Be serious about traffic rules for road safety

With a series of changes going through in the country plus a significant economic growth, there is a growing number of vehicles that have become a part of life. So, it is required to take measures for safety of commuters and pedestrians whose lives have been put in danger by traffic accidents.

Now, roads inside and outside cities have been upgraded to better facilities for swift and smooth transportation, and there are frequent road accidents owing to some drivers' violation of traffic rules, reckless driving and driving under the influence.

In particular, drivers of passenger buses and ferry buses have to drive carefully in order to avert possible accidents. In this context, bus drivers should be really serious about traffic rules such as trying to overtake each other, taking too long at bus stops and using wrong roads or lanes to overtake other buses.

Pedestrians are something involved in road accidents as they fail to take zebra crossing, walking on roads rather than on pavements and crossing roads showing a total disregard of traffic rules. Each year, road accidents are largely due to reckless driving and so also are negligence of some pedestrians and mechanical problems.

Those responsible including members of the Traffic Rules Enforcement Supervisory Committee are to try their best to cope with traffic jams and congestions which are a common sight in addition to giving a good knowledge of traffic rules and consequences of road accidents to drivers and road-users.

Therefore, those who make their daily appearance on roads should know well and follow traffic rules for road safety which has turned out to be an uphill battle.

Ecuador's leader says open to talks with Britain on Assange

QUITO, 22 Aug — Ecuador is ready to negotiate over the fate of Julian Assange if Britain withdraws a threat to raid its embassy in London where the WikiLeaks founder has sought refuge, President Rafael Correa said on Tuesday. Ecuador was incensed by a veiled British threat to enter the embassy to arrest the 41-year-old former computer hacker, who is trying to avoid extradition to Sweden, where he is wanted for questioning over allegations of rape and sexual assault. Correa has offered Assange asylum and told Britain to let him leave the embassy and fly to the South American country.

The leftist leader said Assange, who has been in the building for nine weeks, was welcome to stay there "indefinitely," but also said he was open to dialogue. "Despite that rude, impertinent and unacceptable remark we're still open to dialogue," Correa told reporters in the coastal city of Guayaquil. "We don't expect an apology, but of course we expect Britain to retract the extremely serious mistake they made when they issued the threat that they could violate our diplomatic mission to arrest Mr Julian Assange." Foreign ministers from across Latin America broadly backed Quito's position as the government rallied regional support at a series of high-level meetings in Ecuador over the weekend.

Correa says he shared Assange's fears that from Sweden he could be further extradited to the United States and face charges there. His WikiLeaks website published a barrage of secret army documents and diplomatic cables in 2010 that exposed Washington's power-broking around the world. Correa has portrayed the saga as a struggle between a small country and "imperialist" powers, the United States and Britain. Local analysts say that playing up the "colonial" angle helps burnish Correa's anti-US credentials and could lift his ratings. It also plays well with his ally Venezuela's socialist President Hugo Chavez, the biggest critic of Washington in the region. Correa, a 49-year-old economist, has become popular with many Ecuadorians by building hospitals and schools, and for programmes of cash handouts for the poor. He is well placed to win re-election next year if — as widely expected — he runs.

Ecuador has said it might take the dispute over Assange to the International Court of Justice in The Hague. But it wants to convince London that it should let the Australian citizen travel to Ecuador, or give him written guarantees that he would not be extradited to the United States. Correa's government says there have been no talks since 15 August. Assange, whose platinum hair and friendships with the rich and famous have helped make him a global celebrity, spoke from the balcony of the embassy on Sunday. He denounced what he called a US "witchhunt" targeting him, but did not mention the accusations made against him by two women.

That omission infuriated many in Sweden, who say the sex crime allegations by two WikiLeaks supporters in 2010 have played second fiddle to unwarranted theories of a US-led conspiracy to extradite Assange with the help of allies in Europe. Correa said Ecuador never intended to stop Assange from facing justice in Sweden. "What we've asked for is guarantees that he won't be extradited to a third country," he said. — Reuters

US economic confidence remains at low level

WASHINGTON, 22 Aug — Americans continue to have both a negative view of current US economic conditions and a bleak outlook for the economic prospects, according to a Gallup poll released on Tuesday. The Gallup Economic Confidence index stood at -28 for the week ending on 19 August, basically unchanged from the previous week, the poll said.

Gallup reached the conclusion based on the result from a random sampling of more than 3,000 adults, with 2 percentage points in the margin of error. Americans' economic confidence has been low for most of the summer so far, with weekly averages hovering within a range between -23 and -29 since 11 June. Prior to that, Americans had been somewhat more optimistic, and the weekly average of -16 in late May represented the highest confidence reading of the year.

Gallup's Economic Confidence Index consists of two measures — one assessing current economic conditions and the other assessing the nation's economic outlook. Americans' perceptions of current economic conditions worsened to -30 last week, down two digits from the previous week, with 43 percent of respondents considering the economy to be poor and 13 percent rating it excellent or good.

Sixty percent of Americans believed the economy is getting worse, compared with 35 percent who said it is getting better, yielding an economic outlook rating of -25, a slight improvement from the previous week. With the first of the two back-to-back presidential nominating conventions about to begin next week, voters' views of the economy will take on increasingly political importance, said Gallup, which stressed its past surveys over the summer of 2012 showed no signs of any upward shift in Americans' economic optimism.

Greece needs more time to reform, PM Samaras tells paper

BERLIN, 22 Aug — Greek Prime Minister Antonis Samaras wants international lenders to give his indebted country more time to complete reforms that have been demanded as a condition for financial aid, he told Germany's Bild newspaper. Samaras, who meets Eurogroup chief Jean-Claude Juncker on Wednesday and French President Francois Hollande and German Chancellor Angela Merkel later this week, said that would help Greece return to growth.

Samaras, leading a country in its fifth year of recession at a time when social and political discontent are rising, is keen to soften the impact of budget cuts on society by seeking more time to push through his reforms. "Let me be very explicit: we demand no additional money. We stand by our commitments and by fulfilling all our requirements. We have to crank up growth because that decreases the financial gaps," Samaras told Bild newspaper's

Wednesday edition. "All we want is a bit of 'air to breathe' to get the economy running and to increase state income. More time does not automatically mean more money."

Samaras had been expected to lobby for Greece to be given two more years to get its budget deficit below three percent of GDP — currently scheduled for end-2014 — but he did not say how much more time he wanted. The deficit was 9.3 percent of GDP in 2011. Samaras said Greece, which has been bailed out twice, was making progress on the tough reforms that creditors have demanded but acknowledged much had gone wrong in the past. "We will soon have a smaller, healthier and significantly more efficient public service," he said. "We are making progress, we are reducing the overall number of public servants and I have decided to hire only one person for every 10 retired civil servants." — Reuters

UN atomic watchdog in new bid to unblock Iran probe

VIENNA, 22 Aug — The UN nuclear watchdog will try to persuade Iran to address questions about its suspected nuclear weapons research at a meeting on Friday, more than two months after previous talks ended in failure. The International Atomic Energy Agency (IAEA) issued a brief statement confirming the talks, to be held at Iran's diplomatic mission in Vienna, after diplomats told Reuters earlier on Tuesday that they expected a new meeting on that day.

The talks, to be attended by senior IAEA officials, will take place just a few days before the UN agency is due to issue its latest quarterly report on Iran's disputed nuclear programme. They could give Iran a last minute chance to influence the content of the report if it were to offer concessions to UN inspectors seeking access to sites, officials and documents they say they need to conduct their long-stalled inquiry. However, Western diplomats said they did not expect any breakthrough. Iran denies Western allegations it is seeking to develop nuclear weapons technology.

But its refusal to curb and be more transparent about its nuclear activity has led to increasingly tough sanctions and sparked speculation that Israel, Teheran's arch foe, might attack Iranian nuclear sites.

Iran "will try something", one of the diplomats said. But, "I don't see any bridging of the differences on the issues that were outstanding" in the last meeting on 8 June. The IAEA said its delegation would be led by Herman Nackaerts, its chief inspector, and Rafael Grossi, assistant director general for policy. The IAEA report — which is expected to say Teheran is pressing ahead with its uranium enrichment programme — will be submitted to the agency's 35-nation governing board, which meets on 10-14 September with Iran likely to again dominate the agenda.

The IAEA has failed in a series of high-profile meetings with Iran since January to make it end its stonewalling of the agency's inquiry.

Turkish Embassy in Sweden evacuated due to suspicious package

STOCKHOLM, 22 Aug — The Turkish Embassy in Stockholm was evacuated on Tuesday evening due to a suspicious package found outside the embassy, reported Swedish media.

The package was found at 17:40 local time (1640 GMT) outside the Turkish Embassy which was located at Dag Hammarskjolds Road in the eastern part of Stockholm city. Staffs in the embassy were evacuated to an area nearby about 50 minutes later.

According to Swedish daily Dagens Nyheter (DN), the bomb disposal officers were still on the way and people in a building near there were asked not to stay near windows towards the Turkish Embassy. Skype adds photo sharing in latest iOS update

SAN FRANCISCO, 22 Aug—Skype announced on Tuesday that it's adding photo-sharing capabilities to its iPhone and iPad apps, as well as improve the app's performance.

Photo sharing lets users to send pictures from your iOS device directly to other Skype users. According to the company's official blog, files of all sizes are accepted without needing to worry about reaching email size limits or paying pricey texting fees. Skype has also made changes to make the apps to run more smoothly. "We've made them less battery hungry when running in the background, so you'll now be able to answer Skype calls throughout the day when they come in," Skype said. "And, as you'll be able to keep Skype open, you can respond to or send IMs to friends and colleagues all day long." The company said it has also tried to make the app and contact list load even faster. The latest update — which supports any version of the iPad, as well as the iPhone 3G/3GS, the iPhone 4/4S and the second- and third-generation iPod Touch — is now available in the App Store.—Internet

BONUS: 10 Skype Chat Tricks for Power Users

1. Change the Font and Text Size

Skype's default text size for chat is teeny. However, you can easily make it larger — and even change the type of font used. Go to the Tools menu at the top of your Skype screen and select Options. On the left-hand side menu, click on IM & SMS, then IM appearance. Now hit the Change font button and you can customize to your preference.

2. Change How a Contact's Name Is Displayed

You can adjust how someone's name appears on Skype, a handy tool if you want to differentiate between contacts with the same or similar names.

In the Contacts view, simply click on the person whose name you want to change. This will open a new window to the right with his name at the top.

Hover over his name and you'll see a little notepad and paper icon appear.

3. Hide the Typing Indicator

When in a Skype Chat with someone, you can see when the other person is typing (a moving pencil appears) and also when they are deleting (the pencil starts rubbing out).

If you'd rather people did not see your entries and deletions before you message them, you can turn this option off.

Go to Tools > Options > IM & SMS > IM settings, then click on Show advanced options. Now just uncheck the Show when I am typing option.

4. Set Up Keyword Notifications

You can manage the Windows tray notifications and other alerts you receive when signed into Skype through the Tools, Options, Notifications/Alerts menus, but what's really cool is that you can set up keyword notifications for IM conversations.

When in a chat window, click on the Conversation menu, then select Notification settings. You can then enter the keywords you'd like to set up notifications for.

Now when the word is mentioned, you'll get alerted instantly. The word will also be highlighted in the chat window, so you can see it at a glance.

5. Quickly Edit Your Last Message

If you notice a typo in a message the moment after you send it, it's very simple to edit. Just hit the Up arrow and the message will appear back in the edit box.

Make the changes you need to and hit Send message to resend the edited version.

6. Edit or Remove Recent Messages

Alternatively, if you notice a typo in a message a few IMs later, you can still edit it, but this way you'll have to right-click on the message to do so.

You can also delete messages in the same way.

However, when you do edit a message, a little pencil icon appears next to it to indicate the change.

When you delete a message, a notification indicates "This message has been removed" and a trash can icon appears.

8. Display Multiple Chat Windows person at a time, the standard view can be a little restrictive.

There is a simple way to have multiple chat windows open. Go to the View menu, then select Compact View.

To change it back, go through the same process and select Default View.

10. Use Some Hidden Emoticons

The common Skype emoticons can be accessed by clicking on the smiley at the top of the compose message box, but there are tons more you can use.

Here are some of our favorites. See below for how to generate them (from left to right.) (wfh) (bug) (drunk) (rock) (poolparty) (rain) (headbang) (fubar) (swear) (talk) (e) (o) (~) (mp) (skype)

7. Stop Animated Emoticons

If animated emoticons really annoy you, stop the animation and just view static icons.

To set this up, head to Tools > Options > IM & SMS > IM appearance.

Here you can select to see animated icons or more sedate versions.

9. Create Line Breaks

By default in Skype Chat, if you press the Enter key, whatever you have typed will send as a message.

If you want to create a line break, hold down the Shift key then press Enter.

Alternatively, if you'd like this swapped over permanently, you can easily make that change. Go to Tools > Options > IM & SMS > IM settings > Show advanced options. Here you can decide whether you'd like the Enter key to send your IM or to insert a line break.

Mars rover Curiosity prepares for test drive

LOS ANGELES, 22 Aug—Scientists on Tuesday prepared to send Curiosity on its first test drive over the billion-year-old rocks of Mars and said a busted wind sensor won't jeopardize its mission of determining whether

This image provided by NASA shows an artist rendition of the proposed InSight (Interior Exploration using Seismic Investigations, Geodesy and Heat Transport) Lander. After driving all around Mars with four rovers, NASA wants to look deep into the guts of the red planet.—INTERNET life could exist there.

Engineers at NASA's Jet Propulsion Laboratory in Pasadena turned four of the rover's six wheels in place this week in a successful "wheel wiggle" to test the steering for Wednesday's trek, mission manager Mike Watkins said.

"We are going for our first drive tomorrow," Watkins said.

The rover will move forward about 10 feet (3 metres), turn right, then back up and park slightly to the left of its old spot, Watkins said.

"You will definitely see tracks," he said. The test drive is part of a health checkup the rover has been undergoing since arriving on 5 Aug. Eventually, the rover could roam hundreds of feet a day over the ancient crater where it landed.

Meanwhile, researchers discovered the damaged wind sensor while checking out instruments that Curiosity will use to check the Martian weather and soil.

The cause of the damage wasn't known, but one possibility is that pebbles thrown up by Curiosity's descent fell onto the sensor's delicate, exposed circuit boards and broke some wires, said Ashwin Vasavada, deputy project scientist for Curiosity.

Endangered whales invade California coastal waters

SANTA CRUZ, Calif., 22 Aug—Grab your camera and binoculars: There's rarely been a better time to go whale-watching off the California coast.

Tourists from around the world have been flocking to Monterey Bay to catch a glimpse of the massive marine mammals, including impressive numbers of blue whales, the largest animals on earth.

Longtime observers say they've seen a sharp increase in endangered blue and humpback whales feeding near California shores, where they spend the spring and summer before heading to their winter breeding grounds off Mexico and Central America.

"It's phenomenal that these humongous creatures are out there and we just get to go out on a boat and go out and watch them," said Santa Cruz resident Susan Stuart after a recent whale-watching cruise.

What's bringing the whales so close to shore? A bumper harvest of their favourite food: tiny, shrimp-like critters known as krill.

Strong northwest winds have been pushing up cold, nutrient-rich waters from the ocean bottom — a phenomenon known as upwelling. That has fueled blooms of phytoplankton that have led to an explosion of krill, the main food source of blue and humpback whales.

"The season overall has been pretty exceptional and we're not done," said Nancy Black, a marine biologist with Monterey Bay Whale Watch, which offers bay cruises twice daily.—INTERNET

Wall Street slips after S&P 500 hits four-year high

Traders work on the floor of the New York Stock Exchange, 20 Aug, 2012.

REUTERS

NEW YORK, 22 Aug—Stocks fell on Tuesday after the S&P 500 hit its highest level in four years as the benchmark index faced technical resistance and traders cashed in recent gains. The S&P 500 index hit 1,426.68, its highest intraday rise since May 2008. Volume has been light, as expected in August, and only three of the past 12 sessions have seen moves of 0.25 percent or more by the S&P.

“It’s not uncommon that you run into some resistance at new highs,” said Jim Paulsen, chief investment officer at Wells Capital Management in Minneapolis. “Traders sort of play for a while to see which way the market is ultimately going to resolve itself.”

Stocks rose early in the session and the euro rallied to a seven-week high against the US dollar, bolstered by talk that the European Central Bank will act to lower Spanish and Italian borrowing costs.

Bets on action from central banks in support of their stalling economies have helped move stocks higher.

However, US stocks lost momentum after the first hour as traders took profits.

The slow but steady climb over the past six weeks was partly due to better-than-expected data, including payrolls, retail sales and housing numbers that countered a previous string of disappointments.

“The US economy is showing signs of picking up again,” said Wells Capital’s Paulsen.

Still, he said major indexes will likely stall until the end of the month. He sees equities “teetering around this high until September, then we decide if the market is indeed making a move higher or if it’s going to fail.”

The Federal Reserve and ECB hold separate policy meetings next month that could decide whether further stimulus to the US recovery and measures to control the euro zone debt crisis are coming.

Tobacco ad blitz as New Zealand plans branding ban

LONDON, 22 Aug—British American Tobacco (BAT) launched an advertising campaign in New Zealand on Wednesday opposing plans to introduce plain packaging, in a move the government immediately dismissed as a waste of money.

New Zealand announced in-principle support for plain packaging in April and has enthusiastically welcomed world-first legislation in Australia forcing tobacco to be sold in drab, uniform packaging with graphic health warnings.

However, the proposal will not be formally adopted in New Zealand until the government finishes public consultations on the issue, prompting BAT to launch an advertising blitz aimed at winning support for its cause.

The campaign — which includes print, radio and television advertisements, along with a website agreedisagree.co.nz — has the slogan: “We agree that tobacco is harmful. We disagree that plain packaging will work.”

BAT New Zealand general manager Steve Rush said plain packaging infringed on his company’s intellectual property and set a dangerous precedent that could eventually spread to other products such as alcohol.

“The branding on our packs has been created over many years and it belongs to us... the government shouldn’t be able to just take that away,” he said, declining to reveal the budget for the campaign.

Rush said there was no proof that plain packaging reduced smoking and it could backfire by fuelling an illegal market in tobacco products and forcing down prices. “It’s unsound policy and potentially counter-productive,” he added.

Rush refused to rule out legal action if the plan went ahead. However, tobacco companies adopted the same tactic in Australia and were defeated last week in a landmark ruling.

Health Minister Tony Ryall did not believe BAT would sway public opinion. “I don’t know why they’re wasting their money,” he said.

“They can take whatever actions they want... but I think New Zealanders have moved on from being influenced in this way. There’s a lot of support for what the government is doing with tobacco.”

The public consultation on plain packaging ends in October, with a final decision expected a few months later.

Smoking during pregnancy tied to kids’ asthma

NEW YORK, 22 Aug—Children whose mothers smoked during pregnancy may have an increased risk of asthma — even if they were not exposed to secondhand smoke after birth, a large study of European children suggests.

Many studies have found that secondhand smoke may worsen kids’ asthma symptoms, or possibly raise their risk of developing the lung disease in the first place.

But it’s been less clear if smoking during pregnancy is linked to asthma. Most studies have not been able to tease out the possible effects from those of secondhand smoke after birth.

The new study, however, had a large enough group of kids who were exposed to smoking in the womb, but not after birth, according to the researchers.

And it found that those children were two-thirds more likely to have asthma by age six, versus kids whose moms did not smoke during pregnancy. Even smoking during the first trimester alone was linked to higher asthma risk.

The findings cannot prove that prenatal smoking was the cause.

But there are already plenty of reasons for women who are planning to have a baby to quit smoking, said Anna Bergstrom, a researcher at the Karolinska Institute in Stockholm who worked on the study.

Smoking during pregnancy is linked to increased risks of miscarriage, low birth weight, certain birth defects and other pregnancy complications.

Summer lightening kills three in Ukraine

KIEV, 22 Aug—Three people were killed when summer lightning struck a bus stop near a village in southern Ukraine, authorities said on Monday.

Two males and a female were killed on Sunday at the bus stop near Krasno-armejskoe village in the eastern Crimean peninsula after lightning hit.

Lightning strikes have killed at least eight Ukrainians so far this year, while around 10 people were injured.

Lightning, which frequently occurs during rainy summers, kills an average of 18 people annually in Ukraine and often causes fire, especially in the rural areas.

According to local experts, people's poor awareness of protecting themselves from lightning strikes is the main cause of the deaths.—Xinhua

Qantas pilots suspended after cockpit row

SYDNEY, 22 Aug—Australia's Qantas Airways said on Tuesday it had suspended two pilots after they were reportedly involved in a heated argument in the cockpit of their Boeing 747 at Dallas airport.

The Sydney Morning Herald said the captain and second officer on the 747-400 due to make a long-haul flight to Brisbane last week were told they could not fly after disagreeing about the take-off calculations they needed to use.

"A captain and second officer have been withheld from service pending an investigation," a Qantas spokeswoman told AFP, without providing further details.

But Qantas said the flight was delayed by severe weather, not because of any altercation.

"Qantas flight QF8 from Dallas/Fort Worth to Brisbane on 14 August was delayed overnight as a result of severe thunderstorms in the Dallas area," the spokeswoman said.

The flight subsequently left on 15 August, reportedly after replacement pilots were brought in.

The Herald said the original pilots were close to hitting their 20-hour duty limits because of earlier weather delays, and that Qantas managers heard of their argument after bringing in the relief crew.

The incident comes just weeks after a Qantas pilot was suspended pending an investigation after she failed an alcohol test.

The pilot was removed from a passenger flight due to travel from Sydney to Brisbane just minutes before take-off over concerns she had been drinking.

Qantas has a strong reputation for safety, with the Australian flag-carrier never experiencing a fatal crash in the jet age.

Indonesian quake death toll rises to six

JAKARTA, 22 Aug—The death toll from a strong earthquake that struck central Indonesia at the weekend has risen to six, an official said on Tuesday, after rescuers reached villages that had been cut off by a landslide.

"Six people have died, including a nine-year-old boy, and 43 are injured. More than 400 homes are now damaged," National Disaster Mitigation Agency spokesman Sutopo Purwo Nugroho told AFP.

"There is still an area that we haven't accessed, so we'll send two helicopters there to distribute aid and assess the damage there. It's possible the death toll could rise, but we're hoping for the best."

The 6.3-magnitude quake struck the island of Sulawesi on Saturday evening at a depth of around 20 kilometres (12 miles), the US Geological Survey said, close to villages in the districts of Parigi Moutong and Sigi.

Landslides had blocked access to 14 villages in surrounding districts, and 300 soldiers and heavy equipment, including bulldozers, had been deployed to remove the debris, Sutopo said.

TRAFFIC warns over 500 rhinos could perish this year

NAIROBI, 22 Aug—Global wildlife monitoring network TRAFFIC warned on Tuesday that 515 rhinos could perish by the end of the year if no action is taken to stem the illicit trade in rhino horns.

In its latest report, the agency said that with a total of 281 animals killed as of July, there was a "predicted loss of 515 by year end if current poaching rates continue".

South Africa, home to about three quarters of Africa's 20,000 or so white rhinos and 4,800 critically endangered black rhinos, has in recent years witnessed an unprecedented spike in sophisticated, violent and organized rhino-related criminal activities.

Last year 448 rhinos were killed compared to 13 animals in 2007.

South Africa has lately scaled up its fight against illegal poaching and trade in rhinos horns, arresting 176 suspects so far this year, more than the 165 arrested in the 12 months of 2010.

"It seems this year that efforts are beginning to pay off. We have seen a great increase in arrests. We are also beginning to see some significant sentencing," said Jo Shaw, co-author of the report.

But she warned that even with the successful stories of high-value arrests the criminal syndicates appeared generally to be a step ahead — better equipped, well funded.

"As anti-poaching security levels are stepped up, the poaching gangs become more aggressive and increasingly sophisticated," she said.

The report named Vietnam as the worst offender fuelling the trade in the black market for rhino horns.

"The bottom line is that we are not close to ending this crisis yet, we are probably going to get record numbers this year," warned the report's co-author Tom Milliken, who is also an expert on rhinos at TRAFFIC. The grounded horn, which is believed by some to cure cancers, has taken on a new use and is now being pushed as a recreational drug mixed with drinks at elite "rhino wine associations" parties in the belief that it cures hangover.—Internet

Americans tune out Afghan war as fighting rages on KABUL, 22 Aug—It was once President Barack Obama's "war of necessity." Now, it's America's forgotten war. The Afghan conflict generates barely a whisper on the US presidential campaign trail. It's not a hot topic at the office water cooler or in the halls of Congress — even though more than 80,000 American troops are still fighting here and dying at a rate of one a day. Americans show more interest in the economy and taxes than the latest suicide bombings in a different, distant land. They're more tuned in to the political ad war playing out on television than the deadly fight still raging against the Taliban. Earlier this month, protesters at the Iowa State Fair chanted "Stop the war!" They were referring to one purportedly being waged against the middle class.

By the time voters go to the polls on 6 November to choose between Obama and presumptive Republican nominee Mitt Romney, the war will be in its 12th year. For most Americans, that's long enough. Public opinion remains largely negative toward the war, with 66 percent opposed to it and just 27 percent in favor in a May AP-GfK poll. Just 31 percent said the US is doing the right thing by fighting there now. Not since the Korean War of the early 1950s

To improve the socio-economy life of farmers,...

To improve the socio-economy life of farmers, it is necessary to make a firm commitment to development of the agricultural sector as the population of farmers living in rural areas makes up about 70 per cent of the country's population, he added.

As Myanmar possesses fertile land, favourable weather for crops and also is rich in water resources, efforts should be made not only for food security in the country but also for exporting food to support the world's food security, he said.

He stressed the need for changing the mindset of the people in an attempt to boost the rice production of the country and urged to envision a future of food sufficiency in the time of prosperity.

The Vice-President called for changing the traditional fields to definite hectares and for construction of roads to transport agricultural produce, to be able to use agricultural machinery and to get definite statistics.

As a second phase of reforms, farmers should grow high-yield quality strains of seeds as the country is working hard to be able to harvest 60, 70 baskets of rice per acre while other neighbouring countries produce about 200 baskets per acre, he said.

Farmers have rights to grow any marketable crops but they are urged to grow quality seeds to be able to enjoy the advantage of growing quality seeds, he said.

He stressed the importance of the mechanized farming as a fourth phase of farming reforms to solve the problem of labour shortages in the farmland.

Mechanized farming would decrease the costs by a half and minimize the loss and wastages and produce quality crops, he said.

He also said that measures are being taken to organize cooperatives of farmers through cooperative sector and private sector efforts to be able to distribute good quality seeds, fertilizers, pesticides, costs for plantation and inputs and to decrease the costs for distribution.

Besides, establishing cooperatives of farmers is necessary to run the micro-credit schemes and using agricultural machinery effectively, he added.

He also called on farmers for doing livestock breeding while growing crops to earn extra income.

Greek secret service to investigate wildfires

ATHENS, 22 Aug — Greece's secret service will join investigations into an unusually large number of wildfires across the country to see if arson has been involved, an official said on Tuesday. As Public Order Minister Nikos Dendias announced the decision, more than 20 major blazes were raging out of control in Greece, including one that has ravaged the eastern Aegean island of Chios for four days.

Dendias said in many cases authorities have "indications, if not proof, that the fires were lit intentionally," including blazes on Chios and the western resort island of Zakynthos. On Sunday, authorities on the central Aegean island of Andros arrested two French tourists on suspicion of starting a forest fire. A prosecutor planned to decide later Tuesday whether to press charges against them.

In Chios, firefighters were battling two major fronts in central and southern areas. Whipped on by gale-force winds, the blazes have wiped out large tracts of forest, olive groves and plantations of mastic trees whose resin production is a mainstay of the island's economy. About 360 firefighters, soldiers and volunteers were being assisted by two water-dropping planes and seven helicopters, the fire brigade said.

SW Pakistan bomb attack kills two, injures eleven

A Pakistani security official examines the wreckage of a car used in a bomb explosion in Quetta.—INTERNET

QUETTA, 22 Aug — Two civilians were killed and 11 others injured including three children when a car bomb targeted a paramilitary convoy on Tuesday in the southwestern Pakistani city of Quetta, officials said. The explosives-packed car went off after vehicles of the paramilitary Frontier Corps (FC) passed, FC spokesman

Murtaza Baig told AFP. "The militants targeted two vehicles of FC but the remote-control device exploded after our convoy had passed the parked car," he said. Police and security forces are frequently attacked in the insurgency-plagued Baluchistan Province, of which Quetta is the capital. Senior police official Wazir Khan Nasir told AFP: "The victims of the blast were all civilians who were passing from the area. The toll includes one man killed and 12 others wounded including two women and three children." The hospital staff said that an injured later succumbed to his injuries. "A man who was wounded in the attack in the morning, could not recover from his injuries and died later in the hospital," Muhammad Nawaz, a senior doctor in Quetta hospital told AFP. There was no claim of responsibility for the attack but the province, which borders Iran and Afghanistan, suffers from Taleban and local rebel attacks. It is also a flashpoint for sectarian violence involving Sunni and Shiite Muslims that has left thousands of people dead since the late 1980s.

US drone kills five militants in northwest Pakistan

ISLAMABAD, 22 Aug — An unmanned American aircraft fired missiles at a vehicle in a Pakistani tribal area bordering Afghanistan on Tuesday, killing five suspected militants and injuring two, Pakistani intelligence officials said. The strike was part of a spike in American drone attacks, which have drawn official Pakistani criticism in the past. The spurt of drone action threatened to add tensions to relations between the two allies, just as they appeared to be improving. The latest drone strike came near Shana Khora village in North Waziristan, two officials said.

They said the area of the drone attacks is dominated by anti-US militant commander Hafiz Gul Bahadur. The officials spoke on condition of anonymity because they were not authorized to brief reporters. Bahadur's group is known for frequent attacks on US troops in Afghanistan, but generally it does not carry out operations inside Pakistan. Several recent drone strikes have killed militants affiliated with Bahadur's group. Tuesday's was the third drone attack in North Waziristan within three days. On Sunday, drone-fired missiles killed 10 suspected militants in two strikes 12 hours apart. The covert CIA drone programme has drawn strong criticism in Pakistan. Pakistani officials charge such strikes violate their country's sovereignty. Many Pakistanis complain that the strikes kill innocent civilians. The US insists that drone strikes are essential to combat militant groups, like al-Qaeda. There is evidence that despite their critical public stance, the Pakistanis have sometimes quietly condoned the drone attacks. The US complains that the Pakistani army has carried out offensive against militants in all other tribal regions, but not North Waziristan.

Ancient tomb threatened by soil looters

CHANGSHA, 22 Aug — Chinese archaeologists said a 2,100-year-old tomb famous as the final resting place of a perfectly preserved female corpse is being threatened by residents' rampant soil looting as local residents believed that good "feng shui" there produced "holy soil". Mawangdui, a small hill in the eastern suburbs of Changsha, capital of central Hunan Province, is home to the grand tombs of the Marquis of Dai during the Han Dynasty (202 BC - 220 AD), as well as his wife and son.

In recent years, local residents have taken soil from the site to use for planting flowers or making marinated eggs, as they believe the site's good "feng shui" has produced a superior soil, said Li Jianming, curator of the Hunan Provincial Museum. "Some citizens say the tomb's good feng shui creates better soil," Li said. Most artifacts unearthed from the tombs are currently exhibited in the museum, but Li said the many holes left by those taking away soil have posed a threat to the tomb's external structures.

The Mawangdui site grabbed international attention when researchers found a female corpse that showed no signs of decay when her coffin was opened in the 1970s. An autopsy determined that the woman, identified as Lady Dai, died of a heart attack in her 50s. Thousands of well-preserved artifacts uncovered from the tombs, including a very thin T-shaped silk painting, have also contributed to the fame of the site.

Hunan's archaeological authorities said Mawangdui is co-managed by the provincial museum and a nursing home, but it has no security guards, except two elderly ticket sellers and some volunteers sent by the hospital. "We receive no funding or government subsidies, and our efforts can not stop the diggers' constant visits," said a hospital employee.—Xinhua

Balkans heat wave fuels forest fires in Bosnia

BANJA LUKA, 22 Aug — Authorities on Tuesday declared a state of emergency around a town in Bosnia's northeast and a tourist area was evacuated in the country's south as a heat wave fuelled wildfires across the Balkans and left people suffering heat exhaustion. Bratunac Mayor Nedeljko Mladjenovic declared the emergency as he said wildfires from several directions were threatening his town. Around 50 residents are helping firefighters and forest rangers fight a blaze creeping towards the suburb of Slapasnica, and the town's civil protection agency has asked for help from the army and residents.

In the country's south, firefighters are battling four blazes around the town of Konjic and townsfolk and tourists have begun evacuating houses near Boracko Lake as the extreme heat and strong winds have hindered the extinguishing of approaching blazes. Many tourists staying at the lake are Bosnians who live in Germany, returning home for the holidays. Zorica Muskovic arrived last week from

Fighting in Lebanese city for second night, seven killed

Sunni gunmen take position at the Sunni dominant neighbourhood of Bab al-Tebbaneh in Tripoli, northern Lebanon, during clashes with Alawites, on 21 Aug, 2012.

REUTERS

TRIPOLI, 22 Aug—Seven people have been killed in Lebanon's northern city of Tripoli as clashes between Sunni and Alawites, fuelled by tensions over the war in Syria, continued for a second night, security and medical sources said on Tuesday. Around 100 people have also been wounded since the fighting erupted on Monday evening, they said.

Gunmen in the Sunni district of Bab al-Tebbaneh and their Alawite rivals in Jebel Mohsen have exchanged gun and grenade fire, despite action by Lebanese troops deployed in the port city, residents said. Two of the dead men were identified as residents of Jebel Mohsen, a hill inhabited mainly by Alawites which overlooks the predominantly Sunni area below, where five people were killed, medical sources said.

The area is one of Lebanon's most volatile sectarian fault lines and chronic Sunni-Alawite tensions in Tripoli have been heightened by the 17-month-old, mainly Sunni, uprising in Syria against President Bashar al-Assad, an Alawite. Clashes in the city killed 15 people in early June.

An army statement said soldiers had raided buildings used by gunmen and "retaliated swiftly against sources of gunfire". It said five soldiers were wounded on Monday evening and five, including an officer, were injured on Tuesday by a hand grenade lobbed at an army base. In addition, dozens of civilians and fighters were wounded in Bab al-Tebbaneh and in Jebel Mohsen, residents and medics said.— Reuters

Rainstorms batter southern China, killing two

BEIJING, 22 Aug — Rainstorms have battered several southern Chinese provinces this week, toppling homes and killing a woman and her granddaughter in Hunan Province. The woman, 49, was buried together with the child in the rubble of their home that was washed down by flash floods in Shimen county on Monday night, the provincial flood relief headquarters in Hunan said in a Press release on Tuesday. Shimen county reported over 300mm of precipitation in the 24 hours from Monday to Tuesday, it said.

Incomplete figures showed torrential rain destroyed 106 homes and forced more than 800 people to evacuate in the county, which has a population of 673,500. The downpour also destroyed roads, swelled 14 reservoirs, disrupted power supplies and caused landslides in many areas in the northwest of Hunan Province, the document said. Meanwhile, flood prevention authorities in the southern Guangxi Zhuang Autonomous Region also warned of floods on Tuesday on two swelling tributaries of the Pearl River, the country's third longest waterway after the Yangtze and the Yellow River.

Water levels in the Yujiang and Zujiang rivers had topped their alarm lines as a result of floods in the upper reaches, the regional flood prevention and drought control headquarters said. As of 8 pm, the water level in Zujiang was 1.07 metres above the danger line, while that of Yujiang River was an alarming 41.2 metres higher than the alarm level at one hydrological station near the regional capital, Nanning.

The local government has warned citizens to be on guard against dangers and called for round-the-clock monitoring of embankments. Rainstorm also wreaked

Nine killed, 68 injured in blast in southeast Turkey, PKK denies responsibility

ANKARA, 22 Aug — At least nine people, including four children, were killed by a remote-controlled car bomb in southeastern Turkey, Turkish officials said on Tuesday, while the banned Kurdish Workers' Party (PKK) denied responsibility for the blast. A total of 68 people were injured in the blast near a police station in southeastern Turkish province of Gaziantep on Monday night, four of them in critical condition, Turkish Deputy Prime Minister Besir Atalay told reporters on Tuesday.

Most of the others suffered slight injuries caused by shattered glass, said Atalay, adding that Monday's blast set several vehicles ablaze. "The vehicle used in the attack was a stolen one. It was brought to the site of the blast by a tow truck, with a high amount of explosives on board," Atalay said. "We made significant progress in finding those responsible for the blast," he said. The blast came amid an escalation of clashes between the Turkish security forces and the PKK. In the last two months, the PKK has intensified its attacks including kidnapping a lawmaker, launching attacks in the western parts of the country and targeting civilians in different towns.

However, the PKK denied carrying out the bombing attack in a statement published by the pro-Kurdish Firat News agency. "Our forces have nothing to do with this attack. We do not attack civilians," the PKK said in the statement. The PKK, listed as a terrorist organization by Turkey and most of the international community, took up arms in 1984 in an attempt to create an ethnic homeland in southeastern Turkey. Since then, over 40,000 people have been killed in conflicts involving the group.— Xinhua

Dominica, US net ton of cocaine

SANTO DOMINGO, 22 Aug — The Dominica and the United States authorities seized a ton of cocaine and arrested four Colombians on Monday, the Dominican officials said.

The joint Operation Anvil and Hammer was carried out in conjunction with Dominican Navy, the US Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA), US Coast Guard and US Customs and Borders Protection agency, Dominica National Drug Control Bureau (DNCD) announced on Tuesday.

"We are working together with the DEA on all the information found of the four Colombians' hiding possession, which is used to located the people who were going to receive the 40 packages, each containing 25 packets," said the DNCD.

The Colombians were transporting the cocaine from South America towards the United States by a speed boat when they were arrested and taken to Puerto Rico, according to the statement.

Officials from both countries are now searching for the traffickers' Dominican accomplices, said the DNCD. The operation netted the single-largest cache of cocaine since last March, when 1,282.5 kg cocaine confiscated in the town of Juan Dolio, 45 km east of the Dominican capital of Santo Domingo.— Xinhua

About 24 arrested in Houston in major drug bust

HOUSTON, 22 Aug — About 24 people were arrested on Tuesday after agents of the Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA) in Houston, the largest city in the US state of Texas, raided about 60 homes for growing marijuana.

According to local TV channel ABC13 reports, the raids, which started early Tuesday morning and lasted all day, were conducted in the counties such as Harris, Fort Bend and Montgomery. The raided homes were believed to be part of a marijuana growing operation.

Investigators said that the marijuana growing in a house in the Woodlands and 40 others across the area was linked to a Vietnamese organized crime ring.

"This Vietnamese organization, they do that, they look for homes in a very unassuming neighborhood and they move in. They rent the house, maintain a very low key. Sometimes they befriend the neighbours and they set up shop and try not to make any commotion," Houston DEA Special Agent Thomas Hinojosa was quoted as saying. The marijuana found in one home alone was reportedly worth about 6 million US dollars, and investigators described the marijuana that the homes were growing as "very strong, potent, very dangerous."

Dutch pension funds lose millions on Facebook investments

THE HAGUE, 22 Aug— The two biggest pension funds of the Netherlands have lost millions of euros due to the share price drop of internet company Facebook, the Financial Daily reported on Monday.

According to the Dutch newspaper, the pension funds for civil servants APB and careworkers pension fund PGGM both invested in the internet share despite warnings of hype surrounding Facebook's initial public offering (IPO).

Last week, the share Facebook reached its lowest point. Launched at 38 US dollars a share in May, Facebook is now trading at around 19 dollars.

Information registered with the US financial service authorities showed APB owned 330,500 Facebook shares at the end of June this year, an investment which was worth 12.6 million dollars at the time of its stock market launch. PGGM owned 316,226 shares, which are now valued at 6.3 million dollars.

Autopsy finds no alcohol or illegal drugs in NFL star Seau

LOS ANGELES, 22 Aug— Former San Diego Chargers football star Junior Seau had no alcohol or illegal drugs in his system when he killed himself earlier this year, according to a final autopsy report released by medical examiners on Monday.

Seau, a 20-year National Football League veteran and fan favourite widely regarded as one of the best defensive players of his generation, shot himself in the chest on 2 May at his home in Southern California. He left no suicide note.

Though preliminary findings by the San Diego County Medical Examiner's Office confirmed that Seau had committed suicide, the 16-page report provides more comprehensive results and includes toxicology and other scientific tests.

The toxicology studies found therapeutic levels of a prescription sleep aid and a pain reliever in Seau's system but "no alcohol, common drugs of abuse or other medications."

Seau's death at the age of 43 came during heightened scrutiny of the effects of repeated blows to the head in football, ice hockey and other contact sports and the potential for such injuries to contribute to depression and other health problems in players.

The report said brain tissue from Seau was sent following the autopsy to the National Institutes of Health for analysis at the request of his family. It does not describe any evidence of brain damage or abnormalities.

Chelsea recruit Hazard promises better to come

LONDON, 22 Aug—Eden Hazard insists there is more to come after his sparkling Premier League debut—but is adamant he has no concerns about handling the physical nature of English football.

The Chelsea playmaker,

21, wasted no time making his mark following his £32 million summer move from Lille, setting up two goals inside seven minutes of his side's league opener at Wigan.

Hazard's contribution ensured Roberto Di Matteo's side got off to a winning start and they will attempt to build on that success when Reading visit Stamford Bridge on Wednesday.

His eye-catching efforts also made him the target for some heavy challenges, but the Belgium international was quick to dismiss the attention he received.

He said: "I already had a taste of these kind of tackles in the Community Shield."

"I was kicked quite a bit in the first half against Wigan but, in France, it was already like that for me."

"I wasn't aware I was the most fouled player in the match, I wasn't counting them."

Spurs sign Adebayor from Manchester City

LONDON, 22 Aug—Tottenham Hotspur have signed striker Emmanuel Adebayor from Premier League champions Manchester City on a permanent deal, the London club said on Tuesday.

The Togo international scored 18 goals in 37 appearances for Spurs last season on loan at White Hart Lane. The clubs were reported by British media to have agreed a deal last month for the 28-year-old, who had been earning about 170,000 pounds a week at City.

No financial details of the transfer fee were available but media reports put its value at five million pounds.

Adebayor joined Tottenham's north London rivals Arsenal from Monaco in early 2006 and moved to City in 2009 in the first wave of big-money signings by the Manchester club's Qatari owners.

NEW YORK, 22 Aug—Dustin Johnson has made a habit of thriving in the latter part of the PGA Tour season, good reason for him to be excited about his title defence at this week's Barclays tournament in Farmingdale, New York. The long-hitting American is the only player in the elite 125-strong field assembled at Bethpage State Park to have won FedEx Cup playoff events in each of the last two years and is eager to launch his bid for a third in Thursday's opening round.

"I play well at this time of the year usually, so I enjoy the FedEx Cup," Johnson told reporters on Tuesday while preparing for the first of the PGA Tour's four lucrative playoff events.

Van Garderen leads USA Pro Challenge after stage win

MT CRE STED BUTTE, 22 Aug—American Tejay van Garderen pushed ahead in the final 300-metre uphill climb to capture the second stage and overall lead at the USA Pro Challenge on Tuesday.

Van Garderen, who finished fifth in last month's Tour de France, captured his first win of the season after completing the 159.3-kilometre ride from Montrose to Mt Crested Butte in three hours, 52 minutes and 24 seconds.

"I wasn't confident I was going to win, but I was confident I was going to try," said Van Garderen, who made his final surge to the ski resort finish suddenly as the early leaders faltered.

Fellow American Christian Vande Velde finished second in the stage in the same time as Van Garderen.

Garderen while Russia's Ivan Rovny was third, trailing by six seconds.

Van Garderen, who began the day 17th overall, moved into the race lead with the same overall time as Vande Velde but is the race leader based on his stage win.

Rovny moved into third overall while defending champion Levi Leipheimer of the United States is fourth overall after placing fourth in the stage and trails by eight seconds.

Wednesday's third stage of the seven-day race is a 210.1-kilometre ride from Gunnison to Aspen, Colorado, that features two climbs approaching 4,000 meters, the highest elevation in the second-year race.

Man City's Adam Johnson targeted by Liverpool, Spurs & Sunderland

LONDON, 22 Aug—Liverpool, Tottenham and Sunderland have registered an interest in signing Manchester City winger Adam Johnson. The 25-year-old made just 10 league starts last season and is likely to be sold before the transfer window shuts.

Sunderland are the only club to submit an offer so far, but Tottenham and Liverpool have made enquiries.

If the England international does leave Etihad Stadium, it is understood City will step up their interest in Swansea forward Scott Sinclair.

Johnson joined City from Middlesbrough in February 2010 and has scored 15 goals in 97 games.

But 43 of those appearances have come as a substitute and boss Roberto Mancini is open to the idea of letting him move on.

"Adam can have a future here but you should also understand when you are 23 or 24 years old, you want to play," the Italian said.

"If you are at a top team, you can't always do that, so if he wants to, he has to leave. If we can find a good solution, maybe it is better."

"But if that happens I will be so sorry because Adam is a good guy. He is a different player to the other strikers and wingers and maybe he could be important for us."

Johnson started England's victory over Italy last Wednesday but did not feature in City's 3-2 win against Southampton on Sunday.

Sunderland were understood to be the leading contenders to recruit Johnson before Tottenham and Liverpool made their interest known.—Internet

Train derailment kills two women in Maryland, delays 9/11 hearing

BALTIMORE, 22 Aug — A freight train derailed on early Tuesday while crossing an overpass west of Baltimore, spilling tons of coal on top of two 19-year-old women who were sitting on the bridge and killing them, police said.

The accident also crushed nearby cars and damaged telecommunications lines in the area, affecting data connections as far away as Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, where a pretrial hearing for five men accused of plotting the 11 September attacks was delayed by a day as a result.

The derailment occurred just after midnight as a CSX Corp train was headed east through Ellicott City, about 12 miles west of Baltimore, Howard County Police said in a statement. Police discovered the dead women during their early-morning investigation of the accident, the cause of which remains unknown. The National Transportation Safety Board has taken over the investigation.

The two women, identified as Ellicott City residents Elizabeth Nass and Rose Mayr, apparently were sitting on a ledge of the bridge over Ellicott City's Main Street when the derailment occurred, police said.

The police statement said the women had their backs to the train when it passed a few feet from them. "For an unknown reason, the train derailed, causing open cars filled with coal to tip over," the statement said. "Both NASA and Mayr were buried under the coal as it dumped from the train cars."

The two had been sending Twitter messages shortly before the accident and police said they are aware of photos posted to Twitter that appear to have been sent from them on the bridge. A tweet from NASA's account, @LizNassty, sent shortly

17 children hurt in Indian amusement park accident

KOLKATA, 22 Aug — At least 17 children were injured on Tuesday when a water slide collapsed at an amusement park in the eastern Indian city of Kolkata, police said.

Crowds angered by the accident went on the rampage at Nicco Park on the outskirts of the city, smashing up facilities.

"At least 17 children suffered injuries after the water slide broke in the afternoon," senior police officer Surojit Karpurokayaastha told AFP, adding they were taken to hospitals nearby, some with broken legs and arms.

A large number of police were called to the park to contain public anger, he said. Local media reported that the park was busy and that overcrowding may have been to blame for the collapse of the slide.

Top Israeli official talks Iran with senior rabbi

JERUSALEM, 22 Aug — The Israeli prime minister's national security adviser met with an influential rabbi to persuade him to support a military strike on Iran's nuclear sites, a party official said on Tuesday. Rabbi Ovadia Yosef, the Shas

Party's 92-year-old spiritual leader, met with national security adviser Yaakov Amidror last week, the official said on condition of anonymity because he was not authorized to brief reporters. He said he did not know the rabbi's response because the talks were private.

The meeting comes at a time of public debate about the possibility of an Israeli attack against Iran to stop its nuclear programme. Israel and the West suspect Iran is aiming to build nuclear weapons. Iran insists the programme is for peaceful purposes.

Israeli leaders have been indicating impatience over Western diplomatic and economic moves to deter Iran, though some analysts believe the implied Israeli saber-rattling is a bluff to increase pressure on Teheran. Iranian leaders have rejected Israel's hints, threatening punishing retaliation. Israeli leaders have consulted with Yosef about weighty military decisions and other issues in the past, seeking his support and blessings.

Yosef, a former Israeli chief rabbi for Jews of Middle East origins, is revered by millions around the world as a scholar and spiritual leader.

His Shas Party is part of Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu's coalition government and would have a say in a decision over attacking Iran. Israel views Iran as an existential threat because of its nuclear and missile programmes, support for violent anti-Israeli groups in Lebanon and Gaza as well as repeated references by Iranian leaders to Israel's destruction. Israel submitted a letter to the UN on Monday over remarks by Iran's leaders in the past few days, calling for Israel's destruction.

The letter pointed to statements by Iran's Supreme Leader Ayatollah Ali Khamenei and President Mahmoud Ahmadinejad.

Pyithu Hluttaw representatives sign attendance book.—MNA

NAY PYI TAW, 22 Aug—Pyithu Hluttaw Session continued for 32nd day, at Pyithu Hluttaw Hall of Hluttaw Complex, here, at 10 am today, attended by Pyithu Hluttaw Speaker Thura U Shwe Mann and 403 MPs. At Today's session, six questions were raised and replied, one bill submitted, one proposal discussed. At the question-and-answer session, Deputy Minister for Information U Soe Win replied to the question of U Thein Nyunt of Thingangyun Constituency on "if there is a plan to telecast programme and discussions at fourth regular session of Pyidaungsu Hluttaw, Pyithu Hluttaw and Amyotha Hluttaw, live through Myanma Radio & Television (MRTV)".

He said that, Sky Net TV channel that is making joint venture with MRTV has been broadcasting the programme and discussions live since fourth regular sessions of First Hluttaws held in 4 July. MRTV and MI Channel also broadcast breaking news. At present, MRTV's broadcasting system is analogue system. It can telecast only one channel. And it needs to spend a lot of time and money on the construction of a new network. So, MRTV is not in a position to broadcast Hluttaw sessions live as there is no any plan to extend new channel at present.

With respect to the question of U Thein Nyunt on "if there is plans to telecast fifth regular session live", the deputy minister replied that Myanmar has already got ASEAN's agreements to switch off the Analogue system in 2015. So, Plans are under way to shift from analogue to digital system. It will be implemented at a time when people would have access to 15 channels.

U Myint Soe of Pyawbwe Constituency raised the questions on "whether there is a plan to lay down the policy of importing one-ton Left Hand Drive Light truck cars" and "whether there is a plan to give exemptions on trade taxes and income taxes of auto mobile industries in industrial zones as of 2012-2013 financial year"

With respect to the first question, Deputy Minister for Industry U Myo Aung replied that Industrial Development Committee would allow the import of either Left Hand Drive or Right Hand Drive auto mobiles in order that standard auto mobiles can be manufactured.

Regarding the second question, Deputy Minister for Finance and Revenue U Win Shein replied that those industries would (See page 8)

NAY PYI TAW 22 Aug—Amyotha Hluttaw session continued for 32nd day at Amyotha Hluttaw Hall, Hluttaw Complex, here today, attended by Amyotha Hluttaw Speaker U Khin Aung Myint and 216 MPs.

Regarding the question of Dr Khin Maung Lay of Bago Region Constituency No (8) about if there is any plan to relax passport application procedures for old age medics, Deputy Minister for Home Affairs Brig-Gen Kyaw Zan Myint replied that currently there was no plan to do, explaining the procedures in practice.

Regarding the question of U J Yawwu of Kachin State Constituency No (12) about whether there is plan to transport foodstuffs and rice from Myitkyina to Putao with chartered flight (YX) at the cost of government, Deputy Minister for Transport U Han Sein replied that Myanmar Airways runs Myitkyina-Putao chartered flight at the request of Kachin State government and it is planned to operate chartered flights as priority in future.

Regarding the question of U Tin Shan of Taninthayi Region Constituency No (6) about if there is any plan to run hi-speed passenger vessel back and between Yangon and Myeik either by Ministry of Transport or certain organizations or private companies, the deputy minister replied that it is planned to operate such transport service in future for inland water transport. Permit would be given upon application an organization or a private company, but Inland Water Transport Department has no plan to operate hi-speed water transport between Yangon and Myeik.

Regarding the question of U Aung Nyein of Magway Region Constituency No (2) about charging extra amount in supplying electricity to household installed with electricity meterboxes in Thirty-six Village-tract of Yenangyoung Township, Union Minister for Electric Power No (2) U Khin Maung Soe replied that the total difference in electricity usage and supply of the village-tract exceeds 40 per cent, but the department only allows only 10 per cent and thus the village-tract has to pay additional charges. Such additional charges would not be levied more upon replacement of sub-standard transformers in those villages.

Regarding the question of U

Thein Hlaing of Sagaing Region Constituency No (8) about if there is any plan to provide 500 KVA generator to Kalay and to extend the proposed national grid to Kalay from Kalewa, the Union Minister replied that electricity is being supplied to Kalewa two hours per day with new 500 KVA generator and thus there is still no plan to provide additional generator to the town. Construction of 66 KV Kalay-Kalewa power line and power station (See page 9)
