled the Indo-Russian joint venture, staging massive protests citing safety concerns in the wake of the Fukushima disaster in Japan last year. As a result of these frequent protests, the commissioning of two 1,000 megawatt nuclear reactors at the plant has been stalled. Several rounds of talks between a government panel and representatives of villagers opposing the plant have failed to resolve the stand-off.—Xinhua

US-Pakistan ties too important to turn back

LONDON, 24 Feb—US Secretary of State Hillary Clinton on Thursday said relations between the US and Pakistan were "too important" for both countries to turn their back on. Clinton admitted that relations between the US and Pakistan were "in difficult times," but said on Thursday's talks with Khar were constructive and covered common concerns such as violent extremism, supporting Afghan-led reconciliation, and improving bilateral relations.

The US relations with Pakistan cooled after 24 Pakistani soldiers were killed by US forces last November, fuelling anti-US sentiments across the country.

Defence spokesman: China ready to advance military ties with US

BEIJING, 24 Feb—China is ready to work with the United States to advance military-to-military links in a healthy and stable way, Defence Ministry Spokesman Geng Yansheng said on Thursday.

Geng told a monthly Press briefing that during Chinese Vice President Xi Jinping's official visit to the United States last week, Xi had in-depth exchanges of views with US leaders and military officials on bilateral and military-to-military ties.

"This visit was of great significance to guiding the development of relations between the two countries and the two militaries," Geng said.

He said China has always placed importance on expanding military-to-military links with the United States, which he said remains one of the most important bilateral links in the world.

In recent years, the two militaries have carried out sound cooperation in the areas of high-level contact, dialogues, military records, humanitarian relief and disaster reduction, Geng said. But he said the military ties still faced certain difficulties and obstacles.

"We are ready to work with the US side, by observing the principles of mutual respect, trust, equality and mutual benefits, to respect and take care of each other's core interests and major concerns, properly handle differences and controversial issues, cultivate strategic mutual trust and push forward China-US military links in a healthy and stable way," Geng said.

Four soldiers wounded in bomb explosion in restive S Thailand

BANGKOK, 24 Feb—Four soldiers were wounded when three bombs exploded at a shelter inside a school's grounds in Thailand's restive southern province of Yala, Bangkok Post online reported on Thursday.

According to police, six soldiers from Yala Task Force 14 who were on a security patrol went into the shelter inside the grounds of Samakkhi School in Yala's Yaha District to take a rest. Three bombs which had been planted there were detonated simultaneously at about 9.30 am local time on Thursday. The explosions wounded four soldiers and wrecked the shelter. The schoolchildren were all in their classrooms about 200 metres away at the time.

The improvised bombs, made of gas cylinders, weighed about 10 kg in total, police said. They blamed separatist militants for the blast. Since the resurgence of insurgency in 2004, around 11,000 violent incidents instigated by secessionists in the southernmost provinces of Yala, Pattani and Narathiwat happened with almost 5,000 people killed and nearly 8,000 injured.—Xinhua

Melanoma drug nearly doubles survival time

LOS ANGELES, 24 Feb — A new drug to treat advanced skin cancer, or metastatic melanoma, has been shown to nearly double average survival time in a study of more than 130 patients, researchers said on Wednesday.

Made by Genentech, a US subsidiary of the Swiss pharmaceutical giant Roche, the drug, Zelboraf, was approved by the US Food and Drug Administration in August 2011, making it the first new treatment for melanoma in 13 years.

The latest study, an intermediate phase II trial whose results are published in the New England Journal of Medicine, followed 132 patients at 13 medical sites in the United States and Australia. Study subjects survived an average of 15.9 months, when typical survival among people whose melanoma has spread to other organs is about nine months, it said.

“We knew this drug would make the melanomas shrink in a large proportion of patients and that it worked better than chemotherapy,” said senior author Antoni Ribas, a professor of hematology and oncology and researcher at University of California Los Angeles’s

Jonsson Cancer Centre.

“We did not know that patients taking Zelboraf were living longer until now.”

The drug can be used to treat about half of all patients with metastatic melanoma, or about 4,000 patients in the United States each year, the researchers said. Zelboraf, a twice-a-day pill, works by blocking a protein that is involved with cell growth in patients with advanced melanoma whose tumors express a gene mutation called BRAF V600E.

About 53 percent of patients with that mutation see their tumors shrink by more than 30 percent, while an additional 30 percent of patients see tumors get smaller but not quite as much. The drug failed to elicit a response in 14 percent of patients.

LONDON, 24 Feb—Fewer women than men suffering from a heart attack appear to experience chest pain symptoms, according to a study of more than one million people in the US. Overall men have significantly more heart attacks, but under the age of 55 women are more likely to die from one.

Without displaying the classic chest pain symptoms of a heart attack, researchers say some women may not be getting the right kind of treatment. The study looked at patients seen at more than 1,000 hospitals. The research found that among younger women — those aged under 55 — the differences in symptoms with men of the same age were striking.

Overall, 42% of women did not experience chest pain compared with 30% of men. And once admitted, the study

US health experts give nod to new obesity drug

WASHINGTON, 24 Feb—An advisory panel to the US Food and Drug Administration on Wednesday urged approval of a new obesity drug, Qnexa, after warning against its approval in 2010 due to safety concerns. The panel voted 20-2 that the FDA should allow Qnexa on the market, saying the latest overall benefit-risk assessment supported its approval.

The drug, made by California-based biotech firm Vivus, is the first obesity drug submitted to the FDA in more than a decade. Qnexa combines two existing drugs, the appetite suppressant phentermine and topiramate, an anti-convulsant that can be used in conjunction with other drugs for weight loss. The FDA does not have to follow the advice of the advisory panel, though it usually does. A

Mazda shares dive on plan to raise $2 billion

TOKYO, 24 Feb — Mazda stock dived nearly 7 percent on Thursday after the struggling car maker said it will raise about $2 billion from selling new shares to invest in assembly plants and developing new vehicle technologies.

The Japanese company, which makes the Miata sports car, said in a statement it aims to have half of its vehicle production based overseas by early 2016 as part of plans to make its business more competitive.

Mazda’s earnings have been hurt by the yen’s sharp rise, the tsunami disaster last year in Japan, flooding in Thailand and the European debt crisis. Its shares were down 6.8 percent at 37 yen in Tokyo. Of the 163 billion yen (£2 billion) it hopes to raise from the share sale, some 93 billion yen will be allocated to developing auto technologies focused on fuel efficiency and safety. The rest will go toward building new car and engine assembly factories in Mexico and upgrading existing assembly lines in Russia, China, Japan and Southeast Asia.

The automaker plans to introduce eight new vehicles by early 2016 using its “Skyactiv” technology that improves fuel efficiency by 20 percent to 30 percent compared with older models. It said it continues to seek alliances with other automakers overseas. Mazda, which has lost money for the last three fiscal years, is struggling to assert its brand as the relationship with longtime partner Ford Motor Co withers.

Dearborn-based Ford bought 25 percent of Mazda in 1979, raising it to 33.4 percent in 1996.

But Ford began cutting ties in 2008, and in 2010 lowered its ownership to 3.5 percent. Mazda does not have flashy green technologies in its lineup that its bigger Japanese rivals do — such as the hybrids at Toyota Motor Corp or electric vehicles at Nissan Motor Co. HP profit plummets, CEO urges patience

SAN FRANCISCO, 24 Feb — Hewlett-Packard Co’s earnings fell nearly 44 percent and the world’s No 1 computer maker forecast a second-quarter profit below Wall Street estimates as it struggles with weak sales of PCs and printers.

The storied Silicon Valley company, which has been trying to move past the internal upheaval that marked 2011, posted quarterly sales declines in three of its key units: personal computers, printers and enterprise equipment. Chief Executive Meg Whitman, a veteran Silicon Valley executive who took the top job last September after the firing of Leo Apotheker, has been trying to turn around HP’s sprawling businesses. On Wednesday, she pleaded for a little patience.

“If you look at business history and you look at companies which have gone through the kind of turnaround that we’re leading HP through right now, these things are not quick,” she said, adding it could anywhere from two to five years. “It took us a while to get into the situation in which we find ourselves. Air Asia hit by high fuel costs

KUALA LUMPUR, 24 Feb — Malaysian budget airline Air Asia has reported a 56% fall in fourth-quarter profit, hurt by higher fuel costs. Net profit for the last three months of 2011 fell to 135.7m ringgit ($44.8m; £28.6m) from 311.1m ringgit in the same period a year earlier. However, revenue for the quarter rose 9.3% to 1.27bn ringgit, thanks to more passengers and higher average fares.

Last month, Air Asia said it was ending its flights to Europe and India because of high fuel prices and weak demand. For the full year, revenue rose 13% to 4.47bn ringgit, while net profit fell 46.8% to 564.1m ringgit.

Stem cell implants boost monkeys with Parkinson's

KYOTO, 24 Feb — Monkeys suffering from Parkinson's disease show a marked improvement when human embryonic stem cells are implanted in their brains, in what a Japanese researcher said on Wednesday was a world first. A team of scientists transplanted the stem cells into four primates that were suffering from the debilitating disease.

The monkeys all had violent shaking in their limbs — a classic symptom of Parkinson's disease — and were unable to control their bodies, but began to show improvements in their motor control after about three months, Kyoto University associate professor Jun Takahashi told AFP.

About six months after the transplant, the creatures were able to walk around their cages, he said. "Clear improvements were confirmed in their movement," he said. Parkinson's disease is a progressive neurological illness linked to a decrease in dopamine production in the brain. There is currently no medical solution to this drop off in a key neurotransmitter.

The condition, which generally affects older people, gained wider public recognition when Hollywood actor Michael J. Fox revealed he was a sufferer. — Internet

Italian engineer invents floating solar panels

ROME, 24 Feb — Rays of the winter sun bounce off gleaming mirrors on the tiny lake of Colignola in Italy, where engineers have built a cost-effective prototype for floating, rotating solar panels. "You are standing on a photovoltaic floating plant which tracks the sun, it's the first platform of its kind in the world!" said Marco Rosa-Clot, a professor at Florence University, proudly showing off his new project. Rosa-Clot and his team say they are revolutionising solar power and that their floating flower-petal-like panels soaking up the Tuscan sun have already attracted a lot of interest from international buyers. Standard solar panels on buildings or in fields have been criticised for taking up valuable agricultural land, being unsightly and losing energy through overheating — issues the floating plants would resolve. The Floating Tracking Cooling Concentrator (FTCC) system is designed to exploit unused areas of artificial reservoirs or disused quarries.

While the water keeps the panels at low temperatures, reflectors are positioned to maximise solar capture at different times of day, making it more efficient than a traditional installation, Rosa-Clot said. — Internet

Humboldt squid have been making forays into California waters in recent years.
INTERNET

WASHINGTON, 24 Feb — The energetic world of Humboldt squid has been detailed in new tracking studies that follow the creatures as they dive and climb through the ocean. The animals are found in warmer waters of the eastern Pacific and live an up-and-down existence as they follow prey. Julia Stewart from Stanford University fitted tags to the cephalopods, and found them to be spending many hours in very oxygen-poor California waters.

Ms Stewart spoke about her work at the biennial Ocean Sciences meeting. The tagging study followed the creatures as they dove hundreds of metres into the deep during the day, only to return to surface waters at night. "We've seen them make really impressive dives up to a kilometre and a half deep, swimming straight through a zone where there's really low oxygen," the Hopkins Marine Station researcher said. "They're able to spend several hours at this kilometre-and-a-half-deep, and then they go back up and continue their normal daily swimming behaviour. It's just a really impressive, really fast, deep dive through what is quite a harsh environment." Humboldt are found predominantly in waters off Mexico and further south, but in recent years have been extending their range, on and off, into the California current. There have even been sightings as far north as Alaska. The squid are voracious. They capture their prey with their tentacles and suckers and rip it apart with their powerful beaks. — Internet

Russians revive Ice Age flower from frozen burrow

INTERNET

MOSCOW, 24 Feb — It was an Ice Age squirrel's treasure chamber, a burrow containing fruit and seeds that had been stuck in the Siberian permafrost for over 30,000 years. From the fruit tissues, a team of Russian scientists managed to resurrect an entire plant in a pioneering experiment that paves the way for the revival of other species. The Silene stenophylla is the oldest plant ever to be regenerated, the researchers said, and it is fertile, producing white flowers and viable seeds. The experiment proves that permafrost serves as a natural depository for ancient life forms, said the Russian researchers, who published their findings in Tuesday's issue of "Proceedings of the National Academy of Sciences" of the United States.

"We consider it essential to continue permafrost studies in search of an ancient genetic pool, that of pre-existing life, which hypothetically has long since vanished from the earth's surface," the scientists said in the article. Canadian researchers had earlier regenerated some significantly younger plants from seeds found in burrows.

Svetlana Yashina of the Institute of Cell Biophysics of the Russian Academy of Sciences, who led the regeneration effort, said the regenerated plant looked very similar to its modern version, which still grows in the same area in northeastern Siberia.

Apple, Google, Amazon, smartphone makers sign privacy accord

have agreed to provide greater privacy disclosures before users download applications in order to protect the personal data of millions of consumers, California's attorney general said on Wednesday. The agreement binds Amazon, Apple, Google, Microsoft, Research In Motion, and Hewlett-Packard — and developers on their platforms — to disclose how they use private data before an app may be downloaded, Attorney General Kamala D Harris said.

"Your personal privacy should not be the cost of using mobile apps, but all too often it is," said Harris.

Currently 22 of the 30

most downloaded apps do not have privacy notices, said Harris.

Some downloaded apps also download a consumer's contact book. Google said in a statement that under the California agreement, Android users will have "even more ways to make informed decisions when it comes to their privacy."

Apple confirmed the agreement but did not elaborate. Harris was also among US state lawmakers who on Wednesday signed a letter to Google CEO Larry Page to express "serious concerns" over the web giant's recent decision to consolidate its privacy policy.

Was Einstein wrong — or was the cable loose?

GENEVA, 24 Feb — The world of science was upended last year when an experiment appeared to show one of Einstein's fundamental theories was wrong — but now the lab behind it says the result could have been caused by a loose cable. Physicists at the CERN research institute near Geneva appeared to contradict Albert Einstein's 1905 Special Theory of Relativity last year when they reported that subatomic particles called neutrinos could travel fractions of a second faster than light.

Einstein's Special Theory of Relativity, which underpins the current view of how the universe works, says that nothing can travel faster than light, and doing so would be like traveling back in time.

James Gillies, a spokesman for European Organization for Nuclear Research, or CERN, said on Wednesday the lab's startling result was now in doubt.

Earlier on Wednesday, ScienceInsider, a website run by the American Association for the Advancement of Science, reported that the surprising result was down to a loose fibre optic cable linking a Global Positioning System satellite receiver to a computer.

Gillies confirmed that a flaw in the GPS system was now district and township levels and have been in operation.

Money-lending business needs continuous injection of capital and the more successful the business, the more increase the capital. According to microfinance law, the interest rate for saving is 15 per cent for a year and that for credit is about 30 per cent a year. The interest rate is such a low rate for the poor that the business would contribute a great deal to the needy.

So, the participation of local traders plays a major role. The advantages of microfinance works is that the interest rate is low, that work can be done swiftly, that whoever shares the same aim can found the credit union and assumes responsibility reciprocally, that the procedures are not complex and only need registration, that it can serve as a small bank as the capital has become larger and larger, and that it directly benefits the needy of the own region.

All the financial businesses have the possibility of loss, but it is learnt that microfinance works can be implemented widely in some places with desired results and least loss. The participation of local businessmen is very fundamental as it is a chance they can grasp to develop own region.

The Vice-President then called businessmen and social organizations to devote in development undertakings of own townships and districts by cooperating in agriculture, livestock breeding, cooperatives and social sectors.

The Vice-President stressed that the desire of local traders is the most important in microfinance works, noting that it is a work to be done with philanthropic attitude and patriotic spirit in the interests of the poor and not a profit-making one.

The Vice-President urged them to work in concert for establishment of industrial zone or special economic zone in Muse, calling them to hold multilateral discussion for it as it calls for collaborative efforts of them.

Next, Vice-President Dr Sai Mauk Kham and wife Daw Nan Shwe Hmon accompanied by Union ministers, the state chief minister and departmental personnel left there for Mongyal.

The Vice-President and party met township-level departmental personnel, members of social organizations, ward and village-tract administrators, senior citizens and local national race people at Mongyal Union Hall.

The Vice-President spoke on the occasion. Next, ward and village-tract administrators reported to the Vice-President on requirements of the region. Next, the Mongyal Township administrator reported on further requirements for regional development, realization of the instructions of the Vice-President on his tour of the region on 16-12-2011, and amount of loans needed for purchase of farming equipment for agricultural production development.

Next, Union Minister Lt-Gen Thein Htay, Union Minister Dr Mya Aye and Deputy Minister U Khin Zaw replied to the reports. Union Minister U Khin Yi presented 25 sample solar lanterns to 25 villages through the village administrators.

Kanbawza Bank Ltd, Asia World Co, Co-operatives Bank Co, New Star Light Co and Shwe Thanwin Co presented K 4 million to Shan and Lahu Literature and Cultural Organizations, K 15 million for renovation of Mongyal Township Union Hall.

The chairman of DGH Battery Co from Lashio presented 25 boxes that hold 240 batteries each of R 20 batteries and the chairman of Shwe Hningtaung Co 50 crop sprayers for the villages. The Shwe Thanwin Co chairman presented 5 sets of DTH Sky Net receivers to Shan and Lahu Literature and Cultural Organizations and departments.

The Vice-President, wife and party then went to Pariyatti Sadhamapala Monastic School Saimain in Mongyal and donated K 5 million to the monastery.

The Vice-President, wife and party then proceeded to Tangyan where they met township-level departmental personnel, members of social organizations, ward and village-tract administrators and townselders.

The Vice-President spoke on the occasion and heard reports on requirements of the region presented by the ward administrators. Next, a senior citizen, on behalf of the local, spoke words of thanks to the government for its development measures for Tangyan.

Next, the Tangyan township administrator explained additional requirements of the region, progress in realization of instructions of the Vice-President on his tour of the region on 16-12-2011 and rural development and poverty alleviation measures. Next, Union ministers, the Shan State chief minister and deputy ministers made replies to the reports.

Next, Union Minister U Ohn Myint presented 49 sample solar lanterns to village-tracts. Next, Kanbawza Bank Ltd, Asia World Co, Co-operatives Bank Co, New Star Light Co and Shwe Thanwin Co presented K 6 million to Shan, Lahu and Wa Literature and Cultural Organizations, the chairman of DTH Battery Co 49 boxes that hold 240 batteries each of R20 batteries, the chairman of Shwe Hningtaung Co 50 crop sprayers.

Kanbawza Bank Ltd, Asia World Co, Co-operatives Bank Co, New Star Light Co, DTH Battery Co, and Shwe Thanwin Co presented K 35 million for construction of 70 toilets in basic education schools in Nangyan. The Shwe Thanwin Co chairman presented seven sets of DTH Sky Net receivers to Shan, Lahu and Wa Literature and Cultural Organizations.

The Vice-President, wife and party then went to Maha Vihara (Aung Mingala) Monastery. They received five precepts from the abbot and donated robes and offertories to him.

The Union ministers, the Shan State chief minister and deputy ministers also donated offertories to the monks. The Vice-President and party donated K 5 million to the board of trustees. The Vice-President then viewed construction of new monastic school building in the monastery precinct. He donated K 5 million for construction of the school and cordially greeted national race people.

The Vice-President, wife and party flew back to Lashio from Tangyan. The Vice-President while visiting Mansu Plaza in Lashio heard reports on progress in upgrading of Mansu Market and measures for second-phase construction of Mansu market and gave necessary instructions. He then inspected the progress in construction of the market.

On his tour of Mongyal and Tangyan, the Vice-President in his speech to departmental personnel, members of social organizations ward and village-tract administrators, senior citizens and local national races said it was his second visit of Mongyal and Tangyan. On his first visit, he had attended to the requirements of those regions and this time he came to inspect progress in implementation of works and to fulfill the other needs and also for swifter implementation of rural development and poverty alleviation scheme.

The majority of rural folk residing in the country are still leading a hard life and it needs to launch effective campaign for rural development and poverty alleviation nationwide to enhance the socio-economic life of those people.

In agriculture sector, paddy production of traditional farming is about 50-60 basket per acre. For actual production of at least 100 baskets per acre, there needs to make changes in paddy strain, fertilizers, capital, farm equipment and agricultural techniques. The higher the standards of agricultural sector, the higher the rural people's standards.

So as to do livestock breeding on commercial scale, Township Livestock Breeding Departments will provide paddy strain, disseminations of technologies and practical knowledge and supervisions.

Micro credit society will be implanted extensively so as to run foodstuff production and manufacturing of bags and traditional clothes on commercial scale.

Small-scale credit societies would assist more in getting capital and additional capital investment, which is essential for doing big and small businesses and earning their living. Micro credit society can be formed with five or six people and needs to register. Due to the advantages such as increase in capital, low interest rates and small scale, it would bring more benefits to the needy families. Competitions among businesses should be long-term.

Thanks to ASEAN Economic Integration that will emerge in 2015, there will be free trade between the countries. So, our country needs to be ready for the competitiveness.

So, establishments of industrial zones are being carried out in Muse and Lashio townships in order to produce and export high-cost products and create more job opportunities.

The country can not achieve development and economic growth, based only on agriculture. So, emergence of industries is crucial. There should be close cooperation and participations among local entrepreneurs for the successful running of these industries.

Anticipations and cooperation among local entrepreneurs play an important part. When only there is market demand, they can get good prices. If not, the prices are very low. Exports and sales of logs, uncut gems and jades, fruits and fishes and meats without being value-added have to rely on market demand.

So, the country needs to establish industrial zones for the emergence of small and medium industries. In doing so, it is very important to know local people's needs and suggestions. It needs to be aware of not causing harm to the local people's interests.

Besides, rural people of Mongyal wish to promote tourism industry in their region because of the reason that the place was based by Shan chiefs of former times and there have been ancient buildings in it. Tourists prefer ancient buildings to modernized ones, natural beauty to artificial ones. They like to feel traditional arts, foods, daily life of national races as well as their traditions. In addition, Tangyan is a town that while viewing its regional greening, one can get lessons from it if one can have ability to see how much rural people felt defects of narcotic dug in the former time.

The names of towns in that region tell their history. Therefore, it is important to let somebody see those towns as a tourist attraction, by having traditional houses in neat and tidy, purified water and hospitality of the people.

To pay a look on environmental conservation in the region, the region is at the risk of deforestation, which may be caused by slash-and-burn farming. It is needed to transform that farming into terraced one, and it should be known that growing organic crops on a commercial scale gives much help in environmental conservation. And those tasks will have to be done under the programmes of the organizations for rural development and poverty alleviation.

In conclusion, he said Myanmar is now practicing democracy system with transparency. He expressed his hope that the rural people will be pleased as Union Ministers and the Deputy Ministers take action promptly. And the needs that can't be done in a short time will be carried out under the supervision of respective departments as a long-term plan, and he urged the rural people to join hands with the Union government for stability and development of the region.

With the two primary requirements in complete, the department will be able to scrutinize and submit the accounts of income and spending of those organizations. The Union budget accounts for 2011-2012 fiscal year are being checked and plans are under way to submit the report in November or December next fiscal year.

The deputy auditor general went on to say that in inspecting the financial accounts and business transactions with the strength of employees from the Union Auditor-General's Office and auditor offices at various levels, inspection of accounts in every six months started as a trial in the previous fiscal year. In doing so, in comparison with inspection inputs, it was found to be inappropriate due to the first six month cash flow and accounts situation.

Most of the checked accounts are found to have been drawn unsystematically with incomplete amendments and headings. Therefore, the Union Auditor-General's Office is planning to inspect only necessary departments biannually in the coming fiscal year and to prioritize inspection of business transactions and project undertakings.

All Pyidaungsu Hluttaw representatives have already known that the result of the examinations is more effective. International Auditor-General Offices place more emphasizes on it. These offices usually submit the reports on annual State Budgets. Union Auditor-General Office and Regional Auditor-General Offices at different levels are to carry out auditing and work examinations with the two third of staff strength. Only then, productive findings would come out. So, the proposal should be withdrawn.

U Thein Win said that he doesn't want to withdraw his proposal and want to take the Hluttaw's decision. The Hluttaw approved it with "yes" vote. At the proposal-submitting session, U Myo Myint of Mandalay Region Constituency No.6 submitted the proposal on "urging the Union Government to amend the provisions of Public Work Department (PWD Code) and Public Work Account (PWA Code) and publish the amended books."

The Hluttaw approved to discuss it. Those who want to discuss it are to register at the end of the meeting.

At the bill clarification session, Vice-President U San Tun of Joint Bill Committee explained the Committee's observations and comments on Pyithu Hluttaw Bill, and member of the Committee Dr Soe Moe Aung, on Region/State Hluttaw Bill. Those who want to discuss the disagreements between two Hluttaws are to register along with brief descriptions, at the end of the meeting. Philippine bandits kill six in revenge raid

ZAMBOANGA, 24 Feb—Six people were shot dead by gunmen who raided a remote Philippine village on Thursday in apparent retaliation for the killing of a bandit leader, the military said.

About 10 gunmen attacked several homes at a farm on the southern island of Mindanao, targeting relatives of a police aide and killing six of them, regional military spokesman Lieutenant Colonel Randolph Cabangbang said.

The attack on Tininghalang village followed the killing nearby on 11 February of bandit leader Samang Andi, who was tracked down by police with the help of police aide Dencio Tabayag.

"The Tininghalang victims are relatives of Tabayag, who helped the police get Samang," the military spokesman told reporters.

A brother of the bandit chief led the attack on the village, Cabangbang added.

Police accuse the Samang gang of being behind a range of lawless activities in the area, Cabangbang said, but did not cite specific crimes.

Armed groups, including former rebels, engage in kidnapping, highway robbery, and extortion across Mindanao as the security forces fight decades-old Muslim and communist insurgencies as well as Islamist militants.—Internet

Seven US Marines killed in helicopter collision

WASHINGTON, 24 Feb—Seven US Marines were killed in a mid-air collision of two US military helicopters in southern Arizona, CNN reported on Thursday. The crash took place during routine training operations on Wednesday night along the California-Arizona border, the Marine Corps said in a statement.

The collision, which occurred near the Marine Corps Air Station Yuma, involved an AH-1W "Super Cobra" attack helicopter and a UH-1Y "Huey" utility chopper. "The circumstances are being investigated," it said.

Two avalanches in India kill at least 11

Kashmiri villagers search for their belongings after their huts were buried under snow due to an avalanche at Ramwari some 70 km from summer capital Srinagar on 23 Feb, 2012.—INTERNET KASHMIR, 24 Feb—Two avalanches killed at least 11 soldiers and left eight others missing at military camps in Indian-controlled Kashmir, authorities said.

The avalanches swept over a health resort at Sonamarg and Dawar, a town close to the India-Pakistan border in Kashmir on Wednesday, CNN reported.

"The first avalanche hit the Sonamarg camp, burying several army troopers. We rescued all but three," said Lt Col JS Brar, an Indian defence spokesman. "The bodies of two soldiers and an officer have been recovered."

The second incident at Dawar buried 29 soldiers alive.

"We safely rescued 13 troopers. Bodies of eight soldiers have also been recovered while a search for eight others is continuing," Brar said. A harsher-than-normal winter in the region had led to an avalanche last month, killing seven men who were part of the Indian army and border security forces, CNN said.—Internet

Soon, eat your bottles once you've drunk what's inside

LONDON, 24 Feb—People will soon be able to eat their bottles after they have finished their drink—thanks to an avant-garde edible material developed by scientists. The product, a membrane created using a biodegradable plastic combined with food particles, could either be peeled off or potentially eaten as a whole and can taste like the drink inside.

Until now, experts at Harvard University have filled an orange membrane with orange juice, a tomato-flavoured enclosure with gazpacho and grape packages with wine. They have not yet created a bottle with WikiCells—the edible material—but biomedical engineer Dr David Edwards hopes to craft a prototype soon. "In the near term, we will be encountering WikiCells in restaurant settings" as a novelty item," the Daily Mail quoted him as saying.

After that, Prof Edwards plans to expand WikiCells to speciality stores and supermarkets.

Eventually, he plans to develop a WikiCells machine that would allow individuals to produce their own edible bottles. "The idea was to try to create a bottle which was based on how nature creates bottles," he told the Harvard Crimson.

"People in a village in Africa could become plastic bottle-free and make things for themselves. It's really exciting from a humanitarian point of view," he added.

Colombia extradites 17 alleged drug traffickers to US, Europe

BOGOTA, 24 Feb—Colombia's National Police on Thursday extradited 16 Colombians and one Nicaraguan to the United States, Spain and Italy to face prosecutions for drug trafficking crimes in those countries.

Danilo Bustos, "a strategic partner of Daniel Barrera Barrera, known as 'El Loco Barrera'" and one of the most wanted drug traffickers in Colombia, is among the extradited Colombians, a statement from the police said.

Bustos was arrested in 2009 by Colombian intelligence organizations.

In the last years, he had served as the transportation manager of the chemical substances for manufacturing drugs which were sent from Colombia to the United States and Europe.

Bustos will appear before the Florida South District Court in the United States to face the accusations of drug trafficking.

Nicaraguan Franklin William Mcfield, who was arrested in Cartagena in northern Colombia for crimes of alleged smuggling of weapons and drugs, will also appear before the same court.

This is the first massive extradition executed by the Colombian authorities in 2012. Last year, Colombia extradited a total of 147 people to the United States.

Temporary home needed for 30,000 books

A Denver couple preparing to move from their rented home said they are trying to find a temporary abode for the 30,000-book "library" in their basement.

Jeffrey Lee and Ann Martin said they just don't have enough room in their new home right now to keep their collection of books about "the land and people's connection to the land," which they call the Rocky Mountain Land Library.

The couple said they would only need temporary storage for the thousands of books until they can complete their planned restoration of a ranch house in the Buffalo Peaks wilderness, The Denver Post reported on Monday. John Calderazzo, who sits on the board for the non-profit Rocky Mountain Land Library, said the books represent "the best nature library I know of anywhere."

"There are so many beautiful books. Piles and piles and piles," he said. "There's a thin line between collecting and hoarding." He pleaded for the public to help the Martins find a temporary home for the books, which fill about 600 boxes. "Helpus, please," Calderazzo said. "This is really a wonderful resource. And they're great people."

Charlie Sheen set for TV comeback

LOS ANGELES, 24 Feb—Charlie Sheen is all set for his official return to the tube. The actor will make a comeback to American TV screens with his new comedy series "Anger Management" in March — a year after he was fired from hit sitcom "Two And A Half Men".

Sheen will lead the cast in "Anger Management" as a former baseball player with rage issues who becomes an unconventional management counsellor, reports dailystar.co.uk. Selma Blair will star as his therapist and Shawnee Smith will portray his onscreen ex-wife. Production on the project is yet to begin. But reports indicate the show will be shot on location in Los Angeles' San Fernando Valley ahead of its debut on TV 22 March.

Sheen will be seen on TV a year after months of excessive drug taking and erratic behaviour and was subsequently replaced by Ashton Kutcher. Internet

Lauper, Fierstein create 'Kinky Boots' musical

NEW YORK, 24 Feb—A stage musical based on the British film "Kinky Boots," with a book by Harvey Fierstein, and music and lyrics by Cyndi Lauper, is to premiere in Chicago.

The show's producers Daryl Roth and Hal Luftig said the Windy City engagement in October will precede an anticipated Broadway run.

"'Kinky Boots' is the kind of joyous, inspirational musical that we love and are excited to share with audiences," Roth and Luftig said in a statement on Wednesday. The musical is being directed and choreographed by Jerry Mitchell.

Based on a true story, the show follows Charlie Price, who is forced to step in and save his family's shoe factory in Northern England, following the sudden death of his father. He meets a fabulous drag performer named Lola and, together, they not only revitalize the nearly bankrupt business, but also help one another grow into the men their fathers always dreamed their sons would become, a synopsis said. Internet

JK Rowling's next book will be for adults

NEW YORK, 24 Feb—Little, Brown and Co says it has signed a deal to publish a book for adults penned by Britain's JK Rowling, creator of the Harry Potter franchise.

"Although I've enjoyed writing it every bit as much, my next book will be very different to the Harry Potter series," Rowling said in a statement. "The freedom to explore new territory is a gift that Harry's success has brought me, and with that new territory it seemed a logical progression to have a new publisher. I am delighted to have a second publishing home in Little, Brown, and a publishing team that will be a great partner in this new phase of my writing life."

The Hollywood Reporter said the US publishing company did not divulge the book's title, subject or publication date.

This will mark Rowling's first book since the Potter spinoff "Tales of Beedle the Bard" was released in 2008. "Harry Potter and the Deathly Hallows," the final installment in the seven-book series about the boy wizard, was published in 2007.

The Potter books were published by Bloomsbury in the United Kingdom and Scholastic in the United States.—Internet

Man Utd survive scare to progress

Ajax win at Old Trafford but United book place in last 16 of Europa League

LONDON, 24 Feb — Manchester United 1-2 Ajax (agg 3-2). Manchester United made it into the last 16 of the Europa League after surviving a big scare in their second-leg clash against Ajax at Old Trafford. Leading 2-0 after the first leg in the Netherlands, United looked to be on their way to a comfortable aggregate victory when Javier Hernandez fired home on six minutes. But Ajax got a goal back through Aras Ozbilizand after United's Nani clipped the bar in the second half. Toby Alderweireld set up a nervy finish by heading in for the visitors from close range with three minutes to go. Ajax, though, could not find the third goal that would have sent them through leaving United to prepare for a last-16 tie against Athletic Bilbao.

Isinbayeva sets new indoor pole vault world mark

Russian pole vault athlete Yelena Isinbayeva poses next to her new indoor world-record 5.01 after the women's pole vault event during the XL Galan Stockholm Indoor meeting in Stockholm.—INTERNET

STOCKHOLM, 24 Feb — Russia's Olympic champion Yelena Isinbayeva set a new indoor pole vault world record on Thursday with a clearance of 5.01m.

The 29-year-old had held the previous best of five metres set in Donetsk in February 2009. Isinbayeva, who also holds the outdoor world record of 5.06m set in Zurich in August 2009, has now set 28 world records in her career.

"I'm so happy to come back at this level, I've been dreaming about this," she told TV4 news after setting the record on her second attempt.

Double Olympic champion Isinbayeva had already clinched first place at 4.92m, ahead of Britain's fast-improving Holly Bleasdale and Cuba's Yarisley Silva who both finished at 4.72m. Isinbayeva's latest world record comes just over two weeks out from the world indoor championships in Istanbul.

It was also her third win of the year to follow victories indoors at Volgograd, Bydgoszcz and Lievin, although until Thursday, she hadn't got beyond the five-metre mark.

Bleasdale enjoyed first-time clearances at 4.52m and 4.72m before Isinbayeva, starting at the latter height, entered the event, succeeding on her second attempt.

At 4.82m, Isinbayeva went clear first time but Bleasdale failed three times. The Russian then cleared 4.92m before succeeding at 5.01m on her second attempt.—Internet needing a birdie on the last hole to stay in his match, hit a shot that dropped out of the Arizona sky and landed 5 feet from the hole. That was followed by silence. Woods missed the putt so badly that it never even touched the hole.

No one was more surprised than Nick Watney, who removed his cap to shake hands with Woods after a 1-up victory Thursday in the Match Play Championship.

It was the third straight time in this fickle event that Woods failed to get out of the second round, and it raised more questions about his ability to make key putts that once seemed so automatic.

"I was fighting the blocks all day with my putter," said Woods, who missed three putts inside 10 feet on the last six holes. "Left-to-right putt, I took it slightly shut right there, and I knew it — and blocked it open."

Watney was so sure that Woods would square the match that he already had his yardage book out, checking the hole location on the first green (the 19th hole of their match), trying to decide if 3-wood was the right club off the tee.

Stewart and Kenseth win Daytona qualifying races

DAYTONABEACH, 24 Feb—Roush Fenway Racing will have three cars at the front of the season-opening Daytona 500. Matt Kenseth won the second of the twin 150-mile qualifying races Thursday with a bold pass of teammate Greg Biffle. The victory gave Kenseth a spot on the second row for Sunday's race — right behind teammates Carl Edwards and Biffle.

Tony Stewart, the defending NASCAR champion, won the first race and will line up next to Kenseth at Daytona International Speedway. Biffle was leading headed into the final lap, but he tried to block Kenseth, who dove to the inside and used a push from Jimmie Johnson to take the lead.

"Well, we were going so much faster that we were going to go by him regardless," Kenseth said. 'Third of UK postcodes' have slow broadband speeds

LONDON, 24 Feb — A third of homes in the UK have broadband speeds well below the national average, according to research from price comparison site uSwitch. While half of addresses get broadband speeds of 6.7Mbps or above, a third struggle to get speeds above 5Mbps, 1.7m speed tests found. The East Sussex village of Winchelsea was the slowest, with an average speed of 1.1Mbps, according to uSwitch. Hereford was the slowest city, with average speeds of 3.1Mbps.

The government wants to see super-fast broadband as the gold standard in most UK homes, and has pledged to make the UK the fastest broadband nation in Europe by 2015. By that time, it also promises to make sure that all homes have speeds of at least 2Mbps. The uSwitch data - based on 1.68 million speed tests carried out over the last six months - suggests that there could still be some way to go.

"Britain might be riding the wave of a super-fast broadband revolution, but for 49% who get less than the national average broadband speed, the wave isn't causing so much a splash as a ripple," said Julia Stent, director of telecoms at uSwitch. "And what's really surprising is the number of cities and towns such as Hereford and Carlisle that are suffering from slow broadband speeds, dispelling the view that it's just rural areas and small towns that have issues with their broadband," she added. Other towns and cities to offer average broadband speeds of below 5Mbps include Kilmarnock (3.2Mbps), Dumfries (3.6Mbps), Canterbury (4Mbps) and Shrewsbury (4Mbps).

Pyidaungsu Hluttaw session continues for 15th day One amended proposal submitted and discussed, one new proposal submitted, two bills explained and submitted

Pyidaungsu Hluttaw representatives on their arrival at Pyidaungsu Hluttaw.—MNA

NAY PYI TAW, 24 Feb —The 15th day Pyidaungsu Hluttaw session continued today at Pyidaungsu Hluttaw Hall in Hluttaw Complex here, attended by Pyidaungsu Hluttaw Speaker U Khin Aung Myint and 531 representatives.

At the session, one amended proposal was submitted and discussed, one new proposal submitted and two bills explained and submitted.

Regarding the proposal submitted yesterday, U Thein Win of Sagaing Region Constituency

(9) said in considering annually additional budgetary allocation bill of the Union, it is necessary to exactly know the actual income and expenditure of organizations included in the Union budget fund plan. In considering the Union budget bill, it must be based on the budget law of the previous fiscal year. So, he submitted an amended proposal urging the Union Government to inspect the income and expenditure prescribed in accord with the law every six months and to submit other audit reports in time asked by the Pyidaungsu Hluttaw. The Hluttaw approved the proposal.

Three MPs discussed the amended proposal. Daw Tin Nwe Oo of Dagon Myothit (North) Constituency said timeframe is necessary and audit report needs to be submitted in time. Ministries have to scrutinize accounts step by step and send them to the Auditor-General's Office, which then has to assess systematically and submit audit report. So, she said she seconded the amended proposal as it was really necessary.

U Zon Hle Htan of Chin State Constituency (2) also seconded the proposal saying that the Pyidaungsu Hluttaw needs to thoroughly assess the audit report so that the government's management and spending can be systematic. U Sai Paung Nat of Shan State Constituency (12) discussed that the proposal is appropriate as it reflects the nature of work of all Union level organizations and Union ministries on a practical basis.

In response to the proposal, Deputy Auditor-General U Myo Myint of Union Auditor-General Office said that the Union Auditor-General's Office is implementing its tasks with the workforce, which accounts for two thirds of organizational employment. The tasks include inspection of financial accounts and of business transactions. There are two primary requirements for the Union Auditor General's Office to check whether or not the organizations included in the Union budget fund program have actual income and spend money systematically. They are for government organizations to complete accounts drawings in a prescribed period and for the Budget Department (Headquarters) to compile a grand total.

Union A & I Minister inspects production of hybrid cucumber seeds, palethwe hybrid quality paddy strain

NAY PYI TAW, 24 Feb—Union Minister for Agriculture and Irrigation U Myint Hlaing looked into 100-day palethwe farmland at eleven species competitive palethwe hybrid paddy strain farmland planted by joining cooperation of Myanmar-Vietnam agriculturists near Chaing Village of Dekkhinathiri Township today. The union minister urged the officials to compile detailed records of per acre yields of each paddy strain, life span, resistance to insects and weather, expenses and profit.

Next, an agriculturist from the agriculture department demonstrated production of hybrid cucumber seeds. The union minister instructed them to disseminate knowledges to farmers and distribute it to farmers at affordable price.

Afterwards, the union minister inspected palethwe hybrid paddy strain farmland at integrated mechanized farming (100-acre) at Taegyigon, in Zabuthiri Township and yezin-1 hybrid sunflower plantation (5-acre) in Dekkhinathiri Township.

The ordinary sunflower seeds can yield 2 viss of oil, but yezin-1 hybrid, 4 viss of oil. In addition, its yield would be 50 baskets per acre. Plans are under way to distribute enough sunflower strains to farmers as they take more interests in it.—MNA
